MIRACULOUS ESCAPE OF CATTLEMEN

Automobile Plunges Over Ten Foot Bridge and Turas Turtle.—J. M. Dobie Caught Beneath Wreckage.

IS RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

J. M. Dobie, wealthy cattleman R. L. Keithley, his foreman, and J. B. Henderson, Manager of the Cartwright ranch, miraculously escaped death last Monday morning when an automobile driven by Mr. Dobie plunged off the bridge that spans the lower branch of Abito creek, in the Black pasture twelve miles below town.

Mr. Dobie was pinned beneath the car and at first was thought to be seriously if not fatally injured. Mr. Henderson was hurled thirty feet and was injured in the back. Mr. Keithley leaped and came out with only a few scratches.

The men were on their way to town, and were running about twenty or twenty five miles per hour, when they approached the bridge where the trouble occurred. A lot of loose dirt had been thrown up at the approach and as the car struck this it swerved and in an instant leaped on the bridge, crashed against the railing and plunged to the ground ten feet below. Keithley sitting in the front seat, made a successful jump. Henderson, riding in the rear seat, as the car fell, was hurled forward about 30 feet.

Dobie had no chance to get away from the steering wheel and went down with the car and was crumpled beneath it. Henderson and Keithley came to the rescue as soon as possible, and said about six inches of one of Mr. Dobie's legs was the only part of his body visible. He was groaning but answered when they spoke and requested that the car be gotten off him as soon as possible. They set to work to accomplish this and in a short while had jacked up sufficiently to relieve the pressure on his body. Henderson then set out to W. A. Kerr's place for assistance. He telephoned for both doctors and they were driven to the scene by Sheriff Poole with all speed possible. The injured man was brought to Cotulla and rushed to San Antonio on a special train. It was at first thought that his injuries were serious, but on examination at the hospital it was found that no bones were broken, but his left hip was dislocated, and there was a very bad scalp wound. Of course he was badly bruised all over the body. His scalp was torn from just above the eye backward for five inches, exposing a portion of the skull that could hardly be covered by one's hand. Notwithstanding this Mr. Dobie never lost consciousness, and directed Keithly and Henderson in raising the weight of the car off him.

After the excitement Mr. Henderson proved to be hurt worse than at first thought for, principally in the back and bruised. He was confined to his bed for several days. Had the car had a top there would have been no chance for any of the men and as it was it was miraculous how they escaped with as little injury. Reports from the hospital state that Mr. Dobie is progressing nicely and will be out in a couple of weeks and perhaps in less time. The injured man has hundreds of friends all over Southwest Texas.

LET'S SHOW 'EM WHAT WE HAVE.

To Be Classed as School of First Class.

The Cotulla High School is eligible to classification as a High School of the first class, according to a letter received yesterday by Prof. Taylor from State Superintendent F. M. Bralley. Prof. Taylor had made application for the school to be rated as first class, and the information is given that certificate will be sent as soon as the board makes purchase of additional apparatus for physics. The advancement in the classification of the school speaks a great deal for the progress made in the past few years. Following is a copy of the letter bearing on the matter.

Supt. R. A. Taylor, Cotulla, Texas.

Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your application for the classification of the Cotulla High School as a high school of the first class. All information submitted by you has been carefully examined. I have also carefully considered all matters submitted by you in consultation with us in this office on Monday, August 18. The information submitted shows that the school is eligible to classification as a high school of the first class. Accordingly this classification is given, and a certificate will be sent to you as soon as we receive an official statement from the board that additional apparatus for physics will be purchased.

Respectfully yours, F. M. Bralley, State Superintendent.

Mexican Injured While Chasing Steer.

Conrad Gonzales, a cowboy on the Cochina Ranch, was injured in the left shoulder Monday evening while chasing a steer. The horse Gonzales was riding jumped a large pear bush and as he landed fell throwing the rider several yards. Gonzales was brought in to the doctor, and suffered considerable pain, but beyond a dislocated shoulder and bruises was not hurt much.

Recovering from Fall off Wagon.

Andy Mewhirter, who sustained injuries in the back and otherwise some three weeks ago, when he fell from a hay wagon is now able to sit up and get around a little in an invalid's chair. Mr. Mewhirter fell from the top of a load of hay, his back striking some heavy kaffir stubble.

Left Fingers in Top of Windmill.

J. A. Conlan was the victim of a very painful accident last Sunday at the La Motta ranch, and as a result he is minus two fingers on his right hand. Mr. Conlan was at the ranch and in the afternoon he climbed to the top of a 36-foot windmill to see if he could locate a "knocking" that had developed somewhere in the machinery. He located the trouble and started to the ground to get a wrench, when his hand caught in a part of the machinery and he watched it cut two of his fingers off as smooth as if they had been with a razor. As he was released, leaving the fingers dangling in the gears he started to the ground the blood streaming from his hand. No one was at the ranch except Mrs. Burk and a little niece of Mr. Conlan's and they could not bear the sight of the blood, consequently it devolved on Mr. Conlan to dress his own injury and stop the flow of blood the best he could and he made a pretty good job of it. The Dobie ranch was phoned and Mr. Dobie and Lee Keithly came up to bring him to town, but about the time they arrived, Jack Baylor came from the pasture, and brought him in, making the trip in one hour and seven minutes.

Toured Texas in a Ford.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Keck, their daughter, Miss Cora and two small sons, Lewis and Harold, returned home Wednesday after a month's absence, during which time they toured Texas their Ford automobile. They did not cover all Texas but a good portion of it, and Mr. Keck stated that they went to all the principal cities in the state except El Paso. They went far North as Dallas and Ft. Worth, and then to Houston and Galveston, spending several days at the latter place enjoying the bathing. The distance covered on the trip was about 2,500 miles. Mr. Keck said he kept track of the gasoline used from Cotulla to Dallas, and found that he made nearly 22 miles to the gallon. All of the family enjoyed the vacation immensely, and E. A. shows that the infinkols they visited fed him well.

Examining Trial to Be Held Monday.

Two arrests have been made in connection with the Caudel murder, on charges preferred by Walter Caudel, son of the slain man. The date of the examining trial of the parties has been set for Monday, 25th inst.

Child Found in Austin for Treatment.

Mary, three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. R. Bell, was found Tuesday evening and Wednesday night Mr. Bell took the child to Austin, at the same time expressing the head of the dog examination. It proved that the dog did have hydrophobia and while the bite was so serious that there was thought to be but little danger to the child it was advised that the pasteurized treatment be given, to make absolutely certain that no bad results would follow. Mr. Bell phoned Mrs. Bell Thursday night that the first treatment was given that day. She had a letter from him this morning stating that the little girl was just as bright as could be and was standing the treatment fine. It will be necessary for them to remain at Austin for 21 days.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE.

We are in receipt of a program of the Institute and lots of work has been outlined which should be of much benefit to teachers.

Two Men Poisoned By Eating Tomatoes.

B. J. Pate, foreman of the Cochina ranch and a Mexican vaquero were poisoned last Saturday at noon by eating canned tomatoes. The outfit was camped at Light station on the Asherton & Gulf railroad, sixteen miles from Cotulla. At the noon meal a can of tomatoes was opened, and were eaten by Pate and the Mexican, none of the others partaking. Immediately after eating Mr. Pate got on his horse to go to the back side of the pasture and was about five miles from home when he turned sick. He started back to camp and it was with great effort that he was able to ride back, and was in bad condition when he got to camp. In the meantime the Mexican had taken sick, and the conclusion was reached that they had been poisoned by the tomatoes. J. T. Maltzberger was phoned for and he went after the sick men in his automobile, bringing them to Cotulla, reaching here about ten o'clock that night.

Both men suffered severely, but next day were able to be up and have about recovered from the effects.

TEACHING CHILDREN TO TILL THE SOIL

Results of the First Year's Work in Agriculture at the Los Angeles City Schools.

The bugbear of city life for boys and girls is that they have too many idle hours uninspired for useful training. This fact is fully recognized by leading educators of the country, and many cities in different sections of the United States are endeavoring to cope with this problem in part by the establishment of school gardens. During the past year the city of Los Angeles, Cal., has made her first elaborate experiment along this line. The results achieved have been satisfactory to the school department, and promise much of future development, not only in the system of instruction and the interest manifest by the children, but in their significant bearing upon social and economic problems. In a recent number of the California Outlook, Will H. Fischer gives an interesting account of Los Angeles' experiment in the realm of agriculture, from which we quote the following:

"The department of agriculture in the Los Angeles schools carries on its operations through a staff of five experts. This staff, no doubt, will be enlarged from year to year; for the work bids fair to grow in scope with great rapidity. At the beginning of the school year the city was divided into four sections, an instructor being placed in charge of each. There are 12 grade schools in the city, and of these 70 had good-sized gardens last year.

"There were problems to solve, of course. One of the first of these had to do with ground space. While in later years the policy of the board of education, in acquiring school sites, has been to include liberal allowances of land, such has not always been the rule prevailing. And in consequence the teachers of agriculture frequently found cramped quarters.

"Frequently the lack of ground was overcome by acquiring the use of vacant lots. Owners of such lots, as a rule, were willing to permit the use of the same. In such cases usually, agreements were drawn up, under which the school department promised a relinquishment of use at the pleasure of the owner.

"Here and there a lot-owner, fearful of the 'destructiveness of children,' held up his hands in horror and declined to co-operate. Several of them, after subsequent investigation as to the transformations made on other properties, came back in time and invited the teachers of agriculture to take over their vacant lots and 'do likewise.' They had found that the gardening was a good thing. First there had been a general clean-up; tin cans and ancient boot-jacks, weeds and old tomatoes had disappeared; they no longer cluttered the landscape. This in itself was a decided improvement. Then, where fences had been lacking, the same were supplied; and the children, instead of kicking off the slats, were engaged in nailing them on. Vegetables and flowers, in beds and rows, took the place of rank oats and milk-weed. The appearance of garden-lots changed as by magic. As appearance enhances selling prices, what landlord could complain.

"In all, forty such vacant lots were 'brought under cultivation,' and also under irrigation. It is probable that during the coming year many other such lots will be reclaimed to the service of the juvenile society, which means society in general.

"Then there were a number of school principals who didn't sympathize with the work—not many it seems, but several. They were under the impression that the children, once 'turned loose,' would suffer at the point of discipline and loss of interest in their book studies. They had become used to recesses for play—things had always been that way—but a recess for work that partook of the nature of play because it was useful and absorbing, scared them. They had to be approached tactfully. One by one their misgivings were overcome, their doubts dispelled, their fears assuaged. Gradually, then, like those who had from the beginning evinced their willingness to co-operate, got into the full spirit and enthusiasm of the undertaking.

"When the work had been under way for a month there were no dissenters left. Principals and teachers found that the gardening, which provided a natural and invigorating form of physical and mental exercise, tended to stimulate the interest of pupils in all their studies. Listless boys and girls, in school under more or less expressed protest, began to find themselves. More than one 'lad boy' became tractable because he had found something 'worth while.' And the average child, with the ordinary instincts, found in the garden an outlet for physical and an intake for mental steam.

"The more advanced students began to discover that such baffling and seemingly dry subjects as mensuration actually had a practical application in the laying out of lines of plants and the division of areas devoted to plots. The theory of the book became the practice of the garden—lost its unreality and became understandable.

"There were other problems, too, but they were solved one by one, and it was only a short time until the system was in satisfactory operation. The instructor in gardening visited each school once or twice—perhaps oftener—each week. The aim was to give the children not less than two hours of garden work per week. Almost at once the garden periods became the most popular so far as the children were concerned. This seemed to apply to nearly all of them.

"So intense became the interest

character development.

A thorough course in Swedish physical culture and gymnastics is open to all the pupils of the academy, in connection with the usual course. It gives uniform development of the entire body, beginning with simplest exercises, and progressing to advanced apparatus work. (Students will be required to have gymnasium suits for gymnasium work.)

The art course is systematic and thorough, offering instructions in elementary drawing, drawing from casts, still life studies, sketches from nature, etc., painting in oil and water colors, pastel, decorative painting, china painting with the use of kiln.

We feel that the time has come to offer to our pupils a complete course of instruction in domestic science. Experience proves that the young woman is lacking in the skill required for the management of household economics, unless she has received thorough and practical instructions in this important branch. Our course consists of two distinct sections, namely: Sewing and cooking.

The program in the second section consists of special training in the care and choice of foods; their preparation; intelligent and hygienic care in the handling and using of kitchen utensils. Each practical lesson is preceded by a lecture in which the explanation is given of the work to be done.

The course in practical cooking includes soups, broiling, roasting, meats, fish, sauces, plain and fancy dishes, entrees, desserts and all kinds of bread, cakes and pastry.

The course of work in this section includes the designing and cutting of articles, the use of material and the making of garments. It will, therefore, comprise hand sewing and machine sewing, involving the making of undergarments, the cutting, fitting and making of shirt waists, dresses, etc.

This course, besides giving to the pupils a knowledge of sewing, also develops their judgment and taste along practical lines.

of the little workers that many pleaded to be allowed to spend the recess periods in the gardens. Others insisted on coming early in the morning, and some desired to stay after school hours. In some cases these requests were granted; in others for reasons that seemed sufficient, they were denied. It depended a good deal on the location of the schools, surroundings, and the enthusiasm developed by the teachers.

"And this suggests another feature of the work of the special instructors. The latter were instructed as to the principles which they were to impart to the pupils; and in most instances they became as absorbed as did their young charges.

"During the school year 25,000 Los Angeles boys and girls were given the benefit of this rudimentary course in agriculture, and from the data gathered by the regular and special instructors it was learned that 15,000 of these young people have undertaken gardening on their own accounts, at their homes. Some of them have zone in for flowers and some for vegetables. All of them have come out with a new experience and enlarged ideas of usefulness.

"Scores of boys, showing individual enterprise, have rented vacant lots, planted vegetables, and are today helping to supply the trade demands at the curb markets.

"The instruction given last year covered the planting, care and harvesting of all the common vegetables—radishes, beans, peas, Swiss chard, spinach, onions and like truck.

"Where the grounds were ample, an effort was made to give each gardener his individual plot of ground. If the quarters were more cramped, the 'ownership' was in common. The students were given the seeds and tools. They performed the labor, and the privilege of carrying the product home was theirs. Some homes have been completely supplied.

"Beautification went hand in hand with utilization, and as much space was convenient was devoted to the culture of flowers. Borders and beds of bloom were set out. The result is that now, for the first time, many a Los Angeles school-ground has become attractive and pleasing to the eye.

"In horticulture as in agriculture, the pupils have been taught the characteristics of each particular plant. They learn the names and habits of the plants, and how to nurse them into sturdy growth. They study arrangement in regard to height of growth, time and color of flowering. The upper grades—sixth, seventh and eighth—are given instruction in lath house work and horticulture.

"The products of some of the gardens have exceeded expectations. One of them harvested 50 pounds of potatoes from a row 100 feet long, and another 25 pounds of string beans from a 70-foot row of plants. There is rivalry, in respect to production, between individuals and between neighboring schools, as might be expected.

"Only a beginning has been made, but it can be seen that here is a departure which will carry the average child outside the beaten path of a set system of education. If it can so implant the enthusiasm of the soil into 15,000 boys and girls as to cause them to start gardens at home, it must involve possibilities which will serve to uplift and make more useful the lives of a vast number of future men and women."

Taking Calomel Means staying Home for the Day—Taking Dodson's Liver Tonic and Save a Day's Work.

If an attack of constipation or biliousness hits you, there's no need to take a dose of calomel and spend at least a day getting over the effects of it. Gaddis' Pharmacy sells the liver tonic, Dodson's Liver Tonic, that takes the place of calomel and starts a lazy liver without any bad after-effects.

Dodson's Liver Tonic does all the good that calomel ever did, yet it is absolutely harmless to young people and old. It is a pleasant-tasting vegetable liquid that will relieve constipation or sour stomach or other troubles that go along with a lazy liver, without restriction of habit or diet. You don't leave off any of the things you regularly do when you take Dodson's Liver Tonic.

Gaddis' Pharmacy sells Dodson's Liver Tonic and give it a strong personal guarantee. They say, "A large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic sells for 50 cents, and we will hand any person back his 50 cents if he tries a bottle and doesn't say that it does all that calomel ever does and does it pleasantly. Get the genuine Dodson's Liver Tonic and if you are not pleased with it we will give your money back with a smile."
