Another Thanksgiving Day! And let us all be thankful that we are here to be thankful.

It may seem that each year there are fewer things to be thankful for, but this is only because we tend to think more of our problems and how to solve them than our blessings which we take for granted.

Problems always take up more of the individual's and the nation's time than being thankful for the good things. On the national scene, we can look back over the year and be thankful that our young men are not being killed in Vietnam. The first occasion we have had in 12 years to be thankful for this. We can also give thanks that we did not commit ourselves on impulse to the recent crisis in the Mid-East. I think we can even be thankful for the Arabian oil boycott. Perhaps not right away, but in the future. America has never been dependent on another nation or nations for its well-being or standard of living, and the boycott is bound to bring to the front that good old yankee know-how that will eventually make the country turn to its own resources for energy and power. And, we'll all be better off for it. Cold and out of gas for awhile, but better off in the long run and surely more earned the title of "District sensible.

Families can be thankful. In spite of inflation and turmoil trict to down the Big Lake Owls because of it, we still enjoy the highest standard of living in the world. While prices are higher than they have ever been, so are wages, so it all seems to balance out. We also although the Owls would still have more people employed than ever before, and for this we can also be thankful. We might also throw in a little prayer that we may continue to be thankful for bountiful prosperity. On the local scene, we can find numerous things to be thankful for. The weather is crisp and great. We have the cleanest air and best water in the world. Gas and groceries are higher, but we have no shortage. So when you really get down to it, we have a lot to be thankful for. I'm thankful I'm not on the highway today. If you must travel over the weekend, take care, we need to keep all the subscribers we can. This in spite of the newsprint shortage.

THE 1973 OZONA LIONS, BETTER KNOWN AS THE GIANT KILLERS -- Not that they had a spectacular season like winning the district crown or sharing it this year, but they have the special distinction of being the only team to beat the District 7-AA Champs, the Reagan County Owls, this year, and they upset McCamey last Friday night to prevent the Badgers from sharing the crown with Big Lake. The boys are, front row, 1. to r., Gene Castro, Gary Mitchell, Jim West Melecio Martinez,

If Nixon Goes

Many who ponder the question whether President Nixon should do as his critics demand-resign, fail to realize all that's involved if the President should bow to the pressure and step down.

The American people voted overwhelmingly a year ago for the policies and political philosophy of President Nixon. Thus the vast majority would have voted in a President for four years without having these political views prevailat the top. If Mr. Nixon is forced out of office before Congress confirms Gerald Ford as Vice President, the defeated party of 1972 would, of course, capture the White House. (Speaker Carl Albert would become President, a respected legislator but a Democrat.)

Also, the fate of the future Supreme Court hangs very much in the balance. The liberal-conservative split of the nine Justices is usually 5-4 or 4-5 today. Mr. Nixon hopes to appoint at least one more constitutionalist to the high court during the remainder of his term.

If the President goes, far left elements in the nation Mr. Nixon at least initially discredited will have seemingly been vindicated. The secret-stealers, rumor-printers, newsslanters will have helped bring down the highest officer in the land. That would be a dangerous precedent.

Perhaps worst of all, the country will be badly and dangerously split if Mr. Nixon is impeached and removed from office (which seems unlikely). The core of Nixon support, now one in three or four voters, would feel the office had been stolen by a hostile media and ambitious politicians, whatever the facts, and this cleavage would torment the nation for years to come. (There are many who believe the 1960 election was stolen from Mr. Nixon.)

There is no doubt the President has erred, misused power and been less than frank at times, even blundered. But that is nothing new, only human. The nation can still find comfort in the fact that Mr. Nixon has tried, consistently, to do what he thinks is best for America.

If his failings can be forgiven or accepted in view of the considerable accomplishments in foreign affairs, and some at home, and the next political turn of the country decided normally by votes in the election of 1976, the future of the nation will be less stormy than otherwise.

Thanksgiving, 1973

Our American Thanksgiving Day dates officially from 1863 when the nation was locked in a sectional struggle. At that time Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, who had been proposing a national day of thanksgiving for decades in Boston and Philadelphia as a magazine editor, wrote to President Abraham Lincoln-who in October of 1863 issued the first Thanksgiving Proclamation.

There had been earlier thanksgiving days; some date the American observance to the days of the early settlers of the nation-who gave thanks for their food supply and the opportunity America offered. The first probably occurred in the Plymouth Colony in 1621.

There have also been observances in other lands but few countries had adopted annual thanksgiving days prior to the American custom. An international thanksgiving day was held in Washington in 1909, having been conceived by the Rev. Dr. William T. Russell of St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Thus the American Thanksgiving Day, this year on the 22nd, is uniquely American. In 1973 it finds us blessed with both great wealth and peace.

In giving thanks for the many blessings all Americans enjoy, we can resolve to build a better community and a greater nation-for in spite of our blessings and accomplishments, there is still much to be done in the building of our country.

JFK

The nostalgia surrounding the John Kennedy Administration is unique-for several reasons. First, the handsome President was tragically assassinated-just ten years ago this month. He and his wife projected a fine public relations image as a glamorous, youthful couple.

Kennedy was a splendid speaker and captured audiences with his personality, sense of humor and frankness. He was the candidate of the party of the left and many of the "peepul" saw him as their champion, to a degree, as a symbol of what can happen in America.

Though he actually didn't accomplish a lot legislatively, Kennedy inspired many to greater hopes, to plans for better days. And while he committed the first Americans to the shooting in Vietnam, he is usually not held accountable for this fateful step. The public tends to blame the late Lyndon Johnson, who so vastly escalated the war.

Thus the Kennedy memory and legend remain undimmed and the nation tends to forget the unaccomplished goals and to recall the spirit, the hope, the idealism of that threeyear period, 1961-63-and the handsome, youthful image and personality of the martyred President, especially in these troubled times when so much doubt and confusion surround the highest office in the land.

That boyish, handsome smile and likeableness are certain to continue to captivate the American public, and the world, for years to come-that in itself being a measure of the late President's character, personality and charm.

Hill and Sessions expressed optimism about prospects for success. They said state and federal law enforcement officials have a strong mutual desire to work more closely together and deal more openly with each other.

The two attorneys predicted state and federal law enforcement officials, and the public, will gain from better coordination of policies, operational efforts and intelligence resour-

> That evening I was one of 40 Democratic House members invited to the White House for a question-and-answer session with Mr. Nixon. Other Congressmen attended similar sessions last week. His candor, forthrightness and response to questions were impressive. He explained in detail the mixup regarding two conversations which Special Prosecutor Cox thought had been taped, but upon examination it developed Professor Cox was in error. He disclosed in detail a breakdown of his monetary worth, how each dollar was acquired and reinvested in real estate. Capitol observers are now saying that no President in history has ever had his personal holdings so thoroughly investigated and no President in the past has accounted in such full detail for what he has accumulated

In the meantime, the House has funded $1-million

Actually, the committee can hardly be expected to do more than cover the same ground the Senate Watergate committee has already covered. It is a fact that the Judiciary Committee is presently dominated by Democratic Liberals and radicals, and fear is now being expressed that politics may be the dominant theme of the forthcoming timely several months ago, the hearings. Let us hope not.

Senator Tower Reports U. S. Senator John Tower's Weekly News Report To Texans 🕅 For a number of years, some of us have been trying to warn the nation of the potential cri-sis facing us because of our growing dependence on oil from the Arab countries. Now our worst fears have been real-ized. The Arabians have virtu-ally cut off oil shipments to the United States, and are using United States, and are using oil as a political weapon in an effort to force the free Western world to meet near impossible terms.

I have warned repeatedly of the inevitability of this situation and of the concomitant dangers to our economic prosperity and national security inherent in such reliance. As a result of the most recent Mideast war, the policies of the oil producing Arab countries have crystallized. Their forces have been unified as never before. Because of the U.S. policies of giving preferential treatment to Israel, we have seen most of the producing countries, including Saudi Arabia, the most important one, halt all exports of crude oil and downstream products to the United States.

But the heavy oil producers of Arabia have not stopped at that. Listen to what the Beirut Weekly, an influential oil publication of that world, says about supplying oil for the Western world:

Quote: "Saudi Arabia has three Western countries on its most-favored status list --France, Britain and Spain. Such countries will receive priority

Fort Worth--A volume of entries for the 1974 Southwes-Kathy Adams, Sylvia Elizondo, tern Exposition and Fat Stock Show are being processed daily by show officials, reports W.R. Watt, Jr., general manager. The show is scheduled Jan. 25 through Feb. 3.

Watt said a primary reason for the early entry volume is that entry closing date is Dec. 1 for the National Centennial Angus Show, being held in conjunction with this year's Stock Show. The American Angus Association is observing the 100th year of the introduction of the black cattle to North America. Other cattle, all junior divisions, horses, sheep and swine entries will close Dec. 15, while exhibitors of poultry, rabbits and pigeons have until Jan. 15 to make their entries. Entry cards and premium books are available at the Stock Show office, or by writing P. O. Box 150, Fort Worth, Texas, 76101.

"We anticipate more than 13,000 head of livestock will be entered in the 1974 Stock Show, " Watt said. "New breeds this year include Brangus breeding classes and Maine-Anjou in Junior Steer Show Classes. Brown Swiss in open and junior dairy divisions and Morgans in.

"Since this year is an tax profits, " points out Hayenunusually high income year for ga. tax bill. " The first step in year-end planning is to determine where tween a wise tax decision and the farm business stands now, explains the Texas A&M University System economist. Good duce the larger income after records make this job much easier. First, total this year's income and expenses up to the present time. Next, estimate and include expected transactions for the rest of the year. Then, compute depreciation for buildings and equipment. Using these results, estimate the taxable income. "Depending on your findings, James Baggett. you may want to buy more supplies or sell less than you planned before next January 1," says Hayenga.

"Farmers using the cash method, of accounting who need to reduce taxable income should consider buying fertilizer, feed and other supplies for use next year. Buying fertilizer now may be an especially good move, since higher prices and tighter supplies are expected next spring. Purchasing needed machinery, equipment and breeding animals also helps reduce taxable income, points out the economist. In most cases, farmers can use the 20 per cent additional write-off the first year and can also use the investment tax credit.

Money spent for conservation, land clearing and land forming is deductible, subject to certain limitations. Such expenditures may not only save taxes now but may also be an excellent long-term investment.

> three-year study on fawn survival conducted by biologists for the Texas Parks and Wildlife

Using a 22, 000-acre study in 1971, the study area was in the grips of a severe drought. There was little food for deer, and very little cover, say biologists.

As a result, only two of the 20 fawns tagged the first year survived the first eight weeks. Twelve fawns were killed by coyotes, two by bobcats and four fell to disease. The average age at death was 17 days the first year. In 1972, range conditions were better, and 13 out of 20 fawns survived the first two months of their lives.

Texas has had abundant rains in 1973, and range conditions are excellent, according to biologists.

As a result, only two of 20 fawns equipped by biologists with radio transmitters were killed by predators during the spring, 1973 study.
