$12,000 LIBRARY AND AUDITORIUM

Proposed by the Crockett Shakespeare Club—Carnegie Library Fund May Assist the Undertaking.

The Crockett Shakespeare Club last week had photographs made of the club's auditorium lot on Public avenue, showing the surrounding property, including the new $20,000 Baptist church, the Methodist church, the residences of Mr. R. E. McConnell and Mrs. H. W. Moore and the adjoining business houses on Public avenue. The object was to send the photographs to Mr. Andrew Carnegie, through the city council, with the hope of securing a donation from him for the library and auditorium building proposed by the club. It will be remembered that the city council, through Mayor Edmiston, has had some correspondence with Mr. Carnegie in regard to a Carnegie library for the city. Mr. Carnegie has proposed to give $9000 to the city for a library, provided the city would agree to certain stipulations named by him, one of which was to set aside $900 yearly for the maintenance of the library. The city would have to supply the lot.

Several years ago the Shakespeare Club bought the corner lot in front of the Baptist church. The club now has its lot paid out and is ready to put a building on it. The club has a most desirable lot, conveniently located between the business and residence districts of the city, and is anxious to erect a library and auditorium, but does not feel like accepting Mr. Carnegie's offer of $9000 unless Mr. Carnegie will agree that the club may add a sum proposed by it to enable it to put up a building that would be a credit both to the Shakespeare Club and the city of Crockett, as well as to Mr. Carnegie. To this end the Shakespeare Club addressed the following letter to Mayor Edmiston and the city council, and following the club's letter is the letter of Mayor Edmiston, in which he forwards the club's letter, photographs and plans to Mr. Carnegie's secretary. The Shakespeare Club very generously proposes to donate its lot to the city for a library and auditorium under conditions which it states:

SHAKESPEARE CLUB'S OFFER.

Crockett, Texas, February, 1912.
Mayor C. L. Edmiston and City Council of the City of Crockett.

Gentlemen:—We understand that

Hon. Andrew Carnegie has offered to donate $9,000 to build a Carnegie Library at Crockett, provided the city would furnish suitable lot and provide a fund of $900 per annum to maintain it.

In connection with this offer, we wish to place at your disposal the southeast corner lot in Block No. 19, fronting 50 feet on Public avenue and 120 feet on Church street, as shown in three different views in photographs attached, and pledge a cash donation of $3,000, subject to the following conditions:

First, that the City of Crockett arrange to accept Mr. Carnegie's offer.

Second, that a Carnegie library building be erected with auditorium.

Third, that said building be like plans and specifications hereto attached (which building Contractor W. A. Norris offers to erect for the sum of $12,000) or a building similar.

Fourth, that, in the event the building is to be controlled and managed by trustees, at least a part of said trustees be appointed from the members of the Crockett Shakespeare Club.

Fifth, that deed conveying the lot to the city and the $3,000 cash will be placed in the bank at Crockett as soon as the city makes satisfactory arrangements with Mr. Carnegie.

In submitting photographs of our lot, will state that we do so for the purpose of showing that it is located between the business and residence portions of our city, and on one of our principal streets, and near buildings that will be in keeping with the building we are making effort to secure, and in submitting plans of building, we do so for the purpose of better showing what is desired, and if our proposition will place you in a position to accept Mr. Carnegie's offer, we would be glad to have you submit our proposal, with photos, plans and specifications to Mr. Carnegie for his consideration.

Very truly,
Crockett Shakespeare Club.
Per Mrs. Pinkney Hail, President.

MAYOR EDMISTON'S LETTER.
Crockett, Tex., March 16, 1912.

Mr. Jas. Bertran, Secretary to Andrew Carnegie, New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—I beg to enclose you herewith proposal of the Crockett Shakespeare Club to the City of Crockett with reference to proposed Carnegie Library. I will add that the City of Crockett stands ready and willing to assume any reasonable obligation looking toward the maintenance of the library, in so far as our council would have authority to act, when we know just how Mr. Carnegie requires the city to arrange that this fund may be available.

Plans and specifications referred to in the proposal, with several photographic views of the lot, have been forwarded to you by Wells Fargo & Co's. Express, prepaid.

Will be glad to have you make examination of the proposal, plans, photographs, etc., and let me know at your early convenience your further pleasure in the matter.

Awaiting your reply, I am yours very truly,
C. L. Edmiston,
Mayor.

NOTES OF INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS.

Railroad Business Shows Fifty Per Cent Increase Over Last Year—More Grading and Some Manufacturing.

D. D. Hungate, local agent for the International and Great Northern railroad, informs the Courier that the railroad business at Crockett has increased 50 per cent during the last year. He says this increase is confined wholly to the freight business and, while an increased passenger business is being done, more people are getting off the trains here than on—that more tickets are bought for Crockett than at Crockett. It is always a good indication for more people to be coming in than going out.

Smith Brothers have bought the two lots adjacent to and east of the channel and fronting Public avenue where the channel is crossed by that avenue at the light and ice plant, and are grading the lots to a level with the street and filling the old pond, south of the street and once used by the light and ice plant. This property was bought as an investment and no doubt an effort will be made to locate some industrial enterprise on it, as it is in the hands of wide-awake people.

John Clark is building two more residences between North street and the oil mill. These will make a total of four houses that he has put up on his property in that part of the city within the last year.

Mr. Paine of Wills Point, a member of the Parsley-Paine Manufacturing Company of this city, was in Crockett this week. His company is engaged, among other things, in the manufacture of cotton choppers and is preparing to get its chopper on the market in time for this year's crop. The factory is under the direct management of Mr. Parsley.

W. S. Norton, section foreman, has bought the Tom Foster residence in west Crockett.

Track-laying on the tram is between three and four miles out from town.

Farmers are planting corn—an item of paramount importance.

Sees Great Possibilities.

J. C. Stockton was a visitor at the Courier office Monday morning. He was accompanied by his son, who with his wife has recently come to Crockett and will probably make his home here. Mr. Stockton, Jr., has traveled all over the United States and lived in the middle and far west. He came to Crockett from Portland, Oregon, stopping en route at Los Angeles for several weeks. He says there are more possibilities of development in and around Crockett and Houston county than in any country he knows of. He has extensive investments in the north and west, and may add to these by investing in Houston county property.

Will Run Into June.

The Houston County Oil Mill and Manufacturing Company, operating the cotton seed oil mill at Crockett, and which by the way is one of the largest plants of its kind in the country, has enough seed on hand to keep its crushing machinery running until some time in June and is still buying. This mill usually closes down in April or May, but is forced to run longer this season to crush the big crop. Besides crushing seed, the oil mill manufactures feed and fertilizers. It maintains the largest payroll of any industry in the city.

Has Thirty-Two Children.

Thirty-two children, his fourth wife and seventy-nine years of age is a record that many men cannot boast of. Such is the record that John Howard, a colored carpenter of this city, points to with a feeling of pride and patriotism. He speaks slowly and regretfully of his past wives, but when speaking of his children and age it is with outbursts of pride and exuberation. He is 79 years old, has been married his fourth time and has 32 children. This is his statement and it is borne out by some of our citizens who happen to know his record.

Will Creath for Representative.

The Courier is authorized to announce W. G. Creath as a candidate for representative from Houston county in the state legislature. Mr. Creath made the race two years ago and lacked only 37 votes of getting the nomination. He is a farmer, is in close touch with the needs of the masses and is qualified to represent the people of Houston county in matters of legislation. His democracy is unquestioned and it is needless to say that his candidacy is subject to the action of his party. He will appreciate your support.

If we don't help ourselves, we can't expect others to help us. Let's patronize home industries and thereby help the homefolks—ourselves.

The Discovery of the South Pole.

It is much too early to give any critical account of Capt. Roald Amundsen's achievement. Many weeks must elapse before we are in complete possession of all his data. Yet even the laconic account, which he has cabled to the press, throws a flood of light on the mystery of Antarctic geography.

Amundsen seems to have collected enough evidence to substantiate the theory that the great chain of mountains which extends almost uninterruptedly from Alaska to Patagonia finds its continuation in a ridge connecting Victoria Land and King Edward VII Land, and which, in honor of his queen, he has named "Queen Maude's Range." The ice barrier, which had proved for a century and a half a formidable obstacle to Antarctic exploration, is found to terminate in a bay, lying between the southeast mountain range running from South Victoria Land and a range which is probably a continuation of King Edward VII Land and which extends in a southwesterly direction. Contrary to his original plan, Amundsen despatched one of his officers, Lieut. Prestud, to survey the Bay of Whales and the great ice barrier and to explore King Edward VII Land, of which practically nothing is known.

No doubt the spur of competition played its part in unfolding the secrets of the last unexplored frigid region of earth. No less than four other expeditions were in the Antarctic regions at the time when Amundsen was forcing his way south. Besides Amundsen's, there was the Japanese expedition under Lieut. Shirase, which had to retreat to Australia last spring in order to replenish its supply of dogs, and which Amundsen says landed on January 16th at the Bay of Whales, two weeks before he sailed for home; Dr. Mawson's Australian expedition, for which $215,000 had been raised up to November 1st last, and which was to land three parties between Cape Adare and Gaussberg; the German expedition under Lieut. Filchner in the "Deutschland," elaborately equipped with wireless, magnetic, and meteorological apparatus, full of the hope of establishing a base southwest of Coats Land in as high a latitude as possible; and lastly, Capt. Scott's English expedition in the "Terra Nova," which left New Zealand in November, 1910, badly damaged by stormy weather, so badly, indeed, that the necessary repairs and the cost of making good the stores that had been lost seriously depleted the resources of the party.

Amundsen seems to have been helped by exceptionally favorable weather conditions. To be sure there were storms, but not those frightful hurricanes which thwarted Shackleton. It was cold, so cold that the dogs suffered visibly; yet the average temperature was no lower than that in many an inhabited part of Canada. Amundsen himself states that part of his journey was much like a pleasure trip—"excellent ground, fine sledging, and an even temperature." The glaciers and crevasses made detours necessary, yet, despite them, progress was remarkably rapid. The party climbed up 2,000 to 5,000 feet in a day.

Throughout much of his journey Amundsen covered entirely new ground. Therefore he will bring back absolutely new information of Antarctic geography. He made up his mind that he would reach the plateau on which the Pole is situated by another route than that of Beardmore Glacier. Luck, instinct, experience, call it what you will, the new route proved easier than that which either Shackleton or Scott took on their expeditions. To that comparatively easy route, coupled with exceptionally favorable weather, may be attributed Amundsen's success.—Scientific American.

Fidelity in Small Things.

The train in which I was riding the other day was delayed by a block signal. We stopped in a freight yard and the view from my window was quite uninviting, with long rows of dingy box cars, many of which were battered and needed painting. The surroundings were anything but promising as objects for study. Snow which had fallen the night before had partly melted, and directly opposite the window was a pond of the liquid slush, about the length of a freight car, and six feet wide. One set of trucks of a box car came opposite the middle of the big puddle, and could only be reached by wading. Presently a figure came down the track carrying a can of oil and a bucket of waste. It was the car oiler. He was poorly dressed, his shoes had burst open at the sides, and—well, he scarcely answered to the picture we paint of the stuff from which heroes are made. As he advanced, each axle box was opened and oil or waste put in as required. What would he do with the box at the middle of the pond? He came to the water, hesitated only an instant, and then waded in, the icy liquid coming up to his shoe tops, for it was deep. The box was opened; it required little attention, only a few drops of oil, and he passed on to the next. He might have taken a chance on that one single box; the probabilities were all in favor of the car going through to the next division station without causing any delay or damage. On the other hand the box might as likely have been dry, and when the train had traveled ten or twenty miles have gone hot, compelling a stop not on schedule, at a place where another train following expected a clear track, and a wreck been the result.

The semaphore drops, our train gets under way, and the last glimpse of our unknown, faithful worker reveals him diligently packing waste around the axle of a coal car; but his graphic demonstration of faithfulness in small things was very satisfying, and worth taking home.—Popular Mechanics.

Average Value of Farm Land in Texas.

Washington, D. C., March 18.—The Federal Department of Agriculture has just issued a bulletin which shows that the average price per acre of farm land in Texas was $14.53 in 1910. In 119 counties the average is between $10 and $25 and in 91 counties it is less than $10 per acre. The greatest number of these counties are in the western and southwestern parts of the state, but a few in the extreme eastern part. Higher average values of farm land, ranging from $25 to $50, are found in 28 counties, nearly all of which are located in the eastern part of the state. Twenty of these lie in whole or in part in the belt of the Black and Grand prairies, where there are also six counties with value at between $50 and $75 per acre. Galveston county is the only county with an average valuation of farm land exceeding $75 per acre.

THE OLD WAY

Come to the Aid of the Tailor's Goose

The modern, sanitary, steam pressing machine has arrived in Crockett and is now performing some wonderful stunts in clothes pressing at Shupak's tailor shop. Have you ever realized, when sending your clothes to be pressed, that the cloth used to press your suit had just previously been used to press the suit of a man probably suffering from disease, filthy habits, etc.? The cloth in the interim being wetted and wrung out in a pail of probably dirtier water, which has been used to sponge other clothes, especially so toward the end of the day's work. To overcome this we have installed an up-to-date sanitary steam pressing machine, known as "THE HOFF-MAN." A garment that passes through this machine is disinfected; as no germs or microbes can exist under a temperature as high as the dry steam we inject. At the same time it removes any odor, takes away the grimy appearance, raises the nap, revives the colors and imparts to the garment that freshness desired by all dressers.

Money in Raising Colts.

In the last edition of Farm and Ranch I saw several paragraphs on the value of good brood mares so thought would send in a little experience I have had with one I have. She is a half Percheron mare, will weigh something like 900 pounds, very smooth and neatly built. I began breeding her when she was four years old. Have raised four horse colts and two mule colts from her. Have a team of Percherons, one a horse, the other a mare, that will weigh from 1400 to 1500 pounds each; they are worth about $400.

Have a young saddle horse that will make about a thousand pound horse, worth $150, also a yearling mule worth from $75 to $100. Have sold one large Percheron mare, weighed something like 1300 pounds that brought me $150, also a mule which sold for $130. Think the $40 spent for the little mare 12 years ago has brought me more income than any other $40 ever spent. Have also sold $432.50 worth of mules from the two mares raised from her.

I think it pays every farmer to have one or two good brood mares; most especially at the price horse stock has sold for the last few years. It is easier money made than raising cotton.—August Franke in Farm and Ranch.

FAST SERVICE IS PLANNED.

I. & G. N. Hopes for 25-Hour All-Pullman Train to St. Louis.

Plans are under way for an all-Pullman fast service over the International and Great Northern from Houston and Crockett to St. Louis. As yet the plans are in an embryonic state and the officials will give out no positive information as to what they intend to do. But if the scheme works out, before the summer is over a train that will make the run to St. Louis from Houston in 25 hours will be an established fact.

The Farmers and Stockmen of Houston County

Can save thousands of dollars each year, that is now being paid out to Missouri and other states for mules and horses, by breeding their mares to first-class jacks and stallions.

I have selected Crockett as one of the coming breeding sections of Texas, and have located at the Fair Grounds two of the very highest bred stallions to be found in any state in the United States, both of which are standard and registered and both of them grand individuals, and you must see them to appreciate them.

I also have two of the very highest bred jacks and both are fine individuals. Call and see them at the Fair Grounds any "old time," as it is always a pleasure to show them. I am going to breed this stock only to a limited number of mares, as I expect to race both horses this summer, so I will appreciate the favor if you will book your mares just as early as possible. I will be pleased to furnish terms and breeding on application. These horses not only produce fancy show horses, but they produce early and extreme speed. The jacks produce fine-styled mules.

I will pay $25 for the best colt from each of these horses and jacks and $25 for the second best, to be decided each year at the Houston County Fair. Yours very truly,

MESSENGER KILLS TWO BANDITS; BALKS SUNSET EXPRESS HOLDUP.

David A. Trousdale, in Charge of Express Car, Beats First Over Head With Iron Mallet and Taking His Pistol Shoots Second.

Houston, Texas, March 13.—Two train robbers, soon after midnight, held up the Sunset Express near Sanderson. They bungled their work and as a result both are dead. David A. Trousdale, the express messenger, who makes his home in San Antonio, single handed and alone, killed the bandits, one with a mallet and the other with a pistol taken from the first.

The two robbers got on the engine near Dryden, 21 miles east of Sanderson, covered the engineer and fireman, and forced them to pull the train to a lonely spot a few miles west and stop. The train was halted on an iron bridge over a stream.

Conductor Erket, knowing that something was the matter, sent his porter ahead to learn what was the trouble. The porter did not return. Then he went himself ahead and found the engineer, fireman and porter all covered. The bandits then covered him also and forced him to assist in cutting the engine, express and baggage cars loose from the train. These were pulled away from the train.

MESSENGER WAITS CHANCE.

Messenger Trousdale submitted to the demands of the robbers without protest. He permitted one of them to enter the baggage car while the other remained outside to guard the engine.

Conductor Erket's report in detail bears out every step of the holdup and killing of the bandits as told above. In telling how the killing actually took place and how the bandits' plans were upset, he reports: "Messenger Trousdale took everything good naturedly and, finally, when the opportunity presented itself, hit the one in the car on the head with a mallet. The one outside got uneasy and went back to investigate. As he got up into the car the messenger blew the whole top of his head off with the dead robber's gun."

THROWS BANDIT OFF GUARD.

When Trousdale, in attempting to "jolly" the bandit, told him he was not getting fighting wages and offered to assist him in searching the express car, the bandit said:

"You boys are going to have to help us carry this stuff across the river (the Rio Grande)."

Trousdale thereupon shoved a small package with his foot, telling the bandit it was worth more than all the stuff he had. Off his guard, for an instant, the robber stooped to pick up this package and quick as a flash Trousdale had brained him.

As the other bandit unsuspectingly approached the car where his companion lay dead, he called, "Frank."

As he spoke he stepped into the lighted mail car, and, not finding "Frank" there, started to leave the mail car, going toward the express car. Trousdale had turned out the lights in the express car, and as the bandit's form appeared in the lighted open door of the express car he opened fire with the dead bandit's rifle. The first bullet struck the robber in the left temple.

At Sanderson $41 in cash was found on the body of one of the bandits; also three gold rings. This robber wore a gold ring on his left hand, with the initial "B." Both were armed with Mauser rifles. The spot where the robbery occurred is mountainous and unsettled and about 20 miles from the Mexican border.

Mr. W. S. Jackson of Troupe, Texas, says: "I want to get another Standard Cultivator. Please send me your cash with order price."

Mr. W. B. Anderson, Cooper, Texas, says: "I bought a Standard Cultivator ten years ago. Since then I wore out two cultivators of another make, and now I want another Standard Cultivator. Have had no expense on the Standard except a few bolts. The others are worn out."

Mr. W. E. Humber of Hale County writes: "The Standard Cultivator gives me perfect satisfaction. I am now using nothing but your implements. I am offered other cultivators for less money but I don't want them."

Trousdale said:

"The first intimation I had that something was wrong was when the porter knocked on the door of my car and announced that I was wanted outside. When I stepped to the door I was covered with a Winchester.

"Reagan, my helper, and Banks, the mail clerk, and I were forced to stand by and watch the robber collect the sealed express packages. They were taken to the mail car, where a bag containing registered packages was slit open and the express packages placed inside.

USED HIM ROUGHLY.

"The robber used me very roughly, striking me frequently with his Winchester and poking me about, ordering me to 'get a move on.' That stirred my desire for revenge. By feigning indifference, I persuaded the robber to go back into the express car, telling him that he had missed a valuable package. It was my purpose to lead him into a trap.

"There is the most valuable package in the car," I said, indicating a packet with my foot. The robber bent over to get it and I struck him a hard blow on the back of the head with an ice mallet, killing him, I believe, on the instant.

TOOK TWO SIX-SHOOTERS.

"From his body I took two six-shooters. I gave one to Banks and the other to Reagan. We concealed ourselves in one end of the express car and waited. When about an hour had passed, I fired the Winchester, thinking by this strategy to alarm the other robbers, if there were any. In a few minutes a man entered the other end of the car, crawling stealthily behind some trunks. He thrust his head from behind a trunk and I potted him.

"Then I waited for some time, all was still and we dared not move. In about another hour I gave the signal for the engineer to back up.

"That is the whole story, so far as I know, except that when we got to Sanderson I went before the grand jury, then in session, and told of my experience."

The County Paper.

While it is not at all compulsory for a man to subscribe for his local paper, still there is a moral obligation resting upon each individual to not only do so, but to observe the unusual plan and pay for it. There are a thousand and one moth-eaten excuses why a man don't support the local paper. One will say, "I'm too poor." Such a character should move to another location. If he is too poor to pay a dollar or two for the benefit of his community he is precious little benefit to said community.

Another says, "I'd take Smith's paper, but I don't like his politics." Such an excuse is absolutely absurd, unless Smith is an anarchist. Remember you are not expected to believe everything an editor puts in his paper. You'd be in a bad fix if you did. It is not the editor you are supporting, but an institution that is working to benefit your town and section and if you are so con-founded selfish you are willing to see your country's interest go down because the editor don't belong to your "party" it is high time you were pulling out. Another man will say, "I'd take the home paper, but it's got nothing in it."

In each town and county, however, there is a class of enterprising, wide-awake, progressive merchants and farmers who support the local press liberally, while there is also a large per cent of those close-fisted, stingy old roosters who take cramp in the fingers every time they touch a dime. They actually live and do business and prosper on the labor and enterprise of their neighbors, and like an old lazy razorback, they stand under the tree waiting for the squirrels to knock the acorns. We will be delighted to see the time when such characters will not only be denied good society, but will actually be invited to move out or reform. Each man has a right to do as he likes with his own, but this fact does not relieve him of his duties to his country and the society in which he moves. These remarks apply to all public enterprises, and the support of your local papers is only one of the number.—Granbury Democrat.

R. G. Collins, postmaster, Barnegat, N. J., was troubled with a severe lagrippe cough. He says: "I would be completely exhausted after each fit of violent coughing. I bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and before I had taken it all the coughing spells had entirely ceased. It can't be beat." I. W. Sweet.

The Diturnal Watterson.

Colonel Watterson has exploded again with respect to Governor Wilson—the third detonation within a week. On the main question he gives no new information. His first statement made entirely clear the circumstances under which Governor Wilson candidly answered a question that was plumped at him. Nothing has been added since to the main story—namely, that Harvey silently and Watterson loudly began the meanest sort of attack on Governor Wilson when it appeared that the governor, while willing to have friends, had no desire to have managers.

But, though there is nothing new concerning the principal incident, Colonel Watterson's diturnal fulminations furnish interesting sidelights. It is conclusively shown what is Colonel Watterson's conception of politics. This conception is of such a nature that it is not strange that Watterson and Wilson found themselves out of sympathy as they grew better acquainted. Take the Ryan matter, for example. Watterson says he suggested to McCombs, the Wilson manager, the desirability of "touching" Thomas Fortune. McCombs says the Ryan suggestion was rejected, and Watterson that it was eagerly accepted. Watterson seeks to resolve in his favor the issue of veracity thus squarely raised by exclaiming, "Fancy a political promoter refusing money from anywhere or anybody!"

In this sentence Watterson gives the public view of his notion of how the game of politics must be played. He can not conceive of a candidate being sincerely opposed to receiving secret political contributions from men who may be suspected of giving in the hope of being able to get dividends on the gift after election. To Watterson the only possible reason for rejecting such money is fear lest the fact of his acceptance become known. In other words, Watterson thought Wilson was a hypocrite when he negated the proposal to solicit a Ryan contribution. Watterson, as he intimates, can not see how Wilson could be willing to accept a pension as a retired teacher from a fund created for the benefit of retired teachers and then balk at a secret Ryan contribution to his campaign fund.

Obviously and palpably it was impossible for Wilson and Watterson to get along together. They disagreed as to fundamentals. Can any one blame Woodrow Wilson for avoiding an adviser who kept running to him with suggestions like the Ryan one? If Harvey's friendship was of the same type it is not strange that the friendship came to wreck—that is, if Woodrow Wilson be not a consummate scoundrel. Think of Watterson with the sympathy, if not the active help, of Harvey, trying to get Wilson to go after Ryan money! Then think of the two going out and blackguarding Wilson because he refused!

Think also of that other scene at Harvey's house at Deal Beach referred to by Watterson. Harvey, as host, was there, and Dr. Wilson, then an honored university president, and Watterson, and last but not least the patriotic James Smith, Jr. of Newark. The object of the meeting was to get Wilson into politics. Watterson confesses to starting things by saying more than a governorship would need to be in sight to warrant Dr. Wilson quitting his exalted station to get down into the bull-ring of politics. The patriotic Smith declared that he wanted nothing for himself, but that the state must be "redeemed," and that Dr. Wilson was the only man who could do it. Was this a gathering of men with no thought except those of friendship and public duty? Was not Dr. Wilson conferring rather than accepting a favor when he consented to run? Were not the three persuaders each more anxious to get him out as a candidate than he was to become one? Talk not of the obligation a candidate is under to his groomers! Three times out of four it is he that confers the favor. In the summer of 1910, Harvey, Watterson and Smith had more need of Wilson than he of them—two from a desire to feed their vanity and perhaps to rehabilitate the party, and the other to get back to the senate.

It is not essential to Dr. Wilson's happiness, one may assume, that he receives a presidential nomination. But it is essential, one may assume, that he be not the kind of man Watterson or Harvey apparently demanded that he be. It is not agreeable to have a charge of ingratitude hurled at you. It is an accusation easy to make and hard to meet. But an honest man and politician will not hesitate when his choice is to betray the public or to encounter the charge. He will not hesitate even though he knows that his late friends, who were never his friends at all, but merely men who hoped to use him, intend to spread broadcast garbled accounts of confidential conversations, and that no reply can be made except at the cost of getting down into the mud with them.—New York Globe.

Quality.

Quality is akin to Character, in that without it all things would be equal.

It is a distinguishing element in men and things; a degree of goodness that sets the standard by which others are judged.

Quality is a word pregnant with significance. It may be applied to Goods, to Services, or to Ability.

As surely as a spark flies upward, so extravagant assertions of advantages, economics, and utility, cannot long cope with actual merit in merchandise and men.

What things bring the highest price, and afford the greatest gratification? The Quality things.

To whom are the greatest rewards granted in this game of life? To the men who build on Quality.

Enforcing the Laws.

The frequency with which juries have lately been returning the verdict of guilty and assessing the death penalty is calculated to make a murderer think at least half of one time before firing his revolver. Human life has been held entirely too cheap in Texas. There have been entirely too many loop holes for a murderer to escape the penalty of his crime. Let our laws be changed so that swift and severe punishment is a practical certainty and the taking of life will not be considered so lightly by a "tanked up, would-be bad man."—Yoakum Herald.

Commenting upon the above the Cuero Star says: "The Herald is on the right track, but is overlooking the most potent remedy. The Star has heretofore pointed out that cowardice in the jury box was the cause of most of our miscarriage of justice. We have lots of law and good law. What we want is men who will enforce the law in the jury box without regard to conferring favor upon some and unduly punishing others. Men who have the discernment and character to enforce the law in the jury box as the facts warrant. The Star does not believe that half the jurors get right down to business and say in their verdict that the case at the bar is an infraction of law. You let jurors go to looking at the case this way and we won't have nearly so much complaint at the law. The federal courts amply prove this. The man who is guilty hardly ever escapes there for the reason that jurors are drawn from a large section and don't know whether the accused is good or bad. The old saw that better 99 guilty should escape than one innocent be punished has been worked to death likewise reasonable doubt. Some times the courts are used as instruments of persecution and a man has a right to a legal defense. But it is for the juror to determine the guilt or innocence. Sometimes popular attorneys or court officials have much to do with the verdict rendered, but the juror must get above these if he wants to help his country, save himself money in taxation and discharge his legal and moral duty."

Cattle Die of Cerebro-Meningitis.

Dr. Haslam of the Kansas station has shown that many deaths of cattle, ordinarily attributed to frosted feed, and often called "cornstalk disease," is really the contagious ailment cerebro-meningitis. Instead of having troubles in the stomach and bowels caused by the feed, the cattle were infested with germs, which were detected by aid of microscope, and grown by the million in a broth made of calves' brains.

When the cause of such a disease is once learned, a successful campaign may be hoped for against it. The greatest ally of disease at any time is ignorance. There is no such thing as an unimportant fact.

WELL KNOWN TEXAN VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA.

Decedent Had Been Secretary of State Fair of Texas for Twenty-Five Years.

Dallas, Texas, March 13.—Captain Sydney Smith, for the last twenty-five years secretary of the State fair of Texas, died at his home here at 8 o'clock this morning of pneumonia. He was seventy-three years of age, a native of Alabama, and had been ill for the last several weeks. He was surrounded at the time of his death, which was peaceful, by all the members of his family, including his daughters, Mrs. Margaret Stratton of Dallas and Mrs. Tallulah Bailey of Houston, and a son, Sydney Smith, Jr.

Captain Smith was born in Marengo county, Alabama, and came to Texas forty-nine years ago, selecting Dallas as his residence. When the call of war sounded in 1861 he responded and fought voluntarily through the four year's conflict. He entered the army as a member of company D, First Mississippi regiment, and served throughout the entire four years' strife. When the war ended he was an aide-de-camp with the rank of captain and on the staff of General Jackson. After the war he returned to his Mississippi plantation and followed the life of a planter, in the meantime aiding greatly in the rehabilitation of the State which had been devastated by the war.

The Wilson Strength.

The editor of the Enterprise attended the Wilson meeting in Waco Saturday, March 2. It was one of the most remarkable meetings ever held in Texas, when the personnel of those attending is considered. There were prohibitionists, anti-prohibitionists, Bailey men, anti-Bailey men, and every other shade and complexion of democrats, at the meeting, enthusiastic for Wilson, believing that he is the ideal candidate, feeling that he will get the nomination, ready and willing to labor earnestly to advance his cause. In the deliberations all these various political divisions mixed and mingled harmoniously, and nowhere was there a single ripple of discord. A very strong committee was appointed to prepare an address to the democrats of Texas, and that committee represents every shade of democratic division, showing conclusively that Governor Wilson is the one man on whom all can concentrate and harmonize and sweep into victory in November.

The rapidity with which the Wilson sentiment has swept the country is an evidence of the statesman's wonderful grasp of the needs of the masses, and his sympathetic hold upon their hearts. He is discovered to be of stronger mold every time he is tried, and the flings of his enemies fall harmlessly from his head. The men who gathered in Waco are among the brainiest and the most patriotic in Texas, and they are deeply in earnest in their desire to nominate the New Jersey governor. —Cleburne Enterprise.

John W. Sickelsmith, Greensboro, Pa., has three children, and like most children they frequently take cold. "We have tried several kinds of cough medicine," he says, "but have never found any yet that did them as much good as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." For sale by all dealers.

When you have rheumatism in your foot or instep apply Chamberlain's Liniment and you will get quick relief. It costs but a quarter. Why suffer? For sale by all dealers.

WANT TROUSDALE ON STAGE.

Express Messenger Who Killed Two Bandits Says He Wants No Notoriety. Will Retain Position.

San Antonio, Tex., March 15.—Though he has received numerous enticing offers to go on the stage, David A. Trousdale, the Wells Fargo express messenger who killed Ed Welch and Ben Kilpatrick, the two outlaws who held up and attempted to rob Sunset train No. 9 Wednesday morning near Dryden, will retain his present position.

"Theatrical stunts," he said, "are not in my line. None of the propositions have had any interest for me. Besides, I don't want the notoriety."

Offers have come from all parts of the country, promising Mr. Trousdale handsome sums to re-enact the dramatic scenes of the holdup. One of the most enticing came from the manager of an El Paso theater, who made an offer of $100 a week and traveling expenses, with a guarantee of two months' salary.

Mr. Trousdale has been given ten days off duty. In the meantime G. A. Taft of Houston, general superintendent of the Wells Fargo Express Company, will come to San Antonio and make arrangements with the messenger for his future work. He desires to retain his present run between this city and El Paso.

Scores of telegrams and letters have been received by Mr. Trousdale since the news of his experience with the robbers went abroad. One was from the Board of Trade at Columbia, Tenn., where he was born and reared. The telegram reads:

"All Murray County is proud of your heroism and devotion to duty." This is the only one to which Mr. Trousdale made answer. "Columbia," he said, "is the place

ONE OF BANDITS IDENTIFIED.

Sanderson, Tex., March 14.—One of the men who attempted to hold up the passenger train near here Tuesday night has been identified positively as Ben Kilpatrick, who was formerly a member of the Black Jack gang of train robbers, which operated in this section about ten years ago. He was just out of a Montana prison, where he had served a term for train robbery, having been pardoned, it is stated, about eight months ago. The Black Jack gang had their headquarters west of the Pecos river and several men belonged to it, nearly all of whom were killed. The gang committed several daring robberies in this section.

Captain Sanders' Company of rangers came in last night to investigate the robbery and see if any others were implicated. So far no clew has been made public. The dead men are not yet buried. Wednesday they lay all day on a truck outside the depot, where they were viewed by hundreds. Today they have been kept in the warehouse of the freight depot.

Boon Kilpatrick, brother of Ben Kilpatrick, wired that he would reach here tonight. It is probable that the bodies will be buried tomorrow.

The second man has not been identified positively. Acquaintances of the party who the man was at first thought to be say that it is not he. It is said that the rangers have a photograph of a man wanted in the North, for whom a reward of $2,500 is offered, whose appearance and description exactly fit this man, but nothing authentic has been given out.

DECLARE IT IS KILPATRICK.

Death Recalls Killing of Camilla Hanks at San Antonio.

San Antonio, Texas, March 14.—Ben Kilpatrick, one of the Sunset train robbers killed by Express Messenger David A. Trousdale near Sanderson Wednesday morning, has been definitely identified as the same Kilpatrick who, in 1902, was connected with the Northern Pacific train robbery perpetrated by Black Jack's Hole-in-the-Wall gang and for which Kilpatrick served a term in the Montana penitentiary.

In the celebrated Northern Pacific robbery Kilpatrick is believed to have had as one of his pals Camilla Hanks, who was shot in "Red" Souter's saloon in San Antonio the night of April 16, 1902, by Policeman "Pink" Taylor. Hanks was shot three times, twice through the heart and once through the brain, dying instantly. When searched he had in his pocket $468, of which $400 was in unsigned bank notes, being part of the consignment stolen in the Northern Pacific robbery.

The killing of Hanks came as a result of his flourishing his revolver in Souter's place and Patrolman Walter Harvey of this city has reason to remember it in all its details since he was himself shot by Hanks at that time.

In reciting the tragedy tonight Harvey said: "Taylor, Dave Hughes, a negro policeman, and myself had met by appointment to raid a negro dive near there. Taylor was calling up the station when Souter came in and said there was a fellow over at his place flourishing a gun and we started over to Souter's place. When we reached the place, instead of pushing open the swinging door I pulled it to me. Hanks was sitting over to the left of the room. As we entered he struggled to his feet and drew a gun. I clinched with him, but he slid his right arm, holding his revolver, under my left and pulled the trigger. The bullet struck my belt buckle or it would have knocked me down. By that time, however, I had his other arm pinned to his side, and Taylor, stepping to one side, pumped two bullets into Hanks. Although, as it developed after, both of these were through the main artery just above the heart, they did not stop the struggle and I rushed him back across the room. At that point his head dropped on my shoulder, and Taylor, thinking Hanks intended to bite me, fired directly into his head.

"When searched he had another revolver in his other hip pocket and $468 in money on him. Of this amount $400 was in unsigned bank notes, a portion of the plunder stolen from a Northern Pacific train in Montana a short time previous."

A Cold, Lagrippe, Then Pneumonia Is too often the fatal sequence, and coughs that hang on weaken the system and lower the vital resistance. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a reliable medicine that stops the cough promptly by healing the cause; soothes the inflamed air passages, and checks the cold. Keep always on hand. Refuse substitutes. I. W. Sweet.

THE VALUE OF ATTRACTIVENESS

JAMES E. DOYLE, JR.

PRINTED Advertising in offering an economical and effective method of placing a proposition before prospective customers is simply a means of presentation.

This being the case, the principal and important topic to be considered is the presentation.

The method of presenting a proposition regulates the way it will be received.

If a proposition is to be received favorably it must be presented effectively.

Of two propositions of equal merit, presented through the media of advertising, one may succeed and one may fail.

It is simply a matter of presentation.

One of the most successful manufacturers in the country attributes his success to good goods, backed up by good advertising.

By good advertising he means good presentation of his proposition.

A proposition is well presented when it makes a favorable impression.

Many successful men attribute their success to the favorable impressions made by their advertising.

Results from advertising cannot be regulated by the amount of money spent.

Greater returns will be received from a small list appropriately presented, than from a large list with cheap presentation.

Some advertisers claim to receive good returns from the use of cheaply printed advertising. They get returns, not because of the use of cheap advertising, but in spite of it.

Where the proposition itself is of such apparent value that it overshadows the method of presentation, the advertiser is sure of good returns. If good advertising is used—the returns will be much greater.

Good printing creates a stimulus to read—and when coupled with a simple, strong statement, carries great conviction.

Courier printing is carrying conviction into the homes of Houston county. Are you using it?

Why It Pays to Buy Advertised Goods

When you buy goods of a man who advertises, you can always count on getting the worth of your money for several reasons, two of which we give here:

FIRST: No man who charges exorbitant prices for his merchandise is going to turn on the light that newspaper advertising gives. It is the man who believes that he can sell you goods at a saving that will carry the message to you through your local paper. And ninety-nine times out of a hundred he will back up his advertised statements.

SECOND: When you buy goods of an advertiser, you can always depend upon the quality, for that man could not afford to advertise an inferior article. His merchandise is always new, because his stock does not lie on his shelves until it is worn out or out of date.

It will always pay you to buy goods from Courier advertisers.

THE FARMER'S CHANCE.

The farmers of Houston county now have a better opportunity than ever before offered to raise fine horses and mules. A breeder and trainer has located at the Houston County Fair grounds with two of the best stallions and two of the best jacks that he could find after a search through more than one state. His horses represent many years of upbreeding and no less can be said of his jacks and they were selected especially to suit the needs of Houston county. They are good-sized and active, represent endurance and speed, and are heavy enough for ordinary farm usage. This is just the kind of stock the farmers of Houston county need, and one does not have to go far to find that the stock our farmers have needs improving. Houston county and the rest of east Texas have long enough been the dumping-ground of west Texas for scrub horses and mules. There is good stock in west Texas, but it is kept there, while the inferior grades are dumped into east Texas. The west has stopped buying east Texas inferior cattle and east Texas must stop buying the west's inferior horse stock. The west has begun to raise its own cattle and east Texas must begin to raise its own horses and mules. A few horses have been raised at Crockett during the past few years and very few of them can be bought at any price. Those that have changed hands have brought fancy prices, selling singly in a few instances as high as $350, which is conclusive proof that as good stock can be raised here as elsewhere. The average farmer can make a crop with two mares and at the same time raise two colts worth $500 when matured. This can be repeated year after year, and what farmer is it that would not be benefited by this $500 surplus crop yearly? The drain on Houston county for its horse stock has been enormous, and the time has come when our people should call a halt and keep their horse and mule money at home. Hundreds of horses and mules are shipped into Houston county every year that should be raised here. The Houston County Fair Association has been untiring in its efforts to get some good stock located here and has succeeded, and it is now up to the people to reap the benefits of the association's efforts.

COLQUITT FOR GOVERNOR.

It will be recalled by many of our subscribers that the Courier supported Davidson for governor two years ago and that six years ago this paper supported C. K. Bell for that office. The only time the editor of this paper ever voted for Governor Campbell was four years ago when he was making his second race. We did not believe then and we do not believe now that when a public officer fulfills every pledge made before election and stands on the platform on which he was elected he should be condemned and turned out of office at the end of his first term. If he should be unfaithful to his pledges and promises and fail to stay by the platform on which the people elected him, then he should not be permitted to enjoy a second term in office. The second term has come to be construed as an endorsement of his first term. For this reason the editor of this paper, while not agreeing with Governor Campbell in some of his policies, supported him in his second race. Governor Campbell had stood squarely by the platform on which he ran and on which he was elected. For this same reason the Courier is going to support Colquitt for re-election. The editor of this paper has never before voted for Colquitt, but we know of no good reason now why he should not be re-elected. Two years ago Colquitt ran against four of the best men in the state and received more votes than any other man in the race. The issues were clear-cut and he was unequivocal in announcing his position on all questions. Whether or not we agreed with him, he has stood by the platform on which he was elected, and the people knew his platform before they elected him. We are now for him. He is not the candidate of any ex-governor seeking to perpetuate his own policies, and that is another reason why we are for him.

There is an old story of a lazy man whose family had nothing to eat, and a neighbor offered to give him a bushel of corn if he would come and get it. The man showed very little interest in the offer and finally said that if the corn was shelled he might think about the matter, but otherwise he would not bother with it. The Texas Industrial Congress is offering, absolutely free, to every farmer in the state, whether man, woman, boy or girl, an equal chance at 142 cash prizes, making a total of $10,000, if they will undertake to cultivate their crops this year with a little more care and attention than heretofore. There are no strings tied to this offer. The prizes are absolutely free. No contestant is required to pay anything at any time, and the crop he raises is his to do with as he pleases. All that he is asked to do is to send his name to the Congress at Dallas before April 1, stating that he wants to try for the prizes offered and agreeing to give his crop systematic care and cultivation. With such a liberal offer as this, it would seem that every farmer in Texas would take some interest in it, but apparently there are many who care nothing about the matter and will not even consider it "unless the corn is shelled." No one who enters the contest can possibly lose anything, but on the other hand all will derive some benefit from it, for even if they do not win prizes they will raise better crops and will learn something about farming that will be of value to them in the future. Entries in the contest will not be received after April 1, and we urge our readers to write to the Congress today for information and application blanks.

The supporters of Governor Harmon of Ohio for the democratic presidential nomination are hard-pressed when they attempt to revive the Bailey issue in Texas in the interest of their candidate. The following telegram appeared in the Galveston News of March 18, in which Judge Rice Maxey, manager of the Harmon campaign in Texas, says Woodrow Wilson's nomination would mean the repudiation of Bailey: "Dallas, Texas, March 17.—In a formal statement issued at Harmon's Texas headquarters here by Judge Rice Maxey, who is in charge of the Ohioan's campaign in this state, it is asserted that the success of Woodrow Wilson in Texas would mean the repudiation of the tariff contention and record of Senator Bailey. This is construed by some to be, in effect, a call to the Bailey men to rally to the support of Harmon."

The purpose of the Courier is to record accurately, simply and interestingly the moral, intellectual, industrial and political progress of Houston county. The purpose of every citizen in the county should be to give us his moral and financial support, and this, we are glad to say, is not lacking in substantial evidence.

Chas. Long for Commissioner.

Chas. Long announces as a candidate for county commissioner from precinct No. 2. There are very few people in Houston county who do not know Mr. Long. At one time he was a deputy sheriff and more than once has he served on grand juries and finance committees. He was for several terms one of this city's aldermen and as such was noted for his ability and honesty. He assisted in getting a change for the school bonds whereby they will soon be taken up. He is a farmer and is making the race at the solicitation of his friends both in the town and the country.

Roosevelt Is Embarrassed.

New York, March 17.—The New York Herald says: "Less than a month after his famous 'hat in the ring' declaration, Theodore Roosevelt finds himself in one of the most embarrassing positions of his public career. The avalanche of popular approval which his friends predicted would overwhelm President Taft and sweep Mr. Roosevelt to victory in the fight for the republican presidential nomination has not developed. Instead, there have been desertions from the Roosevelt ranks. States which always had exhibited a strong liking for him have rebuked him; county conventions in many states have resentfully turned down resolutions
