Reminds me of a joke that goes something like this: A bishop, an archdeacon and a priest all died and went to METHODIST PASTOR -Dr. heaven. They were kept R. F. The national game of our nearest ally and greatest neighbor to the north is LaCrosse. This is a purely American game in origin, having been developed by the Indians simply as a means of good, healthy recreation. Its name is derived from the shape of the stick used by the Indians to strike the ball used. Early French-Canadians thought that the stick resembled a Bishop's crozier, and called it "la crosse". Now played with ten men to each side, the Lacrosse games of the Indians sometimes used as many as a thousand men on each side, with the squaws taking part by switching their husbands to urge them to greater efforts.
