Home builders ... Tahoka First Baptist Church members are shown here with some locals in Guatemala, where they built four houses near Chichicastenango for widow families. Fourteen Tahokans stayed a week in early August to build the four houses and present food, clothing and other items to widows, orphans and school children there, as a part of their mission giving. Tahoka Baptists build homes, donate supplies to Guatemalans

A group of fourteen members from First Baptist Church of Tahoka recently took a mission trip to Guatemala, Aug. 1-7. The group included Richard and Carole Harbison, Dan and Donna Stone, Lynn Lankford, Gary and Betty Stennett, Brad and Kim Hammonds, Judy Sanders, Daniel and Tiffanie Garvin and Drew and Shelly Stone. The group worked alongside of Tahoka native, Courtney Stennett who had been serving in Guatemala since January. Besides their own luggage, the team carried fourteen extra suitcases filled with toys, clothes, shoes, linens, candy, toothbrushes, toiletries, and school supplies that had been collected for the mission trip.

Guatemala has experienced a lengthy civil war which left an unusually high number of widows and orphans. While in Guatemala, the team from First Baptist was able to build four houses near Chichicastenango, Guatemala for widow families. After the construction was completed, each new house was filled with clothes, food and household goods and then presented to the family.

The group was also able to participate in two different feeding programs which provided meals for approximately 600 women and children. Due to the extreme poverty, this was one of the few well-balanced meals the local children received.

The group also distributed many of the collected school supplies to a local school. On their last day in Chichicastenango, Courtney took the group to visit a small orphanage. The orphanage was in great need of an additional room to house the children and the team was able to take up a collection and pay for the much-needed addition.

"We had the opportunity to live out the words of 1 Timothy 6 as Paul commands those who are rich to be rich in good deeds and be generous and willing to share. Our lives were richly blessed and we are grateful to all those who helped to make this trip possible through their generosity," said Pastor Richard Harbison.

Go no further ... Jason Newdiger (2) of Tahoka is shown putting a stop on a Denver City running back. The Mustangs won the game 32-0. The Tahoka player in the foreground is Sabino Perez (10).

Crime mostly takes holiday

Only a couple of relatively minor incidents were investigated by law enforcement officers in the county during the last week, including the Labor Day holiday.

Tahoka Police stopped a Midland driver for speeding and discovered his drivers license had several suspensions, so he was jailed Saturday. Police also arrested a 29-year-old Clairmont man for disorderly conduct after a domestic disturbance at a Tahoka business.

Eleven persons were jailed during the last week, leaving the jail population here at 38, with eight held for Lubbock and one for Garza County.

Three were arrested on grand jury indictments, for driving while intoxicated with a child passenger, possession of marijuana and injury to a child. Other arrests were for contempt of court, issuing bad check, parole violation, driving while license invalid (enhanced), motion for enforcement and resisting arrest.

WHEN I DECIDED to do a little research about the month of September so I could comment on some of the things related to this month, I learned (after looking up the month on my computer and printing out some of the information) several things I had never known before.

I learned that a famous painting of a naked lady called September Morn created a big controversy in Chicago when it was displayed at an art gallery there in 1913.

I learned that somewhere in the world are places called St. Kitts and Nevis, which celebrate National Heroes Day on Sept. 16. I never did find out where those places are, but I'm pretty sure they're not in Lynn County.

I learned that the German Oktoberfest and the Chinese August Moon Festival are, despite their names, held in September.

And I learned that the printer for my computer was running out of ink and needed a new cartridge.

Of course, I already knew about Sept. 11, 2001, when Muslim terrorists murdered so many Americans, that most schools start up again in September, along with football season, that major league baseball teams play their 500th game of the season, or whatever.

And, of course, I knew about Labor Day, which we just had, and which is supposed to be in tribute to labor unions and jobs and their importance to the economy. The day has nothing to do with childbirth; in fact, expectant mothers would be advised not to begin labor on that day, since all the doctors would be at Ruidoso.

The September Morn painting was by a French artist, Paul Emile Chabas, and the encyclopedia says it was painted over three summers, ending in 1912 (his model must have refused to pose outside without clothing in the winter). The painting did not become famous until the mayor of Chicago charged the owner of the art gallery there with indecency, and the resulting court case, won by the art dealer, made the painting famous.

The painting shows a sort of side view of a woman standing ankle deep in water, and really doesn't show much by today's standards (even Chicago has HBO now).

The original painting is in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City.

THE GROUCH on Ave. G says, "I can't buy any health insurance because of a pre-existing condition - I'm broke."

Breaking up is hard to do ... Well, maybe not always that hard, as Tahoka defensive backs Jason Newdiger (2) and Xavier Zamarron combined to break up this pass intended for a Denver City receiver last Friday. (LCN PHOTO by Abraham Vega)

DC too strong for Dogs, 32-0

Denver City remained unbeaten and Tahoka dropped to 0-2 for the season last Friday night as the Mustangs moved to a 32-0 victory after taking a 2-0 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Coach John Cornelius' Bulldogs gave a strong effort, and actually had a slight edge in first downs and yards rushing, but the balanced Denver City attack wore down the visitors, with a touchdown and field goal in the second quarter and two TDs in the third.

For Tahoka, Kyron Lawson was the leading rusher, gaining 60 yards in 17 carries. QB Neiko Garcia had 48 yards rushing on 18 carries, and completed just one of 12 passes, a 21-yarder to Xavier Zamarron.

Tahoka this week will host Wink.

Tahoka native and veteran character actor Wayne Tippit dead in Los Angeles at age 76

LOS ANGELES, September 1 - Wayne Tippit (a.k.a. Gerald-Wayne), a veteran character actor who played the role of Palmer Woodward on the hit series "Melrose Place," as well as many other stage, screen and television parts, died August 28, 2009 at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles after a long illness. He was 76 (DOB 12-19-1932).

Born in Lubbock, TX, Tippit grew up the son of a cotton farmer in Tahoka, Texas. He fell in love with Shakespeare while studying speech and drama at Texas Tech in the early 1950s and found himself reciting portions of "The Taming of the Shrew" while driving a tractor. Eventually he transferred to the University of Iowa where fellow drama student Gene Wilder was his roommate, and graduated with a bachelor of fine arts degree in 1953.

Tippit's first job after college was as "G. Wayne," a children's show personality and announcer at KETX-TV, channel 19, in Tyler, TX. After being drafted into the U.S. Army, he continued to work in broadcasting by producing the Fourth Army Radio show which aired weekly over a five-state area from headquarters in San Antonio, TX. He also performed nightly live Pearl Beer commercials for a San Antonio NBC affiliate. In the late 1950s he moved to New York City and landed roles in the original Broadway casts of "Tall Story" and "Only In America." In 1959 he was chosen to play young newspaper photographer Jerry Ames on the CBS live soap opera "The Secret Storm," on which he appeared daily for the next six years. While on the soap opera Tippit also established himself as a leading television and radio spokesman.

During the 1960s, 1970s and 1980s he was the spokesman for such accounts as Crest toothpaste, Alka Seltzer, Yuban coffee, Excedrin PM, L&M and True cigarettes, Swedish Tanning Secret, Plymouth automobiles, Contadina tomato paste, Weight Watchers, Hewlett Packard, and many others. In 1970 he won a First Place International Andy Award, from the Advertising Club of New York, for his voice over work on a popular Alka Seltzer campaign, which featured a husband suffering from indigestion over his wife's creative dinner recipes. He also spent five years during the late 1970s and early 1980s playing the role of calculating corporate executive Ted Adamson on the CBS soap opera "Search For Tomorrow" and appeared several times as a guest star opposite James Garner in the hit 1970s series "The Rockford Files."

With television and voice over work his bread-and-butter Tippit was able to pursue his first love which was working in the theater. In the late 1960s he appeared in two pivotal counter-cultural Off-Broadway plays. He starred as Lyndon B. Johnson in "Macbird," a take-off on "Macbeth," at the Village Gate theater in 1967. He also played a closeted gay man in the original New York production of Mart Crowley's "The Boys in the Band," directed by Neil Simon collaborator Robert Moore at Theatre Four, in 1968. In 1974 he received a Best Actor nomination from the Joseph Jefferson Awards for his performance in William Inge's play, "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs," with Betsy Palmer and Marrian Walters at the Ivanhoe Theatre in Chicago, Illinois. Additional Broadway credits included the musical "Gantry" at the George Abbott Theater in 1970; the American Premiere of Nobel laureate Harold Pinter's "Old Times" at the Billy Rose theater in 1971; "The Nerd," directed by Charles Nelson Reilly at the Helen Hayes theater in 1987-88; and Lanford Wilson's "Lemon Sky" opposite Jeff Daniels, Jill Eikenberry and Cynthia Nixon, at The Second Stage, in 1985.

In the late 1980s while appearing in "The Nerd," Tippit developed COPD. In 1990 at age 58, he moved to Los Angeles, figuring television and film acting would be easier on his lungs. There he constantly worked, racking up a string of television credits including recurring roles on "L.A. Law," "Melrose Place," as well as guest appearances on "Murphy, Brown," "Seinfeld," "X-Files," "Murder, She Wrote," "Something So Right," "Love & Wat," "diagnosis Murder," "Matlock," "Quantum Leap," "Chicago Hope," "Mad About You," and many others. He also appeared in the Oliver Stone film "JFK," "Dancer, Texas, Pop. 81," "Nurse Betty," and many other feature films and television movies including "Bitter Blood," "Concealed Enemies," "The Ernest Green Story," "Guts and Glory."

After receiving a lung transplant at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in 2000 Tippit retired from show business and spent time volunteering as an advocate for the hospital's lung transplantation

A unique experience ... A group of 14 members from First Baptist Church of Tahoka spent a week in Guatemala in early August, building homes and sharing clothing, food and other items with widows and orphans there.

New clothes, too ... Not only did First Baptist Church members construct four new houses, but also filled each new house with clothes, food and household goods and then presented them to the Guatemalan families.

HEALTH NEWS FROM LYNN COUNTY HOSPITAL DISTRICT
by Julia Allen

Heat Stroke
by Jeanie Stone

Heat stroke results when a person has been in a hot environment for a long period of time, overwhelming the body's sweating mechanism. The patient's body temperature rises, many times to a level at which brain damage occurs. Dehydration is another cause of heat stroke. A dehydrated person may not be able to sweat fast enough to dissipate heat, which causes the body temperature to rise.

Those most susceptible to heat strokes are infants, the elderly (often with associated heart, lung and kidney diseases or those on certain types of medications), athletes, outdoor workers physically exerting themselves in the sun.

Symptoms of heat stroke can sometimes mimic those of a heart attack or other conditions. Sometimes a person may experience symptoms of heat exhaustion before progressing to heat stroke. As with heat exhaustion, a person may experience fatigue, dizziness, headache and muscle cramps. But, a major difference from heat exhaustion would be an absence of sweating, with hot, red or flushed skin. The symptoms can develop suddenly and rapidly without warning. Other signs include high body temperatures, rapid pulse, difficulty breathing, strange behavior, hallucinations, confusion, agitation, disorientation, seizures and coma.

Victims of a heat stroke must receive immediate treatment to avoid permanent organ damage. Call 911 immediately. We've also listed things you can do to help before the ambulance arrives. First and most importantly, cool the victim. Get the victim out of the heat. Move them to a shady area, or an air conditioned room. Remove some of the clothing; apply cool or tepid water to the skin (spray the victim with cool water from a garden hose), fan the victim to promote sweating and evaporation, place ice packs under the armpits and on the groin area. If the patient is conscious and not nauseated, allow them to have small amounts of fluids.

The most important measures to prevent heat strokes are to avoid becoming dehydrated, and to avoid vigorous physical activities in hot and humid weather. If you have to work in the heat, drink plenty of fluids such as water and Gatorade, but avoid alcohol, coffee and tea which may lead to dehydration. Take frequent breaks to hydrate yourself. Wear hats, and light colored and light and loose clothing.

Be safe, Beat the heat!

Dilapidated building now gone ... Workers from the City of Tahoka tore down the old laundry building on the corner of Lockwood and Ave. J Friday afternoon, getting rid of another dilapidated building in Tahoka. In this photo, Junior Lopez uses a backhoe to destroy the building. Debris remained to be picked up early this week from the cleanup project the city has undertaken, targeting dilapidated buildings in the community. During the last 3-4 months, city employees have torn down and removed debris from eight buildings, including a couple of houses destroyed by fire and several other dilapidated houses/buildings that were either donated to the city or have been held for several years in a trust fund for nonpayment of back taxes. TISD superintendent profile discussed; Board plans to announce finalist in December

The Tahoka ISD Board of Trustees met in regular session on Tuesday, September 8, following a Town Hall meeting at the Tahoka Housing Authority to discuss a profile of desired characteristics for a new superintendent for Tahoka ISD. Currently, the Board plans to announce a finalist in December, wait the required 21 days, and offer employment to the finalist in January. Government code stipulates that the name of the applicant for the position of superintendent of a public school district is excluded from the requirements of disclosure until the finalist is named at least 21 days before the date of the meeting at which a final action or vote is to be taken on the employment of the person.

"Should the Board not find the person it thinks is the right fit for the District during the fall search, it has the option of suspending the search until spring, when the pool of applicants is traditionally larger," explained Gary Harrell, interim superintendent for TISD. The Board went into closed session to discuss personnel matters relevant to the superintendent search and employment.

The Board considered several action items, the first of which was to approve revisions to the school district local policy on ad valorem taxes. The policy revision outlines the procedures the school district will use for filing, accepting and reviewing applications made under the Texas Economic Development Act, as set forth in Chapter 313 of the Texas Tax Code. A wind energy company has indicated an interest in expanding its current wind generator project into Lynn County, and it will be necessary for the Board to have a policy in place in the event a wind energy company makes application for a tax abatement agreement.

"In the past, these tax abatement agreements have been very lucrative for school districts in Texas. Spur ISD, an area school district in Dickens County, entered into a tax abatement agreement last year with a wind energy company that will generate the school district additional revenue of up to $600,000 per year for the next eight years," said Harrell. However, effective September 1, 2009, House Bill 3676, which was enacted by the 81st Legislature, limits the amount of "windfall" revenue a school district can receive for entering into such an agreement. That limit is $100 per ADA per year; therefore, Tahoka ISD would only be able to generate approximately $60,000 per year from such an agreement, Harrell explained.

The Board received a request from Carroll Rhodes, Tahoka Band Director, for the band to take a trip to Disney World in Florida next June, after school is out. The cost of the trip would be paid for from funds raised by band boosters and band members. The request was approved.

Family Discipline workshops offered at Church of Christ

Tahoka Church of Christ is offering a series of workshops from James Dobson's "Essentials of Discipline - What's OK, What's Not and What Works" in the upcoming weeks. The series of sessions offers advice on effective family discipline through Christian teachings.

The workshops are free, and childcare will be provided at the church. Sessions are offered Sunday evenings from 6-8:30 p.m.

Contact the Church of Christ at 561-4060 for more information on the workshops.

and the administration will be working with the band director to develop guidelines for the trip.

The Board also discussed the District's stipend schedule for sponsors of UIL and extracurricular events. School officials are in the process of surveying area school districts to develop a recommendation for a stipend schedule that is commensurate with what area schools are paying.

Superintendent Harrell also gave an enrollment report for the District through the first two weeks of school. Currently, there are 617 students enrolled in the school district, up 14 students from the first day of school.

The next regular board meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, October 13, at 7:00 p.m. at the Harvick Educational Building on Main Street.

Rep. Joe Heflin
announces pediatric healthcare project
for rural children

State Representative Joe Heflin announced this week that many children in rural West Texas soon will have access to pediatric healthcare through the Children's Healthcare Access for Rural Texas (CHART) Project. Funded by the Texas Health and Human Services Commission, Project CHART will establish 30 sites over the next 26 months to expand and study access to pediatric primary and specialty care for Medicaid-enrolled children in most rural West Texas communities.

"The communities of House District 85 continue to face a severe shortage of general pediatricians and pediatric specialists," said Rep. Heflin. "In many cases, gaining access to pediatric care involves lengthy travel to locations where health care specialists are available. Sometimes that travel can be very expensive both in money and in lost work and school time," Rep. Heflin added.

Project CHART was created to provide pediatric specialty consultation to children throughout the 108 most western counties of Texas. Patients are presented to a pediatric specialist located at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center (TTUHSC) by a physician or nurse in a remote location via a television linked to a security encrypted network.

John C. Baldwin, M.D., TTUHSC President, explained, "This project will help us demonstrate the technological advantages of telemedicine and allows us to connect children with the best pediatric care available even though their physician may be hundreds of miles away." Billy Phillips, Ph.D., vice president and director of the TTUHSC F. Marie Hall Institute for Rural and Community Health, said the project also will provide an outstanding platform to conduct complementary, population-based research to enhance the quality of life in our region. "Through our experiences, we can help educate about the role of telemedicine and on how this works in reducing access issues, improves efficiency and adds to the quality of healthcare delivery," Phillips said.

David Lefforge, chief operating officer of F. Marie Hall Institute and an architect of Project CHART, said 30 West Texas communities will be selected to receive telemedicine equipment at no charge to the communities, along with training and support for its use.

The first live pediatric specialty consultation under Project CHART took place on August 31 from Stratford, more than an hour's drive north from Amarillo. Debbie Voyles, director of TTUHSC's Telemedicine Program said, "The University's motto is 'From here it's possible.' This remarkable technological fete puts a whole new meaning on that motto."

Rep. Heflin represents Texas House District 85, including Borden, Crosby, Fisher, Howard, Garza, Glasscock, Hale, Howard, Jones, Kent, Lynn, Irion, Reagan, Sterling, Stonewall, and Terry Counties. He may be reached at his Capitol Office in Austin, 512-463-0604, at his District Office in Crosbyton, 806-675-1583, or in Big Spring, at 432-213-2897.

The more I drank, the more discontented I became. Drinking not only added to my problems but also magnified the misery inside me. Growing discontent often led to anger. I blamed God, my wife, my boss, my co-workers, the dog, even complete strangers for everything that led me to be dissatisfied. Nothing was ever my fault, but I was miserable. I had dug a pit so deep I thought I could never get out. My discontent led to years of exile from God. A time came when I grew tired of digging that hole. The light of God reached in and found me, dirty and tired but also ready and willing to accept God's help. In the years that have passed since then I have learned a deeper appreciation for the love of God. I've learned a degree of humility in the presence of God's watchful care. I've learned to be grateful for each breath and every heartbeat that I have left, and I hope to spend my life bringing hope to the lost and dying. Most important, I've learned to be content resting in the hand of God Almighty. Prayer: Heavenly God, thank you for your gifts of mercy and grace. May we always remember your boundless love that saves us. Amen. TDSHS says now is the time to get seasonal flu shots

The Texas Department of State Health Services is encouraging people to get their seasonal flu vaccination now.

"Don't wait. Get your seasonal flu vaccination now," said Dr. David Lakey, DSHS Commissioner. "It's one of the best ways to protect yourself and others from seasonal flu."

Seasonal flu vaccine, available in shot and nasal spray forms, is recommended for people ages 6 months and older. The shot takes about two weeks to become effective. A separate 2009 H1N1 flu vaccine is not expected until mid-October.

"Get the seasonal flu vaccine now. Then, be prepared get the 2009 H1N1 flu vaccine later. One vaccine isn't a substitute for the other," Lakey said.

People at high risk of having serious flu complications are especially encouraged to get their seasonal flu shot as soon as possible. This includes children ages 6 months through 18 years, those 50 and older, people with chronic medical conditions, residents of long-term care facilities and pregnant women. People who have close contact with those at high risk also should get vaccinated.

People wanting the seasonal flu vaccine should call their health care provider, local public health department, 2-1-1 or check online at www.211Texas.org for availability.

Lakey also urged people to follow standard illness-prevention steps:

- Wash hands frequently with soap and water or alcohol-based hand sanitizer;
- Cover coughs and sneezes;
- Stay home if sick.

For more information about flu in Texas, visit DSHS' www.TexasFlu.org.

Doggy Day Care

Owning a pet is oftentimes quite similar to raising children, including the need for finding them a place to stay while you are out of the house. The majority of pet owners leave their pets at home, unattended during long days at the office. The downside to this is that dogs, especially young ones, need just as much exercise, attention and love as children do. One of the best alternatives to leaving a pet at home is taking them to a pet day care while you are at work.

Doggy day care is similar to the human day care system. The pet owner drops their four-legged family member off in the morning on the way to work, and activities will be set by the day care depending on the dog's interest level.

"A doggy day care should provide exercise, stimulation, socialization, and sometimes training to a dog that otherwise would be left at home alone during the day," said Dr. M.A. Crist, Clinical Assistant Professor at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences. "It can help with that dreaded 'potty training' in young dogs. Hyperactive dogs have an outlet to release some of that excess energy, and overweight canines needing to lose a few pounds can do so by exercising and playing in the play groups during the day."

Justin has quite a bit of experience speaking into the microphone, as he worked for KLLL for six years as a disc jockey.

Doggy day care can greatly assist in the socialization of your pet. It may provide them with an opportunity to meet and greet with a variety of other dogs. According to the American Veterinary Society of Animal Behavior, it is important to socialize puppies during the first three months of life.

"Senior pets might be overwhelmed with the number of dogs romping and playing and might get knocked down, shy dogs may be fearful, and aggressive dogs should not be allowed" said Crist. "A well trained staff should be experienced in recognizing signs of disposition and anxiety that may indicate that your pet is not right for the day care setting. You need to feel comfortable and happy leaving them at the day care. You will know the answer when you pick up your pet at the end of the day if you have made the correct decision."

Other benefits to the doggy day care system include the use of the day care as an adjunct with behavior modifications for treating separation anxiety. The day care is a place you can take your pet so he or she will not be left home alone to suffer from symptoms of separation anxiety.

If the idea of pet day care does not appeal to you, an alternative form might be a pet sitter that comes to the house and provides one-on-one attention to the pet.

A second alternative is a privately-owned or in-home dog day care. They are often less expensive and have a fewer number of dogs being cared for at any given time.

"For dogs that are less social or shy, this might be a better option" said Crist. "In-home or private day cares offer your pet a home environment and a closer human-animal bond."

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank everyone who brought food or sent cards and words of condolences and encouragement during the loss of Kent's father, O.C. Elliott. We very much appreciate the kind thoughts and deeds during this time and know that Tahoka is a great place to live because of all the wonderful people who are here.
Vondell & Kent Elliott

Thank you for all the visits, cards, prayers and kind deeds while I have been recovering from back surgery and my broken ankle. I'm not going to name names because I know I would miss one, but thanks to everyone for your kindness. I'm glad to be home and welcome visitors and calls.
