First Snow Covers Muleshoe

Cotton Harvest At Standstill In Area

The first measurable snow of the season fell on Bailey County late Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. Approximately one half of an inch of snow was on the ground Wednesday morning and was still falling at presstime.

This is a comparatively late snow as last year, Muleshoe had its first snow on October 8, 1970. It was still too early for most farmers in the area as a large per cent of cotton is still in the field, County Agent J.K. Adams reports that the snow did not hurt most of the cotton as it has already been weathered. The snow will cause a delay in getting the strippers into the fields as now the fields will be wet and muddy for a few days. He also stated that it was doubtful whether the snow would affect the crops dollar and cent wise since most of the damage has already been done what with earlier wet weather and damage.

The snow seemed to be constant over most of Bailey County as a spot check showed that most of Bailey County received snow.

Local Cotton Harvest Interrupted By Weather

The South Plains cotton harvest was interrupted by damp, foggy weather the past week, according to W.K. Palmer, in charge of the U.S.D.A. Cotton Classing Office in Lubbock.

The harvest was resumed on Friday and sample receipts at the four offices are expected to increase daily as the harvest gains momentum.

The four U.S.D.A. Classing Offices at Lubbock, Brownfield, Lamesa and Levelland classed only 24,700 samples during the week ending Friday, November 26th. A large part of this cotton was harvested during the previous week. Total classed this season was only 55,000 through Friday, compared to 813,000 at this date last year.

The current crop is two to three weeks later than normal due to unfavorable weather conditions during the spring and summer months.

Low Middling Light Spotted was the predominant grade at Lubbock last week with 32 per cent of all cotton classed. Strict Low Middling Light Spotted made up 31 per cent, Strict Low Middling 10 per cent and Low Middling 16 per cent.

Staples were predominantly 30 to 33. Nineteen per cent had a staple length of 30, 31 per cent 31, 25 per cent 32 and 12 per cent 33.

Thirteen per cent of the cotton "miked" in the Lubbock office was in the premium range of 3.5 to 4.9, 11 per cent "miked" 3.3 and 3.4, 36 per cent 3.0 through 3.2, 29 per cent was 2.7 through 2.9 and 11 per cent was 2.6 and below.

The Consumer and Marketing Service of the U.S.D.A. reported increased trading in the new crop cotton. Prices were higher for cotton with micronaire of 3.0 and better and slightly lower for cotton with micronaire of 2.9 and below.

Average prices paid for most predominant qualities in the 3.5 to 4.9 micronaire range were:

Low Middling 31-26.80, Low Middling 32-26.90, Strict Low Middling Light Spotted 31-27.00, Strict Low Middling Light Spotted 32-27.20, Low Middling Light Spotted 31-26.65 and Low Middling Light Spotted 32-26.70.

Prices paid farmers for cottonseed ranged from $44 to $70 per ton with most prices in the $48 to $53 range.

part of the cost. There is always something a person can do. Some women in the country join a club and market products once or twice a week in the nearest town. This gives them something to do at home and they meet other people while they sell. I notice that you live in mountainous country where many people put up jams and make things that tourists like to buy.

You did not mention your husband so I do not know whether he is living or not. But if you have one he should be able to drive you where you need to go. Good luck.

Market Report

Christmas trees will soon be on the market, and you will want to make your selection wisely.

A few simple procedures can assure you of selecting and keeping that perfect tree this season, says Bill Smith, Extension forester at Texas A&M University.

First determine where the tree is to be displayed in your home. With this in mind you will be able to determine the most suitable size and shape. Trees generally appear smaller than they really are. Buying the tree early will enable you to be selective in your choice of a fresh tree. Smith suggests checking for signs of needle shedding and brittleness to indicate excessive drying.

Tree limbs should be strong enough to hold ornaments and strings of electric lights. The tree should have a strong fragrance and good green color for the species.

Texas imports over three million trees annually with some coming from as far away as western Canada, points out Smith. The most popular trees in Texas are the Scotch pine and Douglas fir. Trees are stored in boxcars and undergo extreme temperature changes during their journey southward. "Those undergoing warm temperatures for a period of several weeks may already have dried out by the time they're on Texas markets," says Smith.

Once you purchase your tree, store it outdoors in the shade until you are ready to use it. Spray it frequently with water. When moving the tree indoors, cut the butt end at a diagonal about one inch from the bottom and place it in water. This opens the tree's pores and aids in the absorption of water. Keep the butt end of the tree in water during the entire time it is in the home, advises Smith. For aid in selecting your Christmas tree, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has prepared a pamphlet, "How To Buy a Christmas Tree", G-187. For a free copy write the Office of Information, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Miss Jane Gutierrez, bride-elect of Federico Garza, was honored with a bridal shower Friday, November 26, in the community room of the Muleshoe State Bank.

The serving table was covered with a white embroidered cloth and was centered with an arrangement of antiqued irises and white peacock fern interspersed with white tapers. A cake, decorated with wadding bells topped with burgundy bows, carried out the bride's chosen colors and completed the table decor.

Refreshments of raspberry punch, cookies and mints were served to the guests by Mrs. Manuel Garcia and Mrs. Virginia Estrada.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Ramon Gonzales, Mrs. Georgette Isaac, Mrs. Jose Elizarraraz, Mrs. Celia Lopez, Mrs. Elena Hernandez, Mrs. Betty Rejino, Mrs. Jose Porras, Mrs. Salomon Madrid, Mrs. Lisha Garza, Mrs. Steven Flores, Mrs. Mike Perez, Mrs. Heriberto Mendoza, Mrs. Joe Vela Sr., Mrs. Virginia Estrada, Mrs. Manuel Travino, Mrs. Aurelio Cuevas, Miss Frances Gutierrez, Miss Trine

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

I am a retired school teacher but still working in the schools of our county for the past five years. Each year, since retirement, I have given each senior of our county a packet of good literature which they appreciate so much—at least some of them do.

I would like to have your permission to use your letter from Joan who was going to college and was elated to be on her own, and your excellent answer to her. I think this will be good for the seniors.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I am,

E.F.B.—Tenn.

Answer:

I shall be happy to have you use my letter E.F.B. As a matter of fact, one of the rewards of answering letters in this column is that of helping people or in finding someone who likes what we write.

I should also like you to know that I think your idea of encouraging young people to enjoy and appreciate good literature, by giving such packets to the seniors in your county, is a wonderful thing for you to do.

Many of the children of today have grown up on an educational diet of comic books and television. The magazines that most of them read contain a great deal of trash or worse than trash. Consequently they never realize how much the reading of good literature can mean to a person. Such a habit, not only continues one's education, but is an escape from loneliness and frustrations later on.

Keep up the good work! Louisa.

Dear Louisa, I am writing to you about a lonely housewife. I live out in the country and have no one to talk to or anything for pastime. My children are all grown up and gone and my neighbors all work.

So I am asking you what to do not to die of heartache. You see I am a person who likes to talk and to have something of amusement. My doctor tells me to get out and do light work and God only knows I could use the money. But they speak about good old W Co. but what's good about it if you can't get a job even if your life depends on it and mine just about does. I don't drive since I got so nervous but the doctor told me if I did do this and stayed on the job with other people it would do miracles for me. But when you get kicked in the teeth everytime you try, what am I to do? I am desperate so please help me as I am at the end of my rope.

Lonely—Boone, N.C.

Answer:

If driving is keeping you from getting a job why not make a plan with one of your working neighbors to ride with them by paying

The hospital auxiliary members will operate a snack bar, selling sandwiches, frito pie, hot dogs, coffee and cold drinks. The Muleshoe Young Homemakers will have homemade candies and other baked items for sale.

A purchase from the bazaar or a 50 cent contribution will serve as registration for the door prize. The drawing will be held at 4:30 p.m.

A Muleshoe Young Home-maker says "Come to the bazaar, make your purchases and visit with some of the people from the Nursing Home who have this possible."

Progress Vaquero 4-H Club Meets

The Progress Vaquero 4-H Club met November 22 in the Bailey County Electric meeting room. The purpose of the meeting was to elect officers for the coming year.

The president is Tim Wheeler; vice president, Benny Floyd; secretary treasurer, Joie Carpenter; reporter, Mitzi Bass and queen, Lavern Carpenter. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Presley were elected as the new club leaders.

The club decided to sell tickets for a drawing for a new pair of boots to be held during the Muleshoe Stock Show in 1972. The club also voted to have a float in the Christmas parade, and plans were made for constructing the float.

The meeting was adjourned by Jimmy Henderson.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

It's not too late to take yourself into hand and do something about looking your loveliest and most fashionable for Christmas parties.

Don't be discouraged, you can lose a few pounds. Just made up your mind if it's worth the effort.

Start the day with one-half grapefruit, a large glass of buttermilk or skim milk, coffee, no sugar. Two one minute eggs with no salt or butter.

For lunch broil one-fourth pound of lean, round, ground steak in one pat of butter. A large green salad—your choice of raw vegetables—using a low-calorie dressing. One cup of a hot, cooked low calorie vegetable and a raw apple for dessert.

Supper should consist of one fourth pound lean beef, a glass of buttermilk or skim milk and a tomato sliced, no salt or dressing or one-half grapefruit.

Walk daily in the fresh air. Have your hair styled by a professional and remember to brush, brush and brush.

Choose a dress in a becoming color with good lines and you're ready for Christmas parties.

There is no way to accurately predict what people will do.

Some of the group expressed their appreciation for work and demonstrations by saying, "These exceptional paintings and assorted works of arts made us feel very humble, but at the same time inspired us to do something creative and worthwhile. ABOUT YOUR HOME

Why not let the children make their own Christmas gifts to exchange with their friends? Not only will this save the family budget, but it will be excellent training for them.

The age of the child will largely determine what gifts he can make. Children five or six years old will enjoy making calendars for relatives. Most book stores carry the small sticker-type calendars which can be mounted on pieces of poster or heavy drawing paper. Let the child decorate the paper with pictures cut from magazines.

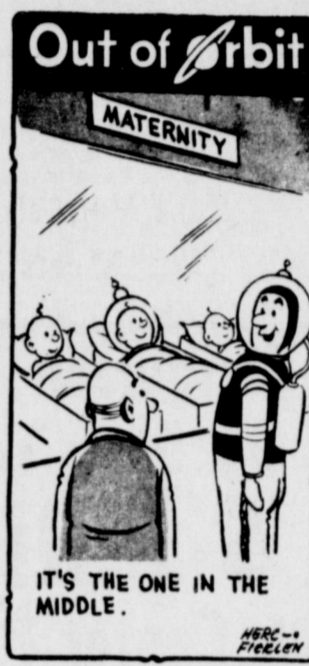

Little girls enjoy making woven hot-pads and placemats which will cost very little. A frame and a plentiful supply of cotton thread are all you will need.

Used coffee cans can be covered with attractive wallpaper, the top and bottom sprayed or painted a corresponding color and made into very attractive canisters for storing sugar, coffee and the like. The top should be fitted with a knob handle or spool.

Whatever your child chooses to make, be sure to impress upon him that the gift will be doubly appreciated because he has made it himself.

True Committees have become so important that a subcommittee has to be appointed to do the work.

CONGRESSMAN Bob Price 18th Congressional District

After four days of debate extending over two weeks, the House passed a bill extending the Higher Education Act of 1965. I am pleased that 231 of my colleagues joined me in adding an amendment which prohibits the Federal government from spending funds for school busing and prohibits any Federal official from forcing State and local governments to spend funds for this purpose.

If the Senate agrees to these provisions, the Federal courts would then be forced to order busing on a school-by-school basis rather than having the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, with its vast bureaucracy, do it for them on a wholesale basis.

Also adopted was an amendment which would delay court-ordered busing until all legal appeals are exhausted. This could delay more busing until the Congress has a chance to act on my proposed Constitutional amendment to prohibit busing to achieve racial balance in schools.

PORNOGRAPHY
While recent legislation has aided in protecting citizens from the flow of obscene mail, I introduced a bill last week which would allow a citizen who receives unsolicited obscene mail to file a civil suit against the mailer for invasion of privacy. This will provide individuals a more immediate and accessible weapon against pornography which ARE DEPENDENT UPON ERNMENTAL ACTION FOR TFECTIVENESS.

Even with these laws, things have degenerated to the point where people who would never go to an X-rated movie or buy pornographic material in a bookstore increasingly find themselves the unwilling recipients of similar material being sent through the mail.

FOREIGN AID
Defeat of the foreign aid authorization bill by the Senate two weeks ago has brought about the reassessment of our foreign assistance program which I have been calling for since coming to Congress. In order to bring all the facts and figures to the attention of my colleagues in the House and Senate, I entered a complete accounting of the 25 years of U.S. aid in the Congressional Record last week.

Since 1946, we have sent aid to 98 countries in the amount of 213 billion dollars. The astonishing thing about this figure is the fact that 74 billion of this amount is the interest paid on money we borrowed to give away.

I have never supported foreign aid because of the lack of discretion in determining which countries would receive this assistance. The Senate defeat gives Congress the opportunity to reassess the program and direct our aid to those humanitarian, economic, and military assistance program which help assure our own National security.

During recent months I have introduced two bills which would provide incentives for additional oil and gas exploration. My prediction that we face an energy crisis unless action is taken was borne out last week.

The gas company which serves the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area announced it will no longer accept new customers except in a single family residences.

In remarks prepared for delivery on the floor of the House, I pointed out that Congress has recently followed a policy which has effectively discouraged oil and gas exploration. This has resulted in shortages of these vital fuel resources.

My bills would remove Federal Power Commission authority to regulate the price of natural gas flowing in interstate commerce and would provide a 12.5 per cent tax credit for drilling domestic exploration wells and performing se-

The Bailey County Law Enforcement Center reported that roads in the area Wednesday were wet and sticky but there were no accidents reported, as of presstime, due to the bad weather and road conditions.

The snow storm seemed to cover most of the South Plains and west Texas. Snow was reported from Amarillo to Plainview to below Lubbock Wednesday morning.

Road conditions were reported as hazardous around Amarillo and Plainview, but were not nearly so rough in the Muleshoe area. Most of the ice and snow was melting by mid-morning.

DOCK STRIKES
Because of the possible permanent damage to this country's agricultural and industrial export market, I have introduced legislation which will give the President three new procedures to prevent or end emergency-creating transportation strikes—such as those which have tied up most U.S. seaports for many weeks.

Most affected in our area is farm produce. Last year farm exports reached a record total of $7.8 billion. The expansion of this export trade is vital if there is to be a market for a great portion of our farm production.

I remain a firm believer in free collective bargaining, but the interests of one group cannot be allowed to harm the entire Nation.

GOVERNMENT PAY INCREASE
In 1969, when the independent board appointed by former President Johnson recommended pay increases for Congress, the ranging from 42 percent to 100 percent, I opposed these increases.

During the opening days of the 91st Congress, I introduced a resolution to disapprove these raises. The leadership in the House refused to let my resolution come to a vote.

I have now joined with more than 40 other Congressmen in introducing legislation which provides a means whereby any member can force a record vote on future pay increases.

In my view, elected Representatives of the people have no business abdicating their responsibilities on such an important issue to a group of individuals not responsible to the electorate.

As a result of my concern about certain provisions of the water pollution control bill recently passed by the Senate, I have introduced legislation in the House which, in my opinion, will remedy these deficiencies.

Among the major provisions of my proposal are sections which would maintain a full partnership between the Federal and State governments in the area of water pollution control; which would more carefully match the goal of clean water with the financial and technical resources we have available to meet this goal; which would reduce the excessive level of Federal funding provided in the Senate bill.

As every school child knows, water is the source of all life. Unless this Nation takes effective and prompt steps to restore our water quality, and urges other nations to do the same, life as we know it on this planet may one day face extinction. Ultimately, clean water is a matter of life or death.

EMERGENCY LOANS
In the House Agriculture Committee last week I moved that the Committee adopt the Senate approved version of a bill I had previously introduced to permit Farmers Home Administration to make guaranteed emergency loans. At the present these loans are made by direct appropriation and funds frequently are exhausted about the time a major disaster strikes.

An amendment I proposed was adopted by the Committee which will allow the emergency loan program to operate free of the present $100 million ceiling on uninsured loans that FHA may have on hand at one time.

These emergency loans have saved many farm families from financial disaster. Therefore, I am hopeful that the Senate will accept my amendment and this bill can be signed by the President at an early date.

Waggoner will cover the proper adjustments a maintenance of the above, with emphasis on the importance of each in obtaining a longer tractor life, and improved performance. Throughout the short course, emphasis will be placed on "learning to do by doing" through the use of several demonstration tractors. All enrollees will have the opportunity to perform actual adjustments and maintenance on their own tractors. Safety and operating techniques will also be stressed.

"Short courses in tractor maintenance, as well as other subjects, are now available to farmers throughout the state under the new cooperative program between the Texas Education Agency and Texas A and M University, stated Bob Jaska, associate professor, Department of Agricultural Education at Texas A and M University who coordinates the program for Texas A and M.

"This cooperative program," states Jaska, "is designed to make the services of specialists available to conduct short courses under the supervision of public schools. Such a program will enable teachers to vocational agriculture to provide improved educational services to farm people."

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., 25-county cotton producer organization headquartered in Lubbock, "is definitely not calling for overproduction of cotton which would depress prices to farmers, but is calling for adequate production which will supply the existing demand of cotton fiber at prices comparable to those in today's market."

This was the answer given by PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson at a recent meeting when a Hockley County farmer asked "Why is PCG asking for changes in the 1972 cotton program which would cause more cotton to be grown when the added production would drive cotton prices down?"

In further clarifying PCG policy Johnson pointed out that the 50-man Board of Directors of Plains Cotton Growers is predominantly made up of people whose livelihood comes from producing cotton, "and such a Board would never sanction any policy which advocates lower prices to farmers."

Johnson goes on to say that in the 1970-71 marketing year another million bales, at least, could have been sold into the world market at prevailing prices if the cotton had been produced in the 1970 crop year.

"The High Plains of Texas had the production and processing facilities to meet much of this demand," he says. "This was income lost to High Plains cotton producers and indications are that more income will be lost in this marketing year, again because our producers were not given sufficient leeway under the cotton program to increase planting. Nor were they given the financial incentive to use available options."

Johnson does not hold with the theory that the existing supply and price situation has significantly affected cotton consumption in this country. Domestic mills have paid the prices necessary to get virtually all the cotton needed to meet the consumer market for cotton and cotton content fabrics, he believes.

"But we cannot ignore the fact that cotton production in the U.S. over the past five years has fallen 12 million bales short of meeting our combined domestic and export sales," he stated. "This 12 million bales has come from reserve stocks on hand at the beginning of the period, and those reserves are now down to a bare minimum of 4.2 million bales. "Obviously, without reserves to fall back on, if cotton production continues below cotton consumption, mills will soon be forced to spin and consumers will be forced to buy other fibers. And we cannot maintain a cotton industry for long under those circumstances."

Johnson is also urging producers to look at PCG's overall policy with regard to the 1972 cotton program rather than simply thinking about a "call for increased production." "PCG asked USDA to permit planting of cotton on set-aside acres in the belief that this action would not secure enough production to depress prices and therefore would be a boon to producer income as well as a means to protect against market attrition."

In addition, PCG asked USDA to raise the price support loan on cotton and to increase the price at which Commodity Credit Corporation sells government held cotton. These measures would give producers added protection against price declines in what most observers consider the unlikely event of overproduction.

"It is impossible to accurately predict either production or consumption a year in advance," Johnson concedes, "so both overproduction and underproduction are almost always a possibility under any given set of circumstances, and the best we can do to protect both prices and markets is to come as close as possible to balancing production with consumption."

"Raw agricultural products are specifically exempted from price ceilings," Johnson noted, "but a ceiling on the price at which finished cotton products could be sold would have effectively limited the price at which mills could buy cotton in competition with other fibers and still show a profit."

The producer organization official went on to say that with the mills newly acquired ability to add cost increases onto the price for end products, the choice of fiber will be dictated by consumer demand and the price of cotton will be determined by the cotton supply-demand situation, rather than having both issues decided by an artificially imposed end-product price.

Johnson concluded his clarification of PCG requests for greater production incentives under the 1972 cotton program by saying "There are those in the industry who would like to see an almost unlimited increase in cotton production next year, with little or no regard for the effect on producer income. PCG is definitely not in that category, but we must recognize the necessity for production equal to market offtake if we expect to stay in the fiber producing business."

Two recent developments indicate "things may be looking up" for the U.S. cotton producer's best customer, the domestic textile industry, and the brighter outlook for textile mills should in turn provide benefits to cotton producers themselves, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

Revised regulations governing textile product prices under Phase II of President Nixon's new economic plan will be most immediately and most directly helpful to producers, Johnson believes.

The other development, the negotiation of textile import control agreements with four major exporters of textile products to the U.S., "will give textile mills in this country access to substantially greater markets that would have otherwise been usurped by textile product imports," Johnson stated.

Amendments to the Phase II rulings, issued about two weeks ago, would permit mills to pass through to their customers cost increases, including raw cotton price increases, which were incurred at any time prior to November 14 of this year and therefore not previously reflected in prices. Also, the Price Commission has now ruled that ceiling prices may be calculated on the basis of contracts entered into during the base period, July 15 to August 14, rather than on shipments made during that period.

The two changes in Price Commission rules for textile pricing, Johnson believes, will help to avoid adverse effects on cotton consumption and will prevent the new economic policies from indirectly placing a ceiling on raw cotton prices.

"Raw agricultural products are specifically exempted from price ceilings," Johnson noted, "but a ceiling on the price at which finished cotton products could be sold would have effectively limited the price at which mills could buy cotton in competition with other fibers and still show a profit."

The producer organization official went on to say that with the mills newly acquired ability to add cost increases onto the price for end products, the choice of fiber will be dictated by consumer demand and the price of cotton will be determined by the cotton supply-demand situation, rather than having both issues decided by an artificially imposed end-product price.

Johnson concluded his clarification of PCG requests for greater production incentives under the 1972 cotton program by saying "There are those in the industry who would like to see an almost unlimited increase in cotton production next year, with little or no regard for the effect on producer income. PCG is definitely not the fair trade textile import agreements, affecting wool and man-made textile imports from Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong, and Korea, will be less direct, Johnson explained.

For the past decade imports of cotton textiles have been regulated by the Long Term Cotton Textile Arrangement (LTA), but there have been no controls on imports of other textile products and apparel. Consequently over the last five years imports of man-made fiber textiles alone have increased 157 percent from Japan, 1,521 percent from Taiwan, 1,236 percent from Korea and 466 percent from Hong Kong.

The importance of controlling this surge of imported textiles from these four countries lies in the fact that over the last few years they have accounted for almost 60 percent of total imports of these products. Under the new government-to-government agreements, import increases from each of these countries will be limited to a percentage of previous imports. The agreements range from three to five years and allow growth rates of from about five to 7.5 percent.

"While cotton textiles per se are not affected by these agreements," Johnson avers, "many synthetic-cotton blends will be affected, and giving our domestic mills a broader market will also give cotton's market penetration efforts a broader target."

"In addition, we can't ignore the fact that it is normally easier to sell at a profit to prosperous customers than to customers beset with financial problems," he concluded.

HOW FARMERS HELP HOMEOWNERS--Is the farmer interested in problems of the housewife? Certainly he is, says Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist. And he depends on agricultural research to help him meet homemakers' demands and bring them the highest quality foods in the world at the lowest possible cost.

Many of the farmer's problems affect the homemaker in the city. When farmers have a crop failure, food prices go up. But when improved research methods enable farmers to produce more efficiently, the consumer benefits with lower prices and higher quality, or both. Farmers and homemakers are really in the same business-providing appetizing, nutritious foods at economical costs.

John Tower United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

The Senate has approved amendments to the Water Quality Act which reflect the very deep commitment of the Congress and the American people to the restoration of a clean environment in the most expeditious manner possible; and I now believe that we shall have a substantially clean environment by the end of this decade. This is primarily due to the tremendous public, business and governmental concern and cooperation which has been mobilized to deal with this vital problem.

We have much of the technology we need for this job now, and much of the remainder will very likely become available during this decade. The very rapid public recognition of the pollution problem and the strength of the public commitment to conquering it have been responsible for this brighter outlook on the future of our environment.

In the environmental field, I prefer where possible to see state and local governments administer laws and funds directed toward pollution control because that means greater involvement of the individual citizen.

The basic goal toward which we should be directing our efforts in the environmental area is that of ultimately requiring all waste products of our civilization to be recycled, and requiring all waste products of quiring the cost of this process to be recovered in the price of the product of service involved, rather than to be paid for by the federal government.

Some of the environmental legislation which has come before the Congress has been more emotional than well-reasoned. On occasion, I have opposed environmental measures, even though I thoroughly approved of their well-intentioned purposes. These measures would have resulted in expanded federal control and financing in areas where the federal government had inadequate means of properly administering the proposals. On the other hand, I have supported all reasonable well-designed environmental legislation including the Water Quality Act amendments passed by the Senate.

Often in dealing with environmental problems, a proper balance must be reached between the financial resource allocation required and the effectiveness to be achieved. For example, in a decision to build a municipal waste treatment plant, it might be necessary to decide whether to build a 95 percent effective plant for $3 million or a 99 percent effective plant for $6 million. The extra $3 million might be more necessary for schools, housing projects or another pollution control program, than for the additional 4 per cent effectiveness.

Of course, where health and safety are concerned, the funds must be spent. There is nothing more crucial to our well-being than clean water and clean air. But there aren't enough funds available to do everything at once in our environmental campaign.

We will have to recognize that there may be temporarily tolerable levels of pollution in specific cases that we will ultimately eliminate, but for a time can accept. For example, we should refrain if possible from closing a plant which economically supports an entire town and is in the process of cleaning up its pollutant emissions.

Even though there will continue to be some sources of pollution throughout the 70's progress is steadily being made toward recycling of wastes and reducing pollution sources, and I foresee a substantially clean environment by the end of this decade.

In adopting the Water Quality Amendments, the Senate has established the following goals: elimination of all pollutant discharges into navigable waters by 1985; prohibition of discharge of toxic pollutants in toxic amounts; federal grant assistance to communities constructing waste treatment plants according to federal standards; a major research effort to find technological methods necessary to eliminate waste discharges; and provision of regional waste treatment programs to assure adequate control of all pollution sources.

The Senate bill also proposes a critical policy change in the water quality area. The Amendments would replace the policy of regulation by water quality standards with regulation by effluent limits. Instead of determining that water quality was substandard and the attempting to move against the cause, the bill would enable actions against significant pollution sources before the water quality becomes substandard.

In sum, we are rapidly moving ahead in the environmental field with better-reasoned and better-designed programs of pollution control. We can have a clean environment once again, within a relatively few years. The great concern of today's youth with environmental matters encourages me to believe that they will not make the mistake of ours and past generations in taking a healthy environment for granted.

Ag Producers Should Make Tax Check

It's not too early for farmers and ranchers to take a look at their tax situation and make certain management decisions before the end of the year.

"Make an estimate of income and expenses to get an idea of your income tax liability," suggests James I. Mallet, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"If your taxable income for next year, is above that anticipated for next year, you may want to delay any additional sales until 1972. Also, consider buying supplies such as fertilizer, feed and chemicals for next year to reduce this year's income."

Machinery purchases will also cut your income by a substantial margin, and you can benefit from first-year depreciations and possibly investment credit if it becomes effective once again, points out Mallet.

Other items which could reduce your 1971 income tax are income averaging and advance payment of interest on loans. According to the economist, income averaging is a tool for leveling income over a five-year period. To qualify for income averaging this year, your income must be 20 percent above the 1967-70 average and at least $3,000.

News of Our SERVICEMEN Miss Robinson

Ft. Sam Houston, Texas (AHTVC) November 15--Army Nurse (First Lieutenant) Margaret A. Roberson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Ingram, Earth, Texas, recently completed a six-week Army Nurse and Medical Specialist Corps Officer Basic course at the Medical Field Service School, Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas.

The course provides Basic Branch Training and Orientation for newly commissioned officers. Instructions are given in Medical Records and Reports, Field Medicine and Surgery, Field Medical Service, Preventive Medicine, Neuropsychiatry, Supply Procedures and Military Law.

Lt. Roberson, a 1971 graduate of Springlake-Earth High School of Springlake-Earth High School, Earth, Texas, received a B.S. Degree in 1971 from Texas Woman's University, Denton.

The Lieutenant's husband, John F. Roberson, lives at 808 S. Alston, Durham, N.C. H.

Robert F. Froehike, Secretary of the Army, on removing slot machines: "It is my intention that these machines will no longer tap soldiers' pockets."

Edward Heath, British Prime Minister: "It is time for us to walk out into the light to find a new place. A new Britain in a new world."

James D. Hodgson, Labor Secretary: "I don't believe it would be proper to ask labor to forego its right to strike."

"If, on the other hand, your income is down for 1971, then you will want to delay some deductions until next year," adds Mallet. "This can be done by delaying all possible purchases and payments until after January 1. This practice is especially sound if you expect a higher income in 1972."

Mallet has a word of caution regarding decisions to alter your tax situation for this year. "Don't make sales or purchases simply to juggle income and expense in order to save a few tax dollars. Be sure all decisions are sound from a profit management standpoint."

Dear Editor,
I would like to take this opportunity to say thank-you and we appreciate each one of the "Journal" for the fine articles that appeared in the Journal concerning our daughter Jeannie C. before her concert there. A friend of mine who lives fairly close to Muleshoe sent me a couple of clippings for my scrapbook. If there was any coverage of her show the week of the 11th I would appreciate a clipping of it, I assume you go to press the 11th She was there the 8th.

This was our first visit to your fine little town. We hope to be back there again. It was a wonderful turn out for both shows for a little town of its size. We found that each person we met were so warm and friendly.

Jeannie C., her daddy and I were touched by the standing ovation given her and her group at the close of her show. We would love to say thanks again and God bless each one who was responsible for bringing her to Muleshoe.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Stephenson

Sixth Grade Starts Basketball Season

Saturday, November 20, Coach Whittner's sixth grade P.E. classes played basketball at the half time of High School's A and B games.

At the half time to the B game, the fourth period class played. The girls playing were: Janice Posey, Anna Hernandez, Elizabeth Isaac, Patricia Grimley, Rhonda King, and Jamie Small, the red team. The opposing team was Elizabeth Torres, Shirley Burris, Jana Jones, Tammy Macha, Kelly Gregory, and Montine Smith; the white

Sixth Grade Survey Results

These are the results of the survey that we, the journalism class passed out to the 6th grade:

34 people have brown eyes, 12 green, 3 black, 17 blue, 1 green yellow, and would you believe, two people didn't have any eyes at all. In hair there were 33 brown, 10 blonde, 10 red, and 22 black. At Muleshoe Junior High, 3 sixth graders wear braces, 33 people wear glasses and no one wears contacts. The answers we got to the question "What are your electives?" were: 7 band, 12 choir, 34 art, and 1 office. Out of the sixth graders 39 bought annuals and 34 read the F.B.I. In all the sixth grade there are only 2 scouts, one Girl Scout and one Boy Scout. 25 sixth graders work after school, though I'm sure all of them have to do work at home! In the sixth grade, reading, math, and science were mainly the favorite subjects. The colors that rated highest with the sixth graders were: blue, with 24, red with 19, and purple with 8. So, now you know all about the sixth grade except one thing, 65 people told the truth, 2 weren't sure, and 3 defiantly didn't!

Journalism Staff Salutes Cheerleaders

This week the Journalism Staff is saluting the Junior High cheerleaders. We are saluting them for their good work of backing the Mules. The cheerleaders have worked real hard this year. They have supported the Mules and have done a good job of cheering on the crowd. All and all the cheerleaders have done an excellent job. "Cheerleaders, we salute you."

Historical Society News

On Tuesday, November 23, the Junior High Historical Society met at 1:35. The roll was called by the secretary Alta Ramm. Then dues were paid by the majority of the members. Next the sponsors, Mrs. Beddingfield and Mrs. Johnson, gave a report on the History Fair. After the reports, Ricky Claybrook, the president appointed a committee to replace the trophies that were removed for the living display presented at Open House. Another committee was appointed to plan the program in December.

After no further business the meeting was adjourned until next meeting.

26 people had brown eyes, 10 had blue eyes, 7 green, 2 black, 2 hazel, and 2 purple eyes, and one person with blueish-green eyes.

18 people had brown hair, in each of these cases, 1 person had red and black, brown and black, verde, dishwater blonde, whitish brown, green, brownish blonde, and purple hair, 3 people had light brown hair, 5 had dark brown hair, 12 had black, and 8 had blonde.

Only 4 people wear braces, with 50 not wearing braces, 20 people wear glasses, and 34 do not. 3 people wear contacts. Electives: P.E. 21, Athletics 8, Home and Family Living 29, Journalism 6, Band 15, Choir 7, Speech 3, Office 1, Library 4.

30 bought an annual, 24 did not, 4 are in Rainbows, 50 are not. No boy Scouts. There are 3 Scouts. 23 work after school, 31 do not. Favorite colors: pink 6, blue 27, purple 12, green 5, yellow 2, white 1, red 3, black 1, brown 1, orange 1. 50 told the truth, and 4 did not.

A young woman took a job as a governess, then suddenly left it. Asked why she resigned, she said: "Had to. Backward child, forward father."

The Lonely Heart

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm has become aware of how many items are being recalled these days, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

When I read in a newspaper last night that 87 tons of cornbread mix had been recalled by the Food and Drug Administration because it contained too much of something called aflatoxin, I began turning over in my mind the things I can think of that have been recalled in recent months.

These included soup, tuna, detergents, swordfish, cereals, lipstick, toys, airplanes, automobiles and a few diplomats. There may have been others that escaped me but this gives you an idea of how the recall business is booming.

If it keeps up the President may have to establish a new cabinet position to be known as Secretary of Recall.

Several Columnists have suggested that it would be simpler to check foods before they leave the plant, rather than waiting till they get on the grocery store shelves, but this takes all the drama out of it. There's no news value in cornbread suppressed, but cornbread recalled, that's a headliner.

If the President does establish a Secretary of Recall I foresee many opportunities for the office other than those involving foods, cars, and such like.

For example, there are some votes I cast for certain people over the past few years I'd sure like to recall. At the time they seemed like good, sound votes, passing any standards set by the Food and Drug Administration, but after the candidates got into office or on the grocery store shelf as you might say, I could tell right off they contained bollitism if not worse.

You can say sure, but you can recall them at the next election.

That's right, but that's a mighty long time to have to put up with contaminated cornbread or politicians.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.
