Local office to offer photo IDs for voters

by JUANELL JONES

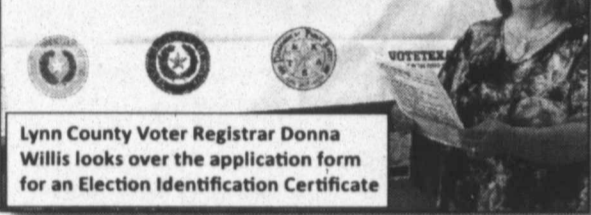

Beginning Monday, the Lynn County Voter Registrar's Office, located in the county annex office at 1521 Ave. J in Tahoka, will offer a new service – an Election Identification Certificate (EIC) photo identification for voting. Lynn County Tax Assessor-Collector Donna Willis, who is also the Voter Registrar for Lynn County, said this week that her office can now provide the service for free for any registered voter who does not currently have another form of photo ID.

New state laws require all voters to present a photo ID, such as a current driver's license or passport, to vote in any election in Texas. If a voter does not have a valid photo ID, then they may apply for the EIC photo identification at the local office.

The upcoming Nov. 5 elections, including the General Election for Constitutional Amendments, the O'Donnell ISD Tax Ratification Election, and the New Home ISD Bond Election, will all require voters to present valid photo IDs to election officials before they may receive a ballot – even if the official has known the voter for many years.

"All election officials are now required by state law to ask voters to provide a Voter Registration Card and a valid photo ID," explained County Clerk Susan Tipton, who is also the election administrator for Lynn County. "In small communities like ours in Lynn County, the requirement may seem extreme to those voters who may have known the election officials for many years, but regardless, all election officials must see each voter's photo ID – it's the law," she said.

Those who have a current, valid Texas Driver's License or U.S. passport, or some other valid photo ID, won't need the Election Identification Certificate (EIC) photo ID.

"In fact," says Willis, "you won't be allowed to apply for an EIC if you already have a valid photo ID. The EIC is only for those who do not have some other form of photo identification, and the EIC is only good for voting – it cannot be used anywhere else as a valid photo ID," she added.

Ghost Stories Due Oct. 25th

LCN wants ghostly tales of county places

Things that go bump in the night. Odd noises that can't be explained. Lights that should not be on. Ghostly shadows that move when no one is there, or items that get moved from one place to another.

These are the stories of unexplainable incidents that most every family can share, if not from their own experience then from another family member. If it takes place in Lynn County, or happened to someone from Lynn County, or is in any way connected to the county, then we want your story. Share your story and make our spines tingle – it's all in good fun, and we know the stories are out there, but we need your stories no later than Oct. 25.

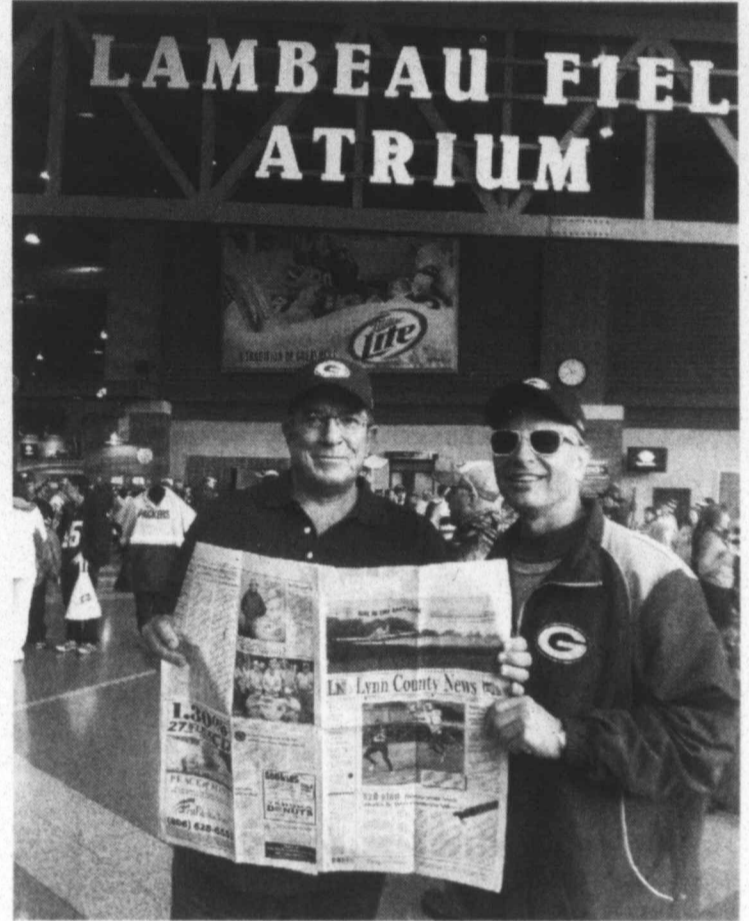

Send us your story by email (LynnCoNews@poka.com), tell us on the Lynn County News facebook page, or write us a letter (P.O. Box 1170, Tahoka, TX 79373). We will gather all the stories for a special spine-tingling

"ghost story edition" of The Lynn County News on October 31.

Share your stories with us – if you are okay with us using your name for submitting the story, great! If you want to submit the story but don't want your name published, tell us and we will withhold your name when we print the story – but you will miss the fun of enjoying the "notoriety" of telling "your" story. Either way, we want your tales of ghostly lore. If you have a photo to submit with the story, that's even better – that shows the place of the event, or the person telling the story – anything at all will be appreciated.

Scare vs. We dare you. ... "We ain't afraid of no ghosts!"

- Texas Driver license issued by the Texas Department of Public Safety
- Texas Election Identification Certificate (EIC)
- Texas personal identification card issued by DPS
- Texas concealed handgun license issued by DPS
- United States military identification card containing the person's photograph
- United States passport

"An applicant for an EIC must present certain documentation proving they are a U.S. citizen, such as a birth certificate or naturalization papers, or other documents (call for more information)," explained Willis. "There is a one-page application form that must be completed as well, and then we can take a photo here at our office and print out a page that will be a valid photo ID that they can take to the polls to vote. Within a few days, the applicant will receive an EIC card in the mail that will replace the printed paper they received at our office, and that EIC card may be used as a valid photo ID for voting only — it's not good for anything other than voting," she stressed.

New Deal zaps Bulldogs, 49-16

The unbeaten New Deal Lions were too strong for Tahoka last Friday, and the Lions beat the visiting Bulldogs 49-16 in the district 2-A (Division I) opener.

It was the second game in a row for the Bulldogs to face unbeaten, state-ranked teams, losing to No. 7 Anson and then to No. 12 New Deal. This week, Coach John Cornelius and the Bulldogs will be at home against Sundown, which was open last week and is 3-3 for the year. It will be the first district game for Sundown.

Tahoka, now 3-4 overall and 0-1 in district, has had success against Sundown in the past, even when the Roughnecks were strong favorites.

The Lions scored 21 points in the first quarter, and were 14-0 ahead before Tahoka running back Xavier Pinkard ran 2 yards for a touchdown and QB Trystan Hilger ran for 2 points to cut the lead to 14-8.

That was as close as the Bulldogs got, as LaDareon Hunter led New Deal's ground attack with four touchdowns and 114 yards.

Bulldog running back Ke' Shawn Hood gained 105 yards on 16 carries, and scored on a 3-yard run in the third quarter. Hilger added 40 on 13 carries and twice ran for extra points.

Linebacker Ray Farmer led the defense and was counted in on 16 tackles. Also doing well on defense were Santiago Martinez, Dillon Trevino, Dom Herrera and Isiah Vega.

by Dalton Woodwork

WHEN I FIRST heard (on the Today Show last week) about a Brooklyn restaurant that has banned conversation during meals, my first thought was that this will never work, because nearly everyone likes to talk while eating out. But after I later checked for details, I decided it might be a popular policy after all.

For one thing, the restaurant only schedules the silent meals once every few weeks, so it might be a welcome concept. According to one report, restaurant noise is the second most common complaint of diners—next to poor service—with 19 percent citing loud noise as the biggest irritant.

The name of the restaurant in Brooklyn, which is trying the silent meals, is Eat. The owner probably has a dog named Dog and a cat named Cat.

Anyway, the restaurant that serves local, organic foods hosted its first silent meal, serving a $40, four-course dinner to 17 patrons. The only rule was no talking.

The owner told the patrons they must not talk for 90 minutes during meals, so the patrons can focus more on the taste, texture and nutritional value of the food. The patrons were warned that rule-breakers would have to finish their meals on a bench outside, and reportedly most people followed the rules.

The meal featured chili basil summer squash soup, something called arugula salad with a curry vinaigrette and Rupert cheese, plus whole-wheat pasta with eggplant puree or scallops and calamari.

It's a good thing I wasn't there. I would have stood up and loudly demanded my $40 back (and wound up outside on the bench). I'm not sure any of that stuff is edible.

A few restaurants have banned cell phones, which is a good idea. It's rude to use a cell phone in a public place, unless it's an emergency.

Many restaurants are too noisy, especially for us older people. I know one place in Slaton that has the best food and the worst music in North America. Noise is not a problem with any of Lynn County's great eating places, though. Don't look for any of the local restaurants to set any rules about being quiet for 90 minutes. I know some people who just can't go that long anywhere without yakking.

WHAT I LEFT OUT: The name of the really neat 104-year-old I mentioned last week (the woman who told me her mother sold a cow to buy a piano) is Lannie Ruth Marlar, a resident of Elmbrook Estates in Lubbock.

Tahoka Rotary Club News

This week's Tahoka Rotary Club meeting was called to order by Club President Jana Bishop. There were 25 members present. Treasurer, Ray Box, reported that the club raised approximately $2,600 at the Harvest Festival.

The program was given by Mary Gayle Raindl. She shared with the club about her business and the benefits of massage therapy, and presented information about the possibility of an accredited massage therapist school in Tahoka.

The Tahoka Rotary Club meets every Thursday at 12:05 P.M. in the Life Enrichment Center.

St. Joseph Sausage Festival Set in Slaton

The St. Joseph 44th Annual German Sausage Festival will be held Sunday, Oct. 20, at 20th and Division St. in Slaton. Dinner will be served from 11:00 until 3:00. Take-outs will be available at the south side of the hall. Adult plates are $9 and children $6. The Funfest will be held at St. Joseph's, from 11:00-4:00, with games, music, and more. On Saturday, uncooked and vacuum sealed sausage will be sold by the pound from 9:00 a.m. until 1:00. Cash and checks preferred. Credit cards will be accepted.

Because of you we raised over $2,500 for the City-County Library through our annual Silent Auction.

A sincere THANKS is extended to you for donating items, bidding on and buying the offered items, or making monetary donations. This is much needed funding for operating the library and purchasing books and supplies during the coming year.

Again, many thanks for making this year's Silent Auction a tremendous success!

The Greatest Commandments
Matthew 22:34-40

We learn from this, that God does not rest satisfied with the outward appearance of works, but chiefly demands the inward feelings, that from a good root good fruits may grow" (John Calvin). Love is not primarily a feeling, but Jesus certainly wants feeling and action to agree. We must act in a loving way even if the feeling is not present, but to feel love while acting is even better. Pray that your actions would always be a result of the love you possess.

Obituaries

Martha Pearl Cooley Miller

Martha Pearl Cooley Miller, 76, passed away on Friday, October 11, 2013 after a long illness. Pearl was born in Anson, Jones County, Texas, on February 22, 1936, to Earl Leo and Izora Mae (Moore) Cooley. She was the only girl of four children, with two older brothers: Charles Stanford and Joe Earl, and one younger, Burl Leo, all of whom survive her.

When she was a little girl, the family relocated from Anson to Dawson County, where her father raised dry-land cotton. There she attended school in O'Donnell, where she graduated High School in 1954. That was the year that she made the acquaintance of her future husband, Edward Eugene Miller, of Tahoka. In September, with their two best friends, they drove across the state line to Oklahoma, and were married in Hollis, Harmon County.

Their first child, Gary Edward, was born a year later, followed in 1959 by Jeana Ruth and

New Home bops Wellman 59-12

Jonathan Flores rushed for 266 yards and 7 touchdowns in just one half of action as New Home overpowered Wellman-Union 59-12 last week in a game called at halftime on the six-man 45-point rule.

The win left the Leopards at 3-3 for the season, second best in the district behind Southland (4-3), but no district games have been played yet.

Flores scored early on a 54-yard run, but Wellman-Union tied the game at 6 when Braden Caldwell returned the ensuing kickoff 49 yards.

Still in the first period, Flores ran 24 yards to score, and Mariano Torres scored on a 4-yard run for the Leopards. Wellman closed to within 7 points as Colby Chase passed 41 yards to Luis Gonzalez for a touchdown, but the game was all New Home's after that.

Flores scored on runs of 50, 45, 6, 15, and 19 yards before halftime, and D.J. Ussery scored on a 14-yard pass from Blaine Watts, who completed 4 of 8 passes for 66 yards in the game.

Commissioners approve Voter Registrar's office for electronic ID cards

Lynn County Commissioners met Tuesday morning, giving their approval for the Lynn County Voter Registrar's office to administer Electronic Identification Certificates (EIC) through a program sponsored by the Texas Department of Public Safety. The equipment for the program is provided by the state, at no cost to the county, and will provide a free service to registered voters in the county who need a valid photo ID to present when voting (see related story).

In other business, commissioners approved a resolution authorizing application through SPAG for a grant to be administered by Lynn County Pioneers Senior Citizens Center for providing home-delivered meals to homebound or elderly persons. The grant is sought annually to fund the program.

Commissioners also approved a new county application permit to cross county roads, which would be applicable for those companies that seek permission to cross a county road to construct pipelines or utilities.

End-of-fiscal-year budget amendments were approved in several departments, and monthly bills were approved. County Judge H.G. Franklin led the session, with all four commissioners present.

Tahoka's Harold & Bettye Green making history: West Texas couple to attend 68th straight Baylor Homecoming this weekend

POSTED BY THE BAYLOR PROUD TEAM IN ALUMNI, EXTRAORDINARY STORIES
This article was posted Oct. 15, 2013 on the Baylor University website (www2.baylor.edu)

You might say that Harold (BA '49, JD '51) and Bettye (BA '46) Green are the Baylor Homecoming king and queen.

They won't be crowned this weekend. The Homecoming court will, in fact, be several decades younger than Harold and Bettye. But you'd be hard-pressed to deny them the title when you learn that they've been as constant a presence as football and parades; this weekend will mark the 68th consecutive Baylor Homecoming they've attended.

"We came to our first one after we were married on March 22, 1946," Bettye says. "It's just a habit. There's nowhere else we'd want to go."

The Greens make the 345-mile trek from their home in Tahoka, Texas (30 miles south of Lubbock) for nearly every home Baylor football game, with Homecoming weekend serving as the highlight of every autumn.

Of course, you don't attend an event for nearly 70 years without a close call here and there. Harold and Bettye remember twice thinking they might not make it.

"Many years ago, I was working on a trial," remembers Harold, an attorney. "The judge knew

I loved Baylor and wanted to go to Homecoming. He told me, 'I'll tell you on Friday if I think you'll be able to make it. But tell your wife to pack and be ready just in case.' I didn't think it was going to happen. But late that Friday afternoon, he called me over and said, 'Call your wife. Tell her you all are going to Waco at 5 o'clock.' And we drove there that night and were there for the game the next day."

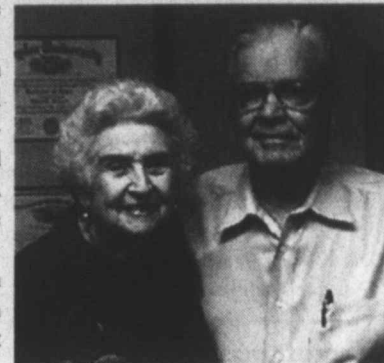

Bettye overcame a major injury in 1986 to keep the streak alive. "I broke my hip and was in the hospital for three weeks," she says. "That was in early October. Thankfully, Homecoming was in late October that year. Just before the weekend, I got out of the hospital, I got a wheelchair, and I told the doctor, 'We're going.' And sure enough, we made it. We sat in the handicapped section and made it just fine."

For Harold and Bettye, the chance to attend another Homecoming is a connection not only to their past, but to the institution that remains an integral part of their lives.

"I can't explain it," Harold says. "When you're from Baylor, you're from somewhere special. People know us as the Baylor couple. So many of our classmates aren't around anymore. We just enjoy being able to still come."

Sic 'em, Harold and Bettye!
