Tower Announces Set-Aside Deadlines

Senator John Tower announced the United States Department of Agriculture has agreed to establish later deadlines for designating set-aside acres by Texas farmers for various crops.

The new and later deadlines were established as a result of a recent letter by Tower to Undersecretary of Agriculture J. Phil Campbell pointing out that current deadlines come too early for most Texas crops.

Tower told Campbell that the old guidelines for designating set-aside acres would result in a hardship for cotton and feed grain producers in the High Plains and Low Rolling Plains of Texas.

Today Tower said he was informed by the USDA that under the new guidelines, farmers do not have to designate set-aside acreage for any particular crop until he certifies that crop. Under previous rules, a farmer had to designate all his set-aside acreage by May 1.

Tower had pointed out that producers in the Plains area of Texas often do not designate set-aside acreage for a particular crop under the government support program until they certify the planted acres due to local weather and moisture conditions.

The USDA informed the senator Texas senator that it also is moving up the present final certification deadline for all crops from July 15 to August 1.

Tower said the new certification deadlines would be "extremely helpful" to Texas farmers.

Employment Office Advises Migrants

The Texas Employment Commission reports that seasonal agricultural jobs for migrant workers have been greatly reduced for 1972 in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin. Lonnie Merriott Manager in Muleshoe, advises migrant workers not to go to these states to seek work unless they have an official job commitment from an employer. Migrant workers interested in working in the harvest in these states should contact their nearest Texas Employment Commission office and get details on any official job openings.

Illinois will have 550 fewer jobs for out of state workers; Indiana will show a decline of 8700 jobs in 1972; Michigan reports that the state will need 9570 less workers than in 1971; Minnesota will employ about the same as in 1971, except that officials warn that workers should have firm commitment for jobs before coming to the state; Wisconsin reports the same information as does Minnesota although there will be a slight decline in the cherry in a newspaper last night about a train ride 400 people took recently just for fun under the new Amtrack program to revive passenger trains.

What struck me was a statement by one of the passengers. "The ride was all right but seven and a half hours is too long for a 350-mile trip," he complained.

Now as I interpret this, seven and a half hours wouldn't have been too long if he'd traveled say 1,000 miles, but I still don't understand it. If you're going to stay in motion for seven and a half hours, what difference does it make whether you end up 335 miles of 1,000 miles from where you started?

Anybody who can convince himself that the distance traveled reduces the fatigue per hour, never has ridden a tractor up one row and down another. Me, if I have to start out on a 250-mile trip, don't figure I'm 250 miles from my destination. I figure I'm 500 miles from getting back home. Most travel reminds me of the current see-saw craze. You know, two youngsters get on a see-saw and see how long they can last. The current record, I understand, is 144 hours, set by two young boys, and who is harvest, Ohio will need 500 fewer harvest workers in 1972. Merriott reports that the reason for the decline in workers needed this year in those six states is because of freeze damage and a general reduction of crop acreage. Increased mechanization in harvest methods also is blamed for part of the need for less workers. Major crops that are involved consist of cherry, asparagus, tomatoes, cucumber, sugar beet, apples, blueberries and strawberries. Merriott asks that migrant crews who need further information about out of state work, contact the nearest office of the Texas Employment Commission.

• Preston Smith helped develop the most progressive salary schedule for teachers in the nation.

If the time between breakfast and dinner is the same, why use up the time in between see-sawing or riding an airplane? I understand one airline is now bragging that it has reduced the time between New York and London from 3 movies to 2. If you can stay up that late you can see the same ones on your T.V. set at home.

AAUW Studies Basic Economics

The Muleshoe Branch of the American Association of University Women met Monday, April 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Mary DeShazo Library.

Mrs. John Watson made a slide and tape presentation on Basic Economics. In its simplest terms, economics is the study of how man earns his daily bread, and the basic problem confronting all people is the conflict between unlimited wants and limited resources. In the broad sense there are three types of economic systems, traditional (India), Command (Russia), and the market (U.S.). In the private enterprise system, what goods and services are produced and how productive resources are used to produce them are decided in the market by consumer demand and the producer's desire to make a profit.

Mrs. Oscar Rudd, president, summarized the year's program of AAUW through committee reports and announcements of future projects and plans.

Mrs. Jack Rennels announced that 1541 area students saw the E.N.M.U. Children's Theatre production of "A Doctor In Spite of Himself" on March 6. The Branch voted to adopt the Children's Theatre as an annual project.

Mrs. Tom Jinks briefed the membership concerning the Senior Tea which will be given in honor of all area high school girl graduates, Sunday, April 30 from 3 to 5 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Jim Shafer.

Mrs. Joe Costen distributed opinionaires to members concerning Federal legislation supported by AAUW.

The Branch voted to continue sponsoring the summer reading program at the Muleshoe Area Public Library and to help financially with refreshments for the Muleshoe Area Library, Sunday, April 23.

MULESHOE

GUEST ARTIST...Pat Krahn of Lubbock was the guest artist at the Muleshoe Art Association meeting Tuesday morning.

Plans are near completion for a "Cotton Contracting Seminar" to be held on Thursday, April 20, beginning at 2:00 p.m. in the Koko Palace, 5201 Avenue Q, Lubbock. The meeting is being sponsored by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., regional cotton producer organization representing 25 counties surrounding Lubbock.

According to PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, the program is planned to "give producers access to authoritative information which will be valuable to them in making decisions related to pre-harvest cotton sales and to provide a panel of knowledgeable people to answer pertinent questions."

PCG President Ray Joe Riley will open the afternoon meeting and serve as general chairman. He will set the stage with an outline of the current cotton supply-demand-price situation and comment on the possible advantages and disadvantages of forward contracting as a means to assure adequate supplies of cotton fiber in future years.

"Alternative Marketing Procedures" will be the title of a presentation by Dr. William E. Black, Marketing Economist with the Texas A & M University Extension Service. Dr. Black is expected to define basic features of spot marketing, futures marketing and forward contracting. He also will offer guidelines that can be used by producers in selecting one of the three alternatives, discuss the fiber quality aspects of forward selling, and emphasize the necessity for complete, understandable sales contracts between buyers and sellers.

One of Dr. Black's associates in the A & M system, still to be named, will explain "Use of the Futures Market" as a merchandising tool, giving examples of how a futures "hedge" can be expected to work in both rising and declining markets. The only active futures contract for cotton is now known as the "Number 2" contract, on which the base tenderable quality is Strict Middling 1-1/16 inch cotton, and the hazards of attempting to use this contract as a hedge in marketing the average High Plains cotton crop will be discussed.

A primary need in the practice of pre-harvest cotton marketing is a contract between buyer and seller which minimizes the chance for misunderstandings and gives maximum assurance of satisfactory contract performance by both parties.

According to Johnson, this aspect of forward contracting will be assigned to an attorney or attorneys who will cover the subject in two parts, "Desirable Contract Provisions" and "Contract Performance." The first will include a discussion of problems that can be encountered as the result of inadequate contracts and recommended contract provisions which can eliminate or minimize such problems.

The second part will treat the subject of practical contract enforceability under varying conditions and explore the desirability and effectiveness of using performance bonds, escrow accounts, letters of credit or other contrivances as safeguards against contract breaches.

"We know from experience that there are a lot of questions in the minds of producers concerning this relatively new practice," Johnson said, "and we are allowing sufficient time for a question-and-answer period following the initial presentations."

The incidence of pre-harvest cotton sales in the past two years has increased greatly. While only 11 percent of the 1970 crop was sold prior to harvest, it is estimated that over 40 percent of the U.S. cotton crop in 1971 was sold on forward contracts and a recent estimate of the U.S. Department of Agriculture indicates that about one-third of the anticipated 1972 cotton crop was sold before it was planted.

Heaviest forward contracting this year has been in the early producing areas of Texas and in Mid-South and Southeastern sections of the cotton belt. Contracting on the High Plains has been minimal, and there is little or no contracting activity at present.

Whether or not interest in forward contracting on the Plains will be revised at a later date is dependent on a number of factors, Johnson stated, "but whether it be this year or next year, we look for forward contracting of cotton to play a significant role in future years. And it is our hope that the planned seminar on this subject will help prepare our members to deal in this area from a broad base of intelligence."

Annuals Received Seven Weeks?

By Kacy Sanderlin

It happened, what everyone was waiting for. We received the annuals and passed them out Monday. Twenty extra annuals were ordered for those who did not buy theirs before. All annuals ordered were sold. There was an annual signing party in the gym afterwards. The journalism staff presented an annual to the library, to the dedicatee, and also kept one on record in the journalism room. We hope everyone enjoys their annuals.

Class Makes Dictionaries

By Kim Small

Last week, all of Mrs. Bruns English classes are writing dictionaries. These dictionaries are slang dictionaries. The students get into groups, and write all the slang words they can think of, then write the pronunciation, the meaning, and the etymology of the word. So if you hear some strange words, their probably from some one's dictionary.

Spring!

Flowers bloom today.
The cold wind has gone away.
Spring is here to stay.

To win sweet pleasure tempted by death,
Telling all of his life to be loved.

Spring

Spring the start of the season.
It is the changing of color.
When flowers begin to bloom.

MJHS Band Has Clinic

By Kim Small

Wednesday, April 5, the Jr. High Band had a clinic. This is when the students in band go to the band hall from one to five, and have a man correct them on their mistakes. This year clinician was Mr. Crame. The students really appreciate his help.

Talent, plus over-confidence, can ruin a life's work.

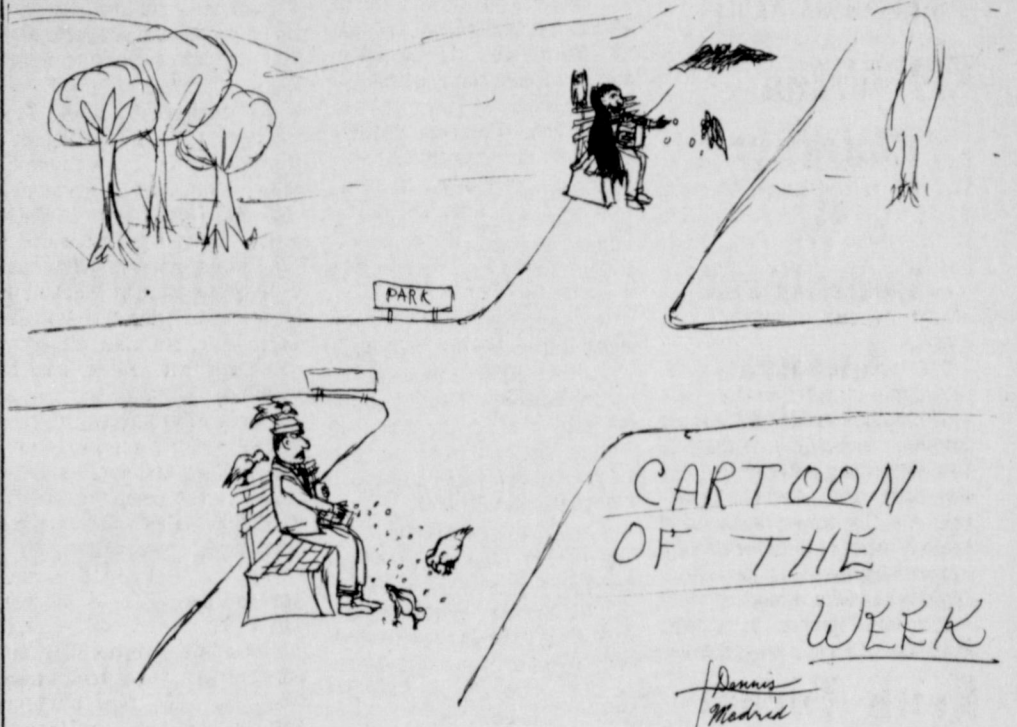

The best course to follow in most political conversations is the silent one.

Steel orders for March show upturn.

An excessively loud noise can rupture the human ear drum in much the same manner as a musical drum could be damaged if struck by an excessive force.

Earaches or ear infections never should be taken lightly. Officials stress that such maladies should be called to the immediate attention of the family doctor or a medical ear specialist.

Children suffering from hearing losses often are unusually tense and tired following normal activities. Officials point out that such children may be having to exert an extra effort to hear enough to know what is happening around them.

Not many people believe what you say about hard work.

Modern philosophy: "Get away first with the most."

Swine Conference Scheduled Monday

Facts on purchasing, feeding, selling and caring for swine will be the topic of a nine-county meeting, April 17 in Lubbock. The conference is being sponsored by the South Plains Development Program, and registration is slated at 7 p.m. in the Precinct 1 Clubhouse at 5012 50th Street.

Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Garza, Floyd, Hale, Lamb and Bailey counties. Dr. Gilbert R. Hollis, Extension area swine specialist at Lubbock, will discuss problems encountered in purchasing and handling feeder pigs. He will be followed by O.L. Christie, Vocational Agriculture teacher at Idalou, who will cover potentials for feeder pig sales in West Texas.

Chamber of Commerce Corner

It has been brought to our attention that some of the SOS messages started through the Chamber office are not reaching all of our merchants. If you remember, this service is a system designed to provide a rapid relay of information which might be helpful in preventing loss of cash or payment for goods and services. This system, which is basically an alarm system, at times may be used to relay important messages; however, it will only be effective if used promptly and consistently.

As a reminder, information can be started through the Law Enforcement Center or the Chamber Office. Any information concerning "hot checks," "shoplifting," or such which would help your neighboring businessmen should be reported as soon as possible. After you have received a call reflecting an "SOS Message," it is most important that you contact the next party assigned you when the System was begun. If you are unable to contact either of the numbers given you, please call the Chamber office and report it so that they can contact the next relay number.

A CHAIN IS NO STRONGER THAN ITS WEAKEST LINK...please do your part in keeping this program effective. Our new Manager, Glen King, invites you to come by the office at any time the Chamber can serve you.

"A Table Treat for Royalty" will be the title of a short presentation on what quality pork means to the average consumer. The speaker will be Miss Helen Howes, the 1972 Texas Pork Queen. Dr. Billy Stewart of Texas A&M University will talk about proper ventilation systems for swine buildings, which is especially critical on the South Plains. Stewart is an agricultural engineer specializing in environmental control. The cost of production and use of the futures market in the swine industry will be covered by Marvin Sartin, Extension management economist at Lubbock.

"The meeting will present some very useful information for anyone connected with the swine industry on the South Plains, and the public is invited," reminds Billy C. Gunter, district agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and coordinator of the SPD program.
