Early morning fire destroys home on North 6th

by JUANELL JONES

Two Tahoka women awoke early last Thursday to discover their house on fire, and both escaped in their pajamas, running to a neighbor's home for help. As the fire quickly spread and heat exploded a large picture window in the house, the flames consumed the home even as the fire department responded, destroying the home and its entire contents despite firemen's efforts to extinguish the blazing inferno. Rose Dotson, 84, and her daughter, Linda Stephens, 62, had only the pajamas they were wearing and Linda's purse, which she thought to grab as they ran out the door. Everything else was consumed in the fire.

"Grandma woke up and went to the restroom, and when she came back the bed was on fire," said Jackie Saldana, Linda Stephen's daughter. "Mom woke up about the same time, saw the fire, grabbed her purse and Grandma and ran out of the house to the neighbor's," she explained, adding that there was an explosion shortly after the women had left the house. "It was probably within two minutes after they escaped the house that they heard a loud explosion," she said

Tahoka Volunteer Fire Department responded to the fire alarm at 5:45 a.m., after Rose and Linda ran to a neighbor's home where the neighbor (See FIRE, page 8)

Bulldogs make playoffs

by Blake Turner THS Kennel Staff

As the 2010 football regular season came to an end, many high school teams were putting up their helmets, cleats, and shoulder pads while the Bulldogs found themselves preparing for another week of practice. The Tahoka Bulldogs (7-3) are in the playoffs as the third place team in district and will face the Stamford Bulldogs (9-1) in bi-district action Friday at 7:30 at Jim Ned HS (Tuscola). Ticket prices are $6 for adults and $4 for students.

Last Friday was the final game in regular season play, with Tahoka hosting the Olton Mustangs at Kelley Field in the third loss of the season. The Mustangs scored first on a 33-yd touchdown pass to go up 7-0. In the second quarter the Mustangs scored again on a 1-yd run to make the score 14-0 at halftime.

Tahoka was determined to get into the endzone and Neiko Garcia did just that on a 20-yd touchdown run with 2:51 left in the third quarter. Cristian Ramirez was there with the extra point and the score was 14-7. Olton, however, had a quick response and scored again on another 1-yd run to go up 21-7. Trai Smith scored the last touchdown for the Bulldogs on a 2-yd run and Ramirez kicked the extra point to make the final score 21-14 in favor of the Olton Mustangs.

Garcia was the leading rusher for the game with 101 yards on 16 carries with 1 touchdown. Jac Calvillo rushed for 99 yards on 19 carries and Trai Smith ran for 60 yards on 15 carries and 1 touchdown.

On the defensive side for the Bulldogs it was freshman Ray Parmer who led the way with 11 tackles of his own. Jonathan Morin had 9 tackles and Garcia had 8.

McKay resubmits petition seeking official recount

Headed for playoffs ... Tahoka lost the last regular season football game here Friday, as Olton won 21-14, but the Buildogs, with a sparkling 7-3 season record, still made the playoffs as the third place team in district, and will take on Stamford at Jim Ned Friday. Above,

Lynn County Pct. 1 Justice of Peace Dana McKay this week is continuing with her petition to file for an official recount of the Nov. 2 election results. McKay, a Democrat, lost her bid for re-election to Republican challenger Nancy Guilliams by a count of 539 to McKay originally filed a petition for a recount last Thursday, including a deposit of $600, to Lynn County Judge H.G. Franklin, who is the designated recount coordinator. However, according to County Attorney Donnis Scott, the petition that was filed contained five errors, or "defects," according to a detailed list of instructions from the Secretary of State's office regarding recount petitions in the Texas Election Code.

"There were five errors in the original paperwork submitted for the recount request," confirmed Scott. "However, canvassing of the election results does not officially take place until Wednesday, Nov. 10, so the timeline for filing a petition for a recount is extended to 48 hours after the official canvass, which would be until 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 12."

When contacted by The News, Mc-Kay indicated she was aware of the errors in the first petition she submitted, and she confirmed that she submitted a new petition on Tuesday afternoon this week. One of the errors was an incorrect deposit amount, which McKay says should have been $800 instead of $600, which must be paid by cash, cashier's check or money order, instead of by personal check. The other errors were regarding information she is required to list on the petition.

Once the recount petition is approved, the recount coordinator (Judge Franklin) must order the recount to take place within seven days, under strict guidelines according to the Texas Election Code. As of press time, the date had not been set for the recount.

POSSIBLY it's just another sign that I'm getting old and set in my ways, but most of the sitcoms of 30 or 40 years ago on TV still seem a lot better and funnier than any of the newer ones. One of the earlier shows now in reruns, which I always watched, and still do on occasion, is Sanford and Son Checking up on the history of some of the stars of that show led to a few surprises for me. For example, I never realized that Redd Foxx's real name was Sanford. He was born John Elroy Sanford in 1922, and he actually had a brother named Fred Sanford. He changed his name to Redd Foxx when he started doing stand-up comedy in the 1940s. His early efforts were called "blue humor," and the content was described as too dirty for most audiences. But he cleaned up his act for appearances on the Ed Sullivan Show and Red Skelton Hour (1951) and other variety shows that increased his fan base.

He got his own TV series, Sanford and Son, in 1972, and it was extended through 1977. And I always thought the show was pretty funny.

One of the show's regulars, Aunt Esther, was played by actress LaWanda: Page, a former chorus girl and comedienne in black theaters and night clubs, and who was invited to seek the role by Foxx, a friend from earlier days. Page died in 2002 at the age of 81.

Demond Wilson, who played Lamont Sanford, was born in 1946 and is still living. He also appeared on Mission Impossible, the Love Boat, and other TV shows. He is the author of four books, including three children's books, one of which was entitled Mr. Fish Takes a Wife.

Redd Foxx died in 1991 while rehearsing for a new show. Ironically he died of a heart attack; faked heart attacks were very much a part of the Sanford show ("It's the big one, Elizabeth"). Some of his TV efforts were flops and he was in trouble with the IRS, and had been married four times. Still, he was a funny guy, and I enjoyed Sanford and Son.

Most of the current TV sitcoms make me want to laugh less and turn off the TV set more

City awards bid for farm lease

Tahoka City Council met in regular session Monday night to consider several issues, including opening sealed bids for a three-year lease of the city's farm land adjacent to the city sewer plant, currently leased by Joe Calvillo. The bid was for a three-year lease of approximately 367 acres of land.

Councilwoman Amy Preston, acting as Mayor Pro Tem in the absence of Mayor John Baker, opened two sealed bids at the meeting, one from Calvillo bidding $55 per acre, and one from Jeff Martin bidding $60 per acre. Martin, who is on the City Council, reportedly did not participate in the discussion and abstained from voting on the issue.

The other council members present at the meeting voted unanimously to award the bid to the highest bidder, awarding Martin the bid. Voting for the motion were Rudy Fuentes, Ronny Jolly and Ray Box. Martin, and Preston, because she was acting as Mayor Pro-Tem, abstained from voting.

The council also considered one bid submitted for maintenance of the Tahoka and Nevels Memorial Cemeteries, accepting the bid from Tom Tejeda for $14,000 per year for a three-year contract. Tejeda, who currently maintains the cemeteries, submitted a bid that was a $400 increase from the current contract, reportedly because of increased fuel costs. The council accepted the bid proposal.

In other business, council members approved an ordinance prohibiting "thru truck traffic" on N. 5th-6th-7th Streets from the East Hwy. 87 access road to Ave. D, in order to keep heavy truck traffic out of the residential neighborhoods near the Tahoka Compress facility.

"Basically, it was a safety issue, we wanted to keep the trucks from traveling in the neighborhoods where children could be crossing, but also because the heavy trucks put extra wear and tear on the streets and we would like to limit that access," City Administrator Jerry Webster told The News. "The trucks will have to travel on Ave. D, which we know is already in need of repair and we are working on the problem," he added.

The council approved monthly bills, and heard reports from various departments before adjourning.

Driving violations put three in jail

.Tahoka police arrested three persons for traffic violations in Tahoka during the last week. A 23-year-old man from Post was stopped Thursday for speeding on U.S. 380 and then jailed for driving while intoxicated, second offense with open container, and also driving while his license was invalid, enhanced.

A 51-year-old also from Post, was jailed last Wednesday for DWI (subsequent offense), and a 26-year-old Lubbock woman was jailed after being stopped for speeding on U.S. 87 in the city, and was found to be driving while her license was invalid, with previous conviction.

Those arrests plus five others left the total number of persons in Lynn County Jail at 44 early this week, with 14 of those held for Hockley County and two for

Other arrests during the week were for disorderly conduct, displaying suspended drivers license plus expired vehicle registration, DWI third or more plus resisting arrest, theft of property over $50 and less than $500 plus failure to appear on charges of burglary of a vehicle, criminal mischief, and DWI third offense.

Flu Hot spots & Clean up

Virus like influenza spreads through touching something a sick person has also touched, or been sneezed on. So cleaning off these affected objects is very important. The flu virus can survive between 2-8 hours after it has contacted a surface. The sink, the phone, the doorknobs, the remotes, need to be disinfected daily when someone is sick in the house, suggests Charles Gerba, author of The Germ Freak's Guide to Outwitting Colds and O'Donnell

Gerba also states that desktops have 400 times more bacteria than the average toilet seat. To reduce your chances of getting the cold or flu disinfect your work area weekly or daily if there are people around that have cold/flu like symptoms. It is highly likely that you have touched something that these people have touched. Simply swab your desk, keyboard, mouse and phone with an antibacterial sanitizing wipe and let dry.

Other flu hot spots: kitchen sponges and other cleaning tools. Replace your kitchen sponge every couple of weeks or run it through the dishwasher to eliminate the spread of germs. Wash dust rags, dishrags, mops and other cleaning tools in extra hot water; this is the only way to kill the germs. (Extra hot means you will have to wear gloves to wash them. If you can stand the water without gloves the water is not hot enough to kill the germs. Y Always use products that say "disinfect" or "sanitize" on the label. Pine Sol, Clorox, and Lysol are all disinfectants approved by the Environmental Protection Agency. On their website is a fist of 500 approved products: www. epa.gov/pesticides/antimicrobials/influenza-disinfectants.html. Turning Aside

Read Mark 6:30-32 Jesus said to the apostles, "Come with me by yourselves to a quiet place and get some rest.' - Mark 6:31 (NIV)

While strolling on the grounds of Glastonbury Abbey, I could see - but barely hear the traffic moving along the main street just outside the abbey and through the town. The tranquility of centuries of worship enfolded me, completely wiping out the oppressive heaviness I had felt a few minutes earlier as I passed shop after shop strung with emblems of the occult. In the peace and beauty of the abbey, it was as if I had entered

My thoughts focused on Jesus' invitation to the apostles while they are surrounded by crowds clamoring for his attention. Jesus understood the apostles' frustration; they were hungry, tired, and wanted to talk about all their recent experiences with him. The respite lasted only as long as the boat ride, but it was sufficient. Then they could again cope with the pressures of the crowds.

Our Lord knows how we feel and what we need at any given time and provides special moments for us to recuperate. It is not always possible to retreat to some quiet phase. But wherever we are, by turning our attention to Christ's presence with us, we can find peace.

Thought for the Day: Christ says to each of us, "Come aside; rest in my presence." Hazel V. Thompson... from The Upper Room

Local veteran attends ceremonies:

Mr. Allen goes to Washington

Alfred F. (Bubs) Allen of O'Donnell went to Washington, D.C. Oct. 6-8 as part of a contingent of veterans in the Texas Panhandle Honor Flight. attending ceremonies and visiting the WWII and Vietnam War Memorials. Allen served in the Army Air Corp in WWII, as a member of the 338th Service Squadron 315th Service Group. He is seated third from right in the group picture of veterans at one of the ceremonies.

While at the memorial, Allen was stopped by several Taiwanese tourists who recognized a symbol on the back of Allen's jacket (see Allen holding up the jacket in one photo, and see the tourists taking a picture of his back at the war memorial). Allen had saved the patch with the Chinese symbols from the back of his flight jacket.

"It's called a Blood Chat," Allen said, explaining that all military personnel wore the symbol on the back of their flight jackets, in case their plane was shot down in the China/ Burma/India areas.

"The way it worked was, if you survived the plane crash, the Blood Chat was essentially a bribe promising payment if whoever found you brought you back to the Americans instead of to the enemy," he said. "Fortunately for me, I was part of the ground crew and I never had to use it - but there were some who did, and it worked," he added. The tourists at the war memorial offered Allen money for taking his picture, but Allen told them to keep their money, and he took several pictures with the tourists. He also visited briefly with a group of South Korean veterans, whom he laughingly referred to as "my bodyguards". "You know, I was really surprised at the people I saw at these memorials ... I figured I would see a few American veterans, but not all these other people. I was really quite amazed," said Allen, who was accompanied on the trip by his daughter.

"I tried to visit with the Taiwanese tourists, but I couldn't speak whatever language they had and they couldn't speak Texan," said Allen with a laugh. "But, we got along alright anyway, using sign language," he

Also pictured here is a photo from 1944-45 of Allen, who knew more about cotton fields than rice fields, helping to harvest rice while in the service near Chengdu, China.

"Everything was done by hand back then, they would carry bundles of rice to a big box with handles and a mat on the side, and they would take the rice bundles and pound them against the mat to get the rice to fall off," Allen recalled. "I knew about cotton fields, so I just wanted to see if I could help harvest the rice."

He served three years in the

NHS Makes a Difference

Dear Editor,

In previous years, NHS has sponsored Make a Difference Day, but as we tried to decide on only one project to do we were unable to turn down all the great suggestions we had. So this year, we chose to expand it to Make a Difference Week.

With the help of Roger Locke and Gabe Moralez, we did yard work for a member in our community and repainted his house.

Monday through Friday we did a fundraiser called Penny Wars, a battle between classes to raise the most money. NHS would like to thank Haney and Tanya Wells for allowing us to use their coin counter; it saved so much time! This money will be used for Christmas for Kids as we sponsor two families this

On Thursday, we visited Lynnwood and immensely enjoyed playing games with the residents and indulging in the refreshments that were served

We also did a coat drive throughout the week that will be donated to Tahoka Church of Christ's clothes closet for distribution for those in need.

On behalf of NHS I would like to express our gratitude to Lynn County News for the Coat Drive advertisement. Also, I would like to thank the community for the coats that were donated to our fundraiser. With a great deal of help from many sources, Make a Difference Week was a wonderful success. Sincerely,

Nikki Box, NHS President

Linda and I are very grateful for our friends and supporters.

Thank you!

NHS makes a difference NHS members decided to turn Make a Difference Day into a whole

They began the week with Penny Wars. Freshmen and sophomores battled as did juniors and seniors to see who could raise the most money in coins. Paper money deleted points from other classes. In the end, the freshmen brought $135.27 to beat the sophomores. The seniors narrowly beat the juniors with $276.51. The winning classes won Krispy Kreme donuts. Together, the four classes raised over $700 for Christmas for Tahoka senior quarterback Neiko Garcia led the Bulldogs in yards rushing, passing and scoring during the regular season. Head Coach John Cornelius released the statistics for the 10game season as Bulldogs, 7-3 for the year, prepared to go into the first round of playoffs this week against Stamford, a 9-1 team. The game will be at Jim Ned, as Tahoka wound up third in district, behind Sundown and New Deal.

Neiko Garcia rushed for 1,042 yards in 10 games, averaging 6.9 yards per carry and scoring 16 touchdowns plus one extra point run for a total of 98 points. He also passed for touchdowns, completing 22 of 50 passes for 395 yards.

house at 1610 North 6th. The fire department and Lynn County EMS arrived quickly, with EMS transporting Rose and Linda to a Lubbock hospital where both were treated and released the same day.

"Grandma is on oxygen, and we thought probably the oxygen tanks had exploded," said Saldana. Tahoka Fire Chief Steve Sanders said, however, that the oxygen tanks the firemen found had not exploded but had melted, and that the explosion heard was most likely from a large picture window exploding from the intense heat.

The fire obviously started in the bedroom, and I believe the State Fire Marshal is going to rule that this is an accidental fire with an undetermined cause," Sanders told The News. Tahoka City Fire Marshal Jerry Ford concurred, saying the State Fire Marshal's office had been investigating and that he understood the ruling would be accidental with an undetermined

Mrs. Dotson had lived in the home for approximately 35 years, according to her granddaughter. The house is insured, but Rose and Linda lost all their belongings, personal items, etc. "Mom got her purse out, but Grandma lost hers in the fire ... everything else is just gone,"

Special Education workshop to be held released from the hospital, we had to go buy them clothes so they would have something to

An account has been opened for donations at First Bank & Trust, designated the "Rose and Linda Fire Fund." Currently, both women are living with relatives in Lubbock, but they plan to return soon to Tahoka to rent a home together until they can rebuild their home. "They are absolutely planning to rebuild," said Saldana. "The insurance company has been great, and their people have been super nice about everything, but we don't know how long it will be before everything is settled. Basically, everything is gone ... we went shopping for a few items at a Wal-Mart, and it was a little overwhelming. Finally, I said, 'Mom, you need something from every aisle.' You just take for granted everything you have, until it is gone."

Saldana said that Rose and Linda and the rest of the family wanted the community to know how much they mean to them, and how much they appreciate everyone's help. "The fire department was so great, responding so fast - it was such a hot fire and it could easily have spread to the neighbors' houses, but our fire department really knows what they are doing and they did such a good job keeping it from spreading. We appreciate those guys so much, and we appreciate our EMS crew too for everything they did," said

"This community has done so much for them already, people offering to help in so many ways ... we just can't tell you how thankful we are for this community," she added. "We are very fortunate to have Grandma and Mom escape without any injuries - they were very lucky."

Fire Chief Sanders added that the women were extremely lucky to survive the fire, and to have awakened when they did. He wanted to take the opportunity to remind citizens to check their homes for fire hazards and to check batteries in their smoke alarms if they have them, or to purchase smoke alarms if they do not have them in their

"A smoke alarm can save your life," said Sanders.
