A Century of Service:

AgriLife Extension Service observes 100th year; 95th in Lynn County

by JUANELL JONES

In May, the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service observed the 100th anniversary of the signing of the federal law that embarked a century of assistance to Americans with information and programs ranging from water conservation, gardening, agriculture and wildlife services, and food and nutrition services, for youth and adults.

The Smith-Lever Act, signed on May 8, 1914, provided for cooperative agricultural extension work at the nation's land-grant colleges. Headquartered at Texas A&M University in College Station, AgriLife Extension is a member of The Texas A&M University System. It is linked in a unique partnership with the nationwide Cooperative Extension System through the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture's National Institute of Food and Agriculture through Texas county governments. County governments help provide locations and funding for county Extension office facilities, oversee budgets and appropriations, and help AgriLife Extension staff identify program goals. County Extension offices are located in 250 of Texas' 254 counties, and Extension serves every county.

In Lynn County, the Extension program is 95 years old, and has played an important role in the county's history since the first agent came to Tahoka in 1919. Current county agents Bryan Reynolds and Wendy Scott presented the Extension Service's "Building a Better Texas Award" to the Lynn County Commissioners Court last week in appreciation for their continued partnership in providing extension programs to Lynn County. The agents presented highlights of Extension Service programs in Lynn County during the past year, and told county officials how much they appreciated the county's support and enthusiasm for Extension programs.

"We want our county governments to know how much we appreciate the partnership we have developed over the years," said Reynolds. "Without their support, we would not have been able to serve the people of Lynn County as well as we have, and many Texans would have missed opportunities to benefit the practical, university-based information that Extension offers."

In addition to providing dozens of popular programs for youth and adults in a variety of topics, Extension agents work one on one with local farmers, ranchers and landowners, providing invaluable assistance in wildlife services, diagnosing plant diseases, soil testing, pesticide applications, and more.

W.T. Howard served as the county's first agricultural extension agent in 1919, serving Lynn and Garza counties. The droughts of the late teens affected many farmers and Howard's job was assisting them as they began to farm this new land.

In May of 1919, Howard and D.T. Rogers helped organize the Boys' Pig Club, which would be a forerunner to the 4-H Club. Each Tahoka bank shipped in carloads of hogs and pigs, which were then sold to farmers. According to historical information, the first recorded dates of any county stock show was in 1921 when a Poultry and Fat Stock Show was held in the spring.

Early in 1924, A.L. Robertson became the first full-time Lynn County Farm Agent. That same year, in May, Miss Milie Halsey became the first Home Demonstration Agent. These two agents began organizing boys and girls clubs, which became the 4-H Club, and Halsey organized farm women's clubs.

Thousands of county youth have been involved in the Lynn County 4-H program since its inception in 1924 through the Extension Service. Numerous state winners in record books, judging contests, method demonstrations, food and fashion events, and shooting sports have been won by 4-H'ers from Lynn County, and hundreds of thousand of dollars in scholarships have helped 4-H'ers continue their education.

V.F. Jones, extension agent from 1933-1939, is credited with having a hand in bringing electricity to the rural areas of the county. He organized a meeting of county farmers in April of 1937 to explain the proposal of the Rural Electrification Administration. Extension agents also met in Terry and Garza counties. Later, the REA recommended the three counties form one cooperative, which was the beginning

Two burglaries in city under investigation

Tahoka Police Dept. investigated two burglaries reported in the last week, the latest one last Wednesday at the residence of Debbie Cloe.

Entry to her home was gained by forcing open the front door while the resident was absent. Stolen from the home were a Featherlite gas powered weed eater, an RCA DVD player and a 32-inch Sanyo TV. Total value of all the stolen items was estimated at $120.

Earlier last week, a Homelite 14-inch chainsaw valued at $110 was reported stolen in a burglary of a shed on N. 4th St., owned by Julio Gonzales.

During the week, police also arrested a man for disorderly conduct, located a runaway minor and investigated an alleged assault involving a young couple and custody of a child.

A female Tahoka ISD teacher is being investigated by Texas Rangers. Supt. Steve Bursleson confirmed this week, adding that she is on paid administrative leave until the investigation is completed. Supt. Bursleson declined further comment. The investigation allegedly concerns a possible inappropriate relationship between a female teacher and a male teenage student, but school officials would not confirm this information.

Lynn County Jail was holding 44 persons early this week, including 18 for Ector County, 6 for Dawson and one for Andrews County. Among the recent suspects jailed were one man on a forgery charge, one for disorderly conduct plus failure to identify to a peace officer, and others charged with purchasing and furnishing alcohol to a minor, motion to enforce on property division and child support, and theft of service greater than $1,500 and less than $520,000.

Tahoka pool now open

The Tahoka City Pool, located at South 8th and Ave. L, opened Wednesday, June 4 for the summer season. Pool hours are from 12:30-5:30 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday, and Sundays from 1-5 p.m.

Pool admission is $2, with individual season passes available for $75, and family passes for $150 (for immediate members of the family).

David Spruiell is returning as Pool Manager/Lifeguard, and Logan Tekell is returning as a lifeguard. Other lifeguards this year include Ian Zamarron and McKenzie Dimak. Call Spruiell to arrange for after-hours pool parties, at his cell number 806-577-8442, or the city pool number is 561-5012. A $10 usage fee must be paid at Tahoka City Hall for all pool parties, with the lifeguard fee paid to Spruiell, based on the number of hours for the party.

The Tahoka A.C.T. Board (Advancing the Community of Tahoka) has purchased three new metal shades that will be placed at the pool for more shade in the concrete areas, with one to be placed near the baby pool, one in the middle, and one on the far end near the diving board. The new shades are expected to be erected soon.

The water is fine ... Pool Manager/Lifeguard David Spruiell (in pool), Ian Zamarron (left) and Logan Tekell were busy Tuesday morning preparing the Tahoka City Pool for opening day on Wednesday. All are lifeguards for the summer, as well as McKenzie Dimak (not pictured). Pool hours are from 12:30-5:30 p.m. Wednesday-Saturday, and Sundays from 1-5 p.m. (LCN PHOTO)

by Dalton Woodwork

IT WAS SO DRY around here that everybody was spitting dirt, and in church Sunday, May 18, our preacher led us in a prayer for rain. Man, is he good, or what? By the next Sunday, this county and a bunch of others around got some great rain, and in the next three or four days, about a fourth of our usual annual rainfall.

Okay, so lots of other people were praying for rain, too. Anyway, everybody was delighted by the quantity of rain we all received.

Well, nearly everybody. Our dog is terrified by thunder, and we were unable to explain to him why the rain was really wonderful and why he couldn't stay in the house all the time, especially while it was thundering.

I know it's hard to believe I was ever a little kid, but I was once, and I remember my grandmother telling me that the thunder was God rolling watermelons across an old wooden bridge. I didn't understand the analogy then, and I still don't.

Anyway, let's continue to pray and hope that we're not about to start another long period of drought.

Which reminds me that I still don't agree with the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and other newspapers that insist on spelling drought "drought," which sounds like some kind of constipation remedy. I just can't get my mought around that word.

Incidentally, it rained so hard Monday that there was about an eighth of an inch of moisture on top of one of the tables at a restaurant in Tahoka when I was trying to have a meal there. Of course, that could have been because someone knocked over a full glass of water on the table as we were eating.

THE FATHEAD on Fifth St. says, "My wife really enjoys eating out. She eats me out at least once every day."

Students win awards at Tahoka Elementary

Student awards were presented at the Tahoka Elementary end-of-school awards assembly on May 27, rewarding good behavior throughout the year and academic achievements.

Tahoka Elementary Principal Jason Powell sponsors a positive behavior program at Tahoka Elementary called "Powell Paws." In this program, teachers reward students who are going above and beyond what is asked of them. Then the parents/guardians are given a letter to let them know that their student was given a white ticket that would be placed in the Powell Paws drawing at the end of each semester. Prizes were donated by staff member to praise the students at Tahoka Elementary for going above and beyond. Powell Paws winners from the white ticket drawings included Audery Acosta, a kindergarten student, who won a portable DVD player; 1st grader Briar Adams and 3rd grader Braylee Thomas both won an XBOX; and 5th grader Jody Nevill won a set of audio books.

Other awards presented were:

Extension Service: 95th year in Lynn County ...

of Lyntegar Electric Cooperative.

Today, Lyntegar provides electricity to all or part of 11 counties, serving more than 5,400 members and more than 22,000 meters. Over the years Lyntegar has added three branch offices in Sundown, Lamesa and Seagraves to better serve its members, with its headquarters in Tahoka. Greg Henley is Lyntegar's current General Manager — and he came to Tahoka as an extension agent in 1983, serving two years as ag agent.

"If it wasn't for the Lynn County Extension Service, I might not have ever moved to Lynn County," says Henley. "It was then, and I believe is now, a wonderful program that offers many valuable services to the county. The educational programs are so vital to agriculture by providing information through research and result demonstration projects. Also the 4-H youth program is second to none in my opinion in developing the leadership skills of the participants. There are so many projects for the youth to participate in — Safety, Photography, Shooting Sports, Archery, Livestock Judging, Clothing, Food, Stock Showing and Veterinary Science just to name a few. I think the reason that the Extension Service has lasted 100 years, is because it produces results. It attracted me 30 years ago, and my family has remained active ever since," he added.

William (Bill) Griffin holds the distinction of serving as county agent for Lynn County longer than anyone to date, for 30 years (1947-1977), although current ag agent Bryan Reynolds has been serving the citizens here for 20 years, since 1994. Wendy Scott is the FCS (Family and Consumer Sciences) extension agent for Lynn County, and she has been here for two years.

Lynn County Extension has been in the same office location in Tahoka since 1939, at the corner of S. 1st and Ave. J. It is a historical building, one of the first brick buildings built in Tahoka, built by First National Bank, before the bank moved to another location. At one time the city/county library was also housed in the back portion of the building.

A former state director for the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service hails from Lynn County, and is a graduate of Tahoka High School. Dr. Edward G. Smith is the son of Mozelle and the late Herbert Smith of Tahoka. Dr. Smith held the position of Director for Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service from 2005 until 2012, culminating a career that spanned 38 years with the Extension Service.

An excerpt from a story written by Kathleen Phillips in AgriLife Today, when Dr. Smith retired in 2012, recounts how as an 18-year-old who had just graduated from Tahoka High School, "Smith had only a vague idea of what Texas A&M was, based on what a high school teacher had told him. And he knew nothing of the land-grant university system that began during the American Civil War.

"My family was low-income and no one had ever been to college, or even high school," Smith recalls.

"They didn't believe college was affordable."

Smith's father, who was ill, advised his son to join the military with the hope of getting GI benefits to afford an education later.

"But my agriculture teacher convinced my dad that I would work my way through school and that I could make it in college," Smith said. "Other than my dad, that ag teacher — Lester Adams — had the greatest influence on my life. He provided me the vision and helped me to see that instead of taking basket weaving and playing football, I needed to take biology and chemistry, physics and trigonometry. I went with what he said, and it's been good."

He now describes his career as just short of heavenly.

Dr. Smith received his B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. from Texas A&M University, all in agricultural economics. He is the author of numerous publications and has received many honors from industry, academia, and agricultural agencies.

Extension Service in Lynn County has had a great impact on the citizens here, and a positive influence on many lives.

Ten water saving tips

by Bryan Reynolds, CEA-AG Texas AgriLife, Lynn County

Prolonged droughts, growing populations and decreasing water supplies are a reality for all Texans. Historic droughts, such as the one we are currently in, make it even more critical that everyone do their part to conserve the most precious natural resource we have — water.

Stage 1 water restrictions for Tahoka began on June 1st. Check last week's edition of the Lynn County News for current restrictions. Even with the recent rains, the drought is not over; therefore everyone must be diligent in conserving water.

Forty to sixty percent of a water bill for the summer months comes from outdoor usage. Following the ten conservation tips for water conservation outdoors will not only help conserve water resources, but it will also help save money.

- Water only when your landscape shows signs of needing water. Look at the grass, feel the soil, or use a soil moisture meter to determine when to water. Know how much your sprinklers are putting out in one hour.
- Do not over-water. Soil can hold only so much moisture, and the rest simply runs off. A timer will help save water. Apply only enough water to fill the plant's root zone. Excess water beyond that is wasted. One and a half inches of water applied once a week in the summer will keep most Texas grasses alive and healthy.

- Water lawns early in the morning during the hotter summer months. Otherwise, much of the water used on the lawn can simply evaporate between the sprinkler and the grass.
- To avoid excessive evaporation, use a sprinkler that produces large drops of water, rather than a fine mist. Sprinklers that send droplets out on a low angle also help control evaporation. Adjust sprinkler heads as necessary to avoid waste, runoff, and ensure proper coverage.

- Set automatic sprinkler systems to provide thorough, but infrequent watering. Pressure-regulating devices should be set to design specifications. Rain shutoff devices can prevent watering in the rain.
- Use drip irrigation systems for bedded plants, trees, or shrubs, or turn soaker hoses upside down so the holes are on the bottom. This will help avoid evaporation.

Summer lunch program open to all youth

All youth in Tahoka, ages 18 and under, may eat free lunches at the Tahoka Elementary cafeteria during the month of June, through the Summer Food program sponsored through the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture and South Plains Food Bank. The cafeteria will serve lunches from 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and any local youth may eat for free (see menu in this edition).

The meals are provided and prepared at South Plains Food Bank, and served at the TISD cafeteria, throughout the month of June.

"We are pleased to be partnering with USDA and South Plains Food Bank to offer this free summer lunch program, and it is a great opportunity for our community," said TISD Supt. Steve Burleson.

- Forget about watering the street or walks or driveways. They will never grow a thing.
- Do not scalp lawns when mowing during hot weather. Taller grass holds moisture better. Grass should be cut fairly often, so that only 1/2 to 3/4 inches is trimmed off. A better looking lawn will result.
- Use water-wise plants. Learn what types of grass, shrubbery, and plants do best in the area and in which parts of the lawn, and then plant accordingly. Choose plants that will have low water requirements, are drought-tolerant, and are adapted to the area of the state where they are to be planted.

Library kicks off Summer Reading Program next week

The City-County Library's annual summer reading program will begin with a "kick off" party at 3 p.m. on Friday, June 13 in the large meeting room in the Life Enrichment Center, 1717 Main in Tahoka. Children attending the party will be registered for the summer-long program, receive packets that include instructions and reading logs, and participate in fun activities. The program is open to children who will be in PreK through 5th grade next school year.

"We were so pleased with the participation in last year's program, that we are following the same formula again this year," said library director Claudia Guin. "For every 15 minutes a child reads, they move a space on our game board, earning prizes as they go. The program is set up so that if a child begins with the kick off party and continues through the end of the program, they should get in about eight weeks' worth of reading over the summer."

According to Guin, children aren't required to attend the party to participate in the program.

"Parents just need to come by the library and pick up a packet anytime during the summer and we'll get their child started," she said.

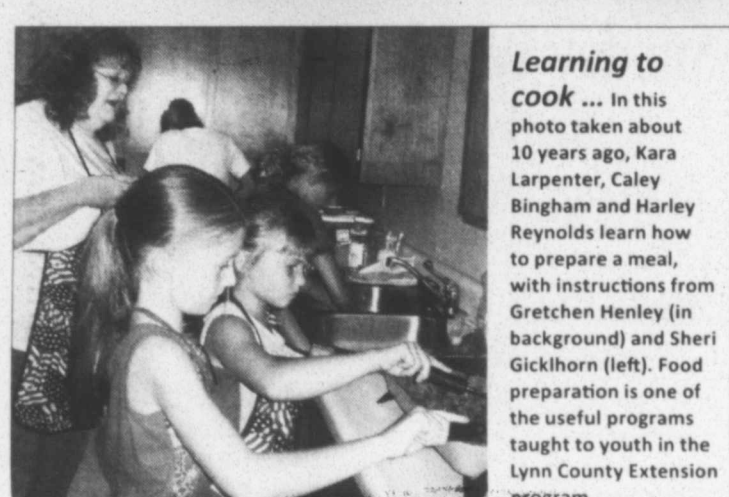

The summer reading program also includes a weeklong program to take place in July and an end-of-program prize party scheduled for August. This year's program theme is "Fizz, Boom Read" where kids will learn about the wonders of science.

For more information, call the library at 561-4050.

Back in the day ...

This photo, in the 1970s (it's a guess) was taken at a 4-H program. At left is Lois Greathouse, and the Lynn County 4-H students were only identified by last names, Denton and Wood.

Learning to cook ...

Grassland Coop Gin merges with Close City; new name is Garlyn

by JUANELL JONES

Two area gins, one in Lynn County and one in Garza County, are merging. Members of Grassland Coop Gin voted unanimously to merge with Close City Gin in a meeting held May 22, with equipment from Close City being moved to the Grassland location for the processing of cotton. The membership chose to change the name from Grassland Coop Gin to Garlyn Coop Gin, Inc., which combines the names of the two counties and was also the name of a school in the area during the earlier years of Lynn County's history.

Russell Barnett, gin manager for Grassland Coop Gin, will continue to serve as manager of the Garlyn Gin. He told The News that the merger will be a good deal for both sets of members.

"We've been talking about the merger since last year's ginning season, and both Boards voted three weeks ago to put it before their membership for a vote, which was approved unanimously by both groups," said Barnett. "Close City's membership approved the merger in a meeting on May 15, and Grassland Coop's membership voted their approval on May 22. Everyone was agreeable to everything that was put forth, and the members could see how the merger would be beneficial to all and make us stronger," he added.

Barnett said the new Garlyn Gin will keep an office at the Close City location in Garza County, but the processing plant will be in Lynn County, at the newly named Garlyn Gin. The new seven-member board for Garlyn will be comprised of three directors from Close City - Mike Aten, Charles Morris and G.B. Wilke - and four from Grassland - Scott Huffaker, Ty Stark, Mike Braddock and Terry Laws.

"We kept the bylaws of the Close City Gin, and the charter number from Grassland," explained Barnett. "None of the members have lost any book credits or any equity value - this merger will work out really well for both sides."

Barnett said that Jim Ellis, who was the manager at the Close City Gin, is retiring.

"Everything has just fallen together really well, and we are in the process of moving equipment out of Close City to the Garlyn Gin. We will be ready for ginning season, and hope this year will be a good cotton production year for area producers," he added.

FNB President Krey announces retirement plans

John Krey, President of First National Bank of Tahoka, has announced his upcoming retirement effective the end of this year. Krey has been with the bank 32 years, with 28 of those as president.

In announcing his plans to the Board of Directors, Krey stated, "It has been an honor and a privilege to serve this community and to work with so many great customers and fellow employees. To have been a part of this bank with its strength and stability, a bank with 107 years of continuous service to this wonderful community, is humbling. It's a testament to the dedication and strong leadership of the Board that First National Bank has been able to maintain its independence and allow decisions to be made here at home rather than by strangers in some other city."

Chairman of the Board Fred Hegi stated, "On behalf of the entire Board of Directors, John's announcement is accepted with regret and appreciation for his many years of dedicated service. He has been a valuable asset not only to the bank but to the entire community as well."

"Of course we knew this day would eventually come and succession planning is an important responsibility of the Board. Therefore, Senior Vice President Worth Whitworth has been appointed President-elect to assume those duties upon John's retirement at the end of the year," said Hegi. "Worth has many years of banking experience and has been with us since 2011. He is well qualified to assume these duties, and we look forward to working with him in that capacity. Worth is well acquainted with our customers and will continue providing them with the great service to which they have grown accustomed," added Hegi.

Krey plans to remain active in the bank by continuing to serve on the Board of Directors.

State Trapshooting Champion Grant Garvin aims for high marks in summer tournaments

Grant Garvin of Tahoka has kept up his winning ways since taking a State Championship in the Texas Trapshooters Association Championship competition last summer. He has shot in numerous events all over the state and has performed very well in both 4-H and ATA (Amateur Trapshooting Association) tournaments. He has participated in events from El Paso to Ft Worth, from Amarillo to San Antonio.

In the ATA All-American Team standings, Grant, 16, is the highest ranked Texas shooter in the United States under the age of 19 for 2014, due to All American points in the USA, according to the Amateur Trapshooting Association website (ShootATA.com). He is the son of Daniel and Tifanie Garvin of Tahoka.

"Grant gained most of that [ranking] status in a National ATA Tournament in April in San Antonio," said his father. "The Southwest Grand is one of seven tournaments that All-American points are given out for events winners. Close to 500 shooters from all over the United States, Canada and Mexico participate for those points. Grant won two trophies there and lost in a shoot off for a third," he added.

Grant has shot in most of the Texas ATA Zone shoots, where he has won all but one junior event. He will be named to the Texas ATA All State Team as the Captain of the Junior Squad due to his Zone results later this year. He started the 4-H shooting season strong this year with a 2nd place, losing by one target a few weeks ago, and this last weekend he was the Over All Champion for all age groups at a 4-H tournament in Amarillo. He shot a 99 out of a possible 100.

Grant is only getting warmed up for a busy summer of tournaments. He will shoot in tournaments in Hereford, Amarillo, Gaines County, Garza County, San Angelo, San Antonio and Ft Worth over the next two months. He will shoot in two separate State championships in San Antonio in July.

"If Grant keeps performing at a high level and doing well at some of these larger events, he will shoot at the World Championship in Sparta, Illinois in August," said his father. "He has really buckled down and we are quite proud of him," he added.
