Because the cold front came through so quickly, the gas company broke records in delivering gas to domestic consumers, stated Mills.

In Muleshoe, the gas company asked laundries, dry cleaners, some gins and the feedlots to cut back on their usage of gas as much as possible Tuesday. As for domestic consumers, there was no shortage or inconvenience.

Some of the bigger, commercial users in the area who had stand by equipment were curtailed on their usage by 50 to 100 per cent.

"The shortage had nothing to do with the supply of gas, but was a matter of transportation," reported Mills.

By noon Wednesday, with the weather warming up, everything was back in order.

Blowing Snow, Low Temperatures Noted

On most calendars, December 21 is regarded as the first day of winter, but this area did not feel the brunt of the season until Monday night when temperatures in the Muleshoe area dropped to near zero. Monday night late, a steady snow mixed with drizzle began falling whipped by high, frigid winds. Many of this area's citizens woke up Tuesday morning to find whipped snow mixed with sand covering patches of ground.

The official measurement for Muleshoe was one inch of snow. The snow was whirled by the high winds into drifts, some as high as two to three feet.

By midmorning Tuesday, the sun was shining and a large percentage of the snow was melting. Streets in Muleshoe were packed with ice and snow for the better part of the morning, but with the help of the warm sun and the snow plows, most streets were partially cleared by afternoon.

Muleshoe's temperature Tuesday morning was officially four degrees above zero. Monday's temperature after the cold front started through the area, did not rise above the late twenties all day.

This winter weather was part of a high blizzard that swept through the midwest down into central Texas. Many parts of the Texas panhandle recorded high, biting winds as high as 50 miles per hour on Monday that blew snow and drizzle into an actual blizzard causing poor visibility and many accidents.

New Phone Rates Effective In Area

New long distance telephone rates postponed by the wage-price freeze went into effect Wednesday (December 29) after approval by the Price Commission, according to L.L. Porter, traffic director of General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

Porter said the new rates which benefit the customer who dials his own long distance calls within Texas and takes advantage of special calling periods were originally scheduled to become effective September 1. The changes were delayed as a result of the wage-price freeze because the lower dial-it-yourself rates were coupled with higher rates for operator assisted calls such as person-to-person.

"The change in rates brings customer dialed station-to-station calls within the state in line with already established lower dial-it-yourself rates and calling periods for interstate calls," Porter explained.

He emphasized that the new lower DDD rates also apply to customers in towns where DDD is not yet available.

Charges for operator handled calls are higher under the new rates.

Other changes include new rate periods for day, evening, night and weekend calls within the state which are the same as those now in effect for calls going outside Texas, and addition of Labor Day and July 4 to the reduced rate schedule during holiday periods.

Also a one-minute initial period between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m. has been established. Calls during other periods are charged for a three-minute initial period as has been usual for intrastate calls.

"Farmers generally have been a little more optimistic this year, a little more confident of the agricultural economy," Kerr said.

Minor Gas Shortage Now Under Control

Bob Mills, director of public relations for Pioneer Natural Gas Co. in Amarillo, reported to the Journal Wednesday morning that the minor gas shortage in the area was now under control.

Because the cold front came through so quickly, the gas company broke records in delivering gas to domestic consumers, stated Mills.

Eggs Add Protein To Daily Menus

COLLEGE STATION--Few popular foods offer consumers the varied uses and outstanding values for the money as do eggs, reports Marshall M. Miller, Extension poultry marketing specialist at Texas A & M University.

The natural balance of vitamins, fats, protein and minerals make eggs one of nature's most nearly perfect foods, Miller explains. Egg protein is a complete protein containing all of the essential amino acids required by the body to build and renew body tissues. In fact, egg protein is of such top quality that it is the standard used in measuring other food proteins.

Almost all protein foods sell by volume or by the pound--except eggs, the specialist points out. Eggs sell by the dozen and the price varies with their size. A dozen grade "A" large eggs must by law have a net weight of 24 ounces or one and a half pounds. If large eggs are priced at 54 cents retail, then the cost per pound is 36 cents.

The comparative yield value of eggs is also superior to most other food products, he continues. Other meat items have bone and fat loss, which often is high. Eggs are also marked with a loss--the shell--but this loss amounts to only about 10 percent.

When buying eggs, Miller says to read labels on the carton. Most eggs offered for sale are tagged "AA" or "A" in quality. Some markets may also offer grade "B." Sizes of eggs available are medium, large, extra large and, occasionally, small, each size differing by three ounces and thus also differing in value.

To make the most of your egg money, always buy the larger size if there is less than a seven-cent difference between them and the next smaller size, the specialist suggests. For example, if grade "A" medium is priced at 49 cents and grade "A" large at 53 cents, then the large size is the best buy.

All standards of egg grading are supervised by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, whether the carton displays the USDA shield or not.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,
I have an aunt who is very good to me. She will help me with the children if I have to go somewhere but she will not take any pay. Now I know she needs money and I am able to pay her but I don't wish to hurt her feelings by forcing money on her. How would you handle such a situation?
F.A.--N.C.

Answer:
You can buy her gifts. Every one likes presents and by finding out things she needs or likes you can repay her in a gracious manner. Pocketbooks, hose, sweaters, jewelry, gloves, underwear, etc., are all nice gifts and a good way to show your appreciation. If she has a family and likes to cook, a ham is always a welcome gift. But it's not the article itself that will mean so much to her but the fact that you take the time to find out something you think she will like. There are very few people in the world who do for others without expecting in return so you are very lucky to have such an aunt. Louisa.

FFA Chapter Enters Stock At Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH (Sp)-- Muleshoe FFA Chapter will have two lambs and 12 barrows competing in the 76th annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, scheduled Jan. 28 through Feb. 6, 1972, in Fort Worth. Poultry, rabbit and pigeon exhibitors have until Jan. 17 to submit entries, but the deadline for cattle, horses, sheep and swine has passed. Stock Show President-Manager W.R. Watt and other officials now are busily tabulating the large number of entries.
 "Based on entry cards I have seen thus far, our 1972 Stock Show will be one of the best yet," Watt said. "There are high-caliber entries in every category."
 Last year, livestock entries totaled 11240. Premiums plus entry fees this year will reach over $250,000.
 The Stock Show Rodeo provides to be an added treat for visitors, Watt noted. "We are pleased to have Judy Lynn back again this year," he said. "Her show during the 1971 Rodeo was so well received that we had many requests to bring her back. She will premier an all-new show for rodeo fans in 1972."
 Judy Lynn is a regular at such famous Nevada Showplaces as the Flamingo Hotel in Las Vegas and Harrah's Clubs in Reno and Lake Tahoe. Other rodeo attractions include the Shultz Comedy Revue, the darling Wild Horse Race and the Ranch Girls Invitational Barrel Race.

Cowboys will be seeking a share in the $86,000 purse as they contest in five major events.
 Mail order tickets for the 1972 Stock Show Rodeo are available from the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, P. O. Box 150, Fort Worth, Texas 76101.
