Not Born to be Smashed.

The world in years to come will doubtless hear something great about Thomas Burns, who is now a 3-yearold resident of Brooklyn. He must have been born to be president, or to be hung. The other day he fell from the third story window of his parents' residence plump into the coal hole of the cellar underneath, a distance of fully forty-five feet. One of the occupants of the floor below saw the child shoot past the window, and thought that it was a bundle of clothes that some one had thrown out of the window. Presently he heard the child scream down in the cellar and ran down to rescue him. He found the youngster sitting upon the coal rubbing his head, yelling lustily and apparently unhurt.
