WASHINGTON REPORT BY Lloyd Bentsen, United States Senator

EUROPEAN ECONOMY BOOMING:

A diplomat recently observed that "Western Europe is a monster. It is totally oriented to consumption," the diplomat said. "It has a wonderful stomach and digestive apparatus, but no muscle, nor arms and no legs."

I found a lot of truth in this during a recent trip to Brussels, where I presided over a meeting of the NATO Assembly Subcommittee on Mutual and Balanced Force Reductions.

The situation has changed in the 28 years since the end of World War II. Europe is no longer a beleaguered, war-torn continent and the United States is no longer the economic giant which dominates world trade.

Last year, in fact, the U.S. recorded a net deficit of more than $14 billion on the international markets. That means our country bought far more from foreign countries than we sold to them.

During the same year, the countries of the European Common Market enjoyed a trading surplus of $21.5 billion.

But these nations are still very dependent on the United States for defense, although they have made a miraculous economic recovery from the devastation of the Second World War.

As the diplomat observed, they have developed a good digestive system but they have no muscle.

NEED TO SHARE DEFENSE BURDEN:

And I believe it is time that our European partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization assumed a greater share of the burden of defending their continent.

It would lessen the problem if nations on both sides of the Iron Curtain were to reduce the size of their armed forces.

Our NATO allies and the Warsaw Pact allies of Russia are currently engaged in negotiations that could lead to such reductions, but they have along way to go.

I am Chairman of NATO Assembly Subcommittee, charged with keeping track of these talks and reporting on them to the various legislative bodies of our allies. And during our recent meeting in Brussels we found no reason to believe that the talks would lead to any troop reductions in the near future.

Cutbacks would be dangerous unless we can be assured that the Iron Curtain countries are willing to reduce their military forces. Any reduction must be a balanced reduction -- by both Warsaw Pact nations and NATO -- that will not endanger our nation's security.

Until this happens, I believe the United States must begin to insist that other countries in NATO pay a fair share of the cost of defending Europe. It is estimated that NATO costs contribute over $2 billion a year to our country's international trade deficit. And with our recent dollar devaluations, it's going to cost us more to keep the same number of troops overseas.

One possible solution, currently being explored is for other European countries to follow the example of West Germany and help pay the costs of keeping 300,000 U.S. troops on the continent. But I'm not satisfied that this is the answer.

A better solution would be for other NATO countries to put more men under arms, allowing the United States to withdraw some of her soldiers. This isn't happening yet, though. France stopped participating in NATO some time ago. Denmark is cutting back on its troop commitment. Belgium wants to reduce the length of service for its draftees. And the troop contribution from Canada remains very small.

NATO KEEPS THE PEACE

The NATO alliance has helped maintain the first generation of peace in the history of Western Europe over the past 28 years. But much remains to be done.

Until we can be assured that the countries behind the Iron Curtain are really willing to cut back on the size of their armed forces, the countries of the West must maintain a strong defense posture.

The leaders of Western Europe see the danger clearly and are thoroughly frightened by the prospect of a U.S. troop withdrawal. But we must make them understand that we cannot continue to provide their military muscle and meet our own needs at home.

Western Europe has grown fat and wealthy over the past three decades, while the U.S. has paid most of her defense bill. She has developed a wonderful digestive system and we must now insist that she also build up her muscles, instead of relying on Uncle Sam's.

June is Dairy Month... Hay Baling In Full Swing... Herbicide Warning... Keep Those Samples Coming.

Among other things, June is Dairy Month. It's a time when dairy producers are hoping everyone remembers to drink an extra glass of milk each day, not just through June, but throughout the year.

Dairy producers in Texas continue to be caught in the middle of a tightening cost-price squeeze. Even though their prices have shown some increase, their production costs have been soaring. Feed costs now are double from that of a year ago.

Dairy association spokesmen are worried about a reduction in production of milk. Reports from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service note that there has been a reduction of almost two per cent during the first four months of this year. Dairywomen are faced with rising production costs and a good market for dairy cows at their local auction markets.

The dairy industry is an important part of Texas agriculture picture. Texas ranks among the top 10 states in the nation in total production of milk; almost 3.5 billion pounds of milk were produced in Texas during 1972. Texas also is in the top 10 states in the nation in milk cow numbers with 360,000 head as of January 1.

Texas dairy producers now total about 4,000. Top counties in milk production in Texas are Hopkins, Erath, Wise, Grimes, Johnson, Tarrant, El Paso, Parker, Bexar, and McLennan.

Milk, any dairyman will tell you, is Nature's most perfect food. So, now is the time to enjoy summer with extra helpings of dairy products.

HAY baling is now in full swing throughout the state. Baling was off to a slow start due to the weather, but a good hay crop is expected in most sections of Texas.

Range and pasture conditions are good to excellent but moisture is needed to maintain present levels of grazing.

REMINDERS are being issued to users of 2,4-D and other hormone-type herbicides about their use during this time of year. Cotton is growing throughout the state, and that crop as well as many other is highly susceptible to herbicide drift.

If you're using 2,4-D or other such type herbicides, be sure not to use it if the wind velocity is above 10 miles per hour. The herbicide can drift several miles.

Herbicides such as 2,4-D are valuable production tools for agricultural producers but they must also be used with care and concern.

About a third of the state's counties are regulated under the Texas herbicide law.

KEEP those screwworm samples coming to the fly lab at Mission, officials request. Texas is now experiencing one of its lightest years on record in number of screwworm cases.

The number of cases this year compared to last year is ten times less. Many livestock producers were fearful last year when the screwworm was completely out of control that the pest would never again be controlled.

But the screwworm infestations are light this year, and that's due in part to continued reporting of suspected cases by livestock producers throughout the state. This enables officials with the program to counterattack the infestations and wipe them out before they can increase.

The screwworm eradication program in Mexico is also making progress, officials note. Through a cooperative effort between the United States and Mexico, the screwworm will be eradicated in Mexico.

COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

The Senate has just passed an Emergency Fuel Allocation Act requiring the President to set up priorities for distribution of fuel supplies across the country. Even though I recognize the importance of this legislation, I voted for it with considerable reluctance.

It's clear that there are numerous vital consumers in this legislation that passed and failed in the 1973 Legislature and discussed and studied the tentative estimated budget for 1973-74. The tax rate was set as follows: Maintenance Fund, 1.33; Debt Service Fund, .34 for a total rate of 1.67. This is an increase of .04 cents in rate per $100 assessed valuation. This was necessary in order to hold the present programs at present level, and due to the increased costs of utilities, insurance, buses, instructional supplies, maintenance supplies, salaries, etc. The schools are faced with the same inflationary costs as all other businesses.

The insurance costs as submitted by the James Glaze Company, were reviewed. Insurance premiums on buildings for the school system have increased from $6,259 per year to $11,925 per year.

The board discussed the Kindergarten Bill that was passed by the Legislature and is presently on the Governor's desk for his signature or veto. This bill has several options: First, accepted all pupils who reach the age of five on or before September 1, 1973, who are educational or economically deprived, for the full year. Those five years old who are not educational or economically deprived would be accepted either for a half day for the whole year or a full day for a half year. Second, the other option is to accept all five year olds and the local districts pick up the costs of one half of the year for those who are not educational or economically deprived.

The next regular meeting of the board will be Monday, July 16, at 8 p.m. in the School Administration office.

Participants who have signed up to be in the parade at this time are as follows:

Muleshoe residents are looking forward to some good weather on July 4 this year, as last year it was cold and rainy most of the day, cancelling some of the programs.

country that must be supplied with fuel. Farmers must be able to plant, harvest and process their produce. We already have seen what big increases in demand for wheat has done, in part, to the price of wheat domestically. Evidence is growing that the farms of the nation will be blessed with bumper crops this year. But this will be of no avail should fuels for harvesting and processing these crops and for transporting them to the markets become unavailable. Lack of fuel for planting will aggravate future farm product prices. In order to avoid rapid increases in prices of agricultural products, I supported an amendment to the Emergency Fuel Allocation bill to give a high priority to farmers in any such plan put into practice.

There are other consumers of fuel that deserve special attention as well. Prime among these are the men who produce our energy. It would be indeed ironic should the very group which holds the promise of our salvation from future energy shortages be denied the fuels with which to carry out the expensive and risky exploration for, and development of, our energy resources.

In addition, there are the public service sectors --- particularly state and local governments --- which will deserve special attention. We cannot afford to reduce police patrols, or to ration fuels for our fire departments. Ambulances must be given adequate service, as well. And the list could be extended.

But despite the fact that there may be disagreements between some of us on the importance of particular sectors in any allocation ranking, the basic need for some system of allo-

6 and July 31--were set aside for orientation, advisement and early registration of freshman students already accepted for admission to WTSU next fall. It does nothing to add the energy crisis or to avert a worsening of it. It does nothing to deregulate the price of natural gas sold in interstate commerce. It does not provide an investment tax credit for more exploration and development of energy resources. It does not facilitate the construction of offshore terminals to help unload the foreign petroleum upon which this nation is becoming too dependent. There is nothing to help develop the offshore continental shelf resources of the Atlantic Coast. Neither does it speed petroleum from the North Slope of Alaska to the markets of this country, nor does it ease or encourage plans for construction of nuclear generating plants.

In short, this legislation does virtually nothing to help solve or ease the energy problems facing this country. It is a "business as usual" bill, and the simple fact is that America can no longer afford to conduct business as usual.

Every remedy to the energy crisis that is now with us is one requiring long-term answers. It will take years to come up with the supplies that are needed. Of necessity, we have to insure certain sectors of the nation with adequate fuel supplies during the current crisis. But I'm afraid too many people, including legislators, will view this bill as a solution rather than an interim measure.

Spreading the pain around to everyone is not the way to solve the energy crisis. Its solution requires immediate and concrete action on a wide variety of issues. But other than steps outlined in the President's message, we have seen no action toward increasing the supply of, or decreasing the demand on our energy resources.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON DEALERS, INC.

The purpose of the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973, passed by the Senate 78 to 9 on June 8, as stated by the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry from whence it came, is "to assure the production of adequate supplies at reasonable prices to consumers by insuring producers against losses if their expanded production results in prices below the target prices."

It is hard to find fault with this objective, says Executive Vice President Donald Johnson of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, "but unless some changes can be made in the law before enactment it has little or no chance for achieving such a goal."

"The bill as it came from Committee had some very objectionable features," Johnson continued, "and these are still intact along with the further complication of a $20,000 payment limitation adopted on the Senate floor."

On a vote of 45 to 37 the Senate voted to reduce the limit on farm program payments from the current $55,000 per farmer per crop, in effect since 1970, to $20,000 per farmer on all crops produced.

"The key to the bill's chances for accomplishing its goals is in insuring producers against losses," Johnson believes, "because if this isn't done consumers can in no way be assured of adequate supplies at reasonable prices."

The bill, S-1888, sets a target price of 43 cents per pound for cotton and provides that producers should receive a payment equal to the difference between this figure and the average spot market quotations for SLM 1-1/16 inch cotton with 3.5 to 4.9 micronaire during the first five months of the marketing year, August through December.

"This method of determining the per-pound payment rate, alone, is enough to inhibit the production of adequate cotton supplies," Johnson thinks. "Since spot market quotations do not accurately reflect prices paid to farmers for cotton, and since the price for SLM 1-1/16 inch cotton may or may not parallel prices for other cotton qualities, the formula doesn't insure producers against anything."

It is Johnson's contention that this target-price system is to be used at all payments should be based on the difference between the target price and the prices actually paid to farmers for an average of the entire U. S. crop. "Otherwise the chances for assuring production without producer losses are reduced and some producers will benefit while others suffer."

The lower payment limitation simply means that whatever payment rate is decided upon would be made on only a portion of the production from larger operations. A farmer entitled to 10 cents per pound on 5 million pounds of production could receive 10 cents per pound on only 200,000 pounds or less than half his total production. "In all likelihood this would bring his total return from cotton production to some point well below his cost of production," Johnson said, "and even the amount of this payment would be dependent on the producer's not having received payments on any other program crop."

The hope at PCG is that some of these inequities can be cor-

Families On 'Inflation Alert'

COLLEGE STATION -- Families on "inflation alert" may avoid financial crises, according to a home management specialist. Lynn Bourland with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, cited the rising cost of living as "one of several situations that could create a financial crisis in almost any household."

To ease such a crisis and protect the family in the future, she advised taking a realistic look at the financial situation and putting the family on "inflation alert" -- her term for budgeting with inflation in mind. "In looking at the financial situation, family discussions help everyone face the fact that things are shaky for the whole family -- and that everyone can do his part to solve the problem."

"To identify problems that created the crisis, make a list of assets--everything owned that has cash value--and liabilities. Accuracy is very important," she stressed.

"To pin down major and regular expenses, review the past year's receipts and cancelled checks. "Also have everyone keep a record of cash spending for a few weeks--out-of-pocket spending adds up. "Re-examine the family budget to see if money for taxes was figured in with estimated cost of purchases. "Be sure interest charges were included in cost estimates for credit purchases. "Examine last year's credit purchases to see how much extra was paid. Plan future purchases realistically. "Review purchases made in the past few months. Consider how many of them aren't used--or didn't bring the satisfaction expected."

Turning to "inflation alert," Miss Bourland said it means "not trying to spread dollars thinner than they can cover. "All money dealings--large and small, all planning and spending must be weighed carefully with inflation in mind," she stressed. "Trim down spending--eliminate as much financial fat from the present spending pattern as the situation requires."

"This must be a family effort. "What snacks can you do without? What less expensive sources of nutrition can you plan meals around? What services can you perform for yourself, and what free sources of entertainment can you rediscover?"

"Answers to these and similar questions not only help the family reduce spending, but they also stop meaningless spending. "Families won't be lowering living standards--they'll be making sure that spending supports their standards," she emphasized.

Couple Returns From Cruise

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hooten returned to Muleshoe Sunday, June 10, from a week's cruise in the Caribbean. The couple left Dallas June 1, and flew to San Juan, Porto Rico, where they boarded the Cunard Adventurer cruiser for six days and nights.

The first stop of the cruise was at Curacao, an island owned by the Netherlands. From there the cruise docked at the harbor of La Guaira in Venezuela, South America. This stop included an all-day tour of Caracas, the capital city of Venezuela. Tours of the islands of Grenada, St. Lucia and St. Thomas complete the cruise schedule. The ship docked in San Juan and the Hootens flew home, via Atlanta, Ga.

Their most memorable experience was reported to be a cable car ride over the city of Caracas, Venezuela, which lies in a valley between two mountains. Seasickness played only a small part in their trip. "The sailing got rough in the tradewinds and I got a little seasick," Mrs. Hooten said, "but not near as much as some of the other passengers."

"The islands have quite a different way of life than we are used to," she also reported. Mrs. Hooten remarked that the cruise was "very restful and enjoyable, but after visiting the beautiful, but crowded islands, we appreciated our wide open spaces at home much more."

Market Report

COLLEGE STATION -- Onions may upset tradition and summer smiles. Valley onions helping increase supplies are easing the greatest onion shortage in 50 years--and prices are moderate, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt.

The consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, said economical vegetable choices in upcoming weeks will include corn, potatoes, okra, carrots, green onions, radishes, cabbage and cooking greens. A fruit counters grapefruit prices swaying upward reflect lighter supplies, but oranges remain plentiful and reasonably priced.

"Texas-grown honeydew melons are making their appearance at first-of-the-season prices, as are fresh peaches. "And at other counters, strawberries, cantaloupes, pineapples, bananas, cherries and watermelons deserve consideration."

Turning to dairy sections, the specialist predicted numerous features. "Good values will be found on a variety of milks and natural cheddar cheeses. Sour cream, margarine and cottage cheese also will wear special price tags."

At the meat counter, beef prices remain about the same, but more "specials" will be offered, so check carefully, Mrs. Clyatt advised. She cited chuck cuts, round steaks, ground beef and beef liver as best buys. Pork features, scattered and limited, will offer values on smoked ham portions, some brands of bacon and frankfurters, picnics and pork shoulder steaks.

"At the poultry counter prices, on fryer chickens, at about the same level for three weeks, likely will trend upward as the summer demand increases. Egg prices are attractive, with the large size offering the best value," the specialist concluded.

J.W. Layton was able to come home Tuesday from the Littlefield hospital where he had been a patient for eight days.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Layton from near Cleburne arrived Tuesday afternoon for a visit with his brother, Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Layton.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Stevens of Morton, sister of Mrs. Rose Nichols, was in a car accident last weekend in Lubbock. They were all injured and in the hospital in Lubbock.

Gordon McDaniel of Bryan came for his wife and baby who has spent three weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.M. Autry and sister, Jo Ann.

Mr. and Mrs. Orbe Phillips and children, Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Blackman, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Phillips, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Phillips fished at Uie Lake last week.

Bro. Charlie Shaw attended the orientation for those going to the Korean and Japan Crusade at Denver City Thursday.

There were 61 enrolled in bible school and average attendance of 57 with 6 conversions. The workers were Mrs. Sandra Austin, Director, Rev. Charlie Shaw, Wanda Layton and Rose Nichols, Beginners department, Mrs. Olive Shaw, Louise McCall, Mrs. J. O. Dane and Barbara Price, Juniors. The other group, Mrs. Ray Seagler, Mrs. Bill Key, Mrs. Bud Pierce and Susan Layton and JaLynn were the musicians. There were children from Hicks Chapel, Three Way and Bala. There was a good crowd for the commencement Sunday night. Following the program and sermon, there was homemade ice cream and cake served to those present in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Cox returned home Wednesday afternoon from their visit with her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Wilson and daughter, April, in Las Vegas, Nevada, and a sight seeing tour in Nevada, Utah, New Mexico and Colorado. They went to Fort Worth Saturday where they will make their home.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Keep in mind that over-eating and the conditions it brings on are responsible for more deaths than any other single thing.

Your complexion will suffer from an over-rich diet and not enough exercise. Trying standing in front of a full-length mirror and looking at yourself honestly. Chances are that you will find the appearance of age is made up of many small factors. Almost all due to over-weight. They include a roll over the girdle, a protruding abdomen, a double chin, a waguer's hump, rounded shoulders, a drooping jaw line--to list a few.

If you need to lose a good bit of weight, consult your doctor. He will outline a safe diet.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

Just a few words to ask your opinion on something. Well I was going with this girl for 5 months. Then for some reason she broke up with me. She said because she had found out that I had went out with another girl, well all I did was dance with the other girl at a dance.

But here, a few weeks ago, she came to see me after she found out about I am going in the service. We have gone out a few times since then, and she says that she still loves me but she will not take the ring back. What should I do? I love her alot.

while you are separated for a great length of time. Very often people, men and women, get very lonely for other company when they are away from each other. This is especially true if they are very young and are not deeply in love. As they grow older some of their tastes in other people often change and this girl may feel that one of you later on might find someone else that they like better but would feel bound to the one who had their ring.

Keep in touch with each other and when you are ready to be married and ready to accept the responsibilities of marriage, she will probably be delighted to wear your ring.

Depressed--Miss.

Answer: Perhaps she thinks it will be wiser for both of you to feel free to date other people

Stymied
Tenant--Say, lady, don't you think the window of this room is rather small in case of an emergency?
Landlady--There won't be any emergency. My terms are cash in advance.

Naval Reduction
"And how is your husband getting on with his reducing exercises?"
"You'd be surprised. That battleship he had tattooed on his stomach is now only a rowboat."

FASTEN THOSE SEAT BELTS . . . FOR A HAPPY, ACCIDENT-FREE SUMMER

The summer of '73 should be filled with happy memories. But the tragic reality is that too many family outings will end in death or serious injury on the nation's highways.

There were 15,600 persons killed in traffic accidents during June, July and August of last year--more fatalities than in any other three-month period of time in 1972.

If fatalities continue to rise, even more people will be killed this summer, unless the American public does something about it.

Ninety percent of the cars now on our highways are equipped with one item that could save 10,000 to 20,000 lives every year, the automobile safety belt.

Unfortunately, the safety belt has become a joke in many families. Otherwise responsible parents buckle their seat belts underneath them "to stop that darned buzzer." Then they permit children to ride unprotected, often standing in the front seat. This is as bad as leaving a can of poison under the kitchen seat.

It's easy to find an excuse for not doing something. One of the favorites is, "I don't want to be told what to do."

Every day someone is telling us what to do. We're told how fast we can drive on a highway, which side we must ride on, and not to enter one-way streets.

There are always exceptions, but most of us are law-abiding and do what we're told.

Another excuse is "I don't want to be trapped." Yet, the number of accidents involving submerged or burning cars is less than one-half of one percent of all injury-producing traffic accidents. Safety belts actually keep occupants from being more seriously injured, or being knocked unconscious and unable to escape.

What's another excuse? "It's a nuisance. I'm only going to the corner store."

Injury or death are bigger nuisances than taking two seconds to fasten a seat belt. And sadly enough, a majority of highway accidents happen within 25 miles of home.

How many of us have said, "I don't have to wear a safety belt if I don't want to because it won't affect anyone else."

Failure to use seat belts can affect other people. The burden of a death or disabling injury falls not only on the immediate family but also on the state and its citizens. Higher welfare costs, increased insurance rates, and spiraling medical costs are often direct results of increased highway accidents.

"Even if I do wear a seat belt, it won't prevent an accident" is another.

Safety experts report that drivers who are belted to their seats will be in a better position to keep a vehicle under control and to prevent further damage.

And another excuse: "It's speed that kills. I'm a safe driver, and I always obey the speed limits."

Many people do die in high-speed crashes. But more than one half of all accidents occur at speeds under 40 mph. A recent study shows that people not wearing belts died in crashes at speeds as low as 12 mph. But, in over 28,000 accidents, not one person wearing lap and shoulder belts died in crashes at speeds as high as 60 mph.

And the saddest excuse of all, "I don't want to wear my seat belt. It wrinkles my clothes."

Too many people who don't want to have wrinkled clothes end up with dead, wrinkled bodies.

There are 10,000 to 20,000 people who could be saved each year if only they didn't fall back on excuses for not wearing belts.

What's the answer? Develop the seat belt habit.

If we do, more families will be together at the end of the summer of '73.

Editorial

A Time For Restraint

The American people, especially those in the news media, bear a responsibility to their country which too many have lost sight of in recent weeks.

In recklessly condemning the President, in sensationalizing every rumor, every inference in hearsay testimony, every charge, before these allegations are proven, the media, politicians and those who harbor a personal vendetta against Mr. Nixon, have shaken confidence in the United States abroad, weakened the dollar and partly paralyzed the government's functioning.

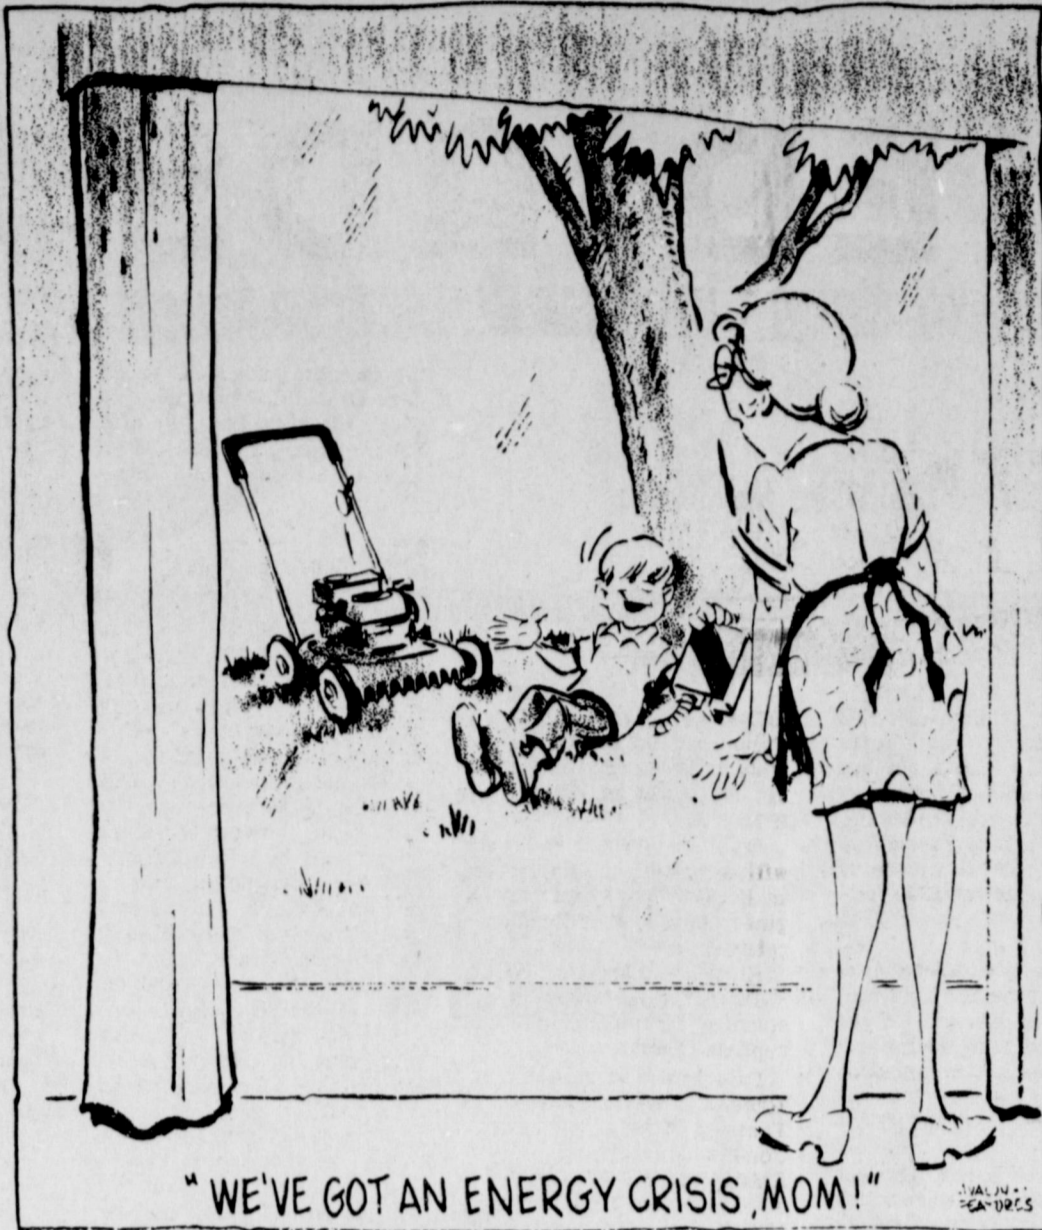

In other words, the cost of this savage, personal abuse of the Presidency, and the President, has been exorbitant.

By now even the most dubious of doubting Thomases should be confident the many investigations and court cases looking into the abuse of authority and improper and illegal activities in the executive department will produce the facts, and justice. With the prying eyes of all the world on these legislative and judicial processes, and the cooperation of the Attorney General, his special prosecutor and the President himself, this seems certain.

The question remaining, then, is whether the nation can afford a continuing of the reckless, scandalmongering by a certain element of the citizenry.

The Nixon Administration, overall, has accomplished much for America and Americans in the past five years. The nation is generally prosperous, riots in our cities and on our campuses are greatly reduced, historic progress has been made in our foreign relations, especially with Russia and China. An era of peace seems highly probable, now that Nixon has ended the Vietnam war.

Admitting all the mistakes and misconduct involved, the open, free American system is working and justice will be done; the place for its determination is now in the courts, not in destructive, reckless, sensational comment in news columns and by television news announcers.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

Watergate & Public Networks Surprised-Aich's Challenge-Agnew Fears-

WASHINGTON, D.C.--The television networks were very much surprised when calls about Watergate began to come in shortly after televised sessions of the morning Senate hearings began.

The public, it seems, didn't want scandal and anti-Nixon fare every morning and officials at all three network offices in New York admitted for the first time at the end of May that the public reaction was adverse.

Officials said viewer reaction had been strongly negative. NBC at one point had a tabulation of 961 adverse calls to 86 approving. ABC said the adverse reaction had been about ten to one. One typical comment from a caller was: "We're sick of nothing but Watergate; Watergate is being shoved down our throats."

At CBS calls were 1,000 to 50 against the daily scandal coverage. Thus the networks quickly revised grandiose plans for all three to cover the sessions and decided to alternate their coverage.

Public television, which many think ought to stay out of this obviously political field, says it has enjoyed a favorable reaction to its evening television of the hearings--which doesn't seem to reflect favorably on its normal programs.

One of the surprises at the Watergate hearings was the lie-detector test challenge hurled at James McCord and his present attorney, Bernard Fensterwald. Gerald Aich, McCord's first attorney, suggested the three men take the test after telling Senators Fensterwald had told him on the telephone in January that he and McCord were "going after the President of the United States."

McCord and Fensterwald declined to take the tests, however, and Senator Sam Ervin (D-NC) backed them up indirectly, expressing a lack of faith in such tests.

One of the little-talked considerations in the minds of many Democrats is what would be the political result if President Nixon had resigned or had been impeached, a prospect which has recently receded.

Vice President Spiro Agnew would have become President and he would have thus been given three and a half years to solidify his position and image--just as Harry Truman did when he took over in 1945 and as Lyndon Johnson did after John Kennedy's assassination.

Both Truman and Johnson won victories after taking over as Vice President and many Democrats didn't want to give Agnew that advantage for the 1976 campaign. Thus, as wild political and opportunistic talk of impeachment was heard, many veteran Democrats cautioned it would be a political mistake.

Comment On Sports

AMATEUR SPORTS

BY PETE FRITCHE

WASHINGTON, D.C.--The Senate Commerce Committee recently held hearings to determine how the federal government could bring order and efficiency to amateur sports in this country.

Badly needed is federal authority to stop the endless squabbling between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union, to set up an organization to give all amateurs a chance to compete in Olympic trials.

Also needed is funding for various amateur groups and clubs, which sponsor tournaments, elimination events and other contests which attract amateur athletes.

The United States, which once won the Olympic Games regularly, now comes in second to the Soviet Union regularly--because the nation lacks an efficient, well-funded organization to put together the best possible American team from open competition.

Four sports bills are before the committee; enactment of a good one, this year, is a must if this nation is to have an amateur sports program the equal to those in many other countries today.

A Surprise Surplus

Recent disclosure that the United States achieved a trade surplus in the month of April--for the first time since 1971--is heartening news. No doubt it helped revive the stock market and restored some confidence in the dollar abroad.

The surplus of exports over imports was $196 million, which contrasts sharply with the average monthly deficit in 1972 of $529 million. By March of this year the monthly deficit had dropped to $53 million and thus a trend seems to have been established.

This is no doubt a result of the two recent devaluations of the dollar, in December of 1971 and again in February of this year. Trade experts say these two devaluations produced a "trade-weighted" gain of 17.68 per cent for the United States.

Last year was the lowpoint in the history of the nation's foreign trade balance, producing a $6.3 billion deficit. The latest news indicates 1973 will mark the beginning of a recovery, a gratifying turn and one which was almost desperately necessary.

You are invited . . . to good times, good food

. . . in your own backyard with an outdoor gas grill and gas light. You can cook up a party at a moment's notice, because a gas grill is ready to cook in minutes. And it's so easy to cook on because you can control the heat. With a gas grill there's no charcoal mess, and you still get that delicious, outdoor char-broiled flavor that comes from the smoke of meat juices dripping on permanent ceramic briquets.

Besides the good times you'll have cooking out, you enjoy the convenience of having a gas grill. You'll probably find yourself cooking on it just because you wanted to get out of the kitchen or didn't want to mess up the broiler of your kitchen range.

AUSTIN, TEX.-- While the 1973 Legislature managed to avoid a tax bill, outlook for 1975 is "bleak," with new revenue needs ranging up to $700 million, according to Texas Research League.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby earlier came up with a similar gloomy estimate of a $533 million tax boost during the regular legislative session, but Gov. Dolph Briscoe declined to agree.

According to Texas Research League, state spending from key funds is expected to increase by $550 million in 1976-77, and the increase could run as high as $850 million to $1 billion.

Revenues, meanwhile, are due to rise $550 million to $625 million over the present biennium.

However, TRL cautions these factors must also be considered:

* Federal revenue sharing funds (which accounted for $316 million of 1974-75 income) will drop by at least $100 million, because Texas received a three-year allocation to spend in a two-year period for the current budget.

* An estimated $156 million surplus at the beginning of the next biennium will decrease from $75 million to $100 million depending on bills signed by Governor Briscoe.

"With the highest projected spending increase ($1,050 billion), the 1975 Legislature apparently would find itself faced with the need to find $600-$700 million in additional biennial revenues," said a new

TRL report. "Even (an $850 million spending hike), means projecting a biennial revenue need of $400-$500 million."

If the next legislature decides to overhaul school finance formulas, a biennial cost increase of perhaps another $300 million can be anticipated, TRL concludes.

Briscoe, at the national governors conference in Nevada, refused to be pessimistic and promised budgeting innovations and other economy moves which he feels can check a tax boost. DIM VIEW OF CONSTITUTION CHANGE -- County officials are getting together to fight any constitutional change which would drastically alter county government, according to Judge Robert W. Calvert, chairman of the Texas Constitutional Revision Commission.

Following hearings in Corpus Christi, Calvert said he sees "an incipient opposition to any suggested changes in county government."

He cited three letters from county officials expressing a dim view toward tampering with their jobs. Calvert said the Commission is committed to no course on the subject.

The 37-member body is concluding its hearings over the state and will make recommendations to the legislature next November. Lawmakers will sit as a constitutional convention next year. Calvert urged legislators to attend the hearings in eight cities this month. Committees will begin drafts on conclusion of the public discussions.

The remainder of the constitutional hearings are set as follows: Friday, June 15, Beaumont, Orange and Port Arthur; Thursday, June 21, Abilene; Friday, June 22, Wichita Falls; Thursday, June 28, Waco; and Friday, June 29, Austin.

COURT SPEAK-- Unsafe conditions in public housing units are grounds for suits where tenants are injured, the State Supreme Court held in a case growing out of a death due to a defective heater.

In another case, the High Court upheld lower court judgments of $197,500 in damages against Mobil Pipeline Company on behalf of the family of a Mobil Oil Company employee who died in a Beaumont explosion.

The U. S. Supreme Court in Washington, meanwhile, upheld a Texas law requiring immunization of school children against several diseases. The top court ruled 7-2 that states cannot indirectly tax liquor sales on U. S. military bases. AG OPINIONS -- County commissioners can spend county funds to provide for parking and a service building for county-owned vehicles and parking for the public having business in the courthouse, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

8 In an election contest, on notice of appeal, district clerks should prepare a transcript and forward it to the court of civil appeals clerk before delivering it to attorneys for the appellant.

The Board of Chiropractic Examiners can adopt rules limiting the size of newspaper advertisements by chiropractors.

* County clerks are not authorized to set filing fees for discovery proceedings if an action is still pending on the docket at the time the proceedings are instituted. If no action is pending, clerks are entitled to a fee of $3 for each instrument issued but not for filing instruments prepared by others.

clayton JOINS SPEAKER'S RACE -- Rep. Eill Clayton of Springlake, 44, veteran of a decade of service in the House of Representatives, made his candidacy for speaker official last week. Clayton is a conservative Democrat.

Other candidates include Reps. Fred Head of Troup, James Nugent of Kerrville, Carl Parker of Port Arthur and Dave Finney of Fort Worth. Rep. deWitt Hale of Corpus Christi is also regarded as another strong possibility.

APPOINTMENTS -- Tom Browning of Athens was named acting director of the Parks and Wildlife Department law enforcement division after Executive Director Clayton T. Garrison fired Stetson Reed. Governor Briscoe designated Ronald Thomason of Weatherford as Texas State Artist for the recent meeting in Nevada... Cigarette taxes dropped off $34,186 last month below 1972. $21 million... Reduced fire, extended coverage and homeowner insurance rates were approved for 12 more companies operating in the state... New federal requirements for "need surveys" were announced as a basis for allocating fiscal 1975 grant money to construct sewage treatment facilities.

Diseases Hit Grain Sorghum

COLLEGE STATION -- Diseases are hitting the grain sorghum crop in various parts of Texas and producers are urged to keep a close check on their crop as the season progresses.

The main disease culprits showing up at the present time are downy mildew and maize dwarf mosaic virus (MDMV). "Producers should take a critical look at their crop to see if either of these diseases is attacking plants," says Dr. Wendell Horne, plant pathologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "They can overcome the disease problem by planting a resistant variety next year."

"In other words, the farmer needs to take a business-like approach to the matter with an eye on next year. He needs to keep notes of any disease and other problems he is having this year in order to do a better job next year."

MDMV is generally recognized upper leaves of plants, explains the Texas A&M University specialist. There are certain hybrids that are more susceptible to this disease and some show a prominent red leaf when temperatures range below 60 degrees.

The virus lives in the rhizomes (underground stems) of Johnsongrass and is transmitted by aphids to corn and grain sorghum.

MDMV will not produce sterility but grain yields will be reduced depending on the degree of infection. Losses are generally heavier when the crop is young, points out Horne.

Downy mildew is identified by the striping of a plant's leaves. The striping is prominent and can be easily identified by someone familiar with the disease. Horne notes that this disease is serious in that it causes sterility in the plant -- in other words, the plant either does not produce a head or produces a head that does not bear grain.

"County agents can assist producers in identifying these diseases and can provide information on resistant varieties for next year's crop," says Horne. "These diseases will continue to become more severe with continued use of susceptible hybrids."

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have conducted numerous field studies in the past few years, using almost 200 hybrids, to determine the degree of disease resistance of each at certain locations in the state. This information is available at any county Extension office.

UNCLE LUKE IS A SKEPTIC

To be truthful about it, Uncle Luke is plumb "ornery" about a lot of things. He rants at the blasted "airplanes" that scare his chickens... he fusses about the way women dress nowadays... he's never been to a picture show... and one of his pet hates is those "ix"x" squawk boxes" somebody around the house is always turning on while he's trying to read his newspaper. Oh yes! Uncle Luke likes his newspaper... dotes on it, in fact. Says it's the only way a feller could tell what's really going on in this crazy world nowadays.

Thank goodness we don't have to put up with many folks like Uncle Luke... but if you have an advertising message and want to be sure Uncle Luke sees it... put it in YOUR HOMETOWN NEWSPAPER

THE FAMILY LAWYER

When Engagement is Broken

Getting engaged came easy for Gwen and Andy. But getting married seemed so scary that they finally decided to call the whole thing off.

At that point, however, a new problem arose: which one was entitled to keep the engagement ring? When Gwen refused to give it back, Andy hauled her into court.

After due deliberation, the court ruled in Andy's favor.

"An engagement ring is a symbol of the coming marriage," said the court. "If the engagement is broken off, the ring should be returned. The gift was conditional and the condition was not fulfilled."

Most courts agree that the engagement ring is returnable—at least, unless the man was solely to blame for the breakup. Returnable also are other gifts exchanged between the two parties in contemplation of marriage. But this does not extend to gifts given prior to the engagement—that is, gifts given during the period of courting.

Thus, a court rejected the effort of an elderly suitor to reclaim some jewelry he had given to a younger woman. The court said the gifts had been made at his own risk, on the chance this his courtship would succeed.

What about gifts from friends and relatives, when the marriage plans fall through? Consider this case:

A dotting father was so delighted when his daughter became engaged that he set up a $5,000 joint bank account for the betrothed couple. Soon afterward, the romance cooled. But the young man retained his affection for the $5,000.

"That was an outright gift," he argued in a court test. "Her father didn't say we had to get married."

But the court decided that even if the father didn't say it, he clearly meant it. The court said he would scarcely have set up a joint bank account except on the assumption that the two would soon be husband and wife.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm comes up with what he considers another strange aspect of the Watergate hearings.

Dear editor:
A lot of people are asking, how do you tell who's lying and who's telling the truth in the Watergate hearings?
About 90 per cent of the time I can't tell you, but occasionally you can figure out, or at least estimate, when two witnesses are telling the truth. For example, one says the other is a liar, the other says the former is a liar, it's possible both are telling the truth on that point.

At any rate, the hearings are certainly teaching me some things I didn't know before. For example, one Senator, in raking a witness over the coals after he'd admitted he'd been caught inside the Democratic Headquarters at 2 o'clock in the morning with the burglar tolls on him, said, "Look, here you are a man with two college degrees, didn't you have better sense than to pull a stunt like that?"

This puts an entirely new light on college degrees, one I'd never heard of before. I had always thought that a college degree was a report on how many courses you had passed, not how much sense you've got.

If colleges are paying any attention to the hearing they'll take immediate steps to stop the spread of the notion that a degree implies the holder is a sensible man. He can or can't be, but the diploma is no index. That ain't what it's for, and it's wrong for the Watergate hearings to be giving out such a notion. While it looks like nearly everybody touched by Watergate has been damaged, I'd figured at least the colleges would escape.

Who knows, it may spread even to farming before it's over.

If I can remember where I was on the night of the burglary, I'm going to get some friends to swear I was with them, makes no difference how many different places it comes to.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.
