NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE. Crockett People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kid- ney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal. You can use no better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's Crockett proof:

J. A. Jeanes, of Crockett, Texas, says: "I had kidney and bladder trouble for several years. I was obliged to void the kidney secretions four or five times during the night, and the passages were also very painful. Another symptom of my trouble was a pain across the small of my back. Several months ago, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from I. W. Sweet's drug store, and since then I have been in much better health. This remedy certainly lives up to the claims made for it."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

HUNDRED DOLLARS A BALE FOR COTTON

August Sold at Twenty Cents Per Pound, the Highest Price Since the Civil War.

BROWN CHECKED THE ADVANCE
By Offering a Hundred Thousand Bales at the Top Price.

New York, August 29.—August cotton sold at 20 cents a pound in the New York cotton market today on urgent demand from speculative shorts who had postponed covering until the last minute in the hope that the increasing new crop movement might break the control of the bull leaders.

This price is the highest reached for cotton for any delivery since the civil war and exceeding by nearly 24 cents per pound the highest figures reached in the famous bull year of 1903-04, which until now had stood as a standard of comparison and was regarded by many as the culminating of the bull movement in progress here for the last six months during session, which, when it ends next Thursday, will go down as the most spectacular in the annals of the cotton trade since the civil war.

Not a great many bales, perhaps 15,000, actually changed hands on the advance from 16.82 cents, the closing price of last week, to 20 cents for August this morning. At 20 cents an offer from W. P. Brown, one of the bull leaders, to sell 100,000 bales checked the upward movement, and it was the general impression in the ring that this was a level fixed in the open market as a basis for settlement of the entire August interest remaining.

PRICE RALLIES SECOND TIME.

Later, however, this view of the situation was somewhat shaken by the fact that, after reacting from 20 cents to 18.20 cents under scattered selling of a few hundred bales, August again advanced on renewed buying by shorts, touching 19.90 cents in the afternoon or within 10 points of the high record. At the close August was quoted at 19.75 cents bid, while new crop months, which had been very quiet all day, were only 4 to 9 points net higher.

In the local spot markets the prices were marked up to 19.75 cents, but the Southern markets showed no such gain, the greatest advance recorded being 3-8 cent at Savannah, showing the local character of the extensive advance.

No one has attempted any accurate figure on the profits of the big bull leaders, Brown, Eugene Seales and Frank B. Hayne, all of whom are under indictment charged with conspiring in restraint of trade in connection with the bull pool. James A. Patten of Chicago is included in the indictment, but in view of his repeated announcement of retirement, he was not generally considered a party in to-day's transactions.

HAVE HANDLED 800,000 BALES.

In all the bull leaders have handled spot cotton to the amount of 800,000 bales, valued approximately at $65,000,000. But the bulk of this has been shipped abroad and just how much of it has been actually sold and how much of it may now be held on consignment at foreign points is uncertain. Inasmuch, however, as the bulls have handled contracts for many thousand bales in excess of those for which they have actually received cotton. They have undoubtedly taken large speculative profits, no matter how their deal may turn out when their last bale of spot cotton has been sold. In the New York stock they still own about 100,000 bales.

Rumors circulated in the trade after the close of the business today were that there was still a considerable August short outstanding which has until noon Wednesday to cover. At that hour trading in August is over and with it ends all business in the old crop season of 1909-1910. For the last three or four months the bull campaign in the old crop, although based chiefly on the fact that the crop grown during normal requirements has had the encouragement of very unfavorable reports from the coming crop and predictions that the world was facing a future inadequate supply. Naturally another short supply following a year of curtailment and procrastination in purchases of both raw material and finished goods might mean another season of extremely high prices and this expectation has undoubtedly encouraged the bull traders in their policy of carrying spot supplies forward into the new season.

Charles Collins Stokes.

How forcefully have we had this truth, uttered thousands of years ago, brought home to us: "In the midst of life we are in death." Only a few short weeks ago, our Brother Teacher and Assistant Superintendent, Charles Collins Stokes, lived and wrought; today he has passed into

"That endless, stirless rest.

That change which never changes."

Human knowledge can not fathom the essence of things. If we could read all the meaning that there is in a single strain of music, we could translate the infinite harmonies of the Universe. We can not know our most intimate friend, only a few manifestations of him.

The ulterior essence that makes all things a unit, our finite minds fail to grasp.

While we feel assured that this sorrow of separation serves some wise purpose, we may fail to catch the deepest meaning, and yet there is a spiritual instinct within us that seeks to justify its existence and to find in it a ministry.

It is our privilege at this time to speak of Brother Stokes, not as a friend, though he was friendly, not as a man, though he was manly, but as a teacher and a Christian.

As co-worker in our church and Sunday school he adorned, we wish to show honor where honor is due.

Therefore be it resolved: First, that in the death of Brother Stokes, the Methodist Sunday School loses a member prominently capable, whose knowledge of the Bible and teachings of a Sunday school was extensive, whose intellectual culture was of an unusual degree, and whose wise counsels were full of wisdom. His extraordinary ability as a teacher, placing him among the best teachers of the country.

He was ever faithful and on the alert to promote the highest interest of his pupils, raising the standard by precept and example, wherever his watchful eye perceived a possible ascent. His exalted conception of the Christian duties is a matter of our emulation.

Resolved, second, that our sincerest sympathy be extended his wife and family.

Resolved, third, that a page on our Sunday School record be dedicated to his memory, and a copy of these resolutions be spread thereon.

Resolved, fourth, that a copy of these resolutions be furnished our county papers for publication, and that a copy of same be sent to the family of deceased.

Suit to remove cloud from plaintiff's title to the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit:

Situated in Houston County, Texas, about 11 miles west from the city of Crockett, being a part of the J. R. Burlison survey, same being the Wm. A. Bynum 160 acre tract out of said Burlison survey, and being the north half of a 320 acre tract out of said Burlison survey known as the Oliver tract, all of which is a part of the J. R. Burlison 1048 acre survey, and bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at the N. W. corner of the S. half of said 320 acre tract, a red oak 14 in. dia. — 36 E. 5 vrs. Thence N. 35 W. with the Fernando del Valle 11 league line, at 645 1-2 vrs, corner on the Box or J. R. Smith 185 acre tract. That plaintiff claims title to said land under a chain of title as set out in said original petition. Plaintiff also alleges that he and those through whom he claims title to said land have had peaceable and adverse possession of the same, cultivating, using and enjoying the same under title and color of title from the sovereignty of the soil, for a period of more than three years, next, before the commencement of this suit.

Plaintiff also alleges that he and those under whom he claims title to said land have had peaceable and adverse possession of the same, cultivating, using and enjoying the same under deeds duly registered and paying all taxes due thereon for a period of more than five years, next, before the commencement of this suit.

Plaintiff also alleges that he and those under whom he claims title to said land, claiming to have a good and perfect title thereto have had peaceable and adverse possession to the same for a period of more than ten years, next, before the commencement of this suit, cultivating, using and enjoying the same and in addition to his title as set out in his petition he claims title to said land under and by virtue of the statute of limitation of three years, the statute of limitation of five years and the statute of limitation for ten years.

That the loss of deeds and records and the pretended claim set up by defendants, the nature of which is unknown to plaintiff, creates a cloud upon the title of plaintiff to said land which he seeks to have removed by this suit.

You are further commanded to serve this citation by publishing the same once in each week for eight successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in a newspaper published in your county; but if no newspaper is published in said county, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published.

BOUNTIFUL CORN CROP

THE VALUE OF 1909 YIELD GIVEN AT $1,720,000,000.

COTTON HAS SECOND PLACE

Wheat Ranks Third in List, Hay Fourth and Oats Fifth—Large Potato Yield.

Washington.—"It has paid off mortgages, it has established banks, it has made better homes, it has helped to make the farmer a citizen of the world, it has provided him with the means for improving his soil and making it more productive." In the statement that follows concerning the crop quantities and values for 1909 no figures should be accepted as anticipating the final estimates of this department, to be made later. Only approximates can be adopted, such as could be made by any competent person outside of this department. "The most striking fact in the world's agriculture is the value of the corn crop of 1909 in the country. It is about $1,720,000,000.

"This corn came from the soil and out of the air in 120 days—$14,000,000 for one crop, nearly enough for two Dreadnoughts, daily for peace or war.

"The value of this corn crop is the highest on record. In quantity of production this year's crop stands second with 2,767,000,000 bushels.

"Cotton is now by far the second crop in value, and this year's crop is easily the most valuable one to the farmer that has been produced. With cotton lint selling at 13.9c at the farm Nov. 1 and cotton seed selling for about $25 per ton, the lint and seed of this crop are worth about $850,000,000 to the farmer.

"There have been three cotton crops of more than 13,500,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, the first one being in 1904, and commercial expectations are that the crop of this year will be below the figure of the five years preceding.

"Third in order of value among the crops is wheat, worth about $725,000,000 at the farm, and this exceeds all previous values by a large amount. In 1901 and in 1906 slightly larger crops of wheat were produced, so that the yield this year, 725,000,000 bushels, is third in size.

"For years hay and wheat disputed with each other the honor of the place next after cotton in value, but this year the separation is distinct, and hay, with its value of about $665,000,000, is considerably below wheat and far below cotton.

"The quantity of the hay crop is 64,000,000 tons.

"The fifth crop in order of value is oats, worth this year at the farm about $400,000,000, which is considerably above high water mark. In production this crop is very nearly a leader with its 984,000,000 bushels, and would have been a leader had not the crop of 1902 been about 4,000,000 bushels larger.

"This year's crop of potatoes is more valuable than any one before produced and is worth about $212,000,000. The large production is what makes the crop so valuable a production, that has not been equalled—it is 367,000,000 bushels."

Planting Cabbage Crop.

San Benito, Tex.—Great preparations are being made to plant an enormous cabbage crop this season. Fully 2,500 acres of this article will go in, which will mean about that number of cars of cabbages the coming spring. The cabbage crop here last year was very successful and brought big returns to the farmers. The cotton crop is about half gathered, and the gin has ginned in the neighborhood of about 1,200 bales.

Forest Fire Dead.

Spokane, Wash.—Following are the revised figures on the forest fire dead: United States forest employes, 11; loggers and settlers, St. Joe Valley, Idaho, 50; at Bullion mine, Montana, fire fighters, 8; at Wallace, Idaho, 4; at Newport, Wash., 3; at Mullan, Idaho, and Spokane, 3. Total, 204.

Reno Copper Bottomed.

Reno, Nev.—Workmen doing street work on Lake street, in the very center of Reno, Thursday uncovered a ten-foot ledge of copper. Several hundred pounds of the metal was extracted. It was nearly solid ore. The ledge is apparently permanent and was encountered ten feet from the surface.

Tax Rolls Received.

Harrison A. Sturtevant, G and Maple Sts., Tulare, Cal., says: "I was in bad shape with kidney trouble. ### Why He Was Sorry.

To impress on young children just what should and what should not be done and why, is among the most trying problems of parents, as evidenced by the recent experience of a West Philadelphia mother. Last Sunday she asked her small son, aged 8, to carry a chair for her from the dining room to the parlor. He started off willingly, but in the hall he tripped and fell. Amid the crash could be heard the boy giving vent to utterances that would have done credit to a pirate of ancient days. The mother was taken by surprise and was greatly shocked. She gave the boy a long and serious talk on the subject of profanity. This apparently did not make the right impression, for when she concluded the boy added to her discomfiture by exclaiming, "I am sorry I swore, mamma, but I forgot it was Sunday."

IN AGONY WITH ECZEMA

"No tongue can tell how I suffered for five years with itching and bleeding eczema, until I was cured by the Cuticura Remedies, and I am so grateful I want the world to know, for what helped me will help others. My body and face were covered with sores. One day it would seem to be better, and then break out again with the most terrible pain and itching. I have been sick several times, but never in my life did I experience such awful suffering as with this eczema. I had made up my mind that death was near at hand, and I longed for that time when I would be at rest. I had tried many different doctors and medicines without success, and my mother brought me the Cuticura Remedies, insisting that I try them. I began to feel better after the first bath with Cuticura Soap, and one application of Cuticura Ointment.

"I continued with the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and have taken four bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, and consider myself well. This was nine years ago and I have had no return of the trouble since. Any person having any doubt about this wonderful cure by the Cuticura Remedies can write to my address. Mrs. Altie Etson, 93 Inn Road, Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 16, 1909."

Little, but Oh, My!

Senator Smoot of Utah tells a story on the late E. H. Harriman, which sounds somewhat familiar. He says that when the Salt Lake cut-off was completed Mr. Harriman took a large party of big railroad men out to it. They had their pictures taken at the right spot scenically. Mr. Harriman stood at one end of the group. When the pictures were printed and the photographer brought them around the railroad men examined them.

"Why," shouted one of the guests, "where's Mr. Harriman?" "Do you mean that little chap that stood at the end?" asked the photographer. "Why, I cut him off."

How Lightning Splits Trees.

Lightning makes trees explode, like overcharged boilers. The flame of the lightning does not burn them up, nor does the electric flash split them like an ax. The bolt flows through into all the damp interstices of the trunk and into the hollows under its bark. All the moisture at once is turned into steam, which by its immediate explosion rips open the tree. For centuries this simple theory puzzled scientists, but they have got in right at last.

Lemons Cure Malaria.

Lemons are said to be an infallible cure for malaria. This is the method of preparation: Take one lemon, wash thoroughly with a brush and hot water till all germs are gone, cut in very small pieces, using skin, seeds and all; cook in three glasses of water till reduced to one, and take this while fasting. A cure is generally effected within a week.

All the Difference.

The professor was delivering an eloquent address on cruelty to animals, and, to illustrate how a little judicious forethought would eliminate to a great extent the sufferings that even small insects are subject to, said:

"As I was coming through the hall tonight I saw a bald-headed gentleman very harshly treat a little innocent house-fly which had alighted on his head.

"Now, if there was any justification for such bad temper, I would be quite justified in indulging in it at the present moment, for a fly has just alighted on the back of my head. I can't see it, but I can feel it.

"Possibly some of you can see it now; it is on the top of my head. Now it is coming down my brow; now it is coming on to my— G-r-r-reat pyramids of Egypt, it's a—wasp!"

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. ### DOMESTIC.

W. G. Crush, general passenger agent of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway, Friday applied to the railroad commission for a readjustment of the passenger traffic applying on party rates with especial reference to the handling of theatrical companies and their baggage. The show season will soon begin and the companies desire a readjustment of the regulations for handling them.

At the door of such men as Senators Carter and Heyburn and Representatives Mondell of Wyoming, Gifford Pinchot, the maker of the forestry, in severe arraignment Friday lays the grave responsibility for the terrible devastation by fire, the waste of timber land and the financial loss of several hundred human lives.

Five men were killed and one badly injured when two heavy freight trains on the river route division of the Missouri Pacific collided head-on near Black Water, Missouri, Friday.

The entire business section of the town of Era, twelve miles southwest of Gainesville, Tex., was completely wiped out by fire Friday with the exception of one drug store, which was badly damaged. The buildings were all frame, built close together, and with no water protection with the exception of deep wells and buckets, the town soon fell a victim to the flames.

The congressional committee which has been investigating the Gore bribery charges and the McMurray land contracts completed its work in Oklahoma Friday and adjourned to meet in Washington in November. The committee has taken testimony that will fill two printed volumes.

Fifteen thousand employees of the Amoskeag cotton manufactories were thrown out of work Saturday at Manchester, N. H., when seventeen mills of the plant closed for a period of fifteen days. Curtailment of production is the reason for the shutdown.

The scholastic census and the state apportionment of the available school fund of each county for the scholastic year beginning Sept. 1, 1910, has just been tabulated by the state department of education at Austin. For the past scholastic year there were 949,006 children of scholastic age and the per capita apportionment was $6.25, making the total apportionment of the state available school fund, $5,931,287.50. The total scholastic population for the ensuing scholastic year is 968,267, an increase of 19,261, and the per capita apportionment is $6.50, making a total state apportionment of the available school funds of $6,293,735.50, an amount exceeding the state apportionment of the outgoing scholastic year by $362,448.

Seeking to obtain an additional fee amounting to about $26,000 in the Cherokee Indian land cases, Wiley Cox and Edward T. Scarritt, St. Louis lawyers, have filed a suit in mandamus in the supreme court of the district to compel Secretary of the Treasury Franklin MacVeagh and United States Treasurer Lee McClung to reopen the litigation involving the payment of $4,937,036.16 to the Indians in accordance with the act of congress in March, 1903.

The freight rate between Oklahoma City and Northern Texas will be reduced Aug. 31 on the Frisco according to a statement given out Friday.

Attorneys for three former high officials of the Illinois Central Railroad, Frank B. Harriman, formerly general manager; John M. Taylor, storekeeper, and Charles L. Ewing, superintendent of the lines north of the Ohio River, received a setback on the first day of their criminal trial in Chicago Friday, when Judge Bruggemeyer refused the defendants a bill of particulars for a change of venue. The men are charged with participating in frauds by which the railroad company is alleged to have been mulcted out of more than $1,000,000 through inflated car repair bills.

For the fourth consecutive time, and for the sixth time in his career as a tennis player, Wm. A. Learned of Summit, N. J., Thursday won the challenge cup of the singles championship of the United States, defeating Thomas C. Bundy of Los Angeles, on the Casino courts at Newport, R. I., 6-1, 5-7, 6-0, 6-8, 6-1.

Divining Rod 200 Years Old.
Winslow W. Fifield of Medford, Mass., owns a metallic divining rod brought from England more than two hundred years ago by one of his ancestors. The rod, says Mr. Fifield, has been used successfully all over New England and in the western mining districts. It is attached to whalebone handles 12 inches long and weighs two ounces. The handles have inscriptions on them which are almost obliterated by age.

The person who brought the rod to America was Isaac Greenleaf, who settled in Massachusetts. The rod became famous as a finder of water. After marking the place of many springs the rod was used in California, Colorado and North Carolina for locating by men in quest of gold mines and other metals. One person who used it with particular success was a blind man, in whose hands the rod is said to have done marvels.

A Strong Preacher.

The minister's eight-year-old daughter was returning with her parents from church, where the district superintendent had that morning occupied the pulpit.

"Oh, father," asked the little girl, her face alive with enthusiasm, "don't you think Brother C. is a very strong preacher? I do."

Gratified by this evidence of unusual intelligence on the part of his offspring, the minister eagerly inquired into her reasons for her statement.

"Oh," replied the little miss, artlessly, "didn't you see how the dust rose when he stamped his feet?"—Judge.

The Counterfeit Southerner.

Of course, there are many counterfeits. A most amusing imitation is one that often passes for the typical southerner in New York. This satchel-mouthed braggart infests the cafes and demands attention by his abusing the waiter for offending his delicate sense of honor. "I hate a nigger, suh," he loudly proclaims, which is a sentiment that one never hears from those of the manner born. He haunts the theaters and parades the streets, since it is poor fun to practise his gentility in private.

He wears a wide black hat, mounts the table and yells whenever the band plays a southern melody. Such a pretentious caricature would be harmless enough, but for the ridicule he brings upon the south. Unfortunately, popular authors seem to accept him at face value and exploit him in novels or plays where a "southerner" is a necessary part of the stage machinery.—Everybody's Magazine.

Wasted Sarcasm.

The Philadelphia milk dealers who recently raised the price of their product to nine cents a quart and then lowered it again to eight appear to have been the subjects of a great deal of unjust censure. They announced at the time of the raise that milk could not be sold at eight cents without loss. Finding that the consumers would not pay the new price, however, they are continuing to sell at the old, thereby qualifying as genuine philanthropists. Every purchaser of milk at eight cents a quart will doubtless hereafter feel that he is an object of charity.

Hoodwinking Clergymen

When a small clique of men put up a scheme to harness the clergy of America and induce the ministers to, in turn "hitch up" the members of the churches, we should all take notice.

They couldn't harness the preachers in a bad cause except by deceiving them.

Ministers of the gospel are essentially and fundamentally honest but, like all men who work for the public good, they are at times misled by false statements.

Trust them when they have exact truth to speak from.

Now for the story which should interest every one for we are all either receivers of wages or we pay to wage earners and the freedom of each individual is at issue.

In various papers the following statement has been printed. Read it carefully at least twice.

"Interest in Labor Sunday.

"Labor Sunday—the Sunday preceding Labor day—will be observed generally this year and in future years throughout the United States. This because of the American Federation of Labor declaration for the observance of that day. The numerous letters recently received at American Federation of Labor headquarters from ministers is an assurance that interest in the idea of giving special attention to the cause of labor from the pulpit one day in the twelve months is widespread. Our readers are urged to try to bring about an understanding in their respective districts with representatives of the church so that ministers will make addresses that may attract trade unionists to the churches in large numbers for the day. Ministers should say what they think on the occasion in order that their trade union hearers may put the right estimate as to where the church stands on the question of the organization of labor. The more the subject is discussed the better will it be for labor. Union ethics are sound.—American Federationist."

Observe that "Labor Union" men "are urged" to induce ministers to make addresses that will attract trade unionists to the churches "for the day." "Ministers should say," etc., and winds up with "Union ethics are sound," observe the hidden threat. This is clipped from the American Federationist the organ of Sam Gompers, et al.

This clipping has been sent to papers throughout the country and the Typographical Union men in the newspaper offices instructed to "urge" that it be printed.

That is one of the ways of the "machine."

It looks harmless so the papers print it.

But! Let's lift the cover and look under.

The hidden motive is as dangerous to the peace and liberty of the citizens as a coiled rattlesnake in the grass.

Organization by workmen to peacefully and successfully present their side is necessary and most commendable.

There are such organizations now rapidly winning their way to public confidence without strikes, dynamite or killing fellow workmen. (Some facts on this matter a little further along in this article.)

We see here a demand on the ministers of God, that they endorse and help build up the strike-producing, boycotting and violent American Federation of Labor.

Think of the man of God who teaches brotherly love being covertly ordered to praise and help get new members for an organization with a record for violence, crime and murder done by its members the like of which the world has never seen.

Think of the thousands of women made widows and the increasing thousands of children left fatherless by the pistol, club, dynamite and boot heel of members of this Labor Trust.

Any one who recalls the countless murders done in the multitude of strikes in the past few years will agree this is no exaggeration.

Take just one as an illustration:

There were some thirty men murdered and over 6000 bruised and maimed in the Chicago teamster's strike.

There is seldom a day passes but somewhere in our country from one to a score of our fellow men are assaulted or murdered by members of this band.

Then remember the homes blown up or burned. The families hounded, the rioting, burning of street cars, wrecking of trains and attempted or successful killing of passengers.

The general disturbance of industry and the thousands of dollars forced from tax payers to pay extra police, sheriffs and militia to protect, even in a feeble way, the citizens from the mobs of members of the American Federation of Labor.

Then you will realize why the great peace-loving majority of over 80 million Americans protest against the growth of this crime-tainted organization comprising perhaps one and one-half million men, of which it is estimated at least seven-tenths are peace-loving citizens and are members by coercion and are not in sympathy with the three-tenths who have gained control and force their methods.

We find that a few designing men have seized control of the American Federation of Labor, just as some shrewd capitalists have secured control of some railroads and other interests and are now twisting and turning them into machines for personal profit and fame.

These men cunningly plan to force workmen to join and pay 25 to 75 cents a month in fees.

Various methods are used to "induce" workmen to join.

First, they talk of the "tyranny of capital" making slaves of workmen.

Then they work up enthusiasm about the "brotherhood of man" and other talk which excites the emotions of workmen and they are induced to join and pay fees to the leaders.

The 5000 workmen in Battle Creek are, as a rule, free from the dictates of the great Labor Trust and still get the highest wages in Michigan. If they had yielded to the smooth talk of the agents of the trust and joined, they would pay in fees from $1250.00 to $2000.00 a month to the big trust and be subject to strike orders any time.

Now they save that and put the money into homes and family comforts.

But the managers of the American Federation of Labor have worked hard and long to harness them.

The trust has sent small bales of money and last winter 18 "organizers" to the up Battle Creek. They hired halls, gave picture shows, smokers, etc., as an investment, looking to rich returns when they succeeded in having them tied hand and foot.

But they failed and the last of these "organizers" left Battle Creek on May 1st saying "it's no use."

The workmen knew the record of this great trust and formed their own association to protect their rights and also to protect them from the big Labor Trust.

In Philadelphia some 4000 independent street car men, who mainly had families, had their own union and refused to join the big trust, preferring to be free to work or not as they pleased.

But the trust planned to force them into the fee-paying ranks, so a strike was ordered to compel the traction company to kick out these men and hire only Labor Trust members.

It was not a question of wages or hours but to push the free men out of their positions where they were earning good money to support their families. The strike was ordered, not to raise wages or reduce hours, remember, but solely to throw out members of an independent union and make places only for Labor Trust members, and thus show the independent men they could not earn a living unless they first paid fees to the trust managers.

Incidentally the people of Philadelphia must submit to no car service, rioting and bloodshed with millions in losses while these fee-hunting, notoriety-seeking trust leaders were teaching the world that industry cannot be carried on except by workmen who first bend the knee, bow the head and pay fees.

How these men as strike leaders love to see their names in the papers each morning! It's meat and bread to their souls!

Then think of the lordly power, and don't forget the steady flow of money squeezed from the workman's hard earned pay envelope.

But when these leaders "tie up" any industry no man can hold a job who refuses to pay fines even on trumped up charges, and steadily pay fees whatever they are.

The workman is absolutely at the mercy of this band of men who have secured and hold control.

Many and many an honest workman has raised his voice and appealed to his fellows to rise and throw off the yoke of Gompers, et al. But, as one writes, "At every convention of the American Federation of Labor, strong opposition comes up but at the critical moment the impassioned orator appears and most dramatically puts the spot light on the leader and covers him with a mawkish film of 'martyrdom' and the emotional delegates yell in delight, forgetting the instructions of the peaceful workmen at home who desire to free themselves from the odium of membership under the great advocates of strike, boycott, violence and hate."

So we see the unequalled insolence with which these trust leaders propose to "induce" ministers to pull their chestnuts from the fire by preaching modern aggressive and violent labor trust methods.

There is a better way to secure justice for workers, as will appear further along.

Just a little diversion here.

I am charged with having first brought to the attention of the public some years ago, the name "Labor Trust."

A trust is a combination of men or organizations for the purpose of selling their product at a profit and restricting production to effect it.

We will say a large Oil Company gathers in smaller ones and thus controls production.

The Labor Trust "gathers in" local trade organizations and thus has power to say how much work each man shall do.

The Oil Company then fixes prices. The Labor Trust does likewise.

The Oil Company may "use methods" to force an unwilling dealer to join.

The Labor Trust men go further and slug the independent man if he tries to sell his labor without paying fees and "obeying orders." They are both exactly alike in purpose, which, in both cases is entirely selfish to gain power and money for the leaders.

Certain Labor Trust members do not hesitate to use violence, dynamiting of property, burning homes of independent men and even murder to force obedience.

The Oil Company doesn't go so far.

Both are extremely dangerous to the welfare of people and communities, for power placed in the hands of a few men either representing Capital or Labor is almost always abused and the public suffers.

Remember, reader, that your safety lies in strenuous opposition to all trusts which try to ride over and dictate to the people.

Only by opposing their growth can you retain your personal liberty.

Now to ministers.

The average congregation is made up of about 90 per cent. of free citizens and much less than 10 per cent. of members of the Labor Trust.

The free citizen wants to hear words defending the rights and independence of the common man, free from the arbitrary dictates of any self-seeking organization either of Capital or Labor.

The merchant, lawyer, school teacher, doctor, clerk, farmer and workman rebels against any forcible stopping of trains, boats, street cars, or factories, for the prosperity of the community is entirely dependent on steady continuance of these things.

Men don't like strikes, boycotts, injured workmen or burned cars and factories.

A famous divine says: "These men may hate capitalists but their hate for other laboring men burns like a flame, eats like nitric acid, is malignant beyond all description."

Then we remember cases of acid throwing, eyes gouged out, children pursued, women stripped, homes destroyed, men murdered and the long, long list of atrocities practised by Labor Trust members on other human beings who cannot agree with the trust methods.

Now for the better way.

Workingmen are now organizing in the old fashioned trades union or "guild" way, affiliated with the National Trades and Workers Association whose constitution provides arbitration of differences with agreement for no strikes, boycott, picketing or hateful coercion of any kind.

This Trade Association has evolved from the experience of the past and is the highest order of Trades Unionism at the present day.

Under its laws it is not possible for the Hod Carriers Union or the Street Sweepers Union to order the school teachers or locomotive engineers to quit work in a "sympathetic strike."

If any craft finds injustice, the case is presented to properly selected arbitrators, testimony taken and the case presented to the public through the press. Thereupon public opinion, that greatest of all powers, makes itself felt and curiously enough a fair settlement is generally the result.

There is no strike, no loss of wages, no loss to the community and yet the faithful workers get their just treatment.

There are many details which have been worked out by men skilled in labor matters.

It will recompense any interested man to know these details which can be secured by a postal request for constitution and by-laws written to the National Trades and Workers Association, Kingman Block, Battle Creek, Mich.

Reader, look carefully into this great question of the relations of Capital and Labor and its successful solution. The new plan works and brings results for the members.

I became so favorably impressed with the trustworthiness and practicability of the leaders of this new labor movement that I gave the Association a sanatorium at Battle Creek worth about $400,000 and with about 300 rooms, to be used as a home for their old members and the helpless babies, sometimes made fatherless by the pistol, club or boot heel of some member of the violent "Labor Trust."

Suppose you attend church Labor Sunday and hear what your minister has to say in defense of the safety and rights of the common, everyday man.

Let me ask you to read again a portion of one of my public articles printed a few years ago.

"The people of the world have given me money enough to spend in these talks through the papers in trying to make better and safer conditions for the common people, whether the Postum business runs or not.

Scores of letters have come to me from work-people and others, some from union men recounting their sufferings from union domination and urging that their cases be laid before the public.

It will not answer for us to only sympathize with the poor, the oppressed, those who haven't power enough to drive off tyrants and resent oppression, we must help them tie the hands of the oppressors. Americans must act.

Some of my forebears in New England left comfortable homes, took with them the old flint locks, slept on the ground in rain and frost; hungry, footsore, and half clothed they grimly pushed on where the Eternal God of Human Liberty urged them. They wove for me and for you a mantle of freedom, woven in a loom where the shuttles were cannon balls and bullets and where swords were used to pick out the tangles in the yarn.

These old, sturdy granddads of ours stood by that loom until the mantle was finished, then, stained with their life blood it was handed down to us. Shall I refuse to bear it on my shoulders because the wearing costs me a few dollars, and are you cowards enough to hide yours because some foreign labor union anarchist orders you to strip it off?

I have faith that the blood of 1776 still coursing in your veins will tingle and call until you waken. Then Americans will act." "There's a Reason." C. W. POST.

A Remedy for Some

 Selfish Legislation

Reprinted from an article by Theodore Roosevelt in The Outlook, by special arrangement with The Outlook, of which Theodore Roosevelt is Contributing Editor. Copyright, 1910, by The Outlook Company. All Rights Reserved.

THE August number of the World's Work contains an article which is of interest to all who are concerned in the vital subject to which we give the somewhat foggy title of "Political Reform." The article, for obvious reasons anonymous, is written by a member of congress who, the editors of the World's Work say, has served for more than ten years in the house of representatives, has acted on many important committees, and has been successful in "getting things" for his constituency. The article is described as "showing the reason why the 'pork-barrel,' special tariff favors, and private pension bills become law," the reason being, to quote the words of the author, that "the dictum of the constituency to the congressman is, 'Get all you can for US.' There are no restrictions placed upon his method of getting it.

Until the American people themselves become more national and less local, until constituencies cease to regard their congressmen as solicitors at the national treasury, congress will continue to enact iniquitous groups of local favors into national legislation. This serious charge against the American people—for which there is unquestionably altogether too much justification—the author proceeds to substantiate by relating some of his own experiences with constituents which, however surprising they may seem to the general reader, will seem almost commonplace to all who know how the average constituency does in actual practise treat its congressman.

The writer sets forth the fact that, in the first place, ninety per cent. of the letters which a congressman receives are requests for special favors to be obtained in some way or other, directly or indirectly, from the United States treasury. For instance, while the Payne-Aldrich tariff law was under discussion, this particular congressman received in May, 1909, the following letter from the secretary of a powerful commercial association in his district:

"I have been instructed by the board of directors of this association to advise you that at special meeting May 20, a resolution, copy of which is inclosed, was unanimously adopted, urging our representatives in congress to use every endeavor to have the present tariff in (mentioning three of the products of the industries referred to) increased one cent per pound and the present tariff on (mentioning the other two products) increased half a cent per pound. I wish to further advise you that we have heard from Senator — and he informs us that he will take care of this matter in the senate."

When the bill was finally passed, the congressman succeeded in adding half a cent a pound to the duty on two of these products and in preventing any reduction on the others. A year later, when the popular clamor against the bill had become acute, the same association that had asked him to vote for increases wrote to the congressman denouncing the bill as "the most iniquitous measure ever enacted by congress" and requesting him to explain by letter why he had voted with "the Reactionaries" to pass the bill. When it was pointed out to the association that it had urged the congressman to obtain an increase of duty on the products in which it was interested, it dropped its demand for an explanation. An influential newspaper published in his district editorially commended him while the bill was under debate for his "intelligent efforts" to increase the duty on manufactured articles in which the district was interested, and a year later the same newspaper in the same editorial column denounced him as one of "the legislative banditti" responsible for the Payne-Aldrich measure.

River and harbor legislation is another field in which local selfishness busies itself, to the exclusion of national needs. In this case requests are not made by letter but by delegations which come to Washington beseeching their senators and representatives. "There is," says the frank writer of this article, "figuratively speaking, between $50,000,000 and $80,000,000 on the table to be divided. The committee divides it so that every one is satisfied, at least to a reasonable extent." Every one, that is, but the people at large, the people who have no special interest to serve, and who feel keenly indignant that the rivers and harbors of the United States are developed in a fashion so inferior to that of Europe. . . . Congress has now, and has long had, the power to rid its members of almost all the improper pressure brought to bear upon the individual by special interests—great and small, local and metropolitan—or such subjects as tariff legislation, river and harbor legislation, and pension legislation. Congress has not exercised this power; chiefly because of what I am bound to regard as a very shortsighted and unwise belief that it is beneath its dignity to delegate any of its functions. By passing a rule which would forbid the reception or passage of any pension bill save the pension legislation recommended by the Commissioner of pensions (this of course to be rejected or amended as congress saw fit, but not so amended as to include any special or private legislation), Congress would at once do away with the possibility of its members being subject to local pressure for improper private pension bills, and at the same time guarantee proper treatment for the veteran who really does deserve to have everything done for him that the country can afford.

In the case of the tariff and the river and harbor legislation, what is needed in each case is ample provision for a commission of the highest possible grade, composed of men who thoroughly know the subject, and who possess every attribute required for the performance of the great and difficult task of framing in outline the legislation that the country, as distinguished from special interests, really needs. These men, from the very nature of the case, will be wholly free from the local pressure of special interests so keenly felt by every man who is dependent upon the vote of a particular district every two years for his continuance in public life. Such a river and harbor commission could report, and probably would report, a great and comprehensive national scheme for river and harbor improvements fit to be considered by the people as a whole upon its merits, and not dependent for enactment into law upon a system of log-rolling designed to placate special interests which are powerful in each of many score congressional districts. Such a tariff commission could get at the facts of labor cost here and abroad by expert inquiry, and not by the acceptance of interested testimony; such a commission could consider dispassionately the probable effect upon the entire social and economic body of all changes in any given branch of the tariff, and its recommendations would represent the exercise of careful judgment from a disinterested standpoint. Such a commission could work in harmony with the commissioner of ers for whom the tariff is passed get labor, so as to insure that the laborer the full benefit of it; for the major part of the benefit of a protective tariff should unquestionably go to the wage-workers.

Even under such conditions of tariff-making errors might be committed, but they would be merely those errors of disinterested judgment incidental to every kind of public or, for the matter of that, private effort, and the work would not be hampered from the beginning by the need of gratifying private selfishness.

It is only in this way that tariff legislation, river and harbor legislation, and pension legislation can be treated from the standpoint of principle and not from the very low standpoint of privilege and preference. The obstacle hitherto to the adoption of such a method of treatment has come from the queer dislike felt by so many Congressional leaders to a course of action which they (quite unjustifiably) feel would in some way be a limitation of their powers. I think this feeling is passing. It is simply another instance of the kind of feeling which makes some executive suspicious about delegating their work to any subordinate, and which makes many voters, who have not pondered the matter deeply, desire to elect great numbers of people on a ticket of such length that it is out of the question for any except professional politicians to know much about them.

Ideas for Porch, Garden, Excursion and Picnic Parties.

This is the heyday of the picnic season, when we flee to the woods if we can; if not we satisfy ourselves with a day in the park, a supper on the beach, or a quiet porch party at home.

The really enjoyable affairs are those arranged without much preparation. Wooden plates, aluminum forks, spoons and cups are not expensive and lighten the weight of the picnic basket. Paper napkins will be found to answer every purpose and are a great saving when laundry work must be considered. As these outings are for special rest and health, care should be taken to provide only easily digested foods, especially where there are children. Older people may indulge in fancy dishes and highly seasoned salads, but the children should be spared. A cheap chafing dish is a convenience in which one may prepare a chipped beef, creamed; creamed eggs or rarebit. These, with bread and butter sandwiches, a simple salad and coffee, make a pleasant first course. Fruit alone may follow as dessert. Sandwiches are in endless variety these days. Chopped meat or fish rubbed to a paste with cream, butter or mayonnaise dressing and spread on thin slices of either brown or white bread, make a nourishing, wholesome sandwich. Sandwiches should be wrapped in waxed paper. Salad sandwiches are nice only when fresh, as standing only an hour will spoil their crispness and make them unpalatable. Fruits are always acceptable both as food and drink. They quench the thirst and satisfy the hunger without adding burden to the body. The salts and acids they contain cool and thin the blood. Tomatoes are easily carried and served on lettuce make a pleasant addition to a meat sandwich. Water is the best, most wholesome and cheapest drink. Lemonade is a great favorite, but should be used sparingly if serving other fruit in quantity. The lemon juice may be extracted and carried in a bottle. Garden and porch parties differ from picnics in both arrangements and serving. The kitchen being within easy reach, dainty entrees, salads and ices are possible to serve. One large table may be arranged on the porch or under the trees or small tables may be scattered about. If hot dishes are to be served the preparations may be made early in the day. Croquettes and cutlets may be fried, placed on a paper in the oven and reheated in a few minutes in a hot oven. Cold dishes like pressed chicken, deviled tongue, or salads are to be chosen by those who wish to entertain on small means and with limited help. Where wise forethought and planning are done forty persons may be nicely served by a single maid.

LACK OF MONEY
 Was a Godsend in This Case.

It is not always that a lack of money is a benefit. A lady of Green Forest, Ark., owes her health to the fact that she could not pay in advance the fee demanded by a specialist to treat her for stomach trouble. In telling of her case she says:

"I had been treated by four different physicians during 10 years of stomach trouble. Lately I called on another who told me he could not cure me; that I had neuralgia of the stomach. Then I went to a specialist who told me I had catarrh of the stomach and said he could cure me in four months but would have to have his money down. I could not raise the necessary sum and in my extremity I was led to quit coffee and try Postum. "So I stopped coffee and gave Postum a thorough trial and the results have been magical. I now sleep well at night, something I had not done for a long time; the pain in my stomach is gone and I am a different woman.

"I dreaded to quit coffee, because every time I had tried to stop it I suffered from severe headaches, so I continued to drink it although I had reason to believe it was injurious to me, and was the cause of my stomach trouble and extreme nervousness. But when I had Postum to shift to it was different.

"To my surprise I did not miss coffee when I began to drink Postum. "Coffee had been steadily and surely killing me and I didn't fully realize what was doing it until I quit and changed to Postum."

MEN OF THE CATTLE RANGE WELCOME COL. ROOSEVELT

Former President Is Cheyenne's Guest at Frontier Days Celebration and Delivers Warm Eulogy of the Great West and Its Sterling Virtues.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 27.—The private car Republic, bearing Theodore Roosevelt and party, rolled into the station on time this morning, and no sooner had it come to a stop than the sturdy figure of the colonel appeared, for he was anxious to see again the cattle men with whom he once lived. As he stepped down to the ground a great shout greeted him—the real yell of the range, uttered by an escort of 1,000 cowboys and cowgirls detailed to act as the ex-president's bodyguard. That it sounded good in his ears was made evident by the happy smile that spread over his countenance.

Mr. Roosevelt's visit and the speech he delivered later in the day formed the culmination of the annual Frontier Days celebration which had attracted to the city thousands of persons from all parts of the west and a large number of tourists from more distant sections of the country.

Colonel Roosevelt's Speech.
Out in the open air, under the blue sky, a vast crowd assembled to hear the former president speak, and it heard one of the most important speeches he has made—since leaving the White House. His address was as follows:

When, at the close of my hunting trip in Africa, I reached the borders of civilization, the first invitation I accepted was this, to visit the capital of Wyoming on the day when the people of the frontier came together to commemorate their achievements; I was glad it was so, because I have a peculiar feeling for the men and women of what used to be called the "Far West," and especially for those of the cattle country. For a number of years I lived on a ranch on the Little Missouri, sharing work and play, good fortune and bad fortune, with my neighbors; working on the round-up, serving as delegate from the Little Missouri round-up district to the Montana Stock-growers' association, and even at times acting as deputy sheriff at my end of the county. I count those years as among the most valuable of my life, because nothing breeds such community of feeling as to work with one's fellowmen at their life tasks, and to learn to know their feelings by actually sharing them. The man of the west, throughout the successive stages of western growth, has always been one of the two or three most typical figures—indeed, I am tempted to say the most typical figure—in American life, and no man can really understand our country and appreciate what it really is and what it promises unless he has the fullest and closest sympathy with the ideals and aspirations of the west. The prime reason for this is to be found in the fact the westerner is so good an American. He is an American first and foremost; for this is the great lesson, friends, that all of us need to learn and to keep, the lesson that it is unimportant whether a man lives north or south, east or west, provided he is genuinely and in good faith an American, that he feels every part of the United States as his own, and that he is honestly desirous to uphold the interests of all other Americans in whatever sections of the country they may dwell.

A hundred years ago, when men spoke of the west they meant the country between the Alleghenies and the Mississippi. Fifty years ago the white man's west took in Minnesota, Iowa and Kansas, and then skipped across to California and Oregon. The country of the great plains and the Rockies, the country in which you whom I am now addressing lead your lives and do your work, has grown up within my own lifetime. I myself saw and took part in the closing years of the pioneer period, and it was my great privilege to work side by side with the pioneers—the ranchmen, the miners, the cow-punchers, the mule-skippers, the bull whackers—who actually opened up the country. I have seen the herds and flocks of the cattlemen and sheepmen supplant the game; I have seen the fortunate movement by which the small farm has tended gradually to take the place of the great unfenced ranch. I now travel in every comfort on railways across lands which, when I first rode across them, were still the home of the Indian and the buffalo; and I find cities where one can obtain not merely comfort, but luxury, in the places where thirty years ago there was not a building beyond a log hut or a double house. The men who did this work were engaged in the final stages of conquering the continent; and it was their privilege to do one of the great works of all time, to do their part in the performance of an epic feat in the history of the progress of mankind.

West Stands for Progress.
I have used the word progress. The west stands for growth, for progress. So must the whole American people stand. A great democracy must be progressive or it will soon cease to be either great or democratic. No nation, no state, no party, can stand still. It must either go forward or go backward, and it becomes useless if it goes backward. Therefore, I greet you, men of the west, and I stand for progress as all men must stand who are progressive.

The pioneers and their immediate successors won victory only by proving that they possessed the great, masterful qualities which lie at the foundation of National greatness. There are certain well-meaning men of intellectual cultivation, but lacking mental and moral robustness, who complain continually that they find American life, and especially the life of those American communities emerging from the pioneer stage, crude and without genius or beauty. Genius is a fine thing for a nation, but character is a still finer thing, and though beauty is good, strength is an even greater good. The men who have made this great republic of the west what it is, and especially the men who have turned it into a continental commonwealth, have possessed in the highest degree the great virtue virtues of strength, courage, energy, and undaunted and unwavering resolution. Their typical leaders—of whom Abraham Lincoln, though the most exceptional, was the most typical—have possessed keen intelligence, and a character not merely strong but lofty, a character exalted by the fact that great power was accompanied by a high and fine determination to use this great power for the common good, for the advancement of mankind. The pioneer days are over, save in a few places; and the more complex life of today calls for a greater variety of good qualities than were needed on the frontier. There is need at present to encourage the development of new abilities which can be brought to high perfection only by a kind of training useless in pioneer times, but these new qualities can only supplement, and never supplant, the old, homely virtues; the need for the special and distinctive pioneer virtues is as great as ever. In other words, as our civilization grows older and more complex, while it is true that we need new forms of trained ability, and that we need people as a whole, and yet devoted wholly to the pursuit of special objects, it is yet also true that we need a greater and not a less development of the fundamental frontier virtues. These virtues include the power of self-help, together with the power of joining with others for mutual help, and what is especially important, the feeling of comradeship, of social good-will.

Now so far as possible these qualities and conditions that bring about these states which are growing out of the old frontier communities. We need to strive for the general social betterment of the people as a whole, and yet to encourage individual liberty and set high reward on individual initiative up to the point where they become detrimental to the general welfare.

Wrong Doers and Wrong Systems.
In continually and earnestly striving for this betterment of social and economic conditions in our complex industrial civilization, we should work in the old frontier spirit of brotherly comradeship and good will. I do not mean that we should refrain from hating wrong; on the contrary, I would preach fire and wrath against wrong. But I would not preach such wrath against the wrong-doer, save in those cases where his wrong-doing really is due to evil moral attributes on his part and not to a wrong or false system, of which he is almost as much the victim as the beneficiary. Sometimes the wrong-doer is the deliberate wickedness of the wrong-doer, in which case the remedy is to punish him, but sometimes it represents the effects of a false social system, in which case the right course is to alter what is false in the system. Both principles need to be kept in view as guides to our conduct, and it is necessary sometimes to work in accordance with one and sometimes in accordance with the other.

Before ending I wish to say a word on something which I believe should especially interest all men who live in the open country, and especially all men who during the past thirty years have lived by their achievements on ranches or have done their life work in the wilder parts of our land, on the great plains or among the mountains. The phase of our national life in which the stockman, the mining prospector, were the chief characters, was not only a very important but also a very picturesque phase. Often such a phase passed without any great artist arising to commemorate it.

The old-time backwoodsman, for instance, the man of the back country who lived in the eastern forests through which the waters ran eastward to the Atlantic and westward to the Mississippi, passed away without any painter or sculptor arising who possessed at once both the keenness of vision to see what a vital and picturesque figure the backwoodsman was, and the genius adequately to present that figure. The artist who saw that picturesqueness of the backwoodsman lacked the genius adequately to commemorate it, while the artists of sculpture arising who had their eyes turned towards Europe and lacked the best originality which the novelist Cooper showed—to see where their chances lay to do a great work. But in our generation, for our good fortune a great artist arose who was capable of seeing and of recording the infinite picturesqueness of the life of the plains and the Rockies.

Eulogy of Remington.
Of course I speak of Frederic Remington. He was one of those Americans who by his achievements distinctly deserved well of America. He worked with pencil, with brush, with chisel, he was both a painter and a sculptor. His pictures and his few bronzes are equally good. When my own regiment, a typically western regiment recruited mainly from the men of the great plains and the mountains, was disbanded at Montana Point, the officer and enlisted men joined in giving me Remington's "Bronze Bronco Buster" a gift which I thought peculiarly appropriate coming from such a body of men. In Remington's pictures all the most vivid and characteristic features of the western pioneer life which is just closing were set forth, and the commemorated forever the men of the plains and the mountains as they actually were. The cowboy is his favorite type, but the mining prospector, the frontier farmer, the man who guides ox-wagon or mule-team, the soldier, the Indian—all appear. Now I wish very much that these men themselves would in their turn provide a monument for the great artist the sum of whose activities represent such a feature of American achievements, and, above all, represents a commemoration of some of the most interesting figures that have ever appeared on the stage of American life. A statue should be raised to Remington by some really first class artist.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

An Easy Business

The easiest business in this world is dry-goods; the reason is: customers want the stuff as much as they want to sell it; they come in; look at the goods and buy. That's the whole business.

Devoe comes next. It saves money, and people like money. They like somebody else's more than their own; they like to make it more than to save it; they like to keep it perhaps as well as to make it.

Buildings run down fast, without paint; poor paint is the same. Devoe is the means of stopping that leak; a big one. All we've got to do, to sell Devoe, is to show that a man saves money by using it.

E. D. Jewell, Corry, Pa. painted his house 5 years ago with a mixed paint; 14 gallons. Last spring he painted Devoe; 10 gallons. Saved $15 to $20. Murchison-Beasley Drug Co. 17

The Courier is authorized to announce in this week's issue the name of Capt. G. R. Fowler as a candidate for the nomination for state senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Stokes. Capt. Fowler is well and favorably known over the district. He has been county democratic chairman of Anderson county for two terms. He represented Anderson county in the 28th legislature and was a member of some very important committees. Besides taking a prominent part in labor legislation, he led in the fight to defeat an extravagant appropriation bill. He is a lawyer by profession and a graduate of the A. & M. College and the University of Texas. He served as a volunteer soldier in the war with Spain and in the Philippine insurrection. His announcement is subject to the special democratic primary.

For the State Senate.

Hon. W. J. Townsend, Jr., of Lufkin authorizes this paper to make formal announcement of his candidacy for the state senate, to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Stokes. A primary election has been ordered to take place on October 8, and the final election will occur in November, on the same date as the general election.

Mr. Townsend writes us that his platform is now in the hands of the printer and will be issued to the public at an early date. He is in favor of submission and personally will vote for statewide prohibition; he is also opposed to changing the Rusk prison to a negro asylum, and is for reform in court procedure. He will begin next week a vigorous campaign, and will visit this county.

Having known Judge Townsend for many years, and being well acquainted with his qualifications for this office, we have no hesitancy in stating that we consider him a good man for the place and believe that if he is selected, he will serve the district faithfully and efficiently.—Jacksonville Banner. Adv.

Moving Day.

Johnson Arledge is moving his grocery stock into the building formerly occupied by A. W. Phillips. Mr. Phillips retiring. R. C. Stokes is moving into the house vacated by Johnson Arledge and the Times is moving to the second floor of the Chamberlain building, whose first floor is occupied by the Lobo Land and Irrigation company. Deupree & Waller will open a furniture store in the building vacated by R. C. Stokes and the Times.

W. J. Townsend for State Senate.

The Press-Journal is this week announcing Hon. W. J. Townsend Jr. as a candidate for the State Senate, in this the 13th Senatorial District, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Senator C. C. Stokes.

Mr. Townsend is a native of our neighbor county, Angelina, and his home is in Lufkin. He is not a stranger to our people, having married Miss Zoe Willson, daughter of Judge S. P. Willson. He has a wide acquaintance and many friends in Rusk and Cherokee county. As to his ability to represent this district there is no question. He is thoroughly acquainted with the duties of the position to which he aspires, and is in full sympathy with our interests. The Press-Journal is in possession of the platform upon which he will make the race, and will publish same next week. Unless Cherokee county should have a candidate for the position, we are inclined to believe that our people should support Mr. Townsend for the Senate.—Rusk Press-Journal. Adv.

Mr. Chas. Stokes.

Again the Courier is called upon to chronicle the death of a citizen, this time that of Mr. Chas. Stokes. Mr. Stokes became ill of typhoid pneumonia about two weeks before his death, which occurred at 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoon of last week. At 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon following, funeral services were held at the family residence and interment followed in Glenwood cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. F. M. Boyles, presiding elder, and Rev. Geo. W. Davis, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, of which church Mr. Stokes had been a life-time member and for many years a steward.

Mr. Stokes was in his 77th year at the time of his death. He was a pioneer citizen in Houston county, and from the beginning had enjoyed the confidence and esteem of the people, holding positions of public trust for a long and unbroken period. His first public office was that of county surveyor. After that he was elected to the office of tax assessor, which office he held uninterrupted for a duration of eighteen years. Retiring from office he settled down on a farm near Crockett, where he lived peacefully and happily until the end.

Those in need always found a friend in Mr. Stokes. Many sought him for advice and others for material aid, and none were turned away without encouragement and assistance. His friends were among all classes. It can be truly said of him that he was a good man and that he will be greatly and sadly missed in the community.

He is survived by his wife, two sons and three daughters. His sons are Dr. E. B. Stokes and Mr. R. C. Stokes, both of this city, and his daughters are Mrs. Hattie Cunyus, Mrs. T. R. Deupree and Miss Annie Stokes, also residing here. He is also survived by a sister, Mrs. Hattie Collins.

Resolutions.

To the Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren of Lothrop Lodge No. 21, A. F. & A. M.:

We your committee appointed to draft suitable resolutions on the life and death of our brother, Charles Collins Stokes, who departed this life on Friday, Aug. 12, 1910, beg to report as follows:

Brother Stokes was born near Crockett, in Houston county, Texas, on Sept. 21, 1872, and at the time of his death was thirty-seven years, ten months and twenty-two days old. He grew to manhood in this community where he was born and was always known for his fidelity to truth and the right. He was married first to Miss Etta Adams of Crockett, Texas, on Oct. 22, 1902, who died on Feb. 17, 1907, and his second marriage was to Miss Mabel Hillyer of Austin, Texas, on July 28, 1909, who still survives him. His death is also mourned by his father, mother, three sisters and two brothers, all of whom reside at Crockett. He became a member of our beloved order on March 9, 1900, and was made a Knight Templar at Palestine Commandery No. 3 on Oct. 5, 1907, and has ever been a devoted Mason with a high conception of the true meaning of Masonry and endeavored at all times to live up to its teachings. He entered the practice of law at the age of twenty-one and was elected a member of the 28th Legislature of the State of Texas from this, his native county, and afterwards twice elected to the State Senate from the 13th district, of which body he was an honored member at the time of his death. His people who knew him best always delighted to honor him with any office for which he chose to ask. He became a member of the Methodist church in early life and was a devoted christian. Therefore be it resolved:

1st. That in the death of Brother Stokes Lothrop Lodge has lost a member whose place cannot be filled and whose life reflected credit on the order of which he was a member.
2nd. That his family has lost a tender and devoted husband and a loving and dutiful son and brother.
3rd. That this community and the State of Texas have lost a wise and useful member of its law-making body whose high aspirations and noble ideals made his life a splendid example to the youth of the land.
4th. That a page in our records be set apart sacred to his memory and that our altar and jewels be draped in mourning.
5th. That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the lodge and, 1st, a copy be sent to his family and, 2nd, that copies be furnished to the newspapers for publication.

Faternally submitted.
J. H. Painter,
I. A. Daniel,
Arch Baker,
Committee.
