They are among the 1,390 TSTA local association members who have been certified as representatives to the 1972 House of Delegates, which will meet twice at the convention to discuss and act on proposed amendments to the TSTA constitution and other business. The official delegates are elected from the TSTA local associations throughout the state. They are certified by districts on the basis of one delegate per 100 members or fraction of 100. Every local association is entitled to at least one official delegate. With total statewide membership in TSTA at a record 146,800 this year, attendance at the convention is expected to exceed 10,000. Featured speakers will be Glenn Olds of Kent, Ohio, president of Kent State University, and Max Lerner of Waltham, Mass., a professor of American Cont. on Page 3, col. 4

Lloyd Pollard Wins Management Contest

Lloyd Pollard of Route 1, Sudan, has been selected as one of the 100 winners in the "Big Idea Bonanza" hog management contest sponsored by American Cyanamid Co. As a winner in this national contest, Pollard will receive one ton of free pig starter feed containing AUREO S.P. 250 from his local feed dealer, John's Custom Mill, with Cyanamid's compliments. Purpose of the "Big Idea Bonanza" competition, according to John C. Templeton of Amarillo, Cyanamid animal feed representative, was to stimulate the sharing of practical ideas for more efficient and profitable pork production. A collection of 100 winning ideas will be published in booklet form by Cyanamid. The booklet is expected to be available to interested producers in March through local feed suppliers. Winning ideas were selected by a judging committee of nationally recognized authorities on swine breeding, nutrition, health, housing and management. Pollard was recognized by the judges as a winner for the following idea: "I used to have a real problem switching pigs over to different sows, which did not farrow them. I have tried several methods. I ate the sharing of practical ideas for more efficient and profitable pork production. I have had the most success using talcum powder. This method always worked for me. I just give the baby pigs a generous powdering with talcum. The sow will accept the new pigs along with her own, which also get the treatment. It is an economical way to handle the problem of a sow accepting pigs from another litter." Barnes Names Bass County Coordinator AUSTIN--Harvey Bass of Muleshoe has been named Bailey County coordinator for Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Barnes said in Austin "it is highly gratifying to have persons of the caliber of Harvey Bass working with us in our campaign. Also named as women coordinators were Mrs. Betty Chihak and Mrs. Becky Miller, both of Muleshoe. "The assistance of these people in Bailey County will enable us to carry this campaign through all the way to a successful conclusion, and we are honored that they would take this assignment and join our efforts," Barnes said. Coordinators for each of the state's 254 counties now have been selected. Rep. Ralph Wayne, state campaign "now has the strongest organization ever put together by any candidate for high office in the history of our state."

Representative Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls will be the principal speaker for the evening. Congressman Purcell will bring the group up to date on the current status of rural legislation in Congress. Purcell is currently serving a fifth term in Congress and is seeking reelection in the newly reorganized 13th Congressional District. He is chairman of the Livestock and Grain Sub-committee of the House Agriculture Committee. He is also a member of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee. Henry Boston, Route 1, Tulia, president of Swisher County Farmers Union and chairman of the Banquet Committee states that tickets are available from Farmers Union officials in all District II counties and that the admission is $4.00 per person. Boston predicts a sell-out crowd at the banquet and reservations should be requested as quickly as possible in order to be assured a ticket.

Reyes Honored For Heroism By Council

Young Juanito Reyes, Jr., a fourth grader and a member of the Boy Scouts, who saved a friend from possible serious burns when the upper part of his body was splashed with gasoline in a lawn-mowing accident, received an "Honorable Mention" by the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council recently. Young Reyes tackled the older boy as he fled in panic, tore the burning shirt from his body and rolled him in the dirt until the flames were extinguished. The incident happened in Muleshoe where the Reyes family, who are migrant farm workers, were employed at the time. Receiving the Rural Heroism Award of the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council was L.J. Luedecke, a hog farmer at industry. Luedecke was credited with saving the life of Ervin Krueger, Jr. The award, a plaque, was presented by Millare Shivers of Dallas, director of

Ag. Loan Rate Being Lowered Congressman Bob Price has been notified that the loan interest rate in the United States Department of Agriculture's farm storage and drying equipment loan program is being lowered to 4 1/2% per one hundred dollars or fraction thereof per month, or to approximately 5 1/2% annually. This represents a decrease from 5 1/2% per one hundred dollars or fraction thereof, or 6% annually. The lower borrowing costs of Commodity Credit Corporation makes it possible to lower the interest rate to farmers. Under this program, farmers can secure Commodity Credit Corporation loans to finance on-farm storage and drying equipment. Cont. on Page 3, col. 1

Fine said, "We are welcoming our out-of-state fellow farmers to Bailey County and we know that their stay here will be profitable for both in terms of many County Monday, March 20, when new members that will be enrolled as well as the establishment of a better understanding between our farmers and those from another area of the Union and Bailey County Farming at their own expense to help us build the Farmers Union, till Friday morning when they will catch the Farmers Union Convair plane back to their home states. The Farmers Union Flying county will take the time to get acquainted with these visitors to learn more about their agriculture and to hear their views on farm policies and a farmer's organization." # STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Bill Boykin
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex.--Gov. Preston Smith left timing of a special legislative session up in the air after the Texas Supreme Court, in effect, said there has to be one.

The High Court, not unexpectedly, concluded that Secretary of State Bob Bullock could not order public financing of primary elections without prior legislative authority.

Smith conceded that apparently left him no alternative but to summon lawmakers back to work in advance of the May 6 primaries. He said he wanted to postpone the unhappy deed as long as possible and was not prepared to say when he would have to act.

Meanwhile, to help Smith with his decision, Bullock's staff compiled data on estimated costs of the May 6 and June 3 elections and when the bills would fall due.

Most legislators faced with election campaigns hoped the session would be limited to the primary finance issue alone--or perhaps that and highway bill-board controls. The latter legislation is needed soon to avoid a threatened $24 million cut in federal road building funds allotted Texas.

Another special session will be needed later (unless Smith decides to lump all business into a single pre-election call) to approve a 1973 state appropriations act replacing the budget items voted last year by the governor.

Bitterness is expected to flare in the House of Representatives on opening day of the session--whenever it is. An effort is almost certain to be made to out Speaker Gus Mutscher who is being tried in Abilene on charges of conspiring to accept a bribe in the form of 1969 bank loans and pre-arranged insurance stock profits.

The Insurance Board also raised the maximum amount of insurance available through the pool from $100,000 to $200,000 on dwellings and from $500,000 to $1 million on commercial properties including schools and public buildings.

APPOINTMENTS-- Governor Smith named Moises V. Vela of Harlingen and reappointed Mrs. Marialice S. (Allan) Shivers of Austin to the board of regents of Pan American College Edinburg.

Smith also appointed Luther May Jr. of Olney to the Midwestern University (Wichita Falls) board of regents; Mrs. Jackie Blackstock of Austin to the Teachers' Professional Practices Commission and Robert H. Cutler of El Paso, Joe P. Cain of Houston and Albert W. Rollins of Arlington to Texas Mass Transportation Committee.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said the sale assures continued financing of the program until early 1974. Constitutional interest rate ceiling for the bonds is 4.5 per cent.

The Veterans Land Board is constitutionally authorized to sell another $30.7 million in bonds to finance the program which has enabled almost 46,000 Texas veterans to buy land.

LABOR RECOMMENDS CANDIDATES-- The Texas AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education recommended support by labor union members of five statewide candidates but didn't agree on a candidate for governor.

Delegates recommended former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough for senator; State Sen Joe Christie of El Paso for lieutenant governor, Houston lawyer John Hill for attorney general; John White for re-election as commissioner of agriculture and Bob Armstrong for re-election as land commissioner. They also strongly recommended State Rep. Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty for speaker of the Texas House of Representatives.

Although the necessary two-thirds of COPE delegates did not rally behind any candidate for gubernatorial nomination, State Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi did get a commendation for her legislative reform efforts which she is carrying into the governor's race.

AFL-CIO President Roy Evans said COPE will try to raise $500,000 for primary campaign efforts.

John Tower United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

Because of the increasing publicity in the field of agriculture and the interest shown in the use of federal price supports to farmers, I have decided to reprint in this newsletter my recent statement on the Senate floor regarding this important matter. I feel the facts should be made clear, and, hopefully, the American farmer's position will be voiced.

There have been several comments from individuals and news sources complaining about price Gen Crawford C. Martin held, supports and increased incomes received by farmers and ranchers for commodities, whether crops or livestock. The total blame for increased food costs is being put on the shoulders of the American agriculturalist.

There are several points which I would like to make district attorney paid entirely from state funds is entitled to participate in the Employees Retirement System of Texas, but not the County and District Retirement System.

SIGNS CHANGING--Watch for changes in traffic control devices, signals and markings along Texas highways.

Texas Highway Commission approved them in the manual on uniform traffic control devices, based on recommendations of the American Association of State Highway Officials and Federal Highway Administration.

support from agriculture, the farm production would not be able to maintain the present rate. After taxes and interest, there would not be enough left to operate. To produce in supply for the American demands, it is essential that farmers utilize modern equipment. If there were no government price supports to offset the high cost of this equipment, the additional income would have to come from higher prices.

The support paid to farmers does a lot more for consumers in the cities than it has ever done for people on our farms. Agriculture supports make it possible for Americans to enjoy more and cheaper food than consumers in any part of the world. The blame for higher food prices lies elsewhere. While the price received by the farmer for his goods is just beginning to catch up with a period of twenty years ago, the average hourly labor cost for marketing food has increased 66 percent in the last 10 years. Food costs have risen to offset higher wages for those at lower prices and in turn help hold down the cost to the consumer. If we remove the influence more competition for food. Farm food prices are up 44 percent. The reasons for higher food prices are quite evident.

Even with the predicted increase in amounts paid for food, the percentage is less than the expected increased income, therefore, causing an actual decrease in the percentage of income spent for food, possibly an all time low.

I do not oppose higher wages, but feel that the farmer deserves an increase in income while the rest of the nation is receiving theirs.

Sister To Donate Transplant Kidney

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is an article that appeared in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal concerning the half-sisters of Mrs. James Macha of Muleshoe.)

By CELESTE LOUCKS
Where ever Rummy went, little sister, Spook, followed like a shadow.

The two sisters were born only a year and five days apart—Spook on Halloween and as a relative said, "When you saw one of them, you saw them both."

In January, Lana "Rummy" Anderson, 23, of Littlefield was told she had nephritis—a kidney disease. Her sister, Spook, now Mrs. Larry Bull, 22, also of Littlefield, offered to donate a kidney for the necessary transplant.

"They told her (Mrs. Bull, already the mother of one child) if she donated a kidney she could have no more children. But when you're as close as they are," said their half-sister, Mrs. James Macha of Muleshoe, "there wasn't any decision..."

And the closeness is not just between the two sisters.

Mrs. Macha practically raised the little girls while their mother worked, and now their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nig Anderson of Littlefield are in Galveston where their daughter is hospitalized at John Sealy for dialysis treatments awaiting the kidney transplant.

"They will stay with her until she gets well," Mrs. Macha said. "I don't think anyone could pry them loose. They even stay overnight at the hospital with her."

Mrs. Macha described her sister as "The type of person who doesn't let you know how she feels...She has a smile for everybody."

High school life for the blonde five-foot-tall Rummy revolved around sports, particularly volleyball and basketball, and spectator sports: football and rodeo.

After high school graduation she entered South Plains College to major in Physical Education. As a result of her physical examination for college entrance Rummy was told she had a bad kidney.

For two years she attended

South Plains, paid for through her father's Social Security. He is a retired butcher. As one kidney slowly quit functioning, Rummy began to feel tired and had to drop out of school. "During football season she stayed glued to the television," Mrs. Macha said.

Then in January, her condition worsened, and while hospitalized in Lubbock she was told she had nephritis.

From there she was sent to Galveston. "She had so much poison in her system. She doesn't really remember getting to Galveston, she was so sick," Mrs. Macha said.

After the dialysis treatments, Rummy has been allowed to leave the hospital for four or five hours a day. "She is laughing and talking again. To look at her, you'd think she was the healthiest person you'd ever seen."

Costs for the hospitalization are tremendous and because of the nature of the disease the family has no insurance to help with costs. While in Lubbock, her hospital bills were more than $100 a day.

Cost of the transplant is estimated between $30,000 and $40,000.

About the second or third week of February, a fund was started for Rummy in Littlefield. A private club in Littlefield donated almost $300. And a Western group had a dance for her-raising about $80.

Green Thumb Tips

One of the newest stoop-savers in gardening is seed embedded in water-soluble tape. Seeds are accurately spaced according to kind.

The gardener need only open a trench in previously-prepared soil, lay the tape in the bottom, cover to the depth given in the directions on the package, and firm soil to tape.

Rain or artificial water will dissolve the tape, leaving seeds in place, ready to grow.

Gardeners who have trouble after eating cucumbers should grow the kind named Burpless. Its low acid content allows anyone to indulge and yet be comfortable afterward.

Market Report

COLLEGE STATION--"Consumers continue to show a desire for beef. Considering the purchasing power behind this choice, the trend is likely to continue," said Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

So shop the beef counter carefully, and check the cost of each item before making a decision. Generally, items to check include chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, some of the boneless pot roasts, ground beef and liver.

Pork prices are on the increase, but good values include Boston butt roasts, quarter loin sliced, rib chops, smoked hams, picnic hams and some brands of bacon.

According to the specialist, most fresh vegetable prices are higher than at the same time last year. This is the time to make price comparisons in fresh, canned and frozen vegetables to find economical choices. Supplies of green cabbage are plentiful and quality is excellent. Potatoes, carrots, dry yellow onions, bulk turnips, hard shell squash and rutabagas are among the most economically priced vegetables.

Haase demonstrated his carvings to the Muleshoe Art Association at a Tuesday morning meeting. Displaying the carvings with Haase is one of his students, Mr. Hatch, also of Portales.

Art Assn. Hears Guest Sculptor

The Muleshoe Art Association met Tuesday morning at 10 a.m. in the community room of the Muleshoe State Bank.

Shriver Gallery in Taos. His sculpture appears in private collections throughout the United States.

Attending the meeting with Haase was one of his students, Mr. Hatch of Portales, Haase teaches art and wood sculpture.

The next meeting of the Muleshoe Art Association will be Tuesday morning, April 11 in the community room of the Muleshoe State Bank.

A Look At Indoor-Outdoor Carpeting

COLLEGE STATION--Outdoor carpet, indoor carpet, outdoor/indoor carpet. Kitchen carpet. It's enough to confuse anybody.

Why is there such confusion about types of carpeting available? Just exactly what do these terms mean? Which is what and which is good for what?

"If your head's in a whirl from trying to sort out all the information and misinformation about the new carpets' wearability, minimal cost and effortless upkeep, it's a small wonder," said Pat Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist at Texas A&M University.

"The term 'indoor/outdoor' carpet is misleading," she said. "It implies that one kind of carpet can be used both indoors and outdoors, but there's no single carpet with built-in characteristics that make it desirable for both uses."

The specialist said that it's a mistake to assume that the characteristics which make a carpet practical for outdoor use will make it even more practical indoors.

Let's take a closer look. Outdoor carpet is constructed differently from indoor or kitchen carpet and has different properties and different maintenance problems. An outdoor carpet has definite requirements.

To qualify for outdoor use, a carpet must be made of 100 per cent synthetic fiber that's resistant to moisture, sun, soil, mildew and pests. Solution-dyed polypropylene olefin and acrylics meet these requirements best and are the most-used fibers.

Some outdoor carpet is flocked with nylon, which has the highest abrasion-resistance of any fiber. But since nylon can't be solution-dyed, it's apt to fade.

"The construction of the carpet is as important as the content," Miss Bradshaw claimed. "It must be made so that drainage is possible during wet weather and cleaning."

Most outdoor carpet is made by needlepunch construction. The result is a felt-like, non-resilient mat similar to carpet underliners. Liquids penetrate rapidly and drain right through the carpet. An outdoor carpet must never have a foam or sponge backing because such a backing would be unable to withstand the elements and would eliminate the possibility of drainage, according to the specialist.

Tufting is another type of construction used to make outdoor carpet. Both polypropylene and acrylics are used.

"Tufted carpets are aesthetically more pleasing than those made with needlepunch construction because they look less like mats and more like traditional pile carpeting," Miss Bradshaw said. "But the relatively non-porous latex backing can turn the carpet into a water trap after a heavy rain or a thorough 'hosing down.'"

She said that a new set of standards is needed to evaluate outdoor carpeting fairly. First, it must be viewed within the proper frame of reference--the outdoors.

"When used as originally intended, outdoor carpeting is a long-wearing, economical utilitarian product. It could also be considered a luxury item in that it's softer, warmer and more attractive than what it replaces."

Care of outdoor carpet is relatively simple. Regular vacuuming (except when wet), quick attention to spots and stains and a periodic "hosing down" should keep it in good condition.

Variety is the spice of life and also the key in selecting a balanced diet. This is especially true of fruits as well as vegetables. Citrus fruits and their juices are excellent sources of Vitamin C. Tomato juice provides about half the Vitamin C of orange juice but it also provides good amounts of carotene which the body can make into Vitamin A. Prunes or prune juice contribute little Vitamin C, but are a good source of iron and copper. By varying the fruits and vegetables in your diet you can be assured of a variety of many important nutrients.

Six Attend Houston Show

There were six Junior High students that went to Houston, Texas for the 40th annual Houston Fat Stock Show and Rodeo. Three showed calves, one showed horses, two showed pigs, and one just went for the trip with her family.

Nicky Bambert, Tim St. Clair, and Cynthia Rogers showed calves. Tom's and Cynthia's calves sifted, but Nicky's calf made into the show. Mike Pool and Gene Bray both showed pigs, they did fairly well considering the sizes of the classes. Gene Bray was the only Junior High student that showed a horse, he didn't place.

The students were gone for a full week from school, February 28th to March 3rd. All six of the students had a good time. They stayed at the Sheraton Inn which was within walking distance of the Fair Grounds. There was a Rodeo every night in the Astrodome and most of the students went.

The students showed their stock in the Astrobhall. The Astrobhall was built right next to the Astrodome. The horse performance classes were held in the Astrodome. All the students enjoyed their stay in Houston and will most likely go back next year.

Play Seen By Junior High

by Tammy Webb

The one act play, "The Doctor in Spite of Himself," was viewed by the Jr. High March the sixth. It was a delightful play presented to us by the Department of Theater of Eastern New Mexico University. Students of this University portrayed the characters of this hilarious play. The play tells the story of a man who beats his wife. To get revenge, his wife plotted a scheme with a man servant of an apparent king or noble. He was to "beat it into" her husband that he was a doctor, and was to cure this Noble's daughter of her ailment. She was unable to talk. It turned out happy in the end for the re-gained her speech by finding her true love. The Jr. High truly enjoyed this play.

Open House

Held Monday

Monday night, March sixth, Muleshoe schools held open house. Parents visited the school, talked to the teachers, and met other parents and students. The main attraction of this open house was the science fair. The school was open from 7 to 9 p.m.

Dear Gabby:

Dear Gabby,
I am a new boy at this school, and I would like to know who some of the beautiful girls are. Would you name some of them?
Dear Girl Lover,
Open your eyes and look around!
Dear Gabby,
How do you get a girl to like you?
Mr. Pig
Dear Mr. Pig,
Why don't you try being nice to her and see how she reacts.
Dear Gabby,
There is a guy in the 8th grade that I know and I really do like him a lot, but he does not realize that I like him. So what should I do?
Helpless!!!
Dear Helpless,
Why don't you try telling him, or just try being nice to him.
Dear Gabby,
My mom does not approve of my boyfriend because he is three years older than I, and is always on the go from place to place. What can I tell him to place. What can I tell him even though he knows I like him a lot?
Dear Unsigned,
If you tell him why your mother does not approve of him he should understand considering that he is three years older than you, which is a lot at this period in your life.
Dear Gabby,
I got this problem ya know. I got this friend ya know and well he always gets mad over little things like me just accidentally bumping into him. When I do he will sound off. How can I cure him?
Hopeful
Dear Hopeful,
This "friend" of yours doesn't sound much like a friend to me "ya know". You could tell him that you don't care to listen to his sounding off when he doesn't have a good reason for it.
Dear Gabby,
How can I get a girlfriend?
signed,
Girl Wanter

Dear Girl Wanter,

You should try to dress well so you'll look handsome and act real cool.
Dear Gabby,
I have a problem. It's my hair. My mother wants me to, cut my hair, but I don't want to. She wants me to cut it because I never roll it. It will be hot this summer, but I like my long hair. Sure, my mother has a point, but so do I. HELP!
Signed,
Up-Side-Down
Dear Up-side-down,
I'd do what my mother wants me to do, especially if she's very big. You might want to do something and she might say yes because you cut your hair.
Dear Gabby,
What do you do when your mother tells you to bring your books home to study, and you don't have anything to study?
Signed,
Bookworm
Dear Bookworm,
You should bring your books home, but you don't have to study them. Then your mother will be happy, and you will too.

Poetry

I am a little snowflake it's plain to see,
I have six little points that look beautiful on me,
I fall to the earth on a very cold day,
But it seems like I'll never get there,
Fore old North wind has a hold on me.
I finally fall to the earth in some state
Where I can find friends that will play with me.
But pretty soon out comes the sun.
It ruins all the fun that I had.
I melt into the ground and soon evaporate,
And then I become a snowflake in some other place.

COLLEGE STATION -- The food store always offers something "new."

It may be new forms of the same old thing, or it may be a completely new division because of a processing method.

"Look for something new when you shop this week," said Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "This is one of the best ways to keep up with innovations in nutrition."

At retail meat counters, look for best beef values on chuck roasts and steaks, boneless cuts for pot roasting, round steaks, ground beef and beef liver.

Find pork values in some lines of bacon, fresh and smoked picnic roasts, Boston butt roasts and shoulder steaks.

"Fryer chickens are an excellent protein and price choice."

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

Continued effectiveness at lower cost is the immediate goal of refinements and improvements being made annually in the High Plains Boll Weevil Control Program, according to Ed Dean, Field Service Director for Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., the organization which initiated the program in 1964 and continues to coordinate its activities.

A second, longer term objective is to prepare the High Plains area for a leading part in a Statewide and eventually Beltwide control effort that will make this region's individual program unnecessary, Dean States.

The High Plains program in its first few years involved only the application of an insecticide at regular intervals during the Fall of the year. This was done on all weevil infested cotton fields along and just below the Caprock on the Eastern edge of the High Plains. This consistently killed over 90 per cent of all weevils each year before they could attain "diapause," the state in which they are able to live through the winter in surrounding hibernation sites. Thus the number of weevils emerging in the Spring was greatly reduced, and population buildups during the growing season were kept low enough to prevent mass migration into High Plains fields before the following year's Fall sprayings.

"This minimal effort, while effective, offered no hope for substantial reduction of the program's cost or for ever being able to discontinue it," Dean notes, "because proven migration from areas outside our control zone will forever supply the seed for an infestation every year, regardless of how low we are able to get weevil numbers."

Research has shown the weevil's reproductive capacity to be such that under average conditions a single pair of weevils in three generations, a period of 35 to 60 days, can multiply to eight to ten thousand weevils. Dr. Perry Adkisson, head of Texas A&M's Department of Entomology has repeatedly stated that weevil populations could return to their former migration-inducing levels on the Plains in a single year if the program were relaxed.

Techniques incorporated into the program since the early years include spraying of insecticide in the early part of the growing season to break the weevil's reproductive cycle; use of pheromone, or sex traps, as a part of survey work to supplement manual surveys; application of a systemic insecticide, TEMIK, to small acreages adjacent to known hibernation sites; and limiting acreage to be sprayed to that which reaches a predetermined level of infestation rather than spraying all acreage in a prescribed zone.

All of these innovations were well researched and each proven to either make the program more effective or reduce the overall cost before being made a part of the overall program. Together they have enabled program officials to make sizable cuts in the total acreage that requires spraying over a season. In 1971, an aggregate of only about 400,000 acres received insecticide treatment, as compared to almost 2 million acres treated in the first year of the program.

Research conducted primarily by Texas A&M entomologist Dr. Dale Bottrell of the Texas A & M Research and Extension Center at Lubbock has now shown that pheromone traps can be used to lure up to 85 per cent of the weevils emerging from winter hibernation into 10 percent of the field's cotton acreage. This knowledge will be incorporated into the program on an operational basis in the Spring of this year.

Plans call for planting four row strips of early fruiting cotton as trap crops in fields selected on the basis of infestation history, treating this early cotton with TEMIK, then luring weevils to the trap crop as they emerge from hibernation, Dean said.

"It is impossible to predict conditions too far in advance," Dean explained "but we have hopes that this technique will further reduce the acreage requiring insecticide in 1972."

A boll weevil eradication test is underway in Mississippi, sponsored by USDA and Cotton Incorporated, which utilizes all these methods of weevil control plus the release of sterile male weevils to retard reproduction. The test covers only a few thousand acres of cotton, comparatively speaking, but the acreage has a high degree of isolation from other cotton production areas.

If the Mississippi experiment proves successful, the next step will be to mount what officials hope will be a Statewide weevil program in Texas. The Cotton Insect Committee of the Texas Association of Cotton Producers Organizations (TACPO), met recently in Austin with officials of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Department of Agriculture and Texas A&M research personnel and laid the groundwork for such an effort. The initial task will be to develop and implement procedures for a statewide survey of cotton producing areas to show the degree of boll weevil infestations, the amount and kinds of hibernation sites, degree of isolation and other pertinent information.

"We are still several years away from boll weevil eradication," Dean said, "but I think we are beginning to see a glimmer of hope."
