One In Mayor's Race, 4 For School Board

Saturday, April 7, 1973, will be the date of three important elections in Muleshoe. To be elected on that day will be a mayor, Bailey County Hospital District directors and Muleshoe School Board Trustees.

Tuesday was the deadline for filing in the mayor's race and only one person filed in that election, Alex Williams, presently Mayor Pro-tem of Muleshoe, filed for re-election to that office.

The mayor's election will be held at the City Hall April 7 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.

To date four men have filed for places on the Muleshoe Independent School District Board of Trustees. They are Dr. Jerry Gleason, Bobby G. Free, Dr. Charles Lewis and David Stovall. There will be three places open on the board.

Wednesday, March 7, was the last date to file for position on the board.

On Friday, March 9, there will be a drawing to determine the position of names on the ballot. Absentee voting will begin on March 19 at the County Clerk's office in the Bailey County courthouse.

The election will be held at the Muleshoe Junior High School between the hours of 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The third election of the day will be for directors of the Bailey County Hospital District.

The election will be for four directors of the district which was established and created as a result of the election held on May 16, 1970.

A candidate must be a resident of the district; a qualified voter; neither the administrator, an employee of the district, nor a member of the staff of the hospital.

To have his name printed on the ballot as a candidate for director, he must file a petition signed by at least 10 qualified property taxpaying electors, asking that such name be printed on the ballot as a

Shook Tire Co. Sold To Baldt Corporation

Sale of Shook Tire Company, a Texas chain of 15 retail-wholesale tire stores and two wholesale stores in 16 cities, has been announced by Melvin C. Shook, president.

Manager of the Shook store in Muleshoe is Robert Glass. The new management has announced that there will be no change in policy or personnel at this time.

Purchaser of the far-flung tire organization is Baldt Corporation of New York City, a diversified manufacturer of industrial products. John Moran is chairman of the board and president of Baldt, a publicly-owned corporation which is controlled by Dyson-Kissner Corporation, also of New York City.

The consideration involved in the sale was not disclosed. Terms of the sale also provided that certain of the present store locations are to be retained by Shook Realty Company, in turn being leased to Shool Supply.

"For those of us who spent all, or part, of 42 years doing business and building what many call the largest tire dealership in Texas, the decision to sell Shook Tire Company was not an easy one," said Melvin Shook. "However, we felt it was to the best interest of our personnel and to the future of the company to take this move."

John A. Moran, Chairman of the Board and President of Baldt Corporation, stated that the acquisition of Shook Tire Company, which will be operated as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Baldt Corporation under the name of Shook Supply Company, Inc., will mark Baldt's entry into a new line of business.

Texas Farmers Union Mails Petitions

Texas Farmers Union President, Jay Naman of Waco, had announced that petitions bearing the signature of thousands of Texas farmers, ranchers, and rural community leaders are being mailed to the White House and key members of Congress. The petitions request the cooperation of the Congress and the Administration to reinstate the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP), the two per cent REA loan funds, the emergency loan program of the Farmers Home Administration, and other rural program cuts. Those receiving the petitions are Senators Lloyd Benson and John Tower of Texas, Senator Herman Talmadge of Georgia, Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman, Congressman W.R. "Bob" Poage, Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, other key congressmen; and the White House. The farm organization spokesman emphasized that in a democracy many avenues of action are open for constructive change. Farmers Union is exploring all avenues of action to secure the reinstatement of these vital rural programs which have been eliminated. We are joining other Farmers Union states in circulating petitions and will be participating with them on fly-ins to Washington to allow our members to express their own viewpoints to the Congress and Administration relating to recent program cuts," Naman said.

WASHINGTON REPORT BY

Lloyd Bentsen,

United States Senator

I recently co-sponsored the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, legislation which expands and intensifies our efforts to rehabilitate those who are handicapped.

During the 52 years it has been in existence, this program has represented a true Federal State partnership in serving and rehabilitating handicapped individuals.

Since the program began, more than 3 million handicapped people have been rehabilitated. But the problem is far from resolved. The existing effort touches only the tip of the iceberg.

Estimates vary greatly as to the number of Americans who could benefit from rehabilitation services, but everyone agrees there are many more. Yet we are reaching only a small percentage of them.

So, the need to enlarge the scope of our rehabilitation program is clear. But in this day and age, with so many demands being made on our Federal tax dollars the question, quite naturally, arises, "can we afford it?"

And the answer is "yes, we can afford it." I am convinced, in fact, that we cannot afford to be without it.

Let me cite one actual case, to illustrate what I mean. EXAMPLE OF BENEFITS

We will call the individual John Taylor, one man the rehabilitation programs reached. A resident of one of our larger cities, he was a steelworker until an accident left him paralyzed from the waist down. He still needs a wheelchair to get around. After his accident, though, he was able to study engineering by mail and obtain a degree. And he is now a structural engineer with a construction company, supervising construction of all kinds of steel buildings.

From John Taylor's viewpoint, his opportunity for rehabilitation meant a return to a full and meaningful life in a job that offers tremendous satisfaction and a great sense of accomplishment.

From the viewpoint of society, John Taylor's opportunity for rehabilitation means this and more.

In economic terms, it also means that society's investment in his rehabilitation is paying direct benefits that will ultimately far exceed the investment.

It means that, rather than being another number on the welfare rolls, John Taylor is a productive member of society, earning a good wage and paying his fair share of taxes.

And his case is not an isolated one, either. Statistical studies have shown that on a purely economic, cost-benefit basis, rehabilitation services are one of the best investments that government can make.

INCREASES INCOME

During Fiscal 1971, Federal-State programs rehabilitated almost 300,000 Americans, enabling them to increase their incomes by some $750 million.

Needless to say, these salary increases were accompanied by a corresponding significant increase in the amount of taxes these handicapped individuals suffering from a wide range of handicaps; the deaf, the blind, the mentally retarded, the mentally ill, and those stricken by such illnesses as cerebral palsy.

Part of the effort is aimed at training for work those persons whose handicap is, in reality, no handicap at all. The deaf, for example, are immune to the distractions of working in the noisy atmosphere of a newspaper composing room.

And one of the main thrusts of the Rehabilitation Act is research, so that we can prevent some of the disabling illnesses.

As we consider the new rehabilitation legislation, the human considerations will be of primary importance. It is the right and necessary thing, for our society to help every man develop to his full potential.

But in these days, with so many programs competing for a very limited amount of available Federal funds, we also need to point out that rehabilitation services, which emphasize the dignity and worth of each man, are also economically sound.

Joe Harbin Attends A&M Short Course

A certificate of completion was recently issued to Joe H. Harbin of Muleshoe by Texas A&M University Environmental Systems Short Course for participating in 24 hours of classroom instruction in the Advanced Residential Air Conditioning class.

The weeklong course included an extensive study of forced air comfort systems; it included system and equipment selection and an extensive study of the design of air distribution systems. Satisfactory completion of the course enables a student to better advise his customers of air conditioning-heating cost saving that can result through proper unit selection.

Participants in the short course also attended group seminars covering "Application of Electrostatic Air Filters" and "New Concepts in Insulation". The intended use of this information continues to upgrade the participants business and gives positive notice to the much talked about "energy crises".

The short course attendees and teachers came from corporations from as far north as Minnesota and as far south as Monterrey, Mexico. The time sacrificed by them will be made up through better customer service.

Attendance of the short course by Harbin represents the continuing effort of the Bailey County Electric Cooperative to provide better service to its customers through continued education. Harbin's immediate supervisor is J.W. Coppedge; he has been employed by Bailey County Electric Cooperative for 12 years and presently holds the title of Member Services Director.

PROVEN PERFORMANCE DURING 1972

SX 520 This is a NEW medium maturing yellow corn that was number one in yield tests conducted by Ronnie Gfeller, agronomist, on the Dan Heard Farm, 1 mile south of Dimmitt during 1972. With a yield of 221.5 bushels per acre P-A-G SX 520 stood well (0% lodged stalks) and still out-yielded the late varieties of corn. This P-A-G single cross is another of the fast germinating, vigorous, high yielding "new breed" of P-A-G custom hybrids. SX 520 is an excellent dual purpose corn for high grain yield—high quality, top tonnage silage.

SX 98 Distinctive because of its dark green color and relatively up-right leaf for maximum light utilization. SX 98 yields and yields and yields. (208.2 bushels per acre in 1972 Dimmitt tests.) A fairly short hybrid corn (7 ft. 3 in. in tests) with good ear placement. Has a bred-in "digestive system" that gives it the capacity to make full use of large amounts of fertilizer.

344 A very attractive 3-way cross with dark green color and large, girthy ears. The grain is a medium dent of high quality. A real producer, outstanding performance in tests in Dimmitt area during 1971, and produced 190.8 bushels in the 1972 tests. 344 is a proven high yielder.

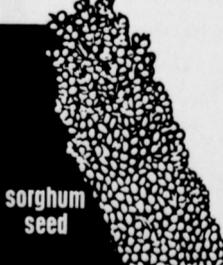

SS 402 P-A-G Single Cross Super Silage 402 unlocks the door to improved silage quality for the livestock feeder who demands tonnage of top TDN feed. Outstanding seedling vigor gets Single Cross Super Silage 402 off to a fast start. Rugged stalks withstand the strong winds in the high and western plain areas. An abundance of ears on tall stalks with dark green foliage contributes to high tonnage of quality silage.

Spray Cans Are Potential Hazards

COLLEGE STATION — Consumers handle potential bombs daily as aerosol spray cans -- yet display few precautionary measures.

"Used according to directions, they're safe," Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, noted.

"But used improperly, they can become extremely dangerous.

"Aerosols work on the principle that product and propellant--liquefied gas--are mixed in a container.

"When the push button mechanism is pressed, the propellant exerts pressure on the mixture in the can, forcing it up and out the valve.

"As it enters the atmosphere, the propellant converts to vapor--producing the familiar spray or foam effect," Mrs. Myers explained.

A great variety of products are available as aerosols.

"Today, an individual can instantly prepare hors d'oeuvres, decorate a dessert, clean the oven or paint furniture--all at a touch of his or her fingertip.

"However, besides being versatile, aerosols can cause injuries--even death.

"A major hazard is danger of explosion when containers are exposed to extreme heat. Heat causes the propellant to expand and explosions result. Even empty containers may explode when heated--due to expansion of any propellant remaining inside.

"Another danger involves flammability," the specialist continued. "Many products are flammable if sprayed near an open flame.

"Still others' fumes are toxic when inhaled--such as insecticides.

Even the most common products may cause skin and eye irritations when misdirected," she added.

"Aerosol product labels furnish specific instructions and warnings concerning contents, use and disposal.

"Some aerosols are made for specific uses and should be handled only certain ways. Therefore, read the entire label before using the product--observe all warnings and follow directions.

"Before disposing an aerosol container, hold its valve open until all remaining product and gas escape. Place container with non-burnable trash -- never in an incinerator.

"Store aerosols away from heat and out of the reach of children," Mrs. Myers emphasized.

"Within the last few years, numerous youngsters have died from inhaling aerosol vapors in highly concentrated amounts.

"Inhalation in many cases was intentional -- in attempts to get 'high.' Hair spray was the household product used most often.

"Therefore, parents should alert all young people to the extreme danger of 'sniffing' aerosols or any other product," the specialist concluded.

A History of Bailey County Pioneer Families

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Elrod

W.T. Elrod came to Bailey County in 1918 and established a ranching and farming enterprise some four miles north of Muleshoe. Mrs. Elrod and the three younger children moved from Portales at the end of the school term in the spring of 1919. The four older sons had come to Bailey County in earlier years. Jess Elrod came to Texas in 1909 from Portales and worked for E.H. Buhman on his irrigated farm near YL.

When the Santa Fe railroad was being built across the Muleshoe Ranch in the summer of 1911, E.K. Warren and sons of Osoosh, Wis., ranch owners, made a deal with the Coldren Land and Cattle Company to sell some of the shallow water land on the Black Water draw for irrigated land purposes. Jess Elrod, then 21 years old, was hired to represent their company and handle the land deals. He was given full authority to plow up and develop an irrigated farm for a "show place" at the YL headquarters, ten miles northeast of Muleshoe. He purchased machinery and hired man-power to show the people what could be done with shallow water and rich farm land.

After the irrigation wells were dug, a man was sent from the factory in the north to help operate the pumps. Mules and dairy cows were brought in from the north and a silo was built. Crops of grain, hay, vegetables and fruits were produced in amounts that were termed as unheard of for a dry plains country.

The farm was operated by Jess Elrod for several years with the help of his brother, Carl. After several years, Jess turned the project over to his brother, Carl, and moved into the first house in the Muleshoe townsite. He then turned to cattle ranching on his ranch, north of Muleshoe.

Tom Elrod, Jess' younger brother, came from Portales to run the ranch for him, leaving Jess to help further develop Bailey County. He sold land and helped organize and bought stock in the Blackwater Valley State Bank and became its first vice president.

Jess was the first deputy sheriff in the area, working under Bill Burnham, sheriff of Castro County. He was married to Minnie Kennedy in 1915 and they lived on Main Street in Muleshoe.

Another brother, Roy Elrod came to the area and went into partnership with Carl in the well drilling business. They bought farm land four miles north of Muleshoe. Roy was married to Nina Wallace in 1916 and Carl to Fay Wallace in 1917.

In 1918, following a flu epidemic and drought in the area, W.T. Elrod purchased land four and one half miles north of Muleshoe, and the rest of the family soon joined him. Mrs. Elrod was well known for her cooking by her friends and neighbors.

Bill Elrod attended school at Old Hurlay in the fall of 1919. Helen enrolled at West Texas Normal School in Canyon to get her high school diploma and teacher's certificate. She taught at West Camp from 1923 through 1927. She later taught at Stiles and lived at the JE Bar ranch headquarters near Stiles.

Novella attended school at Las Vegas, N.M., and Denton and taught at West Camp in 1922-23. She then taught in the Muleshoe School system and helped organize the home economics department. She was married in 1927 to Cooper Woodburn and moved to Amarillo.

The Jess Elrod family moved to San Angelo in 1923 to engage in the ranching business. Tom Elrod joined him in a partnership ranch at Stiles. The Carl Elrods sold their farm and moved to Stiles in 1928. Roy Elrod had died several years earlier leaving his wife and children to run the farm.

Bill Elrod graduated from Muleshoe High School in 1926 and farmed with his father. He married Anita Waller in 1929 and took over the family farm when W.T. passed away in 1930. He continued farming until 1933, then started working for Jess. He shipped cattle, fed out sheep in feedlots and later became foreman of the JE Bar Ranch at Rankin.

Bill Elrod, his wife, and children, Billy, Annamary and Charles, returned to Bailey County in 1953 and began irrigation farming at a farm located near the "old Elrod Corner".

This is one in a series of historical biographies of Bailey County pioneer families who arrived prior to 1930.

Easter Seal Campaign Now In Progress

Because of the steady growth and adults in Texas, the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas has stepped up its rehabilitation services.

According to Jimmie Crawford, who is the Easter Seal Representative for Bailey County, 16,572 handicapped Texans received Easter Seal treatments during 1972.

"Despite medical scientific advances," Crawford explained, "the ranks of the crippled are growing. This is because of population growth, increased number of accidents and medical treatment which saves victims of crippling diseases who might not have lived in past years."

Quoting the annual report of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas, he said that 18 affiliated treatment centers are in operation in Texas. They include treatment and rehabilitation centers, sheltered workshops, recreation and educational programs, and many others.

"Through these programs, persons with a wide variety of handicaps receive the help they need to live normal lives," Crawford said.

The largest group served includes those with major deformities of bones and joints, severe speech defects, cerebral palsy, arthritis, muscular dystrophy and multiple sclerosis and stroke. The Easter Seal Campaign, which provides funds for continuation of these services, begins March 1, and continues through April 22, Easter Sunday.

STATE Capital NEWS

By BILL BOYKIN

AUSTIN, Tex.—“Future financing of public schools in Texas is the most talked about, but least understood, problem in the state today,” Sen. Pete Snelson told the West Texas Press Association at their winter meeting in Midland.

“The courts have said that the wealth of a school district cannot be the criteria for future financing,” he explained. “And all future school financing in the state is affected by the court suit on the Edgewood district of San Antonio. Public school financing has been challenged in the courts in 30 states.”

He compared Edgewood with Odessa’s school district. Odessa has 24,984 pupils, 1,119 teachers with a starting salary of $7,445. Edgewood has 22,134 students, 805 teachers with a starting salary of $6,000. This is not the “equality” promised under the 14th Amendment, the courts have ruled—and the U.S. Supreme Court is looking at the appeals on this and other state cases.

The U.S. Supreme Court decision will write the next public school financing formulas in Texas, Snelson added, which might force a special session of the Texas Legislature—after this 63rd regular session has adjourned.

He speculated on the future of school districts—pointing out that ideas have ranged from a “statewide school district” to more “consolidations of school districts”—unitizing all districts in counties and statewide “property assessment at true market value.

Snelson, vice-chairman of the Senate Education Committee, quoted an El Paso newspaper clipping which said: “We are watching the demise of public education in Texas.”

“The wealth of Texas as a whole will determine our future laws on public education,” Snelson concluded—and asked these questions: “What will be the effect on the state tax structure? What will it do to consolidation of 1,100 school districts?” and “Will there be room for local enrichment programs?”

CONSTITUTIONAL PANEL PICKED—Legislators have until the end of the week to lodge their objections to the 37-member Texas Constitutional Revision Commission selected by the state’s top six officials.

In order to reject the state, a majority of both houses would have to signify their objections with the Secretary of State. Apparently, a relatively small number of objections will be lodged, although complaints on equality of the representation on the Commission were lodged by blacks, Republicans, women, youth and a West Texas, Mexican-Americans were also among signers of the objection petition.

Former State Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert was named chairman of the Commission which must report its recommendations to the Legislature by November.

Mrs. Malcolm Milburn of Austin, former Republican state vice chairman, is Commission vice chairman. The Legislature will sit as a constitutional convention next year, using the Commission’s work as its starting point.

The Commission includes four Republicans, four women, three blacks and three Mexican-Americans. Neither group was satisfied with its numerical representation, although individuals named by the selection committee generally drew commendation.

Calvert is expected to call the group together soon after the Legislature’s “veto period” expires. Members were warned they may as well be prepared to block off at least half their time for the next year to the revision task.

NEWSMEN’S PRIVILEGE BILL Hearings on the “free flow of information” bill, commonly called the newsmen’s privilege, was changed to March 6 at 2 p.m. in the Lieutenant Governor’s committee room.

SALES TAX RECOMMENDATIONS—Tens of millions of dollars in sales tax collections are not finding their way into the state treasury, a Senate committee reported last week.

Former Sen. Joe Christie said the final report of the interim committee to study the sales tax reveals “glaring deficiencies in the way sales taxes now are collected.”

Christie said the report is not meant as an attack on the office of the comptroller, the state’s chief tax collector, but as an effort to suggest better and more efficient ways to get maximum yield out of the lucrative and sensitive sales tax.

In the committee’s opinion, the state lost at least $18.2 million in 1971 due to faulty administration of the levy.

Committee members offered these recommendations:

- Employment of more auditors to monitor payments by business firms to the state.
- Authority for cities to pursue in the courts collection of sales taxes once they are declared delinquent by the comptroller.

• Requirement that business firms post bond to insure payment of their sales taxes.

Sens. O.H. (Ike) Harris and Oscar Mauzy, both of Dallas, served on the committee and will co-sponsor legislation to carry out the report’s recommendations in the Senate.

The report charged Comptroller Robert S. Calvert has “pursued a policy which encourages sales tax delinquency” and has refused to demand adequate assurance of payment from new and consistently delinquent taxpayers.

The proposed bonding requirement passed the House last week but failed to clear the Senate.

AG OPINIONS—Atty. Gen. John Hill held two bills to reinstate the death penalty for murder would be unconstitutional if enacted.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

- Financial requirements of a proposed state officials’ code of ethics are constitutional, although there are some “problem areas” with the bill.
- The Legislature’s extending the Governor’s Committee on Human Relations beyond February 1 is valid, even though a bill to bring about the extension was not passed until after that date.
- Amendments to the budgets of counties under 225,000 population can be made at any time prior to and during the affected tax year.

APPOINTMENTS—Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed Brig. Gen. James M. Rose of Austin special assistant to the governor for military affairs.

Other recent appointments made by the governor include: Dee J. Kelly (reappointment) to the Texas Turnpike Authority board of directors; E.R. Friedman of Dallas and Hugh Stickle Jr. of Amarillo to the state board of optometry; Jerry Puckett of Fort Stockton to the Texas Civil Air Patrol Commission; and Walter G. Tibbitts of Dallas to the governor’s division of planning coordination.

Joe G. Moore, a native of Clarksville, has been named director of the office of research at the University of Texas Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs.

COURTS SPEAK—The State Supreme Court upheld lower court rulings that former Crystal City School Superintendent John Briggs was due a $21,000 contract settlement due to removal from duties in 1970.

The High Court also said a Houston hotel is responsible for loss of a purse a customer left in the restaurant.

A San Antonio grocery store owner who sold a magazine that may have been “unpleasant, uncouth and tawdry” should not be fined for violating pornography laws, the Court of Criminal Appeals said.

The Court of Criminal Appeals further held a defendant’s testimony in court cannot be discredited by a conversation heard in a police station, since this would tend to circumvent the Texas prohibition against using oral confessions as evidence.

WELFARE BUDGET QUESTIONED—LA. Gov. Bill Hobby asked additional data from the Welfare Department to justify its case for major budget increases.

Hobby complained the department is asking for 2,851 new staff positions at a time when the federal government will take over cost of public assistance payments to some 275,000 aged, blind and disabled. While more Texans may qualify for state Medicaid coverage under the new federal provisions, Hobby said, he is not convinced the number of recipients of the medical care will be doubled as estimated by the Welfare Department.

Texas Research League, meanwhile, accepted Governor Briscoe’s request to make an analysis of the impact of new Social Security amendments on state finances and welfare programs.

SENATE REFORM ACTION PLEDGED—The Senate will pass “meaningful legislation” on the topic of ethical conduct in government. LA. Gov. Hobby told the House Rules Committee last week.

Open meetings legislation passed by the House will be on the Senate calendar soon, Hobby said, along with a House bill to limit tax and spending conference committees to adjustments in bills.

A lobby control measure will be heard by Senate Jurisprudence Committee March 13. Hobby stuck by his guns: that he wants advice of 150 citizens at an “ethics conference” this month on ethics, lobby and campaign regulation.

SHORT SNORTS

The Senate confirmed appointments of Joe Christie of El Paso to the Insurance Board Maj. Gen. Thomas Bishop of Austin as adjutant general and Joe Golman of Dallas to the state board of cosmetology.

Attorney General Hill filed suit in federal court to force release of $138.4 million in 1973 and $165.7 million in 1974 by the federal government for use by the state and cities of Texas in building waste treatment plants for pollution control.

Forty-two private colleges want $16.4 million (nearly four times what they are now getting) in state tuition grants.

Governor Briscoe has been suffering from a painful virus infection in both eyes that required bandaging and bed rest.

Food Price Check Proposed

COLLEGE STATION--If the federal Trade Commission (FTC) finalizes a plan to check food price data in 1973, food retailers who advertise the lowest prices in town had better be able to substantiate their claims.

Presently the FTC is still considering collecting food price data on an experimental basis. The surveys would be used to determine the validity of claims such as "lowest prices" and "discount prices."

Dr. William J. Vastine, economist specializing in marketing and food distribution for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says that if the surveys are adopted, they will be conducted on a semi-monthly schedule. Each sample will consist of about 100 items.

"About half of the items will be used continuously in the samplings while the rest will be random samplings from a master list," Vastine explains. "Besides reporting item by item prices, the date would reveal high, low and average prices for a particular item."

The proposed plan calls for surveys of all food chains accounting for one percent or more of the total grocery sales in a standard metropolitan statistical area (SMSA). A SMSA is a community with a population of 50,000 or greater and an integrated economy. An alternative method would be sampling the top 10 chains by volume in that area. Surveys would be made on whichever count yielded the smallest number of stores.

A corporation, partnership or sole proprietorship which exercises control over three or more locations in the SMSA will be classified as a chain. Vastine notes that this definition will include many stores that are normally considered independents. However, voluntary or cooperative groups will not be surveyed.

The economist adds that the FTC is inviting comment on the proposed plan to check food prices. All comments should be submitted by letter no later than March 16 to Assistant Director, Division of General Litigation, Bureau of Consumer Protection, Federal Trade Commission, Pennsylvania Avenue and Sixth St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580.

Complete details of the proposal can be found in the Federal Register, Vol. 38, No. 9.
