Fun To Eat Snacks Can Be Nourishing

Snacks should be anticipated, fun to eat, and nourishing. It is just as easy to eat a nourishing snack as one that has little nourishment, and sometimes it's more fun, too. Especially "surprise" snacks such as crisp juicy apples, bananas, a little box of raisins, oatmeal cookies, or fruit-ed gelatin. Peanut butter, spread on crackers and made into cracker sandwiches, supplies high-quality protein and does not require refrigeration. Carrot sticks (may be kept chilled in refrigerator) are low in calories but high in Vitamin A. Milk, wedges of cheese, or ice cream (without sweet sauces) also offer high-quality protein as well as important minerals and vitamins. All these are "fun" snacks and very nourishing.

Plan Adequate Breakfasts

Is a breakfast of coffee and doughnuts adequate? NO! This breakfast is so low in nutrients that a midmorning slump will surely be noticeable. An adequate breakfast should be planned around the "Basic 4" and include foods from each of these four groups: Meat (or eggs), fruit, milk, and bread-cereal. A well-balanced breakfast provides important nutrition and will help dispel the midmorning slumps.

A GAS outdoor grill gives food a tangy outdoor flavor without the time and bother of charcoal fire. Char-broiled flavor comes from the smoke of meat juices dripping on hot briquets. Charcoal itself provides no flavor. Permanent ceramic briquets in the gas grill reach cooking heat in a few minutes, and there is no long wait to start cooking. The heat is regulated manually so there is no need to move a grill up or down.

Briscoe Calls For Joint Animal Health Programs

Two spectacular developments in Texas have emphasized the need for closer state, Federal and international cooperation in animal health, said Dolph Briscoe, Democratic candidate for governor. "The immense problem caused by screwworms, followed by the highly successful control program in Texas and the need to further expand this program into Mexico...coupled with the violent outbreak of VEE last summer, make it mandatory that we develop stronger cooperative programs in animal health protection," the Uvalde rancher-businessmen recently told a group of agribusiness leaders.

"This is an area where strong state leadership is necessary. The governor's office should take a strong position and I intend to do just that," he said. The screwworm eradication program, which is credited with saving Texas livestock producers at least $100 million a year, is getting headlines again because of the outbreaks in South Texas this spring. There have been more confirmed screwworm cases this year than in any year since the sterile fly production-release program got underway in 1962.

"To completely eradicate the screwworm fly from Texas, we must extend the control boundaries deep into southern Mexico. This demands cooperation and involvement of our state leadership and the governments of the United States and Mexico," Briscoe said. While serving as president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, Briscoe helped found the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation (SWARHF), the organization which started the screwworm eradication program. Briscoe has been honored by many livestock organizations for these efforts and is generally credited with providing much of the leadership which ultimately resulted in Federal approval and involvement in the project.

SWARHF, which Briscoe now serves as Chairman of the Board of Trustees, has funded feasibility studies which call for expanding the screwworm program into Mexico. The study, tentatively approved by both nations, calls for installing screwworm producing plants in the southern tip of Mexico. The plants would be built on surplus U.S. Ships and could be moved further south if desired.

"By eliminating screwworms from the interior of Mexico by proven means, we can prevent entry into Mexico by maintaining a sterile-fly boundary across the narrow southern tip of Mexico. This not only will make the program more effective by preventing entry into Mexico--and subsequently, Texas--but will greatly reduce the cost of the program," Briscoe said.

"As governor, I assure you that the interest of all Texans will be well represented in this matter," Briscoe said.

The outbreak of VEE (Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis) last July in Texas, which killed hundreds of horses, caused cancellation of all horse-related activities and resulted in a stiff quarantine for months, is another reason for greater emphasis on joint Mexico-U.S.-Texas relations. "VEE moved progressively from South America, through Central America and Mexico and into Texas. We all knew it, but could do nothing about it until it hit us," Briscoe said.

"A closer working relationship between the respective state and Federal governments can help prevent these occurrences. We are now working to develop better state, federal and international programs. And these programs must occupy a higher priority in our planning," Briscoe said.

McElroy Wants 2 Parties

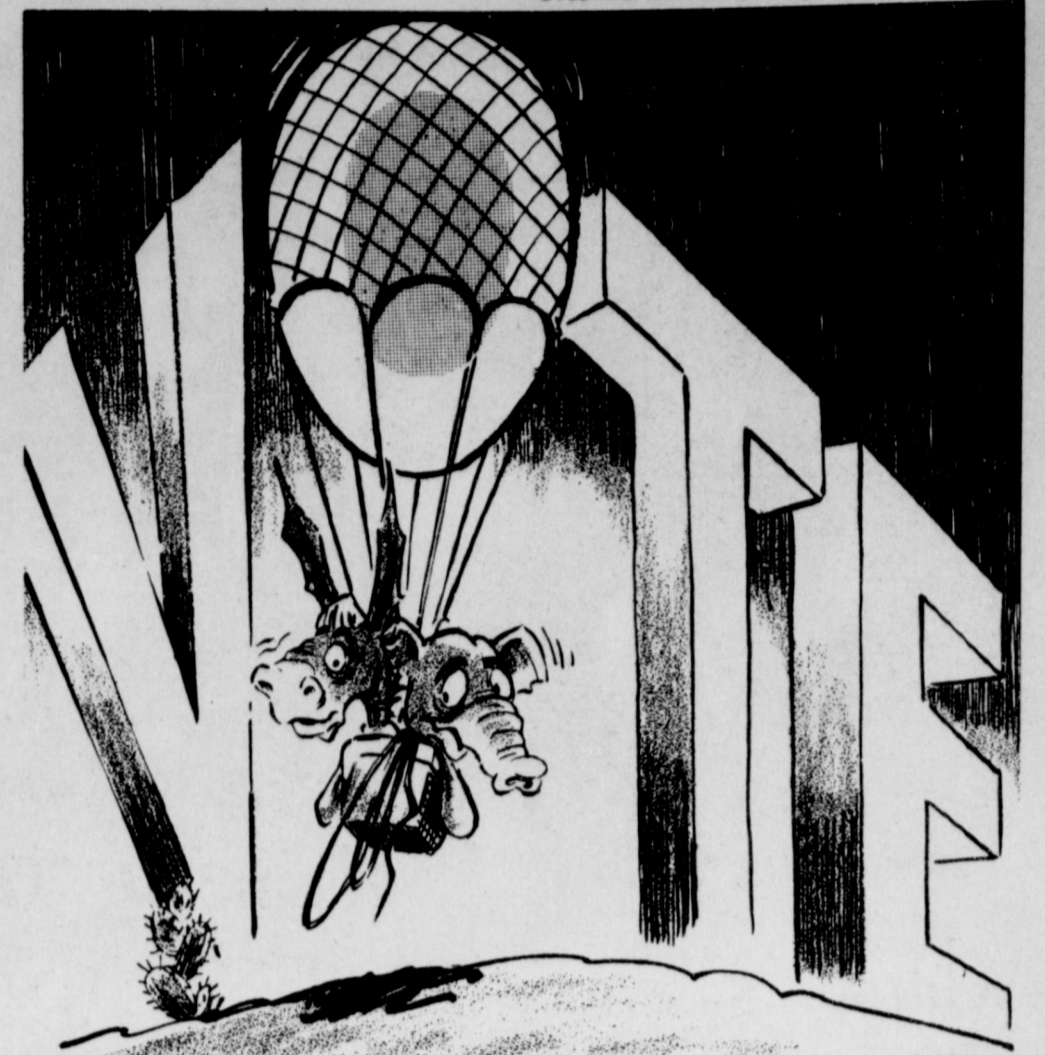

Tom McElroy wants to be governor to turn Texas into a 2-party state.

"We can elect legislators and congressional candidates again and again, and we won't have a 2-party system. But if you elect a Republican governor, you will have a 2-party system overnight because of appointments," he said.

The 49-year-old Dallas trial attorney seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination said in an interview Tuesday he has no future interest in any other political contest.

"Unlike other candidates in the Republican primary, I'm interested only in the governor's office," he said, because that office holds the key to the 2-party system and thus to reform in state government.

"AFTER 100 YEARS in power, the Democratic Party has run afoul of itself and is powerless to bring about needed reform internally."

Hall Gets Baptist Church Endorsement

Sen. Ralph Hall has received a strong endorsement from leaders of the Baptist Church in Texas and a joint endorsement from the Dallas Morning News in his race for Lieutenant Governor.

In a letter circulated to all Baptist ministers in Texas, Abner V. McCall of Waco, Dr. Jimmy Allen of San Antonio and Rev. C.E. Garrison of El Paso urged them to give their full support to Hall in the May 6 primary.

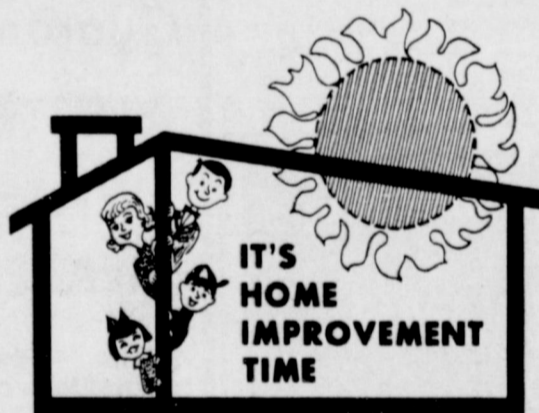

"Senator Hall's three principal opponents, Senators Christie and Connally and publisher Bill Hobby, have indicated support for parimutuel gambling and looser liquor laws. Their positions on these and other issues lead us to reject these men," the letter said.

"We feel that it is very important that Ralph Hall be the next Lieutenant Governor of Texas. We hope you will actively use your influence and leadership on his behalf," the letter concluded.

In its co-endorsement of Hall Sunday, the Dallas News said that "Hall is uniquely qualified to serve as presiding officer of the state's upper house...As a Senator, Hall led the fight for a tough ethics bill called the strongest such bill ever introduced, during the last session before such legislation became a popular issue."

In an accompanying editorial the News said, "Hall has been a fine State Senator and particularly helpful to Dallas and adjoining counties. For 12 years he was County Judge in Rockwall and now is in his 10th year in the state senate."

A History Of Bailey County Pioneer Families

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Coffman

T.W. Coffman came to Bailey County from Crosby County in 1923 and established his farm just west of the National Wildlife Refuge.

Coffman wanted to move to the plains "where the wind pumped the water and the cows cut the wood." The family took five wagons and a truck.

Clyde and Clarence rode horses and drove the cows. The first house the Coffmans lived in was a big half dug-out. They also had a long one-room flat-top shack. Ellen remembers a round shaped bachelor heater that they burned cow chips in for warmth.

Coffman was married to Amanda Frances Bratton and they had ten children: Clyde and Claud (twin brothers), Ida, Charles, Clarence, Carl, Ellen, Chester, Olene and Gracy.

Ellen Coffman Bayless remembers early pioneer days in Bailey County when "The dust was so bad that we had to turn on our lights at noon and burn them the rest of the day."

Daughter Ellen recalls that the men in her family often hunted wolves and rabbits. Her brother Clyde had a greyhound that he trained to be an excellent hunting dog.

Clarence Coffman became an ordained minister. His sister Olene's husband, Ray Lee Cunningham, is also a minister.

There was no church in the community when the T.W. Coffmans arrived. But, it was not long before Coffman organized the first Baptist Church at Baileyboro. The Coffmans' ten children received their first schooling at the Baileyboro school. At that time, the Baileyboro school was a one-room building that had one teacher and ten pupils. Though Baileyboro's school was small, the children were able to play baseball and basketball. There were also literary programs held at school. Parents as well as students took part in these programs.

Miss Edith Kroff was the first school teacher. People began to move in fast that year and before school was out the enrollment had jumped from ten to a hundred pupils.

Ellen Coffman Bayless recalls that "a buffalo came by the school one day and the children were all excited about it." After some coaxing, "the teacher let us get on our horses and go out to see him."

The weather was something to remember, too. "One day it came up a big cloud and hailed the biggest hail I had ever seen," says Ellen. The men out working with the cattle had to take the saddles off their horses and get under them. "We had hail in a five gallon crock jar the next morning and some of it was so big it wouldn't go in the top of a snuff glass."

The winter of 1924, Baileyboro had a bad snow storm. Drifts under the Coffmans' clothes line were 36 inches deep. Sand storms haven't always come in the springtime. On Thanksgiving day in 1926, the whole Coffman family was picking cotton. When they had their sacks about half full, a whopper of dust storm blew in. It blew the cotton off the stalks so instead of picking the rest of the crop, it had to be raked up.

This is one in a series of historical biographies of Bailey County pioneer families who arrived here prior to 1930.

AUSTIN, Tex.--An estimated 1.85 million Texas Democrats are about to decide one of the most significant primary elections in years.

Another 100,000 or more will vote in the Republican primary Saturday (May 6).

Both parties will also conduct important precinct conventions May 6--first step in the presidential nominations process. With emphasis on the hard fought gubernatorial primaries in both parties, little attention has been devoted to the conventions beyond a prolonged Democratic scrap over adoption of new procedural rules. Democrats almost certainly will go into June 3 runoff for both governor and lieutenant governor--and perhaps other statewide elections.

Gov. Preston Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde and State Rep. Frances (Sissy) Farenthold of Corpus Christi are major contenders for the Democratic gubernatorial runoff spots.

The lieutenant governor's field is also closely bunched in the stretch drive with State Sens. Wayne Connally of Floresville, Ralph Hall of Rockwall and Joe Christie of El Paso and Houston newspaper executive William P. Hobby the top contenders.

Former Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough is favored to win the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination over Barefoot Sanders and face GOP Sen. John Tower in November.

Republican gubernatorial candidates staging serious campaigns include State Sen. Henry Grover of Houston, Dave Reagan of Sherman, Al Fay of Houston and Tom McElroy of Dallas. John A. Hall of Weatherford has also put up a fight.

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin is challenged for re-election by John Hill of Houston, and Comptroller Robert S. Calvert and Treasurer Jesse James have mutual opposition.

A minimum of 58--maybe as many as 80--new state representatives will be elected and at least 11 new state senators. FINAL TPA REGIONAL POLLS REVEALED--Political polls were taken at two regional newspaper meetings last week--at the South Texas Press Association meeting in Kerrville and the Panhandle Press Association meeting in Amarillo. These are the final polls before the Primary, May 6.

South Texas editors were asked who "would carry their counties"--and for "whom will they vote."

Results were (I believe the following will carry my county in the primary): Governor's race: Briscoe, 14; Farenthold, 14; Barnes, 7 and Smith 5 (Democratic). Fay, 12; Grover, 3. (Republican).

Lt. Governor: Connally, 19; Hobby, 11; Christie, 3; Hall, 3 and Jones 1. U.S. Senate: Yarborough, 24 and Sanders, 5.

On the question "I plan to vote for the following," editors voted: Governor: Briscoe, 17; Farenthold, 11; Smith, 4 and Barnes, 3 (Democratic). Fay, 1 (Republican). (Primary).

Lt. Governor: Connally, 13; Hobby, 12 and Christie, 3. (Primary).

Lt. Governor: Connally, 13; Hobby, 12 and Christie, 3. (Primary).

witnesses against them. Grand Prairie cannot hold a local option liquor election since it is located in two counties, the State Supreme Court concluded.

RATLIFF QUILTS--Sen. David Ratliff of Stamford resigned his post and withdrew as a candidate for a House seat after disclosures that he had several relatives on legislative payrolls.

Ratliff, 60, said his "past mistakes or bad judgment" should not reflect on other members of the Texas Senate.

His immediate resignation will allow time for election of a successor before the June special legislative session, Ratliff stated. Timing of his withdrawal from the House race will follow consultation with local party officials.

Ratliff did not seek re-election to the senate when his district was merged with that of Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon. MEAT PRICES MAY RISE--This year's spring drought may again cause meat prices to rise, Agriculture Commissioner John White warns.

If the drought continues, said White, cattlemen will have to reduce their herds. "Meat prices should come down, but this will be only temporary," said White. "After those cattle are sold, there again will be a shortage of livestock which will result again in higher meat prices."

The same thing, according to White, happened last year in a rainless period. MASS TB X-RAY SCREENING OUT--Texas State Department of Health announced skin testing has replaced the mass x-ray screening for tuberculosis in Texas.

X-Rays are recommended only for those persons testing positive in skin checks and those in high-risk groups.

The Health Department will continue to use mobile X-Ray units--mainly for followup testing. The Texas case rate for new, active tuberculosis is 25.8 per 100,000 population. The national average is 18.3. SHORT SHORTS--

Governor Issues Special Message

The past several weeks have been tremendous for us because they have been the turning point in our campaign. With the help of so many of you we have been able to bring our message to the people through television as well as in person. The results have been most gratifying.

As one who knows politics, I know by feeling when things are right and when they are not. Believe me, our timing is right for a victory on May 6. Our basic message was summarized in a speech which

Fay Is Candidate For Gov.

A news release from the campaign headquarters of Al Fay, Republican for Governor:

A Texas newspaper, considering an endorsement of a gubernatorial candidate in the Republican primary, contacted our headquarters asking for reasons to endorse Al Fay.

The following are our suggested reasons for endorsing the longtime Houston Republican: This year Texas Republicans have a choice of six candidates to choose from in their gubernatorial primary. We are sure all six possess excellent qualities. But one, Al Fay, deserves special consideration.

Al Fay of Houston has participated in several major facets of the Texas economy. He has business interests in oil and gas, farming and ranching, and manufacturing—the three largest industries in our state. And his capabilities are best depicted in his success as a businessman.

In public life, he has devoted most of his adult life to the betterment of his community, state and profession. Active in civic affairs, he is president of the Houston Museum of Natural Science and supports the need for more parks and recreational areas. He has been a director of the American Brahman Breeders Association.

Starting at the very foundation of our political system as a precinct worker, he worked his way through the Party ranks to become the Republican National Committeeman for Texas. His respect at the national level is best indicated by the fact President Nixon appointed him to the Board of Directors of the Panama Canal Company, a position he resigned to make the race.

Through all these ventures there has never been a hint of indiscretion or impropriety. We believe he is a man who will ably represent the Republican Party in the November election, and, as governor, will efficiently manage the affairs of state.

made on the evening of April 19 on a statewide telecast. Following are major points from that speech.

1. I will refuse to permit the legislature to raise taxes in the coming special session and will veto any tax bill they pass. "If you do not want higher taxes, and if you do not want to give the legislature a blank check to spend more of your money, then you should vote for Preston Smith." This would mean saving to our taxpayers of an estimated $150 million in new taxes.

2. Ben Barnes rammed through an unnecessary two-cent per gallon increase in the gasoline tax, but I insisted that it be repealed. This saved taxpayers over $143 million per year.

3. Ben Barnes pushed through the senate an extension of the sales tax to cover services, I opposed this and it was not adopted. 4. Mrs. Farenthold agrees that higher taxes are needed and suggests that Texans and Texas businesses start paying income taxes.

5. Briscoe has really not let the public know what he would do about taxes.

6. "It is obvious from the positions and non-positions of the other candidates that they have no stomach for a tough, belt-tightening approach to state spending."

7. The Smith administration has produced more solid accomplishments and has provided leadership for more new programs than any governor in history. These points are now becoming the major factor in this campaign. So, please continue to work hard with us to inform the people, get our supporters out to vote, and continue working with us to constantly improve our state. Sincerely, (s) Preston Smith Governor of Texas
