sult were the pretty young type-writers of the fairer sex, who beheld with horror the loss of their long, tapering fingers, upon whose charm they had so prided themselves. In stead of their sweetly molded fin-gers tapering gracefully to the tips and aristocratically curling, what was their consternation and chagrin to be struck with the fact that long hammering upon the little round keys had effectually flattened out their finger tips and given each particular digit, above the top joint, a gro tesquely and vulgarly stubby appear ance. The doctors were immediately besieged by despairing bevies of bewitching typewriters, who hid their distorted and flattened fingers in the depths of their mitts and gloves.

"Just to think," exclaimed one of the nearly weeping young women to her physician, "I had such a long, slender hand, and was the envy of that nasty Miss Q., whenever visitors in the office gazed on admiringly at my fingers dancing over the keys. Even my employer used to smile ap provingly, as he glanced over his papers, at my nimble, tampering ingers. And now"-
