John Tower United States Senate COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

Tower--EQUAL RIGHTS

In these times of heavy economic pressures on the average American family, more and more women are working to help support their families. In many cases, the woman is the only breadwinner. But despite this ever growing factor in our way of life, there still are vestiges of discrimination on the basis of sex in our society.

Because I am opposed to this discrimination, I have just become the cosponsor of two pieces of legislation dealing with discrimination against women. One would prohibit discrimination in housing sales and mortgage lending, and the other forbids discrimination in credit transactions.

In reviewing the question of equal opportunity, I have found considerable confusion regarding the Fair Housing Amendments of 1968 which prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin only. One of the new bills which I am sponsoring, the Fair Housing Opportunity Act, would extend the provisions of the 1968 law to include prohibition against discrimination on the basis of sex in sales and mortgage lending transactions. Passage of this bill would make clear the Congressional intent in the previous act.

In addition to discrimination against women in housing transactions, recent hearings by the National Commission on Consumer Finance found this barrier also extends to credit. Since credit is such an integral part of our economic system, restrictions placed on women deny their full participation in that system. I believe all of us agree that this should not be tolerated in today's world. Credit must be made available to individuals solely on the basis of their credit-worthiness.

The proposed Equal Consumer Credit Act which I am sponsoring would amend the Truth in Lending Act to prohibit any discrimination on the basis of sex or marital status in any consumer credit sale.

Often in the past, women were hired for less money than men for similar duties. Often, women were denied raises or advancements on grounds that they did not need the money. But a recent study showed that 40 per cent of all women who work are independently supporting themselves. It also showed that 32 per cent of the women were the sole breadwinners for their families, and that 8 per cent were the major wage-earners in their homes.

The female working force includes women putting their husbands and children through college . . . career women living alone . . . and women supporting families in the lowest economic segments of society.

For many working women, employment is the only alternative to a welfare existence. This includes about 13 million women with full responsibility for the well-being of over 10 million minor children. Furthermore, Census Bureau figures indicate that working women have often been responsible for raising poor families into the middle class. Without question, it appears that our employed American women has accomplished that which the federal government has been unable to do--namely, providing the essentials for existence to many of this nation's poorest families and raising a substantial number of them into the middle class.

With these facts in mind, it is indeed difficult to rationalize or to justify any discrimination against women in our economic life. Nevertheless, the Commission on Consumer Finance reports that women experience discrimination in several major areas. Here are some of the Commission's findings:

--Single women often are required to meet higher income, employment tenure, and residence standards than men of any marital status when applying for credit cards or personal loans.

--Single women are traditionally unable to obtain mortgages to purchase real estate, regardless of their credit-worthiness, without a male cosigner whose credit-worthiness is often not questioned.

--When single women with established credit marry, their creditors generally require that they reapply for credit, and often will only renew credit in the husband's name.

--Widows, divorcees and separated women have a particularly difficult time re-establishing credit as individuals, even though they may have been handling their family finances and credit transactions for many years.

--When married couples apply for credit, creditors often refuse to consider a wife's income.

Few of us would disagree that these are discriminatory practices which seem irrational and inconsistent when considered in the light of the statistics presented earlier on employed women. I feel that it is important that we remove these practices by Congressional action, and as a ranking member of the Senate Committee handling these bills, I intend to press for their early passage.

WASHINGTON REPORT BY Lloyd Bentsen, United States Senator

REDUCE FOREIGN AID

As the Senate considers foreign aid bills in coming weeks, I will give my strongest support to efforts to substantially reduce spending in these areas.

By the end of this year, United States taxpayers will have provided $182 billion in assistance to foreign countries since the end of World War II. That amounts to $30 out of the pocket of every American, each year over the past 28 years.

Only because we have been an incredibly rich nation have we been able to provide for our own needs as well as those of many foreign countries.

I think that day has passed. We have reached the limits of our resources. Since 1965 the Federal debt has increased by $150 billion, and concern over government spending levels has led to reductions in many vital domestic programs, elimination of others.

But we are continuing to provide foreign aid at a steady pace, even though the world of today bears little relation to the world of a quarter-century ago, when the assistance program was spawned.

The Senate attempted to reduce the program last year, approving foreign aid measures which authorized one-third less than the Administration sought. But the House and Senate were unable to iron out differences in their two bills, so the program is being maintained at the same level as the previous year under a continuing resolution. BILLIONS IN ASSISTANCE During the current fiscal year, the U.S. will spend between $8 and $10 billion on various foreign assistance programs.

It is difficult to give a precise estimate because of the multiplicity of programs, and because -- incredible as it may seem -- many of the programs are not under control of the Congress, which is supposed to be responsible for the taxpayers' monies.

The lowest estimate is that we will spend $8.4 billion this year; $4.9 billion on foreign military assistance, the rest on economic aid.

One of the reasons it is difficult to determine the exact amount to be spent is that some of the programs are administered by the State Department, others by the Department of Defense, and still others by other departments -- such as the food program, which is handled by the Department of Agriculture.

Among the economic foreign aid programs are the Peace Corps, contributions to the Inter-American Development Bank and contributions to United Nations development programs. Military assistance, in addition to direct, monetary aid, includes credit sales, disposal of excess weaponry and subsidies to governments that maintain their own defense forces.

DEBATE DUE SOON
The Senate will debate the military assistance bill within the next few days, and the economic foreign aid bill will be taken up sometime in July.

In his second inaugural address, this past January, President Nixon said: "The time has passed when America will make every other nation's conflict her own, or make every other nation's future our responsibility, or presume to tell the people of other nations how to manage their own affairs. So," the President continued, "let us encourage individuals at home and nations abroad to do more for themselves."

And I am in agreement. To combat inflation and reduce our growing international trade deficit, we must cut back on foreign assistance. In the past, we have been very generous, always willing to lend a helping hand when other countries were in trouble, and often when they weren't in trouble.

But we can no longer afford to do this. We have discovered that our resources are finite, and we have reached their limits.

We cannot continue to spend from $8 billion to $10 billion a year in an effort to solve all the problems of the world when we have so many of our own yet to be resolved.

Other countries are going to have to understand this, and begin to shoulder their own burdens.

The Swine Short Course, sponsored by the Texas Pork Producers and Texas Tech University, will feature a discussion of Swine Production in Illinois by G.R. Carlisle, extension livestock specialist from the University of Illinois. Carlisle will describe the systems used in Illinois from modified "old style" pasturing methods to modern confined systems.

A leader in swine improvement programs and prolific writer of extension publications, he is the recipient of the 1971 American Society of Animal Science Extension Award. Carlisle will also discuss feed costs and alternatives to high cost feeds in pork production during one of the conference sessions.

The two-day meeting will offer a discussion by Ann Norman of the National Pork Producers Council, research reports from the university, and talks on various methods used in pork production by commercial hog raisers and purebred breeding specialists.

A market hog exhibit will be featured on the first day of the short course. Producers attending the meeting may enter one hog weighing between 200 and 240 lbs. in the exhibit. Entry deadline for the exhibit is July 7. On the second afternoon of the conference, carcass data from the exhibit will be evaluated.

Rep. Clayton Returns From Washington

West Texas Representative Bill Clayton returned Friday evening from Washington, D.C., where he chaired a meeting of the Intergovernmental Relations Committee of the National Legislative Conference, the nationwide organization representing 7,600 state legislators and their staff personnel.

The two day meeting involved conferences with Congressional Committees in the House and Senate on current state-federal issues. The remainder of the meeting was devoted to formulating policy positions to be presented at the NLC's annual meeting August 7-10 in Chicago. The Intergovernmental Relations Committee, which Clayton has headed for two years, is the key federal-state policy-making arm of the NLC. The work of the Intergovernmental Relations Committee has been deemed crucial by many federal experts because of its activity in coordinating dealings between state and federal agencies and branches of government. Clayton reported that the energy crisis, human resources and education were major topics of activity at the meeting.

Representative Tom Jensen of Tennessee is vice-chairman of the IRC.

Muleshoe Girl Found Hanging

A fatal step may end the most happy life. The most cultured, refined, and beautiful and best loved are no exceptions to the same fate. A father's devotion, a mother's fond care and love of a brother's or sister's companionship will not shield them when they desire to take the step.

Such was the illustration of last evening when one of the highest educated, most refined and vivacious girls was found hanging in the home parlor, surrounded by all the luxuries that go to make a happy life. Late in the evening she was missed and careful search failed to reveal her whereabouts.

The telephone was used without results. Her friends were called to help search for her. Finally the almost heartbroken mother returned to the parlor and there to her horror and surprise, she found her beloved girl hanging.

How must that mother have been affected by what met her gaze! There was her beloved daughter hanging to her sweetheart's neck begging him to subscribe to the Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals in order that he might be better informed as to the current news of the community, by reading the newest and best newspaper ever published in Bailey County. Found in the Muleshoe Journal February 4, 1927.

as they studied ways to exercise leadership skills. The youths, ranging in age from 14 to 18, placed themselves in practical problem situations and worked them out through group interaction.

Coupled with the long hours of work were folk games, tournaments, swimming, vesper services, special ceremonies and theme parties.

A 12-member staff of junior 4-H leaders planned the event, which began Tuesday and ended at noon Thursday. Coordinators were Ed Garnett, area 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Gordon Harris, Dawson County Extension Agent, and Martha Couch, Gaines County Extension Agent.

The leadership workshop is one of several annual leadership activities conducted by the District 2 4-H Council. Others include the 4-H Gold Star Banquet, district elimination contests and electric camp.

Theme of this year's workshop was "Developing Human Relation Skills". Says County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley, "These young people have developed skills in this workshop that will help them serve as outstanding leaders for our 4-H'ers of tomorrow. We can be proud of the work they've done in preparing for this challenge."

Masonic graveside services will be conducted in Bailey County Memorial Park. Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

GSPA Discusses Taxes, Water Rights At Revision Hearing

Grain Sorghum Producers Association represented agricultural interests at an open hearing of the Texas Constitutional Revision Commission, Service Director for GSPA, Y.F. Snodgrass, testified before the hearing in Abilene on June 21.

Snodgrass requested that two main points be written into the new Texas Constitution. He asked that land used for agricultural purposes be taxed only on an agricultural basis. According to Snodgrass, "If a parcel of land is annexed by a city and continues to be used exclusively for the production of agricultural goods, then it should be taxed only under the provisions set up for agriculture."

The second request on behalf of agriculture was for underground water rights to remain with the owner of the land. Snodgrass asked the Commission to "keep the provision that to also be the owner of the underground water, whether he is a home owner, businessman or producer."

GSPA representative pointed out that grain sorghum production is a multi-billion dollar business for Texas. Snodgrass said that approximately 40 percent of the state's employees are directly involved in agriculture, and that Texas' agricultural industry must be maintained and increased for the overall good of the state.

MR. AND MRS. DANNIE MAC PARSONS
nee RHONDA JUNE TREIDER

Miss Treider Weds Parsons

Miss Rhonda June Treider and Dannie Mac Parsons were united in marriage Thursday evening, May 31, at 8:00 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Lazbuddie. Rev. Jim Sanderson officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Miss Treider is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Treider of Lazbuddie. The groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Morris of Muleshoe.

The couple stood beneath a spiral candelabra featuring pink tapers. A bouquet of pink gladiolas stood behind a red kneeling bench. The pews were marked with pink candles and pink ribbon. Charles Turner, organist, presented "The Twelfth of Never," "Theme from Love Story" and "Theme from Summer of '42." The bride presented a long stemmed red rose to her mother and to the grandmother of the groom during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of angelmist peau de soi with chantilly lace tiers over bridal taffeta. The gown featured a scooped neckline, model bodice and long sleeves ending in ruffles edged with seed pearls and sequins. Her elbow length veil of illusion fell from a band of pearls and sequins. The bride carried a nosegay of red roses and pink carnations. Following tradition, she wore pennies in her shoes as something old; her wedding gown as something new; a birthstone ring belonging to the groom's grandmother as something borrowed; and a blue garter.

Mrs. Rick Botkin of Weatherford, Okla., attended the bride as matron of honor. She was attired in a pink and white gown of organza featuring white a picture hat adorned with pink satin streamers and carried a single long stemmed red rose trimmed in pink ribbon.

Gary Smith of Muleshoe served as best man. Ushers were Rick Botkin of Weatherford, Okla., and Russell Treider of Lazbuddie. Candlelighter was Reggie Treider of Lazbuddie.

The mother of the bride wore a yellow dress complimented by beige accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's grandmother was attired in a blue dress with matching accessories and a red rose corsage.

A reception followed in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The table was laid with a white lace cloth centered by a raspberry candle surrounded by pink flowers. A crystal punch bowl and the bridal bouquet completed the table decor. The four tiered wedding cake was trimmed with red roses and topped with white wedding bells. Strawberry punch and cake were served by Debbie Engleking and Gwen Barber, both of Lazbuddie, and Candace Gable of Muleshoe. Mrs. Gary Smith registered the guests.

For a wedding trip to California, the bride chose a red, white and blue hot pants suit with white accessories. She is a 1973 graduate of Lazbuddie High School. The groom graduated from Muleshoe High School in 1971 and is a corporal in the United States Marine Corps.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Herbert Burzee of Selkirk, N.Y., mother of the groom; Weslee and Regina Burzee of Selkirk, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Parsons, Steven, Billy and Tammy of Amsterdam, Mo.; Mrs. Eunice Sheeping of Kress, aunt of the bride; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neely of Okmulgee, Okla., grandparents of the bride.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Bill Boykin

AUSTIN, TEX.--Experts offer little hope for an early easing of the energy crisis, and Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Langdon warns a lot more oil and gas is being used than is being found.

A House committee studying the crises heard a national authority's grim opinion that "there is no way out."

Dr. John McKetta, past chairman of the National Energy Policy Committee, said President Nixon should declare a national emergency, since it's too late for problem studies in the area.

Langdon told the same committee legislative efforts to cope with the problem will be frustrated because solutions must be sought at the national level.

Although the state regulatory agency has been permitting 100 per cent production for more than a year, Langdon said Texas producers are still falling short of demand for oil by 400,000 barrels a day, or roughly 10 per cent.

Atty. Gen. John Hill termed the situation "extremely critical," and said no other matter should receive more attention today.

As the commission set the July oil allowable at 100 per cent for the 16th straight month (with buyers seeking a record 3.8 million barrels a day), Langdon issued a new warning that only nine million barrels of oil a month are being added to Texas supplies while 105 million barrels are consumed in the same period.

"Unless this trend is reversed, the Texas oil and gas industry is in the process of self-liquidation," said Langdon.

Texas crude oil stocks as of June 8 were 94.7 million barrels, a decline of 7.2 million from 1972.

Langdon asked for reports at the July commission meeting on the amount of oil companies discovered in 1972, and "some-where along the line," he said, "he will want to know what it will take to find more"--and whether the industry will really be "able to stay in business."

FUTURE HIGHWAY NEEDS. Mass transit needs should be financed from its own funds, not from highway funds, Roy D. Chapin Jr., Board Chairman of American Motors Corporation, told Texas Good Roads Association members and the Texas Highway Users Conference here last week.

"Highway construction and maintenance needs during the next 20 years will be $600,000,000 in the United States," he explained. "Mass transit needs will total $50,000,000,000 for rail construction and development and $13,000,000,000 for bus transportation."

"Highways are still the basic answers for urban transportation needs. The Department of Transportation says by 1990 that 92 per cent of transportation will be on roads and streets--and railroad facilities."

Chapin, who is chairman of the board of the National Highway Users Federation, spoke to a partisan audience, but his statistics impressed neutral observers about the need for political unity in the current struggle between eastern states and the rest of the nation for current highway user funds.

HUD says that population density will continue to drop in urban areas" Chapin concluded. "Travel patterns will be from suburban home to suburban jobs. Buses and car pools can start lowering congestion--but highways are still important to those methods of transportation."

He spoke against "crisis" legislation because of the "current misunderstanding and misinformation on the so-called energy crisis. Some restrictive actions may be taken in the name of crisis, increased tax on gas, excise taxes and personal property taxes on automobiles, Chapin added.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED. Nine more proposed constitutional amendments will appear on the November 6 general election ballot -- just a couple of months before the Legislature sits as a constitutional convention.

The amendments for the November ballot are:

SJR 8--proposing a $15,000 a year salary for legislators and annual legislative sessions.

SJR 13--extending the $3,000 property tax exemption to homesteads of unmarried adults.

DISASTER AID SOUGHT. Extensive property damage due to floods in eight Southeast Texas counties led Governor Briscoe to ask that they be designated as disaster areas.

Counties were Harris, Galveston, Brazoria, Jasper, Hardin, Liberty, Montgomery and San Jacinto.

Briscoe's request to President Nixon was backed by U.S. Sen. John Tower. Designation would make the flood victims eligible for long-term loans from the Small Business Administration.

APPOINTMENTS. House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., leaving on a Caribbean vacation, named Rep. Carl Parker of Port Arthur as speaker pro tempore to preside over the House during his absence.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby appointed Sen. Nelson W. Wolff of San Antonio chairman of the Senate planning committee for the 1974 constitutional convention.

Governor Briscoe selected Sam Callan of El Paso as judge of the new 210th district court effective September 1.

Briscoe picked as judges of new Dallas courts Oswin Chrisman, Thomas B. Thorpe and Richard D. Mays. Chrisman, named to a domestic relations court, took office immediately. Mays and Thorpe's appointments to district benches are effective September 1.

Roy Mays Jr. of Port Arthur is new special assistant to the executive director for public affairs of the Texas Criminal Justice Council.

AG OPINIONS. University authorities and courts must determine if student service fees are used properly to benefit students, Attorney General Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

"A new law designed to prevent conflicts of interest among water control district directors is probably unconstitutional, but part of it is valid and will stand court test."

"The legislature may add as condition to tax exemption that a corporation have a current exemption from the federal income tax.

"A proposal to grant the 43rd district court of Parker County overall supervision of the dockets of the Parker County court and allow it to assign to the county bench a suit filed in district court would be unconstitutional.

COURTS SPEAK. The State Supreme Court upheld lower courts that owners of 73.7 acres in Wylie school district should have their land annexed to the Abilene district.

High court also agreed a Lubbock metal shop owner should get a jury trial to determine the amount of insurance he was entitled to collect for repairs of tornado damage.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a Dallas County conviction for flag desecration due to improper prosecution arguments and use of inflammatory words.

The Supreme Court upheld lower court findings that a Carrizo Springs store clerk was entitled to no punitive damages due to being slapped by retired Texas Ranger Capt. A.Y. Allee. The clerk got $500 actual damages.

RIGHTS BILL SIGNED. Young Texans 18-20 will get full majority rights under new legislation which takes effect August 27.

Governor Briscoe signed the bill, in spite of speculation he would veto it.

It permits the 18-20-year-olds to "enjoy all the privileges and responsibilities of adult citizenship," according to Briscoe's statement.

Among adult privileges which the new youth group will be able to indulge in is purchase, consumption and sale of alcoholic beverages.

Other bills signed near the deadline for approval or veto included family code revision, free kindergarten for all five-year-olds, primary election proceedings and financing for 1974 and ball bond reform.

Altogether, Briscoe signed or allowed to become law without signature 659 bills passed by the Legislature this year and vetoed 29.

SHORT SNORTS--U.S. Department of Labor has awarded Texas a $1.4 million grant for an 18-month manpower program under the Criminal Justice Council.

Outcries for a special legislative session on public school finance increased during a House education committee hearing.

Texas will receive $3,562,143 in additional grants for 16 Texas school districts participating in an emergency aid program to prevent minority group isolation.

Former Lubbock Mayor Jim Granberry, a Republican, is the early-bird candidate for governor, although former Houston Sen. Hank Grover has made clear he will run too.

Former Secretary of State Bob Bullock jumped into the 1974 Democratic primary races first -- as a candidate for state comptroller.

Rep. Joe Allen of Baytown asked for an attorney general's opinion on whether the House has an obligation to provide free space in the capitol for news reporters.

Atty. Gen. John Hill spoke for "openness" in government at the Texas Press Association convention in Houston last week.

"It's not an easy policy for public officials and sometimes it's not the most efficient, but the legislature says that's the law and I plan to support it," he told 250 weekly and daily newspaper publishers.

"I'll interpret and enforce the open records law also. It is liberal in nature toward openness," he said.

The AG's office is getting into more law enforcement areas, Hill added. "We have to be vigilant about organized crime problems in Texas."

Hill spoke at the 94th Annual Convention of the Texas Press Association at the new $42 million Hyatt Regency Hotel.

The business of developing one's personality is more important than that of regulating others.

Producers who supply a nation's people with an unprecedented abundance and quality of food and fiber at prices more reasonable than anywhere else in the world or at any previous time in history should not be denied a just return on their labor and investment. Nor should this country's most efficient industry in terms of its ability to compete in world markets, and therefore the nation's best defense against a long-sided trade deficit, be strangled.

These statements, made by Ray Joe Riley of Hart, President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. are being used repeatedly by PCG in its efforts to secure equitable and economically sound farm legislation this year.

"It seems to me these points are beyond dispute from an economic or moral standpoint," Riley says, "but in Washington, where farm legislation is concerned, political considerations appear to be taking precedence over both economic wisdom and what may be right or wrong."

For example, he notes that the current Administration is refusing to endorse "target prices" for cotton at anything like a reasonable level. The Senate recently passed a farm bill with a target price for cotton of 43 cents per pound--only 70 percent of parity, which can also be described as a fair price to farmers in relation to their cost of production.

The House Agriculture Committee has reported a farm bill, still to be considered on the House floor, with a 38-cent target price, which is less than 65 percent of parity. And the Administration has referred to even this low price as being "unacceptable," and threatens a presidential veto.

On another point, Riley believes there is no justification whatsoever for the imposition of an upper limit on payments that can be received by individual farmers under farm programs.

"Yet the Senate has voted a $20,000 per farmer limit on payments under its version of a farm law, and the House has placed a similar restriction on funds to be available under the Agricultural Appropriations Bill," he points out.

"The continued production of adequate supplies for domestic and export markets may well prove impractical under such a limitation," Riley contends, "in quality. The base for 1973 is 20.65 cents per pound for Strict Low Middling inch-and-a-sixteenth cotton, 3.5 to 4.9 micronaire at average U.S. location. There is a 10 point freight differential applied to all High Plains locations except Floydada, and physical prices for Plains cotton therefore reflect a base Plains rate of 20.55 cents per pound. Floydada prices will be 10 points above those in the chart.

The Plains loan rate for 1972 was 19.45 cents per pound on the Plains, based on Middling one-inch cotton and a 5 point freight differential.

The micronaire discounts for 1973 will be as follows: 2.6 and below, -.450 points; 2.7 thru 2.9, -.300; 3.0 thru 3.2, -.180; 3.3 thru 3.4, -.70; 3.5 thru 4.9, base; 5.0 thru 5.2, -.65; 5.3 and above, -.150.

Editorial Nixon's Freeze

The price freeze ordered by President Nixon in June would not have been necessary if economic controls had not been prematurely eased by Mr. Nixon in January.

The sixty-day price freeze, then, is an admission of a mistake made in January, the failure of Phase 3 controls, which followed the end of Phase 2.

That being water over the dam, the hope now is that the Administration will work out an effective economic policy to hold the line to the desired degree after expiration of the current freeze. All Americans should do their part to contribute to the effort, which is vital to the nation's economic health and the stability of the dollar.

Though Mr. Nixon erred in relaxing controls so widely in January, he has shown, especially in view of his party's traditional philosophy, a commendable willingness to act forcefully in the economic sector for the good of the nation. He has the support of the vast majority in that approach.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm turns his thoughts this week once more to the plight of the cities.

Dear editor:
One of the pleasures of living on the Johnson grass farm out here, aside from the current prospect that the fuel shortage may keep me from doing all the plowing I might not otherwise be able to get out of doing, is studying the plight of the big cities.

As everybody knows, cities just don't have enough money to operate on and are constantly hunting for new sources of tax revenue.

One of the new sources now being proposed is a commuter tax. Cities say look, all those people living outside our limits are coming in every day to work, wearing out our streets, using up our electricity and water, being protected by our police, getting paid here and then going back to their suburban homes to spend it. They ought to be taxed for the privilege.

This makes sense, and clearly the thing to do is to set up tax booths on every road leading into town and charging every commuter say a dollar a day to get in.

Now of course on the other hand a lot of city people, as soon as their work week in the crowded city is over, head for the country, so the thing for country people to do is to rent those tax booths on weekends and charge city people for leaving.

This way everybody makes money, coming and going.

I can't say which side would make the most, but that's beside the point, the only thing to do is try it out and let the chips fall where they may, although these days it's hard to let the chips fall where they may when nearly everybody is using a chain saw.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

P.S. I've just read that some eager beaver in Washington has assured farmers they'll get all the fuel they need to make a crop. Why can't Washington leave me alone?

July 4th

Richard Henry Lee of Virginia offered a resolution in the Continental Congress in 1776, which was to have worldwide repercussions for centuries thereafter, the resolution stating that, "these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent." This resolution was adopted by The Congress on July 2nd, 1776.

Interestingly, Congress adopted another resolution on the 4th explaining its reasons for declaring independence, and justifying the action, and this is the resolution which we now celebrate on the 4th. This resolution was drafted by Thomas Jefferson, chairman of the committee, and Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Roger Sherman and Robert Livingston.

A mass meeting in Philadelphia in Independence Square celebrated the declarations of July 8th, 1776—and heard them read by John Nixon. General George Washington, on the 9th, included the declaration in general orders to the army, stating: "The several brigades are to be drawn up this evening on their respective parades at six o'clock, when the declaration of Congress, showing the grounds and reasons for this measure, is to be read in an audible voice. The general hopes this important event will serve as fresh incentive to every officer and soldier to act with fidelity and courage, as knowing now that the peace and safety of his country depends, under God, solely on the success of our arms . . ."

The declaration of the 4th is now recognized by scholars as one of the humanitarian documents for all time.

WASHINGTON NEWS REPORT

WASHINGTON, D.C.—One of the ironies of the Justice Department's investigation of the Watergate scandal is that the Democrat who leads it is a close friend of the Kennedy family, and that many of his top aides are also close to the Kennedys.

Archibald Cox was chosen so that no one could conceivably charge he was a Nixon backer or a Republican sympathizer. That's one reason he was overwhelmingly acceptable on Capitol Hill—at a time when everyone was being scrutinized suspiciously.

Professor Cox (Harvard) came to Washington first in 1961 as President John Kennedy's Solicitor General. When he was sworn in recently, Senator Ted Kennedy and Mrs. Robert Kennedy attended the ceremony. And his first four major appointees all have ties to the Justice Department of the Kennedy era.

James Vorenberg, Philip Heymann, James Neal and Thomas McBride, the four former Kennedy men, insist their investigation will not be political; that is accepted in the White House. It therefore seems clear that the President and Attorney General Elliot Richardson have given Cox a free hand to conduct an impartial investigation.

An aide of Senator Ted Kennedy blundered recently when he complained to columnist James Buckley about a brief reference Buckley had made to similarities between the Nixon-Watergate scandal and the Kennedy-Chappaquiddick scandal.

Buckley then went into the two scandals in more detail in follow-up columns: the comparison is striking, and shows that Democrat

Kennedy came off much better than Republican Nixon. Many, in fact, think the Chappaquiddick scandal, involving death, is the more repugnant.

Buckley pointed out that such newspapers as the New York Times and Washington Post did not accept Kennedy's explanation of his conduct, that the judge who presided at the inquest said he did not believe Kennedy's testimony on two points, that the judge refused to let jurors examine records of the inquest and that the District Attorney apparently discouraged them from conducting a full-scale probe of the scandal.

The judge, by the way, was sent to the scene from Boston to take charge—Boston, Massachusetts, of course. Had all this been in Washington, D.C., it would have been a different story. Kennedy, then, is lucky, and his aide who complained to Buckley has learned a lesson.

Runaway Trailer

To move some household goods to the country, Watson hitched up his trailer and set out along the highway. But as he was climbing a hill the trailer broke loose, veered across the center line, and slammed into a car coming the other way.

The other driver was seriously injured, and in due course brought suit for damages. At the trial, Watson insisted that he was not to blame because "it all happened so suddenly."

But the evidence showed that the trailer hitch had a faulty weld, and that the defect had been plainly visible before the accident. Result: Watson was held liable.

Anyone who undertakes to haul a trailer on the public roads must also undertake reasonable precautions. He must exercise a degree of care commensurate with the size and speed of this extra vehicle.

Furthermore, he must conform to the special requirements—such as a "fail safe" set of chains—that may be called for by the local traffic code.

Even if a trailer does not actually break loose, it may still be dangerous because of swaying. Another driver incurred liability because his trailer, swinging from side to side, knocked down a woman walking on the shoulder of the highway.

On the other hand, not every injury inflicted by a trailer is the driver's fault. Consider another case in which a runaway trailer caused a collision. This time, the trailer came loose as a result of the shearing off of a pin in the hitching mechanism. But there was nothing to put the driver on guard for such an eventuality—no visible defect, no prior experience to warn him of danger. Accordingly, a court refused to make him pay damages.

"The collision," said the judge, "was the result of an unavoidable accident."

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Several complaints filed recently with the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division indicate that there are some unscrupulous schemes to capitalize on the average person's desire to travel in the summer time.

The mailed enticements we've heard about were "congratulatory" letters, informing the complainants that they had "won a trip" to a glamour vacation spot, and all they had to do to take advantage of this opportunity was to pay a $15 reservation fee to secure accommodations at the other end of the journey.

In the cases which have been checked out, there really wouldn't be anything to "win" unless the recipient just happened to be going to the resort mentioned, because transportation would not be furnished; gasoline would not be provided; meals would not be paid for along the way.

And once the person arrived at his destination, he could not even be sure of getting a "free" room, because if he read all the way down in the congratulatory letter, he would notice charge would be assessed if it were "peak season."

A similar promotion was halted three years ago by a Federal Trade Commission cease-and-desist order. And the attorney secured a court injunction against this deceptive practice, since the operator was incorporated in that state.

Investigators in our own Consumer Protection Division have been advised by U.S. Postal Service Investigator Allan Peffer that the Postal Service is attempting to recover money lost by consumers who sent in "reservation" fees only to discover they had no reservation.

And Better Business Bureaus

are trying to warn consumers against potential disappointments of this type.

The amazing thing is that the travel business is extremely competitive, and hundreds of valid vacation bargains can be found through legitimate tour and travel services, including those operated by the transportation carriers, major oil companies and the established travel clubs.

If you are tempted by some vacation offer that sounds "too good to be true," it probably is. If you're lured by a holiday excursion which would cost half as much as rates publicized elsewhere, find out why. Maybe it literally would be a one-way trip, and you'd be stuck with the additional cost of returning home.

If you're offered a "free" vacation near some popular recreational site, find out exactly how near. It could be as much as 300 miles away.

If a land development promotion invites you to enjoy accommodations without cost while inspecting the place advertised, check on the quality and reputation of the place you'd be staying.

If you do run into a vacation fraud which was advertised by mail, contact the U.S. Postal Service's Special Investigative Division in Washington, D.C.

Or, get in touch with the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division office in Austin, Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Lubbock or El Paso.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

No Doubt About It... Wheat and Diesel... Still Number One... Milk Production Dips.

If there were any doubts about it at all, a report from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will dispel them regarding cotton and Texas.

During 1972, Texas produced about a third of the nation's cotton crop. Normally, the report on Texas cotton would have been completed much earlier, but the 1972 crop harvest wasn't completed until March of 1973.

The crop for 1972 totaled 4,246,000 bales compared with only 2,579,000 bales produced during 1971.

Yield per harvested acre averaged 408 pounds compared with 263 pounds in 1971. This is the second highest yield on record, being exceeded in 1968 with 410 pounds per acre.

The 1972 upland cotton crop is valued at $446,000,000, compared with $329,000,000 in 1971.

Nationwide, a total of 13,702,100 bales was produced, which is 31 per cent above the 1971 crop. The average 1972 price is set at 26.60 cents per pound compared with 28.07 cents per pound in 1971.

WHEAT harvest continues in Texas amid reports of fuel shortages. As of the first of June, harvest was only five per cent complete compared with 25 per cent in 1971.

Fuel shortage reports continue heaviest in the wheat harvest areas. Custom combine operators apparently are having the most trouble in locating fuel supplies.

Farmers who run short or out of fuel should report that fact to their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office or the Texas Department of Agriculture.

PEACH production based on June 1 prospects for Texas is forecast at 271,000 bushels, which is less than half of the 604,000 bushels produced in 1972. Peach harvest is now active and quality is reported good to excellent.

RANGE and non-irrigated pasture conditions are six per cent better now than a month ago. Conditions are generally good to excellent throughout the northern half of the state with some exceptions.

TEXAS continues its honor as the number one cattle feeding state in the nation. As of June 1, cattle on feed in Texas totaled 2,252,000. This is 10 per cent above a year ago, and four per cent above a month ago.

Number of cattle on feed in the seven major cattle feeding states—Texas, Iowa, Arizona, California, Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas—totaled 9,455,000. This is a one per cent increase from a month ago and four per cent more than a year ago at this time.

Placements into Texas feedlots during May total 492,000 head. These placements are 12 per cent below May this year but 91 per cent above the previous month.

Marketings of fat cattle during May totaled 403,000 head, which is 12 per cent above a year ago and 14 per cent above marketings for April.

Cattle producers are continuing to expand production, contrary to some claims by some consumer groups that the cattlemen is purposely holding back production in order to keep his price high.

MILK production in May in Texas is the same as May of last year, but is one per cent below a month ago. May milk production totaled 305,000,000 pounds in Texas.

Nationwide, milk production is two per cent under a year ago. Production during the first five months of this year is two per cent less than last year.

The May milk-feed ratio at 1.37 is the lowest since 1965. Huge increases in feed costs are the reasons for the decline in the ratio. It is 19 per cent below a year ago.

NATIONAL TIMBER SALES

The Nixon administration has announced that it plans to increase sales of timber in U.S. national forests by 10 per cent this year and next. The Secretary of Agriculture said the sales are designed to increase the domestic lumber supply and to help restrain prices.

EMISSION STANDARDS

General Motors has asked Congress to delay and relax 1976 auto emission standards and systematically monitor the company's efforts to curb pollution.

SIX YEAR TERM

Representative Donald M. Fraser, (D-Minn) has proposed a constitutional amendment limiting the President to a single six-year term of office.
