We take umbrage this week at our illustrious county judge. During the commissioners court meeting Monday, Judge Williams took the opportunity to insult this paper's court reporter and make the statement "the paper's comments about the poor condition of the city park at least kept them from reporting on something important." We are not aware of anything important in the realm of Crockett County that is not read about in the pages of this paper. When we have enough to go on, we report the important and the unimportant in that order.

We have been unable to get anything concrete on the dope traffic in Ozona as well as the rental property which is being used as brothels. Both topics have been mentioned to us as something we should look into.

This is a weekly paper and we deal mainly with subjects the majority of our subscribers have an interest in. We doubt that either of the latter subjects commands a great deal of interest, and until we have evidence to the contrary, we will maintain that position.

We have heard about the "Ruining of the Park" from all segments of our community, so we have naturally taken up the banner.

We deeply regret the fact that this offends some in the community, but we speak on this subject for the great majority of Ozonans.

Heads may roll, Watergates may come and into the auditorium and take go, the middle-east may erupt but we shall dedicate ourselves to "Keeping Ozona Find Fuel Sources Beautiful. " And as long as this is important to Ozonans. we shall keep the issue alive.

We sincerely trust this settles the matter for once and for all."If the shoe fits, wear it, who have been unable to find fuel for agricultural production and "Let the Chips Fall where through regular channels may they May, " etc. contact this office, " said C. W. kk Elder, County Executive Direc-

I usually reserve this final column of the school year for some words to the graduates. For the life of me, I just can't find the words this year. I feel we are going to see a complete change in our way of life in the not too distant future. In few words I can sum it up by advising "don't believe anything you hear and only half of what you see, " and "to thine ownself be true. " And I do believe, someone has said it all before. However, we believe you'll find it a pretty good rule to live by.

Poerner Will Not Endorse A Candidate

John Poerner, unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, 21st District, sent the following news release to the Stockman this week concerning the runoff election for that position:

"Phone calls from my supporters and those of Senator Wolff and Mr. Krueger have completely occupied my schedule for the past few days. It has been most difficult for me to devote my time to the Constitutional Convention -- A position I have taken so seriously that my presence at the convention obviously hampered my support at the polls.

"I have considered the endorsement question of either Senator Wolff or Mr. Krueger for the Democratic Nomination of the 21st Congressional District, and I have decided that I will not endorse anyone. The interested electors should individually decide this question at the June 1st run-off. "

Senator Poerner ran very strong in Crockett County, coming in only 16 votes behind front runner Nelson

Nursing Home Bond Sale Set June 10th

Gordon T. Charlton, representing Columbian Securities Corporation of Texas, met with the Crockett County Commissioners Court at its regular monthly meeting Monday concerning the sale of bonds for the nursing wing addition to the hospital. It was decided that Charlton would be put in charge of printing and selling the bonds, which will be dated June 1. Bids will be received at the next court meeting, set for June 10 at 2:00 p.m.

Jack Baggett appeared before the court to submit his proposal for the Workman's Compensation insurance which must be in effect July 1. After due consideration of the other alternatives the court accepted Baggett's plan for one year.

Jim Ridge and two of his staff members addressed the court on behalf of the Council of Governments, inviting Crockett County to join the regional council. No decision was made pending further discussion.

Bids were opened for the purchase of a new street sweeper. Of the two bidders, Patton Equipment Company and Plains Machinery Company, it was decided to accept the higher bid from Plains due to a 12week difference in delivery dates. There was less than $1,000 in price.

The new regulations of the Parks and Wildlife governing hunting rules in Crockett County were discussed and rejected. The regulations stated that no permits would be required for killing antlerless deer and allowed for a spring son. The rejection is subject to state approval. Dr. David Blanton was appointed County Health Officer after the resignation of Dr.

Wm. Johnson from the post. Garland Young gave the report for the Civic Center. Total attendance for the month was 1, 259 with 17 functions held during the month of April. Young requested that his wife be allowed to operate the center from 2 until 6 p.m. and assist him in large functions. No decision was made by the Jack Gillit appeared for the road department and was instructed to put his employees on a 40 hour week retroactive to May 1.

The state of county maintenance was reported on by Dudley McCary. The Little League Park is complete and the first game was to be held Monday night. He reported that both swimming pools are leaking badly, and due to the May opening date, will have to be temporarily repaired until fall. After being instructed to keep the ground covering in the park mowed, McCary announced that there is a good crop of grass under the weeds, partly due to the protection given by these weeds during the windy weather of the past months, according to McCary.

Sonny Kirklen and John Chiles Allen appeared to discuss progress on the nursing wing and compliance with the Life Safety Code in changes in the hospital. Bids for fireresistant draperies for the hospital were received by the hospital board and upon approval by the commissioners court, the bid was awarded to Watson's Department Store.

LAW ENFORCEMENT IN ACTION -- Deputy Sheriff Glenn Willeford finishes his search of a stolen car at the park last week. A member of the Stockman staff saw the commotion across the street and before the photographer could grab a camera and get there Deputy Willeford had his suspect searched, cuffed and in the official car. The suspect was parked by the park drinking a cold drink when the deputy spotted him. The car, a late model Grand Prix, had been reported stolen in Odessa two days before the arrest here.

JUSTICE AT THE BAR

Two recent decisions have now been handed down as a result of the mess in Washington that should go a long way toward renewing the country's faith in our judicial system.

In the first decision John N. Mitchell, former attorney general and President Nixon's campaign fund raiser along with Maurice H. Stans former Secretary of Commerce were acquitted in the Vesco case in New York. Secondly, Spiro Agnew, former Vice President, was disbarred from practicing law in his native state by Maryland's highest court.

Although the two cases were entirely different in context, they were part of the black cloud of suspicion that has hung over the Administration ever since Watergate first shocked the nation.

Mitchell and Stans were indicted on a number of counts, including perjury, in connection with an alleged plot to interfere with a probe by the Securities and Exchange Commission into the operations of financier Robert L. Vesco. It was alleged that $200,000 in cash was contributed to President Nixon's 1972 the lead. re-election campaign, to gain special favor for Vesco.

Since this story first broke it has been given daily top priority by the media leading to a plea that the two men could not possibly get a fair trial. Their acquittal by a jury that contained a cross section of American citizens provides a clear example that justice will prevail in our courts despite the attention given to a case by the communications media.

Americans still know how to make up their minds on the guilt or innocence of a defendant on the basis of testimony presented him a total of about 55. to them in court, regardless of what they hear of the case from other sources.

As to the case of Spiro Agnew, many believed that he was let off very lightly by the courts, considering the allegations made against him. However, because he entered a plea of "no contest" he was forced to resign from his high position, a punishment that only he can evaluate.

His disbarment, on the other hand, was a fair decision by the judges in Maryland, who said in their decision that he was guilty modern compromise. of a crime "infested with fraud, deceit and dishonesty."

COMMUNIST KILLERS MUST BE STOPPED

Of all the unbelievable things happening these days, perhaps the most incredible is the story from Washington that Communist killers are apparently stalking victims in our land, with little attention and no protest on the part of our "detente"-minded Adminstration in the White House.

The bare bones of the story center on two recent murders. The in contributions and spent first victim was Mr. Jose E. de la Torriente, an American citizen about $62,000 on their (although Cuban born), a successful and prosperous businessman campaigns. living in Miami, Florida. Torriente has raised large sums of money to aid the refugees from Communist Cuba, and more recently he has been actively contacting cuban exiles with the idea to organize a Cuban Government in exile, aiming towards the return of freedom in Cuba. He traveled widely for this purpose, not only throughout Latin and South America, but also to Spain, West Germany, Great Britain and France.

On Wednesday, March 20, Mr. Torriente dispatched a long spent about $10,000, Finney letter to President Nixon, asking him not to deal with Castro $13,000 and $10,000. because it would be against the best interests of the United States. A few days later, he left Miami for a quick trip to make contact with Cuban exiles in Chile, Bolivia, Paraguay, Uraguay and Brazil, returning to his home on Monday, April 8. Meeting with friends there, he told them of his plan to visit Washington the following week.

However, at 10:00 p.m. on Friday, April 12, while sitting in his living room watching television with his wife, Mr. Torriente was shot and killed. A neighbor reported to the police – and first news flashes indicated - that one gunman was seen escaping in a

However, two hours after the murder, the Communist radio station (Radio Havana) reported that Torriente had been killed by more than one gunman. And, sure enough, the next day the Miami police discovered, in the autopsy, that Torriente had indeed been shot by two or more killers.

How did the Communists know more about the killing than eight Senate contests. the Miami police - unless the murder had been planned in

Two days later, in a "routine" news story over Radio Havana, the name of another Cuban exile, Mr. Arturo Rodriquez-Vives in New York City was mentioned. Four hours AFTER the communist broadcast, Mr. Rodriquez-Vives was murdered in his upper Manhattan home.

Cuban exiles report that fifteen other leading Cuban-Americans have been scheduled for "execution" by the Communists, and many are in hiding at this moment.

That communist killers can stalk victims on American soil is incredible. But that these murders can take place without a roar of indignation and outrage from either the White House or the halls of Congress, is even more incredible.

The project is part of a continuing crime prevention program in Abilene, Amarillo, Beaumont, Corpus Publicity used in the campaign suggests that police crime-prevention specialists be invited into citizen's homes to demonstrate crime-prevention techniques and teach them to recognize potential criminal activities and report them to police. Responding to the clamor for tapes, the President had 1300 pages of his chit-chat with quarter. This could encourage subordinates transcribed, and - an unjustified complacency refurnished copies to each Congressman and the news media.

The public can buy copies. The results? Both good and bad, depending on interpretations and the viewpoints of those who read the material. Some think the conversations tend to bolster a case against the President; others think otherwise. Privately, some of the pro-impeachment Congressmen concede the taped evidence is inconclusive and is more exculpatory than incriminating; others, dead set on impeachment with or without tapes, read all sorts of inferences into the recorded dialogues.

One thing the tapes confirm is that President Nixon had no advance knowledge of the Watergate burglary, and showed shock and disgust at such stupidity. And although there are signs during some of the conversations he may have suspected something was going on, like coverup activities, it was not until March 21, 1973 that more details were given to him, and he then learned the names of some of his aides who could have been involved. He then removed the suspects.

The tapes could also be used to indicate a conspiracy among White House staffers and subordinates, designed to prevent the President from finding out about coverup activities.

The issues will be debated to-and-fro, up-and-down. The impeachment committee, with 42 impeachment lawyers on its payroll, hasn't started hearings yet. The thing may drag on for another two or three months-which is bad for all concerned. The figures for the second quarter will be distorted in the opposite way. Any decline in business conditions will be exaggerated: any improvement may be obliterated. It may look as though total economic disaster had suddenly struck us in the spring of 1974.

The figures for the second quarter will not be available until the end of July. To the extent that these serve as guides to national economic policy, the decision-making political leaders could get a grossly exaggerated view of the extent of the business decline.

At this point we can only warn the reader—be suspicious of encouraging economic statistics for the first quarter of 1974. Be equally suspicious of figures for the second quarter which indicate a sudden catastrophic decline in the economy. It may all be due to seasonal miscorrection.

Increase in Carpet Sales

Experts predict an increase in carpet sales--despite the energy crisis and a shortage of raw materials.

The carpet industry also notes a shift in fiber choice, Miss Bradshaw added.

You May Never Need this Advice, But Here It Is, Just In Case You Do

The odds are that each of us will at some time be involved in a traffic accident. If you are, do you know what you must

What, exactly, does being mean? "If you are behind the wheel of a vehicle that comes into physical contact with another vehicle, pedestrian or object, you are involved in an accident. If you are driving and cause or contribute to a crash by another driver, you are involved in an accident even though there is no physical contact involving your car.

"For instance, if you are double parked, a car drives on the left side of the street to Mr. and Mrs. John Childress avoid it, and collides with an oncoming car, you are involved in an accident. Similarly, if you pass a car and force it off the road into a pole, you are in-Mrs. Welton Bunger in mem- volved in an accident. Being 'involved in an accident' has nothing to do with causing it."

That definition and much more appear in a document prepared by Mr. Edward F. Kearney, Executive Director of the National Committee on Uniform Traffic Laws and Ordinances, to inform drivers what they must do after involvement in an accident.

First: Stop the Car

If you find yourself involved in an accident, the first thing you must do is stop immediately. The stop should be made as close to the scene as possible, but ought not to obstruct traffic any more than necessary.

Next, you must identify yourself. The law requires involved drivers to remain at the scene of the accident until they have identified themselves and aided any injured person. If, however, you must leave the scene to call an ambulance or to notify the police, be sure to leave a note attached to the vehicle in order to avoid any possible misunderstanding about your intentions. Every driver of a vehicle involved in an accident must give all reasonable aid and assistance to any person injured in the accident.

Call Police

If any person has been injured in an accident, an involved driver must notify the nearest police station by using the quickest means of communication. This duty should be performed immediately after identifying yourself at the scene and aiding the injured. Most people call the police to summon an ambulance. This takes care of two duties at the same

Every driver of a vehicle which is involved in certain accidents must file a written report of the accident with the appropriate agency in the state where the accident occurred.

Gather as much information as you can at the scene of the accident. Be sure to get the names and addresses and telephone numbers of any persons involved in the accident as well as any bystanders who may have witnessed the accident.

You must also notify the company which insures the vehicle you were driving at the time of the accident. This should be done without delay.

The document concludes by admonishing all of us to follow all the rules of the road and to be prepared in case other persons do violate them. Anyone who has ever been involved in even a minor accident must agree with Mr. Kearney that "An accident is a hassle."

Grow New Plants From Old Ones

Grow new plants from those old tall overgrown house plants by a process called "air layer-

"Air layering is a means of getting roots to form on the above ground portion of a woody plant while the limb is still attached to the 'parent plant.' Thus, a large plant can develop in a relatively short time with less trouble than is usually experienced in making cuttings, " points out Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension

"The fool has said in his heart, 'There is no God.'" (Psalm 14:1)

Fool! This is the damning label fastened to the person who announces, "There is no God." Common sense admits there can be no law without a lawgiver, no order without a controlling mind, but ignoring the rules of logic used in reaching other conclusions, this person that the text calls a "fool" "writes off" the ruler of the un-

Everything in the world is made up of 101 basic chemical elements. Compounds such as water, salt, and sugar are combinations of these elements and these compounds are composed in what the scientist calls "the law of definite proportions." For instance, pure water always consists of 88.81 per cent oxygen and 11.19 per cent hydrogen by weight, whether it comes from the Mississippi River or the snows of Antarctica. It is inconceivable that these 101 chemical elements could unerringly create these compounds by mere chance.

How could anyone observe the existence of a Supreme Designer? Professor Edwin Conklin, biologist at Princeton University, says: "The probability of life originating from accident is comparable to the probability of the Unabridged Dictionary resulting from an explosion in a printing shop.' Even the atheist would employ the term "fool" to describe one who alleges the existence of a robot and the non-existence of its maker. Yet, he irritably insists that man is here by chance, without a Creator.

If the marvels of man and nature do not prove the existence of God, then a book does not prove the existence of an author, nor a house the existence of a carpenter, nor a watch the existence of a watch-

Propagation by air layering can be done any time of the year. However, the most rapid results are usually obtained in spring and early summer. First select a branch or stem with good healthy foliage that is at least ½ to 3/4-inch in diameter at a point 12 to 15 inches back from the tip of the limb. Remove all leaves and twigs from the stem for three to four inches above and below Carson serving as co-hostess. the point where the injury will

The cut should extend $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ of the way through the limb but should not be so deep that it will break off due to its own weight. Insert a toothpick wedge or match stick in the cut to keep the two surfaces from uniting and healing over. A rooting hormone is helpful but not necessary.

Immediately cover the injured area with a ball of damp sphagnum moss, advises Janne. Spueeze as much moisture from the sphagnum moss as possible before applying and secure the ball of moss firmly around the injury with string.

Enclose the sphagnum ball and a portion of the stem both above and below the injury with polvethylene film. Use electricians' waterproof tape to secure the ends of the polyfilm wrap to prevent loss of moisture.

Wait until at least five or six roots are visible through the poly-film before removing the rooted cutting from the parent plant, suggests the Texas A&M University System specialist. Rooting time will vary from two weeks to several months depending on the type of plant and the season of the

After roots are formed, remove the new plant at a point just below the ball of moss and roots. Remove the polyfilm and pot the new plant, trying not to disturb the roots in the moss ball.

Use any well drained potting mix and keep the new plant in full shade for a week to 10 days until it is well established. To keep algae from growing inside the poly-film, cover the entire ball with aluminum foil after the poly-film has been

A Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) chart has been designed to determine at a glance the cost of meat per serving. It is small enough to fit into a purse.

According to TDA home economists, the number of servings per pound usually depend on the cut. A chuck blade or arm roast yield two servings per pound but a pound of boneless chuck or sirloin tip yield three. Ground beef, sausage and poultry breasts usually yield four servings a pound.

Dividing price per pound by number of servings per pound equals cost per serving. An arm roast at $1.19 a pound costs 60 cents a serving. A sirloin tip at $1.59 a pound costs 53 cents a serving.

Save Gasoline While Driving This Summer

AUSTIN -- "With hot weather now upon us, we are all tempted to reach over and turn on the air conditioner while driving, but we need to consider what comfort means in terms of fuel consumption," Agriculture Commissioner John C. White

Use of air conditioners has often been pointed to as one of the culprits in gasoline-powered highway vehicles. In a study conducted by the USDA, it was found that test cars moving at 30 mph with the air conditioning turned on traveled an average of 18.14 miles per gallon while 20.25 miles per gallon was the average with the air conditioning off.

At faster rates, consumption was only slightly more with air conditioning than without. At 60 mph, the test cars averaged 15 miles per gallon with air conditioning and 16.25 without. The reason for the slighter difference from consumption at slower speeds is that the power required to operate air conditioning remains nearly constant, regardless of speed and other motor changes.

"The difference of 1.25 miles per gallon doesn't seem like much when considering each unit, but with a 20 gallon tank, driving without air conditioning could mean 25 more miles traveled," Commissoner White emphasized.

VEGETABLE VIABILITY

With food prices going up all over the country, a growing number of Americans are investing in vegetable gardens, but unfortunately, don't always know how to have veg-etables that thrive.

For one thing, you can't let your vegetables get too crowded. Most should be thinned when still seedlings, to allow the rest to grow best, and then thin them again when they're not quite their full height but are just good enough

For another, you shouldn't let insects plague them either. Check your plants regularly for bugs and treat them with an all-purpose, nonpersistent pesticide such as Spectracide. When spraying, cover both sides of the foliage until the leaves drip. It will control aphids, diamond-back moths, beetles, leaf hoppers and mites. It may be necessary to keep after those bugs every seven to ten days. After spraying, most vegetables may be picked within one to ten days depending on the type of vegetables.

This is the day so long awaited . . . Congratulations, Class of 1974.
