No changes are made in the rates for parcel post, which is the principal component of fourth-class mail. However, initial increases will be made in the "book rate" which is classified as fourth class.

The new temporary rates also make changes in other postage rate categories and special service fees, such as special delivery and registered mail.

As the Pena family has had heavy medical expenses recently because of a young daughter who is deaf, three local men have started a fund drive to help with the heavy medical expenses which will be incurred while Dick is hospitalized, Noe Anzaldua, Jesse Leal and Raymond Cabrera began the fund drive Tuesday morning, and by noon, had collected more than $60 to help with the hospitalization.

They ask that contributions be made out to Fela Pena or to West Plains Memorial Hospital and taken to Radio Station KMUL, Leal's Restaurant or directly to West Plains Hospital.

Pena is a cattleman, and the family includes four daughters; Morgan, 11; Shawnee, six; Kelly, four and Toy, two years of age. Mrs. Pena is spending most of her time with Dick at the hospital and family friends are assisting with the family.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON ACCIDENT INJURES THREE--The driver and only occupant of the 1964 automobile pictured here was treated and released following a broadsided collision at an intersection almost four miles northwest of Muleshoe last Sunday afternoon. The driver and passenger in the other auto, Jerry Nipp and his sister, Sheila Nipp, were also treated and released at West Plains Memorial Hospital following the collision which left two cars heavily damaged.

The sirens will not blow an "all-clear" signal. The all-clear signal will be given on Radio Station KMUL. During the day, KMUL-AM will be giving constant weather advice on the air, and in the event the station has too much static to broadcast and be heard plainly, KMUL-FM will be on the air as long as severe weather is denoted in this area, said Gil Lamb.

Chief Ladd urges everyone to keep in constant radio range and use the radio to keep up with the latest weather information, and do not call the radio station, fire department or law enforcement agency to ask weather questions, but do call in immediately any weather information denoting severity of storms.

He added that the three divisions in a tornadic weather conditions are: (1) Watch-issued by the Weather Bureau to be on the lookout for weather that could develop in a given area due to atmospheric conditions. This simply means to keep in touch and watch for severe weather that may develop.

(2) Warning-issued when a tornado has been sighted in or near a given area and denotes the presence of tornadic winds detected in the clouds either visibly or by radar.

(3) Alert-meaning a tornado has been sighted in or near and approaching a populated area. In an alert, people should take immediate shelter.

It's a mistake to assume, when someone asks your advice, that the questioner is interested in what you try to say.

A good neighbor knows how to live and let other people alone.

HERE ARE THE RULES:
1. Turn on the television set and let it warm up.

2. Turn to channel 13. Use the brightness control knob to darken the screen so it is almost black.

3. Turn to channel 2. Leave the set alone. Do NOT reset the brightness after the initial adjustment.

4. Lightning appears on the screen as horizontal streaks are flashed. A color TV produces colored lightning. As long as the screen does not have a steady "glow" the storm is not a tornado.

5. The signal of a tornado is an increasingly steady, bright, white light. Or, if there is a station in your area on channel 2 and the darkened picture becomes visible and remains visible, a tornado is approaching.

6. Take shelter fast. Some people become fascinated watching the screen, they actually forget to seek cover.

You can use a battery-operated transistor radio to augment the TV warning system, since the tornadoes often do rip out power lines.

1. Set the radio next to the TV.

2. Turn radio to low end of dial. Here the radio picks up the same storm signals as the television set.

3. Lightning makes a sharp crackling sound (static).

4. A tornado is approaching if the radio makes a steady, staccato noise (continuous static). Head for cover. Use another radio or TV to listen for Weather Bureau warnings.

imately 1:30 p.m. Trotting along at a continued brisk pace, the wheelchair caravan was in Muleshoe for almost an hour, collecting funds for the American Cancer Society before continuing their trek toward Lubbock.

They went through Sudan late in the afternoon and Deputy Sheriff Homer McLaury said he thought the students were planning to spend the night in Littlefield before continuing their drive toward Lubbock.

Original plans to the fraternity had been to go to Canyon, visit the campus of West Texas State University, then through Plainview to Lubbock, but that plan was scrapped after the Friday accident. As the caravan approached Muleshoe, a plan to go to Plainview, then south to Lubbock was dropped after the students found there would be only a narrow-two-lane highway from Muleshoe to Plainview. One of the students explained that the group thought it would be in the best interest of safety for the caravan to stay with the four-lane highways.

Steve Wenk said two chartered buses stopped the caravan and contributed $35 when they were near Farwell Saturday morning, and several people stopped the caravan along the way for further contributions. The students said all funds were going to the American Cancer Society.

Maurice (Mo) Lamonde was in the chair when it was pushed through Muleshoe, and the hardy young man pushing the chair at a steady trot was Mike MacEachen. Other fraternity members in the caravan included John McKissack, Art Martin, Paul Coffman, Chris Robinson, Paul Klein, and Randy Smith.

A Muleshoe man was overheard as he commented, "In the day of demonstrations and riots, it is real good to see a group of young people doing something constructive. The young people who just went through here should be commended."

Market Report

COLLEGE STATION, -- Budget your food dollar this week by following these marketing tips, suggests Gwendolyn Ciyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

While shopping retail meat counters, look for best beef values on chuck roasts and steaks, rib roasts and steaks, liver, ground beef and round steaks and roasts. Pork values include hams, picnics, shoulder roasts and steaks and end-cut loin roasts and chops.

Fryers remain an excellent bargain in most meat departments, and Grade A large size eggs continue to offer the best combination of economy and quality for your egg money. Turkey is also a good choice. Since over 30 percent more trucks are expected to be on the May market this year than in May of last year, look for attractive prices.

Fresh fruit and vegetable items in best supply at the most economical prices include apples, oranges, bananas, grapefruit, lemons, strawberries, pineapples, rhubarb, potatoes, celery, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, asparagus, yellow onions, mustard greens, radishes and green onions.

Green Thumb Tips

When it's time to move seedlings into the garden it's time to be ultra-careful. For transplanting, seedlings has to be done with care.

Soil must be well prepared, raked fine and level. Water the area to be planted the day before you intend to transplant.

Annual flowers exist to produce seeds which will perpetuate the species. If you want them to keep blooming, prevent seed formation by picking all spent blooms promptly.

A few minutes a day spent tending the flowers will give you lots more.

TEA Desegregation Aid Nearly Double

AUSTIN -- Texas Education Agency assistance to public schools with planned desegregation projects will nearly double the coming year under a plan approved Monday (May 3) by the State Board of Education.

The Agency, which received $50,000 in federal funds this year to help finance its desegregation assistance program, will request $90,784 from the U. S. Office of Education beginning July 1.

The increased funds will add two professional consultants to the present three-man staff and provide for rented office space outside the Agency building at 11th and Brazos streets in Austin.

Under current federal funding, 109 Texas school districts have been approved for desegregation projects in the amount of $8,003,775. The present three members of the Agency's office of technical assistance have worked with 30 of these districts.

"Staff limitations have prevented our technical assistance personnel from accompanying U. S. Office of Education representatives on all of their visits to participating school districts in Texas," Leon Graham, Agency assistant commissioner for administration, points out.

Pending Congressional legislation will boost the total federal Emergency School Assistance Program from the current $75 million to $500 million for the 1972 fiscal year. While no exact figures are available, Texas school districts will be eligible for approximately $25 million, about triple the 1971 allocation, Graham said.

All project applications are approved by the Equal Educational Opportunities Division of the U. S. Office of Education regional headquarters in Dallas. The funds go direct from the Office of Education to the school districts.

However, federal guidelines require that the application be reviewed and recommendations made both by the Governor's Office and the Texas Education Agency. The Agency's technical assistance staff reviewed all applications submitted and also sponsored meetings in Dallas and Houston to help interested area school districts to develop their original applications for funding.

Projects now under way in Texas schools include revision of the curriculum to meet new needs of students, in-service programs for cross-over teachers, student programs designed to ease tensions between ethnic groups, community relations, and remedial programs for students who were below normal grade level in achievement.

Prior to the current school year, the Agency's technical assistance on desegregation problems had been limited to working with school districts on voluntary plans, helping schools work out in-service programs, and investigating allegations of discrimination received from citizens in the school districts.

Dwarf forms of annual phlox, sown thickly in a tub or planter, can be thinned so that individual plants have room to grow but still furnish a mass of bloom.

This flower will give you something "different" for your terrace.

Did you ever consider the important part the plants around your home play in providing you with breathable air?

Your trees, your shrubs, your lawn, even each single petunia plant are all engaged in manufacturing food for themselves and oxygen for you.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Game of Chance"

"Fifty cents per shot," said the sign at a certain golf course. "If you score a hole-in-one, you win $5,000."

Sure enough, a golfer eventually did come through with a hole-in-one. But the proprietor refused to pay the prize money. Haled into court, he argued that the contest was a "game of chance"—hence, not enforceable by law.

However, the judge disagreed. Ordering the money paid, the judge said there was simply too much skill involved in a golf shot to classify this as a game of chance.

In varying degree, gambling is regulated in every state. Often, under these regulations, it becomes necessary for a court to decide what is meant by the phrase "game of chance."

Sometimes the answer is relatively easy. Thus, the throwing of dice has consistently been held a game of chance. So has roulette. So has matching pennies.

On the other hand, chess and checkers and spelling bees have all been held not games of chance but games of skill.

What about bridge? Most courts have classified bridge, too, as a game of skill.

"Although there is of course an element of chance resulting from the deal of the cards," explained one judge, "there is a continually recurring necessity in the bidding and play to make decisions which will ordinarily be determinative of the outcome."

Does it "take the curse off" a forbidden game of chance if the stakes are very small? As a matter of principle, no. Consider this case:

A restaurant owner was arrested on a charge of operating an illegal gambling device on his premises. Although he protested that the prizes were worth only a nickel, the court found him guilty anyhow.

What the law is concerned about, said the court, is any device "designed to intrigue the unwary and arouse the latent cupidity of human nature into the notion that it could get something for nothing."

Narrow Row Cotton Needs Good Seedbed

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of news articles on narrow-row cotton production.)

LUBBOCK -- Cultural practices become more critical when shifting to the narrow-row method of cotton production, and seedbed preparation is certainly no exception. In fact, there is less margin for error in preparing a good seedbed. "Narrow-row patterns almost necessitate on-the-bed or flat planting," says Dr. Robert Metzger, area agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "The method of dry soil can be moved to get seed in moist soil when planting. Also, cultivation to control weeds or the application of post-emergence herbicides will be more effective."

As far as the planting rate is concerned, the agronomist points out that highest yields under irrigation have been obtained from planting four to six irrigation must be considered, too. Flat planting works well under sprinkler irrigation while on-the-bed planting is recommended for furrow irrigation. Metzger suggests that new producers may first want to consider planting in intermediate row widths or double rows rather than in the very narrow, grain-drilled row widths. Row widths 20 to 32 inches apart or two rows on the conventional 40-inch bed have offered the most consistent results. Furthermore, equipment adjustments are not as drastic, and present varieties have performed better in intermediate row spacings.

"Double rows should be spaced as wide apart as possible for best results," contends Metzger. "With double rows spaced 26 inches apart, per foot of row. On double rows this means about 30 pounds per acre and from 60 to 65 pounds per acre for 10-inch drilled rows.

"Keeping planting rates low is the key to successful narrow-row production on dryland," emphasizes Metzger. "Producers should shoot for a plant population equivalent to one plant per square foot or 43,560 plants per acre. This means about 15 pounds of delinted seed per acre for dryland production

Lack of surface moisture is often a problem when producers plant flat with a grain drill. This necessitates the use of a sprinkler irrigation system to provide the needed moisture for germination and plant emergence.

Generally, producers who plan to follow the narrow-row method of cotton production can enjoy a little more flexibility as far as the growing season is concerned, adds the agronomist. Narrow-row varieties are generally smaller in stature and require less time to reach maturity. So the growing season is shortened somewhat.

Following the program, Mrs. Junior Austin presented Mrs. Guter with a silver serving tray engraved "In Appreciation", from her pupils.

Friday was the end of school picnic for the school. Mr. and Mrs. Marion McDaniel and sons, Craig and Dwight, were in Bryan over the weekend and attended the A&M graduation exercises Saturday morning in the civic auditorium on the campus where their son Gordon was among the 1280 graduates in bachelor degree.

Meat Inspection Equals

Federal Certification

COLLEGE STATION--The U. S. Department of Agriculture last week certified the Texas meat inspection program equal to the federal one, making the state responsible for inspecting its own intrastate meat slaughtering and processing plants.

The certification will affect 582 plants in the state under laws of the Texas legislature and in agreement with the 1967 Wholesome Meat Act.

The 1967 law required all state plants to reach the federal requirements by December 1970 to retain their own state inspection. Surveys were made in the state by federal meat inspection officials and Texas didn't meet the federal standards.

Notice was then given in early February that federal inspectors would assume all inspection in the state's plants.

Later reviews indicated that Texas was enforcing inspection requirements at least equal to federal ones.

Texas meat inspection officials, directed by Dr. A. B. Rich, did an amazing job in bringing Texas standards up to federal levels according to Woodrow W. Bailey, Extension livestock and meats specialist. Bailey added that Texas was far behind some of the other states in meat inspection when the Wholesome Meat Act was passed.

He also noted that state inspection officials had to hire and train about 600 new inspectors in less than one year.

Bailey explained that Texas meat inspectors will try to continue improving all phases of inspection and there will be no relaxation in requirements since Texas standards have been certified as equal to federal.

Half of the state's budget for meat inspection will come from matching federal funds, according to officials in the USDA's Consumer Marketing Service.

West Virginia's meat inspection program was also certified equal to federal last week, bringing to 44 the number of states which have achieved "equal to" meat inspection status, Bailey noted.

Lawmakers Write Tax Bill

By Vern Sanford Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex. -- Texas lawmakers wrapped up their toughest job, that of writing a record $873.3 million tax bill, thus hopefully clearing the way for adjournment of their session by the May 31 deadline.

Top legislators said they feel that with the tax issue out of the way (assuming Gov. Preston Smith signs the bill), they can complete congressional and legislative redistricting and other "must" duties this month.

Few legislators claimed to be entirely satisfied with the huge tax bill, but the House voted 130-46 to concur in Senate amendments, bowing to the argument that a conference committee would only delay the inevitable.

Tremendous sentiment for lawmakers to wind up the bitter, complex session and get home as quickly as possible was apparent in the House vote.

Here are key provisions of the tax bill which will become effective July 1 if signed by Governor Smith:

* Sales tax increase from 3.25 to four per cent.

* Auto sales and rental tax at four percent.

* Franchise tax rate increase from $3.25 to $4.50 per $1,000.

* Cigarette tax raise from 15.5 to 13.5 cents a pack.

* Gasoline tax raise from five to seven cents a gallon (and diesel fuel increase from 6.5 cents to seven cents a gallon).

* Beer tax boost from $4.30 to $6 a barrel.

House Speaker Gus Mutscher, who pushed for concurrence in the Senate changes, indicated an agreement has been reached to roll back the beer tax increase to $5 a barrel in subsequent liquor-by-the-drink legislation which will be voted on later.

SMITH VETOES 10-2 JURY VERDICTS

Governor Smith, in his first veto of the current session, rejected a bill to set up comparative negligence in personal injury lawsuits and 10-2 jury verdicts.

In a strongly-worded veto message, Smith claimed the bill would throw the judicial system "into utter chaos" and substantially increase auto insurance premiums.

Little chance was seen for overriding the veto.

GOVERNORS BLAST NIXON ON DROUGHT

Governors of Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma in statements here blasted the Nixon administration for failure to provide complete aid to their drought-stricken areas.

Governors said they will ask their congressmen to press harder for disaster relief.

Meanwhile, Texas House members on the drought committee visited Washington officials and found "some hope" of low-interest federal loans.

Committee reports that farmers and ranchers are not adequately informed on the types of loans available to them and asked for special meetings with the Farmers Home Administration to explain aid which can be provided.

Panhandle legislator, Rep. Dean Cobb of Dumas, introduced a bill to allow the governor to declare a county a disaster area due to "serious inefficiency in normal rainfall and chronic lack of storage water."

Local agencies would be authorized under the proposed emergency act to revalue property for tax purposes on designation of the area as a disaster zone.

COURT SPEAKS

U.W. Supreme Court ruling upholding a jury's right to levy the death sentence may mean early execution of many convicted murderers in Texas.

There are 43 on death row at the state penitentiary and others in county jails. Most of them are appealing sentences.

State Supreme Court refused a defeated Palestine city council candidate's bid to force his way to election by legal action.

Texas Supreme Court set June 2 for arguments in opposition complaints over granting application for a new savings and loan association in Bay City and a branch office in Hallettsville.

Court of Criminal Appeals upheld and 800-year prison sentence given a Fort Worth man for rape in 1969.

AG OPINIONS

A bill allowing banks to have drive-in facilities 1,850 feet from the main unit may or may not be held constitutional, depending on facts in each case, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held. Question is whether the bill permits banks to engage in business "in more than one place."

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

* Legislation to permit a bank to increase its capital stock without issuing same is unconstitutional, since authorized capital stock must be subscribed and fully paid in cash.

* A barber inspector who practices barbering on weekends may be eligible for appointment to the State Board of Barber Examiners if he has performed "substantial practice continuously" for five years or more.

* Two proposed constitutional amendments concerning the Teacher Retirement System of Texas are offsetting. If both are adopted, no constitutional change would be made. If one (SRJ 2) passes alone, the 10-year minimum service requirement would be cut to five years.

WELFARE INCREASE

When Social Security payments increase next month, most aged, blind and disabled in Texas will also get a slight income boost.

Social Security recipients will get $4 more a month, as will those on Old Age Assistance who have no Social Security benefits.

State Welfare Board has authorized a $1 monthly increase in standards for blind and disabled programs.

Texas public assistance recipients will not have Social Security increases retroactive to January counted against state grants.

STATE LAND LEASED

Texas School Land Board accepted $784,361 in high bids for leases on 13,436 acres of state-owned land.

Highest bidder was Humble Oil and Refining Company with a $167,942 bid for 640 acres in Ward County.

Six bids were submitted on 70 upland tracts and 30 riverbed tracts. Total bids came to $1.17 million. Forty-five high bids were accepted by the Board.

John Tower
United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

This past week the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which I am a member, reported legislation to the full Senate extending the draft for two more years while making it more fair and also aiming toward the achievement of an all-volunteer armed force.

I, like most of you, am concerned that our national defense requirements be met, I believe that national defense is of prime importance for we must provide a consistently strong defense to insure that actions we take to solve domestic problems will be of lasting benefit.

The draft, by its very nature, compels men to military service against their own preferences.

A man who has a strong opposition to the military cannot make a good soldier.

This factor makes it incumbent upon us to strive to achieve an all-volunteer armed force as rapidly as possible.

I am supporting efforts to reach this goal by mid-1973.

There are some who contend that the draft should be allowed to expire this year, or, at most, that it should be extended for only one year. I have studied their arguments carefully, but I am unconvinced. Our military force levels are declining at a relatively steady pace, but our man power needs are not going to plummet. Also, there are many uncertainties involved in estimating future military manpower needs and judging how effectively we will be able to meet those needs.

I do feel that as long as we must have a draft, it should be as fair and as equitable as possible.

This is why I supported the present lottery system and it is why I joined with my colleagues on the Committee in supporting an Administration request for an end to new undergraduate college student deferments.

By attending college a young man decreases his draft vulnerability, and it is unfair to allow those with less education, less financial ability, or no desire to attend college to bear a disproportionate share of the burden of our defense.

I oppose, however, an Administration recommendation that the termination of student deferments be made retroactive to April 22 of last year. This provision would enable the cancellation of present student deferments made on or after the date. Just as I believe that student deferments are unfair, I believe that terminating an existing deferment is unjust.

A young man who has obtained a deferment has already made plans based upon that deferment. In my opinion, it would be an injustice to rescind deferments already extended.

The Committee refused to follow a recommendation of the Administration that draft exemptions for divinity students and seminarians be terminated.

I am supporting the recommendation of the Committee to change these exemptions to deferments. This change would mean that divinity students under age 35 who fail to actually become a minister or rabbi would be subject to induction.

While there is some concern that insincere individuals might use attendance at a divinity school to avoid the draft, I feel that drafting other individuals who have a deep moral commitment to the ministry is not the best way to discourage draft dodgers.

I believe the Committee recommendation will make divinity school unattractive to the insincere draft dodger but extend a proper deferment to men committed to a life in service to religious causes.

An essential element to plans to achieve an all-volunteer armed force is a substantial pay raise for our servicemen.

The Administration plan is a two-step program which would provide about one billion dollars in fiscal 1972 and an additional 1.7 billion dollars in fiscal 1973.

The House of Representatives, however, has proposed a pay bill which would provide the entire 2.7 billion dollars in fiscal '72.

The first step of the Administration plan, which was approved by the Senate Committee, provides substantial raises at the entry level for servicemen; the House version includes this, plus raises for career servicemen and much needed housing allowances increases.

I am supporting the House version of the pay bill because I believe our servicemen have too long been asked to do their dangerous and difficult jobs without proper compensation.

I also feel that pay raises are required now to encourage young men to volunteer for military service in the hope that eventually a military draft will not be a necessity.

A lean, trim military force composed of well trained, well paid and well equipped volunteers is the goal for which we should strive.

House panel votes extension of draft.

spending too much on weeds in cotton!

If you've been just cultivating, or using a chemical weed killer and not getting the control you need — either way you've been spending too much.

There's a better way to get good weed control, and spend less.

It's with Caparol® 80W — your partner, the weed-killer — band applied, at planting. In just one trip across the field, you plant your crop and put Caparol on in a band. This keeps the weeds out of the rows. Then, all you do is cultivate the middles.

Don't spend too much on weeds in cotton again this year. Apply Caparol, in a band, at planting.

PCG Backs Passage Of Amendment Four

Officers and directors of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. are joining other leaders across the state in urging a large and favorable vote May 18 on Amendment 4 to the Texas Constitution.

According to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of PCG, passage of Amendment 4 will help provide the financing necessary to "get on with the job of solving the state's long range water problems, including the well documented problems of the High Plains."

Texas voters had the opportunity on August 5, 1969, to approve a bond issue that would have gone far toward authorizing funds to implement the Texas Water Plan which contemplates redistribution of the state's available water supplies as well as the importation of water from out-of-state sources.

"But," Johnson says "by a paltry 6,000 votes, the bond issue at that time failed. High Plains voters voted 10 to 1 for the issue, but barely more than 26 percent of the eligible voters went to the polls, and that wasn't enough." Significantly, if only another 5 percent of the voters on the plains had voted, the bond issue would have carried.

A favorable vote May 18 on Amendment 4 will mean (1) funds to assist with construction of waste water treatment facilities in Texas, (b) continuation, beyond 1982, of Texas Water Development funds previously approved by voters, and (c) authority for the Texas Water Development Board to sell bonds at up to six percent interest.

"Without passage of this amendment," Johnson concludes, "putting the Texas Water Plan into action will be made extremely difficult and seriously delayed. So every registered voter in West Texas should be at the polls May 18 to cast a vote for his own future well being."

The schedule of premiums and discounts for eligible qualities of 1971-crop upland cotton, to be used by Commodity Credit Corporation in making loans to producers, was released May 4. Loan premiums and discounts are generally narrower than those in effect for the 1970 crop, reflecting spot market prices for cotton recorded over the nine month period August through April.

The trend toward smaller differences between loan values for higher and lower qualities and longer and shorter staples began in 1970 as a result of the supply-demand relationships of the various classifications. For the past two years the supply of shorter staples and lower grades of cotton has been somewhat restricted, generally speaking, and in some instances very tight, while the supply of higher white grades of medium and longer staples has been relatively plentiful.

The base loan rate for Middling 1-inch cotton, basis 3.5 to 4.9 micronaire and net weight at average location, for 1971 is 19.5 cents per pound. That rate is effectively two cents per pound below the 1970 loan rate of 20.25 cents, which was based on gross weight and average-of-the-crop micronaire.

The loan rate for Middling 1-inch cotton at Lubbock area warehouses, excepting Floydada rate was the same as the average, 20.25 cents. However in this year's announcement, USDA said "Minor revisions were made in the 1971 location differentials because of increased transportation costs." The extent of these revisions, according to a spokesman from CCC's New Orleans office, has not been finally determined. Freight rates have been increased since last year to both the northeast and southeast, which presumably means the "location differential" for cotton on the Plains will be greater than last year's five points. However the Washington announcement stated that changes would not exceed 10 points for any warehouse location.

Until the location differentials are known, calculation and publication of physical loan prices will be impractical. For purposes of comparison the following chart shows 1970 and 1971 loan cotton with micronaire readings outside the desirable 3.5 to 4.9 range.

COLLEGE STATION--The injection of water into the seed furrow at planting is a practice that can help cotton growers in the drier cotton producing areas, according to Fred C. Elliott, Extension cotton specialist.

Water injection isn't a method of irrigating cotton, Elliott said that under dry conditions there is usually subsurface moisture, but young plants can't reach it because there isn't enough water for the seed to germinate.

If the injected water can enable the cotton to reach the subsoil moisture, better stands will occur, according to Elliott.

If the subsoil moisture is available, 30-40 gallons of water per acre may give the emerging cotton enough moisture to come to a stand in drought conditions, he said.

The equipment needed for injecting water consists of Acra-Plant openers (the only plant openers designed for water injection), a field nurse tank, a sprayer system on the tractor, a planter, and a conventional sprayer set-up similar to herbicide equipment.

Elliott said that at about 10 pounds of pressure with a tractor speed of four and one-half mph, the 30-40 gallons can be applied per acre to 40 inch rows.

Besides preventing skippy stands, the injection keeps pro-

Early Planting Avoids Damage

LUBBOCK -- As the production of grain sorghum has mushroomed on the South Plains over the past decade, a tiny insect pest has continued to lurk in the background and has inflicted heavy damage where the situation was ripe. The sorghum midge, one of the most damaging insects of grain sorghum, must be reckoned with each year.

"Early planting is the most practical means by which producers can avoid midge damage to their sorghum crop," points out Dr. Don Rummel of Lubbock, area entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Sorghum should be planted so that it will bloom no later than August 1. This is when the critical period begins for potential midge damage on the South Plains."

If the crop escapes midge damage during the bloom period, then the danger is over, explains the entomologist. Sorghum is susceptible to the midge only during this period of growth.

"Our observations over the past nine years indicate that midge populations seldom reach damaging levels in this area before the first of August," says Rummel. "So, producers can beat the midge by selecting the proper variety and planting date."

Although midge infestations have not been serious in the past few years, the insect pest was responsible for devastating losses during the early 1960's. Grain yields in late-blooming fields have been reduced from 20 to 100 percent. So, the sorghum midge can virtually wipe out a sorghum crop if conditions are right, notes the entomologist. That's why he cautions producers to take steps now as planting time approaches to avoid midge damage this summer.
