LEGAL ACTION TO BLOCK SUFFRAGE

Injunction Sought Restraining Colby From Declaring Ratification.

Washington, July 7.—Legal proceedings against the suffragist constitutional amendment were instituted Wednesday in the supreme court of the District of Columbia. The complainant was Charles S. Fairchild of New York, president of the American Constitutional league and former secretary of the treasury in the cabinet of President Cleveland.

Mr. Fairchild seeks to enjoin Secretary of State Colby from issuing any proclamation declaring the ratification of the suffrage amendment.

Attacks Enforcement.

The suit also seeks to restrain Attorney General Palmer from enforcing the amendment.

The grounds on which the suit is based include fraud in the ratification of the amendment by the legislature of the State of West Virginia. The petition also alleges that the Tennessee legislature, of which a special session has just been called, has no authority to ratify. The point raised in the Tennessee case is that which was dealt with by Attorney General Frierson in an opinion to President Wilson holding that a recent decision of the supreme court had nullified the provision under which the Tennessee legislature was unable to act upon the federal constitutional amendment unless the issue had previously been submitted to the voters of the State.

Senator Expelled.

It is claimed in the petition that the West Virginia senate expelled Senator Montgomery, an opponent of suffrage, by a bare majority vote when the law of the State required a two-thirds vote, and that Senator Dodson was allowed to vote when he had lost his right by removing from the county from which he was elected.

It is pointed out in Mr. Fairchild's petition that a heavy additional burden would be placed on the taxpayers of at least several States where women have no vote. In these States the number of voters will be nearly double, it is pointed out, and the expense of elections will be twice as great as at present.

The purpose of the suit is to test the validity of the ratifications in advance of the receipt of the necessary number by Secretary Colby. It is stated in the petition that Secretary Colby has taken the position that he is without authority to inquire into the validity of ratifications by various States, and that he has no alternative but to issue a proclamation when the necessary 36 States have ratified the amendment.

The 35 States have ratified the amendment and action by a thirty-sixth State is expected in the near future.

Art. 49, Printing of Tickets— Notice to be Given.

"Where tickets or cards of admission to any place for admission to which a charge is made are printed, manufactured or sold by any person, it shall be the duty of that person to give prompt notice to the Collector of Internal Revenue of the district in which is located the place to which admission is to be charged. Such notice shall state (1) the name and address of the person to whom the tickets are furnished and (2) the number of tickets furnished (if dated, the number of each date) and it shall be accompanied by proofs or sample copies of the tickets themselves. If the tickets are serially numbered, the notice must also contain a statement as to such serial numbers."

As indicated above, this section is quoted from Regulation 43, and not from the Revenue Act itself. This, however, does not weaken the effect of the paragraph quoted, for the reason that the Revenue Act of 1918 gives force and effect to regulations drawn thereunder, equal to the force and effect of the statute itself.

In addition to the paragraph just quoted, it is important to observe that penalties for violation of this statute, which appear in Sections 1308 and 1309 of the Revenue Act of 1918, provide as follows, that any person required under this title (meaning the title containing the provision above quoted) to pay or to collect, to act for and pay over any tax as required by law or regulations made under authority thereof, to make a return or supply any information for the purpose of the computation, assessment or collection of any tax, who fails to pay, to collect or to act for, or pay over any such tax, to make any such return or to supply any such information at the time or times required by law or regulations, shall in addition to the other penalties provided by law be subject to a penalty of not more than $1,000.00.

This notification, proof of ticket or copy of same together with the information specified should be sent to the Collector of Internal Revenue for this District.

Educational Advantages for the Ex-Service Man.

Twelve thousand dollars is available for Houston county ex-service men who may desire to take advantage of educational opportunities offered by the Y. M. C. A. This organization has apportioned a fund of 3 cents per capita to each county in Texas, to be used in the form of scholarships for ex-service men. In order to be qualified, a man must hold an honorable discharge from some branch of the service. This is the only requirement. The money was left over from war work.

There are two types of scholarships: first, collegiate; second, general. The general scholarships are for men who would like to attend some commercial college or take some courses by correspondence—250 courses are offered by correspondence to men who are not in position to attend school. These courses are free and include all necessary supplies.

Some of the correspondence work includes: Commercial courses, such as bookkeeping, typewriting, shorthand and accounting; mechanical courses, such as automobile mechanics; also agricultural, mathematical, engineering and historical.

For further particulars see or write any member of the following committee at Crockett: Rev. C. B. Garrett, pastor, First Methodist Church; Prof. B. F. Thomas, principal, Crockett High School; Harvey Bayne, post commander, American Legion.

Pros Disappointed; May Launch Presidential Ticket.

Chicago, July 8.—Prohibitionists are not satisfied with the attitude of either of the two great parties and they are disgusted with the lack of enforcement of the prohibition laws, so they are seriously considering putting a presidential ticket of their own in the field this year. Final decision on this point will be reached at the party's regular convention to be held at Lincoln, Neb., July 21.

Both the old parties by omitting a plank indorsing the eighteenth amendment failed in living up to their standards demanded by the American people, said Virgil C. Hinshaw, chairman of the prohibition national committee, Thursday. "We of the prohibition party consider it incumbent upon us to maintain a party organization to give expression to the millions of dry voters in this country."

Had the prohibition laws been enforced, the prohibition party would undoubtedly be fading out by this time, but it is a matter of notorious record that in all the large cities the eighteenth amendment is being treated as a joke by the liquor dealers and many of the federal, State and municipal officers.

The Courier is still $1.50 a year. This is in reply to those who are making inquiry. We do not know when the advance in subscription price, if found unavoidable, will go on.

Big Dinners and Big Times.

After reconsidering, the people of the Belott community decided to give the candidates a picnic dinner on Tuesday and to give them a bigger dinner than ever—and it would take nothing less than a big dinner to feed the crowd that went out from and through Crockett. A big time is reported. Wednesday was candidates' day at Ratcliff, and another big time and another big dinner is again the report.

When Batteries Quit, What Should You Do?

The storage battery is the least understood of all automobile accessories, says Kelley Willis of the USL Battery Service Station.

"How many car drivers," he said yesterday, "actually know what to do when confronted by battery trouble? If he gets an unpleasant surprise in the shape of a refusal of his starter to work, the ordinary motorist will hie to the service station to have the trouble diagnosed. But let us suppose him miles away from skilled assistance. A little practical information concerning the function of his battery would come in handy.

"It would pay him to know the probable causes leading up to the trouble. Perhaps, for example, the battery is partly discharged, due to insufficient charging, or one of the battery cells has gone dead. Possibly the terminals and top connectors are loose or are dirty and corroded, or the generator is not delivering a sufficient charge of current to meet the car's requirements.

"In any case he should know where to look if trouble develops in his battery. If the trouble is due to dirty terminals he could correct it by cleaning and tightening them. Or if it were such as to require skilled repairs he would know it at once and save further expense by taking it to a service station without delay.

"Too many automobile drivers are satisfied to go on from day to day unmindful of the important little black box attached to their car. They should know their batteries just as intimately as they do the rest of the car. By doing so they will economize still further in automobile wear and tear."

SUFFRAGE FAILS IN LOUISIANA

Adjournment is Taken Without Favorable Action on Amendment.

Baton Rouge, La., July 8.—Adverse action on woman suffrage measures featured the biennial session of the Louisiana legislature, which adjourned sine die at midnight tonight.

From the first, through the final day of the session, ratification of the federal woman suffrage amendment was given consideration, either in committee rooms or on the floors of the houses. Defeated separately in both houses, a last minute effort was made today to favorably answer yesterday's appeal of Governor Cox that Louisiana become the necessary thirty-sixth state. The house of representatives, however, refused to suspend the rules to allow the introduction of a ratification resolution and so far as the Louisiana legislature was concerned ratification was a dead issue.

"The state righters," who bitterly fought ratification, fared no better, for their bills providing suffrage to white women by state amendment were killed, lacking by small margins the necessary two-thirds required for constitutional amendments.

Governor Parker's chief administration measure, a plan to raise $3,000,000 by severance taxes on natural resources of the state, oil, timber, sulphur, gravel, gas and moss, went through with comparatively little opposition.

Gambling houses were dealt a death blow by legislation which empowers municipal authorities to condemn property where gambling is conducted commercially and defines gambling in a way which the authorities say will enable them to secure convictions.

The promised war on horse racing did not develop, although as the result of laws passed during the early part of the session the state will secure considerable more revenue than formerly. A measure to prevent publication of form charts, "tips" and "selections" on races was "indefinitely postponed."

SOMETHING ABOUT THE CANDIDATES

James Middleton Cox, democratic presidential nominee, was three times governor of Ohio—an honor enjoyed by only one other Ohioan, Rutherford B. Hayes.

Born on a farm, educated in the public schools, a printer's devil, a school teacher, a newspaper reporter, a private secretary to a congressman, owner, manager and proprietor of two newspapers, member of congress for three years and three times governor of his State is his record to date.

Business success paralleled his political achievements, and through his own efforts Cox has amassed a fortune. Mr. Cox became the leader of the democratic party in Ohio in 1912 when he was nominated for governor. As one who had brought radical changes in the State constitution, he took the field in its behalf. His first term as governor was devoted chiefly to forwarding the enactment of laws to put the new State constitution into effect.

But Ohio evidently was not prepared to assimilate all the new laws, for Cox was defeated for re-election. But his party renominated him in 1916 and he was re-elected for a third term in 1918, being the only democrat to win in Ohio.

Legislation for which Governor Cox is best known includes a model workmen's compensation law and a child labor law which have been extensively copied by other States. Educators of the country say the Ohio school code, enacted under Governor Cox's direction, will live as a monument to his achievements.

Mr. Cox was born in Butler county, Ohio, in 1870. He attended district school and held his first position as a teacher of the school in which he took his first lessons. He spent evenings and holidays in a printing office. In a few years he received his first assignment on the reportorial staff of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

After 10 years with the Enquirer he went to Washington as a private secretary to Congressman Paul Sore of Ohio. At the close of this service he purchased the Dayton Daily News, borrowing most of the money to pay for it. Later he purchased the Springfield Daily News. He was first Tires are often sold the same way politics are.

The last people to wake up to what they are getting are the people who pay the bills.

The bills are getting too big these days in both cases. And the man who is feeling it most with respect to tires is the man who owns a moderate-price car.

III

The idea that the small car owner doesn't need a good tire is rapidly going the way of all mistaken ideas.

He needs it more than anyone else. It's part of our job, as we view it, to see that he gets it.

Our tire service starts with good tires—U. S. Tires. All sizes made to a single standard of quality—none graded down to the price of the car they will go on.

U. S. perfected the first straight side automobile tire—the first pneumatic truck tire.

The U. S. guarantee is for the life of the tire, and not for a limited mileage.

When we recommend and sell U. S. Tires we do so in the interest of greater tire economy. It is our experience that that is the best way to build up a sound and sizable business.

lected to congress in 1908.

He recently purchased the farm near Jacksonburg upon which he was born, and is making it into a modern farm home where he expects to live on retirement from public office. He is married and has four children.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic vice presidential nominee, got into politics at an early date.

Unlike his distant relatives, the Theodore Roosevelt branch of the family, Mr. Roosevelt cast his lot with the democratic party.

His first public office was as a member of the New York senate. He served in that place from 1910 until his appointment as assistant secretary of the navy when he tendered his resignation. Mr. Roosevelt's service in the New York legislature had attracted attention to him to such an extent that he was offered the appointment when President Wilson entered the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt is a member of the Episcopal church. He is a member of the Alpha Delta Phi college fraternity and is a Mason. He is a trustee of the Laura Franklin Free hospital for children and the Seamen's institute and a member of the Naval History society, the New York Historical society and the Holland society. He served as a member of the Hudson Fulton celebration commission in 1909. His clubs include the Harvard, Knickerbocker, Racquet and Tennis of New York, the Army and Navy, Metropolitan and University club at Washington. He still maintains his legal residence in the place of his birth, Hyde Park, New York.

Mr. Roosevelt is a fifth cousin of the late Theodore Roosevelt. His wife, also a Roosevelt, is a niece of the former president. Their family consists of five children, Anna, Eleanor, James, Elliot, John and Franklin Jr.

From the start of his political career, Mr. Roosevelt has aligned himself with the progressive element of the democratic party. He had the hardihood to jeopardize his whole future at the beginning of his legislative service in New York by making a fight against bossism. In the New York senate he was the leader of a group of independent, unbossed legislators.

Recently Mr. Roosevelt expressed his views on governmental matters in a letter to Representative Ireland of Illinois, chairman of the house committee on accounts, who sent a questionnaire to department chiefs inquiring their view on how efficiency and economy might be best promoted. Mr. Roosevelt expressed the opinion that there is a vast amount of waste and inefficiency in the government service. He suggested that the remedy lay not in more legislation, but less. He said department heads should be hampered by fewer restrictions imposed by congress.

Carelessness causes 80 per cent of all accidents to employees in industrial concerns. A recent report of accidents at the Good-year Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, shows that of a total of 243, 175 were caused by carelessness on the part of the man injured and 13 by that of fellow workmen.

Safety is the aim of new gas hose connections, which are screwed into wall sockets, the operation of turning them turning on the gas, while removing them stops the flow.

WHAT THE FORMER A. & M.
PRESIDENT WRITES IN THE RUSK COUNTY NEWS.

WILSON'S OBSTINACY AND LODGE'S VENOM.

We will have some kind of a tribunal, international in its scope, to settle all quarrels and disputes between nations, thereby preventing wars. It may be Wilson's League of Nations greatly modified, it may be a kind of court, such as Root favors. The average sensible man cares little what it may be called so it does the work. Since the highest incentive to work, plan and fight is to achieve fame, glory and renown, we must relegate much of the ambitions of men to the scrap heap before we can accomplish much along this line. We must subdue Wilson's obstinacy, overturn Lodge's venom, and eliminate all political sculduggery before we will ever have a scheme that will prevent war. The very elements in men that cause wars, bloodshed and destruction are prominent in the acts of Messrs. Wilson and Lodge. They are both ambitious men, and to ascertain which one possesses this principle in the larger degree will require a finer analysis into human metaphysics than mortal man is able to make. The world can get along better without the consummation of their ambitious aims than it can without a great plan to preserve the peace of mankind. All the troubles, national and international, since the world began have been brought about by great men seeking to get some advantage of each other. If the great mass of mankind were intelligent and well informed on matters pertaining to their own prosperity up to a degree that they would act independently of the ambitions of men, the world would settle all difficulties in a peaceful way. Mr. Wilson would overturn the traditions of our country rather than yield an inch, and Lodge would fiddle while the world burned up, provided his fiddling defeated Mr. Wilson in his plans. What America is most interested in is not Mr. Wilson's obstinacy nor Mr. Lodge's fiddling, but a happy, prosperous world, peace and good will, low taxes, light burdens, and government for the people, of the people and by the people. No one but a despotically inclined man ever conceived of a government for the few, of the few, and by the few.

WISDOM AND GOODNESS NOT ALL OF ONE MAN.

Whenever a Democrat must turn to the pages written by Hamilton to defend his position, it is time to pray. We need courage in the Democratic party of a type that will challenge more self-respect. Democrats seem to be too afraid of some one to come out boldly and proclaim what they do believe. They seem to labor under some immense power like we imagine existed in Germany during the boot-ed, spurred and mounted days of the Kaiser. This country needs more courage and independence. It must wake up to a vigorous realization of the fact that Americans are supposed to be free men and should follow their convictions rather than be led by some great authority somewhere that in reality does not exist. Mr. Wilson may think that he and he alone should dictate the policy of the Democratic party. Should we as free-born Americans transfer our opinions to a man who is supposed to be more of a public servant than a public master? A one-man government was all right for Mexico until the rule of that man became so hard and corrupt that even the ignorant greasers rose up against it. It lasted a long time in Russia and in Germany. It should not be tolerated in America, although that "one-man" might be a very wise and good man. If one man has a monopoly of the wisdom and patriotism of the country, he may not have it long, and we should keep in mind that after Moses died the Israelites still lived and the nation even survived several years after Solomon departed from the earth. We hope the Germans may be able to maintain a great and wise government with a king or an emperor, although the late emperor was loved and worshipped by many of his people. Let us remember always that there is but one God, and that He is the God of the Republicans as well as the God of the Democrats, the God of the Gentile as well the God of the Jew. Wilson and Bryan will some day die, and God will still reign, and the world will drop a tear and pass on to achieve other and greater things than ever before.

Theory and Practice.

Judge: Mr. Smith, hearing music at his neighbor's house, decided he would drop in and see how they were. Mr. Jones welcomed him and ushered him into the parlor, where his daughter was playing the piano and his son singing. Mr. Smith begged them to continue. They consented. The first song they selected was "Mother." They sang this very feelingly, and then father joined in the chorus. This was followed by "Mother Machree" and other of like sentiment. Then they stopped for a while and Mr. Jones commented on songs about mother—how true they were, how dear, and how they loved to sing them. Then, as Mrs. Jones hadn't appeared yet, Mr. Smith inquired about her state of health. "Oh," said Mr. Jones, "she's well enough. She's in the kitchen doing the dishes, but after she has finished and has taken in the wood she'll join us."

ENGINEER MONK PASSES OUT AS DAY IS CLOSED

Engineer Richard Monk of Monroe, Louisiana, who was fatally injured when Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific railroad passenger train No. 12 was derailed six miles west of Monroe yesterday morning, died at St. Francis Hospital yesterday afternoon shortly before 6 o'clock. The funeral will be held at the family residence on the corner of Calypso and Hart streets this afternoon at 5 o'clock and interment in the old cemetery.

Although known that Engineer Monk was seriously injured, his death came as a great shock to friends here, as it was believed he was improving. A report from his bedside yesterday afternoon brought news to the effect that he was improving, but later he collapsed and passed away within a short while.

Mr. Monk was greatly beloved by a wide circle of friends in Monroe and at other towns along the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific Railroad. He was a man of sterling character and was kind and gentle and easily won friends.

Mr. Monk was a Mason, belonging to the Western Star Lodge No. 24, A. F. and A. M., and a special communication will be held in the Masonic temple this afternoon at 4 o'clock for the purpose of paying the last sad tribute of respect to his memory.

Mr. Monk was in his sixty-first year. He had a life time experience as a railroad man, having been in the employ of the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific Railroad for many years, and was considered an especially capable and courageous man. He is survived by his widow and one son, Richard Monk Jr., a young man.

Mr. Monk remained at his post when the railroad accident occurred yesterday and went down an embankment of thirty-five or more feet and was covered with coal, cinders and the wreck of his locomotive. He was released from his position by passengers. He was badly scalded, bruised and burned, and his death came, it is believed, as a result of internal injuries.—Monroe News-Star.

3RD PARTY FACTION STICKS TO DEBS

Cheer Statement Man in Prison
Only One Fit to be President.

Chicago, July 9.—Either some one slipped one over on William Randolph Hearst, or William Randolph Hearst slipped one over on the American constitutional party.

At any rate the birth of Mr. Hearst's "Third Party," scheduled by the Hearst newspapers for this evening in the Auditorium Recital hall failed to take place.

Instead 68 radicals representing various groups gathered to express views of many kinds and at midnight adjourned cheering the announcement that after all Eugene Debs was the only man fit to be president of the United States and that hope of the future was in Russia and not in the United States.

The meeting, it was announced, was to have issued a call for a mass meeting to be held later and a convention at which the nomination of Mr. Hearst for president was on the program. After the adjournment, however, the leaders gathered together for a brief minute, decided that there would be no meeting and that there would be no convention and that all that could be done was to watch the developments at the various other "third party" conventions now in the city.

For only a few minutes did the Hearst forces control the meeting. That was when a photographer for the Hearst newspapers, assisted by three reporters, induced 42 of the 64 persons then present to gather in the central of the seven sections of seats in the hall for a "crowd" picture.

Criticize Hearst.

At other times the speakers, members of the American constitutionalists were the speakers, criticized the Hearst newspapers for their advance story of their meeting.

E. G. Ballard, chairman of the meeting, declared that it was not intended to be a mass meeting, but simply a meeting of the executive committee, and that there was to be no national convention, as the Hearst newspapers had announced.

Edward T. O'Loughlin, former registrar of Kings county, denounced newspapers in general, saying that "friendly newspapers only makes fools of us and unfriendly newspapers kid us." Mr. O'Loughlin took pains to point out that no one man owned the American constitutional party, not even Mr. Hearst, although he agreed with the Hearst editorials. He also took a few cracks at the committee of 48, which he declared had spies at the meeting.

Finally, former Governor James Ferguson of Texas, after speaking for an hour, mentioned Mr. Hearst as the proper man to nominate on a light wines and beer platform. He was cheered. Then he proceeded to show how the new "third party" would pay the war debt out of taxes on wines and beers.

Then Rev. George Chalmers Richmond, pastor of the Central church of St. Louis, spoiled everything.

"We are looking for a prophet, but I doubt if we'll find one," he said. "The next president of the United States will be a small man and the result will be that he will not be able to cope with the revolution which is surely coming. There is not a candidate in the field who measures up to the standard of leadership we need, unless it is Eugene Debs."

Then the preacher denounced Governor Lowden and Bois Penrose, the latter of whom he declared was "unfit to enter hell," announced that he was against prohibition and had a flask of Bourbon in his room in the Hotel La Salle. An advertising solicitor cornered the party leaders for a page advertisement, and the meeting adjourned.

Rank outsiders who have been observing the antics of the third party said Friday night that the republicans have the elephant, the democrats the donkey and that an appropriate emblem for the third party would be a scrambled egg.

Toast to Miss Sue Smith.

I think I was the first person in Crockett who knew of this beautiful little romance. When Sue was a little girl in knee dresses—usually wearing a navy-blue plaited skirt and crisp white "middy"—she used to go tripping by my home, happy as a lark, carrying a big pile of books on her arm. She danced by and greeted me like the sunbeam that she was. In the afternoons, when school was over, here she came again, tripping homeward—even happier and merrier than she was before—for this time, Milton was carrying the books—and Sue was looking up into his face, just chatting, chatting and chatting! I used to see them pass by, smile and say to the family: "Look out! first thing you know, those children will get married!" and sure enough it has all happened just as I predicted it would. This was Chapter No. 1—care-free and happy—in Sue's Serial Love Story. We now come to Chapter No. 2, which we trust will be just as happy, if not so care-free.

"My boat is on the shore,
My barque is on the sea,
And here's a double health to thee,"
Dear, charming Sue.

We are assembled here this afternoon to bid you joy and godspeed, for soon you and your lover will enter the ship of happiness and hope, to set sail together on the great sea of life. In your voyage, may you encounter only favoring gales, may your ship make port at only pleasant havens, where you will be garlanded with the flowers of love and friendship, and sustained by the golden fruits of prosperity, and at last may you and yours pass safely into the glorious Harbor of Love Eternal.

To Mrs. Cornelia Headen. Ellsworth:

"This afternoon is a time of gladness—the speeding of the happy bride on her way. It is also a time of sadness, for it calls also for the speeding on her way to a distant city one of our most lovable, most beloved friends, Mrs. Ellsworth. When I received the message this morning that she was to leave us tonight, I was almost overwhelmed. I felt a strong desire to weave for her a chaplet of roses, whose perfume would refresh her spirit on her way—but alas! I was sizzling and frizzling—and all my beautiful flowers of speech withered away in such a tropical temperature! Goodbye is a sad word—we say it reluctantly—but after all, it is but another way of saying, "May God be with you until we meet again!" You, Mrs. Ellsworth, take a part of all our hearts with you—and I am sure you leave behind you a part of yours. Here's wishing you health, wealth and a speedy return!"

To Mrs. Corinne Nunn Corry:

"I want you all to rise and drink with me a toast to our gracious hostess, Mrs. Corry, who does more for the pleasure and happiness of others than any one else of my acquaintance. She never fails her friends in deeds of kindness and hospi-talities—and especially the fair, young brides, to whom her heart goes out especially. May she live long and prosper—may she abide with us many years to receive our grateful love and appreciation!"

Helen Nunn Lipscomb.

CONTENTMENT.

If men knew what felicity dwells in the cottage of the godly man, how sound he sleeps, how quiet his rest, how composed his mind, how free from care, how easy his position, how moist his mouth, how joyful his heart, they would never admire the noises, the diseases, the throngs of passions, and the violence of unnatural appetites that fill the house of the luxurious and the heart of the ambitious.—Jeremy Taylor.

Obituaries, resolutions, cards of thanks and other matter not "news" will be charged for at the rate of 5c per line.

Parties ordering advertising or printing for societies, churches, committees or organizations of any kind will, in all cases, be held personally responsible for the payment of the bills.

In case of errors or omissions in legal or other advertisements, the publishers do not hold themselves liable for damage further than the amount received by them for such advertisement.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of the Courier will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the management.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

Fort Stockton Pioneer: "The other day a man strolled into a store that doesn't advertise," says an exchange, "and was looking around the relics of pre-war days, when he ran across a man who evaded the draft and had remained there safely hidden for three years."

But how could a man stay in a nonadvertising store for three years without starving to death, along with the proprietor? The report should be accepted with reserve. It seems unlikely. And as for that matter, there are no nonadvertising stores now. Some stores still refuse to use the newspapers, but they advertise in whatever ways they can secure advertising at what seems to them bargain prices. Some of them advertise in hotel registers, some in "directories," some in circular letters, and all of them by word of mouth and window signs. It shouldn't be expected that all merchants will advertise in the newspapers. The publishers don't want all the merchants to advertise. There isn't print paper enough to accommodate all the old advertisers, even. Nevertheless, publishers still solicit new business. No concern, no matter what its fundamental limitations may be, can afford to ignore new business or to refuse to cultivate new customers. Population is kaleidoscopic. It changes greatly in each five-year period in any American community. Therefore even the old-established businesses must seek new faces at their counters, new names for their books. Staleness is the avant courier of decay. Decay is death.—Galveston News.

YOUR PARTNER OR YOUR VICTIM?

Brainy men—men whose abilities would net them greater profits in other industries—spend their lives as printers because each day they learn something new about the work they love.

These printers, just as other notable men in other professions, are sometimes very timid. Possibly it is because of their complicated subject which they fear the buyer of printing may never clearly understand. Whatever it is, many buyers of printing construe it as an opportunity to force their opinions on the printer.

What is the result? Very often it is poor printing, a dissatisfied buyer and a disliked printer.

Why should the printer, of all persons, be the craftsman whom everybody feels qualified to tell how to run his business?

Why will many buyers of printing continue to think that printing is philanthropy? "You can't get something for nothing" is as true in printing as in any other business. And it is more evident, because nothing shows its cheapness quicker than cheap printing.

But if a printer does turn out a good job, even in face of difficulties, what is his reward? Isn't it often only an opportunity to hand in a competitive bid on the next job?

Why is the printer so seldom allowed to feel a spirit of partnership with the buyer—to feel that he is working with him instead of for him? Why is the spectre of a rejected order or a lost account hung ever before his eyes?

Buyers of printing, remember this: The first step toward better printing is to make your printer your partner.

Cox Wires Roosevelt His Congratulations.

Dayton, O., July 6.—Governor James M. Cox, democratic presidential nominee, Tuesday night expressed his approval of Franklin D. Roosevelt as his running mate in the coming election. A telegram of congratulation was sent by Governor Cox to Mr. Roosevelt late Tuesday. The message said:

"Please accept my earnest congratulations over the honor that has come to you. I am very much delighted that we are associated together in the contest."

In discussing Mr. Roosevelt, Governor Cox characterized him as a very vigorous, upstanding, courageous and progressive democrat.

"Mr. Roosevelt's speech before the national committee in Chicago last winter made a very strong impression," said the governor. "He spoke in Dayton last winter on Americanization, and his address was very favorably commented upon all over the country. His service at Washington has given him a wide experience and acquaintanceship."

The governor added that Roosevelt was a very good "stumper."

Governor Cox Tuesday night wired Howard H. Moore, his campaign manager at San Francisco, saying:

"Rarely, if ever, has the magnificent fight which you made been equaled in a national convention. Generalship matched support from the ranks, and that is saying much for both. Congratulations and thanks."

Republican Nominee Sends Congratulations to Democratic Opponent.

Marion, Ohio, July 6.—Senator Harding, the republican candidate for the presidency, spent a quiet day Tuesday, receiving a few callers and devoting his time to correspondence and the accumulation of data for his speech of acceptance.

Immediately after hearing of the selection of Governor Cox as the democratic presidential nominee, however, the senator sent him a congratulatory telegram, while in a statement he said the Ohio governor deserved the nomination, but that the selection would in no way alter his plans for a "front porch" campaign.

Amplifying his statement later to the newspaper men Senator Harding said his purpose and that of his supporters was to restore the republican party to power and that the place of

THE CHARGES ARE DENIED BY NEFF

Attack Uncalled For, Unwarranted and Unfair, He Declares at Austin.

Austin, Texas, July 7.—Standing on the platform in the house of representatives where he had sixteen years ago presided as speaker of the lower branch of the Texas legislature, Pat M. Neff, candidate for governor, tonight denied charges made by R. E. Thomason in a speech in the same hall on June 14. Mr. Neff said that Mr. Thomason's attack upon him was "uncalled for, unwarranted and unfair."

"I resent most earnestly these misrepresentations, which are unworthy of one who seeks the high office of governor," declared Mr. Neff.

Mr. Neff was greeted by a large audience, the hall being practically filled. He was introduced by L. L. Hogue, secretary of the Neff Travis County Club, as "the next occupant of the Texas White House."

Mr. Neff was applauded when he announced he was making the race for governor without the aid of a manager or the help of politicians, and that "if I have not sense enough to manage my own campaign I will not have sense enough to be governor."

Another declaration was that his "campaign, election and administration are, to be a help and inspiration to every Texas boy."

residence of the nominee would have little influence on the outcome of the fight. For that reason, the senator said, there was no necessity for changing his campaign policy.

While the actual writing of his speech of acceptance has not been started, the senator said he expected to begin its preparation in a few days and have it finished about July 16. He said it was shorter than speeches of similar character delivered in the past. One point which it was understood he intends to emphasize is the necessity for restoration of party government in place of "one man government."

Cox Sure of One Republican Vote in Chicago.

Chicago, July 7.—Governor James M. Cox, democratic nominee, is certain of one republican vote in Chicago. Thomas S. Blair, president of the engineering company that bears his name, is the father of Governor Cox's second wife, and Tuesday he proudly went over the good points of his son-in-law.

"The acid test of a man comes when that man marries your daughter," said Mr. Blair.

"Margarette had been my housekeeper since her mother died. She did everything to make our home attractive and comfortable and then she was married to Governor Cox. I was happy, as I knew she had the right man."

"There is not a better man in the country for any job. I, of course, know him intimately. He is a man of the soil, a farmer at heart, which gives him that bluntness and directness which have made him famous. This is polished off by his wonderful training as a newspaper man. He will make one of the best presidents the country has ever had."

Governor and Mrs. Cox have a baby girl, Anne, now seven months old. Mrs. Cox, who is not yet in her thirties, was born in Pittsburg, and came to Chicago in 1892 with her father. She was educated in the Chicago schools and at Farmington, Mass.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Courier is authorized to make the following announcements for office, subject to the action of the American Party:

- For Commissioner, Prec. No. 3
E. C. (ED) THOMPSON

The Courier announced some time since that it would support the Hon. Pat Neff of Waco for governor, and gave its reasons at that time for such support. From that day until this, as the campaign has progressed, the Courier has grown stronger in the conviction that it is supporting the right candidate. And aside from Mr. Neff's splendid qualifications for the office, it is pleasantly recalled by Houston county people that Mrs. Neff, who before marriage was Miss Myrt Mainer of Lovelady, could occupy the governor's mansion in such a queenly manner as to reflect credit not only on the county of her birth, but on the whole of Texas as well.

A TIME FOR COUNTY LOYALTY.

There are two candidates in the race for state senator from this district, composed of the counties of Anderson, Cherokee, Angelina, Trinity and Houston. Two of the counties have each a candidate and three of the counties are without a candidate from among their own citizenship. In these three counties the battle for political supremacy is being fought, with a good chance for winning on the side of the Houston county candidate. But friends of J. H. Painter should not be overly confident of the result. That he will carry his home county should not be enough and that he has a good chance of carrying other counties should not be enough. It is said that there is safety in numbers, and therefore the bigger the majority the better. Friends of Mr. Painter who have friends over the district, and there are many of them, could serve their county well by exerting an outside influence through their friends in the interest of the Houston county candidate. It means much that Houston county should have the senatorship. Angelina county knows what it means and is exerting every effort to get it. It must not be said that Angelina is more loyal to its candidate than is Houston county or that Angelina people are more appreciative of the senatorial honors than are Houston county people.

KEEP YOUR CREDIT GOOD.

Credit is the most valuable thing a person can have, far more valuable than cash, for the mighty business world would collapse if it depended on cash alone. Consider the tremendous volume of business that is carried on on a credit basis and you will recognize that if business is to be stable, permanent and successful, each credit risk or promise to pay must be fulfilled when due; in other words, business must be backed up by good credit. What would happen to this wonderful country of ours if its credit was not good? The merchant takes your promise to pay. Your word is, in most every case, his only security. He loans you the money to buy his goods. He charges you no interest. A bank would not (except under exceptional circumstances) loan you money without security, and then it would charge you for the use of its money.

Be fair to yourself and be fair to the merchant. Pay your bills promptly when due. How often have you heard the remark: "He's as good as gold?" No greater compliment can be paid. He didn't inherit that reputation and perhaps he does not own any security. What security does he need with a reputation like that? None whatever. He guarded his credit carefully, was never indifferent with his creditors or careless about his bills. "Prompt pay" was his motto.

No one is responsible for your credit reputation but yourself. It is up to you to make it or break it. Don't treat it lightly. It is the most sensitive thing in the world and will follow you like your shadow wherever you go. You can't lose it. Pay your bills promptly.

Twelve Largest Cities in the United States.

Census figures have progressed sufficiently to rank the twelve largest cities in the United States. Following is the 1920 census reports of these cities.

3—Philadelphia	1,823,158
4—Detroit	993,739
5—Cleveland	796,836

7—Boston	747,923
8—Baltimore	733,826

Why We Read the Papers.

Why do you read the newspapers? asks an editor. Right away you say, "to know what's going on everywhere, to be well informed." You read the front page for the most important news. There is at least one more page that you turn to regularly—probably several pages. It may be the editorial page, the woman's page or the sporting page. Perhaps it is the market page or local news. At any rate you want to have up-to-date information on whatever interests you. Do you read the advertising columns regularly? Do you know that they are one of the most important features of your newspaper? You are interested in whatever will save you money, time and labor.

Read the advertisements to learn what is new, what you need and where to find it.

The newspaper advertisements, will tell you how to increase your knowledge and your income. They are a liberal education in themselves. Read them faithfully.

"A Sweet Little Boy Dead."

The death angel again has visited our midst and taken from us a dear little boy, Carl Owen Norris. All that loving hands and skilled physicians could do was done for him. But God in his infinite wisdom called him home. He was loved by all who knew him and we can't realize that he is dead and that we will never look into his beautiful face or hear that sweet little voice again. His soul was white and pure as a falling snow flake, his life as sweet as an opening flower. We do know that two sad hearts are grieving over their lost one. They have lost something that is dearer to them than all the gold in the world, and while no amount of money could have bought what they have lost today, no amount can bring it back. So be it. It is God's will and their loss is his gain; while they grieve this evening, he is in heaven. Another little soul is sleeping with Jesus and there will be another little mound in the cemetery where the mother and father, brothers and sisters, will go and look upon and many happy remembrances will be brought back to mind of the little smiling face that used to be at home, and while they shall lay flowers upon his mound the spirit will be watching from above. Just why he should be taken from the fond parents is only known by the Almighty God, and the only relief they can have is in knowing that the Good Book teaches us that He does all things well. We can not question His way of doing things, as they have shown in the past, like they will in the future, that He never mistakes. Today this home is darkened, death has entered and taken toil, a little child has gone that was brought in this home and guarded with all human skill. He is now in heaven under able care and dear parents, brothers and sisters, weep not and grieve little; let us all prepare to go where he has gone. When we see a precious blossom That we tended with such care, Rudely taken from our bosom How aching hearts despair. Round it's little grave we linger, Till the setting sun is low, Feeling all our hopes are gone, With the flowers we cherished so. We shall sleep, but not forever, There will be a glorious dawn, We shall meet to part no never, On the resurrection morn. It. Hula Gossett.
