NEW TARGETS

During the month of January, the annual March of Dimes campaign will be conducted again. And the 1959 observance will be the most important in its long history — and the most deserving of universal support.

The March of Dimes was originally directed at polio, and out of it came the great Salk vaccine. The polio fight is not over — as the Detroit epidemic of this year demonstrated. It will be continued until final victory is won.

But now the March of Dimes is to do much more. It is sponsored by The National Foundation, hitherto known as the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. That change in name is mightily significant. For the March of Dimes is moving against new targets. The first of these are two of the greatest cripples of all — arthritis and birth defects. At least 11 million Americans suffer the pain of arthritis and rheumatism, and some 250,000 infants are born each year with some sort of defect. The National Foundation will now bring its great resources to bear in seeking victories over these cripples — even as it continues its work in the field of polio.

The March of Dimes needs your help. Give it — enthusiastically and generously.

Business Boom In 60's, Inflation, Higher Wages Predicted by Kiplinger

Washington, D. C. — Business will boom in the 60's, according to a year-end report from the Kiplinger organization on changes and growth during the next decade.

The business boom will flow from population growth, plus rising productivity which will increase the output per man-hour, plus higher incomes, plus the pull of people who want more and better things for themselves, plus the nimble shifting of business patterns, Kiplinger says.

Companies will expand, despite painful and expensive growth. They must add capacity, products, diversity and new outlets as a hedge against the rapid changes that would drive them down and possibly out.

More chains, larger stores and many stores taking on additional lines is the revolutionary picture for merchandising in the 60's. The food store will become a general store, with other things than groceries. The end of the trend is not yet for the super-super-market. Pre-packaged and frozen foods, requiring more complex equipment, fancier fixtures will all bring on new kinds of warehousing needs.

Also there's automation . . . this tide is rising fast. It means more mechanical equipment and system to replace muscle power. It's a must for domestic business, and it's a must for our foreign trade. Automation downgrades muscle, but it upgrades brains. Increasingly, college graduates will be lapped up and trained for top executive posts, technical and engineering jobs. And, surprisingly, the lower-echelon jobs such as foreman and supervisor will be filled by college grads.

As business gets to be in bigger units, it will need more trained brains. As it gets more far flung, more responsibility will rest on the individual. Business processes themselves are being upgraded and the men who run them. Automation adds to the need for the trained and the educated in key spots.

Wages and salaries are bound to rise, following the patterns now. Despite higher prices of everything — probably 20 per cent higher by the late 60's — most people will be able to afford more things.

This means a continuation of inflation at about the same rate as in past decade. Savings, pensions, etc., will shrink in terms of what they will buy.

Unions will be affected by the growth of white-collar workers, specialists or experts in various fields. Unions will find it harder to unionize effectively. Union leaders are already foreseeing the trend.

More women will join the ranks of workers in the 60's. They've got to work, for the growing economy requires that they do work.

Now 60 per cent of women working outside the home are married and run households. The proportion will rise, especially women in the 45-to-54 age group who have raised their children. 45 per cent of the women of middle age will be working by the late 60's.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS From State Capitol

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

Austin, Texas — As a news-making year, 1958 lacked the lid-blowing scandals and sensational headlines that erupted from the Capitol in '56 and '57.

But it was a momentous year in many ways. Elections. Recession. State treasury bankrupt. Much talk of new taxes.

Many research reports were made — by the State Tax Study Commission, The Texas Research League, the Hale-Aikin Committee. Required reports came from the Board of Water Engineers, Higher Education Commission and Legislative Council.

All in all, 1958 was a year of surveys, a time of critical self-examination. All the research reports made lengthy stories, little headlines. Few are complete stories. Most will be continued into the turbulent legislative year of 1959.

A month by month review of 1958, including top news events, both good and bad, depending on your viewpoint, follows:

January — Gov. Price Daniel refused to be gloomy about state finances. He said he wasn't convinced the State Treasury would be in the red by 1959, as some said, nor of the need for new taxes.

New State Water Planning Board set up shop with the aim of doubling Texas' water storage capacity. Land Commissioner Earl Rudder resigned to become A&M Vice President. Bill Allcorn of Brownwood succeeded Rudder. Rival groups of optometrists squared off in a court battle to decide legality of price advertising.

Early-day satellites swirled overhead and a lot of people were worrying whether our schools were as good as Russia's. Hale-Aikin Committee asked for grass-roots suggestions for school improvement.

February — Gov. Daniel proposed that precinct convention be abolished and that delegates to the county convention be named by direct primary vote. It was a surprise counter-move to the "code of ethics" campaign being conducted by the DOT as part of its drive to wrest party control from the governor.

State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert predicted a $12,000,000 state revenue deficit and need for $100,000,000 in new taxes by 1959. Economists announced bluntly that there was a recession.

March — Texas oil allowable dwindled to nine producing days. Oil Imports Study Commission blamed excess stocks on over-production during Suez crisis, competition since from foreign oil.

Unemployment payments hit a figure double that of a year ago. And many Texas farmers reported it was "too wet to plow."

April — Oil allowable tumbled to an all-time low, eight producing days. But TEC, for the first time in 1958, announced a significant drop in joblessness.

Former Sen. Bill Blakley, Dallas financier, announced he'd run for senate post held by Ralph Yarborough. It was starting gun for summer politicking.

May — Eight-day oil production pattern continued. Governor Daniel kicked off a campaign to save 254 lives in '58 by reducing the 1957 highway death toll 10%.

Bureau of Business Research reported the recession "is still very much with us."

June — Election campaigns got into high gear. But as much, if not more, attention focussed on the "after-hours" election, the precinct conventions. Prize in the struggle would be control of the state convention in September and selection of party officials for the next two years. Leading the rival factions were Governor Daniel for the moderate-conservatives and National Committeewoman Mrs. R. D. Randolph for the liberal DOT.

July — Primaries returned almost all incumbents to major offices, including Ralph Yarborough to the U. S. Senate and Price Daniel to another term as governor.

Oil was up to nine producing days. Economic analysts pointed to lessening unemployment, hefty bank deposits, said it might be "a good year after all."

August — Legislative Budget Board wrestled with money requests from state agencies far in excess of expected revenue for 1960-61. Second primary settled who would sit in 56th Legislature, but not who would preside over the House. Both Joe Burkett of Kerrville and Waggoner Carr of Lubbock claimed enough pledges to be elected speaker.

Leaders of all types of Democrats called for "harmony" at September convention. Oil allowable rose to 11 days.

September — Hale-Aikin Committee made its first report on proposals to update, enrich public schools. Fiscal leaders in Legislature upped their gloomy predictions on new revenue needs to $140,000,000.

Texas Democrats turned their eyes toward 1960 after a convention controlled by the Governor despite DOT outrage over the exclusion of its members from the Executive Committee.

October — Texas General Revenue Fund ran dry and began going in the hole. Hale-Aikin Committee reconsidered and reversed its previous stand against federal aid for school lunch programs and vocational training.

Commission on Higher Education proposed a more unified study program for state colleges and universities, concentrating graduate work at UT and A&M. Texans debated merits of nine proposed amendments to the state Constitution.

November — State fiscal officials upped their estimates of needed new revenue to nearly $200,000,000. Industry leaders called the oil industry "sick". Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson called for mandatory import controls.

Many public officials were disappointed over amendment voting. Salary raises for legislators and pension plans for county officials got thumbs down.

December — Waning weeks of '58 saw a flood of legislative proposals flow into Austin. Hale-Aikin Committee, joined by Texas

State Teachers Association, asked more pay for teachers, more courses, longer school year. Others wanted safety legislation, fiscal help for cities, flexible auto insurance rates, small loan company regulation, etc.

State Tax Study Commission made no recommendation beyond its reporting of the fiscal facts of life in Texas. Governor Daniel estimated the state would need $65,000,000 a year more for future spending plus $55,000,000 to wipe out the deficit. He said he thought it could be done without general sales or income taxes.

And the safety crusade moved toward an unknown outcome as officials, joined by newsmen and hundreds of billboards, sought to cut the usual holiday highway death toll.

Whatever happens to the piles of data and recommendations in '59, their accumulation made '58 a significant year. It was a year in which many thoughtful people sought to take a grasp on the problems and promise of Texas' future.

Larry Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lewis, spent the holidays with his parents. He is a student at Hardin-Simmons in Abilene.

Miss Beverly Ann Killingsworth Becomes Bride Of Doyle Harry Ward, Jr., In Methodist Church Ceremony Here At 4 o'clock Sunday Afternoon

Miss Beverly Ann Killingsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Killingsworth of Ozona, became the bride of Doyle Harry Ward, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Ward, Sr., of Pampa, at a pretty ceremony Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Ozona Methodist Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Morris Bratton, pastor. Pre-nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches were by Mrs. L. B. Cox, at the piano. Mrs. Joe Sellars Pierce, IV, sang "I Love Thee" and "Because," and at the close of the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a long white peau de soie gown with a v-shaped bodice featuring a lace yoke and small satin buttons. The long sleeves ended at the wrist in petal points. Her chapel length veil was fitted to a cap of tulle petals and pearls.

Her bouquet was a cascade of white orchids and stephanotis backed by leaves of net and seed pearls.

Maid of honor was Miss Peggy Moore of Dallas. Bridesmaids were Miss Lou Nelle Beall and Miss Mary Lou Johnigan, both of Ozona, and Miss Marcia Kay Ward of Pampa, sister of the bridegroom. The bride's attendants wore mint green taffeta dresses with empire waist lines and bell shaped skirts.

Attending the groom as best man was Bobby Dehls of Pampa. Ushers were Coy Don Mitchell of Panhandle, Texas, Robert Gryder of Pampa and Roy Neil Killingsworth of Ozona, brother of the bride.

A reception in the fellowship hall of the church followed the ceremony. Mrs. Joe Sellars Pierce, IV, was at the bride's book. Mrs. Morris Bratton served the wedding cake and Mrs. L. B. Cox, Jr., and Mrs. S. M. Harvick were at the punch bowl.

The couple left on a wedding trip to San Antonio after which they will live in Canyon where both are students in West Texas State College.

Out of town guests here for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Homer Houston, Jackey, Karen and Jane of Ralls, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Killingsworth and Herkey, Mr.
