The plant now has three supervisors, Anne Rowland, Della Porras and Doris Jones.

Hensley-Russell has been in operation in Texas for about five years. They have three plants, one in Dallas which is for designing, cutting and shipping and the ones in Cameron and Muleshoe which are for sewing the garments. The company manufactures only children's clothing.

The company has announced that it plans to expand in Muleshoe to possibly 180 employees in the future. The present facility is now full to capacity. Company officials announced when the plant first opened that they would be expanding and moving into a larger plant when the demand required it.

Importance Of Choosing The Right Babysitter

AUSTIN--One of the most important jobs a person can have is being responsible for someone else's child, yet parents too frequently hire a babysitter at the last minute and know very little about her and fail to give her the proper instructions. The Texas Safety Association urges parents to choose a sitter wisely. If possible pick her from a family with whom you are acquainted. Know that she is reliable. It is important that your sitter enjoy keeping children for she is apt to be more attentive and cooperative with your instructions. Whether teenager or grandmother, the sitter you want should be capable of using good judgement -- for example, never admitting a stranger to the house, never permitting dangerous play, never leaving a child alone even for a minute. Every sitter should be able to administer first aid for minor cuts and bruises. Ask the sitter to come at least 15 minutes ahead of time; this will give her time to read and hear your instructions and to get acquainted with your children. Write down the phone number and address of the place you intend to be. Tell her when you expect to return and always phone if you are delayed. List on a permanent card near the telephone the phone numbers of the police, ambulance service, family doctor, and nearest relative or friend who can be contacted in case of an emergency. Before you leave make sure all the doors and windows are locked. Show the sitter how to unlock them and advise her of the best exits in case of fire. Warn your sitter not to fall asleep--people who are not mothers are not well turned to children's night sounds and may not awaken quickly. Ask her to always investigate when the children cry; there may never be a serious cause but its best to be sure. Don't hire an inexperienced sitter if your children are ill. These suggestions will give you peace of mind that things are all right at home and increase your pleasure in your trip or evening out. But more importantly they may someday prevent a family disaster during your absence. We arrive at the truth, not by the reason only, but also by the heart. -Blaise Pascal.

Introducing Solids To Baby's Diet

COLLEGE STATION -- Although baby can't live on milk forever, ideas vary on when to start adding solid foods to his diet.

Francis L. Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University, cited the current trend as starting between the first six to eight weeks.

"Opinions, however, vary from a few days to four months of age," she noted. "An infant, in fact, can digest and utilize solid foods even during his first few days of life."

The specialist maintained that solid foods, as any other new food, should be added gradually. Usually, they're first introduced at the night feeding.

Precooked cereals are the first addition. Cereals are enriched with B-vitamins and iron -- found in small amounts or lacking in milk.

"At first," Miss Reasonover warned, "a baby may have some difficulty moving solid food around in his mouth and then swallowing it, so it should be diluted with milk or water."

"Before long, baby will learn to handle this new experience--to manipulate and swallow." Begin feeding only a small amount of cereal at first -- only one-fourth to one-half teaspoon, the specialist suggested.

After cereals, pureed fruits and vegetables may be added--generally between the ages of one and four months.

"As before, feed only a small amount and increase gradually. To provide new flavors and textures, serve a variety of fruits and vegetables.

After fruits and vegetables are well-established in the diet, add egg yolks and strained or pureed meat.

"Both are excellent sources of iron," the specialist continued. "Iron becomes increasingly necessary after the infant is three months of age."

Egg whites are usually withheld because during the first year many infants are allergic to them. "Certain foods serve additional purposes. Toast and crackers, for example, help train baby to chew his food. Later, they are considered 'finger foods' and are easily managed by baby when learning to feed himself.

"By three months of age, baby should be receiving a variety of foods from the four basic food groups."

If there is an "average diet," a one-year-old will consume the following daily: three to four cups of milk, one whole egg and two tablespoons meat, poultry or fish.

Also, two tablespoons each of potatoes and green leafy or yellow vegetables, one medium orange or 1/2 to 3/4 cup tomato juice, 1/4 cup other fruit, 1/4 cup cereal, 1/2 to one slice of bread, one teaspoon margarine and vitamin D supplements.

Children Form Eating Habits That Last For A Lifetime

Horace Mann, a noted American educator wrote, "Habit is a cable; we weave a thread of it every day and at last we cannot break it." The habit of good eating, when established in babyhood and on through adolescence, is one of the most cherished gifts that parents can give to a child.

The small child mimics his parents in attitudes toward food served. Start out by setting an example at breakfast. The young child is a keen observer of Dad's quick morning coffee and "Sorry, I don't have time for more this morning." Learning to like a variety of food begins in babyhood, with serving a variety of pureed food and graduating from these to regular grown-up food prepared in a variety of ways.

Making meals a family sit-down affair develops the habit of regular hours for meals, not just for the kids, but for Mom and Dad, too. Food that looks attractive is usually eaten quickly. A garnish of parsley, paprika or a bright orange or lemon wedge or cartwheel will give left-over hash or turkey pizzaz.

So many mothers complain that their youngsters do not like and will not eat vegetables. Here are a few tips that will develop the vegetable habit:

- (1) Serve only a teaspoon or tablespoon or a new vegetable for the first time. This amount is a taste tease and won't overwhelm.
- (2) Don't overcook vegetables. Most youngsters like them crisp and chewy. Let them pick pieces up as finger food. It's better to establish a liking for a new food first. Good manners will follow.
- (3) Combine bite-size pieces or orange with vegetables. They go together beautifully and provide color contrast as well as flavor contrast. Add orange pieces to cooked cabbage, cabbage slaw, zucchini, and fresh green salads. By combining favorite oranges with new or non-favorite vegetables, there is a pleasant association.
- (4) Tangerines, too, can combine with vegetables. They are so easy to peel and the segments are so easy to separate. Make delightful flower or face designs over cottage cheese salad or pudding. What child can resist a face design looking up from his plate with a big tangerine smile?

Don't be fenced in by your child's strong feelings about a certain food when he was very young. Just because a very young child rejected the tartness of grapefruit does not mean he will always feel so. Serve it later when he can eat it from the shell. Most youngsters love to remove the "meat" from grapefruit, counting the segments as they eat them. It becomes a game. Remember to save the grapefruit shell. Clean out the remaining membrane and rinse. Use as a special container for a not-so-well-liked food at supper.

STATE Capital NEWS

By BILL BOYKIN

AUSTIN, TEX.--They didn't separate "church" and "state" in the Capitol city last week. You might say they got engaged.

The Texas Conference of Churches met in Austin for its fourth annual Assembly of Representatives--and enjoyed discussing a good round of political issues along with the ecumenical resolutions.

A "state" breakfast was held for officials of Texas' governmental bodies, and humorist Cactus Pryor allowed that "mixing ministers with legislators and getting a little religion might help the office holders and benefit the state."

Some of the issues of "politics" and "religion" were controversial, and the leaders of most of Texas church bodies seemed to enjoy their encounter with governmental leaders.

But, tax exemptions for property owned by churches have become an issue in most states, and church officials seemed to be wary of pressing political issues too far into the "never-never" land of lobbying.

The Conference leaders did discuss resolutions on the forthcoming state constitutional convention, welfare education and reform, public school financing and public education.

One of the most controversial resolutions concerned the Farah strike and collective bargaining.

OPEN MEETINGS BILL AMENDMENTS PROPOSED--The open meeting bill encountered a swarm of suggested amendments during a four-hour hearing before the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

School board and university regents representatives proposed changes which Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena accepted, in the main, as "good faith" attempts to make the bill workable.

Some amendments also were proposed by media representatives.

The measure went to subcommittee, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who attended part of the hearing, said he is hopeful of Senate passage.

NEWSMEN'S PRIVILEGE BILL Hearings on the "free flow of information" bill, commonly called the newsmen's privilege bill, has been set for March 13 at 2 p.m. in the Lieutenant Governor's committee room.

FEDERAL INVESTIGATION?--Treasury Department agent's questions about state government, bank charters and water districts provided Texas legislators their major topic of conversation last week.

At least four House members and three Senators reported being interviewed by the Treasury sleuths on a variety of topics. Some took the inquiries seriously, while others treated them as a joke or a "fishing expedition."

Regular state investigatory agencies were not taken into the federal investigator's confidence.

"I feel safe in saying we haven't been contacted," said

Atty. Gen. John Hill. Sens. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas and Robert Gammage of Houston were among senators who talked freely of their questioning by a "T-man" in a trench coat. Rep. Lane Denton of Waco said he had also been queried about a number of subjects late in January but declined to provide details.

Mauzy said he had been informed the Treasury Department has a special task force on corruption of public officials. He said an agent identified as R.R. Caldwell told him he was a member of a task force that conducted an investigation of Louisiana state government which resulted in convictions of some officials.

According to Mauzy, the agent spent more time asking him about creation of special water districts in Harris County than anything else. He said he was also questioned as to whether he knew anything about how bank charters were awarded, if he had knowledge of legislators taking bribes, how state colleges acquired land and let contracts and if state purchasing is done on competitive bids.

Some legislators joked that one of the T-men wore a Nixon tie clasp and didn't ask any questions about Republicans.

There may have been more kidding if legislators didn't remember another federal agency --the Securities and Exchange Commission--that bared 1969 stock dealings by high state officials which led to conviction of former House Speaker Gus Mutscher for bribery.

Legislators questioned recently were assured they weren't under investigation. COURTS SPEAK--The State Supreme Court agreed the family of a pilot killed in a crash at Dallas six years ago should collect damages due to an admittedly-faulty propeller. 22A Harris County doctor won reversal of a life sentence for killing his hospital partner in the Court of Criminal Appeals. A controversy over immunity granted a key prosecution witness was cited in the reversal.

The Court of Criminal Appeals refused the appeal of two truckers who sought exemption from a law against carrying explosives. The Harris County men were sentenced to 25 years for possession of a bomb.

TRAFFIC OFFENDER BILL OFFERED--Governor Briscoe in a special message gave his endorsement to legislation to remove habitual traffic offenders from Texas streets and highways.

The bill, backed by the Texas Association of Insurance Agents, provides for revoking drivers' licenses of persons convicted of four specified major driving violations or 12 moving traffic violations in a five-year period. It also provides for felony fine and probation for habitual offenders who drive without licenses.

$57 MILLION MORE ASKED FOR WELFARE--The State Board of Public Welfare wants $57 million more in state funds than recommended by the Legislative Budget Board's new-tax budget.

Board members said Nixon Administration programs are demanding more state money. They cited amendments transferring to the federal government aged, blind and disabled programs which had been administered by the states.

"The increased cost to Texas to make up for withheld federal funds may be so prohibitive that some programs will be lost entirely and others may be cut back severely," said Welfare Commissioner Raymond Vowell. He cited medical aid, child care and personnel services.

The Board approved a $695 million state spending program for 1974 which would mean an overall budget of about $1 billion. The LBB budget proposal, said Board staff members, would reduce welfare spending overall by $150 million, considering lost U.S. aid.

COMPATATIVE NEGLIGENCE BILL ADVANCES--A bill to permit accident victims to collect damages though they were partly at fault moved through the House of Representatives in spite of warnings it might raise insurance rates.

The legislation, backed by Texas Trial Lawyers Association, would set up a so-called comparative negligence system. Juries would find percentages of fault and award damages in proportion to negligence of the parties to accidents. Among other measures approved by the House was Speaker Price Daniel Jr.'s proposal to require speakership candidates to disclose their campaign financing.

APPOINTMENTS-- Governor Briscoe named former Sen. Joe Christi of El Paso to fill a vacancy on the State Board of Insurance created by Senate rejection of Ray Kilpatrick who had been appointed by former Gov. Preston Smith.

Briscoe also announced these appointments:

Judge Tom Coleman of Houston as chief justice of the First Court of Civil Appeals at Houston; M's. Carmen Hicks of Bandera to Bandera County River Authority; William Garland Button and Cam F. Dowell Jr. of Dallas (reappointments) and G.C. Morris of Austin to the East Texas State University board of regents; R.B. McGowan Jr. of Pecos (reappointment) to the Pecos River Compact Commission.

M's. Cathy Ward of Austin was designated state Republican speaker's bureau director. NINE HUNDRED WANT TO HELP REWRITE CONSTITU-TION--A selection committee to pick a 37-member commission to rewrite the state constitution soon found too many people want to help.

The six top officials on the committee went to work late last week trying to reduce the list of 900 nominees or volunteers for commission membership to 37.

Members of the commission must make their recommendations for constitutional reform by November. The legislature will convene as a constitutional convention next January. SHORT SNORTS

The Senate confirmed Joe D. Carter's reappointment to the Texas Water Rights Commission, but postponed action on Maj. Gen. Thomas Bishop as adjutant general.

Recommendations of the National Water Commission as they relate to agriculture would depopulate rural areas, destroy productive capacity and drive down farm prices, claims Agriculture Commissioner John White.

The Legislature paid special tribute to new World heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman of Houston.

Attorney General Hill has been called on by the Senate to drop appeal of the Texas legislative redistricting case.

INAUGURATION COST

The Capitol is almost ready for its 44th inauguration of a President. The cost is expected to be more than $500,000. The dome has had a fresh coat of paint and a grandstand costing about $425,000 have been erected.

Exemption from ad valorem taxes applies to residence of all those over 65 in spite of age of others interested in the home. Hill ruled in an opinion. Hill also ruled Grayson County commissioners may amend their 1973 budget to increase salaries of non-elected employees--but not retroactively.

INCREASE & DEFENSE Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird reports the defense budget will have to be increased in spite of an expected U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam. He said increased costs in manpower and negotiations for European security would account most of the higher budget.

We're proud our seeds have earned the trust of farmers like these...

Johnie Prater recorded a yield of 7000 pounds on 25 acres of Pioneer brand 8417. "Good standability and easy threshing," please Johnie Prater, Rt. 5 Box 1A, Muleshoe, Texas.

Lawrence Shankle made an outstanding yield of 10,391 pounds on 50 acres of Pioneer brand 3306. An outstanding corn for grain or silage, 3306 "stands well and was ready to thresh when I expected it to be," says Lawrence Shankle, Rt. 2, Muleshoe, Texas.

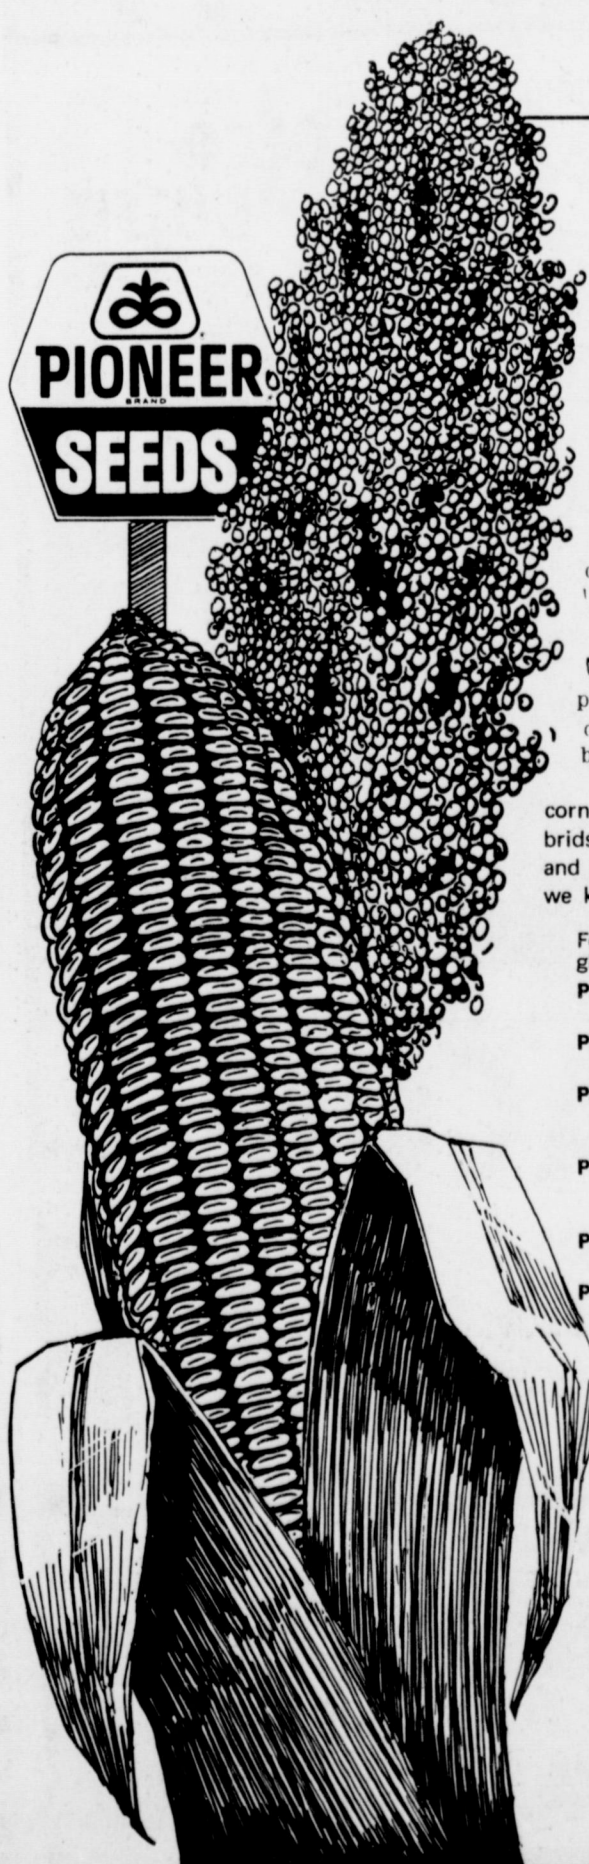

Because we were the first company to commercially produce hybrid corn and with 17 years of work on sorghum, we know a lot more about hybrids and how to make crosses that really yield. We've had longer to test and re-test our varieties. We've stuck with some of our early crosses, and we keep developing new ones to fit every growing condition imaginable.

- For the Southern Panhandle and Plains area we recommend these sorghum, corn and forage hybrids...
- Pioneer brand 846--excellent drought resistance--consistent high yields--MDM and smut resistant--medium maturity.
- Pioneer brand 820--good yielder under stress--outstanding with plenty of water and fertility--MDM resistant--full season.
- Pioneer brand 8417--new yellow endosperm sorghum--champion yielder in medium maturity class--large open heads--does well on all types of land.
- Pioneer brand 3369A--a corn with outstanding seedling vigor--tolerant to blight--good roots and stalks--good ear retention--heavy grain yield.
- Pioneer brand 3306--excellent for grain or silage--drought resistant--single cross--well-suited to narrow rows.
- Pioneer brand 988--sorghum sudangrass hybrid for pasture, greenchop, hay or hayslage--ready to cut or graze in a little more than a month--regrows again and again all summer with adequate moisture and fertilizer.

When you choose a hybrid for your land, choose one from the company that started it all...

Annual Cotton Conference Set For March 7-8 In Lubbock

Some of the western states' leading cotton producers and industry officials will gather here March 7-8 for what is generally considered one of the most important annual meetings of people concerned with cotton--the Western Cotton Production Conference.

On tap for the two-day meeting are several key issues affecting the cotton industry, particularly in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and California. Among these are the latest developments in harvesting and storage, new data on weed control and herbicide usage, projections of the future of cottonseed flour, air pollution and its affect on growers, and the government's farm program.

Its theme is, "Putting It All Together". "The southwestern area of the nation has common environmental problems," says Metzger, who is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Lubbock. "Climate, cotton breeding, disease, and other factors common to this area produce those problems and issues which we will be discussing."

"The program also will touch on broader matters," Metzger points out, "such as the government's farm program and possibly the rapidly changing market situation."

A special technical conference on cotton diseases will precede the regular meeting. Beginning at 9 a.m. on March 6, the special session will include presentations and panel discussions on such diseases as Verticillium wilt and bacterial light which have caused increasing economic loss in recent years.

Patrick Conway, a graduate student from Jessup, Pa., will direct "Rumpelstiltskin." Mike Tellez of Gallup is set designer and Kay Mardick of Albuquerque is in charge of costumes.

Kubecka and his wife Shirley have two children. He was nominated by the Bay City Jaycees.

"Rumpelstiltskin" tells the story of a dwarf who has plans to rule the world, but he needs a King's baby to carry them out.

Kubecka and his wife will receive an all-expense paid trip to the National Finals in St. Paul, Minnesota and a major kitchen appliance courtesy of the Chevrolet and Frigidaire division of General Motors and the U.S. Jaycees, national co-sponsors.

He discovers a miller's daughter who is betrothed to a prince and can marry him only if she can spin great rooms of flax into gold.

Placing second in the competition was Curtis Pantel, age 26, of Victoria. He harvested his first crops in 1964 and currently farms a total of 1,951 acres, with 1,250 acres of row crops and hay, and 701 acres used for grazing. Pantel was nominated to the state-wide competition by the Victoria Jaycees.

When the child is born and the dwarf appears to claim it, she persuades him to give her another chance. If she can guess his name, she can keep the child.

The competition for Outstanding Young Farmer is conducted nationwide and the four national winners will be announced at the national finals in St. Paul, Minnesota.

The cast is headed by Stephen Lopez of Santa Fe, who will play the part of Rumpelstiltskin. The miller's daughter will be played by Beth Faith of Albuquerque and Lawson Hise of Clovis is cast as the prince.

Presenting the awards to these winners were Art Oswald of Pasadena, the president of the Texas Jaycees, and John Carroll of Wichita Falls, Chairman of the Texas Jaycees OYF program.

The miller and his wife will be portrayed by Mark Bonnett and Paula Baksa of Albuquerque. Other cast members are Jennifer Quick as Hulda and Karen Fox as Gothol, both from Santa Fe; Denise Marson of Roswell as Inger; Robert Pierson of Portales as the King; Diana Bir of Truth or Consequences as Karen; Terry Traylor of Roswell as the Nurse, and Mary Jane Archuleta of Espanola as the Lady in Waiting.

Last year, Eugene Shaw of Muleshoe, was named as the Texas State Outstanding Young Farmer.
