First of a Series Texas Education Agency Report

AUSTIN--Texas, increasingly an urban state, is now sending 40 percent of its school children to class in just four counties: Dallas, Harris, Tarrant, and Bexar.

At the same time, 65 other counties each have fewer than 1,500 pupils attending public school in the farm and ranch areas of the state.

These two extremes, and the changes they are generating throughout the public school system, keynote the 1966-68

Report released Thursday (January 23) by the Texas Education Agency. Copies were sent today to Governor Preston Smith, former Governor John Connally, Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes, members of the Legislature, school superintendents, college and university libraries, and organizations throughout the state interested in education.

The 110-page document details progress made by the public schools from September 1, 1966 through August 31, 1968. School enrollment rose five percent, from 2,493,390 pupils in 1965-66 to 2,615,623 in 1967-68. However, the rate of growth was below the six percent recorded during the 1964-65 period.

IN THE BASKET.....Mike Slayden, an eighth grader had an eagle eye on this shot and made the basket.

Seventh, Ninth Grades Takes Championship

Muleshoe Junior High School's seventh, eighth and ninth grade basketball team warmed the hearts of coaches, parents and fans by winning the largest basketball tournament of its kind ever held in Muleshoe. Participating in the tournament were Bovina, Farwell, Morton, Dimmitt, Hereford (La Plata), Levelland, Littlefield, Springlake and Muleshoe. Thursday through Saturday night at MJH gym was the time. The sharp-shooting of Perry Stockard, Lee Clodfelter and Charles Ray Young coordinated with extremely active teammates won Muleshoe two first place championships and a second place, to win the three-day tournament.

Consolation trophies were won by the Littlefield 8th grade and Springlake 9th graders. Third place trophies were won by Farwell 7th grade, Levelland 8th grade and La Plata (Hereford) 9th grade. The Morton 7th, Muleshoe 8th and Morton 9th grade teams took second place honors.

Championship honors went to Muleshoe 7th grade who won in the finals, over Morton scoring a 41 to 38 win, after going into a two minute overtime. Half time score was 22 to 17.

It has been rumored that Perry Stockard is being measured for a suit of armor for protection against over-enthusiastic opponents. Stockard was game high point man, scoring 22 points; George Mitchell, 7; Ronnie Purckett, 5; Freddie Locker, 4; Don Long, 2; and Mack Bruns, 1.

The MJH 9th grade team walked off with another first trophy, taking Morton 54 to 53 in the finals after going into three minutes overtime. Half time score was as close, with Cont'd. on Page 3 Col. 3

Mrs. Mills allegedly stepped into the path of a car driven by James Rittenberry, 26, Amarillo, Texas. Rittenberry told police he did not see the woman until just before his vehicle struck her.

She suffered injuries to the head and shoulder. No citations were issued, Clovis police said.

New Grass Seed Approved by State

A new high yielding grass variety has been approved for certification by the State Seed and Plant Board and released for public use, Henry B. Stoneham of the local Soil Conservation Service reported this week.

Called Selection 75 Klein-grass, it is a palatable, drought resistant tame pasture grass which is being released for certified seed production, Stoneham said. SCS and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Stations joined in the release after both agencies cooperated in making evaluation plantings across the state.

Stoneham said the newly certified grass is one of the most promising ones developed in Texas in recent years. He pointed out, however, that it will never replace top grasses already in use—it just gives livestock men another good grass to choose from when planting improved pastures. Selections of Kleingrass were

Johnson Gives Senior Citizens Travelogue

Fred Johnson, speaking at the Senior Citizens' meeting Monday afternoon in Fellowship Hall, told of his own Norwegian background and a lifelong wish to see the land of his ancestors. He said, however, he had been influenced early in life by a teacher who made mythology come alive for him and that his longing to see Greece was stronger than his wish to see Norway, so it was that he and Mrs. Johnson traveled to Greece, the island of Crete and other places during the summer of 1968.

"Every people have their own story of creation", he stated, and then told his listeners the Greeks believe Man was created for the express purpose of tormenting the Gods and that Woman was made to torment Man.

He spoke of their pleasure in visiting the island of Crete where the temperature varies between 70 and 80, summer or winter, where the moist air prevents glare such as we know here. He said "The Mediterranean Sea is bluer than other waters because it is saltier, the result of no rivers emptying into it. He told of ancient cities, as much as 5400 years old, where modern day plumbing can be seen and of brass water pipes still intact in palaces.

Ephesus, a city prominent in both Greek and Asian history, Johnson said, is thought by many to be where St. John spent his last years. "It is also said to have been the home of Mary, Mother of Jesus," he stated.

Following the talk, Johnson showed slides of Istanbul, Turkey.

Mrs. Mervin Wilterding and Mrs. Mary Young assisted in serving the forty or more members attending.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of Chantilly lace and lined organza, fashioned with lace bodice, long petal point sleeves and scalloped sabrina neckline. A bias fold encircled the Empire waistline, accented with self bow, and a lace band extended down the front of the A-line skirt. Four bands of lace enhanced the chapel train. A floral cluster edged in pearls held a veil of imported silk illusion. The bridal bouquet was a single white orchid with feathered carnations and stephanotis on a white Bible, lace covered.

Mrs. Jerry Engelking, of Lazbuddie, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. David Beeson, of Lubbock, and Mrs. Otis Cabe, of Brownfield. Junior bridesmaids were Misses Terri and Jerri Slayton, of Plainview. They wore identical royal blue street length dresses, fashioned with scalloped neckline, bell sleeves and Empire waist over the A-line skirts, with matching shoes. They carried white mums edged with blue, with streamers.

Vicki Piland of Lubbock, the flower girl, carried a white lace petal basket.

Candles were lighted by Jay Mazy, of Andrews, and Rodger Slayton, of Plainview, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Sam McKinstry was hostess to Dorcas Circle of United Methodist Church Tuesday morning.

It was agreed that the next meeting of the circle will be held in Fellowship Hall and immediately after they will decorate for that evening. Wigs, Wiglets Discussed

Mrs. C.E. Crume of Farwell was hostess to Progress Home Demonstration Club Tuesday, January 21.

Mrs. Crume read "Formula for Living" for the opening exercise. Mrs. O.M. Self gave the Council report; the Council recommendations were adopted.

A discussion of "Wigs and Wiglets" was given by Mrs. John Porter, a Farwell beauty operator. She talked of the origin, care and prices of wigs. The new look for spring is soft waves and curls, she said. She also stated women of America abuse their hair more than other women in the world by bleaching, coloring and back-combing, telling the women that if better care is not taken of their hair, a lot of women will be bald in a few years. "Old fashioned brushing and a good diet is still the best way to have healthy hair," Mrs. Porter said. She told the women the machine permanent is coming back, with some improvements-oil and moisture will be added while curling the hair.

Refreshments of cake, coffee and spiced tea were served by Mrs. Crume to Mrs. Porter and the following members: Mrs. Self, Mrs. E.W. Bass, the club president, Mrs. Albert Davis, Mrs. Gordon Murrain, Mrs. Ben Roming, Mrs. George Gross, Mrs. Joe Smallwood, Mrs. Clinton Rogers, and Mrs. Davis Gully.

Read Romans 15:1-7.

Now the God of patience and consolation grant you to be likened one toward another according to Christ Jesus. (Romans 12:12) During World War II, a bride of only a few weeks was forced to move in with her husband's parents. The parents, who had not approved of their son's marriage, made life extremely unpleasant for her.

Feeling she could stand the conditions no longer, she decided to write to her husband of her dissatisfaction. As she sat trying to decide how to word her letter, the postman delivered a letter from her husband. When she tore open the envelope, the first thing she saw was the postscript on the back of the letter. It read: "There's nothing we can do here except wait for the planes to come, but I guess we can be patient, God is."

That sentence changed the entire course of her life. She did not write the complaint letter. Instead, she began working patiently to win the love of her in-laws.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY Chief among the essentials for a meaningful life is the virtue of patience.

Library News

By Anne Camp

In the annual report that the library makes to the Texas State Library - we show that 19,005 books were checked out during the year 1968; we show that we added 1,235 new books, which brought our total of Muleshoe owned books up to 5,902. With the books furnished by the State and the bookmobile, Muleshoe and area patrons should now have about 16,000 books for their use.

The library had a nice sort of New Year's gift for books, $25.00 which was presented to us by the June Wagnons. We have already ordered books with this, along with 50 new Memorial books; and all should be on the shelves soon.

A new book concerning our own locale, and which we received this week as a gift from Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hall - is the History of Lamb County - featuring biographies of many pioneer families, and compiled and published by Evalyn Parrott Scott of Sudan, Texas.

Here are some of the books added in December and January: Why not clip this from the paper to refer to: NEW BOOKS: Hunter's Green - (a delightful Phyllis Whitney mystery) Airport by Arthur Hailey (Many enjoyed his "Hotel") Sing Loose - (A teenager whose father has just returned from prison)

Where can I find God? (an easy book for the child who wants to know things) Little songs for Little People - an excellent Parents Magazine Press book Fred, Fred, Use your head - one of three children's books with a lesson The Strawberry Thumb -- about the little girl with the delicious thumb, The Child who never grew - Pearl S. Buck writing as only a mother of an afflicted child could - with pathos and feeling. Rock Gardening -- Much information for the popular rock gardeners - from creating a plan to the seeding & enjoying. The Common Sense Way to Stock Market profits by Claude Rosenberg Machaquilla - A "lost Colony" This Stranger, My Son - A Dr. and his wife try to deal with the problem of their mentally disturbed son. The Other Side by former Bishop James A. Pike - A father tells of some amazing phenomena before and after his son's death. Excerpts of this came out in recent Look magazine The Story of Vietnam by Hal Dareff What your hands reveal - the art of palmistry

A Lifetime with Lions - by Adamson--another by author of Born Free etc.

Fruits for the Home Garden - How, when, where and what to plant or set out.

Green Thumb Tips

continue to grow the same variety your grandfather did?

Those pictures in the seed catalogs always make gardeners drool and wish their flowers and vegetables would look like the pictures.

If you follow the routine used by the seedsman you'll start with a good chance of accomplishing this.

Prepare soil thoroughly before sowing seeds. Start fertilizing with a starter solution poured over newly planted seeds. Continue to fertilize every 2 or 3 weeks.

Keep dead and faded flowers picked or cut them off regularly so plants will produce more flowers.

And water deeply, thoroughly, when there is no rain for a week.

Quality, that is eating quality of beans is measured by the absence of strings, the tenderness of the pod and by the flavor when you taste them.

You'll find that all of the newer varieties measure up to these standards. So why con-

Northern gardeners will do well to protect young plants of perennials with a light weight, non-packing mulch which admits air.

Such materials as straw, evergreen boughs, salt hay or tobacco stems may be used, depending on their availability.

When you're ordering seeds, turn to the back of the catalog and explore the listing of sundries.

Every gardener needs some of these, but others, while not necessities, are a real convenience. Why not treat yourself to a few like weatherproof pencils for marking on plant labels, or some sturdy plant supports?

Moisture is of utmost importance in the garden. During winter look over your lot to make certain none is running off in erosion, rather than seeping into the soil.

Recipe of the Week

CHEESE TARTS

Here is a French cheese tart like that I learned to make at the school of the Three Gourmets in Paris, which can be used as an hors d'oeuvre or possibly as a meat substitute. The following portions are enough to fill eight 3-inch molds, sixteen 1 1/2-inch molds or equivalents.

- 1 cup grated Gruyere or Swiss cheese
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1 egg
- Pinch salt, pepper, nutmeg.

Beat egg, cream and seasoning in mixing bowl until blended. Stir in half the grated cheese. Taste to check seasonings. Sprinkle rest of cheese into unbaked pastry shells (your favorite pie pastry). Fill pastry shells to two-thirds level and bake at 375° about 15 or 20 minutes or until puffed and brown (knife plunged in center should remove cleanly). These tarts will remain puffed about ten minutes in a turned-off oven with door ajar.

Price Would Extend Great Plains Conservation Program

A bill to extend the Great Plains Conservation Program for ten years beyond its 1971 expiration date has been introduced by Panhandle Congressman Bob Price.

Created by Congress in 1956 in an effort to halt deterioration from serious dust storms and water erosion in a 10-state area, Price said the critical needs of the program cannot be met by the end of 1971. "When the next extended drought occurs -- a periodic phenomena we have learned to expect -- the plains area of the nation should never again suffer the damage of the past," he said.

"More than 31,500 farmers and ranchers have entered into long-term contracts to complete the total conservation job on some 57 million acres," Price said. "This is a good beginning but the job is far from complete."

"Progress in the Great Plains Conservation Program which includes all of the Panhandle and south plains area has increased each year in Texas since it was started," Price said. "The program has demonstrated its ability to do the following things:

First, assist small low-income farmers to make maximum use of their resources thus improving and stabilizing farm income;

Second, accelerate land treatment of critical sediment and wind erosion areas;

Third, reduce maintenance cost of public utilities, businesses, etc., and reduce pollution of water and air;

Fourth, stimulate local economy, local pride and confidence in conservation program objectives; and Fifth, make rural areas more attractive places in which to live and encourage people to stay in the country or to move back to the country.

I feel that these five accomplishments of the Great Plains conservation program fully meet an urgent demand for rural improvement by creating new jobs, improving living standards of low-income groups, stopping migration of rural people to urban areas, stimulating local economy, and reducing pollution of our air and water and more than justify its extensions," Price concluded.

"Summary of rears Action of Rainbow Girls."

The Earth Order of Rainbow for Girls have had a busy year in 1968 under the leadership of Donita Kelley, Camilla Haberer and Mary Nell Walker as worthy advisers and Mrs. Donald Kelley as Mother Advisor.

In May the girls hosted a Friendship Night with girls from several neighboring as-semblies attending.

As a charity program the girls collected old hose that were sent to mental and children's hospitals and were used to stuff pillows and toys.

As home projects, the girls visited the shut-in's and sick, and presented their sunshine boxes and cheered them with smiles and songs. They also kept the yard around the Masonic Hall free of weeds and debris.

Along with the work there has been fun and play. They entered a float in the Rodeo Parade. They also sold candy for a fund raising project.

Six of the local girls attended the 1968 Grand Assembly. Two Grand appointments were named to Annita and Donita Kelley as Junior members of the Grand Music Committee.

During the year the girls participated in joint meetings with Lockney, Petersburg and Plainville.

Q -- My husband died as a result of injuries received in World War II. He obtained a G.I. home loan during his lifetime, which is now paid off. Am I, as his widow, also eligible for a loan?

A -- Yes. Any unremarried widow of a World War II or Korean Conflict veteran may be eligible for a G.I. home loan if her husband's death was service-connected. The fact that the veteran may have obtained a loan does not effect the widow's entitlement.

It's Possible A little fellow was listening to a story about the great adventures of another little boy. When the story was finished, he asked, "What about the mother?"

VETERANS Q's and A's

Q -- For some time I have had the Veterans Administration retain my G.I. insurance dividends, but I just got a letter saying I should apply for reinstatement of my policy. I know that I have enough dividends to cover the premium due. What happened?

A -- With your present option, the dividends you have left on deposit with VA do draw interest. However, they are like a bank account; the VA cannot use these dividends to pay your G.I. insurance premiums without your permission.

To insure that your policy will not lapse in the future, you should change your dividend option to provide that dividends will be used to pay the insurance premiums in advance, as they accrue.

You will be furnished a statement each time dividends are applied, letting you know how far ahead you are paid, when the next premium is due, and the amount of any partial credit left over.

Q -- I am told that my non-service-connected pension payment will be increased soon. When will I receive my increased payments?

Vietnam News

as reported by Marine Corps Combat Correspondents and edited by Cysgt. Bob Montgomery

A baby was dying. The young Vietnamese nurse looked hurriedly at the infant, shrugged and said, "Baby die. Sosad..."

Then the nurse turned, picked up her purse and hurried to lunch, leaving the dying baby.

Dr. Jerry Kilpatrick, Atlanta, Ga., a young Navy lieutenant in the Medical Corps, couldn't believe it. He stood, rooted, his eyes following the nurse who was going home for her lunch hour.

Kilpatrick moved to the infant's bed, gently lifted it and carried it into surgery. The child needed blood. It was anemic.

He worked fast, but couldn't help but wonder if it would be fast enough. The child was sinking...

For two hours the American doctor watched the child, massaging the infant's chest softly when it appeared the heart would stop. Slowly the child's body relaxed, and the baby slept.

The nurse returned, spotted the American and moved towards him. She felt the baby's heart beat which now was steady and stronger.

She smiled, a look of amazement on her face.

"Many patients who die, die no more," she grinned.

"That was it," said Navy Comdr. Travis L. Bolton. "That was what we needed. We came here to help the Vietnamese. To assist and to advise. But the Vietnamese didn't see it that way at first."

"They figured we were another bunch of 'do gooders' who'd push our methods on them for a while, and then we'd get bored and bid our time until we were rotated home."

"But," he smiled, "we fooled them. We didn't get bored. We stayed interested and we worked right along with them. We've won their confidence, I believe. But, there's more."

He frowned, and as though thinking aloud, nearly whispered, "now all we have to do is keep it."

Bolton is more than a Navy commander in the Medical Corps. He gave up a successful practice in Covington, Tenn., to head a team of Navy personnel in Vietnam.

There is a shortage of doctors in Vietnam. Nearly 90-percent of the doctors are in the armed forces of the Republic of Vietnam.

A large hospital in Hoi An had a staff of two Vietnamese doctors and a small staff of male and female nurses. One of the doctors was drafted into military service.

The hospital has 270 beds. The hospital has, generally, 360 patients.

There was no running water in the hospital, except in surgery. There were no screens on the open windows, and flies were everywhere.

Nearly all the patients had infectious diseases, typhoid plague or malaria.

"Tuberculosis is rampant," said Bolton.

There were other problems. There was no oxygen in pediatrics.

The people, including the nurses, were superstitious. A woman suffering from convulsions was left to roll and gag on the floor.

Patients would first consult a Chinese "doctor" in Hoi An. His "cure-alls" consisted of putting animal excreta on open sores. A solution used as an eye wash has almost blinded other patients.

Paint was falling from the roof of the hospital, from the pipes and the walls, throughout the wards, laboratories and in surgery...

Filth accumulated in piles in the street...

There were no sewerage facilities...

THIS was a hospital? A place of sterilization? Sanitation?

Doctors, nurses and midwives had a job, they worked from eight to five, taking breaks for breakfast, morning coffee, lunch, afternoon coffee and then they'd go home. They would stop ministering to a patient during their breaks.

"They just didn't care! We're making a lot of progress, but we don't deserve all the credit," Bolton said.

"There were two teams here before us which began the foundation, establishing the initial relationship."

What is MILPHAP? The Military Provincial Hospital Assistance Program is a team headed by Commander Bolton, surgeon; Dr. Kilpatrick, pediatrician and Dr. Anthony E. Petrelli, general practitioner, all Navy doctors, and Dr. Bob Prangani, a member of the International Rescue Committee, civilian.

Dr. Prangani was born in Bombay, India. A general surgeon, he was educated in India, London and the United States. He arrived in Vietnam 16 months ago to help the Vietnamese.

The Americans and the Indian are in Vietnam to advise, they don't "order", "push" or "coerce." They may suggest, advise and recommend. The Vietnamese hospital staff considers proposals and accepts or rejects them.

"Most of the medical personnel in Vietnam are trained and schooled in Hue. They're good. The staff here is excellent," said Bolton.

"They're well-educated; they know what to do and how to do it. The nurses are very good," added Kilpatrick. "In fact, the nurses here know more than our Navy corpsmen."

"When we first got here," said Bolton, "The doctor wouldn't speak to us at all. Actually," the American continued, "he isn't really a doctor. He's a nurse, but he's been in charge of the hospital here for 20-years."

The Americans went to work. They put up screens; they painted and installed air conditioners in surgery. They cleaned, scrubbed and rubbed...

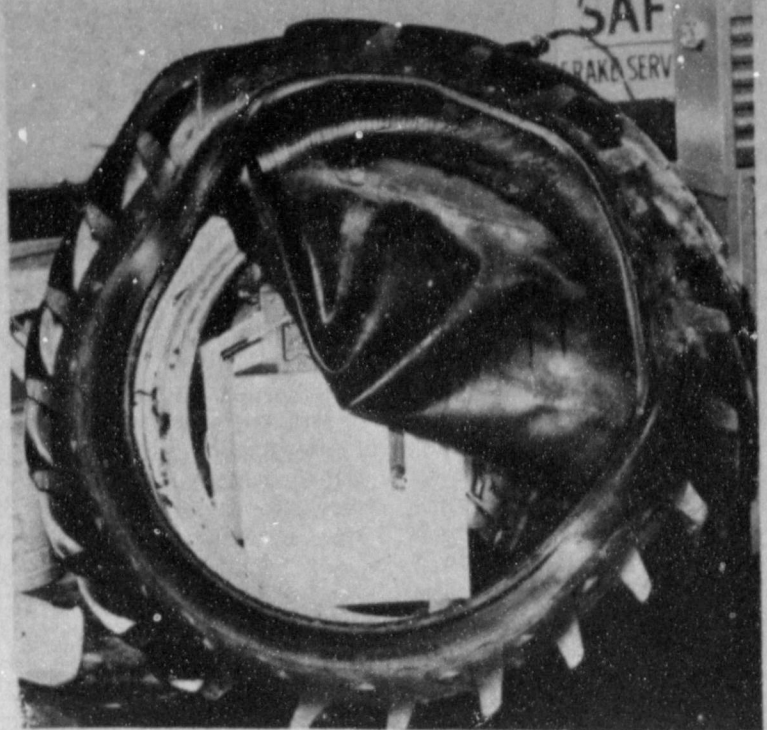

The Vietnamese doctor talks now. He speaks Vietnamese, French and English fluently.

U.S. Navy corpsmen treat between 40 and 55 Vietnamese daily during a sickcall. This does not include the patients in the hospital. Those in the hospital live in over-crowded conditions, some sleeping two to a bed.

It is the custom in Vietnam, that if a child is hospitalized, one of the parents remain with the child. This is because the parents feel they are responsible for the child's welfare.

In many hospitals, nurses give patients their daily medication in bottles or bags, and the patients are supposed to take their pills or medicines as required. Too many patients, however, do not have watches and therefore do not know when it is time to take their medication.

Also, children, given a handful of pills, will consume the entire day's dosage in one, quick gulp.

Viet Cong. Indeed, many have proven to be couriers for the enemy or members of enemy units.

Still, others are passive. They hold no love (nor hatred) for either side, content to be left alone.

"We are doctors," Bolton continued, "and as such, we are responsible to the injured, regardless of their color, religion or political beliefs. It may sound corny, but I assure you, it is true."

"Other programs have failed. We have not. Our success can be measured in the smiles of the children; the respect and handshakes of the elders and the cooperation of the Vietnamese Government."

"The days are long and often tedious. The rewards can't be measured. Listen to the laughter of the children..."

"You can't pocket it or spend it, but that's our reward...and I honestly believe we are very wealthy..."

"But the people often times can't get soap, and during the hot, dry summer months, water becomes scarce."

"Sure, we can give them water," he said, "and most of the time we can give them soap. But we need teachers; we desperately need educators; we need another operating table."

Many of the Vietnamese in the area are sympathetic to the Time and a half in pay should follow time and half in interest and work.

It's easy to give someone something that rightfully belongs to someone else.

Most people judge their fellowmen by the way they accept them and their ideas.

Sgt. Dickson At Tuy Hoa AB

WITH U. S. COMBAT AIR FORCES, Vietnam - Sergeant Richard Dickson, nephew of Roland M. Cairney, 1118 Lake St., Melrose Park, Ill., is on duty at Tuy Hoa AB, Vietnam.

Sergeant Dickson, an automotive repairman, is a member of the Pacific Air Forces. Before his arrival in Southeast Asia, he was assigned to Cannon AFB, N. M.

The sergeant is a 1961 graduate of Proviso East High School, Maywood, Ill.

His wife, Tommie, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Clayton, Muleshoe, Tex.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service have just released a summary of the 1968 High Plains Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program showing a base control zone of 168,000 acres sprayed from one to six times for an aggregate total of 616,829 acres.

All cost figures have not yet been finalized, but the approximate total will come to about $800,000 according to Ed Dean, PCG Field Service Director. The program is jointly financed by cotton producers on the Plains, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Primary objective of the program is to prevent the westward spread of boll weevils across the High Plains, New Mexico, Arizona and on into California. And from this standpoint Dean states that the program can again be termed successful, as it has been since 1964.

However Dean pointed out that in terms of weevils remaining in control zone cotton when 1968 sprayings were terminated the "degree of effectiveness" fell short of the high standard set in previous years.

Each year since the program began in 1964 weevils left in control zone fields have numbered less than 10 per cent of those remaining in adjacent fields outside the zone.

Surveys to determine weevil numbers in both treated and untreated fields were conducted periodically throughout the spray operation, but the final inspection in 1968 came November 9 to 11, after "check fields" in Dickens and Motley Counties had been either desiccated or harvested.

Consequently the only figures available for comparison on the final check are those from fields in Kent County, representing the heavier infestations in the control zone and also the area where greatest reinfestation from outside the zone took place after each spraying.

Treated fields in Kent County at the end of the program were estimated to have an average of 2,360 potential hibernating weevils per acre, according to the report of Dr. Dale Bottrell, research entomologist with the South Plains Research and Experiment Station and Lyndon Almond, Area Extension Entomologist.

The same report shows 4,912 potential hibernating weevils per acre in Kent county outside the control zone, for a 52 per cent reduction.

But both entomologists and Dean agree that this percentage figure does not reflect the total effectiveness of the 1968 program because of the extremely heavy Kent County infestations and the reinfestation caused by migration from untreated fields.

Acres in the weevil control zone had been steadily reduced each year until 1968, from almost 300,000 in 1964 to 118,000 in 1967. But the control zone for 1968 jumped back to 168,000 acres when heavy migration made it necessary to spray for the first time about 50,000 acres in Dawson, Borden and Lynn counties.

This unprecedented southern invasion, like the reduced effectiveness of spraying in the standard control zone, entomologists believe to be the result of excellent insect reproducing weather in 1968. Not only boll weevils but greenbugs, screwworm flies and other insects reached record numbers, creating pressure for migration not present before.

But now that the pattern has been set, Dean is of the opinion that this acreage in Dawson, Borden and Lynn Counties will have to be included as a part of the 1969 control zone.

The producer's part of control costs have been paid for at the rate of 50 cents per bale in 1964 and 65, 40 cents per bale in 1966 and 67 and 25 cents per bale in 1968.

"The per-bale amount that will be needed from producers to assure continued control of weevils in 1969 has not yet been determined," Dean said, "but any increase in the size of the control zone of course will have to be taken into consideration."

The past year also saw the heaviest weevil infestation in history in Midland, Glasscock and southern Martin Counties, all to the south of the High Plains area.

In addition, very small weevil numbers were found late in the season as far west as Andrews and Gaines counties, but entomologists agree that these were purely migratory weevils and do not constitute an established infestation.

A line of pheromone or so-called sex traps, a proven tool for detecting extremely sparse weevil populations, will be placed all along the eastern edge of Dawson County and along the southern borders of Dawson and Gaines counties to the New Mexico lines this year. According to Dean these traps, plus manual surveys, will keep a constant gauge on the danger to PCG counties from weevils that might come in from Martin or Andrews counties.

"The weevil is a very large elusive and sometimes unpredictable insect and the moves he made in 1968 are a good indication of what he is capable of doing under favorable conditions even when we are fighting him with everything we have," Dean said.

"So we are going to maintain a constant alert on his every move. Otherwise we could not hope to keep him under control and protect our vast cotton acreage."
