J. F. Duren was selected to act as secretary of the meeting.

The question of nominating by a majority vote was considered by the committee. A substitute was then proposed that the question of one or two primaries be left to the candidates. After a warm discussion as to the merits of this proposition, both the substitute and previous question of majority vote were rejected. Then the plurality vote was adopted—that the candidate for any office receiving a plurality vote shall be declared the nominee of the democratic party.

The committee decided to have the ticket arranged alphabetically.

On the assessment of candidates for the expenses of the election the following scale was adopted:

Office.	Number candid's.	Pro rata
District attorney	1	$15.00
County judge	3	12.00
Sheriff	3	15.00
Representative	2	4.50
County clerk	3	22.50
County treasurer	2	9.00
Tax assessor	1	18.50

Tax collector	3	15.75
District clerk	2	10.25

J. P., No. 5	2	3.00
Constable, No. 1, 3, 5	5	3.75
Constable, No. 5	3	3.00
Constable, No. 6	1	2.25

It was voted that each beat shall elect its delegates on primary election day by convention to the county convention.

The following primary committee was appointed by the chairman: E. E. Barlow, A. B. Mulligan, F. C. Woodard, J. E. Downes and W. B. Cochran, which committee meets on the second Monday in July.

The following test was adopted: That all white men in Houston county, who will obligate themselves to support the democratic ticket in the general election, are entitled to vote in the primary election.

The application of Prof. A. W. Cain to have his name placed on the ticket for county school superintendent was rejected.

The committee then adjourned.

Unknown Friends.

There are many people who have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with splendid results, but who are unknown because they have hesitated about giving a testimonial of their experience for publication. These people, however, are none the less friends of this remedy. They have done much toward making it a household word by their personal recommendation to friends and neighbors. It is a good medicine to have in the home and is widely known for its cures of diarrhoea and all forms of bowel trouble. For sale by Murchison & Beasley.

Was Wasting Away.

"I have been troubled with kidney disease for the last five years," writes Robert R. Watts, of Salem, Mo. "I lost flesh and never felt well and doctored with leading physicians and tried all remedies suggested without relief. Finally I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and less than two bottles completely cured me and I am now sound and well." Sold by Smith & French Drug Co.

Ten Years in Bed.

"For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys," writes R. A. Gray, J. P. of Oakville, Ind. "It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a Godsend to me." Sold by Smith & French Drug Co.

Delayed Correspondence.

Augusta, June 11, 1906.

EDITOR COURIER:

Quite an enjoyable social was had at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Butts' last evening. There was a large attendance of Augusta society people present, both old and young, who participated in the pleasures of the evening with the keenest delight. Conversation and amusing games were indulged in for awhile, when the tender chords of the violin were heard, then tripping the light fantastic to the lasciviousness of the lute began in earnest. The occasion was one long to be remembered by all present, and many compliments were bestowed upon the kind host and hostess for their kind hospitality. As the time for departure drew near the guests reluctantly bid a kind adieu to Mr. and Mrs. B. and amid the warblings of katydids and cooling zephyrs departed for their respective homes just as the gentle Queen of Mysteries had rolled high up on the eastern horizon.

Railroad talk is all the go here at Weches. The surveying and right-of-way crew have passed through Palestine and are coming on this way. While it will no doubt miss this point several miles it will probably place us several miles nearer railroad facilities than we are at present, and if it should there will be a wonderful change in the future agricultural pursuits among our farmers the years to come. The distance we are now from a railroad point is too far to haul truck, hence our farmers have never given it a thought; but with the future's bright prospects for a railroad old Augusta will arise, Phoenix-like, from the Rip Van Winkle snooze and go into truck farming on a large scale. We have the soil adapted for every purpose known in the truck farming category. Just watch us another season.

We learn that Dr. Collins of your city is looking for desirable a location, and if the doctor would like a quiet, desirable place, whose citizens are proverbial for their genial hospitality, and ever courteous to strangers, we extend him a cordial invitation to make us a visit and look over the field. While we have an excellent and learned physician here in the person of Dr. Elliott, whom everybody loves and respects, yet there is room for another, and it is very doubtful if Dr. Collins can do better than coming here.

Crops are moving along at a rapid rate—so is crab grass.

Maj. Cooke was in Palestine one day last week, and brings encouraging railroad news direct from headquarters.

We hear of many encomiums passed upon Mr. Porter Newman who is aspiring to the office of district attorney from this judicial district. The gentleman in question was reared in this immediate vicinity where the first rudiments of a country schooling were instilled into his youthful mind. It was here among the old red hills of Augusta he developed into manhood and, retaining the acquirements obtained from a country school, he has gradually climbed the ladder of fame and left behind him the footprints that any one would feel proud to emulate.

Miss Mary Wilson, accomplished daughter of the late Dr. Hall Wilson, and Miss Wall left Saturday morning overland, the former to visit friends and relatives at Lufkin and the latter to the Big Mills.

Capt. Gregg and lady are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Lovelady at Weches today.

In another ten days the good old watermelon time will be here. How we do long for the blessed time. Ever thine,

DONNELLA.

From the Philippine Islands.

EDITOR COURIER:

Prof. J. R. Mitchell, a native Houston county boy, but who has been teaching in the Philippine Islands for the past five years, is on a visit to relatives in this county, having arrived from the islands about the middle of May, first visiting his mother, Mrs. Addie Mitchell, and his widowed sister, Mrs. Harriet Crawford, near Stephenville, Erath county, Texas. He is now in Crockett visiting the families of J. W. Madden and J. R. Sheridan, and greeting his old friends generally. Many will remember him as a student at the Crockett city schools about 1894, and he also worked at the First National Bank here a short time after school at that time. He is a son of Zach Mitchell, now deceased, but who lived near Augusta, this county, for a long time just after the war.

Prof. Mitchell has been teaching at San Isidro, Nueva Ecija, where there is a school of about 1400 pupils, with 20 teachers, 18 of the teachers being natives of the island, and two Americans, Prof. Mitchell being the superintendent, or supervisor, of the school. In his school there are only three grades, first, second and third, this school being what is called the "Municipal" school, as distinguished from the high school, the latter receiving all students above the third grade. Nothing but the English language is taught, and Prof. Mitchell says the students are quite apt in learning and understanding this language and seem to like it. He also says that the little Philipinos are very intelligent and make good progress in the most of their studies. But he says that, while they are quick, their reasoning powers are not well developed. The memory seems to be overdeveloped and they are willing and anxious and ambitious to learn, and love to go to school. After they pass the first grade, he says they can hardly be kept from school, such is their thirst for knowledge.

Prof. Mitchell says that "Uncle Sam" is doing a great work there in the matter of education, and the natives seem to appreciate it. Except in certain provinces, where there are mischief-making "agitators," there is very little feeling of hostility on the part of the natives against the Americans, the better classes being very kind and hospitable. The Catholic religion is the prevailing one among them and they are very much attached to their church creed. A few American missionaries are there, but apparently make comparatively few converts from their established religion. Prof. Mitchell will leave the United States on his first of July, where he expects to remain at least two more years, when he will return to Texas and remain permanently.

A Paint Problem

Paint either spreads well, looks well and wears well, or it doesn't. Wear is what determines real paint value. Any practical painter will tell you that a paint will live only as long as the oil that's in it lives. The oil is the life of paint. "Dead Oil, Dead Paint."

HAMMAR CONDENSED PAINT

It is not a "ready-mixed" paint. It comes to you in condensed form; the driers, everything necessary in it, except the oil. You buy pure, raw linseed oil and do your own mixing. Sure of pure oil that way—not otherwise. One gallon of pure raw linseed oil and one gallon of Hammar Condensed Paint will cover more area, wear longer, and give better results than any other paint made. That's strong talk, but "Hammar" is strong paint. One gallon of Hammar Paint and one gallon of linseed oil will cover 600 square feet of surface with two coats and it won't come off. Guaranteed to stick for five years or money back.

We have the exclusive agency for Hammar Paint in this place; come in some day before you paint and let us tell you why "Hammar" is the best paint, and show you how you can save at least 25% on your next paint bill.

COURT REPORTERS EARN FROM $1500 TO $3000 A YEAR.

DON'T READ THIS UNLESS YOU WANT TO BE CONVINCED OF THE WONDERFUL SUPERIORITY OF THE BYRNE SIMPLIFIED SHORTHAND OVER ALL OTHER SYSTEMS.

There has been more official court reporters appointed in Texas during the past eighteen months who learned the Byrne Simplified Shorthand in the Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas, than there was official writers of all other systems in the state combined up to this time, as shown by the Directory of Official Court Reporters of the U. S., published and copyrighted by the Andrew J. Graham & Co. This proves conclusively the wonderful superiority of the Byrne Simplified over all other systems. So far as we have been able to learn, we have never had a single student to go into the competitive examination for official appointment against writers of other systems and fail to win, and in many cases they were in competition with writers of other systems with ten or twelve years experience. Practically all the Tyler Commercial College students received said appointments within two months after leaving school, and neither one of them had had as much as a year's experience.

With such overwhelming advantages in our system of shorthand and method of teaching, it is no wonder that the Tyler Commercial College enrolled more than 1000 students from 20 states during the past year. Its courses of Bookkeeping and Telegraphy are as much superior to other systems as is its shorthand. Write for catalogue and see what hundreds of those who know say.

Acute Rheumatism.

Deep tearing or wrenching pains, occasioned by getting wet through; worse when at rest, or on first moving the limbs or in cold or damp weather, is cured quickly by Ballard's Snow Liniment. One bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me." Sold by Murchison & Beasley.

MARSHALL FIELD AS TAX DODGER.

Merchant Millionaire Only Paid Taxes on One Million.

Chicago, June 9.—The city of Chicago and Cobb county are losers to the amount of $3,000,000 through the tax dodging of Marshall Field.

This was revealed in an open letter by E. E. Prussing, president of the Citizen's Association, to the Cook county board of review. In the letter Mr. Prussing shows that Mr. Field for many years paid taxes on only one million personality. That finally, ten years ago, the board of review increased his assessment to $2,500,000. Then Mr. Field threatened to withdraw his residence from Chicago entirely and thereby avoid paying 1 cent of taxes if the assessment was increased beyond this sum.

That this sworn returns of the Field estate show that the assessment should have been $17,000,000—$15,000,000 more than the assessment.

In all, Mr. Field dodged paying $3,000,000 in taxes to the community.

Knocking a Knocker.

There seems to be two sides to the fight on the mail order houses. The Ada, Mo., Star says:

"The other day a measly, penurious old skinflint wrote us a note urging us to go after the mail order houses a little bit stronger, saying that the farmers are spending thousands of dollars annually with these cheap John mail order concerns. This old 90 per cent credit system robber is a merchant who seldom ever advertises and never contributes a dollar for a public enterprise. He wrote the note sent us on a 'baking powder' tablet that is given with a cheap alum baking powder he sells on credit to his customers. If we should call on him for an ad he would probably say, 'I don't believe in advertising.' If called upon for a subscription to a public enterprise he would say, 'nobody gives me anything.' Poor old varmint, his supreme gall is all he can count on. Whenever that fails him he will wither and blow away. His measly carcass wouldn't make decent byzard food."

Interesting to Asthma Sufferers.

"I have had asthma for three or four years and have tried about all the cough and asthma cures on the market," says Daniel Bantz of Otterville, Iowa, "and have received treatment from physicians in New York and other cities, but got very little benefit until I tried Foley's Honey and Tar which gave me immediate relief and I will never be without it in my house. I sincerely recommend it to all." Sold by Smith & French Drug Co.

How to Break Up a Cold.

It may be a surprise to many to learn that a severe cold can be completely broken up in two or three days' time. The first symptoms of a cold are a dry, loud cough, a profuse watery discharge from the nose, and a thin, white coating on the tongue. When Chamberlain's cough remedy is taken every hour on the first appearance of these symptoms, it counteracts the effect of the cold and restores the system to a healthy condition within a day or two. For sale by Murchison & Beasley.

A Cool Room.

From the Kansas City Journal.

A man recently walked into a hotel at Checotah and asked for a room. In describing the kind of room he wanted he said: "I want a cool room. The weather is beastly hot and I would die in a close room."

"Waal," drawled the proprietor, without moving from his chair, "I've got a room where a man froze to death last winter. Is th-a-a-t co-o-o-l enough fer ye?"

SAW RIVERS JOINED.

A Fleet of Twelve Boats From Beaumont and Seven From Orange.

Beaumont, Tex., June 19—Beaumont, Orange and Port Arthur joined in celebrating the completion of the Sabine Lake Canal from the Sabine River to the Neches this afternoon, a fleet of twelve boats and about 300 people participating. The canal was used for the first time today by the sevenboats from Orange, being 200 feet wide and 13 feet deep. The boats arrived about noon, and after an inspection of the big dredgeboat George Sealy went into midstream, where they were lashed about the boat John Kirby, which was anchored. Ten shots were fired from the prow of the Orange boat El Capitan by Luther Stark when the program began. Speeches were made by Judge W. H. Pope of Beaumont, Col. J. W. Link of Orange, Mayor J. H. Drummond of Port Arthur, Col. R. C. Duff, Judge George C. O'Brien and Judge Hal W. Greer of Beaumont and A. M. Rutan of Port Arthur.

The utmost good fellowship prevailed and the occasion was in every way felicitous.

Quarreled Over Celebration.

Waco, Tex.: Tennessee Thompson and John Culberson are dead, both of them riddled with buckshot from double-barrel shotguns, and E. W. Huddleson and Jacob Thompson are in jail charged with the killing. All the parties are negroes. Tennessee Thompson was a farmer and John Culberson was a hired man. The shooting occurred this afternoon in East Waco. It grew out of a series of quarrels and fights as to the location of a 19th of June freedom observance arranged to have taken place here today. Huddleson, one of the prisoners, is a school teacher, and Thompson, the other prisoner, is his nephew. Tennessee Thompson, one of the dead men, was one of the wealthiest negroes in Central Texas. He was sitting in a buggy with his wife when he was slain. After the shooting Huddleson and Thompson surrendered to the police.

Hung From Willow Tree.

Marshall, Tex.: At an early hour this morning Charles B. Richter, an old German gardener, was found dead hanging to the limb of a willow tree on the R. M. Anderson place, just west of this city. The deceased, who was between 50 or 60 years of age, came here about five or six weeks ago and went to work for Mac Anderson, and said he came from Tyler. He was a good, hard worker, and on Saturday he complained of being sick and also on Sunday. This morning he was missed, and upon going to his room they found him gone, but his clothes were there. A search was instituted and he was found hanging to a limb dead, about 300 yards from the house.

Anti Won in Angelina.

Clawson, Tex.: The local option election in Angelina County came off on the 14th day of this month, the ground being thoroughly covered by each side, but anti-prohibition carried at almost every box in the county, the county going wet by about 206 votes majority.

Caldwell Revival.

Caldwell, Tex.: The revival being conducted at the Baptist Church by Rev. J. F. Black of Dallas, is still in progress. It has been going on for one week and much interest is being manifested.

Flattering Prospects Dimmed.

Madisonville, Tex.: The flattering prospects for an immense corn crop of a few weeks ago have all but vanished and unless it rains within four or five days this county will not make near enough to run it. Cotton is holding up well enough. Gardens have about dried up.

Ideal Fall Weather.

New Elm, Tex.: Weather still dry and hot; no prospects for rain. All gardens and corn burning up fast. Cotton will begin to suffer soon. Dry hot winds from north and northwest, cool nights—ideal October and November weather prevails.

Rogers Prairie Tragedy.

Madisonville, Tex.: Mrs. Johah Dickson's brains were shot out at Rogers Prairie, just over the line in Leon County Friday night. The parties are negroes and she had been separated from her husband some time. The negro charged with the crime has not been apprehended.

CHILD'S AWFUL SKIN HUMOR

Screamed with Pain—Suffering Nearly Broke Parent's Heart—Speedily Cured by Cuticura.

"I wish to inform you that the Cuticura Remedies have put a stop to twelve years of misery I passed with my son. As an infant I noticed on his body a red spot, and treated same with different remedies for about five years, but when the spot began to get larger I put him under the care of doctors. Under their treatment the disease spread to four different parts of his body. The longer the doctors treated him the worse it grew. During the day it would get rough and form like scales. At night it would be cracked, inflamed and badly swollen, with terrible burning and itching. When I think of his suffering it nearly breaks my heart. His screams could be heard down stairs. The suffering of my son made me full of misery. I had no ambition to work, to eat, nor could I sleep. One doctor told me that my son's eczema was incurable, and gave it up for a bad job. One evening I saw an article in the paper about the wonderful Cuticura and decided to give it a trial. I tell you that Cuticura Ointment is worth its weight in gold; and when I had used the first box of Ointment there was a great improvement, and by the time I had used the second set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent, my child was cured. He is now twelve years old, and his skin is as fine and smooth as silk. Michael Steinman, 7 Sumner Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., April 16, 1905."

GOTHAM GHOST.

In New York city there is one policeman to each 459 persons. New York's cemeteries, with their 3,155 acres of land, are sufficient for the burial of the city's dead, at the present death rate, for 150 years. Since Peter Minuit, in 1624, bought Manhattan island from the Indians for $24 in merchandise, there has been a daily average of 39 persons arriving in the territory now known as New York city.

If the sewers of New York city were placed end to end in a straight line they would reach from here to Pike's Peak, 1,710 miles, and the paved streets of the city would make a road along one side of them all the way.

If the wind that blew over New York city in one week recently should continue its way, at its average velocity, it would make the circuit of the earth and be back there the last week in August, for it moved at the rate of nine miles an hour.

"HE RAN FOR LAWYER."

But There Was a Doubt as to Whether He Had Ever Caught the Office.

A man from Pennsylvania went to Vineland on a business errand. The town was strange to him, and he was unacquainted with the man (a lawyer) he had gone to see. The directions he received were so indefinite that he found himself on the edge of the town without having come to the house he sought. Then he met an old negro and asked the way of him and learned that the house lay about a quarter of a mile farther down the road. "The man I want to see is a lawyer," he said to the old man. "Is this Mr. Dash down the road a lawyer?" "He ain't no lawyer that I ever heard tell of," answered the negro. "You're sure?" "The old negro scratched his head in deep thought. Then a gleam of remembrance lighted his eye. "Now I think of it, boss," he said, "pears like I do recollect he ran for lawyer one time."

"Many Good—One Best."

So many Oils and Liniments are advertised it is hard to decide which to buy. I tried a number before using Hunt's Lightning Oil. After using it once, however, I realized I had found the best there was, and it was useless to look further. If it falls it's "all off." No other liniment will hit the spot if Hunt's Lightning Oil falls.

Lloyd George, now a member of the British cabinet, was addressing a meeting in Wales, and his chairman said: "I half to introduce you to the member of Carnarvon boroughs. In my opinion, gentlemen, the bishop of St. Asaph is one of the biggest liars in creation; but he has his match in Lloyd George."

Sizeable Legal Fees.

One million dollars for a fee! That sounds like a big amount, and yet an assertion was made shortly after the supreme court made its decision which compelled the general government to pay $4,000,000 for the removal of the Cherokee Indians to Indian Territory that one-fourth of that amount was to be paid as a fee. It would not be strange, remarks the Washington Star, if the report was correct. When we remember the large fees that have been paid in Indian cases there is a natural inference that nothing is impossible in the way of fees when claims against the government are involved. Contracts have been made in Indian cases which meant that when the laws were enacted and the money paid that enormous fees were to be given the attorneys. The case of the Methodist church south is too vivid in the minds of men in Washington not to be recalled when other big fees are discussed. Here was a case where more than one-third of the whole amount collected was paid to the attorney, the fee being more than $100,000. There have been cases known where fees of $750,000 and perhaps larger in Indian claims cases were paid. Nowhere has the shrewd attorney fared so well as in the Indian claims. Sometimes there has been legislation seeking to protect the Indians and providing that no more than ten per cent. of the claim shall be paid to the attorney. But long before the legislation passed contracts were made which gave the attorneys these enormous fees.

City's Good Investment.

Father Knickerbocker has been very successful with all his real estate ventures, but never more so than in the case of Central park. Less than half a century ago the present Central park was a waste of rocks and swamps. The city of New York obtained control of the territory and issued bonds to the amount of $3,000,000 for the acquisition of the land. Bonds to the amount of $2,100,000 were issued at the same time for the improvement of the Central park. As this improvement progressed other bonds for $1,725,000, known as "Central park bonds," were issued, and still more were sold for the building of the arsenal in the Central park and for the reservoir there, bringing up the total amount of cost to the city of the Central park to $12,500,000. This was the "first cost," states the Sun, and an additional sum of $2,500,000 has been expended for construction and improvement of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the One Hundred and Tenth street and Eighth avenue entrance and sundry park buildings. In all $15,000,000 has been expended by the people of New York for the acquisition and improvement of Central park. The assessed value of the land included within the boundaries of Central park is now $185,000,000. As a matter of fact, the land included within Central park is probably worth $200,000,000.

Good of Playgrounds.

Playgrounds are necessary in every community for young and old. A few weeks ago the National Playground association was formed. Its chief mover, were not those primarily interested in sport, but educators and sociologists. In an address to the delegates, President Roosevelt said: "I owe my first interest in the playground question to Jacob Riis, when he spoke of the poor children who were not allowed to play in the streets, but had to play in the streets because they had no other place to play." Every town, even the small one, where the child and the young man are free from the terrible confinements of the city, knows that it is wise to provide a generous playground. Play is a right of youth. Just as sure as there is no appointed adequate field for games and romping, so sure are forbidden laws to show wear, and the windows in the barn to show broken lights of glass.

From sanguine San Francisco comes word of a common diet of bacon and eggs. It is the diet that does things. American wildernesses have been conquered, cities begun and mines opened on bacon with or without eggs. Armies have marched on the same ration, bringing relief to friends and trouble to foes. The frying of the fitch, as an essential incident of life on the plains and in the forest, throws savory suggestion from the pages of pioneer story and history.

LURE OF LOST TREASURE

MANY HUNTS IN PROGRESS

In all the world nothing stirs the blood or excites the imagination so much as a search for hidden treasure. In fiction or in fact nothing is so entrancing. Thrilling as are the treasure tales of Robert Louis Stevenson, tales just as thrilling are being enacted in truth in different parts of the globe to-day.

At present several interesting treasure hunts are under way. In the little bay of Tobermory, on the west coast of Scotland, a syndicate is endeavoring to reach the strong box of a sunken ship of the Spanish armada which plunged beneath those waters with wealth estimated at $15,000,000.

Efforts are being made to raise a British warship which was sunk in Balaklava bay during the Crimean war. Those at the head of this enterprise expect to reap a golden harvest of $3,000,000. In prosy England the marshes of the Wash are being explored for the royal jewels and treasure of King John, which were lost by him during his flight in 1216.

For some months an army of laborers has been digging for treasure on the island of Mauritius, once the resort of daring and successful pirates of the Indian ocean. Within the last 70 years no fewer than 15 gold-seeking expeditions have explored Cocos island, in the Pacific, and numerous deadly clashes have resulted in the search for the millions thought to be buried there. A search for treasure is going on there now.

Into almost every clime and to thrilling adventures the golden ignis fatuus of hidden treasure is luring men. Soldiers of fortune never wore more romantic or dramatic stories than those of the present searches for buried gold.

Seek Armada Treasure Ship.

At present a golden thread of romantic interest is being spun like a shimmering spider web over Tobermory bay, one of the loveliest inlets on the west coast of Scotland. This bay offers shelter to mariners and fishermen off the northwest corner of the Isle of Mull.

At that point a determined search is on for treasure, which, it is believed, has lain quietly under the water for more than three centuries.

A halo of romance and tradition surrounds the gold which is supposed to have gone down with the Admiral of Florence, or Florentia, the treasure ship of the Spanish armada, in 1588.

Legend has it that in September of that year a large Spanish galleon, the Florentia, in trying to avoid the storms and save the treasure on board until suitable weather made possible her escape southward, took refuge in the safe, land-locked bay of Tobermory.

According to reports, the Florentia had on board $15,000,000 in English money. The officers and men, who were starving, demanded food from the McLeans of Mull.

In return for supplies, after due negotiation, the admiral agreed to land 100 men to assist the McLean clan of Scotland, which at that time was at swords' points with the McDonalds. He was also to pay the McLeans a large sum of money as well if they would assist him to repair his ship.

This promise of money is taken to show the presence of a considerable quantity of specie on board and as the vessel was a flagship it is probable that she carried the treasure of the entire Armada.

The 100 men were landed and assisted in defeating the McDonalds. They were afterward allowed to return to the ship, but the McLeans held three officers as hostages until the debt be paid.

Kept Chieftain a Prisoner.

They also sent one of their chieftains, Donald Glas McLean, on board the vessel to collect the price agreed upon, but the Spanish admiral disarmed him and kept him a prisoner.

During the night, so the story goes, McLean discovered the position of the powder magazine. The next morning as the ship was getting under way the chieftain was brought on deck to take a last look at his native land. Breaking away from his captors, he rushed below and blew up the ship, perishing with most of the crew.

Since then a number of endeavors have been made to recover the treasure. In 1641 and again in 1655 the dukes of Argyll attempted salvage operations, but without success. In 1730 a diving bell was employed.

At that time a fine bronze cannon was recovered, with many gold and silver coins. Since then other guns and relics have been brought to the surface, but the strongroom supposed to contain the treasure has never been reached.

Among the articles already recovered are sword blades and scabbards, pistols, large and small; a peculiar taper-necked bottle of crude workmanship and bones of drowned Spaniards. The sword blades and scabbards were heavily incrustated with lime and the bottle covered with crustacea.

One of the early divers found that the deck of the vessel from the mizen mast forward was blown away and that cannon and other contents of the ship were scattered about for a distance of 20 yards. The poop from the mainmast aft, however, was intact. Here, it is believed, the treasure room is located.

Since then the vessel has settled considerably and a formation of sand and mud now covers it. To get through this wrecking crew is working under direction of Capt. William Burns, who has had considerable experience in salvage work.

Sand pumps are being used and the divers work by the aid of a 2,000-candle power electric light. They have brought up candlesticks, flagons, copper pans, coins, a gold ring and a number of metal and stone cannon balls.

It is believed that the wrecking crew has located the position of the strongroom and will in a short time be able to penetrate to the treasure. Half of all recovered, it is understood, is to go to the duke of Argyll, who owns the surrounding land, and the remainder to the Scotch company that is prosecuting the search.

Wealth Buried by Bonita.

In 1821, after the surrender of Donaja to the Liberator Iturbide, vast stores of government wealth were removed from the City of Mexico, Bonita. It is stated, managed to capture the treasure and hurried with his spoil to Cocos island, where he buried it.

The other "plant," called the Mary Dier treasure, was committed to the keeping of Cocos island by the crew of the ship of that name, which happened to be in the harbor of Callao, Peru, during a war upheaval.

All the treasures and plate of the cathedral and of the churches of Lima and the surrounding country were hurried to the Scotch ship Mary Dier. In addition many wealthy citizens placed their choicest possessions on the vessel. In all it is stated that the ship's unexpected cargo amounted in value to over $15,000,000.

This proved too much, tradition states, for the officers and crew. The guardians of the wealth were overpowered and the treasure was landed and buried on Cocos island until such time as it could be recovered and used.

Some time later the vessel and most of the crew were lost. The captain, named Thompson, made his way to Canada and died there. He communicated his secret to one Keating, who made several trips to the island and succeeded in recovering about $3,000 in golden doubloons.

Since then numerous exploring expeditions have visited the island. Only last year two of these came into conflict and a savage fight ensued. There have been other fights over the treasure.

Many Parties Hunt Treasure.

At present the island is guarded by Capt. Matthews, its governor and part owner. He is directing the search. Harold Gray, of Ireland, claims the concession to hunt the treasure, but the claim is combated by others. An armed expedition under Lord Fitzwilliams of England had a brush with the Gray forces last year and the Costa Rican government was compelled to send a gunboat to restore order. As far as known the Cocos island treasure remains undiscovered.

Most treasure hunts are being conducted by companies which provide capital as a speculation. Now and then, however, the story comes to light of some gold-dazzled individual who sinks all his possessions in chasing the golden will-o'-the-wisp.

One such man—William S. Meade—died recently, penniless and alone in New York. Early in life he made a fortune through an invention, but spent it all chasing the ignis fatuus of hidden treasure.

Meade asserted he had fallen heir to maps and directions that would lead to buried wealth that would run up into the millions. He purchased a large and expensive steam yacht, manned it with a large crew and machinery for raising sunken galleons supposed to be full of Spanish gold and soon after the civil war set sail for the south seas.

Disaster, wreck and privation fell to the lot of the first cruise and Meade and his companions were forced to return without a single find. More money was sunk in fitting out another expedition, but this, too, was a failure that ended in a shipwreck.

WINGED FLYING NEGRO.

When Fired Upon He Was Thought to Have Been a Murderer.

Jewett, Tex., June 18.—Yesterday morning, when No. 6 pulled into the station four shots rang in quick succession and after a short interval another. Upon investigation it was found that the night watchman and special policeman, Davidson, had attempted to arrest a couple of negroes who were beating their way on the train, when they broke, and the last shot brought one of them down. When Mr. Davidson got to him he had a bullet through his back, coming out just over the heart. He died in a few minutes. He was over 200 yards away when the last shot was fired.

Mr. Davidson had been notified to look out for a negro who had murdered his wife at Rogers Prairie Friday, and when the negro broke he supposed him to be the one who had killed his wife. However, on searching his body, it proved to be a negro who lived at Oakwoods and had been at work on the Fort Worth division of the International and Great Northern and was returning home.

The remains will be carried to Oakwoods for interment.

Even Mosquitoes Cry for Water.

Victoria, Tex.: The weather continues dry and hot with no indication for relief soon. Corn is literally burning up, and it is believed the crop will fall short of half a crop. Cotton, however, is doing nicely.

Cisterns are low, and, as a local scribe, Bro. Cooke of the Fact, expressed it: "Even the mosquitoes are calling for more water for bathing purposes and also to wet their whistles occasionally."

Brothers Arrested.

Laredo, Tex.: A pitiful story comes from Monterey of two American boys, brothers, who stopped off in that city while making their way out of Mexico. The elder, 18 years old, giving the name of Frank Debona, was arrested for some minor offense, and put to work on the streets for a term of fifteen days to pay his fine. His younger brother, about twelve years old, whom he left at the Mexican National depot, disappeared, and no trace has been found of him.

Rockport, Tex.: Misses Cathline, McMullin and Lucy Terry were out for a drive Saturday afternoon. A dog sprang barking at the horse, he became unmanageable and overturned the carriage. The ladies were not seriously hurt, although their friends would not have known them when they got on their feet after being dragged through the sand.

The carriage did not fare so well, the doctor said he found some pieces of it.

Brakeman Poe's Leg Broken.

Hearne, Tex.: Brakeman M. P. Poe on freight No. 21 sustained a broken leg and injuries about the hip and shoulder as the result of an oil tank jumping the track near Kossae yesterday evening. The train was made up here and was in charge of Conductor Lockhart.

The merchants did a nice business as the negroes were paid off by the planters, and they are preparing for their emancipation celebrations. Labor is being paid better this year than heretofore, and a great deal of money is in circulation.

Ship Canteoupes Despite Drouth.

Alvin, Tex.: The unprecedented drouth is still prevailing throughout this section. The oldest settlers say it is a record-breaker for this coast country.

But, notwithstanding a four-months drouth, the truck growers are making large express shipments of canteoupes. It is astonishing the way this section has withstood this drouth and the amount of truck that has been produced and shipped from here.

Kinky Rail Delayed Trains.

Cameron, Tex.: On account of a "kink" in a Santa Fe rail between here and Rogers the passenger trains were delayed several hours, till the rail could be taken out and a short one substituted.

Some Corn Badly Damaged.

Waller, Tex.: Very dry and dusty weather. Some corn is badly damaged. Unless we get rain in four or five days the corn crop will be a failure.

C. A. Menke has shipped about 400 head of fine heaves from this place to Kansas City in the last few days.

FOR MEAT INSPECTION

HOUSE COMMITTEE OPPOSES BEVERIDGE AMENDMENT.

Presents a Measure of Its Own, Which the President, It is Said, Will Oppose.

Washington—A meat inspection amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill has been completed by the house committee on agriculture, and will be known as the Wadsworth substitute for the Beveridge amendment. The important features of the legislation are that it places the cost of the inspection on the government and makes an annual automatic appropriation of $2,000,000 to pay the expenses.

President Not Pleased.

The president has set the seal of his unqualified disapproval upon the measure. Chairman Wadsworth sent a copy of the new proposition to the president, and he received from the president a letter in which the latter in unmistakable terms makes it plain that it is totally, absolutely and in every essential particular unsatisfactory to him. Mr. Roosevelt indicates an intention to veto the entire agricultural appropriation bill, of which it is a part, leaving the agricultural department stranded and opening up the possibility of an extra session.

The President's Letter.

Secretary Loeb has given out a summary of the president's letter, in which the secretary says:

"In the letter to Mr. Wadsworth the president stated that almost every change in the proposed house amendment was for the worse; that the president felt it would doubtless suit those packers who objected to a thoroughgoing inspection, but that he also felt it would, in the long run, be a heavy blow to the honest stock raiser and the honest packer; that the proposed amendment would gravely hamper the secretary of agriculture in doing the work he is appointed to do, and would simply defer the day when we could restore the foreign and interstate trade on the meat to a satisfactory position.

"The president has explained verbally that he is far less concerned with the question as to whether the packers or the government should pay for the inspection than with certain other features of the bill."

Wadsworth's Answer.

Representative Wadsworth, in his part of the correspondence, does not hesitate to take the president to task in a way such as has never before been known in the past decade. Mr. Wadsworth, in concluding his letter, says: "I regret that you, the president of these United States, should feel justified, by innuendo, at least, in impugning the sincerity and the competency of a committee of the house of representatives, if you have no warrant for it."

The majority of the committee, it is said, have determined to stand by Mr. Wadsworth and the substitute, while the friends of the Beveridge amendment have begun to organize to fight every line of the proposed substitute. That the speaker also stands with the committee is apparent.

AIRSHIP FLIES OVER WASHINGTON

Washington—An airship, under complete control, flew over Washington. It was navigated by Lincoln Beachy. The ship started from a point three miles out on the Virginia side. After twice circling the monument at a distance of 400 feet, it steered for the White House, where it landed 50 yards from the south portico. After remaining a short time, the navigator ascended, carrying his ship over the new capitol offices, and then took a straight course down Pennsylvania avenue to the capitol. The navigator finally brought his ship to the earth directly in front of the capitol.

PATRICK'S NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

United States Justice Day, at Canton, O., Grants a Stay Until October.

Canton, O.—Just as preparations were being made for the execution of Albert T. Patrick at Ossining, N. Y., for the alleged murder of Millionaire Rice, Justice Day, of the United States supreme court, in this city, issued a stay of execution, and Patrick is respite until October. He had been refused a new trial in New York.

Killed in Automobile Accident, Kansas City, Mo.—Mrs. C. P. Ratterson, wife of the president of the Bankers' Trust Co. of this city, was instantly killed, at night, when the large automobile in which she was riding with her husband, daughter and driver, L. A. Philippe, collided with two trolley cars at Fifth and Harrison streets, causing the gasoline tank on the machine to explode. The other occupants of the automobile escaped serious injury.

FOR JOINT STATEHOOD

OKLAHOMA AND INDIAN TERRITORIES TO BE ONE STATE.

Arizona and New Mexico Can Come In As One If Their People Say So.

Washington—Joint statehood for Oklahoma and Indian territory is assured. Arizona and New Mexico will vote on joint statehood in November, and a majority in each territory is required for acceptance. If either Arizona or New Mexico rejects the proposition, no constitutional convention will be held, and they will continue as territories.

The house and senate has adopted the conference report, and the measure has gone to the president for his signature.

Delegate Smith, of Arizona, who favored single statehood for Arizona, openly hinted at a bribe of $5,000,000 to carry through the successful measure. Speaker Cannon called Mr. Dazell to the chair, and made reply, at the conclusion of which members, regardless of party, crowded around the speaker and congratulated him.

There was not a single vote cast against the measure in the house.

[Reports from Oklahoma and Indian territories say there is great rejoicing over the prospects of immediate statehood. Telegrams from New Mexico and Arizona are that both territories will endorse joint statehood.]

LANDS OF THE CROW AGENCY.

Arrangements for Registration, to Begin June 14, Completed—Burlington Offers Low Rates.

Omaha, Neb.—The government has made all arrangements for the registration for the lands of the Crow reservation, which will be drawn July 2 at Billings. The registration dates are June 14 to 28 at Sheridan and Billings, and the Burlington has offered exceptionally low rates to those wishing to take a chance in Uncle Sam's big lottery.

The rate will be one fare for the round trip from nearby points, where the regular one-way fare is $20 or less. From all other Burlington route points it will be 75 per cent. of the one-way fare, but not less than $20. This will make the rate from Omaha, Kansas City and Denver much less than a fare for the round trip.

The tickets will be sold June 10 to 26 inclusive, with a return limit till July 10. All lodging places will be listed and committées at each town will meet the excursionists.

The mayor of Billings has wired the Burlington that everything will be done to take care of the registration crowd and he will take personal charge of the police force. Tents with board floors will be laid out in the streets, and booths will be constructed. The mayor says that Billings will be able to take care of 10,000 people at any time.

Sheridan has also advised the Burlington that complete arrangements are being made to take care of the crowds for registration. The location of every available room will be filed, while cots, bedding and tents sufficient to accommodate a small army will be secured from Fort MacKenzie. Fine camping grounds will be prepared. Hotels and eating houses are stocking up and will be prepared to take care of all that come. The police force is taking measures to eliminate all undesirable elements, such as thugs and gamblers. The Chamber of Commerce and city council are taking vigorous measures to insure registration visitors a safe and comfortable time at Sheridan.

Allege Peonage in Missouri.

St. Louis—Charged with working negroes to the limit of human endurance, and housing them in stockades, with armed sentries patrolling the prison walls at night, James Smith, Rex Smith, William Woods, Floyd Woods, Joe Washington, Jeff Fields and William Stone were arrested at Sikeston, Mo., by United States officers.

Amending National Banking Laws.

Washington—The bill amending the national banking law, with senate amendments, was concurred in by the house by a vote of 125 to 70. By terms of the amendment a national bank may loan to a single borrower a sum not in excess of 30 per cent. of its capital stock provided the surplus in twice the capital stock.

Death of Robert Roosevelt.

New York—Robert B. Roosevelt, aged 77, uncle of President Roosevelt, died near Sayville, L. I. Unlike his nephew, he was a democrat. Served as treasurer of democratic national committee during second Cleveland campaign; was minister to the Netherlands from 1888 to 1890, and was presidential elector several times.

Wm. J. Bryan.

St. Petersburg—Wm. Jennings Bryan, after a short stay in this city, during which he visited the Russian parliament, has departed for Stockholm.

"Be Pleasant Every Morning Until Ten O'clock; the Rest of the Day Will Take Care of Itself."

This is one of the best little sermons we know. Have you ever stopped to think that the morning is the time when your temper is usually ruffled, and have you ever stopped to think that the cause of bad temper in the morning is nearly always because your stomach has not been working properly during the night? It has contained a lot of indigestible substances that form gas and makes you have dreams. It breaks up your rest and you wake up in the morning tired, instead of refreshed, as nature intended you should.

Our grand sires required no admonition to "Be pleasant every morning until 10 o'clock; the rest of the day will take care of itself," for they digested their food and woke up full of life and energy ready for the day's duties, and this was because they lived on simple foods instead of highly seasoned palatable concoctions, which contain no nourishment. Nature gave us milk, wheat and eggs, and on these foods a person can live indefinitely, but if the milk is skimmed, and if the outside of the wheat is taken off the kernel, and if the lime, the salt, and the iron, which is in the outer part of the wheat berry, if these are all removed, you have simply starch alone; the starch goes into the stomach and becomes sugar.

Do you know that a person would starve to death on plain white bread and water? Do you know that he could live indefinitely on whole wheat bread or on whole wheat food and water? These interesting facts are all set forth in a book called "Back to Nature," which tells about proper living and gives recipes for meals of the simple kind—the kind that makes you strong and well; the kind that makes you "Pleasant every morning until 10 o'clock." This book is published at a great expense, but it is given free to every reader of this paper. It is an advertisement of "EGG-O-SEE," the great food—which is made from whole wheat, which is baked and predigested and is all ready to serve from the package you buy at your grocers. You get more life and energy from a 10-cent package of EGG-O-SEE than you will get from a thousand dollars' worth of white bread. This is no idle claim; it is a scientific fact. We want to tell about this simple food question, so write us and say "Please send me a copy of your book 'Back to Nature,'" and the book will be sent you at once without charge. Address EGG-O-SEE CO., No. 13 First Street, Quincy, Ill.

ORACULAR OBSERVATIONS.

Many a good resolution quickly runs down at the heel.

A pretty girl can teach a man most anything but good common sense.

It pays to look a mule in the face when you have anything to say to him.

About half of the things bought on credit would not be bought if cash were demanded.

Have you noticed that the bottom of a cup of joy that runs over is seldom far from the top?

It's a good deal better to think poetry than to write it, and better to write it than to print it.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hunt's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hunt's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. TONIC TREATMENT

Weak Stomach and Sick Headache Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The symptoms of stomach trouble vary. Some victims have a ravenous appetite, others loathe the sight of food. Often there is a feeling of weight on the chest, a full feeling in the throat. Sometimes the gas presses on the heart and leads the sufferer to think he has heart disease. Sick headache is a frequent and distressing symptom.

A weak stomach needs a digestive tonic and that there is no better tonic for this purpose than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is shown by the statement of Mr. A. C. Merrill, a mining man, of Oneals, Calif., a veteran of Battalion C, Third U. S. Regular Infantry.

"I had never been well since I left the army," he says, "always having had trouble with my stomach, which was weak. I was run down and debilitated. Could keep nothing on my stomach, and at times had sick headache so bad that I did not care whether I lived or died. My stomach refused to retain even liquid food and I almost despaired of getting well as I had tried so many kinds of medicine without relief. Then I was bitten by a rattlesnake and that laid me up from work entirely for a year, six months of which I spent in bed.

"One day a friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me and I began taking them. They cured me when all other medicine had failed. I have recommended the pills to a great many, for during my recovery every one asked me what was helping me so and I told them Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I cannot speak too highly of them."

If you want good health you must have good blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold by all druggists or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c. per box, six boxes for $3.50 by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

KNOWS NOW

Doctor Was Fooled by His Own Case for a Time.

It's easy to understand how ordinary people get fooled by coffee when doctors themselves sometimes forget the facts.

A physician speaks of his own experience:

"I had used coffee for years and really did not exactly believe it was injuring me although I had palpitation of the heart every day.

"Finally one day a severe and almost fatal attack of heart trouble frightened me and I gave up both tea and coffee, using Postum instead and since that time I have had absolutely no heart palpitation except on one or two occasions when I tried a small quantity of coffee which caused severe irritation and proved to me I must let it alone.

"When we began using Postum it seemed weak—that was because we did not make it according to directions—but now we put a little bit of butter in the pot when boiling and allow the Postum to boil full 15 minutes which gives it the proper rich flavor and the deep brown color.

"I have advised a great many of my friends and patients to leave off coffee and drink Postum, in fact I daily give this advice." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Thousands of physicians use Postum in place of tea and coffee in their homes and prescribe it to their patients.

PECK'S BAD BOY

The Bad Boy's Joke with a Stuffed Rattlesnake—He Tells the Old Groceryman About His Dad's Morbid Appetite.

BY HON. GEORGE W. PECK. (Ex-Governor of Wisconsin, formerly publisher of "Peck's Sun," author of "Peck's Bad Boy," etc.) (Copyright, 1904, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

THE old groceryman was sitting on the counter, with his legs stretched lengthwise, his heels resting on a sack of flour, and his back against a pile of wrapping paper, his eyes closed, his pipe gone out, and the ashes sifting from it on the cat that was asleep in his lap. The door opened and closed with a slam, and the bad boy came in with a long paper box, perforated with holes, slammed it on the counter beside the groceryman's legs and yelled:

"Wake up, Rip Van Winkle, the day of judgment has come, and you are still buried. You got to get a move on you or the procession will go off and leave you. Say, are you afraid of rattlesnakes," and the bad boy shook the paper box when an ominous rattle came from within, as though a snake had shaken its tail good and plenty.

"Great Scott, boy, I believe you have got a rattlesnake in that box," and he jumped off the counter and grabbed an iron fire poker, while the boy got out his knife to cut the string on the box. "Now, lookahere, I am suffering from nervous prostration and a snake turned loose in this store would settle it with me."

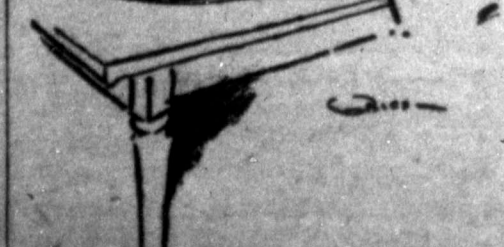

"Well, wouldn't that skin you," said the boy, as he sharpened his knife on a piece of old cheese, and felt of the edge. "Here you have been telling me for years what a brave man you were and how you were not afraid of anything that wore hair, and now you have us because of this rattlesnake, with only ten rattles on, makes a formal call on you. Gee, but you are a squaw."

"Now, let up until I wait on these customers," said the old man, as he went to the door and let in a committee of women who were to buy some supplies for a church sociable. The women lined up on each side of the store, looking at the canned things on the shelves, and the old man was trying to be polite, when the bad boy opened the box and laid on the floor a stuffed rattlesnake that was as natural as life, and touched a rattlebox in his pocket, and the trouble began. The women saw the snake curled up, ready to spring, and they all went through the door at once, tipping over everything that was loose, and screaming, while the old man, when he saw the snake, got into the front show win-size of it, and he would eat or die, and maybe he would die anyway, and just then a wicked-looking negro with a big oyster knife came to the table and looked ugly at dad and said: "Have another dozen?" and dad said: "Yes," and then he began to eat as though his life depended on it, and I could hear the great wads of oysters strike with a dull thud on exposed places inside of dad, and before he got up from the table he had eaten them all, and he told the man he would be in again to lunch after awhile. Dad is the bravest man I ever saw, and don't you forget it. He would have come out all right, I suppose, and lived, if it hadn't been for his devilish morbid appetite for travel and adventure. Quick as we got out of the oyster place dad wanted to take a steamboat ride down the river to the Eads jetties at the mouth of the river, and we went on board, and had a nice ride down to the mouth. After we had looked over the jetties, where Eads had made an artificial canal big enough for the largest ocean steamers to come up to New Orleans, the passengers wanted the captain to run the boat outside the bar, into the blue ocean, where the waves come from. Gee, but I hope I may live long enough to forget the down and trembled and yelled for the police. A policeman rushed into the store, and when he saw the snake he backed out of the door.

"Arrest that boy with the snake," said the groceryman.

"Come out of that wid your menagerie," said the policeman, shaking his finger.

"Come in and get the snake if you can," said the boy. "I don't want it any more, anyway," and he took the stuffed snake up by the head and laid it across his lap, and began to shake the rattles, and laugh at the groceryman and the policeman and the crowd that had collected in front of the store. The policeman came in laughing, and the old groceryman crawled out of the show window, and all breathed free again, and finally the policeman went out and drove the crowd away, and went on his beat again, after shaking his club at the boy, and the boy, the groceryman, the snake and the cat remained in the store. The groceryman took a swig out of a bottle of whisky to settle his nerve, and the boy took up his snake and pushed it towards the cat, which ran up a step ladder and yowled.

Put that confounded old stuffed snake in the ice box and sit down here and and tell me something. I saw your father on the street yesterday, and he is a sight. His stomach is twice as big as it was, and he looks troubled. What has got into him?"

"Well, I'll tell you; dad has got what they call a morbid appetite. Whatever you do, old skate, don't you ever get a morbid appetite."

"What is a morbid appetite?" asked the old man, as he peeled a banana and began to eat it.

"Scientists say a morbid appetite is one that don't know when it has got enough. Dad likes good things, but he wants all there is on the table. Now, at New Orleans, before we came home, dad and I went in a restaurant to get some oysters, and you know the oysters there are the biggest in the world. When we got there dad was hungry, and the thought of raw oysters on the half shell made him morbid. He had a blue-point appetite, and ordered four dozen on the half shell, for himself, and one dozen for me. Well, you would have dropped dead in your tracks if you had been there. Six waiters brought on the five dozen oysters, and each oyster was as big as a pie plate. Six dozen oysters would cover this floor from the door to the icebox. Dad almost fainted when he saw them, but his pride was at stake, and he made up his mind if he didn't eat them all the waiters would think he was a tenderfoot and so he started in. The first oyster was as big as a calf's liver, and nobody but a sword swallower could ever have got it down. Dad cut one oyster into quarters and got away with it, and after awhile he murdered another, and after he had eaten three he wanted to go home and leave them. Then is the time his little boy got in his work. I told dad if he didn't eat all the oysters the waiters and the people would mob him, that it was a deadly offense to order oysters and not eat them, and that they would probably kill us both before we got out of the place. He said: 'Hennerly, I don't like oysters like I used to, and it seems to me I couldn't eat another one to save my life, but if, as you say, we are in a country where a man's life is held so cheaply, by the great horn spoon, I will eat every oyster in the house, and the Lord have mercy on me.' I told him that was about the ride. We hadn't got a boat's length outside the bar before the boat began to roll and toss, and I held on to dad's hand, and wished I was dead. I told him my little tummy ached, and I wanted a lemon. Dad said my little tummy, with its three oysters in it, was not worth mentioning, and told me to look at him. Talk about your Mount Pelee and your Vesuvius, those volcanoes were tame and uninteresting compared to dad, leaning over the railing, and shouting words at the sharks in the water. Why, he just doubled up like a jackknife one minute and then straightened up like an elephant standing on his hind legs in a circus the next minute, and he kept saying: 'Ye-up,' and all the passengers said: 'Poor man.' I told them he was not so poor, for he owned a brewery at home.

Well, we finally got back to New Orleans, and dad took a hack to the hotel, and told the driver not to pass any saloon where there were oyster shells on the sidewalk. We came home next day. Well, I guess I will get my snake out of the icebox, and go home and comfort dad.

The Season.

"I've found out why they call supper dinner in town," said Uncle Rube, as he pulled off his mittens, unwound his scarf and sent Hiram out to put up old Mol. "When I was to the city you couldn't hear no dinner bell fer the noise and kept a waitin' till supper time come. But I got a sack of bananas, just the same."—Indianapolis

Mr. Gladstone's Cigarette.

"I never knew him to smoke but once, and that on the occasion of the prince of Wales dining with him in Downing street," says Sir Algernon West of Mr. Gladstone, in an article in the Cornhill Magazine. "With an old-fashioned courtliness, wishing to place his royal guest at his ease, he smoked a cigarette, which gave him more pain than pleasure; indeed, he hated the smell of tobacco."

Best Lens of All.

The isometropo lens, made by a French scientist from a combination of substances, is said to have enormous advantage over the ordinary lens used for spectacles. It has none of the greenish tint of the common lens, it can be made thinner, it has a larger focus, and it keeps out the injurious violet rays. It is, therefore, of greater utility for those suffering from defective sight than anything yet devised.

Beating the Loan Sharks.

Here is a godliness and goodness beautifully combined. Says the Washington Post: A pastor at Cleveland has devised a plan of loaning money, under terms of strictest secrecy, to members of his congregation in order to keep them out of the clutches of the loan sharks, and will charge no interest. That man is going to make himself mighty popular if he succeeds in showing that loans and salvation should both be free.

Water for Cows.

Experiments show that a cow, when in full flow of milk, drinks from 1,500 to 2,000 pounds of water a month, the average quantity, determined by testing a herd, being 1,660 pounds for each cow.

When William Makepeace Thackeray was running for a seat in parliament he chanced to meet his opponent a few days before the polling began. After a few minutes' friendly conversation, the obvious remark was made: "Well, may the best man win." "Oh, I hope not," was Thackeray's courteous reply as they shook hands and parted.

SOLDIERS' SUPERSTITION.

Soldiers facing death are naturally superstitious. Some of their superstitions are:

If a tent blows down the inmate will be killed in the next battle.

If the band plays a lively air while a regiment marches past a cemetery an epidemic is apt to break out among the troops.

If a soldier refuses to drink it is a sign he is going to be ill.

BEDROOM DON'TS.

Don't lie in the same position all night, turn from one side to the other. Don't doze all the evening, but if you are tired, give in to it and go to bed.

Don't cover your head with bed-clothes. Covers should be light, but warm.

Don't go to bed with cold feet. See to it that your feet are warm before you get in bed.

Don't sleep in too cold a room. From 55 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit is about the right temperature.

Don't go to bed with a sensation of hunger. Take any light, simple food you wish and that agrees with you.

Don't fill your bedroom with knick-knacks and draperies. Have it as plain, clean and dust free as possible.

Physical Impossibility.

INTERESTING LETTER

WRITTEN BY A NOTABLE WOMAN

Mrs. Sarah Kellogg of Denver, Color Bearer of the Women's Relief Corps, Sends Thanks to Mrs. Pinkham.

The following letter was written by Mrs. Kellogg, of 1628 Lincoln Ave., Denver, Col., to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"For five years I was troubled with a tumor, which kept growing, causing me intense agony and I was unable to attend to my house work, and life became a burden to me. I was confined for days to my bed, lost my appetite, my courage and all hope.

"I could not bear to think of an operation, and in my distress I tried every remedy which I thought would be of any use to me, and reading of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to sick women decided to give it a trial. I felt so discouraged that I had little hope of recovery, and when I began to feel better, after the second week, thought it only meant temporary relief, but to my great surprise I found that I kept gaining, while the tumor lessened in size.

"The Compound continued to build up my general health and the tumor seemed to be absorbed, until, in seven months, the tumor was entirely gone and I a well woman. I am so thankful for my recovery that I ask you to publish my letter in newspapers, so other women may know of the wonderful curative powers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of the female organs, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion or nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female ills.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years under her direction and since her decease has been advising sick women free of charge. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Remember that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing women, and don't allow any druggist to sell you anything else in its place.

Be it ordained by the city council of the city of Crockett that an election be, and the same is hereby ordered held on the first Tuesday in July, 1906, the same being the 3rd day of said month, for the purpose of electing one alderman to fill the unexpired term of W. A. Norris. Jas. Langston is appointed as manager of said election.

C. M. NEWTON, Mayor.

SAM H. SHARP, City Sec'y.

Complaint comes of the encroachment of the bayou on the public road north of town, on the Rusk road. Those familiar with the place say that if attention is not given the matter by the commissioner and overseer soon a new road will have to be built which will cost the county a great deal more than the cost of fixing the present road. There is a fence on one side of the road and the bayou on the other side, and the road is gradually crumbling into the bayou.

In the announcement column will be found the name of Marvin Ellis as an aspirant to the office of county attorney. Marvin is a product of Crockett and Houston county, having been reared here and having lived here all his life with the exception of several months at Ballinger this and last year. He is a graduate of the Southwestern University and a member of the Crockett bar. Although a young man, he has served as city attorney, which office he resigned last year.

THE GUN CLUB SHOOT.

Ballistite Cup Won by a Crockett Amateur—Rifle Goes to Mexia.

The highest average in the regular events for amateurs was won by Jackson of Mexia.

The score made by the professional class, shooting at 320 targets, was as follows:

Lednum, 268; Hubby, 309; Wade, 295.

The score made by the amateurs, shooting at 320 targets, was as follows, only the highest averages being given:

Jackson, 281; Carlton, 252; Atchison, 268; Cook, 280; Edmiston, 227; Jim McLean, 260; Howard, 280.

Colored Farmers' Congress.

TO THE EDITOR:

Will you please announce in your columns that a convention of Negro farmers is called to meet at Houston, Texas, July 4, 5 and 6, (reduced rates on all lines leading into Houston) to organize a Colored Farmers' Congress, with the object of increasing the efficiency of the Negro farmers of the State? Very respectfully,

E. L. BLACKSHEAR,

Principal Prairie View Normal and Industrial College.

Negro Excursionists Arrested.

In celebration of their emancipation, the negroes excorted to Palestine Tuesday in special coaches attached to the regular train, many availing themselves of the low rates offered by the railroad. The station was swarming with them before the arrival of the train and as they left they gave the cars the appearance of a string of martin boxes. The officers expected something to happen on the return of the train Tuesday night and were on hand to meet the crowd and see that order was preserved in a reasonable measure. It is said the negroes fought among themselves all the way from Palestine and they were still in an ugly mood when reaching Crockett. On getting off the train some of them became boisterous and otherwise bad, and the officers had to take the leaders in tow. Henry Gray, Armstead Arch and Alfred Bane were arrested by City Officers Waller and Brooks and Constable Deb Hale. The negroes did not submit without resistance and the officers were compelled to use their pistols as clubs on the heads of some of them. These three negroes were landed in jail, but made their bonds Wednesday morning, as they all had work. The sooner negroes learn that they will have to respect the law on any other day the better it will be for them.

Crop Prospects Bright.

Mr. J. V. Collins made an inspection last week of the crops in the southern part of the county and found them to be in the best shape he has ever seen them at this time of the year. He says fields are unusually clear of grass and that if good crops are not made this year indications count for nothing. He says he found no boll weevil depredations. The worst thing he found was the condition of the public roads over which the farmers will have to haul their crops this fall. There is one place especially where a bridge is lacking and Mr. Collins is of the opinion that it would pay the merchants of Crockett to build a bridge at this place if the county cannot do it. He says the trade of that immediate section has been going to Groveton and will continue to do so if a certain bridge is not built and built soon. The way it is now farmers have to travel many miles out of the way to reach a crossing when coming to Crockett, but have a straight road to Groveton. The COURIER believes that enough lumber has been wasted in Houston county during the past ten years to have a good bridge over the creeks at every public road crossing in the county.

The Very Best Remedy for Bowel Trouble.

Mr. M. F. Borroughs, an old and well-known resident of Bluffton, Ind., says: "I regard Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as the very best remedy for bowel trouble. I make this statement after having used the remedy in my family for several years. I am never without it." This remedy is almost sure to be needed before the summer is over. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? For sale by Murchison & Beasley.

All the COURIER wants in the race for governor is to see a capable man elected.

The COURIER hopes the ordinance against discharging fireworks, etc., will hold good until next Christmas day. Then if there is going to be any "turning loose" let it be at night so that those who desire to pass through town with teams in day time can do so without imperiling their lives.

At the meeting of the county executive committee Monday, a single primary and plurality rule was declared for. Another good thing the committee did was to declare for a white man's primary. The test is that all white men voting must obligate themselves to support the democratic ticket in the general election.

We are glad to see the city council sanctioning and encouraging the use of baby carriages on our sidewalks. We take it as displaying an unfriendly spirit toward any race suicide tendency. Baby carriages are good things and should be pushed along. Now if the city council will pass an ordinance compelling property owners to construct sidewalks in front of their property so that baby carriages may be pushed over them, they will reap the everlasting gratitude of a long-suffering public and it may prove an incentive to the use of more baby carriages. There are certain portions of our city where baby carriages are prohibited on the sidewalks, not by ordinance, but by the condition of the sidewalk. If the city fathers want to encourage the use of baby carriages, they should encourage the construction and maintenance of sidewalks.

The race for governor continues to narrow down to Bell and Campbell. Through this section of the country Campbell seems to be in the lead. The fight between these two candidates will be made in central and west Texas. The majority of the newspapers are for Campbell, especially in east Texas, which is decidedly in Mr. Campbell's favor. Colquitt and Brooks will bring up at the tail end of the ticket, for the reason that Colquitt's anti-prohibition prop has been knocked from under him and the prohibitionists would rather have Brooks on the bench than in the governor's chair.

The terms of neither Judge Brooks or Commissioner Colquitt have expired nor will they expire before another election, yet both of these gentlemen are canvassing the state for another office. It is all right for an official whose term is expiring to enter the campaign for re-election to that office or to another office, but when he has been placed in high position by the people it looks altogether bad for him to enter into a scramble for another office before the term of office with which he has been honored expires; and if he should enter the campaign for another office, he should resign the place of public trust he is holding.

The fact that certain corporation lawyers are supporting Judge Bell for governor is unfortunate for him. The COURIER does not believe that Judge Bell is the candidate of the corporations and it does not believe that the support of corporation attorneys is from his solicitation. We say this because Judge Bell has always been a friend of the railroad commission and was the author of the state's present anti trust law. And the fact that he is supported by the representative of the Pullman car interests in Texas ought not to injure him when it is considered that Mr. Colquitt was that representative's predecessor. Mr. Bell himself, unlike Mr. Colquitt, has never been the representative of any corporation and has a clean record.

The ordinance regulating the sale and providing for the inspection of fresh meats offered for sale in the city, as passed by the council last week and published in the COURIER, is a good one and a like ordinance should have been in effect before now. People don't know what they eat when a system of inspection is not in vogue. The COURIER heard several years ago of a grand jury investigating a case where some men were driving cattle through the county when a cow became sick and lay down in the road. The men tried to get her up, but failed. They killed the cow, loaded the meat in a wagon, brought it to town and peddled it out to the people. Those knowing of the affair brought the matter to the attention of the grand jury, but the guilty parties, who were transient, could not be located and of course went unpunished. No doubt much sickness and even deaths could be traced to diseased meat. The COURIER is always glad to see any measure adopted that will improve the sanitary and health conditions of the city.

DID HE DECEIVE THEM?

It is not a question of whether Commissioner Colquitt was a prohibitionist nineteen years ago and is now an anti-prohibitionist, or whether he was an anti-prohibitionist nineteen years ago and is now a prohibitionist. Every man has a right to change his mind on any question. If a man finds that he is on the wrong side of a question, his manhood and honesty of conviction should prompt him to get on the right side. Many good men who were prohibitionists nineteen years ago are now anti-prohibitionists and many good men who were anti-prohibitionists then are prohibitionists now. That is not a question affecting Candidate Colquitt. The question is, Did he try to deceive some of his supporters? The evidence seems to prove that he did. The Houston Chronicle says: "The Kaufman Sun, published in the home county of Hon. O. B. Colquitt, in its issue of Friday, June 15, shows that nineteen years ago Mr. Colquitt was one of the most 'consistent prohibitionists' in the state. At that time Mr. Colquitt not only supported the prohibition constitutional amendment, but advocated prohibition in the columns of his newspaper, the Times-Star. He was also county chairman of the prohibition forces and as such the official head of the prohibition movement in Kaufman county." Mr. Colquitt says that he did vote for local option once, saw the law go into effect, became disgusted with its results, carefully considered the matter, and made up his mind that prohibition was wrong in principle and vicious in practice. Which leads the Kaufman Sun to comment on his statement as follows: "Now, where did he see local option go into effect? Surely not in Kaufman county, for local option never passed here until about three years ago, and if he observed its operation in other counties, he might have seen its effect before as well as after 1887." State Topics, a paper published at Austin, says that Mr. Colquitt had told its editor that he once voted for local option. Yet in its issue of May 13th, according to the Kaufman Sun, State Topics says: "Mr. Colquitt should be their (the anti-prohibitionists) logical candidate, for he has ever been an anti-prohibitionist, and has never once wavered in his support of the anti cause." The editor of State Topics is a personal friend of Mr. Colquitt and it seems that he was deceived as to the latter's record. Hon. Jake Wolters of Houston says that Mr. Colquitt had deceived him as to his record on the question. Whether that be true or not, the fact remains that Mr. Colquitt supported the prohibition constitutional amendment in 1887, which was defeated. He now says that he is an anti-prohibitionist, and in explanation of his change of mind says that he once voted for local option, saw the law go into effect, became disgusted with its results, carefully considered the matter, and made up his mind that prohibition was wrong in principle and vicious in practice. All of which would have been all right had he not tried to deceive his friends as to the facts.

Not the Kind he Wanted.

A smart young fellow called out to a farmer who was sowing seed in his field, "Well done, old fellow, you sow, I reap the fruits." "Maybe you will," said the farmer, "for I'm sowing hemp." —Harper's Weekly.

There's a Reason.

Our harness is the best. Why? We do our own manufacturing and buy nothing but the best material. We use nothing but California leather and the skill of our workmen is above the average. Our machinery is the latest improved and our stitching never comes loose—it lasts as long as the leather. Our bridle bits are of the latest pattern and our assortment of whips and spurs is the best. CUTS OFF TRAVELING MONEY.

Minority Leader Williams Made Motion Which Deprives Chief Executive of Nice Allowance.

Washington, June 9.—When the item of appropriating 25,000 for the traveling expenses of the president was reached in the sundry civil bill, which the house had under consideration, Mr. Williams of Mississippi made a point of order against it.

In explanation of his course, he said that he regretted that there was a republican president in the White House. If there was a democratic president in the White House, he would make the objection with still greater force and then his motives could not be impugned. We wanted it understood his objection was general in character.

Discussing salaries paid government officials, he was of the opinion that in some respects the salaries of the cabinet officers were too low. He knew the vice president's salary was too low, as was the salary of the speaker of the house. He thought the salary paid a member of congress also too low and cited his own case to show how many duties absolutely correct were put upon him. But as for the president he believed his salary was sufficient.

Then touching another phase of the question, Mr. Williams thought there was too much traveling about, not only by the president but by members of congress. While he could not accept as final the statement that the president was the people's hired man, he said that in some particulars it was truth with a limitation.

"He and you and I are the hired men of the people and it seems to me that our business is in Washington when congress is in session."

State Press thinks that our railroad commission and state courts should get out of politics. The Chronicle can say amen to that. It is evident that all judicial bodies should be freed from every influence that might possibly taint justice.—Teague Chronicle.

The bench and the commission have not been elevated above busy scrambling or hot politics this year, but the chances are a hundred to one that not for twenty years will any hold-over judge or hold-over commissioner again offer for another office without first sending in his resignation. The people are decidedly opposed to a candidate hanging on to one good thing while seeking another good thing. This cannot be denied, and already it is of such importance that the hold-over-and-still-running candidates are explaining and declaring that they have precedents for their action. Precedents amount to little in such cases as are now under consideration; but not one of the precedents cited fits the present cases. Nobody objects to the man holding the office of commissioner standing for re-election, or a judge declaring himself a candidate for re-election; but many would except if Commissioner Storey, for example, should announce himself a candidate for re-election as a commissioner and as a candidate for governor also; or to Judge Henderson, for example, declaring his candidacy for re-election, and then adding that he was also a candidate for governor at the same time. This is virtually the situation in which Commissioner Colquitt and Judge Brooks find themselves as far as the chances and possible results go. They must win whether they lose or not. Their present offices lap over, and, in refusing to resign them, they are in effect taking advantage of chances and certainties that none of the men in any of the "precedents" cited ever took advantage of. The News regrets that they failed to resign their present offices when they first announced themselves candidates for governor, because the News cannot in good conscience approve the double-chance and sure-thing politics; aside from the necessary neglect of official duties and the discredit that such contests in hot politics are apt to bring, and quite sure to bring, upon the judicial offices.—State Press in the Galveston News.
