Easter Eggstravaganza Community egg hunt planned

The City/County Library and Friends is sponsoring a community "Easter Eggstravaganza" for children in the community, ages toddlers through 9 years old. The event is free and open to the community. The Eggstravaganza will feature easter egg hunts for three age divisions, prizes, story time, crafts and more, from 10 a.m. until 12 noon on Saturday, March 30 at the Life Enrichment Center in Tahoka.

"We will have the Easter Bunny, candy and prizes hidden in eggs (including grand prizes in each age category), story time and hands-on crafts, chalk art, as well as photo opportunities with the Easter Bunny," said a sponsor. "Parents, plan now to bring your children - and your cameras - to our community Easter Eggstravaganza for a fun time."

Oil & Gas Productivity

21 new wells drilled in Lynn County in 2012

Oil productivity in Lynn County has increased during the past year, with 575,600 barrels of oil produced in 2012, an increase of more than 200,000 barrels over 2011 production of 363,787 barrels of oil produced in the county, according to information from the Texas Railroad Commission website. There were 21 new oil wells approved for drilling in 2012 in Lynn County.

Production figures show both oil production and casinghead gas produced from oil wells (see chart). During the last 10 years, Lynn County has produced 2,919,643 barrels of oil, with almost 20 percent of that total produced in 2012.

The increased activity for Lynn County, which has not been known for its oil and gas production in the past, is due to a relatively new procedure called hydraulic fracturing (or sometimes referred to as fracking) for extracting the oil.

The oil and gas industry is regulated by the Railroad Commission of Texas. The following information on hydraulic fracturing was taken from the Railroad Commission website, which answers some of the questions about the process.

Hydraulic Fracturing

(Information printed in this font is from the rrc.state.tx.us website)

What is Hydraulic Fracturing?

Hydraulic fracturing treatment is the stimulation of a well by the application of hydraulic fracturing fluid under pressure for the express purpose of initiating or propagating fractures in a target geologic formation to enhance production of oil and/or natural gas. The sand or other proppant material holds the fractures open.

How large are the fractures caused by hydraulic fracturing?

The diameter of these fractures are minute, generally half the size of a human hair. The fracture length is specifically designed by the operator for the specifics of the reservoir, well and areas characteristics and can range from 100 feet to several hundred feet.

What is in hydraulic fracturing fluids?

Water generally makes up about 99.5 percent of hydraulic fracturing fluid with additives generally representing less than 0.5 percent of the total fluid volume. Although industry may have more than 200 compounds that can be used in a hydraulic fracturing fluid, any single fracturing job may use only a handful of the available additives.

Each additive serves a specific, engineered purpose. The predominant fluids (See Oil Productivity, page 6)

Former DA Kingston sentenced for DWI

Former 106th District Attorney Brian Kingston, 54, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, with the term suspended, plus six months of community supervision, a fine of $750 plus court costs, and must attend and complete a 15-hour DWI education program within the next six months.

As part of a plea bargain agreement, Kingston, 54, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, with the term suspended, plus six months of community supervision, a fine of $750 plus court costs, and must attend and complete a 15-hour DWI education program within the next six months.

Kingston was arrested and charged with DWI following a traffic stop six miles east of Seminole on Sept. 9, 2011. At that time he was district attorney for Lynn, Gaines, Dawson and Garza counties. He was defeated in the Republican Party primary in 2012 by Mike Munk of Post, who took over the district attorney's office in January.

Tahoka Police investigated two reports of burglaries of vehicles last week, both reported March 4. A 4-gallon twin tank air compressor valued at $900 was stolen from the back of a pickup owned by Norman Kelln Jr. while it was parked in the driveway of a residence on N. 6th St. A Philips stereo/TV/VCR and two knives were reported stolen from a 2012 Chevrolet pickup owned by Matthew Steven, while the pickup was parked at a residence on N. 2nd St. Items stolen from Steven were valued at a total of $450.

Nineteen persons were being held in Lynn County jail early this week, with five held for Andrews County and one for Gaines County. Three persons jailed in the last week were charged with assault causing bodily injury family violence, driving while intoxicated, and displaying a suspended drivers license.

Girl Power ...

Alvarado, White set Regional records, now head for State Powerlifting Meet

Two Tahoka High School students, Lisa Marie Alvarado and Dastine White, have set regional records at the Regional Girls Powerlifting Meet and will head to State competition this week.

Alvarado placed first at the regional meet and set a new regional record on the bench press with 230 lbs. She now holds the regional record on the squat, bench press, and total pounds lifted. White placed second and set a new regional record on the deadlift event with a lift of 380 lbs.

Larissa Garcia also competed at the regional meet placing 7th, and Adriana Salinas competed, placing 8th.

Alvarado and White will be traveling to Corpus Christi this week to compete in the State Powerlifting meet on Saturday. Brandon Hopper is the head coach for the THS girls powerlifting team.

We like Sandee! ... Sandee the Therapy Dog visited students at Tahoka Elementary Library last Tuesday, March 5. Sandee is licensed through Therapy Dogs International along with her handler and owner, Dina Hammonds. These Kindergarten students read to the dog during their intervention reading group time and even learned some facts about dogs as well. Mrs. Hammonds and Sandee will be visiting the school periodically for the rest of the school year.

Irene Wuensche

Irene (Kieschnick) Wuensche, 92, of Brady, formerly of San Angelo, passed away Friday, March 8, 2013, in Brady. Visitation was held Wednesday, March 13, at Trinity Lutheran Church in San Angelo, with services immediately following at 3:00 p.m. Interment was at Lawnhaven Memorial Garden in San Angelo.

Irene was born on February 11, 1921, in Vernon, to Arthur Kieschnick and Lydia (Hildebrandt) Kieschnick. She married Albert Herman Wuensche on January 1, 1941, in Wilson. She was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church in San Angelo, Texas.

Irene's faith was a very important part of her life and she took the role of Pastor's wife to heart. She was a supporting force in Albert's 35-year career as Pastor in such places as South Dakota and Michigan; and, several towns in Texas; Hamilton, Ballinger,

City election to have contested race, other ballots cancelled

Tahoka City Council met Monday night in regular session, taking action to cancel two of the three elections scheduled for May 11, due to unopposed candidates for two positions. The mayoral election and council member for District 3 election were both cancelled, as both incumbents are unchallenged in their bids for reelection, for Mayor John Baker and council member Amy Preston.

The other election, for council member District 1, will be held as scheduled, with incumbent Rudy Fuentes facing challenger Justin Antu for the two-year term. Early voting for the election will be conducted April 29-May 7.

In other business, city officials renewed a license agreement with Aurora Cooperative Elevator Co. doing business as Plains Aerial to act as the T-Bar Airport fixed base operator, and approved an ordinance for records management as required by the Texas Local Government Code.

Monthly bills were approved as presented.

AN OLD SAYING about the month of March is "If March comes in like a lion, it will go out like a lamb." Sandi Duncan, editor of the Farmers' Almanac, says this particular saying might be true in many years, but is not a scientifically true weather predictor. She noted that people like to think that if bad weather happens, it surely will get better pretty soon, like by the end of the month.

Since it has been a couple of weeks already, I don't really remember if the weather was lousy on March 1. But, according to the Farmers' Almanac, here is what may happen in our neck of the woods, as the guy says on the Today show:

More occasional rain in the next several days, some clear weather in the middle of the month, pleasant March 24-27, then gusty thunderstorms in north Texas around the end of the month, which I guess means the month will go out more lionish than lambish.

How can the almanac predict the weather a year ahead of time when the weather people on TV don't always get it right, even with their daily information? Someone with rheumatism in his knee probably could do as well as these so-called meteorologists.

Come to think of it, I have some arthritis in one of my knees, so here is my prediction for Lynn County weather in the next few weeks: windy, with a chance of earthquakes.

Okay, so earthquakes are pretty unlikely, but there's always a tiny possibility, and won't I look smart if we have one? (Unless I fall into a crevice).

The Almanac editor listed some other March-related folklore sayings:

A dry March and a wet May? Fill barns with corn and hay. (Not so easy to do in Lynn County).

As it rains in March, so it rains in June.

March winds and April showers bring forth May flowers. (Al Jolson used to sing about April showers bringing May flowers, but I never heard that the wind in March had anything to do with flowers).

Candidate withdraws from WISD election

A candidate has withdrawn his name from the Wilson Independent School District Board of Trustees election, according to information from school officials this week. Candidate Les Walker, one of only two candidates who have filed for the three positions open on the school board, has officially withdrawn his candidacy.

The withdrawal leaves only incumbent Doug Bolyard as the sole candidate, with three seats to be filled on the WISD Board.

God's Word Read: Psalms 1:1-3 Without strong roots, a tree won't grow and produce fruit. Deep roots are a source of sustenance and an anchor in storms. You need to be strongly rooted in God for the same reasons. So, how do you develop roots? Absorb God's Word daily. As life gets busier, this may require creativity. During your child's baseball practice, memorize Bible verses you keep on cards in your purse or wallet. Use your lunch hour to read your Bible. Listen to the Bible on CD while you drive. County contracts locally for computer services

Lynn County Commissioners met in regular session Monday morning, approving a contract with West Texas Computer Services owned by Timothy Pledger of Tahoka for computer services at county offices at the courthouse. The agreement was approved at $750 per month, according to the contract document.

In other business, commissioners were to open sealed bids for the purchase and removal of building material located on the property commonly referred to as the former Louder Gin, but no action was taken as no bids were submitted.

Additional funds for temporary help at the county Tax Assessor's office was approved, and Tax Assessor Donna Willis informed commissioners of a bill in the legislature for the provision of renewal and duplicated driver's licenses and other identification certificate services that, if passed, would be maintained by the county.

The county payroll schedule was changed from bi-monthly to every two weeks, with the change to take effect in June. The new schedule provides for a more routine payment period for county employees.

Sheriff Jerry D. Franklin reported that the county jail has passed a state inspection. Commissioners were informed that county officials met with Texas Association of Counties (TAC) insurance representatives regarding the county's disagreement over county property appraisal values for insurance purposes, and TAC agreed to have the property reappraised by a different appraiser.

Monthly bills were approved, and commissioners adjourned at 10:30 a.m. County Judge H.G. Franklin presided at the meeting, with all four commissioners present including Keith Wied, Mike Braddock, Don Blair and Danny Martin, as well as other county officials.

Letters to the Editor

Thank you for the 2012 U Can Share Food Drive

To the citizens of Tahoka,

This letter is a little late coming, but not any less deserving. The 2012 U Can Share Food Drive struggled a bit this year, but was still able to make a wonderful impact. The support of the people who generously donated their time and support to the food drive is definitely felt and appreciated.

In 2012 the citizens of Tahoka collected 1,609 lbs of food and $376. I could not have done it without my faithful volunteers Dina, Heather, Carissa, Jennifer, Jerry, and the FBC Tahoka 4th-6th grade GA's. I definitely could not have done it without each one of y'all who donated food to the food drive at any of the donation locations.

The Church of Christ Food Pantry and Lynn County Senior Citizens Center truly appreciate the support of the members of this wonderful community. Once again I am blessed by this wonderfully generous community. I look forward to the next food drive and to see what God has in store.

Elizabeth Tew,
U Can Share
Food Drive Coordinator

Thank you, Tahoka

On Saturday, March 2, "Love Your Pet" vaccination clinic took place at the old fire station behind City Hall. The weather was fairly agreeable, a bit nippy, but sunny and most of the pets wore their best furs. There were lots of animated conversations and interactive moments...but no one asked for "seconds". Most pets are now protected for another whole year.

From the bottom of my heart, Animal Housecalls wishes to recognize with great gratitude and honor the best of the year volunteers. Ann Patterson was the "head honcho" (or maybe her little shadow, her little miniature poodle, "Patches", who came even though he had just a few days prior had a dewclaw removed - BRAVO Patches!) at the writing of everybody's Rabies certificates with the zillion words of information required. Ann and Alicia Kelso traded off to preserve hands that did not succumb to writer's cramps. Both Ann and Alicia took turns, also, of holding pets or distracting them by the loving attention "in your face" for those who were still trying to decide if the wanted vaccinations, nail trims, or yummy worm medicine. Alicia was a true "vet tech" in action as she trimmed nails and held squirming, wiggly "volunteers" like an immovable oak tree! Manuel DeLeon and his son Nikolas, outdid "Batman and Robin" in their team togetherness. Not only did they step up to quickly do any job immediately needed as the group dynamics were ever changing, but they did the job well. How's that for on-the-job training? Manuel held down any size dog that getting a nail trim and desperately needed what the lion needed in the Wizard of Oz... courage! They also unloaded everything but the kitchen sink, and then likewise helped us reload. Nikolas was quick to anticipate any uncooperative pet and he held feet like in a vise that were getting trimmed. Everyone helped put together the little brown "lunch sacks" that contained papers and tags so nothing was lost and the treasures were easy to carry away. The community of Tahoka is greatly appreciated. Everyone who loved their pet by getting veterinary care, and everyone who volunteered in any way, the day of, and beforehand with getting the word out, Penny Redman and Retha Pittman at City Hall, Mary Mahurin and Slate May at the high school, and many others by word of mouth that are too numerous to count, and Pam Elrod, Juanel Jones and Vendell Elliott at the Lynn County News.

I have given back a contribution to the community, to the (Tahoka) Lynn County Animal Services. Sincerely,
Dr. Penny C. Kelso, D.V.M.

POKA LAMBRO Telephone Cooperative, Inc.

PO Box 1340 Tahoka, Texas 79373
806-924-7234 800-422-2387

PUBLIC NOTICE: Poka Lambro Telephone Cooperative, Inc. is designated by the Public Utility Commission of Texas as the "Eligible Telecommunications Carrier" for its service area for universal service purposes. The goal of universal service is to provide all citizens access to essential telecommunications services. Poka Lambro provides single party residence and business service for rates which range from $12.22/$13.44 per month for residential customers to $17.40 per month for business customers. ($1.00 touch tone dialing charge is incorporated into access line rates.) Emergency 911 Service Fee is $.50.

Poka Lambro provides voice grade access to the public switched network, unlimited local usage, dual tone multi-frequency signaling, access to toll service, access to inter-exchange carriers, and access to 911 emergency services. Poka Lambro also provides access to operator services as well as access to directory assistance services. Each local exchange service line is provided with a primary directory listing and receives an annual Poka Lambro telephone directory free of charge. Poka Lambro's basic local service also provides access to telecommunications relay service and the ability to report service problems 24 hours a day/seven days a week.

Basic services are offered to all consumers in the Cooperative's service territory at the rates, terms and conditions specified in the Cooperative's tariff on file with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC). If you have questions regarding Poka Lambro's services or rates, please call 806-924-7234 or toll free 800-422-2387.

Poka Lambro offers reduced rates to eligible low-income residential consumers under a government assistance program called Lifeline. Lifeline provides monthly discounts to an eligible customer's voice telephony service (home or wireless service, but not both). Customers who are eligible for Lifeline are also eligible for toll blocking at no charge. To be eligible for Lifeline a customer's annual household income must be at or below 150% of the federal poverty guidelines, or a customer must receive benefits from or have a child in the household who receives benefits from at least one of the following programs: Medicaid; Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) (formerly Food Stamps); Supplemental Security Income (SSI); Federal Public Housing Assistance (FPHA); Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP); Temporary Assistance for Needy Families; National School Lunch Program's free lunch program; or health benefits coverage under the state Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP). Lifeline is limited to one discount per household. A household is everyone who lives in the home (including children and people who are not related to the customer) and shares income and household expenses (bills, food, etc.). A customer with Lifeline service may not transfer the Lifeline benefit to any other person. Lifeline is a nontransferable benefit. Additional information may be obtained by contacting Poka Lambro at 806-924-7234 or toll free 800-422-2387, or by contacting the Low-Income Discount Administrator (LIDA) at 1-866-454-8387 (1-866-4-LITE-UP) currently being used for fracture treatments in the gas shale plays are water-based (slickwater) fracturing fluids. Slickwater fracturing fluids are water-based fluids mixed with friction reducing additives, primarily potassium chloride (a common table salt substitute). The addition of friction reducers allows fracturing fluids and proppant (sand or other materials used to "prop" open the fractures) to be pumped to the target zone at a higher rate and reduced pressure than if water alone were used. In addition to friction reducers, other additives include: biocides to prevent micro-organism growth and to reduce biofouling of the fractures; oxygen scavengers and other stabilizers which prevent corrosion of metal pipes; and acids which are used to remove drilling mud buildup within or near the wellbore area.

The adoption of the Hydraulic

Fracturing Disclosure Rule requires operators to list on the FracFocus Internet website the specific fluids used in their hydraulic fracturing treatments.

Does hydraulic fracturing impact groundwater?

Hydraulic fracturing has been an environmentally safe process for more than 60 years in Texas. The Railroad Commission has a comprehensive regulatory framework to ensure usable quality groundwater is protected. The Railroad Commission of Texas bases its regulatory decisions on science and fact. No studies have linked the practice of hydraulic fracturing to any cases of groundwater contamination in Texas. The Commission's stringent rules on how oil and gas wells are constructed, requiring several layers of steel casing and cement protection through aquifers, also have been essential in ensuring that hydraulic fracturing does not impact Texas groundwater.

How does the commission protect groundwater?

Any time a well is drilled in Texas including an oil, gas or injection/disposal well, Commission rules require that surface casing in the well be set below the depth of usable quality water to protect the state's water resources. Because usable quality water levels vary throughout the State, the Commission's Groundwater Advisory Unit performs an essential function in determining specific groundwater protection depths for each new well.

The Commission's rules include strict well construction requirements that require several layers of steel casings and cement to protect groundwater.

The first protection layer for usable quality groundwater in a well is the surface casing, a steel pipe that is encased in cement that reaches from the ground surface to below the deepest usable quality groundwater level. Surface casing acts as a protective sleeve through which deeper drilling occurs.

The second protection layer for usable quality groundwater is the production casing, a pipe placed in the wellbore to the well's total depth and permanently cemented in place. Some operators inject fracturing fluid in this casing. Depending on the fracturing pressure needed, other operators use a third protection layer by injecting fracturing fluid in the tubing string that conducts the fracturing fluid to the zone to be perforated and fractured. In addition, Commission rules require gauges that monitor these casings at the surface, so if there is a downhole problem, it is easily and quickly identified. For fracturing fluid to affect the usable quality water, a leak in the well would have to go through several layers of protection and several layers of casing to leak outside of the wellbore.

I've heard of groundwater contamination in other states - why not in Texas?

In addition to the Commission's strict well construction requirements and rigorous regulatory oversight, Texas is blessed with a geology that not all states enjoy. Hydraulic fracturing in Texas typically occurs a mile or more below aquifers, with many thousands of feet of isolating rock in between fresh water zones and the hydrocarbon-bearing zones that are hydraulically fractured. For example, freshwater zones vary throughout the Barnett Shale region, which can range from the surface to a depth of 2,000 feet. Before you get to the Barnett Shale formation, there is another 4,000 to 6,000 feet of isolating rock protecting the fresh water zones. The tight shale hydraulic fracturing that is occurring in the Barnett Shale is more than a mile deep at depths of between 6,000 and 7,500 feet.

How much water is used to hydraulically fracture wells?

The amount of water needed to perform hydraulic fracturing on a well is highly variable and depends on the formation that is undergoing hydraulic fracturing and whether the well being fractured is a vertical well or a horizontal well.

In the Barnett Shale, hydraulic fracturing of a vertical well completion can use 1.2 million gallons (28,000 barrels) of water, while the fracturing of a horizontal well completion can use 3.5 million gallons (over 83,000 barrels) of water.

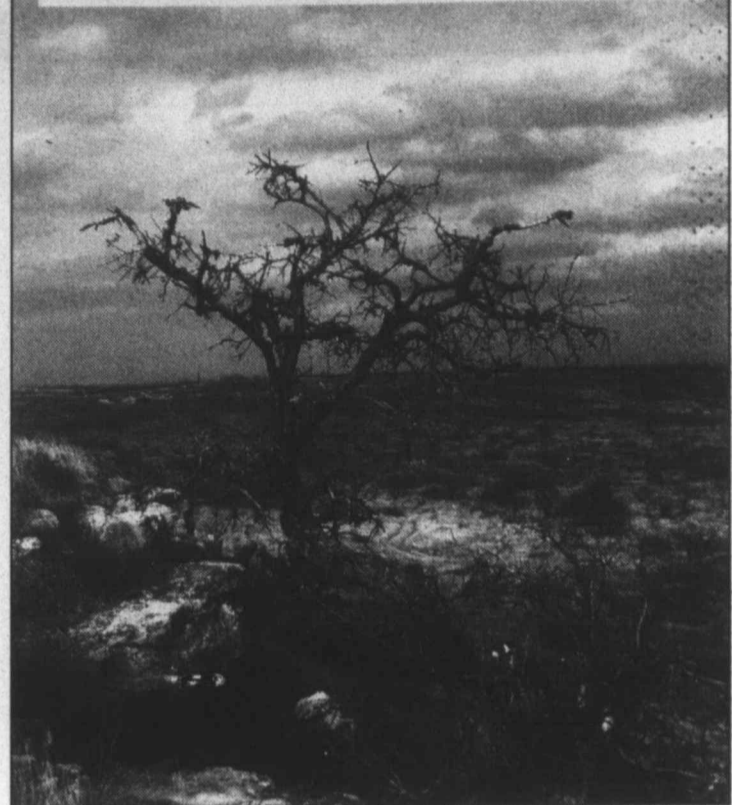

The amount of water used in hydraulic fracturing is relatively small when compared to other water uses such as agriculture, manufacturing and municipal water supply.

According to the Texas Water Development Board (TWDB), irrigation accounts for the largest share of the state's total current water demand, roughly 60 percent, and projected water needs are expected to increase most in the area of municipal water use in the coming decades. In comparison, hydraulic fracturing and total mining water use continue to represent less than one percent of statewide water use, although percentages can be larger in some localized areas.

The Commission recognizes concerns over water use in hydraulic fracturing and has given approval to, and encouraged, operators' requests for recycling projects aimed at reducing the amount of fresh water used in oil and gas exploration and production.

New treatment technologies are making it possible to recycle water recovered from hydraulic fracturing, including the reuse of treated flowback fluids. Additionally, operators are exploring using lesser quality water (non-potable water) for hydraulic fracturing. The Commission encourages such industry innovations.

Wildlife habitat ... Mesquite, like this one at Tahoka Lake Pasture, is an extremely hardy, drought-tolerant plant because it can draw water from the water table through its long taproot (recorded at up to 190 ft depth). It can also use water in the upper part of the ground, depending upon availability. The tree can easily and rapidly switch from using one water source to the other. Mesquite trees grow quickly and furnish shade and wildlife habitat where other trees will not grow. (PHOTO BY Donna Chaffin)

Bulldogs go 2-1 in Ralls tourney, oust Coyotes in district opener

Tahoka went 2-1 in the Ralls baseball tournament the first weekend in March, falling in the first game to Lubbock Coronado's Junior Varsity squad 6-5 in their first game, but taking care of the Seagraves Eagles 11-1 and the Plains Cowboys 10-1.

Coronado wins in last at bat

In a hard-fought game, it took Coronado's last at bat to secure a win against the Tahoka Bulldogs. The game was back and forth as Tahoka jumped out to an early lead with a single to open the game by Trystan Hilger. Hilger would advance to third on an errant pickoff move by Coronado. Hilger would score on a sacrifice fly by Ethan Curry to take an early lead, 1-0.

Coronado would get one in the first inning to tie it and score 2 more in the 2nd inning to put them up 3-1. But Tahoka would answer back in the top of the 3rd. The rally would be started by the bat of Kordell Baker. Baker led off the inning with one of his two hits and later stole 2nd base to set up an RBI single by Hilger. Tahoka would take on two more runs in the top of the 4th inning. A lead-off walk to Swade Hammonds would start the rally, and consecutive bunts by Isaiah Arce and Baker, that were misplayed by the Mustangs, gave the Bulldogs the lead late in the game. They were unable to hold onto the lead and eventually fell in the late innings to Coronado, 6-5.

On the mound, Tahoka was represented by right-hander Ethan Curry. Curry went 5 1/3 innings in the loss. He struck out 6 and gave up 4 earned runs.

Seagraves handed loss

Tahoka was able to bounce back to beat Seagraves 11-1 in the second game of the Ralls Tournament on Friday afternoon. Tahoka would pound out 14 hits in the winning effort with 3 of those coming off the bat of Swade Hammonds. Hammonds also knocked in 5 runs on a couple of doubles in the 2nd and 4th innings.

On the mound Tahoka was led by Caellan Decker. The junior pitched four innings of one run ball while striking out 4 for the win. Sophomore, Isaiah Arce worked one inning of scoreless relief to finish off the Eagles.

Bulldogs top Plains

Tahoka kept things rolling on Saturday afternoon in the Consolation Championship of the Ralls Tournament as they defeated the Plains Cowboys by a score of 10-1. Tahoka showed patience at the plate as they walked 6 times in the contest. They only had 5 hits, but they made every one of them count. The game started with a five of sophomore junior varsity players. Both Santiago Martinez and Anthony Martinez helped get the Bulldogs scoring started in the second inning with back-to-back singles that drove in two runs in the Bulldogs three-run second inning.

The Bulldogs were led at the plate by senior Jacob Arriazola, who knocked in 3 runs on a pair of doubles in the second and third innings. Tahoka used the 30-40 mile per hour wind to their advantage as they swiped 14 bases in the contest. Leaders in that category were Kordell Baker with 3 and Isaiah Arce with 2.

Tahoka combined the efforts of 4 pitchers, John Ryan Barrientez, Ethan Curry, Swade Hammonds, and Kordell Baker, to stymie the Hermleigh offense. The four pitchers combined to strikeout 12 Cardinal batters and only give up 3 earned runs.

The Bulldogs continue their district schedule this week as they host the Ira Bulldogs on Thursday in Tahoka at 2 p.m. and travel to Crosbyton to take on the Chiefs on Saturday at noon.
