TIE-UP FORBIDDEN WITHOUT SANCTION OF LABOR BOARD

All Who Violate Order Will Be Classed as Outlaws, Is Declared.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—The United States railroad labor board Saturday, in effect, forbade railroad union labor from striking without the board's permission, and declared that all strikers who violate the order would be classed as outlaws who had voluntarily removed themselves from the protection of the transportation act.

This was the board's final statement on the railroad strike which was to have been called Sunday morning by the big four brotherhoods and the switchmen's union. Toned down considerably from the first draft, prepared before the unions had called off their threatened strike, the decision based on the hearing held by the board last Wednesday, still set forth in plain language, the board's determination to assert the maximum power allotted to it under the transportation act.

Every dispute involving changes in wages, rules, working conditions, etc., must be referred to the board and no action taken by either side until authorized by the board, the decision says.

Board's Findings.

The board made three findings. These were:

First, that all such disputes must be referred to the board before any action is taken.

Second, that any interruption of traffic would be a blow aimed at the peace, prosperity and safety of the entire nation.

Third, that any union going out on strike will forfeit its rights and the rights of its members in all existing contracts and lose all benefits accorded by the transportation act.

The labor board after speaking of the decision of both sides to abide by the law, says, "these facts render it unnecessary for the board to make any further orders on or about this matter, and move it to congratulate the parties directly interested and the public most vitally and profoundly interested, on this return to industrial peace, triumph of the reign of law and the escape from national disaster.

Clear Up Points.

"But at this time, and while the matter is so intensely before the minds of all, the board deems it expedient and proper to make its rulings and position on some of the points involved so clear that no ground for any misunderstanding can hereafter exist.

"First, when any change of wages, contracts or rules previously in effect are contemplated or proposed by either party, conference must be had as directed by the transportation act and by rules or decisions of procedure promulgated by the board, and where agreements are not reached the dispute must be brought before this board, and no action taken or change made until authorized by the board.

"Second, the ordering or authorizing of a strike against decision number 147 (the July wage cut), of this board is a violation of that decision. The board desires to point out that such overt acts by either party tending to and threatening an interruption of the transportation lines, the peaceful and uninterrupted operation of which are so absolutely necessary to the peace, prosperity and safety of the entire people, are in themselves even when they do not culminate in a stoppage of traffic, a cause and source of great injury and damage.

"The board further points out for the consideration of employees interested that when such action does result in a strike the organization so acting has forfeited its rights and the rights of its members in and to the provisions and benefits of all contracts theretofore existing, and the employees so striking have voluntarily removed themselves from the classes entitled to appeal to this board for relief and protection."

LOCAL RAILROAD STRIKE SITUATION

Two weeks ago Saturday (October 22) all brakemen and switchmen on the I. & G. N. Railway system went on strike and announced that they would tie up traffic on the I. & G. N. until eight days later, October 30, when they would be joined by the engineers, conductors and firemen in a general strike, not only on the I. & G. N., but on all other lines, and by the brakemen and switchmen on all other lines. Passenger trains continued to run without brakemen, but freight traffic was pretty well tied up for Saturday, Sunday and Monday. By Tuesday the railroad company had secured enough new switchmen and brakemen to run one freight train each way a day, by Wednesday two freights were moving each way a day, by Thursday about three a day and by Friday all trains were running, including the local freight. Traffic is again normal on the I. & G. N., with plenty of switchmen and brakemen, the company announces, and brakemen on all passenger trains. It is said that many of the new men lost out in the so-called outlaw strikes in the north and, having lost their strike, are now willing to work wherever they can find employment.

Indications are that the I. & G. N. brakemen and switchmen, about 600 in number, have lost their strike, also. Following their walk-out, the general strike timed for October 30 was called off by the union chiefs after a conference with the United States labor board, when it was found that the decisions of the United States labor board must be abided by as well as any other decision of a governmental body. The I. & G. N. brakemen and switchmen, having already struck, have lost their standing with the labor board as well as with the railroad company, and there seems to be little chance for their reinstatement, collectively. They will likely find their way back into railroad employment, gradually and individually. They got into too big a hurry to strike and could not wait until the general strike called for November 30, for had they waited they would not have struck at all. Traffic on the I. & G. N. has assumed its pre-strike normalcy.

TWO WORLD HEROES GREETED WITH WILD OVATION BY LEGION

More Than 100,000 Welcome Foch and Pershing to Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 31.—Marshal Ferdinand Foch and General John J. Pershing were greeted with a demonstration probably without precedent in the West when they arrived in Kansas City shortly after 5:30 o'clock Monday evening.

More than 100,000 persons filled the broad plaza in front of the Union station, crowding the slopes of the new Memorial park, clinging to ledges, window sills, vantage points on the bluffs, standing on the tops of a sea of automobiles, to join in a wild ovation that drowned the blaring of a dozen bands.

As the Foch party neared the exit of the huge station torch flares were lighted and held high, while other large flares from the heights of the park sent a flood of light over the entire plaza. A band struck up "La Marsellaise" and while the marshal and the general stood at attention on the station steps a battery of movie and still cameras clicked away to the accompaniment of a barrage of flashlights.

A searchlight, placed on the roof of a tall building diagonally across from the station, held the two world heroes in its beam as a mighty cheer arose, swept across the throng, rolled up the densely peopled slopes, and reverberated from the bluffs beyond.

Legionaries Break Lines.

A few uniformed Legionaries broke through the police and military cordons and shook the hands of the two dignified guests before they stepped into the waiting automobile and were driven through a long cut through the throngs by rigid lines of soldiers, national guardsmen and high school cadets holding their rifles at present arms. A dozen bands scattered along the line of march joined in a medley of patriotic airs, including Pershing's favorite, "Over There," as the party passed.

The visitors were welcomed by a large reception committee headed by John G. Emery and Lemuel Bolles, national commander and national adjutant respectively, of the American Legion; Mayor Cowgill, Governors Hyde of Missouri; Allen of Kansas, and McKelvie of Nebraska; Georges Mignofet, French and Belgian consul, and Irwin Kirkwood, publisher of the Kansas City Star, who will be Marshal Foch's host during his visit here. The marshal will rest Monday evening in preparation for his address to the Legion convention Tuesday morning and the review of the Legion parade in the afternoon.

Halloween Carnival.

The Halloween carnival held on the public school campus Monday night was a great success. It not only afforded amusement for the pupils of the city schools, but many of the parents were present, entered into the carnival spirit and reaped some of the enjoyments that were floating around. All kinds of booths and shows were run by the students and the funds thus raised were donated to school improvements. The event was much enjoyed by all in attendance.

The Courier would like to see the Halloween carnival occasion made an annual event on the public school campus. The class of entertainment thus afforded means a frolic for the students and some of the older ones and serves to keep them out of other pastimes which have heretofore meant the destruction of other people's property, though perhaps innocently engaged in. The Courier has not heard of a lost yard gate or a buggy on a house top as the result of the Halloween frolic on the public school campus Monday evening.

Oil Well News.

When asked by the Courier editor as to the progress of the Aurora well on the H. F. Moore farm, Mr. Robinson, the assistant general manager, stated that the Aurora company had received its car of fuel which it had been looking for since the beginning of the railroad strike week before last and that drilling is again under way. The Aurora well has been shut down for several days on account of a lack of fuel, crude oil being the fuel used. Mr. J. T. O'Hara, the general manager, has just returned from Houston with an extra drilling crew, and both day and night shifts will be used from now on until the well is completed. The managers are well pleased with the indications that oil will be found.

The machinery for the well on the Austin farm south of town has arrived and will be placed in position this week. The derrick for this well has been up for several weeks. This derrick is in view of the public square in Crockett.

The latest oil derrick to go up in the Crockett territory is the one in the Driskell community, northeast of town and between the Augusta and Belott roads. This location is best reached via the Belott road. This derrick is now ready for the drilling outfit upon its arrival.

Hardin County Indictments.

Several county officials of Hardin county were last week indicted by the grand jury. The indictments implicate the county judge, county auditor and three county commissioners. The dispatch to the daily papers also states that several indictments were returned in connection with road matters, alleging violation of the nepotism law and interest in contracts. Hardin is by no means the only county in Texas whose tax payers have been skinned to the very quick in the expenditure of road money and indictments returned, to say nothing of the skinning that has taken place without indictments. For that reason The News has from time to time pointed out the necessity for caution in all things pertaining to the expenditure of the million dollar bond issue which we have voted for roads and urging the necessity of appointing a citizens' committee to act with our county officials in all matters pertaining to the expenditure of this vast sum of money. The grafts, in some cases followed by criminal prosecutions, have invariably resulted from a lack of interest in these matters by the citizens of the various counties or an indifference on the part of county officials. Another great waste in road money has resulted in too much laxness on the part of both officials and citizens in not insisting that contractors comply with every detail of the specifications as originally outlined by the engineer in charge. Another source of danger will be found in the inspectors working under the direction of the engineer, who can never be on the job at all times, and who must trust to subordinates to do certain portions of the work for him. That very thing alone is doubtless responsible for the charges being made that specifications on the Angelina bridge, now being constructed, are not being followed, but on the other hand are being ignored to the detriment of the tax payers and the enrichment of the contractors. It is therefore most important that not only the county officials, but the tax payers exercise an interest in these matters and see that the right thing is done. The News is not contending that any member of our commissioner's court is not honest or amply able to protect the interests of the tax payers. Far from it. But these men, no matter how honest or capable, may make an occasional slip that will prove most costly to the county as a whole, when if backed by a committee of good citizens, as outlined above, such mistake might be avoided, but if not then the responsibility would not all fall on the commissioners and county judge.

As a citizen and tax payer of the county The News editor has given no little thought to the many problems confronting our county officials in the work before them, and feels that all the interest this paper is able to arouse among citizens throughout the county will be worth considerable to them in carrying out the task set before them. If the people of the county cannot be interested in such important matters, however, it will not be the fault of The News.—Lufkin News.

COTTON NORMALCY NOT DESIRED

Statement By Chas. E. Baughman, Commissioner Markets and Warehouse Dept.

We notice in the Dallas Morning News, issue of October 18, an item purported to reflect the plans of the Texas cotton seed crushers. In this news item it was stated, "members of the Texas Cotton Seed Crushers Association, at a meeting in Dallas yesterday in the North Texas Building, voted to immediately start a campaign throughout the state urging farmers to plant more cotton and get back to a normal acreage in Texas."

We are at a loss to know just what is meant by a normal acreage. If it means to the acreage basis when we were growing from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 bales and over, selling same at from five to ten cents a pound, with picking charges from .50 to $1.50 and with cotton seed selling at from $7.50 to $15.00 per ton, and with hundreds of thousands of bales of cotton going to waste in the fields not picked, and later plowed under, we would say most emphatically let's steer clear of such normalcy.

This news item stated further that the Hon. W. A. Bennett of Fort Worth, president of the association, said that while diversified farming was all right "to a certain extent," the association felt the prosperity of the farmer and the state would be best served by a material increase in the cotton acreage over this and last year.

"As the situation exists today the farmer has practically nothing," Mr. Bennett said, "while every bale of cotton would mean real money."

Now, we are commenting on this for several reasons, the first of which is that it would be most ruinous to the farmers of Texas to return to normalcy in the production of cotton. The best fixed farmers today are those who have something to sell the year round. They are diversifiers. They raise most of what they eat and in a large measure eat what they raise, selling their surplus commodities.

A careful investigation will reveal the fact that in our higher institutions of learning today the farmers who diversify have a larger representation than the farmers who make cotton their principal crop. The planting of large cotton acreage means keeping our farm boys and girls out of school, denying them the best asset for their future welfare.

Should the state of Texas produce in 1922 and 1923 a cotton crop double that of this year, if one will take past records as a basis, he would be safe in saying that the crop would not bring as much money as will the crop this year. Cotton has been crowned "king," and this being true it carries the suggestion that every king has his slaves. And any one familiar with the real conditions existing in the larger cotton producing areas of our state is also aware of the fact that these people have very few advantages in the way of giving their children higher education. This, of course, is a result of the necessity of gathering the crop.

We believe that one of the best systems that can be inaugurated in our state today is the building and operation of bonded warehouses in which the producers of our state may store their farm products and sell them from January 1 to December 31, and put a stop to the glutting of any of the markets. It has been but a few years since cotton sold for less money than it took to pay for the picking, the hauling to the gin and the ginning charges. And for this reason it would mean bankruptcy to the cotton producers should they go back to a normal cotton acreage in this state.

The growing of cotton is just as much a science as is the growing of any farm, ranch or orchard commodity, and when our farmers come to fully appreciate the many advantages to be had in diversification, just so soon will they be in a position to be independent, in a very large measure. We believe that there should be a close co-operation between the farmers, the bankers, the oil mills, the cotton ginners and every other industry that is in anyway connected with the production of farm, ranch or orchard products.

A bonded warehouse in every county seat, and in fact in every point where a quantitative production might require, operated along with a well organized marketing association, would be the greatest asset possible in the hands of the producers of this state. Our idea is to let the farmer grow everything. First, that which is needed for his own table, and assist in every way possible in the organization of bonded warehouses and marketing associations as an avenue through which he may dispose of any surplus. And when he goes to town to buy something, let him have something to sell.

We would say to the farmers of Texas, most especially, do not let the present seemingly fair price for cotton induce you to double your acreage another year, and be not deceived, because a normal crop in Texas would likewise mean a normal price, and you would have doubled the amount of work and at the same time got less money in the end.

The southern states can never get away from growing cotton. The orchard and garden products are unquestionably necessary, so is the growing of grain and forage crops, yet it is absolutely essential that the producers of the crop which the teeming millions of the earth's inhabitants are clothed, prepare to grow and market this crop in such a way as will enable them to get from under the burden of the crop mortgage.

LABOR BOARD CAN NOT BE OPPOSED, LEADERS AGREE

Assert People Were Led to Believe Strike Was Not Against Roads.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—The rail strike scheduled for October 30 was averted Thursday night when leaders of the switchmen, trainmen, conductors, engineers and firemen at a joint meeting adopted resolutions withdrawing authorization of a walkout and officials of the railroad telegraphers' organization announced they would take similar action. These were the only unions which had authorized a strike.

The vote in the individual unions was unusually close, however, the firemen, particularly, holding lengthy arguments before agreeing to cancellation of the strike order, the labor chief-tain said. In some of these groups the ballot was described as "the closest in history on a similar question." All of the differences were ironed out by the different unions, and the final showdown found all of them casting their ballots for "no strike."

Public Opinion Effective.

L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, said that the unions had decided to call off the strike because of growing public opinion that the strike would be against the labor board, and consequently the government, and not against the railroads.

"It was evidenced also that the entire Washington administration was opposed to us and that we would have had little chance of gaining our objectives," said Mr. Sheppard.

"We called this strike to gain certain rights to which our men were entitled," Mr. Sheppard told the Associated Press.

"It soon became evident, however, that the roads were succeeding in their misleading propaganda to the effect that we really would be striking against the government.

"This railroad propaganda found its way to the United States railroad labor board. This government agency told us that it would look on a strike as against it and the government and not against the roads, and that the full force of the government would be brought to bear against us if we walked out. Under such circumstances there was nothing to do but annul orders for the October 30 walkout."

INVESTIGATE THEM ALL, PAPER SAYS

He Would Like to Know All About the Ku Klux Klan.

The Rules Committee of the House of Representatives is now considering whether Congress should investigate the Ku Klux Klan.

We think it should.

Not only that, but we think it ought to investigate all the secret societies.

There has been entirely too much whispering going around. If there is any truth in these whispers the truth should be brought out. If there is no truth in them, then the whispers should stop.

For instance, we would like to know what became of the money collected by the Y. M. C. A. and the Knights of Columbus for welfare work during the war. Was any of this money left over unused?

If so, what is being done with it?

Is any of this money contributed by people of all churches being used to fight the Y. M. C. A. in Europe?

Is it true that any of it is being used to fight the Italian Methodist Church?

Have any American fraternal orders had anything to do with the atrocious effort to induce the Italian government to confiscate property of the Methodist Church in Rome and prevent its erection of a college there?

When the Methodist General Conference, Presbyterian and other Protestant organizations strongly expressed their disapproval of any interference by the United States government in the quarrel between the Catholic Irish and the Protestant Irish why did Congress in a formal resolution take the side of the Catholics? Was this due to the fact that the Catholic church has a fraternal order while the Protestants have no similar order?

Just what are the influences back of the opposition to the effort at rehabilitation of our public schools?

If the Ku Klux Klan or any other fraternal order has been guilty of outrage or violence or if it is anti-negro, anti-Catholic, anti-Protestant, anti-Jew or anything else, let Congress bring all the facts to the light of day, expose falsehood, vindicate truth and stop the whispering.—The World Digest.

There are a thousand and two reasons why a man in a legitimate business should advertise his business in the newspapers. There are no good reasons why he should not advertise it. The most successful enterprises in the country today are those that have been well advertised. A good news story in an ad will bring a crowd to a store on a rainy day, an "off" day or an off season. The man whose goods are all that he claims for them need never worry that his ad will not be read.

HARDING'S SPEECH ON NEGRO DEBATED

Southern Senators Decry Attitude; Republicans Defend It.

Washington, Oct. 27.—President Harding's address on the race question at Birmingham evoked statements today from democratic senators criticizing the executive's remarks and from republican senators commending the president's position.

Democrats who criticized the speech included Senators Harrison of Mississippi; Watson of Georgia, Heflin of Alabama and McKellar of Tennessee.

Republicans whose informal statements declared their approval of it included Senators Calder of New York, Spencer of Missouri and Willis of Ohio.

The democrats declared the president's remarks on the race question were inopportune and that his policies would tend toward social equality of the negro with the whites. Senator Watson of Georgia said the president's speech was "unfortunate and mischievous."

"We are not going to permit social or political equality of the kind the president advocates," he declared.

Senator Willis said: "The president's ringing statement in defense of political and economic equality of individual opportunity with recognition of absolute divergence in things social and racial is as courageous as it is true."

No Quarrel Needed.

"There is no use in anybody getting into a quarrel with facts," he added. "The president has stated the facts; political critics may wish the facts were otherwise, but that does not change the situation. The country will applaud President Harding's clearness of statement and patriotism of purpose."

Senator McKellar declared the president's speech as "ill-conceived, ill-timed, ill-placed and can serve no useful purpose."

"Its only effect," he said, "will be to arouse racial discussions and racial prejudices that had better been left dormant."

"Speeches of this kind will not benefit the negro and may do him a serious harm."

"It is unfortunate that the president should have seen fit to discuss in the very heart of the black belt the race question on his first trip South after election to the presidency. There was no demand for a discussion of the racial question at this time."

An Old Citizen Passes.

Mr. John S. Brown Sr. died at his home a few miles east of Grapeland Monday night, October 24, 1921, his age being a few months past 84 years. His remains were laid to rest Tuesday afternoon in the Refuge cemetery, Rev. J. F. Lively of this city conducting the services.

Mr. Brown was born within one mile of where he died and where he lived his entire life. His birthplace is known as old Fort Brown. When the Indians made their rade on Fort Parker and captured the now famous Cynthia Ann Parker, the Brown's, together with others occupying Ft. Brown, fearing for their lives, went to the fort at Nacogdoches, remaining there until it was safe for them to return.

Mr. Brown was an ex-confederate soldier, serving three years with credit in the army of the lost cause.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and was a devout Christian gentleman. He lived a just and upright life before God and man, and it is said that he never had a case in court and was never called as a witness in any trial. He lived a useful, unselfish life, and the influence for good he set in motion will live down the ages.

To his aged wife who survives him, the Messenger joins friends in heartfelt sympathy.—Grapeland Messenger.

Mail Order Houses Read Country Papers.

"We have a bureau whose duty is to read each week the country newspapers from all over the country. There is not a paper of any consequence in our territory that our bureau does not get. This bureau looks over these papers and when we find a town where the merchants are not advertising in the local papers we immediately flood the territory with our literature. It always brings results far in excess of the same effort put forth in territory where the local merchants use their papers," said Herman Rosenfeld, advertising manager for Sears, Roebuck and Co.—Deport Times.

Chicle producing trees have been discovered in British Guiana and the discoverer has obtained a concession covering 6200 square miles of territory which he will prospect.

Tired

"I was weak and run-down," relates Mrs. Eula Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—

CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

"I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should help you.

FOCH LAYS WREATH OF BLOSSOMS ON WASHINGTON TOMB

Makes Unexpected Call on Former President Wilson.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Marshal Foch, leader of the allied armies in the world war, was received by President Harding, paid official visits to government officials and called upon former President Wilson Saturday. The former president was compelled to deny the distinguished visitor an audience, however, because of illness.

The French hero was cheered by throngs which lined the streets between his hotel and the White House, where he was received by the president at 10 o'clock in the east room. The occasion was one of elaborate ceremony, the president being flanked by his entire staff of naval and military aides when the marshal approached. The president and marshal after the exchange of formal greetings, conversed for nearly 15 minutes.

Leaving the White House, Marshal Foch, accompanied by Ambassador Jusserand of France, and his staff called on Vice President Coolidge at the capitol. As he entered the office of the vice president, who greeted him as "the man who saved both France and America," Marshal Foch saluted a portrait of George Washington hanging on the wall. Leaving the capitol, Marshal Foch was driven to the navy department, where he encountered a long line of girls, clerks in the department, who cheered him and sang the "Marseillaise" as he mounted the stairs to Secretary Denby's office.

The marshal, owing to the absence of Secretary Weeks, reserved his visit to the war department until he returns for the armament conference from Kansas City.

The visit to former President Wilson's home was not on the official program and was at the marshal's earnest request, he having been associated with Mr. Wilson at the peace conference.

When the marshal and his staff reached the Wilson home they were met by John Randolph Bolling, the president's brother-in-law. Their arrival was a surprise, no arrangements for the call having been made. Mr. Bolling regretfully informed the marshal that upon the advice of Mr. Wilson's physician, it would be impossible for the former president to receive him. Marshal Foch left his card and expressed keen regret over Mr. Wilson's illness.

At one o'clock Marshal Foch and his staff returned to the White House for luncheon with the president and Mrs. Harding. Saturday night he was the dinner and reception guest of the French ambassador at the embassy.

Late Saturday General Pershing's memorable visit to the tomb of Lafayette was repaid when Marshal Foch laid a wreath of roses, chrysanthemums and autumn leaves on the tomb of Washington at Mount Vernon. Marshal Foch motored to Mount Vernon and took a lively interest in every detail of the restored Washington estate. It is evident that the marshal intends to enjoy the scenery while he is in this country and that he has no desire to be whisked at top speed from one function to another, for this afternoon on the open highway the motorcycle police escort throttled down to a decorous twenty miles an hour speed on the hills that cup Washington.

Himself a farmer, who asks nothing better than to stroll through his fields, Marshal Foch was delighted with Mount Vernon. He cocked his field marshal's cap above his right ear and pulled its visor down to shade his eyes and walked leisurely through the grounds. He walked through the house and examined attentively many of the relics.

"Why," he exclaimed, "General Washington would be at home could he return." His eyes rested on one of the fire places. "I might very well be back in Brittany," he commented.

Mount Vernon's simplicity made a strong appeal to him.

"It might well be any one of a thousand farms," he said, as he glanced through the open doorway at the restful landscape at the rear of the house.

"But no," he added, when he stepped out on the Potomac side of the house and took in the broad sweep of the river and the rolling, well kept lawn, "this is one of a thousand farms. Here one can understand Washington and the simplicity of his greatness. What a restful, tranquil spot to spend one's last days. No wonder that he liked it."

JIMMY VALENTINE PROMOTED; SIRIANNI NOW GENERAL AGT.

Jimmy Valentine, for the past three months general agent for the Hamon lines and the Wichita Southern railroad, yesterday accepted a promotion from the road when he assumed the duties of commercial agent. Mr. Valentine's headquarters will be in this city, with offices uptown, but his new duties will call him to various parts of the state.

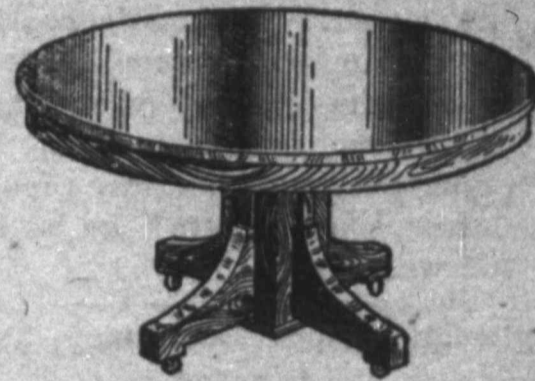

In accepting the position of commercial agent, Mr. Valentine severed his official connection with the Wichita Southern. He will look after the commercial interests of the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth railroad and the Eastland, Wichita Falls & Gulf road.

He is well known in railroad circles and has held positions in various parts of the state.

L. F. Sirianni, who has been acting as chief clerk and cashier to Mr. Valentine, has been appointed agent for Breckenridge. Mr. Sirianni has been here several months.

The change is effective at once. C. H. McClure, auditor for the Wichita Southern, and F. J. Bollinger for the Hamon lines, arrived here yesterday to "check out" Mr. Valentine.—Breckenridge Democrat.

Hale County Officer Made National Search for Four Men.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 28.—Governor Neff was asked today by J. Frank Norfleet, ranchman and deputy sheriff at Hale Center, Hale County, to pay him out of the law enforcement appropriation made by the last legislature, approximately $6,000 as reimbursement of part of expenses incurred by Norfleet in the capture of four of the five men who secured $40,000 from a Hale county ranchman in the fall of 1919. The men arrested included Joe Furry, who is serving a twenty-year term in the penitentiary. Another of the men committed suicide after his arrest by Norfleet. The chase for the men carried Norfleet through nearly every state in the union.

The last legislature made appropriations of $45,500 for two years for the governor's law enforcement fund. Norfleet said today that it was his understanding that his expenses in running down the men were to be paid out of this fund. He appeared before the appropriation committees during the session of the legislature.

Governor Neff after the conference with Norfleet announced that he had taken the matter under advisement, that he would give his decision later.

ONE MAXIM.

No man has a right to complain of religious interference in governmental affairs if he himself is guilty of the offense in behalf of his own church or denomination. All my life I have firmly believed that the doctrine of complete separation of state and church in America was correct. Whatever of good morals and high ideals may have been implanted in me by the principles of the Presbyterian church I have sought to use in the discharge of my duties as a citizen. But I have sought to use them as an individual in the interest of my country and not as a churchman in the interest of my church.

I have not forgotten, and it would be well for all Americans to remember, that this republic was founded and its constitution made by Catholics and Protestants and men of every phase of religious thought. They were impressed with the idea that in a government guaranteeing religious freedom churches, as organizations, should keep their hands off purely civil affairs. A large majority of our citizens still believe in this doctrine and they will make it odious for any church which tries as an organization to control the currents in our national life. I am not writing from any sense of apprehension on my part, but to reassure timid-minded men who may be doubting the perpetuity of this ancient doctrine and to utter a word of warning against any attempt to control in any way than by the free exercise of the individual opinion of its voters.—Thos. R. Marshall.

THE BRIGHT SIDE.

So much is being said about the vast body of the unemployed that it might be well to call attention to the other side of the picture.

According to reports to the department of labor and other government agencies, 12,000,000 men are now on industrial payrolls. They are now receiving approximately $1000 a year. The average pay of the industrial worker before the war was a little over $600 a year, which shows that wages have not descended to pre-war levels.

The average day wage of the industrial worker today is approximately $3.50. Common unskilled labor earns less than that. The average wage of the skilled workman is $1 an hour.

When these wages have been reduced in accord with reductions in prices of commodities, the unemployment problem will disappear.—Topeka State Journal.

TOO MANY COURT "VACATIONS."

Chief Justice Taft says that the docket of the federal district courts are crowded. So much work has stacked up that there will have to be appointed 18 new federal judges, he thinks. Judge John C. Pollock of Kansas City says that approximately 150,000 cases are now pending in the federal courts. "It is a denial of justice," said Judge Pollock, "when a man thrown in jail can not get a trial for six months or a year, or in a civil action a case is not settled for four or five years." In this statement Judge Pollock is certainly correct, and if the appointment of 18 new judges at $7500 a year is the only way to get enough judicial action to dispose of judicial business, then the 18 new men should be given jobs at once. But another suggestion has been made. At present there are more than a hundred federal district judges on the bench. Three months

BONUS FIGHT IN SENATE HALTS TAX REVISION MEASURE

Reed Amendment Discussed
Senator Brands Tabling It
"Coward Vote."

Washington, Oct. 31.—Renewal of the fight in the senate for the passage of the soldiers' bonus bill resulted in a further setback Monday for the tax revision measures. Republican leaders forced a night session, but with the bonus issue undisposed of, there appeared to be doubt whether the tax bill could be brought to a vote before Saturday, if then.

There was a four hours' discussion Monday of the Reed amendment proposing to continue the excess profits tax and to use the proceeds to defray the costs of the five-way adjusted compensation plan.

This was followed by the introduction by Senators Simmons of North Carolina and Walsh of Massachusetts, democrat members on the finance committee, proposing payment of the bonus out of the interest on the nation's foreign debt.

The latter amendment will not be moved formally for adoption in the senate it has been announced until action has been taken on the Reed amendment.

Meantime Senator Reed is delaying presentation of his amendment until there has been full discussion of the whole question.

Penrose Says Table Bill.

Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, in charge of the tax bill, said Monday it was the plan of the majority to move to table the Reed proposal on the ground that the soldiers' bonus has no place in a tax measure.

Majority leaders had not decided, however, what would be done with respect to the Simmons-Walsh amendment, which the authors declared would "make the issue clearly one of bonus or no bonus, without raising the question of the condition of the public treasury, which has been the chief argument presented by opponents of the bonus plan."

Senator New, republican, Indiana, opened the bonus discussion Monday with the declaration, that in his judgment, the Reed amendment would be in conflict with the constitution in that it proposed to tax one class of citizens for the benefit of another.

This contention was denied by Senator Reed, who spoke at length in support of his amendment. He was followed by Senators Heflin of Alabama; Stanley of Kentucky, and Wilson of Georgia, democrats. There was no reply from the republicans.

Senator Reed declared a vote to table his amendment would be a "coward's vote." Attacking

Secretary Mellon for recommending delay in action on the bonus measures, Senator Reed declared the treasury head was connected with "many oppressive and powerful financial and industrial institutions."

The senate was told by Senator Stanley that despite an overwhelming sentiment in congress for the bonus bill, President Harding had put "his foot on the measure" and ordered the republican congressional leaders to abandon it. He added that "with Senator Penrose acting as undertaker and the other republicans as pallbearers" the bonus bill was dead.

Senate Wipes Out Many Tax Burdens.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The senate Monday night launched into a raid on the miscellaneous tax list of the revenue bill wiping out all taxes on musical instruments, sporting goods and chewing gum and demonstrating a spirit to eliminate many more of the excises on the products of special industries.

The 5 per cent tax on musical instruments including pianos, organs, player pianos and phonographs was eliminated by an overwhelming vote on motion of Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey and over the protest of the finance committee. Senator McCumber, acting for the committee, protested vehemently to wiping out this tax because it would mean a loss of revenue of $12,000,000, but the senate insisted on lifting the taxation burden from the music of the people. This done, the senate determined also to relieve the golf players, baseball enthusiasts and other sport lovers of the country by eliminating altogether the 5 per cent tax on sporting goods as provided in the senate bill. The vote was close, 31 to 30, democrats opposing the amendment when the republicans of the finance committee favored it.

With music and athletics taken care of so commendably and the senate in a conciliatory mood, the finance committee then recommended relief for the gum chewers of the country and was successful in this also, the senate agreeing to abolish the 2 per cent manufacturers' tax on chewing gum by a vote of 34 to 25.

"ANOTHER STRIKE."

Those are the most dreaded of all words to the average American, and they are heard entirely too often for comfort.

Where is this eternal struggle between labor and capital to end, anyway?

Are we to go on forever living in constant dread of commercial paralysis simply because a small per cent of the population insists upon fighting each other, to the utter demoralization of all of the rest of the people of this great country?

Are we to remain satisfied with a congress that has the power to provide laws that will forever end all strikes without injustice to either side, and yet refuses to take such action?

Are we to be hampered forever with a government that has the right to demand, and yet is satisfied to beg and plead in its futile efforts to prevent these periodical eruptions?

Labor and capital are not the only ones to be considered in these never ending disturbances. The great mass of the people have their rights—but they are seldom respected. We doubt if they are ever taken into consideration by either side.

HARDING'S SPEECH TRICK, SAYS HOBBY

Former Governor Discusses President's Attitude On Negro.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 28.—Former Governor W. P. Hobby was in Dallas today from Beaumont. He had read the speech of President Harding at Birmingham on the race question and said:

"When President Harding leaves the national capitol and comes way down South in Dixieland to preach the doctrine of so-called 'racial' equality, it must be pleasing to many Texans and Southerners who left the democratic party and voted the republican ticket last fall.

"President Harding embraces economic and political equality as the end devoutly to be wished for and is against social equality on the ground that it is not desired by either race.

"One is led to wonder if he would favor social equality if desired by the negro race, who cast republican votes. He evidently does not care to displease the negro race and is, therefore, careful of the ground.

"It is the same old republican trick of appealing to the negro vote of the South in attempting to flatter the members of the negro race in the South for political purposes. His speech, if it is taken seriously, will hurt, rather than help the relationship between the races in the South."
