SUNDAY AFTERNOON FATAL ACCIDENT--This 1964 Ford, which was driven by Clifford (Baldy) Parks of Muleshoe is bent and crumpled following a late afternoon accident on the Clovis Highway. The accident occurred approximately 5.4 miles northwest of Muleshoe on Highway 84. Ambulance attendants and police are shown removing the body of J.D. (Bert) Hudson, who lost his life in the accident which left three other persons critically injured. Hudson, who had lived in the Progress community for the past 40 years, had moved to Plainview approximately one month ago and was the father-in-law of Parks.

Please take time to write your congressman to save our postmark! The sentence above is part of a petition being circulated throughout the area by the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce in an attempt to bring the Muleshoe postmark for out of town mail back to Muleshoe.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Jerry Hutton said the campaign is growing much faster than he had anticipated and said that in the short time the petitions have been circulated that more than 550 names have been placed on it asking for the return of the Muleshoe postmark.

Early this month, Muleshoe joined a wide area "losing" their individual postmark to the nearest city. Muleshoe, Littlefield, Lamesa and several small towns surrounding Lubbock were instructed to send all their out-of-town mail, uncancelled, to the Lubbock post office for processing. This practice was said to be initiated to save tax dollars.

However, local residents have bitterly opposed the change and have bitterly opposed the reduced postal service has been the end result. Several businessmen said that where mail to Dallas was delivered within two days at the most, now it takes five to seven days for a letter or order for parts and merchandise to reach that City. It takes three days for a letter to come from Maple (in Bailey County) to Muleshoe and four days for a letter to come from Portales to Muleshoe, approximately 35 miles.

The manager of a local utility company said that 12 persons were charged penalties on their bills this month because their monthly bill was inadvertently mixed with out of town mail, sent to Lubbock and returned to Muleshoe too late to avoid the penalty. He emphasized that the utility company cannot do anything about the late charge as the charge is designated by the State Railroad Commission.

According to local postal officials, one employee has already been released from the post office with the change. Chamber Manager Hutton said postal officials had informed him that it takes approximately one and one half hours daily to process the Muleshoe mail in Muleshoe and would cost a maximum of $5 daily to keep the Muleshoe postmark.

A local banker received a telephone call from Senator John Tower Tuesday morning requesting permission from the banker to read a letter written by the banker about the postmark. Senator Tower wanted to read the letter on the Senate floor. Presently, the post

Former Resident Killed At Progress

A shattering two-car crash at an intersection in the west edge of Progress Sunday afternoon claimed the life of a former Progress resident. The wreck occurred at approximately 5:15 p.m. 5.4 miles northwest of Muleshoe.

J.L. (Bert) Hudson, 61, who moved to Plainview from Progress a month ago, was pronounced dead at the accident after three critically and seriously injured persons were taken to West Plains Memorial Hospital in Muleshoe.

Mrs. Pauline Kinkade, 49, of Grand Prairie was driver of a 1969 Chevrolet which was northwest bound on Highway 84, and a passenger in the Kinkade car was Mrs. John Kimmons, 47, of Fort Worth.

A 1964 Ford was being driven by Clifford (Baldy) Parks, 38, of Muleshoe, and son-in-law of the fatally injured Hudson. Parks was driving east, attempting a turn across the highway and apparently did not see the approaching Chevrolet which was driven by Mrs. Kinkade. The Kinkade car struck the Parks car broadside on the north edge of the four-lane highway and both vehicles ended up in the ditch between the highway and railway tracks.

Two Singleton Funeral Home ambulances were rushed to the wreck scene and removal of the injured was slightly hampered by masses of sightseers who flocked around the shattered automobiles. Officers from Muleshoe and Farwell worked attempting to divert traffic around the wreck site and keep people moving out of the way, but up to a hundred people jammed around the cars as people watched officers and ambulance attendants attempt to remove the injured.

Texas Highway Patrol officers Joel Young of Muleshoe, who was checking the wreck and Mike Greer of Farwell, who was helping direct the heavy traffic around the wreck, reminded motorists that a fine of up to $200 can be imposed for following an emergency vehicle. They also warned motorists who blocked the side roads and highways where officers, ambulances and wreckers were attempting to move into the wreck location.

Parks was moved to Lubbock Methodist Hospital Sunday night around 11 p.m. where he is in the intensive care unit of the hospital. Family members said Monday evening that Parks has a broken back, punctured liver and ruptured kidney. He was listed as critical Tuesday.

Mrs. Kinkade, who suffered two broken knees and other injuries, was flown to Fort Worth Monday and Mrs. Kimmons, who has chest and hip injuries is hospitalized at West Plains Memorial Hospital in Muleshoe. Both are reported in serious

Dear Editor:

I have only lived in Muleshoe for a few weeks but its friendly people with their progressive spirit already makes me glad that I chose to make my home here.

As the father of two small children there is one local problem that I have observed that causes me concern. It is not unusual to see packs of half starved, stray and unleashed dogs roaming the streets and alleys. This is not confined to any one area of town but seems to exist all over the city.

The members of our city government that I have talked with are aware of and concerned about this situation. In fairness to our fine city government, I think it is appropriate to point out that all cities face this problem to some degree and the job of enforcing leash laws and picking up stray dogs is a difficult, expensive and time consuming task and has to have the cooperation of the citizens to be successful. The City of Slaton decided that expensive, full time dog catching might not be the only solution to this problem. The city government of Slaton is offering a bounty of $2.00 for each stray dog brought in. Strays must be caught alive in the city limits and delivered unharmed to the dog pound in order for the bounty to be paid. All dogs running "at large" without a 1970 tag are considered strays. The city impounds the dogs for three days and the dogs may be claimed by the owner upon proof of ownership and payment of $1.00 pound fee and $1.00 per day expenses.

The Slaton method might be a good way to take care of our own problems with stray dogs. Not only would it give some of our industrious teen age boys an incentive to pick up some summer cash but would clear up the stray dog problem in an economical and effective way.

Mr. Melvin Young, Editor of the Hereford Brand is advocating that the city of Hereford adopt this plan.

Stray dogs are a local problem and we will have no one to blame but ourselves if we do nothing until one of our children is either tragically bitten by a rabid dog or attacked by a pack of halfstarved animals roaming our city streets.

Sincerely,

Jimmy D. Ivy

STAR LITES
By Bill Ellis
All of our recent letters to the editor recalled a letter we ran across one time about a fellow who had just bought a newspaper, and what he expected for his dime.

We don't recall it every bit, but have re-constructed it in our own words the way we remember it.

This wouldn't happen in Friona, but we thought our readers would get a chuckle out of it:

Dear Bill:
I paid a dime last Thursday for a copy of this newspaper. You can divide it up amongst your employees any way you wish.

Now for the dime I paid you I expect to get a newspaper with all of the local, state and national news. And I want every bit of it to be fresh; I don't want to read anything I have read before.

For that dime I want at least 10 local pictures of news events and the people who made them. I want pictures of accidents, fires, meetings, baseball games and anything else that I think is important.

Because I gave you my dime I want to know all the latest things about the local school district, the city council, the county commission, the state legislature, the governor, the U.S. Congress, the President, the war in Vietnam and Jackie Kennedy Onassis. I also expect you to tell me who died during the past week, who was born and who was married or divorced.

I want to read about what my church is doing and when, I don't care if there are 12 other churches in Friona. I want to read about MY church.

I want you to cover every football, basketball and baseball game in the Friona area and every play, ladies' tea, wedding and anniversary celebration in Farmer County. I expect your reporter to be there and cover them just because I gave you a dime.

If I get drunk and have a wreck I don't want you to print my name in the paper and I don't want anything in the paper about my buying a house or selling a house. I have a friend who is getting a divorce, and you can leave that out too.

I want to see for myself whether the prices are cheaper in Friona or Hereford or Clovis. I want to know where I can buy a good second hand car, what's showing at the movie and who is having a sale. And you'd better do it too, because I gave you my dime.

Just because I don't have too much education, you needn't think you can take advantage of me. It doesn't make any difference if I don't want to do anything for my schools, church, city government or chamber of commerce.

I pay my taxes and I just gave you a dime and I want to see my name in this paper from time to time and I want it to be spelled right, too. I expect every name in the paper to be spelled right; I don't want any mistakes. If there are any mistakes to be made I'll make them, but YOU can't because I gave you my dime.

When I meet one of your people on the street I want them to give me the latest inside dope. I expect them to serve as publicity chairman on any committee I want and I expect your employees to agree with everything I think or do.

And any time I want to call the paper and ask how many children Al Capone had or how much gasoline Lindbergh used on his flight to Paris, I expect them to know. I don't want to have to call back for the information I want.

Next week I'm going to start my own business here in Friona and I want a nice news item and picture about it. No, I don't expect to take any advertising with your paper. If you run the news story and picture about my opening I won't need any advertising.

And you'd better not give me that old stuff about you can't do it either, because I gave you a dime for that lousy sheet and it's MY newspaper.

Final recommendations made by the airport board were that proper signs be erected to designate the country club, airport boundary and to warn of low flying aircraft; and that the signs be flexible signs that conform with FAA requirements.

The airport board also requested the City of Muleshoe to pay for and install the needed signs.

The city agreed to mark the boundaries and pay for and install division and restriction signs and recommended that notices be put in the airport office designating boundary lines and outlining insurance.

Also, the city instructed the Airport Advisory Board to further clarify "adequate hangar facilities" and make recommendations on actual charges now being made at the local airport.

The national and international interest in the Texas High Plains area can be noted by leafing through the guest register at the High Plains Research Foundation.

Since the Foundation's establishment in 1956, hundreds of visitors from almost every country in the world have penned their name to the register while they were touring research facilities.

Latest in the long list of visitors included 28 crop insurance adjusters of the Hail Insurance Adjustment and Research Association and four agriculturalists from India.

The crop adjusters attended one of a series of workshops designed to better acquaint insurance adjusters with the problems in crop production.

The workshop at the High Plains Research Foundation will become an annual meeting. Adjusters from Texas, New Mexico, Illinois, Colorado, California and Arizona attended the day long session which included a tour of the farm and afternoon discussions on crop production.

The group was interested in soil and water management and spent a day touring the 315-acre Foundation farm.

Postmark...

office changeover is up for debate in the Senate and all Senators and Representatives report an overwhelming number of letters, telegrams and telephone calls requesting that small towns and cities be allowed to keep their individual postmark.

The local Chamber manager said that with a steady flow of letters to Congressmen in Washington, whether they represent the district in which we reside or not, something can possibly be done.

Several names and addresses which may be contacted include: Senator John Tower, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C.; Honorable Ralph Yarborough, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C.; Congressman Bob Price, Room 507, Cannon House Office Building, House Office Building, Washington, D.C.; Honorable George Mahon, House Office Building, Washington, D.C.; Loyd M. Benson, State Headquarters, P. O. Box 61466, Houston, Texas 77061 and George Bush, State Headquarters, Houston, Texas.

The C of C manager said if everyone worked and cooperated, perhaps our "lost" postmark can be rightfully returned to the Muleshoe Post Office and our outgoing mail can go back to carrying a 'Muleshoe' postmark.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal length gown of champagne organza over bridal satin. It featured a jewel neckline, modified leg O-mutton sleeves and a fitted bodice. Lace appliques enhanced the bodice, sleeves, front of the skirt and the bow at the back waistline. ## Food Ads An Aid To Shoppers

COLLEGE STATION, --Food advertisements can be a big help to the grocery shopper, Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist, notes.

"Food advertisements tell what foods are available and where, often include price, and although not often enough, they include a description of the food grade, size or other quality indications," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Quality is usually high on advertised items as the store would not profit by calling attention to items in poor condition."

The purpose of the advertisement is to get the customer into the store, but the store also wants and needs repeat business, she said.

"Before buying groceries, check the food advertisements for high quality food at low prices," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Fryer chickens continue to take the spotlight as the bargain in most meat departments," she said. "Plentiful supplies of eggs are also on the market at prices everyone can afford."

There is little change in beef and pork prices, Mrs. Clyatt added. Best beef buys include chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, short ribs and round steaks and roasts, according to Mrs. Clyatt.

"Best pork values will be found on hams, picnics, shoulder roasts and steaks, end cut loin roasts and chops and all kinds of lunch meat," she said.

Fresh fruit and vegetable items in good supply at the most economical prices include bananas, oranges, cantaloupes, watermelons, peaches, plums, corn, carrots, squash, and dry yellow onions. Others included are potatoes, head lettuce, cabbage, okra, cucumbers, radishes, green onions and tomatoes.

Frank Hinkson II was his brother's best man, Robert Gal-lman and David Nelson of the Lazbuddie Community were groomsmen, Bill Williams of Portales, Eldon Leighton, Buster Poling both of Clayton and Joe Cooper of Hondo, AGR Fraternity brothers of the groom were ushers.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the fellowship hall. Guests were registered by Debbie Thompson cousin of the bride. Mrs. Glenn Lust, sister of the groom and Wanda Buchleiter of Albuquerque served the cake and Amie Adams of Albuquerque presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Charles Pilgrim of Baltimore, Md, sister of the groom provided background music.

The table was laid with a lace tablecloth over yellow. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with orchids and trimmed in yellow. The bride's bouquet was on the table. Marilyn Barnes of Lazbuddie served at the groom's table.

For a wedding trip to points in New Mexico and Colorado the bride wore a two piece lime green linen dress with white accessories and her lei.

The bride is a graduate of Kapaa High School in Kauai, Hawaii and a 1970 graduate of New Mexico State University. She was a member of Alpha Tau Alpha, a national professional fraternity for agricultural education majors. The groom is a graduate of Lazbuddie High School and a Senior at New Mexico State University majoring in Animal Science. He is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho, the Student Senate and Ag. Council. He is enrolled in flight school at Greeley, Colorado this summer and will return to Las Cruces this fall.

Those attending from a distance were: The bride's grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Herman Beschner from Cleveland, Ohio, Arnold Beschner from West Palm Beach, Florida; Dr. and Mrs. R.G. Thompson and family from Colorado Springs, Colorado, the groom's Grandfather Mr. Earl Mechem from Billings, Montana; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hinkson and Dale, Mr. and Mrs. David Wortham all from Wilcox, Arizona; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hinkson and sons from Wood River, Nebraska; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Lust and family and Mr. and Mrs. Finis Jennings from Lazbuddie.

Library News

By Anne Camp

The Muleshoe Area Public Library had the highest circulation of it's history for the month of June, 1970—with total circulation of 5,486! This was over the previous record total for June, 1969 by 682 for the month. More than ever, boys and girls of the city and area have added reading to their other summer past-times. Also a record number of paperback books were checked out with total of 817 for the month—showing that Mom and Dad are picking up these easy to handle, easy to finish reading material at same time John and Mary get their book. We also circulated 107 record albums for the one month period. Very much in demand, a little to our surprise, has been the BIBLE on records. We are very happy that they are being used and enjoyed at the Muleshoe Nursing Home—as well as in many private homes. Much credit should go to Janie McVickers for taking the records to the nursing home and then supervising the selection and playing of them. I have been told that this is filling a very real need in these peoples lives, and we are very happy to be of service to them.

Many boys and girls have already finished their list, posters at the library, and were given them to take home, and at this time most are busy doing their thing, each time they come in, sticking stickers on their 2nd poster. So the Summer reading program is well underway.

Arthur Neiman, Vice President and Publisher, Forecast for Home Economics, New York City, will speak to the theme of the conference.

Medicare: A Headache For Small Hospitals

Taken from the San Angelo Standard-Times, Sunday, July 12, 1970, San Angelo, Texas.

Editor's Note--The country hospital in Texas has been the mainstay for thousands of the state's rural patients. But now the patients may be forced to travel many miles to hospital treatment because some hospital administrators say they can't meet medicare and medicare rules.

By Jim Brigrance
Associated Press Writer
Medicare and medicare were envisioned as a bandage to cover the financial ills of the states' indigent -- medicare for those 65 and over and medicare for those younger but poor.

But with the closing and threatened closing of many small hospitals, the bandage has come unraveled, exposing a wound of resentment among doctors, nurses and the patients they serve.

Hospitals at Commerce and Grandbury have closed. The Groesbeck hospital has stopped admitting medicare patients.

Hospital administrators and nurses say the problem lies with what they call the stern, unbending application of government rules for hospital facilities and supervision.

Government authorities counter by saying the problem is that proper hospital care and equipment has been ignored too long.

The situation appears to be at an impasse.

Texas has 170 hospitals which would have their medicare programs terminated "if we had strict adherence to standards," says Mrs. Martha McSteen, regional medicare representative, to discount accusations of too much strictness.

She said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has been "extremely tolerant in enforcing strict adherence" to medicare guidelines for small hospitals.

"The rules are too general," says Dr. L.G. Ballard, operator of the 22-bed Grandbury General Hospital which closed in June. "Medicare is a lot of bureaus and department heads who have the idea we're just a first-aid center. The people in Hood County are very upset."

Ballard, who operated the hospital along with Drs. R.N. Rawls and B.R. Haley, said, "We just can't afford to comply with all their rules."

Ballard said medicare officials insisted the small hospital install a fire sprinkler system and a standby power plant, "which we could have and would have done except that next January we were going to be required to have 24-hour registered nursing services and so far that's been an impossibility."

"We could have stayed open another six months but it just wouldn't be worth it. We'd just have to close in January anyway," he said.

Ballard said the acute shortage of registered nurses is the difficulty.

"It's nearly impossible to get enough nurses in a small community like this. Most are married with small children and it's hard to attract them to a small town. Besides there are hardly enough to go around in the big cities," he explained.

Grandbury now has a clinic with a doctor on standby call 24 hours a day.

The hospital had been in operation since 1944, and Ballard said it has been operating at a loss for the past four years with the doctors making up an annual deficit of $40,000 to $50,000.

"I agree that any hospital should have the best and most modern care available. But it's an idealistic approach and now leaves our people with no hospital at all," Ballard said. "We're going to see if we can't create a hospital district here. But, meanwhile, I'd say the people are very upset."

At Commerce, a college town, Dr. Dennis Short chose to close the city's 20-bed hospital. "We weren't forced to--it was an elective thing. There just wasn't any sense in going on," he said.

"They (medicare) wanted us to add a lot of expensive equipment. A sprinkler system would cost $15,000 and they wanted us to have more nurses. Our payroll now is running about $9,000 every four weeks and we just can't make it," he said.

"Medicare is doing what they have to do--they're just enforcing the laws. They've been very kind to us but that won't keep the hospital open. I've had this hospital since 1961 and it was a private hospital for many years before (that). The building is old and it wouldn't be sound to put a lot of expensive modification in an old building like this. Right now it's for sale and I'm ready for a buyer," Short said.

He said patients who would have entered the Commerce General Hospital will be forced to use the city's other 30-bed facility.

"I don't know how they'll do it," said Mrs. Theona Cantrell, a registered nurse.

"These medicare rules cause this and it's bad for the elderly people especially. If an elderly person has to drive many miles to visit his wife or husband, stay in a hotel and so forth, it's going to work a real hardship," she said.

"Our little hospital here was as good as any you'd find in a small town and better than some. There is a shortage of nurses and I suppose the main reason is that most are wives and mothers and their husbands work in big cities. The pay is good but it's just hard to get nurses to a small town. We have a licensed vocational nurse around the clock and four registered nurses on the staff. I think it's bad we have to close and I think medicare could have been a little more practical about their rules. Where we had two hospitals we're now going to have one overcrowded one," she said.

"We're just enforcing the rules and regulations," said Jim Bray, deputy regional medicare representative.

"I certainly dispute any theory that medicare feels small hospitals are just first-aid centers. On the contrary, we have worked to help keep them in business and we've been lenient for a long time. But as time goes by we eventually have to make decisions," he said.

Bray said medicare rules are applied with equal force and interpretation to all hospitals.

"Our main concern is for the patient. We want them to have a certain standard of care. As for the hospital closings--it won't present any problems to us. It will be more of an inconvenience to the patients, I suppose," he said.

Van Rush, another medicare spokesman, said it "comes down to whether you're going to have good medical care. We have a responsibility to administer the regulations. If there are any changes they'll have to come through revision of the laws."

But at Groesbeck, Dr. Stanley Cox, owner of the town's 23-bed hospital, charges that medicare standards are "unreasonable and unbending toward small hospitals."

"They (hospital inspectors) are setting out to shut down many small hospitals in Texas," he said.

Cox said inspectors were "harassing" and threatening to report him to HEW unless he procured certain equipment.

"I just got sick and tired of it all. I knew there was a big inspection coming and I just wanted to get out of the medicare business," he said.

Medicare requires that there be a registered nurse on every eight-hour shift and that autopsies be performed on 20 per cent of all who die in the hospital.

"There are two registered nurses living in Groesbeck," Cox said, "and one just retired from our staff."

"We didn't lose money on it (medicare)," he explained, "but it's just the harassment of knowing you can't come up to certain standards they set for you." He said the standards are too high and that HEW wanted him to implement "non-essentials and stuff we won't ever need here."

Dr. Walter Walthall, president of the Texas Medical Association, supports strict application of government regulations but admits it's going to cause immense problems.

"Yes, there will probably be overcrowding of the larger hospitals--more so than there is now. And I think there will be stiffer requirements to get into the hospitals so that the sick ones can get in," he said.

"The problem is the failure of the legislature to vote enough for matching funds," he said. "The failure of medicare across the nation has been dismal. There is little profit for the small hospitals--less than 10 per cent."

"I do support strict application of the rules and I don't think they should be lenient."

Doctors must police doctors," he added.

A special Nixon task force said in June that the nation's health care system is antiquated, inefficient and largely inaccessible to the poor.

The blue-ribbon committee suggested the administration should junk the $6-billion-a-year medicare program in favor of a 100 per cent federally financed health insurance for up to 40 million of the nation's poor.

The annual cost for such a program, the team said, would run from $10 billion to $18-billion.

OUR SPACE PROGRAM

This week the Senate turned its attention to our nation's goals for achievement in space, and faced the need to balance appropriations for this important work with the need for funds in other fields and the overall requirement that federal expenditures be held to a minimum.

In the last decade, we set for ourselves the dramatic goals of landing a man on the Moon and achieving his safe return. It was a bold goal which captured the imaginations of men. The goal was achieved in the finest traditions of our nationhood and we were rightly proud of our fulfillment.

Now it is time to set new goals. There is no single achievement within our current grasp which will catch the imagination as did our first moon-landing. But, there are worthy goals which may be expected to bring us more real benefits than even that spectacular first moonlanding.

It is now time to branch out in several directions and to make the step-by-step progress which will place us in a future position for dramatic achievement. We could not go to the Moon before we learned to power a spacecraft, and now we cannot explore the universe without gaining the technical capability which will allow us to do so.

It is also time to reshape our space program, not in any drastic way, but in many small ways so that we can fully capitalize on our new knowledge and our new technology and simultaneously "aid down costs. We must make adjustments which will bring us the greatest value for our space dollar."

We have decided that our space program will make orderly progress in several directions.

In future years, we will continue to explore the Moon in a manner which will maximize our scientific return. We will go to areas of the Moon we have not yet visited and we will conduct experiments on the Moon and during space flight which will broaden our knowledge, perfect our technology and do so at minimum cost.

We will move ahead with developing our capability to boldly explore the Universe and the Planets, primarily with unmanned vehicles, but eventually we will land a man on the Planet Mars. In the late 1970's, the further planets will be so positioned that we will have an opportunity to send an unmanned probe to Jupiter, to Saturn, to Uranus, Neptune and Pluto in a single "Grand Tour" of much of our solar system.

These are the basic goals which I believe we must pursue. These are the goals which have been enunciated by the Administration. These are the goals which Congressional testimony has suggested, and these are the goals, generally, which Congress is endorsing as it acts on the legislation before it which affects our space program.

Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, TEX. -- Eighteen-year-olds will be registered to vote in Texas this year unless the U.S. Supreme Court, in the meantime, invalidates the new federal voting rights act.

State officials plan to give federal authorities this assurance in reply to an inquiry of U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell asking all governors to report on steps they will take to comply with the new provision and other sections of the federal bill effective January 1.

Texas, reportedly, already is in compliance with the act, except for the lowered voting age. This state has no literacy test and "good character" requirements for election participation such as those outlawed by a bill signed into law by President Nixon on June 22.

When the Texas voter-registration period opens on October 1, 18-year-olds will be signed up if the expected court test is not settled by then. Local registration officials will be advised by state election authorities to register them pending a court decision.

According to election division director Randall Wood, the Secretary of State's office proposes to suggest that teenage registrations be kept separately from those voters 21 and above. This would simplify subsequent invalidation in the event the Supreme Court should rule the federal act unconstitutional after state registration already is under way.

Test case probably will be in Washington State. There the 18-year-old vote-referendum already is set for the November ballot. Washington officials are in a better political position to state that they will not comply with the federal law until their voters voice approval of the lowered age proposition.

Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. figures the federal act would add about 395,000 under-21 voters to Texas' registration rolls -- if it survives the court test.

OIL PRODUCTION RAISED
Oil production for August will be boosted 335,263 barrels a day, due largely to the high cost of shipping petroleum from foreign sources.

Railroad Commission Chairman Ben Ramsey said the increase was brought about by high cost of shipping petroleum high tanker rates as well as a demand for more cheap domestic oil. He noted that the Commission had disregarded practices.

DRAFT QUOTA DROPS
August draft call for Texas is 560. That's 257 less than the 817 in July. No man will be inducted with random sequence number higher than 195.

State quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in August is 1,490, down from 1,601 in July. Those called for these examinations will have random sequence numbers one to 215.

Deferred or exempt men may be forwarded for examinations if they are likely to lose deferred or exempt status within the next six months. No men with random sequences higher than 215 will be forwarded for examination until further notice. All volunteers at draft boards must be inducted ahead of the non-volunteers selected and ordered to report for draft by 8 p.m., National call is for 10,000 men, all for the army.

NOON CRASH--Mrs. Olan Burrows, driver of the rear car, was stopped at a stop sign on West Avenue B Thursday watching a wreck happen in front of her eyes, when her car became involved in the crash. The Volkswagen, which was driven by Lionel Orozco, was headed West on West Avenue B and a Ford Falcon (not pictured) driven by Leonardo Rivera Gallegos was going South on Highway 214. The Gallegos Falcon struck the Orozco Volkswagen, swinging the VW around and into the Burrows car which was parked. ### Local Minister In Amarillo For Meeting

AMARILLO--A local minister is numbered among the staff personnel that are planning the largest religious gathering ever held in Amarillo where the "Men of Goodwill" District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses will attract more than 6,500 to the new Civic Center, July 23-26.

Boyd Lowery of Earth recently spent several days in Amarillo in preparation for the upcoming convention. He will be one of the featured speakers on the program, Friday, July 24th, at 2:00 p.m.

According to Lowery three conventions are arranged yearly by the Watchtower Society, sponsors of the Amarillo meeting, and they all demonstrate how the application of Bible principles can overcome the problems that individuals and families encounter today.

Lowery announced that the main Bible lecture, entitled "Saving the Human Race--in the Kingdom Way," will be given by Mr. L. M. Dugan from New York.
