THIS WEEK

- 2 State governors are beginning to openly defy national health reform
- 3 A peanut producers' meeting is scheduled to be held in Quail.
- 4 The Clarendon College Bulldogs spend some quality time with young players.
- 5 And the Broncos clinch the district title.

All this and much more as The Enterprise reports in this week's amazing edition!

Enterprise to focus on budget impact

Possible cuts in state funding threaten to have dire consequences for Clarendon College as well as public schools in Clarendon and Hedley. Next week the Enterprise will visit with local school and college officials to find out what those cuts will mean for them and the impact such cuts could have on the economy of Donley County.

Be sure to pick up next week's Enterprise for more information about these developments and how you can help contact our representatives in Austin.

GT nominations now being sought

Clarendon High School and Clarendon Junior High will accept nominations for their Gifted and Talented Programs March 1-22, 2011.

Both programs – high school, grades 9-12, and junior high, grades 6-8 – serve students who perform at or show the potential for performing at a remarkably high level of accomplishment.

The purpose of the GT program is to provide an educational climate in which gifted and talented students will develop mentally, socially, and emotionally.

A Gifted and Talented Awareness meeting will be held on Monday, February 28, at 6 p.m. at the CCISD Technology Building. An overview of the assessment procedures and services for gifted/talented students will be discussed. This is a mandatory meeting for parents who want their child to be tested for G/T.

If you wish to nominate a student for this program or would like more information, please contact Linde Shadle, CCISD Gifted and Talented Coordinator, at 874-3241. All nomination forms must be completed and returned to the student's campus office by March 22, 2011.

State plans two shot clinics here

The Texas Department of State Health Services will hold two Immunization Clinics in Clarendon next month at the TDSHS office at Five Medical Drive.

The clinics will be held March 10 and 17 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. with the first ten clients being seen each morning and afternoon.

All clinic times are subject to change due to weather conditions or scheduling conflicts.

Bands to battle it out at City Park

A Battle of the Bands will be held April 29 at Clarendon's City Park. Any bands (country, rock, blues, etc.) that want to sign up will need to contact Trevor Leeper at 806-206-1972.

First place prize will be $400, and second place will be $200. This event will be judged by the audience and winner will be announced the night of event.

Listen to your heart

By Ashlyn Tubbs,
Clarendon Enterprise

It can happen to anyone anywhere at anytime.

Everyone is vulnerable: the young, the old, the weak, and the strong.

It can strike during the day or at night.

Or in Ronna (Edwards) Newman's case, while running track.

"I was fourteen in 1999, and it was the first day of eighth grade track practice," Ronna said. "I don't remember that day at all, but from what they told me, I didn't feel good. We were supposed to run three laps, and the beginning of the third lap I collapsed and went into cardiac arrest."

February is American Heart Month. Heart disease is the number one cause of death in women and 90 percent of women have one or more risk factors for developing the disease.

In fact, if not for fast reactions from two coaches, Ronna probably would not be here today.

"The coaches performed CPR until the ambulance got there," Ronna said. "They had to use the external defibrillator two times, and the third time they finally got a heartbeat. They took me to Claude and then airlifted me to Amarillo where I was in the hospital for a couple of weeks."

Ronna was diagnosed with a rare heart condition, called Arrhythmogenic Right Ventricular Dysplasia, which is known to be among the top causes of sudden cardiac death among young athletes.

"My heart rate would get over 200 beats a minute," Ronna said. "I didn't know it though because I was born that way, and it was just normal for me. There had been no other heart problems in my family, just high blood pressure."

Ronna left the hospital with an internal defibrillator and an altered lifestyle.

"I can't do anything that will get my heart rate up, so of course I couldn't run anymore," Ronna said. "That's when I started playing golf. I haven't had any problems with my heart since then."

Ronna is not the only woman in Clarendon who has experienced a heart attack. For Melinda McAnear, president of the Donley County Hospital District, she was watering her flowers when it happened.

"I was 56 on June 23, 2006, and I had a pain in my chest," Melinda said. "It was nothing real bad, so I blew it off for a little bit. In ten minutes it had not gone away, but it had not gotten worse. It was like nothing I had ever experienced."

After calling her husband, Ronnie, Melinda decided to call the ambulance. She now regards this as one of the best decisions she ever made.

"The EMTs told me that I was having a heart attack, and I didn't believe them at first," Melinda said. "I always thought that having a heart attack would be excruciating pain, but it wasn't. I had none of the classic symptoms of a heart attack, like radiating pain in my left arm or shortness of breath. It was just 'uncomfortableness' in my chest."

Melinda remained conscious throughout the ambulance ride to BSA, where she was diagnosed with Coronary Artery Disease. She received a heart stent.

"I had never had heart problems before that, but there are cases of heart disease on both sides of my family," she said. "Fortunately there was no heart or muscle damage. I had 90 percent blockage; and if I would've waited any longer, I probably would have died from a massive heart attack."

From her heart attack, Melinda said she learned a valuable lesson.

"When you have a gut feeling that something is wrong, you need to listen to your body because it's trying to tell you something," Melinda said. "I listened and paid attention, and I'm sure glad I did."

In recognition of Heart Month, Melinda wears a red dress pin, which is the symbol for women fighting heart disease.

"My cardiologist gave it to me the year after my heart attack, and I've worn it ever since in February," Melinda said.

Ronna and Melinda stress the importance of heart check-ups, because neither one ever expected to have a heart attack.

"It's a good thing to get checked up, because it can happen to anyone," Ronna said. "You never know when it may happen."

Few step forward to run for elections

Only three candidates have stepped forward to run for office one week into the sign-up period for local elections.

Former Clarendon alderman Tommy Hill has filed paperwork to run for that position again. The city will elect two aldermen and the mayor this year. Those positions are currently held by Mayor Larry Hicks and Aldermen Janice Knorpp and Ann Huey.

Donley County Hospital Board Director Melinda McAnear (Place 3) is seeking re-election. The hospital district has three positions coming up on its board this year. The other positions are currently held by Bubba Newhouse (Place 2) and Wayne Tubbs (Place 1).

At Hedley ISD, Ted Wright has made it official that he will run for the remainder of the unexpired term he was appointed to last year. HISD also has three full positions up this year on the school board, and those seats are held now by James Lee Potts, Tonja Ruthardt, and Karen Watt.

Three other local governments have not had any candidates sign up as of Tuesday morning.

Clarendon ISD has two trustees' positions up this year, and those seats are currently held by Weldon Sears and Lance Thornberry.

Howardwick also has the terms of its mayor and two aldermen up this year. They are currently occupied by Mayor Del Essary and Aldermen Gene Rogers and Norm Hagood.

Three positions on the Hedley Board of Aldermen are up this year, and those positions are now held by Travis Ruthardt, Tonya Metcalf, and David Wells.

Positions on city boards of aldermen and the hospital board are two-year terms, and school board terms are for three years. All positions are elected at-large, but hospital board candidates must sign up for a specific place.

Filing for these local offices continues through Monday, March 14.

To sign-up or for more information about serving on a local board, visit the administrative offices of the particular local government you are interested in.

Election Day for local governments will be held on Saturday, May 14, 2011.

Mulkey fundraising efforts get the spotlight

Fundraising to "Bring Back the Mulkey" is continuing and publicity for that effort got a boost over the weekend when Amarillo's ProNews 7 visited the historic theatre.

Reporter Matt Hamilton interviewed Clarendon Economic Development Board member Bill Stavenhagen, former Mulkey employee Renee Betts, and Donley County Historical Commission Chairman Jean Stavenhagen for the piece which aired Sunday evening and again Monday morning.

The report focused on local efforts to light up the marquee. The Bring Back the Mulkey Advisory Committee and the Clarendon Economic Development Corporation hope to have that done this summer, and have set a goal of raising $20,000 toward that end.

As of this week, more than $5,300 has been raised and another $500 has been pledged for the marquee restoration.

One of the principal fundraising efforts is for donors to sponsor one of the 12 letters spelling MULKEY on the north and south faces of the theatre's marquee for $1,000 each. Five of those letters have already been sponsored.

Donors who give $50 or more will be recognized inside the theatre, and donations can be made to Donley County Historical Commission, PO Box 905, Clarendon, TX 79226 and note "Mulkey" in the memo of your check.

Clarendon's downtown merchants are also supporting the effort by selling paper light bulbs which can be purchased for $1 and are displayed in stores downtown.

The Clarendon Enterprise plans to print a series of Mulkey Memories submitted by readers and project supporters.

You can share your memories of good times at the Mulkey by writing or e-mailing the paper, visiting www.ClarendonLive.com, or posting comments on the Enterprise or Mulkey pages on Facebook.

For more information about how you can help "Bring Back the Mulkey," visit www.ClarendonEDC.org or check out www.facebook.com/mulkeytheatre.

Governors should just say 'no' to ObamaCare

By Michael F. Cannon, Cato Institute

So far, two Republican governors — Florida's Rick Scott and Alaska's Sean Parnell — have announced they will implement no part of ObamaCare. In the interest of both principle and practicality, the other 48 governors should follow their lead.

Governors are understandably confused about their obligations under ObamaCare. When federal Judge Roger Vinson declared last month in Florida v. HHS that the entire law was unconstitutional, he apparently wasn't clear enough about what his ruling meant.

Vinson granted "declaratory relief" to the plaintiffs, who include 26 states, the National Federation of Independent Business (which represents small businesses) and two individual citizens. Though he did not issue a formal injunction forbidding the federal government to implement or enforce the law, Vinson wrote that declaratory relief is the "functional" and "practical equivalent" of an injunction. Declaratory relief, Vinson wrote, "is adequate and separate injunctive relief is not necessary."

The Obama administration disagrees, and last week asked Vinson, essentially, "Didn't you really mean that we can keep implementing and enforcing the law while we appeal your ruling?"

We may not learn Vinson's answer for weeks, and even then ObamaCare's legal status won't be resolved until it reaches the Supreme Court a year or more from today. Yet governors have to decide what to do right now.

Choosing the right course of action is simple for governors who believe ObamaCare is unconstitutional. Every governor takes an oath to support the U.S. Constitution. Implementing a law they believe to be unconstitutional would violate that oath.

At a minimum, then, governors who believe ObamaCare is unconstitutional have a solemn obligation not to implement it. Parnell wisely sought counsel from his attorney general about whether implementing ObamaCare would violate his oath of office. But if Parnell personally believes the law is unconstitutional, then that should tell him what he needs to know.

Swearing an oath to support the Constitution also obligates governors to use lawful means to prevent its unlawful abuse. Governors who believe ObamaCare to be unconstitutional are as duty-bound to stop implementing the law as they are to challenge it in court.

Georgia Gov. Nathan Deal (R), who is among the Florida plaintiffs, disagrees. His spokesman said that refusing to implement ObamaCare "would put us too far behind if our litigation is not successful in the end." But implementing ObamaCare entrenches the law's countless subsidies, regulations, and bureaucracies, meaning that Deal himself is making it harder to discard a law that he considers unconstitutional. With friends like that, the Constitution hardly needs enemies.

Deal and 20 other governors recently sent a letter to HHS Secretary Kathleen Sebelius, complaining of ObamaCare's "constitutional infringements" and requesting greater flexibility to implement it. Since (by design) there is zero chance that Sebelius will accede, those governors should flatly refuse to implement any part of the law. They won't be alone.

Last week, Parnell announced, "The state of Alaska will not pursue unlawful activity to implement a federal health care regime that has been declared unconstitutional by a federal court."

Many reporters missed the fact that Parnell is the second governor to take this stand. Shortly after taking office, Scott declared he will not implement the law until the Supreme Court considers the matter. "[The court] called it unconstitutional," Scott recently told an audience of Floridians. "We're not going to put any effort into implementing that, and I think every other state ought to do the same thing."

One of Scott's first acts as governor was to return $2 million that the Obama administration gave his predecessor, Gov. Charlie Crist (R), to help implement the new law. (Disclosure: I served on Scott's transition team.)

Wisconsin and New Hampshire have also returned ObamaCare money to the federal government, which highlights the practical reasons why governors should refuse to implement ObamaCare.

It is the height of fiscal irresponsibility to be making new spending commitments (1) when the federal deficit is $1.5 trillion and state budget deficits are a cumulative $175 billion, (2) when those new commitments create a framework for a massive new entitlement program, and (3) when that new spending comes under the auspices of a law that has been invalidated by one federal court and may be invalidated by the nation's highest court.

Whichever reason they choose — fiscal responsibility or fealty to the Constitution — America's governors should just say "no" to implementing ObamaCare.

Michael F. Cannon is director of health policy studies at the Cato Institute and co-author of Healthy Competition: What's Holding Back Health Care and How to Free It.

Lone Star State on the red carpet

Just a few days from now, a number of Texans will compete at an event that judges their skills and the quality of their performances. They'll make a grand entry, looking their best and wearing a signature item that they hope will set them apart from the rest. Musical entertainment will be provided during breaks, and an announcer will keep everyone informed and entertained.

But before images of livestock and cowboys come to mind, let me be clear: while it's one of my favorite events of the year, I am not talking about the Houston Rodeo. In fact, I'm referring to the 83rd Annual Academy Awards. Each year, Texans — and movies filmed in or about Texas — are recognized and honored at this event. This tradition got an early start, with the silent film Wings, shot in Bexar County, winning for best picture at the very first Academy Awards show on May 16, 1929.

Since then, Texas has kept her place among the winners at the annual awards show. A slew of actors not only have had the privilege of earning an Academy Award but also of being a native Texan, like Rip Torn, Tommy Lee Jones, Jamie Foxx, Sissy Spacek, Joan Crawford, and Renee Zellweger. Oscar-winning movies filmed in Texas include The Last Picture Show, Bonnie and Clyde, JFK, Apollo 13, No Country For Old Men, Traffic, Terms of Endearment, and There Will Be Blood. This year, True Grit, which had filming locations in Austin, Blanco and Granger, Texas, has been nominated for 10 Oscars.

Over the years, movies have been filmed across our great state — from Marfa to Austin, and Garland to Archer City. But perhaps the one location that best represents the Texas film industry is a ranch located just north of Brackettville, in Kinney County. It was here, at the Shahan Angus Ranch, that then-Brackettville mayor James Tullis "Happy" Shahan would construct a life-sized replica of one of the cornerstones of Texas history — the Alamo.

Brackettville, originally financially supported by the soldiers and families of nearby Fort Clark, saw its economy dip dramatically with the fort's deactivation in 1946. Mayor Happy Shahan saw an opportunity for Brackettville, with its authentic Old West look, to be used as a filming location for westerns. Shahan reached out to Paramount Studios and convinced them that Brackettville was the ideal location for the movie Arrowhead, which was filmed there in 1951. But one film was not enough for Shahan.

After hearing that John Wayne was planning on shooting The Alamo in Mexico, Shahan went to work building the case for Brackettville as the appropriate and common sense location for a film whose theme was so central to Texas history.

Shahan succeeded. Set construction for The Alamo began on the 22,000-acre Shahan Angus Ranch in 1957. Unlike traditional Hollywood sets that used facades of building fronts and sides, Alamo Village was a true-to-size recreation of what the Alamo and the surrounding village of San Antonio de Bexar looked like in 1836, including buildings with four walls, floors and roofs. This was a strict requirement imposed by Shahan; there would be no "false fronts."

Employing more than 5,000

texas times
by sen. john cornyn workers who used at least 1.5 million adobe bricks and 30,000 square feet of imported Spanish tiles, it took two years to complete the set. Filming began in the summer of 1959.

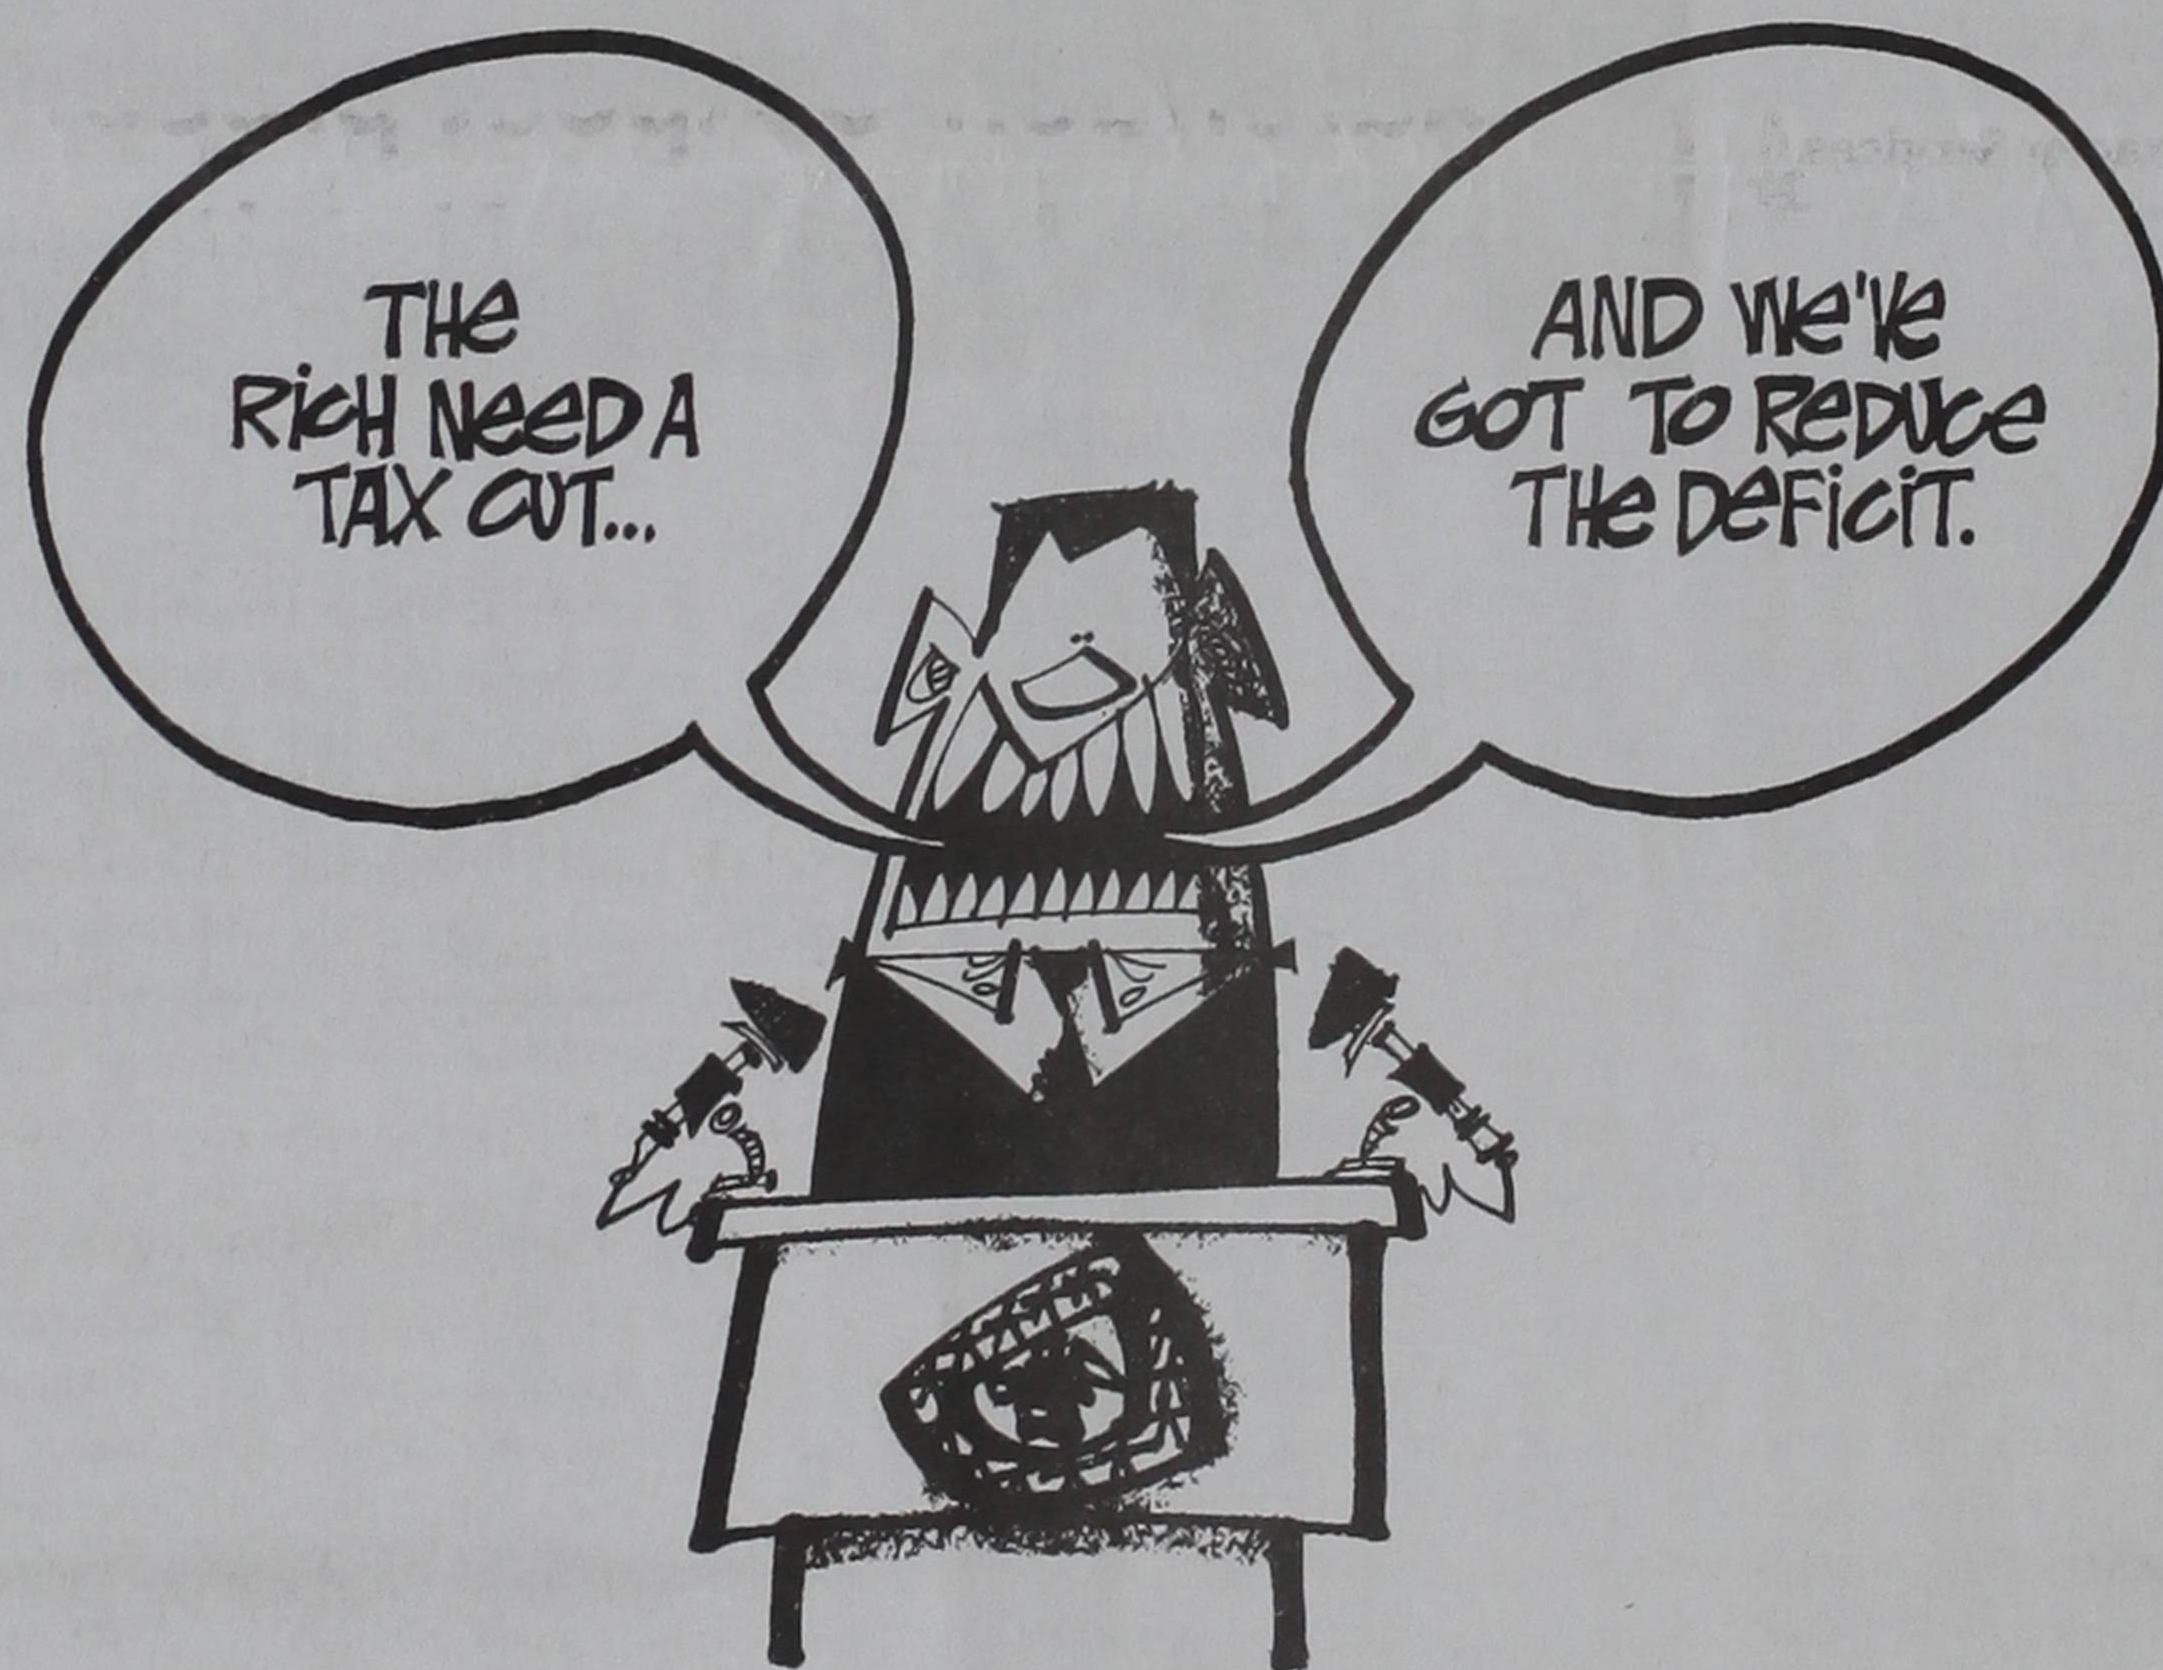

Over the years, Alamo Village would serve as the set for more than 100 other westerns, in addition to television shows, documentaries and commercials. Many famous actors have worked on the Alamo Village set, such as James Stewart, Dean Martin and Raquel Welch. Robert Duvall worked at Alamo Village when he starred in the popular mini-series Lonesome Dove, which was filmed there.

For decades, Alamo Village served not only as a movie set but also a tourist attraction that drew visitors from around the world. Each summer, the set was open to tourists and offered live musical shows, stagecoach rides, western melodramas and shoot-out reenactments. Sadly, this Texas-sized attraction, which brought notoriety and economic growth to the region for more than 50 years, closed its doors in 2009 after the death of Shahan's widow, Virginia. It was briefly re-opened without shows or events last summer, but has since been closed indefinitely. Supporters and local historians hope it will be purchased by investors willing to make repairs and re-open the site to the public.

In 1995, President George W. Bush named Happy Shahan the "Father of the Texas movie industry." Though the doors to his village have been closed for now, Happy's dream for Texas to be a leader in the world of cinema has certainly been accomplished.

So as you and your family settle in to watch this year's Oscars, remember, Texas stars are truly big and bright enough to be seen all the way in Hollywood.

WHY POLITICIANS LIKE TO USE TWO MICROPHONES.

Fort Hood victims are war heroes

On November 5, 2009, Fort Hood, Texas was suddenly thrust onto the front lines of the War on Terror. On that terrible day, 13 U.S. Army soldiers were murdered and dozens of others were grievously wounded in what we now recognize as the single worst act of terrorism on our shores since 9/11. The shock of the events that day were further compounded for the soldiers and their families when they learned that the man accused of this heinous act was one of their own, a U.S. Army officer who had rejected his oath and embraced Islamic extremism.

The recent release of a bipartisan Senate report revealed that the events at Fort Hood were both predictable and preventable. This renews our sense of loss and outrage. Indeed, in the months preceding the attack there were strong warning signs that Nidal Hasan posed a clear and present danger to his fellow soldiers. Unfortunately the culture of political correctness seems to have overshadowed Hasan's increasingly dangerous behavior observed by his colleagues and supervisors who failed to put the pieces together before it was too late. Although Hasan may have worn the uniform of a U.S. Army officer, he openly embraced the beliefs and convictions of our adversaries.

The Committee's report provides valuable insight, helping to deepen our understanding of how and why the horrible events at Fort Hood took place. Specifically, the report reveals that leading up to the attack, the FBI and the Department of Defense (DoD) had sufficient information between both agencies to have prevented Major Nidal Hasan from committing that act of terrorism against his fellow soldiers. Additionally, the Committee's findings make clear that military leaders did not adequately address the growing threat of home-grown Islamic terrorism within their own ranks. Hopefully, both the Army and the FBI will embrace the Senate's recommendations and findings.

Congress also has the responsibility to recognize that what occurred at Fort Hood was indeed an act of wartime aggression and to honor these fallen heroes and their families in the manner worthy of the sacrifices they made. As we saw from the terrorist attacks on 9/11, the battlefields of the War on Terror extend well beyond the borders of any one nation.

capitol comment
by sen. kay bailey hutchison

For over half a century, the soldiers stationed at Fort Hood have made great sacrifices to protect and defend our nation, and those killed or wounded on November 5, 2009, were no different. It is clear that the victims of Fort Hood were engaged in enemy combat when they were attacked, and their service and sacrifice in this war must be acknowledged appropriately.

Those who lost their lives, along with their families, should receive the benefits and status afforded to their fellow servicemen and women fighting in Iraq and Afghanistan who are wounded or killed in the same War on Terror. The U.S. government awarded combat status to casualties from the 9/11 attack on the Pentagon, and the victims of Fort Hood should not be treated any differently.

Together with Senator John Cornyn and Congressman John Carter (R-TX), I recently introduced the Fort Hood Victims and Families Benefits Protection Act, which would indeed grant the victims of the Fort Hood attack and the families of the deceased soldiers the appropriate legal recognition of combat casualties. It is my hope that my colleagues in the Senate will join me in honoring these fallen heroes and their families in the manner they so rightly deserve.

Senior Citizens Honor Banquet to be held March 8

The Hedley Baptist Church is hosting the Senior Citizens Honor Banquet on Tuesday, March 8, at 6:00 p.m. at the Fellowship Hall of the church. All senior citizens are invited! Great food, great entertainment, great fellowship, and all for free! Attention Hedley Community! On Tuesday, March 15, 2011, there will be a Town Meeting in the Senior Citizens building at 7:00 p.m. to discuss activities that Hedley can do to help support our town. City Secretary Jason Conatser will have some ideas to bounce around, and hopefully the community will have some ideas too. We all need to work together for a better Hedley. Please come and help us share the future of Hedley and be proud of our town. Simple refreshments will be served. Are you prepared for the flu season? People are getting this new strand even if they have taken the flu shot. It will grab you in a couple of hours and hang on. One minute you are fine, and the next you have it. Patsy and Kathy Spier have been sick with it for the last couple of weeks. Please watch yourselves. Please contact David O'Dell for any information concerning the Hedley Methodist Youth Group. They have been getting some wonderful donations to help support the Youth Group. It is a wonderful thing for our kids. Recipe: Cherry Chocolate Nut Cookies: 1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup packed brown sugar, 1 egg, 1/4 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 2 cups all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon baking soda, 1 cup semi-sweet or milk chocolate chips, 3/4 cup maraschino cherries, chopped, 3/4 cup chopped, pecans. In a mixing bowl, cream butter and sugars. Beat in egg, milk and vanilla. Combine flour, baking powder, salt and baking soda; gradually add to the creamed mixture. Stir in the remaining ingredients. Drop by tablespoons 2 in. apart onto greased baking sheets. Bake at 375 degrees F for 10-12 minutes or until golden brown. Remove to wire racks to cool.

KACV-TV to present special programming March 1-13

KACV-TV will present special programming March 1-13, including the premiere of two all-new local productions, "Can You Dig It? Exploring and Growing at the Buried City," and the latest installment of artZONE. Other programming includes "American Masters": Troubadours - Carole King/James Taylor and the California Sound, Ed Sullivan's Rock and Roll Classics - The Sixties, Harry Connick Jr. in Concert on Broadway, Trans-Siberian Orchestra: The Birth of Rock Theater and more. See a complete schedule at kacv.org. At 9 p.m. on Tuesday, March 1, a new episode of the KACV original series artZONE premieres. This episode includes the "15 & one" photography exhibit, The Woody Witt Jazz combo and Donald Mace Williams reading his narrative poem, "Wolfe," based on Beowulf. At 7 p.m. Monday, March 2, the new PBS special "Trans-Siberian Orchestra: The Birth of Rock Theater" focuses on group founder Paul O'Neill's vision for TSO and how he went about creating a new art form, "Rock Theater." During the program, viewers will have the opportunity to get tickets to the upcoming Trans-Siberian Orchestra show at the Amarillo Civic Center, just by supporting public television.

At 8 p.m. Monday, March 2, "Can You Dig It?" Exploring and Growing at the Buried City premieres. This 30-minute show gives viewers of all ages a look at the site where the first formal archeological expedition in the state of Texas took place, an area of land near Perryton known as The Buried City. Now the site is home to an Indian garden and an archeological field school. The program shows the garden from its planting to its harvest as well as the thriving field school that offers hands-on training for students. KACV-TV is viewer-supported, commercial-free public television that educates, informs, inspires and connects the people of the Texas Panhandle. As a trusted media destination, KACV tells the stories of our region and encourages exploration of our world. KACV is available on channel 2.1 and Suddenlink cable channel 3 and 103. In extending the mission of public television, KACV also provides the people of the Panhandle with V-Me, a channel focused on quality Spanish language programming. V-Me is available on channel 2.2, Suddenlink cable channel 126. For more information about KACV-TV membership and special programming, contact Lynne Groom, KACV Director of Development, at 371-5479, (800) 999-9243, or lagroom@actx.edu.

Eye on the Ball

Clarendon College Bulldog Wigberto Navarez of Bayamon, Puerto Rico, shows Clarendon Little Leaguer Payton Havens some throwing tips during a joint baseball practice at Bulldog Field Monday. CC coach Mike Silva said his players enjoy giving pointers to the younger boys, and he told the group that players at all levels still have to work on the same basic exercises everyday to excel at the game.

Broncos named District Champs

By Sandy Anderberg

The Clarendon Broncos sealed the deal last Tuesday night at home when they easily defeated Quanah, 73-31, to finish with a perfect district season.

The game belonged to the Broncos from the beginning as they executed well on offense to quickly gain the upper hand. On the opposite end, their defense was outstanding as they shut down anything the Indians tried. Johnny Gaines and Brayden Phillips finished in double figures with 24 and 15 points.

Also scoring: Cole Ward 9, Mike Crump 6, Adam Topper 6, Justin Shillings 6, Chris Crump 5, and Wes Williams 2.

The Broncos took on Bushland last Friday night in a warm-up game and were defeated 53-63. Clarendon got up on the Falcons early and led by six points at the break. But their offense hit a rough spot in the second half, and Bushland gained the momentum to get the win.

"We played pretty good for three quarters," coach Brandt Lockhart said. "But we fell in the fourth. We couldn't make anything late in the game."

Cole Ward worked hard inside and finished with 12 points, and Gaines pumped in 16.

Also scoring: Phillips 7, Shillings 6, C. Crump 4, Mike Crump 2, Daniel West 2, Wes Williams 2, and Diego Santos 2.

The Broncos will play Canadian at Amarillo High School on Friday, February 25. Game time was not available at press time. Visit www.ClarendonLive.com or www.facebook.com/TheEnterprise for the latest information.

Bronco JV steps up

The Bronco junior varsity slammed opponent after opponent this season and took on Quanah in their last game of the season last Tuesday night at home. The Broncos stood up to the challenge brought on by Quanah and defeated them, 44-40.

The game was close throughout, but the Broncos were determined and played well as a team to get the win. The third quarter was close at a one-point game, but they gained an edge in the final period. The Bronco JV finished at 14-1 and was named District champs.

"We got all we wanted from Quanah," coach Alton Gaines said.

"But the boys were up to the challenge and finished the season like they started. They just flat out hustled and played with determination for the big win. I am really proud of this bunch. This team was able to keep their focus after dealing with a lot, which is hard for a young team. They just always step up and never miss a beat.

"We're thankful to have such good kids in our school. I was to thank the guys for a good season and the community for their support. We really appreciate that."

Scoring: Chance McAnear 16, Tanner Burch 8, Jonah Sell 6, Diego Santos 6, Cody Wood 5, and Cody Harjo 3.

The freshman team played as well and earned a big 46-14 win over the Indians. The Broncos took control early and stifled Quanah's offense with great defensive play. They held the Indians to single digits until the final quarter.

"The freshmen had a chance to showcase their skills and did an excellent job for us," Gaines said. "They totally destroyed Quanah."

Scoring: Harjo 20, McAnear 9, Javier Gobas 7, Dillon Nickell 4, and Zach Cornell 4.

Tip off

Barker finishes first in Dalhart

By Sandy Anderberg

Clarendon's Corey Barker had an outstanding at the power lifting meet last week in Dalhart.

Barker finished first the 132 pound weight class with a total lift of 900 pounds. Jeremi Johnson was second in the 165 pound weight class with a total lift of 970 pounds, and Rowdy Speed placed 10th in the 198 pound class with a total lift of 915 pounds. The Bronco team placed 9th overall with a total of 12 points.

Jerah Luna got a big win for the girls in the 114-pound weight class with a total lift of 415 pounds. Elizabeth O'Rear was second in the 123-pound class with a total lift of 385 pounds. The girl's team was fourth with a total of 12 points.

Overall, Coach Johnny Nino was pleased with the results of the meet.

"The lifters really came out of their comfort zone and competed really well," he said.

Johnston wins men's game

By Sandy Anderberg

Redell Johnston was the big winner in the weekly men's game played last Wednesday at the Clarendon Country Club.

Johnston shot a net score of 63 to top the field. Wendol Miller shot a net 65 for second, and Forrest Newton turned in a net 66 for third place. Larry Lincecomb and Mike Santos tied for fourth place with a net 67.

The CCC has their summer tournaments set and a schedule can be picked up at the Pro Shop. The dining room is open each Friday night and Sunday at noon.

Robinson receives TALL Alumni award

By: Kathleen Phillips

AUSTIN — Clint Robinson, a farmer and agribusinessman from Lubbock, has been named the 2011 TALL Alumni of the Year.

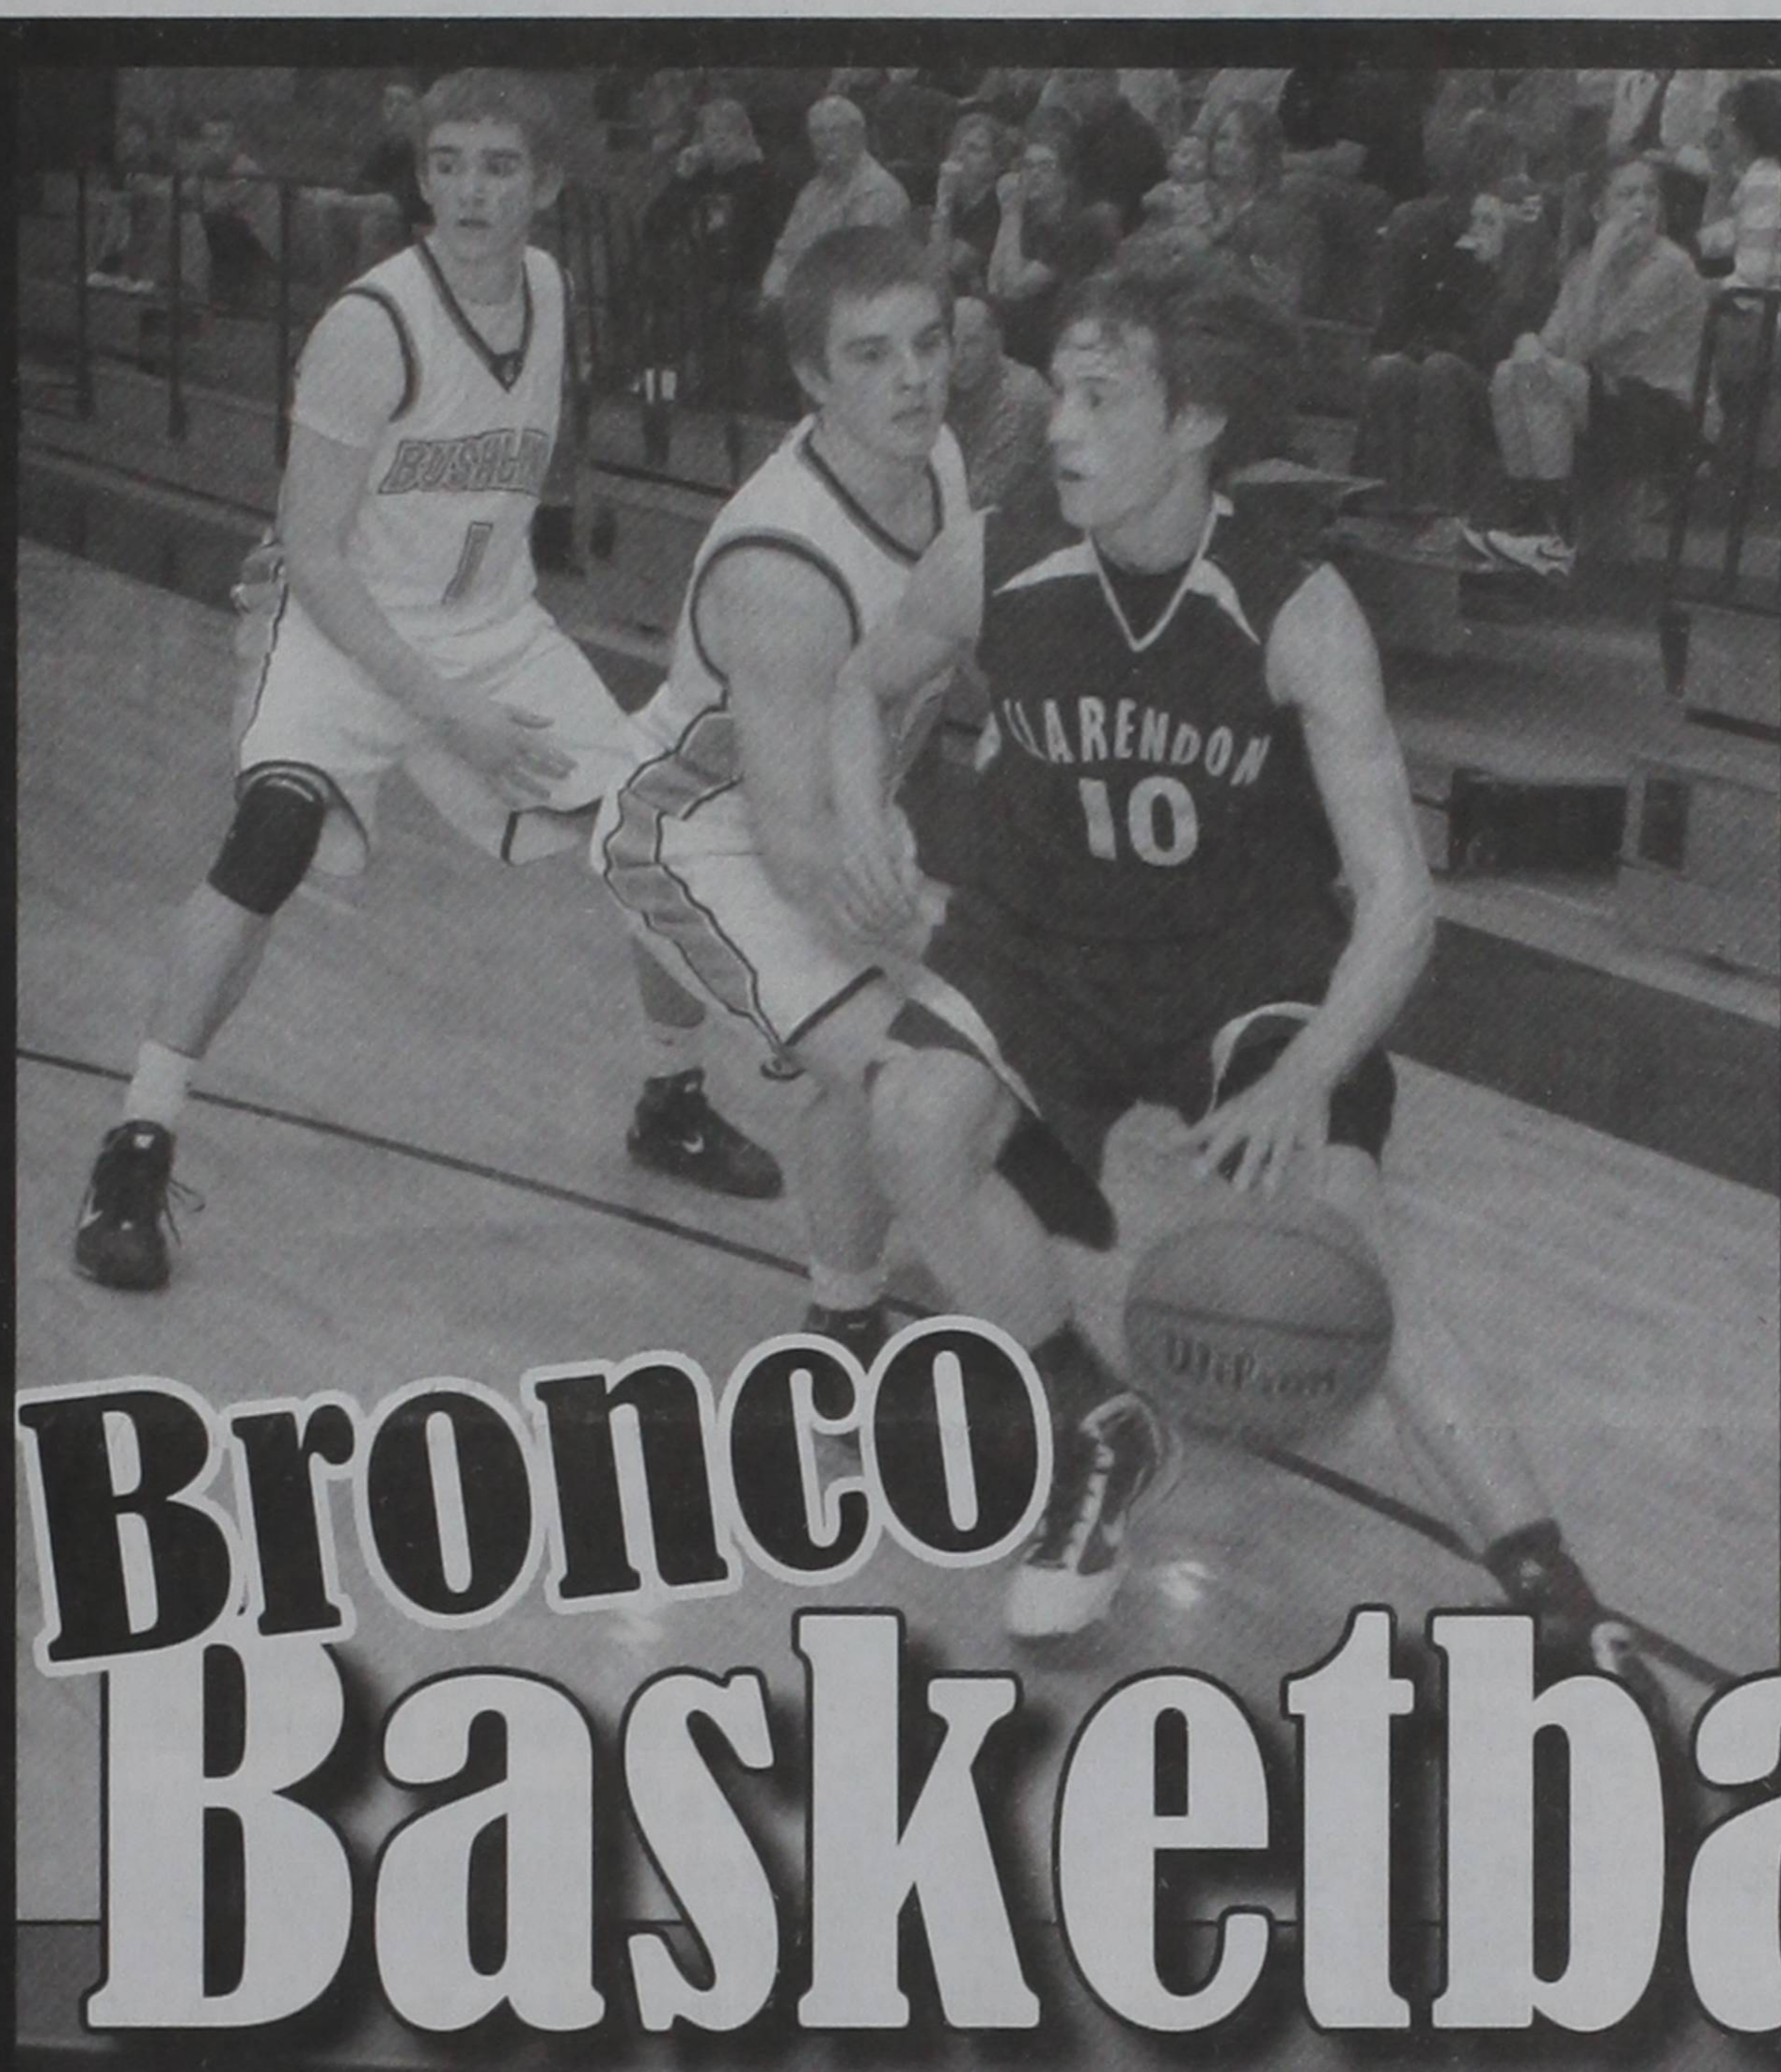

TALL, or Texas Agriculture Lifetime Leadership, is a program of the Texas AgriLife Extension Service. It is a two-year leadership development program for adult professionals involved in Texas agriculture with the aim of helping to foster understanding and encourage positive action on key issues, theories, policy and economics to advance the agriculture industry, according to Dr. Jim Mazurkiewicz, TALL director.

The program has trained 280 people who are now serving in leadership roles in the agricultural industry, he said.

Robinson is a 1983 graduate of Texas Tech University with a degree in agricultural and applied economics.

He has been an agricultural lender with the Farm Credit System for the past 26 years and currently serves as senior vice president and branch manager for Capital Farm Credit in Lubbock. In addition, he maintains a 350-acre farming and ranching operation producing cotton, wheat and cattle.

He also is treasurer of the Lubbock County Extension Ag Committee, treasurer of the Boys and Girls Club of Lubbock, a member of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Ag Committee and a member of the Downtown Chapter of the American business Club

USDA taking applications for Rural Economic funding

TEMPLE – Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack last week announced that USDA is accepting applications for loans and grants to create jobs and spur economic development. Funding is provided through the Rural Economic Development Loan and Grant (REDLG) program.

"In his State of the Union address, President Obama laid out a vision for 'winning the future,' with a call to 'out-innovate, out-educate, and out-build the rest of the world,'" said Vilsack. "These investment opportunities will promote business expansion and entrepreneurship by helping local businesses get access to capital, technical assistance and new markets for their products and services."

REDLG provides loan and grant funding for rural projects through local utility cooperatives.

Under the program, USDA provides zero-interest loans and limited grant support to utilities. The funds are re-loaned to local businesses (ultimate recipients) for projects that will create and retain employment in rural areas. For more information on this program, visit http://www.rurdev.usda.gov/BCP_redlg.html.

Applications from the utility cooperative must be received by March 31 for 3rd quarter funding and June 30 for 4th quarter funding. Completed applications must be postmarked and submitted to the Texas USDA Rural Development Office, 101 South Main, Suite 102, Temple, Texas 76501 or submitted electronically at <http://www.grants.gov> by the provided deadlines. An application must contain all of the required elements to prevent negatively impacting the overall score. For further details about eligibility rules and application procedures, see the February 14, 2011 issue of the Federal Register, page 8334.

USDA, through its Rural Development mission area, administers and manages more than 40 housing, business and community infrastructure and facility programs through a national network of state and local offices. These programs are designed to improve the economic stability of rural communities, businesses, residents, farmers and ranchers and improve the quality of life in rural America. Rural Development has an existing portfolio of nearly $146 billion in loans and loan guarantees. For additional information or an application package, contact Billy Curb at (254) 742-9780. For further information regarding USDA Rural Development Programs, visit our web site at <http://www.rurdev.usda.gov>.

Fluoxetine Benefit in Stroke Recovery

Researchers have found that fluoxetine (Prozac), a widely used medication used for depression, could improve a person's ability to recover from a stroke, when given after an ischemic stroke. This new study was reported in The Lancet Neurology. Ischemic strokes are caused by a lack of blood flow to the brain. Paralysis and weakness in the limbs on one side of the body can occur. This study assigned 118 people to treatment with either fluoxetine or placebo after stroke onset. After three months, significantly greater improvements in overall (both upper and lower limb) motor function were found in those persons who took fluoxetine versus placebo. In addition, those who received fluoxetine were found to be significantly more physically independent than those in the placebo treatment group.

In general, fluoxetine was well tolerated and side-effects were mild. However, some experienced nausea and abdominal pain. The positive effect of fluoxetine on motor function suggests that there may be a new treatment for the treatment of ischemic strokes that includes the use of the SSRI type drugs.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

"A rose by any other name would smell as sweet", so said Juliet Capulet from a play by Shakespeare. Juliet ponders Romeo's last name and the problems that it brings. If his name had been different, he would still be the one for her but with much less heartache. He would gladly change his name...if he could.

While names aren't that important in some instances, I believe it is very important in the arena of religion. A person who followed Jesus and became one of His disciples became known by several names. Three times this person was called Christian. Acts 11:26, "And the disciples were first called Christians in Antioch." In Acts 26:28, King Agrippa tells Paul that he almost persuades him to become a Christian. 1 Peter 4:16, Peter tells disciples of Christ to "suffer as Christians." His message was that if you are going to suffer, don't suffer for murder or any other evil but suffer for being a Christian.

Christians were also known as: brethren, disciples, saints, priests, etc. All of these are perfectly legitimate names because they are Biblical. It's the names that some wear today that concern me and should concern us all. Because the intent of this article is not to anger, offend, or try to denigrate, I will not use the many various denominational names that many call themselves today. What I would like for us all to focus on is the question, "Why call ourselves by any other name than one found in scriptures?" Somewhere in the past, a person or persons decided they had something better to be called by than one found in scriptures. One might reply as Juliet, "What's in a name?" If the name doesn't matter, why not call ourselves "The Devil's Advocates" or "Satan's Helpers?" Well that's silly, preacher, why would we do that? I would say the reason for doing that would be no worse or better than to call ourselves by some man given name. No one but Jesus died for you. If you remember in your New Testament, Paul had this conversation in 1 Corinthians 1:10 and following. Some were pointing out that some had been baptized by Apollos, or Cephas, etc. Paul said Christ died for you and not to be causing division by promoting themselves by all of these men's names.

Calling ourselves names that are unbiblical, is just one way of promoting division and not unity. Remember in the book of John, verses 13-26, Jesus prayed for unity. How in the world are we showing respect or being obedient to the Son of God's prayer by calling ourselves by names the Lord never even heard of? It is shameful! It is perfectly fine for two or more sport teams to call themselves by different names to differentiate who they are, but people that CHRIST died for to do that is a terrible thing. I hear people on one hand say that Jesus is their personal Savior, yet, the name on the building in which they worship Him is not even there! "Consistency thou art a jewel." Some of us have run out of jewelry!

Now a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, but a Christian calling him or herself by any other name is plain disrespectful and causes division. I pray that WE would ALL think about our consistency or lack of consistency as we strive to please Jesus and not man. Jesus died for us and will judge us.
