These notes on Thanksgiving, 1961, and we have much to be grateful and thankful for . . . As Albert Schweitzer said "In gratitude for your own good fortune you must render in return some sacrifice of your life for other life" - the Golden Rule for "Living".

We all have much to be grateful for - the sun came out once again; the fields will dry, cotton can be harvested, children can play without ice and snow. . . and family. . . and friends. . . and health. . . we have incentive to build for better things - for the past, the present and the future.

By living and doing for others - by sharing and helping others - the art of Thanksgiving can be translated into "Thanksgiving - gratitude in action" as Wilfred A. Peterson suggests.

And to you who have been so understanding and helpful to the Halls of The Journal, we give our thanks.

Especially we thank you for your words and expressions of thoughtfulness during Larry's hospital stay while we at The Journal Office try to fit in his shoes, temporarily, until his return to the office.

From Littlefield's "D.H.P." we ran across what is supposed to be the real story about the first Thanksgiving and thought you might like to know it.

Two Indians with an English accent deserve much of the credit for the first Thanksgiving in America.

They taught the Plymouth colonists how to make a home in the New World and helped them establish a peace that lasted for more than 50 years.

The first to approach the colonists, was Samoset, a chief of the Pemaquid Indians. He walked into the colony one day in March, 1621, and unsettled the settlers by addressing them in English. Samoset, it turned out, had earlier met some English fishermen along the coast of Maine and learned some of the language from them.

Two weeks later Samoset dropped in which his friend, Squanto, a well-traveled brave of the Pawtuxet tribe. Squanto had been to England twice, once after having been kidnapped and sold as a slave in Spain by an English sea captain. He had returned to America in 1619.

Samoset introduced the colonists to Massasoit, chief of the Plymouth area. With Squanto acting as interpreter, the chief and the Pilgrims concluded a treaty of friendship that lasted until Massasoit died in 1611.

Meanwhile, Squanto went to live with the colonists, teaching them how to plant corn, pumpkins and beans, and showing them where to fish.

That year the Pilgrims had a beautiful harvest and Governor William Bradford declared the celebration that became the first Thanksgiving.

Now that you have read what is supposed to have happened at the First Thanksgiving it might not hurt any of us to give thanks to the One who has made what we have possible.

Happy Thanksgiving, readers, from all of us at The Journal, especially from the Halls.

Exchange Student Also Gives Thanks

What would Thanksgiving be like if celebrated in Belgium? What are a young girl's impressions of a young Belgian girl thankful for? These questions were answered by Helene Bekaert, foreign exchange student today in an interview with the Journal at Muleshoe High School.

"If we had a holiday such as this in Belgium, we would begin the day by going to church," Helene said. "About 1 o'clock in the afternoon, we would begin dinner. Dinner would last until 7 or 8 o'clock in the evening."

Expressing astonishment at the last statement, The Journal's reporter at first thought he had heard wrong, but was soon reassured that he had not. In Belgium, holiday feasts are drawn out over a long period of time and through many small courses.

"After dinner, the older people would sit and talk and the young people would have a dance that would last until late into the night," Helene said.

Helene could not imagine, she indicated, what Thanksgiving is like, though it had all been explained to her.

She didn't know much at all about Thanksgiving before coming to the United States August 22, though she had learned the holidays of the U.S. in school. "I think it is a good idea to set aside a day for giving thanks," Helene said.

Helene, who plans to teach Spanish, French and Latin after finishing college, said she is going to give thanks Thursday for being here. "To see America is everyone's wish, so I am thankful for being here," she said.

$7,000 Fire Hits Bailey Co. Electric

Fire caused extensive damage to the Bailey County Electric Cooperative Association Building here in Muleshoe Monday.

Damages to building and contents were estimated at between $7,000 and $8,000 by officials of the local fire department and the cooperative.

The fire, which began when a spark from a cutting torch fell into paper wrapped around roofing insulation in the ceiling of the building, burned wooden lathing and ceiling joists in the building before being extinguished by Muleshoe firemen.

The majority of the damage was to equipment in the billing room of the building, where a billing machine was kept. Smoke also accounted for considerable damage to the building and contents.

Very little water damage was done to either building or contents, it is reported. Firemen were cautioned of the use of water due to the records stored in the room where the fire was discovered.

Mrs. E. Rald Gross, work order clerk at the cooperative, discovered the blaze about 12:15 p.m. Monday.

When firemen arrived, the used chemicals to extinguish the fire, using water only sparingly.

Cotton Corsage?

"What a nice corsage you have. But what kind of flower is that? What, COTTON, you say? Well, I never."

The above dialogue is strictly from the imagination, but it is what might be said in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, before long.

J. K. Adams, county agent, reports that 4,000 bolls of cotton will be sent to a Pennsylvania bedding manufacturer, who will have the bolls made into cotton corsages to be given away as an advertising gimmick.

Muleshoe Area 4-H Club members will gather the cotton, remove the dry leaf and wrap each boll in Saran wrap for shipping. Ten of the 20 members will gather the bolls, while the other ten will remove the leaves and wrap the cotton.

When the cotton bolls arrive in Pennsylvania, the cotton will be fluffed out for greater show.

In return for gathering the cotton, the 4-H Club will receive 4 cents per boll, which will add $160 to the club's treasury. It is hoped that the company, Capitol Bedding Company, will continue this offer each year.

Horace Edwards, manager of Edwards Gin, arranged the offer for the Muleshoe Area 4-H Club.

May we express the warm feeling in our hearts to the many people who were so kind during the illness and death of our loved one, Fred Determan. To the Rev. Clifton Corcoran, to the doctors and nurses at the Green Hospital and to all the many people who voluntarily sat with him during his illness. May we also express our thanks and gratitude to the many wonderful friends who brought and prepared food, sent flowers, cards and Mass intentions, to the pall bearers, to the funeral directors and to the R.E.A. which restored power to our house in such bad weather. Wonderful friends and associates such as these make a community such as this the most wonderful place on earth to live.

BE YE THANKFUL

..O Praise the Lord, for it is a good thing to sing praises unto our God; yea, a joyful and pleasant thing it is to be thankful. Psalm 147

THANKSGIVING DAY should find all American citizens thankful. Certainly we have much to thank God for; and if we keep the day in thanksgiving, perhaps we shall learn to carry the thankful spirit with us always. Here are a few thoughts on thankfulness:

Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do that day which must be done, whether you like it or not.

Charles Kingsley

Thanks in old age—thanks ere I go.

For health, the midday sun, the impalpable air—for life, mere life.

For precious ever-lingering memories.

Walt Whitman

O Lord! That lends me life

Lend me a heart replete with thankfulness!

Shakespeare

..PRAYER: O most merciful Father, who hast blessed the labours of the husbandman in the returns of the fruits of the earth;

We give thee humble and hearty thanks for this thy bounty; because thy goodness is ever increasing-kindness to us, that our land may still yield her increase, to thy glory and our comfort; thru Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen

(Continued From Page 1) The crusade in appreciation of the Mule Monument has spread over all the country, he adds in his article for Pennsylvania readers.

Mrs. Frank Griffith advised The Journal Monday that Langdo who is Mr. Griffith's cousin, had sent the clipping with the following note: "I believe that Friday's edition will interest you and your community who are endeavoring to promote the Mule and one of my favorite Texas towns."

Langdon also urged a comic picture of the Mule which ran with the feature story. COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO. Another national tie-in to The Muleshoe Mule Monument has come from Colorado.

Lyndol Kinser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Kinser, writes "By the way, the Colorado Springs paper had a story on Muleshoe putting up the monument to the Mule."

Muleshoe is glad to note that Pittsburg, Pa., and Colorado Springs, Colo., have joined the bandwagon crusade for recognition of the grand ole mule.

LET US BE THANKFUL

An Editorial Written By Lyndon B. Johnson In 1927 For The College Star, Southwest Texas State College When He Was A Student.

THANKSGIVING DAY

By LYNDON B. JOHNSON

The American home is a great institution, and presents one of our prime reasons for giving thanks today. The home creates useful citizens. The great blessing of the home, the care and affection of loving and wise parents, the companionship of sturdy brothers and gentle sisters, the protection the home affords, the social and material advantages it provides—all these are worthy of the deepest thanks in our hearts.

The superior educational advantages of today merit our consideration and expressions of gratitude. Education is not so difficult to obtain now as it was in Grandfather's, or even in Father's, time. Schools are accomplishing much in bringing education to the poor boy and the poor girl. We are grateful for these schools.

Chief among the things to be remembered at this time of giving thanks is the inestimable privileges we enjoy as citizens of the greatest democratic government in the world. A study of the old world governments prompts a surge of thankfulness in our hearts. As we recall the hardships and dangers our forefathers braved that we might enjoy the blessings of liberty, we are devoutly thankful. Each of us has his, or her, individual blessings to recount on Thanksgiving Day. Many or few these benefits may be, but usually they exceed one's deserts. One will scarcely realize the extent and number of his blessings unless he does count them. Let us be mindful of the many things for which we should be thankful; and recalling them, let us endeavor to deserve these blessings.

"This is the day of kindness and peace;
Out of the year it stands apart.
This great and good holiday of simple folk
Who labor hopefully and glad of heart."

Paying For School May Be Profitable

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm discusses education this week. At least that's what it sounds like he's doing.

Dear editor:
I never do object to a new idea. I don't do anything about one, haven't done anything especially about all the old ones, but I don't mind one being brought up.

Consequently, I was very interested in an economist's idea the other day that the government ought to pay college students to go to school. He said it would show a profit, that the difference in what a college graduate earns over what a non-college man earn would amount to enough to pay the government back in increased income taxes, hence the program wouldn't really cost anything. I guess it's like putting fertilizer on a crop; the cost of the fertilizer is more than made up in increased yields, if you don't mind me putting higher education and fertilizer in the same economic bracket, although understand I haven't checked with universities or the fertilizer people either about this.

I got to thinking about this idea, along with another idea I also read, namely that the old age pension level be lowered from 65 to 45.

Here's the way the two ideas would work: public schools and parents would take care of a person until he finishes high school, then the government would pay him to go to college for four more years, with maybe a year or two of graduate work thrown in. Then with a year or two in the army or Peace Corps, this would get him up to the age of 25. Then he'd be on his own til 45, and I don't think this is unreasonable. Under the free enterprise system a man ought to earn his living part of the way, just to prove the system is still sound.

Any man who isn't willing to work 20 years, provided of course he's on a five-day week, six-hour day, ain't worth his salt.

This system of paying kids to go to college would enable everybody to go and would increase the national income and raise the national educational level, although of course it wouldn't improve the athletic system any, as I understand athletes are already being paid to go to college. I guess though we could raise their pay, just to keep the thing in balance.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Driving Tips

"THE OPEN ROAD"
By Nina Ed Bovell

Most people think that driving on the open road is the safest and easiest kind of driving there is. All you have to do is start driving and stay at a safe speed, but that is not all. When driving on the open road as in driving in the city, you must always keep alert. If you see the same scenery mile after mile, you are likely to get "road drowsy". If you get sleepy, change drivers or stop and go to sleep. If these are impossible open the windows, get some fresh air, turn on the radio, sing, talk to yourself, or anything to keep you alert.

Modern cars are easier to operate, but they are also more powerful, quieter and have faster acceleration. When a driver starts out, he must be sure that he drives his car and his car doesn't drive him. If he is not alert his car will let his foot press just a little harder on the accelerator. He must be alert, or his car will drive him.
(Note: Driving tips are contributed by the students of the Drivers Education class of Muleshoe High School)

Freedom Survival Course Available

WASHINGTON — What do communist leaders plan for your children? What can you do about it? Your understanding of the answers to these questions can make a difference. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States believes, in determining whether this country can meet the communist challenge.

A new study course for the general public has been prepared by the National Chamber. The course contrasts principles and practices of democracy and communism. Major emphasis is on economics, but military, political, and ideological aspects of communism are also covered.

Title of the course is "Freedom vs Communism: The Economics of Survival." It involves eight discussion sessions for groups of 15 to 20 people. Course leaders need no experience. A how-to-do-it manual shows them how to guide the participants through each session. Material for the course is contained in this leader's manual and in eight pamphlets for participants, one for each session.

The Chamber says the emphasis is on economics because a strong economy is essential "to maintain a military deterrent sufficiently strong to discourage Russia - or any other country - from turning the 'cold war' into a 'hot war'."

"An economy," the Chamber said, "is the sum total of the work and the will of the people in it."

Content of the course is revealed by the titles of the eight pamphlets: "The Communist Challenge"; "Consumer Control or Controlled Consumers"; "Profit Motive or Master Plan"; "Who Gets What"; "The Role of Government"; "The Big Picture"; "Meeting the Economic Challenge"; and "What You Can Do About Communism."

As with other Chamber courses, course material will be made available to interested groups.

Pilot courses have been held in several cities and towns.

Stone's Throw

By GARY STONE

(Dedicated to the proposition of throwing rocks at everything.)
A PROGRESS REPORT—Carol Pouncey, Chamber of Commerce manager in Muleshoe, reports that one of the major comments written on a consumer survey being conducted is—"Muleshoe needs a good library."

This is, of course, one of many things those surveyed have written in on the questionnaire, but it is encouraging to me to find that the residents of the area are interested in a library. Someone once told me that people don't really care about aesthetics, but only about making money.

Have you ever heard of the way many people without training in these things go out and buy paintings and books when they strike it rich? Obviously, they do care.

And, quite obviously, the people of Muleshoe and the surrounding trade area DO want a good library.

Speaking for myself and all others who are interested in a library, I say "thank you" to those who expressed a desire for a library on the questionnaire.

Several years ago, I heard a story about two Americans who were discussing the state of the nation. As usual in such cases, they were perturbed about the political nature of the administration, the financial aspects of the government, and so on, and were expressing their ire openly. A foreigner happened to be near by and he joined in the conversation, beginning to heap his own ill feelings upon the American government.

Both Americans immediately began to defend our country. It was perfectly all right, they thought, for them to let off steam about the "mess" our country is in, but it was not permissible for the foreigner to do so.

In Russia, neither citizen nor foreigner is allowed to express opinions hostile to the government.

To me, this is one thing I am thankful for this year, I live in a nation where I may "throw stones" at my government. I wish you would note the key word there—MY government. I am part of the government of this nation, so I can say what I wish against it, so long as it is not of such a nature as to destroy it. I could even do that if I wished, but I should then be destroying something it has taken my forefathers a long time to build. I would be destroying part of myself, if you will.

I am thankful that I can write this column. In many countries of the world, I would not be allowed to do so. I would write only what I was told to write by a government official. If I wrote something other than an approved article, I would be removed—perhaps permanently.

As Thanksgiving rolls around, though, I cannot but feel sorry for those who do not have freedoms I enjoy. I know Thanksgiving is a time when I am to give thanks for those things I have, but I must feel an empathy for those who have not, for those in our own country who have less than I and for those in foreign nations who are oppressed.

I think you might find a special treat this week in reading an editorial being published on the editorial page of The Journal. I have a great deal of respect for the man who wrote it, although I do not always agree with him politically. I am speaking of Vice President of the United States Lyndon Baines Johnson.

I gathered this and other editorials written about 1930 by LBJ.

As a rule, when you sell or lease your place, the new owner or lessee takes over responsibility for it. But you may have some continuing responsibilities.

"In a recent case three small boys, playing in an old rifle range near home, found a grenade, took it home, and later exploded it, injuring themselves.

The U. S. government had leased the land to train armed forces, but later turned it back to the owner. The boys sued the government. It answered that it no longer controlled the land and should not be blamed for what happened after it gave up possession.

Still the court made the government pay the boys for the harm done.

As a rule, when a seller or lessor gives up his land, he is no longer to blame for defects in the land, buildings, or permanent fixtures.

But defects in things permanently part of the land differ from leaving dangerous things like a grenade about. It isn't a permanent part of the land. The federal government was at fault in not searching for dangerous grenades left by its employees. Besides, this single grenade still was government owned, and therefore a U. S. responsibility.

Property owners or occupiers when he was editor of the college paper which I edited 30 years later.

Happy Thanksgiving to you all from the rockpile.

live special duties to small children. They may trespass on your land and get hurt by things that are especially attractive to them, improperly locked explosives, an easy-to-climb power station, an unlocked turntable, or sometimes a pool of water left by a construction firm, are all "attractive nuisances." An owner of such things must take great care to keep trespassing children from getting hurt.

The law imposes one further duty on sellers or lessors of property: No seller can conceal highly dangerous defects that he knows of. If he does, and they hurt the buyer or tenant later, the seller may have to pay damages. Some times a landlord controls some of the leased property, such as halls, driveways, elevators, wall beds, or other appliances. The landlord must use care with such things.

TO SPEND THANKSGIVING WITH CADET GARY SMITH

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and daughter, Cindy, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Damron and Charles King will spend Thanksgiving with Cadet Gary Smith at the New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell.

Cadet Messenger, Cortez, Colo., and Cadet Liberman of Abilene will join them for the day.

CEILINGS IN COLOR

While a ceiling painted flat white will reflect the greatest amount of illumination, many people prefer color overhead. Where the ceiling is low or of normal height, brush or roll on a pastel tint of a color that complements your walls. With a high ceiling, you may prefer to "lower" it, optically with a darker shade of the wall color.

ATTRACT ATTENTION

If you have an authentic antique or other treasured piece of furniture, paint color can help you to make it more prominent and draw the attention of all who enter the room. How? Paint the wall behind the piece a color different from the other walls, a color that contrasts sharply with the color of the furniture. Some decorators even paint just the area behind and above the piece to make it the focus of all eyes.

Health Is Object For Thanksgiving

Our forefathers proclaimed Thanksgiving Day for the purpose of expressing thanks, not only for the bountiful harvest but for the sturdy health and endurance that had permitted them to survive the hardships and exposure, that first rigorous year in America.

I Give You Texas

The late Sam Rayburn once had as his guest on his Bonham farm Dr. Raymond Moley, who was then known as Brain Trustee No. 1, this being back in the early days of the Roosevelt administration. This writer, then on the staff of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram was sent to interview the Congressional leader and his distinguished guest.

The scene was the comfortable living-room of the farm home. Not wishing to appear to show more interest in one celebrity than in the others, I would ask Moley a couple of questions; then turn to Rayburn and ask him two questions on another subject; then back to Moley—and so on for half an hour. Both men were secretly amused and next day, when they were guests of Publisher Amon Carter in Fort Worth, were kind enough to tell him that his reporter was an unusual sort of fellow.

Incidentally, at a dinner that night at Shady Oak Dr. Moley started to say something of a confidential nature in his informal address, but paused with "There's no reporter present, I believe," not seeing me over at one side. There was a laugh and Carter, with the graciousness that gave him the esteem of all on the Star-Telegram said: "There is one here - but he and I work for the same paper."

Winston Churchill once gave this advice to a friend: "Do not make yourself an ammunition wagon—make yourself a rifle to use the ammunition of others."

Josh Billings said that a man blames others for his failures but, for his successes he takes the credit.

The oddest thing I've read in a good while was about a man who was 12 years older than he thought he was. He believed himself to be 57 and then his sister sent him family records which proved he was 69. That was certainly aging in a hurry. One moment he was in the prime of life; then he opened a letter and there he was - verging on old age.

Most of us can remember things that happened when we were five or even four years old. It does look as though, when he remembered things that had happened seven years before he was born, that he would have suspected something, doesn't it?

Life as editor of a small daily in a West Texas town in the 1920's had its lighter side. After working up into the night Saturday, in order to get out the Sunday issue of the Eastland Daily Oil Belt News, there was the luxury of sleeping late and then having as the first meal of the day the six-course dinner (seventy five cents) at 1 o'clock at the Majestic Cafe.

After consuming the feast in leisurely fashion, I would walk to Connellee Park in the edge of town to see a baseball game. Our town had a good team, made up mainly of oil field workers, with a sprinkling of players who had professional experience though now slowed down from age.

The summer sunlight was dazzling and the heat was intense in the daytime but it was cool at night. It was in late September that I made an acquaintance with a Texas "Norther". Attired in a summer suit I was watching a baseball game with great enjoyment when, all at once, I realized I was freezing. The temperature had topped thirty degrees in fewer minutes than that and we fans built bonfires and shiveringly watched the last four inn-health of our communities. Increased standards of living and improved hospital facilities have given our infants a better chance of survival. Our children and adolescents a healthier, happier life and our grownups longer life and usefulness.

Figures revealed by State Health Department show what strides have been made toward keeping our population alive and healthy. A few developments for which we should be particularly thankful are:

Nearly one-half million normal healthy babies were born to Texas parents during the two year period between September 1, 1958 and August 31, 1960. This adds up to an average of 682 babies born each day.

Only 151,000 Texans died during the same period; a ratio of more than three births to every death.

The excess of births over deaths during the two year period added some 347,000 to the State's population. That increase combined with newcomers now making their home in Texas swelled the population to 9.5 million.

During the last 25 years, deaths during the first year of life have dropped from 71 per thousand to less than 29 per thousand. And maternal deaths have dropped from 6.9 per thousand to a ratio of 0.3 per thousand.

In addition to pointing out that our infants and their mothers have a better chance of surviving than ever before, these figures bring to light one other important development. Man's longevity has been greatly increased. We now live longer and have the opportunity to see more life giving and life saving developments in the health and medical fields. And for this we should also be thankful.

NEW BEAUTYFOR $10

Did you know that it costs only about $10 for the paint to redecorate the average sized room with quality paint and you have your choice of hundreds of colors?

BLACK'S WARMER

If radiators hidden behind covers that envelope them completely don't seem to be emitting enough heat, black paint can come to the rescue. Scientists working on super-sonic rocket planes have found that a black coating made by the paint industry radiates more of the heat created in high speed travel than any other color. The black paint won't show through the grill work of the radiator cover; it will look as if nothing is behind the grill.

Chilled though we were, it never occurred to us to leave.

When a man goes from the Central Standard Time zone-say from Oklahoma City to New York City - he has to move his watch forward an hour. In other words, he loses an hour. Of course, when he heads back to Oklahoma City, he changes his watch back and so he regains the hour.

But what about the people who move to New York City? They lose the hour and they never get it back. They have been deprived of 60 minutes. Congress should do something to compensate them for their loss.

Parmer County Farm Bureau News

By Raymond Euler
November 17-23 constitutes National Farm-City Week. There are several hundred Farm-City Week billboards sponsored by Texas and County Farm Bureaus in Texas that help remind the citizenry of his relationship.

Nearly all civic clubs have observed, or are observing the period. It is necessary that farm and city people understand their relationship to each other, particularly in times like these.

There are three billboards in Parmer County, sponsored by the county Farm Bureau in cooperation with outdoor advertising firms in this area.

Diabetes Week is either here, near, or just past. Regardless of the particular period, this is to remind you to check yourself and family by visiting your family doctor to determine if there may be diabetes in your family. It is a condition that can be controlled easily if discovered early, but that may lead to grave circumstances if allowed to run unchecked too long.

Rhea Community, in its local Farm Bureau meeting a couple of weeks ago, elected Leland Gustin as local chairman, and Billie Sifford as county director from that community.

"The whole of Communism, even the name itself, is nothing but deliberate misrepresentation. The name would seem to intone a community where everyone shares equally, but in Russia this is not the case. In the Kremlin the members of the Politburo have all the best houses, automobiles, food privileges and power." (Billy Graham)

Farm Bureau, national, state, and local, is dedicated to returning to constitutional government with individual freedom that would enable each person to earn according to his particular ability. Farm Bureau believes that free

DEEP DOWN FINISH

For a floor finish that will wear and wear and require very little upkeep, many experts recommend a penetrating floor finish. This can be applied only to bare wood, new floors or floors from which the old finish has been removed with a power sander. The finish penetrates the fibers of the wood, binds them together and strengthens them. There is no film left on the surface to be abraded or scratched. This type finish wears away only as the wood itself wears away.

enterprise, which put America ahead of all other nations, economically, socially and spiritually, is still the best system.

Farm Bureau proudly opposes centralization of management of individual business, farm or otherwise. Are you a member? Three-fourths of the organized farmers are. You are welcome.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I have just read President Kennedy's indictment of "discordant voices of extremism". That is his definition of "those who think the greatest danger is from within." He states that, "We know that it comes from without, not within."

I believe that we can answer that statement for ourselves if we ask ourselves this question: "Can we personally be destroyed from without?" Don't we first have to be weak within before we can be destroyed without. Then why shouldn't we question our President's statement? Why shouldn't we be concerned with the strength of our nation within our boundaries?

Shouldn't our elected officials welcome criticism and advice instead of retaliating with ill-placed criticism of their own? Why the name calling? Shouldn't he be identified scorn and disregard these discordant voices of extremism? Isn't his duty as our President to honor the views or opinions of the people? Shouldn't he be willing and eager to listen and learn, even though, at that particular moment, he may not agree? Surely our President does not think that he and all our public officials are infallible.

We cannot afford to use the sedative of unquestionable belief in our leaders. Especially when those leaders refuse and often resent our views. Do they really "We need to alert each citizen to the weakness of our nation, yes, even the weaknesses of our leaders. We need to know our strengths. Only by an awareness of both can we be truly strong. If we are not aware of it, and if we do not have the privilege of questioning the decisions of our leadership calling? Shouldn't our President believe that they never err?"

What is our so-called freedom? What is wrong with letting our opinions be heard? Certainly we can be called extremist, if we are. We can be recognized as public spirited citizens who are unafraid to make our convictions known; whether they be right or wrong. No person, no nation is infallible.

Many opinions have been changed by open-minded individuals simply because they were willing to listen to the other side of the issue. Therefore shouldn't our President welcome constructive criticism wherever he encounters it?

President Kennedy has made speeches supporting controversial issues and has then let those words dissolve into nothingness. Don't we have the right to expect strength in the President of our Nation? We cannot understand a weak international policy by our President.

Does he doubt the strength of the people of the United States? If he doesn't doubt our nation's strength, who does and then exerts their influence on our President? Certainly it isn't the people of this nation. We know that we, the people, are not weak. But we do not know that our national leaders are not weak.

Even the so-called neutral nations doubt our strength as a nation or they would not be neutral nations; but instead would be our allies. They cannot know the strength of our people except as represented by our national leaders. Why shouldn't our people rise up and cry for an exhibition of strength from our leaders? They represent us.

President Kennedy also stated "But in times of basic good sense and stability of the great American consensus has always prevailed."

Webster's Unabridged Dictionary defines CONSENSUS as: a general accord of a number of people upon a subject admitting of a diversity of views. So, in that statement, he is praising the differences of opinions of the American people. In the other of "Discordant voices of extremism." How can he mean both statements?

We desperately need vocal patriotic citizens of every viewpoint. Each unheard opinion is a vote for enslavement. Let our voices be heard! Only then can we guide our leaders, yes, even our President.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Morris McKillip

SNOW PILOTS

Four pilots received training and practice in flying under adverse weather conditions at the airport during last week's low ceiling days and snow.

Hugh Yeates of Arch, N.M., Prior Reeves, Muleshoe, Virgil Robbins, Clovis, and Leon Jones shot landing on the snow covered runways and flying locally, gained some experience of weather flying.

Although pilots are trained to keep an eye on the weather, a major factor in cross-country flights, previous training in weather flying proves to be very beneficial in emergencies.

Leon Jones has recently begun training under instructor Fred Day.

Jones, who is presently engaged in farming near Texico, was the Agriculture teacher at Three Way School for a number of years.

PIPER CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Locker accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Neal, Lubbock Piper distributor returned from Florida Sunday where they had flown to attend the International Piper Convention at West Palm Beach.

The convention was attended by approximately 1,000 Piper distributors, dealers, salesmen, and company officials from all over the States, Mexico, France, England, and many other places.

The Lockers reports that the 1 day convention was filled with many enjoyable events and displays.

All of the 1962 models of Piper Aircrafts were on display on a "grass strip" extending from the front of the George Washington Hotel to the beach. It was lighted for night display.

New instruments, radios and displayed in the building.

Most enjoyable of the meeting was one with W. T. Piper, president of the Piper Corporation, as guest speaker. Piper's theme was "Little Airports".

Piper stressed the importance of small airports in small towns, stating that they are and will continue to be the only aviation length between smaller towns and those with airline service, and they will become more important to travel with each passing year.

Again the name of Muleshoe drew considerable attention at the convention when sales director, Wally Smith, Piper's sales director asked the crowd "Anyone here from Texas?" Noise among the crowd confirmed the fact that Texas was well represented then Smith said "Did you know there is a gentleman here from Muleshoe, Texas and in turn introduced Morgan Locker of the Muleshoe Flying Service.

Locker said that the novelty of our town's name caused his introduction, the only recognition among the crowd.

Later he and Mrs. Locker wearing their name Muleshoe Flying Service badges encountered many people who commented on Muleshoe.

Also enjoyable was a meeting with Max Conrad and feature film "Wings To Alaska" which shows Alaska brush pilots at work and other interesting facts of flying in the North country. The film will soon be available at the Muleshoe Flying Service to be used free of charge by Civic Clubs and other organizations for their programs.

From West Palm Beach, the Neals and Lockers went back to Little Torch Island on the Florida Keys. There they enjoyed several days of skin diving for lobster. Locker and Neal went down to an old sunken ship and in a short time had a boat of lobster. They made the trip in the Aztec.

First World Fair Since 1939

A daring preview of the world of tomorrow, laced with the bright lights and glitter of today's fun, is being readied for millions of visitors planning to attend the first World's Fair to be held in the United States since 1939.

It's the Seattle World's Fair, taking place from April 21 through October 21 of next year, a $100 million vacation treat being built on the shores of Washington State's Puget Sound.

This space-age spectacular, Century 21 Exposition, is predicted to draw from 8 to 10 million visitors, more than half of them from out-of-state.

New thrills to be previewed for these tourists include:

RIDING the world's first high speed, mass transit Monorail, which will take 10,000 passengers an hour from the heart of the city to the fair site, a distance of little over a mile in 95 seconds.

Dining in the 600-foot Space Needle, which revolves once an hour to reveal a view of the bay and lakes, and towering Mt. Olympic and Cascade Mountain ranges, Seattle and its busy harbor and lakes, and towering Mt. Rainier.

Visiting the giant five-building United States Government Science Pavilion, where the $9,000,000 program includes the Boeing Spacearium, giving a simulated ride through space past Mars, the Moon into remote galaxies, and return.

Experiencing work, play and travel in the year 2000 A. D. in the massive Coliseum Century 21, where a "vista-drama" has been created in a "floating city" transplanted into actuality from thousands of man-hours of research by scientists, educators and designers.

All this will be tied together with a Gayway, colorful Boulevards of the World, official international exhibits from 40 nations such as Great Britain, Canada, Mexico, Japan, Yugoslavia, and pavilions built by top U.S. industry housing their own predictions of tomorrow's products for better living.

Heritage Foundation Plans Complete For Writing Of Drama

The Heritage Foundation held its October meeting in the theater of the Fine Arts Building Monday evening the thirteenth. The meeting was attended by Rep. and Mrs. Jesse Osborn.

Paul Green, the creator of the symphonic drama form, which will be used for the great historical play in the Palo Duro Canyon which the Texas Heritage Foundation has just completed to create, arrived in Canyon Friday, November 10. Mr. Green has written several such historical dramas which have become very famous: The Lost Colony which has been running on Roanoke Island in North Carolina for more than twenty years; Common Gory which has played on a similar schedule in Williamsburg, Virginia for thirteen years; and the Stephen Foster story which has just completed its third successful season.

Mr. Green is to write a play about the Texas Panhandle history to be presented in the Palo Duro Canyon. Green came to the Panhandle to meet with the Board and members of the Heritage Foundation to make final plans. He spent some time in the wonderful archives of the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum and driving about the Panhandle, getting acquainted in various communities.

Points toward certification are earned through actual work experience and by attendance at annual district and state short schools sponsored and conducted by the Texas State Department of Health the engineering extension service of Texas A & M College, and the Texas Water and Sewage Works Association.

Bell Receives State Citation

An official State Health Department citation was awarded this week to L. M. Bell, a veteran employee of the Muleshoe municipal water department, for excellent performance of a vital community service.

The impressively designed certificate state commissioner of health and authorities of the Texas Water and Sewage Works Association, credit recipients with having demonstrated "skill and knowledge" of water treatment plant management and an understanding of the public health importance of the work.

Under the State Health Department's operator certification program, operators are carefully examined on their technical ability and on their knowledge of their work's influence on community health. Each must pass a stiff written test to qualify for certification.

The Texas General Sanitation law requires that at least one plant operator per shift be certified by the state health agency, but other plant personnel and persons in related fields frequently seek certification on their own time and at their own expense to advance themselves professionally and to increase their efficiency as vital public servants.

"The recipients of these certificates are a credit to their profession and to their community," sponsors of the certification program said.

Specialist Williams, a driver in the battalion's 91st Transportation Company in Worms, entered the Army in 1957 and arrived overseas in July 1958.

The 22-year-old soldier attended Springlake High School.

Sheriff's Report

City police this week arrested two for drunk and one for driving while intoxicated.

Sheriff's officers charged nine with writing worthless checks.

Field Adjustments Can Reduce Soybean Harvesting Losses

By J. J. FEIGHT
Information Service,
Iowa State University

Most farmers will accept a 5 per cent to 8 per cent loss in harvesting soybeans, but by observing and making corrections in settings they can reduce excessive harvesting losses, says Agronomist C. R. Weber of Iowa State University. And at today's bean prices farmers can well afford to take a little extra time and effort to save an added 10 per cent or more of their crop.

Soybean harvesting losses are common at about five different points in the combining process. Check and correct these and you'll do a great deal toward correcting your soybean harvesting, Dr. Weber advises. He lists these five common causes of soybean losses:

1.—Shatter losses—usually a result of failure to harvest when beans are mature. Usually soybeans are in their best condition for combining after the first good frost. For a rough test in the field of the correct moisture percentage for harvesting, soybean pods should be dry enough to split open when squeezed between the thumb and the forefinger, Weber advises. Beans can be harvested at 14 per cent or 15 per cent moisture, but should be 13.5 per cent or lower to store safely.

2.—Cutterbar losses—by far the greatest of all losses. You can reduce these losses by setting the cutterbar closer to the soil. Less riddling during cultivation will allow you to set the cutterbar low enough to get the low-set pods and still not run the cutterbar into the dirt. Frequent use of a rotary weeder, when the beans are small—followed by one cultivation will usually keep your land level, weed-free and reduce cutterbar losses. Every three or four beans left in the field per square foot of land is a loss of 1 bushel per acre, Weber points out.

3.—Cylinder losses reduce those by proper speed of cylinder, proper clearance between cylinder and concave bars and proper number of bars in cylinder and concaves, Weber says. Check the straw as it comes out of the machine. If the beans are all removed from the pods, but cracked beans are coming over, then the threshing effect in the cylinder is probably too great. When the beans are hard to thresh out you may have to compromise between a reasonable amount of cracked beans and a reasonable percentage of the crop saved.

4.—Separating losses—improper rack and sieve adjustments usually cause these losses, says Weber. Rack losses occur when beans ride over with the straw and fall out the rear of the combine. This happens when the rack is operated too slowly or when the rack gets overcrowded with straw or weeds.

5.—Cleaning losses—sieve losses result from a combination of sieve adjustment and wind blast. Over-riddling at the cylinder may cause this, too. When the straw is threshed too hard, it breaks up into smaller pieces, creating extra chaff. This overloads the chaffer and the cleaning sieve.

What is the proper setting? The sieve openings are not large enough, beans will ride over the sieve and go back through the cylinder again. This increases the chance of cylinder damage, Dr.

Terraces Insure Future Production

by Dale Fischgrabe
Soil Conservation Agent

As the harvest progresses and more and more farmers are finishing a hard year's work, it is time to think about keeping the land productive.

One of the many ways to keep land producing is to prevent soil loss due to water erosion. One of the most effective ways is by using terraces to hold water on the land, allowing it more time to soak into the soil. Terraces also prevent good topsoil from washing to the bottom of the slope.

This spring, heavy rains fell around Coyote Lake and south-west resulting in many large gulches and the beginning of many small ones. Continued concentration of water in these small gulches may result in uncrossable ones.

There are many types of terraces and variation, but large, and smaller level closed-end field terraces are best adapted to Bailey County.

Diversion or retention types are usually placed at the top of the slope to intercept and hold outside water. These terraces of this type are often used in conjunction with standard terraces where they protect the standard terraces from the outside water by holding it back, preventing the standard being washed out.

Houston Hart is building standard terraces of his farm south of Coyote Lake. Four veterans, Hurley, Fullingim, Wells and Sowler, are having standard terraces installed on their half-section just north of the Maple community, and Wendel Speck is building a terrace system on his farm to the West of the Wildlife Refuge.

The Federal government pays as much as 2.1 cents per foot cost share for the terraces, through the Great Plains Conservation Program.

10 percent of the population. He said one of the primary goals in Russia today is for their farmers to surpass American farmers.

The efficiency of the American farmer is evident in these facts: In the past 20 years, the American farmer has increased the per acre yield of 18 leading crops 71 percent; in 1929, one hour's factory work would buy 1.2 pounds of steak or 7.8 pints of milk but buy two pounds of steak or 18.8 pints of milk; production per man-hour has almost tripled on American farms since the early 20's.

In Russia, which boasts of its technological progress, it takes four hours' pay to buy a pound of butter, or two hour's pay to buy a single orange.

Auction Selling Now Includes Cotton Market

Plains Cotton Cooperative Association at Lubbock is selling some $7 million worth of cotton each week quietly and without fanfare. Daily sales catalogs listing from 7,000 to 10,000 bales are flown nightly to cotton buying centers in Dallas, Houston and Memphis and distributed in Lubbock.

Buyers examine the listings and make their bids. These may be presented in person, but many bidders make their offers by voice without leaving their offices. At 2:00 p.m. each day, Monday through Friday, the sealed bids are opened and each quality is awarded to the highest bidder.

The CCC loan support and Plains Cotton Cooperative Association's own bids operate to prevent cotton from selling below market price.

Eighty-nine Plains cooperative gin associations with 137 gin cotton for Plains Cotton Cooperative Association's auction sales. Farmers find a stronger market because of the economies made possible by cooperative action and volume competitive selling.

Plains Cotton Cooperative Association was organized eight years ago to find better ways to sell Plains cotton to more mills. By its aggressive sales program, it is now selling cotton in 22 foreign countries and to many mills in the United States.

Being owned by the farmers who use it, any margins made in the competitive auction sale, in merchandising and in warehousing are paid by Plains Cotton Cooperative Association to cotton.

Last season, $1,512,000 were paid as patronage refunds to some 11,000 Plains farmers.

Eighty-eight farmers one from each gin association, sit on the board which makes policies and directs the affairs of the Marketing Association. Howard Alford, well known Lubbock County farmer, is president of Plains Cotton Cooperative Association. Dan Davis, Lubbock, is the association's general manager.

Hi Plains To Begin Construction Soon

New facilities soon to be under construction at the High Plains Research Foundation will permit an increase in scientific studies in many fields.

Two years research in one will be made possible through the use of the new greenhouse given by the Jim Hill Estate of Hereford.

The new laboratory, meeting room and office space given by the Kilgore Foundation, Dr. Thomas C. Longnecker said this week.

The greenhouse has been purchased and is being manufactured to the specifications and will be delivered in December.

It will be 74 feet long and 25 wide and consist of two 32 foot sections and a twelve foot head-house that will contain heating and other equipment for its operation.

The office building will include a laboratory joining the greenhouse, a meeting room with a capacity of 60 and eight offices for the staff.

The building committee from the Board of Trustees appointed by the Executive Committee is composed of Dr. Harold Loden, Aiken, Jimmy Wilson Jr., Floydada, and Gene C. McLaughlin, Ralls. Kerr and Kerr are the architects and Willard Tisdale is the contractor.

6. Preserve an open mind on all debatable questions. Discuss, but do not argue. It is a mark of superior minds to disagree and yet be friendly.

7. Let your virtues if you have any, speak for themselves, and refuse to talk of another's vices. Discourage gossip. Make it a rule to say nothing unless it is something good.

8. Be careful of another's feeling. Wit and humor at the other fellow's expense are rarely worth the effort, and may hurt where least expected.

9. Pay no attention to ill-natured remarks about you. Simply live so that nobody will believe them. Discarded nerves and a bad digestion are a common cause of backbiting.

10. Don't be too anxious about your dues. Do your work, be patient and keep your disposition sweet; forget self, and you will be rewarded.

Farm Facts

Production of citrus fruits in the United States increased from about 3 million tons in 1935-36 to a high of $2 million in 1959-60. It is expected to attain new heights in the 1960's, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Oranges led in volume produced and in the upward trend. Grapefruit were second in production volume. Production of grapefruit increased sharply until the late 1940's but declined abruptly following freeze damage to groves in Texas. Output of lemons and tangerines has almost doubled since 1935.

The 1959-60 orange crop was about 127 million boxes. Of this tonnage, Florida produced 75%; California, 22%; and Texas, Arizona, and Louisiana, 3%.

About 9% of all citrus was processed in 1955-56 as compared with about 57% in 1959-60. Processors used the following percentages of the 1959-60 citrus crops: oranges, 64%; grapefruit, 42%; lemons, 48%; tangerines, 19%; tangelos, 16%; and limes, 38%.

Citrus fruit production has almost tripled in 25 years.

Per capita consumption of processed citrus in 1960 was about 53 pounds (fresh equivalent basis) and that of fresh citrus was about 34 pounds. Per capita consumption of processed citrus increased until 1944-45 and then declined.

FARM-CITY WEEK ACTIVITIES CONTINUE IN TEXAS

American agriculture, the nation's most powerful weapon against Communism, is in the spotlight throughout the Lone Star State this week as Texas joins other states in observing National Farm-City Week.

Farm-City Week leaders have called attention to the fact that efficiency of the American farmer is far superior to that of the farmer in the Communist world.

A recent visitor to Russia stated that it took 40 percent of the nation's food and fiber while the same job was done much better in the United States by less than

EASIEST WAY

The easiest way to approach painting a wall is to start at a work to your left. Start at the right hand corner and gradually top and work down painting a two foot area at a time. Always start the first brush stroke or roller movement in a dry area and paint toward a wet one.

Sudan Sailor On Maneuver

Ronald M. Kinnie, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kinnie of Sudan, Texas is serving aboard the attack transport USS Bexar, a unit of an amphibious task force which took part in Operation "Silver Sword" on October 30, assaulting beaches on the Island of Maui in the largest maneuver of its kind to take place in the Hawaiian Islands since World War II.

A routine training exercise to improve proficiency and team work in amphibious techniques, operation consisted of 25 ships, 100 Marine Corps aircraft and marines.

NEW HOSPITAL CONCEPT — No patient's room will be more than a half-dozen steps from a nursing station in the new Scott and White Memorial Hospital and Clinic to be built in Temple. Ground will be broken Dec. 2 by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson on the $8 million structure. Patient rooms are in tiers around central nursing stations, and the central part of the building itself houses clinic facilities such as X-ray. First floor will house consultation and examination rooms. Later, additional medical education buildings will be erected on the 300-acre campus.

A Democrat, former Secretary of State Tom Reavley, was first man to announce for the Attorney Austin attorney, says he considers that office the largest, most "vibrant" in Texas.

UP TO COURTS

The University of Texas Board of Regents has agreed "unanimously" to let the court decide whether they should integrate dormitories.

Judge Thornton Hardie of El Paso, chairman of the regents, says a test case filed by Austin attorney Sam Houston Clinton in behalf of three Negro students has been turned over to Atty. Gen. Will Wilson. In a letter to Hardie, Clinton asked the regents to file the suit.

Hardie has accused Clinton of filing the suit for "the purpose of publicity and propaganda."

Regents originally planned to study further integration. Hardie refused to say whether the suit has changed their plans.

Students and faculty have asked the regents for dormitory integration through campus polls. Integration in athletics also has been at issue. The regents' chairman says they do not want to do anything that would disturb the "excellence" of the Southwestern Athletic Conference.

TEX TBOOKS ADOPTED

Three "Texans for America," J. Evetts Haley of Canyon, Dr. Don I. Riddle of Paris and Mrs. Joan Slay of Fort Worth, appeared before the State Board of Education this week to protest acceptance of several textbooks.

Organization has previously notified the Board of objection to 25 books on the State Textbooks. They spoke out strongly against two history texts, linking the authors to subversive organizations and charging the publisher of one with cooperating with a "known subversive" in the publication of a World War II booklet, "The Aftermath of a Three-Hour Discussion Land of the Soviets."

Between the "Texans for America" and board members, and statements from publishers denying the charges, Board of Education voted to adopt all books on the committee's list, except four geography books which Commissioner J. W. Edgar asked them to delete.

The Board of Education also adopted a regulation setting 18 semester hours of education courses as the minimum required for a teaching certificate in Texas.

WATER TALKS
Leaders in water conservation work have been in conferences with the State Board of Water Engineers on the ambitious report of U. S. Study Commission-Texas.

Commission, created by Congress, contains representatives of all the Federal water and soil conservation agencies, plus a representative from each of the eight river basins covered by the study. George H. Brown of Houston is chairman of the Commission.

Comments of the 17 state agencies will be relayed to Gov. Price Daniel, who will add his own comments to the report. The Commission will then meet again to prepare a final report and forward to President John F. Kennedy for transmittal to Congress.

In all, the report suggests that nearly $4,000,000,000 worth of dams and canals will be needed by the $1,000,000,000 for their share of water facilities.

DEDICATED TO THE PROGRESS AND DEVELOPMENT OF BAILEY COUNTY AND THE GREAT MULESHOE

VOLUME 39, NUMBER 47

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1961

20 Years Ago

(Items taken from the November 20, 1941 issue of the Muleshoe Journal)

Muleshoe High and Grammar schools will be dismissed on Wednesday afternoon, November 26 for the Thanksgiving holidays. Classes will resume the following Monday morning.

Many of the teachers are spending the holidays with home folks, while others will remain in Muleshoe.

... -1941 ...

A call came to the Chamber of Commerce last weekend for living quarters for some fourteen families who will be here this week with a seismograph crew. Representatives of the company will be here this week to make preliminary arrangements for working this territory.

It was stated that the survey is to be made by Continental Oil Company.

Texas farmers either must repair their old farm equipment or be caught short of machinery next year.

That is the warning the Texas USDA Defense Board issued here this week following a meeting to plan an intensive machinery repair campaign in the state.

National defense demands have required that all steel formerly used in the manufacture of farm machinery be diverted to other uses.

... -1941 ...

The Rev. R. N. Huckabee recently returned to Muleshoe as pastor of the Methodist Church.

... -1941 ...

Mrs. R. D. Precure and son returned home last week from Oklahoma City where she spent a week with her mother, Mrs. A. F. Ashford.

... -1941 ...

Muleshoe wound up their football season here Wednesday afternoon by defeating the Friona Chiefs, 19-7.

Texas Baptists Favor Church, State Separation

AUSTIN, (spl.) -- More than 5,000 Texas Baptists gathered here Nov. 7-9 voiced unanimously their convictions that they should take no part in crumbling the wall that separates church and state.

During the final session of the Texas Baptist Association messengers from virtually every Baptist church in the state.

Adopted a resolution encouraging vigilance in keeping the Peace Corps free of church-state entanglements.

Approved a series of five recommendations from the denomination's Christian Life Commission which urged Baptists to be dedicated to the church-state separation principle as a basic truth, but not as a way of expressing bias against the Roman Catholic Church.

Heard a forceful address by Dr. Glenn Archer of Washington, D. C. on the subject, "Separation of Church and State."

One of the recommendations, touching on Communism, urged Baptists to "avoid using Communist tactics of hate, half-truth and slander" and to guard against becoming like those whom Baptists oppose.

Another recommendation urged equal opportunities to everyone regardless of race.

The messengers told Baptist schools, hospitals and children's homes that accepting government loans, grants or property at reduced rates violates the Baptist stand on the historic principle.

In an effort to provide Baptist schools with enough funds to meet the educational needs of the next decade, the Convention launched the church phase of a crusade to raise $28 million.

Dr. James H. Landes of Wichita Falls was re-elected to his second term as president of the 1 1/2 million-member Convention. Elected first vice president was Dr. Joe Weldon Bailey of Waco, and second vice president was Austin.

MASONS LEVEL SCHOOL INFIRMERY CORNERSTONE

Prominent Texas Masons gathered in Fort Worth recently to level the cornerstone for the new infirmery of Masonic Home and School of Texas. The infirmery will have 40 beds and will serve nearly 200 students now at Masonic Home and School, whose enrollment has nearly doubled in the last three years.

Among those participating in the ceremony were: left to right: George R. M. Montgomery of Fort Worth, Past Texas Grand Master and president of the Home's board of directors; John G. Kemmerer of Fort Worth, Past Texas Grand Master and president of the Masonic Home Independent School District; William G. Proctor of McKinney, Grand Master; Robert L. Dillard Jr. of Dallas, Deputy Grand Master and president of the Dallas Independent School District; Hugh M. Craig of Fort Worth, Past Grand Master and member of the Masonic Home Independent School District board; John T. Bean of El Paso, Past Grand Master and superintendent of El Paso County schools.

Pocket Gopher Control Booklet Now Available

One winter job that will pay big dividends on many farms and ranches in Bailey County, is the control of the pocket gopher. This little animal lives in underground burrows and lives on plant roots.

This leads to extensive damage to trees and nursery plantings and to vegetables and pasture grasses. However, it is the burrowing habit of the rodent that causes the most expensive damage.

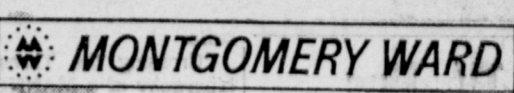

The pocket gopher burrows into irrigation ditch banks and levees and even tank dams, causing breaks in these structures. The mounds of earth deposited above ground cover valuable grasses and often cause damage to mowers and other farm equipment.

If you are interested in learning more about how to combat the menace of the pocket gopher, ask J. K. Adams, county agent, for information and directions for control. He has a leaflet, L-192, that gives directions for poisoning.

He can also furnish information and directions for constructing a machine, the burrow builder, that constructs and baits an artificial runway for control of this rodent.

Syria has been called "a kingdom that has rarely managed to exist." Part or all of Syria has been held at times by Egyptians, Assyrians, Babylonians, Persians, Greeks, Romans, Mongols and Christian crusaders.

Nation's Favorite 'Old Rugged Cross'

"The Old Rugged Cross" still is America's favorite hymn. More than 61,000 newspaper readers from coast to coast voted in the recent National Newspapers Hymn Poll and 10,482 of them chose "The Old Rugged Cross", a vivid hymn which describes the traditional meaning of the Cross, as their dearest religious song.

Bill McVey, the Christian Herald Gospel Singer, who directed the Survey and Audience Analysis, Inc., Bala-Cynwyd, Pa., the independent research organization which tabulated votes from readers of more than 1,000 newspapers, reported that "How Great Thou Art" was a close second to "The Old Rugged Cross."

"How Great Thou Art", a dynamic gospel song describing God's omnipotence, received this large vote, doubtless due to the song's popularity at hymn sings across the country. "How Great Thou Art", a favorite selection of baritone McVey and Billy Graham, was fourth in last year's Christian Herald hymn poll.

THIRD NATIONAL FAVORITE
The third favorite hymn disclosed by the National Newspapers Hymn Poll was "What A Friend We Have in Jesus".

McVey, who has sung all the top 50 hymns at Christian Herald Community Hymn Sings across the country, reported that "In the Garden", received fourth place and was especially preferred in the Midwest.

Others included: Amazing Grace fifth; Rock of Ages, sixth; Sweet Hour of Prayer, seventh; Abide with Me, eighth; Beyond the Sunset, ninth; and Whispering Hope, tenth.

McVey said the most important point disclosed by this first definitive survey to determine the hymns America loves best was that American churchgoers do not prefer one type of religious song to another.

The last two years have seen a constant controversy between hymn editors, who downgrade hymns they feel are too sentimental and poorly composed and sometimes eliminate those religious songs from hymn books, and churchgoers who prefer hymns that have been the most inspiring to them and easiest for them to understand.

MCVEY'S ANALYSIS OF VOTE
"The National Newspaper Hymn Poll results show that American churchgoers want to sing sentimental hymns and gospel songs like "The Old Rugged Cross."
"A silent faith is not as strong as a singing faith," McVey said. "Singing our favorite hymns is a natural way to create a national bond of brotherhood and moral strength in the face of the mounting Communist threat," the Christian Herald Singer said.

Babson Discusses:

Canada's Business Condition, Future

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 16.
 In these perilous times, it is a joy for me to discuss our nearest neighbor, Canada. A line more than 3,000 miles long separates us, and there is not a gun or an other form of "wall", or defense on this very long line between us and Canada. This certainly shows that some form of nuclear disarmament should be possible for all the world.
CANADIAN BUSINESS FOLLOWS
 Canada is now enjoying a gradual recovery from the mild recession of a year ago. Industrial activity has turned upward, although to a modest extent. Canadian business, however, is subject to intense competition caused by overcapacity and a corresponding pressure upon price and profits. For some time Canada has been a leading trading country, surpassed only by the United States, the United Kingdom, and West Germany. In the year 1961, export markets have accounted for about 15 percent of Canada's national output. The United States currently exports only 4 per cent of its output. As a result, the Canadian dollar fluctuates, and right now is worth less than the American dollar.

CANADA AND THE EUROPEAN

Concern has arisen that Canada's trading position may be hampered by the European Common Market. The great postwar impulse for multilateral trade in the Geneva Agreement on Tariffs and Trade is changing in favor of general trading blocs. The European Common Market may develop into a new nation that could rival the population, production, and power of even the United States.
 I believe Canada should examine carefully the above possibilities, and consider some form of association with Western Europe. Perhaps it should join this European Common Market, a move which might eventually influence the United States to join. This could result in a North Atlantic Trading Area of great strength to the "free world."

PREVAILING WAGES

Many in Canada feel that joining the Common Market would result in lower wages for Canada, in view of the lower wages prevailing in Europe. However, efficient workers can demand and secure high wages. I further believe that such a united front would do much to prevent Communism from working further westward.

We cannot have everything we want in this world, and we must have a spirit of "give and take"—economically, as well as militarily and politically. Also, Europeans should realize that only by including Canada can Western Europe extend its trading orders to the Pacific Coast. It seems as if this could be a great advantage to the Common Market. The very talk makes me very optimistic.

NATURAL RESOURCES
 Canada can supply Western asbestos, sulphur, aluminum, nickel, pulp, and paper products, and even fishery products. One of the first projects may be to build a pipeline for crude oil from Western Canada to Montreal. Relations with Venezuela are now being cultivated by the United States. How this will affect Canada's oil prospects is an open question.

Thus far, large sums of money have gone from the United States into Canada to help develop these natural resources. Very little of Canada's imported money has been for industrial goods, but mostly for investments or speculations in Canada's natural resources.

OUTLOOK FOR FUTURE

Factories may be built and go to decay; machinery may become obsolete; trade routes may change; but at the worst, Canada's natural resources cannot be destroyed even though their exploitation may taper off for a few years. This means that Canada would profit from inflation, and investments there could be a good hedge for those who are fearful of inflation.

In closing, let me remind readers that Canada's economic growth has taken only about 50 years and with her present political, social, and economic structure, this excellent growth should continue. Hence, businessmen and investors should be optimistic about the future of Canada, even with radically changing world conditions.
