PROCEEDINGS IN DISTRICT COURT

District Judge W. R. Bishop returned at the end of last week from Lufkin and is again holding court at Crockett this week. Monday morning the criminal docket was taken up and the following proceedings were had up until Wednesday:

John Morgan, forgery; continued by the state on account of an absent witness; a fine of $100 was assessed against the absent witness, Sharp, an attachment for his arrest ordered and bond fixed at $500.

James Arthur Brown, forgery; dismissed by the state. A similar case against Brown was also dismissed.

Lee Johnson, assault with intent to rape; dismissed by the state.

Ed Mansell, murder; set for April 20 (Thursday of this week) and venire of 75 ordered. Mansell is charged with a killing at Weldon.

Willie B. Ellis, burglary of house; plea of not guilty, verdict of guilty and five years in penitentiary. This negro burglarized at night a residence at Grapeland.

Cleve Yarbrough, manufacturing intoxicating liquor; on trial Tuesday. There are two other cases of similar nature against Yarbrough, who is a white man and lives southwest of Crockett. Plea of not guilty and verdict of not guilty in case tried Tuesday.

Charlie Martin, murder; set for April 28 and venire of 50 ordered.

Jim Williams, burglary, two cases; defendant pleads guilty and punishment assessed at five years in penitentiary with sentence suspended.

Louis Veal, burglary, two cases; defendant pleads guilty and punishment assessed at five years in penitentiary with sentence suspended.

The two last named are young white men and were indicted for burglarizing a store at Kennard.

MAUNDY THURSDAY OBSERVANCE

The Crockett Knights of Rose Croix had as their guests the Knights throughout the county, with visitors, in the observance of the Maundy Thursday ceremonies. Arrangements had been made for fifty-five, but on account of illness and other important reasons forty-two participated in the solemn services and enjoyed the social features provided thereafter.

The ceremonial features, including the Mystic Feast of the Paschal Lamb, were given in the lodge room, after which all repaired to the Pickwick hotel, where an attractive and wholesome banquet had been prepared and was greatly enjoyed by all members of the Rite.

All of the obligatory toasts were responded to by local Knights in the most creditable manner, and the splendid fraternal spirit reflected throughout was strongly indicative of the wholesome influence of Scottish Rite Masonry for good in a community.

While Maundy Thursday has been observed by Crockett Knights for a number of years past, the celebration this year was on a much more pretentious scale, and visiting members stated that the arrangements made and program rendered reflected credit upon the local membership.

The following program with some impromptu features was observed:

John LeGory, 32 degree, K. C. C. H., toastmaster.

Prayer—W. P. Bishop, 32 degree, K. C. C. H.

To the President of the United States—Earle Adams, Jr., 32 degree.

To the Supreme Council—John Gordon Beasley, 32 degree.

To the Sovereign Grand Commander—Geo. W. Crook, 32 degree.

To the Inspector General of Texas—Earle Porter Adams, 32 degree.

To the Memory of the Brethren of the Degree Whose Labors Here Below Have Ceased During the Present Masonic Year.

To all Regular Masons and Masonic Bodies of all Rites and Degrees Over the Surface of the Earth: Honors and Laurels to the Worthy, Health to the Sick, Comfort to the Needy and Succor to the Oppressed Everywhere—J. W. Young, 18 degree.

To the Ladies—John Cook, 32 degree.

Banquet followed at Pickwick Hotel.

Knights of Rose Croix in Houston county are as follows:

W. D. Collins, John LeGory, Charley Neel, J. H. Smith, H. Durst, H. J. Trube, John Markham, W. G. Cartwright, J. F. Cook, Henry Ellis, W. P. Bishop, Earle Adams, Jr., C. W. LeGory, F. G. Edmiston, J. W. Young, George McLean, E. C. Arledge, J. S. Cook, Arthur Daniel, S. L. Murchison, R. E. McConnell, E. P. Adams, William McLean, George Crook, S. A. Miller, D. G. Moore, C. W. Butler, Jr., G. L. Cochran, W. T. Bruton, A. A. Waller, R. T. Blount, Eli Elkins, W. A. Atkinson, H. M. Barbee, Joe Griner, K. D. Lawrence, Lee Perry, Ed Culley, R. Long.

Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Corley of Midway, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Woodson of Fullerton, La., Mrs. B. L. Ayers of Fayetteville, Ark., and Mrs. J. E. Grace and children of Bay City were here Friday to attend the funeral of their father, Mr. G. W. Woodson.

SOME NEWS OF THE CROCKETT OIL FIELD

There is very little news of the Crockett oil field this week. The Porter well on the Austin farm has been shut down all the week on account of waiting for tools to straighten the drill stem and to drill or "mill" out the lost packer. Mr. George L. Porter, the operator, was in St. Louis the first of this week. He expects to return by the time the tools, which were ordered last week, arrive, when the work of straightening the drill stem will be resumed. There is 3550 feet of the drill stem, which is the depth of the well.

The Driskill well, the Grapeland well and the Porter Springs well are all at a standstill, as reported last week. We have no report from the Weldon well.

A WORD TO SWEET POTATO GROWERS

We have heard the remark by a few who are interested in growing sweet potatoes "that having not heard any more about the move, they had formed the impression that the movement was dead." The work is going forward as rapidly as is possible owing to no one working it except Mr. R. R. Morrison, county agent, and myself.

I wish to state that the organization is well and favorably underway and we have no other idea but that we will form a county organization in the Farm Bureau Federation by June 1, the time allotted us to form the organization.

We have been practically assured of three if not four curing plants in the county, one each at Weldon, Ratcliff, Kennard and Latexo, where a large acreage is being planted to sweet potatoes. The Farm Bureau sweet potato association is one that will do for the farmers to tie to because of the fair way in which it deals with everyone, that it is giving us a market for our products without a profit being made.

We are going to make every effort possible to form locals throughout the county and to assist in erecting good but inexpensive curing plants at convenient points, provided we can get the acreage signed up to justify such plants.

At present we are not advising any one who is not thoroughly familiar with growing potatoes for the market to try to put in a large acreage. We much prefer a large number of people going into the business in a small way and thereby learning to grow and put up a marketable product. Going into the business in a small way will prevent a loss that will damage them at the present.

There are several communities in the county that we have not been able to meet the people and explain the proposition. Therefore, we are going to ask any one in any part of the county who is interested in growing sweet potatoes to write or call on us and let us explain the proposition more fully. We do not want to slight any person in the county who is interested in growing sweet potatoes, therefore we are using this means to give everyone a chance and ask that you let us know who you are and how many potatoes each community can grow. S. M. Monzingo, Crockett, Texas.

PREACHING AT THE COURT HOUSE

Next Sunday afternoon Rev. Holman, a colored Presbyterian preacher, has an appointment to preach at 3 o'clock, at the court house. He will be glad to have colored people attend, and also such white people as are interested in the moral and religious welfare of the colored people. He has shown me such recommendations as convince me that he is a very intelligent and competent preacher, and one who will be likely to do good to both colored and white citizens. He is recently from California, but was in his early years a slave in South Carolina.

Having conferred with the other white pastors I feel authorized to make this announcement for this colored preacher. I expect to attend this meeting at the court house, and will be glad to see there not only the other white and colored pastors, but also a good attendance of both colored and white citizens. I believe we will have an interesting address that will prove to be worth while for both classes. Please remember the appointment and come to the court house next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. S. F. Tenney.

AN ENGAGEMENT RING UNEARTHED

While digging in the garden on the "Sims" old home-place, seven miles east of Crockett Mrs. Lute Thompson recently unearthed a band ring, perfectly preserved, which upon inspection was found to bear the inscription, "F. H. H." to "O. S."

Mr. F. H. Hill of Crockett has identified the ring as the one he presented to the girl of his choice, Miss Olivia Sims, forty-nine years ago, and which has been lost something like forty-five years, causing the young wife much anxiety at the time of the loss. The family are rejoiced over the good fortune, and Mr. Hill now wears the ring on his watch chain.

Grand Jury Meets May 1.

The Courier was unintentionally misinformed as to the date the grand jury will reconvene. The correct date on which the grand jury will again meet is Monday, May 1, and not Monday, April 24, as erroneously published in the Courier last week.

JUDGE LIPSCOMB TELLS FRIENDS TO NOT FEAR FOR HIM

"Not Going to Jail, Nor Reveal Confidences," He Says.

From the Beaumont Enterprise. That his friends shall have no fear that he will either go to jail or testify as to confidential communications, was the substance of a statement issued today by Judge A. D. Lipscomb following publication of news from Austin to the effect that the supreme court had upheld the action of Judge Davidson of the Fifty-eighth district court of this county in holding Judge Lipscomb in contempt of court and ordering him to jail until he shall agree to answer certain questions propounded to him in the trial of a case in which he was a witness.

Judge Lipscomb, at the request of a former client, declined to answer the questions on the ground that they invaded the realm of confidential communication by a client to his attorney, until the right of the trial court to compel him to answer could be submitted to the higher court.

Judge Lipscomb's position now is, according to his statement, that he will answer the questions if the former client waives his claim of privilege communication. He insists that there was no want of respect for the court in his mind at the time he refused to obey the court's order, but that he followed out the statutory course to bring about a review of the order in deference to his client's wishes.

Sign Your Name.

The Courier received an interesting communication from a good community this week which we cannot publish because no name accompanied the communication. We like to have the community news, but we must know who sends it in and who we may hold responsible. It is not necessary to have the name for publication, but the real name must accompany the article.

Importance of the Comma.

You here get an idea of the power of a comma: A printer set up a poster to advertise an address by a militant suffragette. Her subject was: "Woman: Without Her, Man Would Be a Savage." The posters read: "Woman, Without Her Man, Would Be a Savage." In this instance the printer insisted that he had the poster right, for he had to leave town to save his scalp.—Anahuac Progress.

OUSLEY WARNS AGAINST MORE FEDERAL POWER

Senate Candidate Gives Views on Educational Proposal.

Commerce, Texas, April 11.—In an address to the students of the East Texas State Normal and citizens here Tuesday morning, Clarence Ousley, candidate for United States senator, raised a warning against further extension of federal activities in domestic affairs. He spoke particularly of the proposal to create a federal department of education headed by a cabinet officer, and to make public education a joint responsibility of the federal and State governments. He said:

"The co-operation of the federal and State governments in such matters is not a violation of the principle of State rights, but we have carried it about far enough, and it is the part of wisdom to stop where we are for a while at least. We now have co-operative agricultural extension, co-operative vocational education, co-operative maternity instruction. I have had responsible contact with co-operative agricultural extension and co-operative road building. Both are wise acts, but they still are experimental and are raising up serious problems of administrative authority.

"Further adventure in this field is dangerous. The more we rely upon Washington for support the more we yield our local rights and weaken our sense of responsibility. Washington has no strength or wisdom which it does not derive from the States and communities. The power it exercises is the power which we surrender. We can not surrender power and keep it. We can not afford to barter our powers, our responsibilities, our own intimate knowledge of our own local needs, for financial support which really comes from our own pockets. Federal funds are raised by federal taxes which already are grievously burdensome and we only deceive ourselves when we imagine that we are getting bounties from the federal government.

"I would not object to dignifying education with a secretary of education, but prudent statesmanship and the limits of federal taxation forbid at this time any new and expensive addition to federal administration."

Mr. Ousley pleaded here as elsewhere for a stern enforcement of law by the constituted authorities, for the least law and the greatest law as equal law, and for the preservation of the constitutional guarantees of trial by jury, and of the rights of property and person against trespass without due process of law.

EDITORIALS BY COL. R. T. MILNER

What the Former A. & M. President Writes in the Rusk County News.

THE REMEDY.

In the last issue of this paper we had something to say of the poverty of this section of Eastern Texas, and promised to give a remedy. In obedience to that promise let us proceed.

This section, comprising the most forward agricultural counties of Eastern Texas, dates its first permanent settlements about the year, 1840, and for twenty years, up to the breaking out of the Civil War, the immigration into these counties marked one of the most interesting periods in the entire history of Eastern Texas.

It would be profitable to dwell upon the character, habits, aspirations and visions of those first settlers. They represented the various types, trades and professions of the people from whom they had descended in the Old Southern States, east of the Mississippi River. Quite a number of slave holders dreamed of the boundless wealth that existed in the virgin soil here and were soon on the ground. Mechanics, such as carpenters, blacksmiths, tanners, wheelrights, millers and brick masons were among the first. Of course the lawyers, doctors, preachers and school teachers were in line and took their places in the Herculean task of erecting from the unorganized mass of new-come a government like unto that which they had left behind.

But by far the greater number who came to Eastern Texas were plain, rugged, honest "one-horse" farmers.

A picture of this country in its primitive state can be imagined by eliminating the farms and all underbrush, leaving the natural topography unmarred by any mark of a human being. There being no erosion of the soil in the absence of cultivation the streams were always clear and deep, abounding in fish of the greatest abundance, and on the hillsides and down in the valleys deer and turkey vied with each other in the division of food for wild life.

A country it was which far exceeded in natural beauty anything which the new-comers had ever dreamed of in their wildest fancy.

Fields were cleared and fenced and so abundant was the soil, and so free was the ground of vegetation, except grass and scattering large trees that to be certain of a crop little was required except to plant the seeds and "scratch the middles." Insect pests which have appeared in modern times to harrass the farmers were not here. The beggar weed and the native grasses kept the cattle fat, acorns and nuts more than supplied the hogs and squirrels, the deer and sheep flourished on herbs and the more delicate native vegetation, the turkeys feasted on wild onions, grapes and berries, and if there ever was a man who was monarch of boundless natural wealth, natural beauty, and natural food, the pioneer of Eastern Texas was the man.

We had no railroads, no monopolies, no aggregations of wealth, no business organizations in a corporate sense. Transportation was carried entirely on wagons, men following the business permanently, the one market of this section being Shreveport.

Civilization was primitive, simple, and cheap in a financial sense. Landlord and tenant were terms not in use, as every white man owned his home, if he wanted a home. Demands upon the people for the support and maintenance of education, religion, public roads or any other public affairs were few. The machinery of government was as simple as the habits of the people.

Bear in mind that all money expended for transportation remained in the country, and was distributed among the farmers for corn, oats and fodder.

These conditions existed up to the Civil War. During the four years' of war the conditions in Eastern Texas remained the same so far as food was concerned, because the soil was still fertile, and simple, wholesome food was produced in abundance, and the country was not disturbed by the presence of any army, either foe or friend. Simple devices for the manufacture of all necessary clothing, shoes and hats, were brought into service, and the entire population both white and black did not suffer for food or clothing during that terrible catastrophe.

Up to this time our people had been self-sustaining. Burdens of debt and wanton extravagance were ever absent. Home owning and financial independence were a part of the religion of the people. A crop mortgage had never been heard of. Begging for credit was beneath the white race even for many years after the war.

During the early period and for a long time after the Civil War an object of charity among the inhabitants of Eastern Texas was rare.

But gradually, after the war had ended and cotton was bringing fabulous prices, the farmers drifted into new channels. The buying habit increased, and after a while the railroad came bringing with it more goods than the wagons could haul. Wagon transportation, of course, ceased. More and more merchants came, and the mad rush for trade increased. Credit was encouraged, debts piled up at the stores, more and more cotton was planted each succeeding year. Men, women and children took to the cotton patches. "More credit, more cotton" was the slogan of the cotton farmer who was hastening his wife and children on to poverty and despair. What an awful slogan! What an awful condition has that system of farming brought about!

Neglected homes, children kept out of school at the only age in this world when it is possible to educate them; undernourished children, underclothed children, improperly housed children—all these and a dozen other calamitous things and conditions are the direct result of our past and present economic life.

There is nothing to be gained by covering up cold facts and attempting to make a long-suffering people believe there is nothing the matter when for years and years they have been growing poorer and poorer. Take the census reports which show that our homeless population is constantly increasing; that the yield of our fields is constantly growing less; that those dependent upon public charity are becoming more and more numerous; that the pro rata wealth of our people is on the downward scale; take all these things into consideration and only a fool or a base deceiver would attempt to manufacture out of our condition a story of optimism. And by the way, that word optimism is a term invented by looters, profiteers, oppressors and tyrants to try to make the people contented with a bad condition that every bad condition is ordered by God Himself and that it is, therefore, a most happy and desirable situation. A more damnable doctrine was never preached.

Now we are prepared to get down to the gist of the matter and discuss the remedy.

Remember that our agriculture is deteriorating; that a larger per cent of our people are in debt than ever before; that our efforts to make farming a success have told on the race in every way that spells the wasting away of the mental and physical vigor in the youth of the land; that in comparison with less favored sections naturally, our poverty is alarming, which is shown by the United States census; that notwithstanding the never ceasing labor for the people of Eastern Texas the desire to work is growing less because of the fact that less and less remuneration comes to encourage the efforts of the farmer. And above every thing else remember that unless a radical change is brought about soon, Eastern Texas will change land ownership and the descendants of that noble race of pioneers will seek other lands, where poverty's claims are not so exacting.

We find now that space on this page is not sufficient for a satisfactory discussion of the remedy for this deplorable condition in Eastern Texas, and we will have to ask our readers for more time. The subject will be continued next week.

HENRY DENOUNCES KLAN ENEMIES IN FT. WORTH SPEECH

Senate Candidate Asserts He Is Klansman and Praises Order.

Fort Worth, Texas, April 9.—Asserting that he was a klansman, Robert L. (Bob) Henry, candidate for the United States senate, speaking to an audience of approximately 1500 persons in the auditorium of the Fort Worth chamber of commerce Saturday night, denounced the enemies of the Ku Klux Klan, declaring that the organization must and would survive in Texas.

The enemies to whom Henry particularly referred was a Dallas publication by Charles A. Culberson, United States senator, who recently declared that the Ku Klux Klan must be destroyed, and Cullen F. Thomas, another candidate for the senate.

Attacking the publication in Dallas, Henry asserted that "it is honest in its effort to carry on a fight against the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan."

The speaker severely criticized the committee headed by M. M. Crane of Dallas, which adopted a resolution asserting that the Ku Klux Klan must be destroyed.

"I hurl defiance at General M. M. Crane and his committee, and say that the klan will not be destroyed," Henry declared emphatically.

The speaker then began an explanation of the tenets of the klan, speaking on each of the principles which have been laid down.

"What is the Ku Klux Klan, about which we hear so much? The first tenet is belief in Christian religion. Do not the enemies of the Ku Klux Klan believe that this tenet is right?"

"The Ku Klux Klan believes in white supremacy. If Cullen F. Thomas believed that, would he change that tenet? Should it be destroyed because it puts the white man first? What man believes he is not as good as a negro, if not a little bit better?"

"We've got those gentlemen where we want them."

The speaker declared that he knew of a number of people who believed in social equality, but that social equality would never exist in Texas and the South.

"I am clothed with full authority to speak for the klan. I belong to the Ku Klux Klan and feel honored to be a member. We hurl defiance at our enemies. Call on the battle. We are ready for it from this day forward. We are ready to contest every inch of ground." He declared that the strength of the klan in Texas was being added to daily.

"The present governor will never convene the legislature, and if he does for the purpose of curbing the klan, no law will be enacted prohibiting the activities of the klan."

"GO BACK TO HOME TOWN FOR JOB," IS M'NIDER'S ADVICE

Ex-Soldiers Urged Not to Congregate in Large Cities.

Indianapolis, April 11.—Ex-service men of the country were asked to go back to the home town and get a job, in an appeal which Hanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, Tuesday asked the Associated Press to broadcast to jobless veterans, who he said are congregating in larger cities where unemployment is becoming worse.

The Legion's effort to find employment for the 700,000 jobless ex-service men, began three weeks ago, is gaining in effectiveness, Mr. MacNider said. "I can not emphasize too strongly," he said, "that the first obligation of a community is to the men who claim that community as their home."

"The drifter who has not thought enough of any community to become identified with it and assume his fair share of the obligations of citizenship and community responsibilities, has no reason to believe that community to be under any obligation to him now."

"There is congestion in the great cities. Here unemployment is at its worst. He is a poor man indeed who, in his own home town, has not a job waiting for him, if he will put himself in the way of getting it. The Legion's advice is:

"Get back home. Get back among your own comrades. Get back among the people who have watched you grow from boyhood to manhood and who naturally feel the greatest gratitude toward you for your service in the war. Back with the home folks lies your chance of honest, profitable employment among friends. Among strangers you can not expect to be treated other than as a stranger. Other things being equal, the boy from home will always be preferred and the stranger will be passed by."

THE RANTERS.

It is all right for members of congress to get up and denounce Representative Blanton as a disgrace and all that, but what the people want to know, at least some of the thinking people, is just how much truth is there to what Blanton charges? If the things that he complains of are true, and some of them undoubtedly are, the Herald is not so sure that he is a disgrace to the congress. A little less ranting and a bit more facts would help in the situation.—Palestine Herald.

COTTON GROWERS GET $400 YEARLY

Purcell, Okla., April 11.—The average yearly income of the cotton farmer of the South for the last 10 years has been $400, Aaron Sapiro, California attorney and co-operative marketing expert, declared in an address here Tuesday warning cotton producers that only by organization could they expect to increase their returns.

Sapiro predicted that within five years the State co-operative marketing associations, organized on the "Oklahoma plan" and working together in the national federation, the American Cotton Growers' exchange, would become "the controlling factor in the cotton market of the world."

Contrasting the $400 annual income of the Southern cotton grower with that of mechanics, Sapiro said:

"The average income of the carpenter has been $1000. The carpenter was entitled to this, but he could not get it without organization. The cotton grower is entitled to a living income, to a modern home, running water, electric lights—but he isn't going to get it without organization. The cotton farmer should have an income to build and support hard surfaced roads, good schools and all that goes to make up a prosperous and happy community. He should not permit his wife and his children to slave in the cotton fields. His children are entitled to the best school advantages. It is only through organization on sane, businesslike lines in the marketing of his crops, that the farmer can hope to attain these things."

Sapiro was here on his way to Oklahoma City where Wednesday delegates from eight States will open the first national meeting of the American Cotton Growers' Exchange.

The first extensive shipment of cotton grown in Queensland under government fostering recently reached England.

And I said: "Oh!"
And isn't that just like
A woman, anyway?
I thank you.—Contributed.

A very unusual thing occurred in Madisonville one night last week when a negro came into town and lectured at one of the negro churches on social equality of the negro and white races. Among other things, we are told that he said that a negro woman was the best and most virtuous in the world, and that the intellect of the negro was superior to that of the white race. In fact his whole theme was calculated to stir up strife between the two races. We are not afraid of the more intelligent negro taking a thing like that seriously, but there are a few fools who haven't any better sense than to believe such rot, and of course talk like that will lead them into trouble. We are told that some of the members of the congregation sat and nodded their assent to what this fellow was saying, admitting that they agreed with him. Now, we want to say this to the good law-abiding negro of this county and town, it is your personal duty to see to it that no such instigator of riot or discord be allowed to speak in your churches, that such characters be not allowed even to stay in your homes, because he is going to get you as well as them that would follow him into the worst kind of trouble. A thing like that is what stirs up mobs, as it was in Oklahoma, St. Louis and other places where the negroes' homes were burned and many of them killed, and doubtless many innocent negroes suffered in these great calamities. Keep your eyes open for these fellows and you will always find the white citizens ready to co-operate with you in eliminating anything that will misinform your race or that will cause you, or anyone else trouble.—Madisonville Meteor.

EASTER.

The meaning of Easter and its message of joy, the revival of hope and the buoyant renewal of our aspiration come to an old and tired world this morning and pervade our lives even as the springtide floods and fills the meadows with her everlasting miracle.

By an irresistible human impulse, we seek out our finest and most fashionable raiment, and that impulse is parallel to the natural processes in the world about us. If the earth can put off her drab habiliments of winter and forget the somber, sunless hours, so can the children of earth. In every life today there may be a resurrection from the dead. In every life old things may be discarded. He has not caught the spirit of the festal celebration who is not stirred to a renewal and is not moved to forsake the darkness and give welcome to the light.

It is more than a church festival. Believer and unbeliever together share the influences of the day. In each of us, whatever creed we formally profess, there dwells the feeling that the day betokens. It is the assurance that life is worth the living and that love can never lose its own. We stand today not at the brink of a tomb but on the threshold of this eternal life and of this love immortal.—Selected.

There are many ways to advertise, and many places where the same goods may be bought, but there has never been any way to advertise that will beat newspaper advertising yet, or at least this is the testimony of the big advertising concerns of the country. We frequently see flashing bill boards set in conspicuous places along the roadside, which becomes an eyesore to the general public, and these all carry the money expended for them out of the country, and it does the public no good so far as putting the money in circulation that is expended for them. The time is rapidly passing when people take these things into consideration no more. The business world is coming to realize that this is the time when we should live and let live, and all the money spent for things outside of the community that could be left here is detrimental to the community. If you have firms from whom you buy goods who propose to advertise these goods, have your contract read to you. You are to do it in your home paper; this will help a business enterprise in your town and incidentally help you.—Madisonville Meteor.

Chinese Graduate Student To Return To Homeland.

Waco, Texas, April 12—Howson Lee, in China known as Hao Shan Lee, will receive his master's degree from Baylor University in June, at the seventy-seventh annual commencement exercises. Mr. Lee is a graduate of the Shanghai Baptist College of Shanghai, China. He holds an A.B. degree from the Baptist college in China. When he has completed his work in Baylor he will return to his home country to teach in the schools of China.

Mr. Lee's record in Baylor is one to be proud of. Although laboring under the difficulties of studying in a foreign country and in a foreign language, Mr. Lee has been able to make excellent records in all his courses of study. He has the interest of his native country deeply at heart, and believes that the greatest service he can render to it is in teaching in the government schools. China, according to Mr. Lee, is one of the world's greatest potential powers, awaiting only the torch of Christian civilization.

ED C. THOMPSON ISSUES STATEMENT

Lovelady, Texas,
April 17, 1922.

To my friends and supporters in commissioners' precinct No. 3: I have this to say in regard to the action of the County Executive Committee in refusing to permit my name to go upon ticket in the primary—it was premature as the State Committee will have to pass upon the same question in the future.

But the County Committee could not wait—they were in such a hurry to put me out of the race and were afraid the people might not do so on election day, and one or two other candidates were very much in need of help. I will not call their names here, as most every one knows who they are, any way.

Knowing myself to be the most objectionable candidate in the race to that bunch of men or ring at the county seat who have been controlling the affairs of Houston county for the past several years and who never fail to put one over on the people whenever they can and deny them the right to vote upon anything or any one whenever they are afraid of the result.

Therefore, my friends, remember that I am still in the race, pending the action of the State Committee, and if anything new develops in connection with my race I will advise you of the same through the county papers.

Very truly yours,
E. C. Thompson.

Mr. G. W. Woodson.

Mr. G. W. Woodson, one of Crockett's oldest and most respected citizens, died at his home in this city last Thursday, following a gradual decline through a number of years. Rev. S. F. Tenney, who perhaps know Mr. Woodson better than any one else, has furnished the Courier with the following life sketch:

"Mr. Woodson was one of our oldest citizens—in years and as to his residence in Crockett. He was nearly 84 years old. Born in Selma, Ala., he came to Houston county in his early life and had been a citizen of Crockett more than 50 years. He volunteered as a Confederate soldier and was a member of Captain D. A. Nunn's company. He was in the famous Arizona campaign, enduring all the hardships of that expedition and being in at least one of its hard-fought battles. He continued with Captain Nunn's company in the Louisiana and Arkansas hardships and battles, making a courageous soldier.

"Having broken down in health a number of years ago from overtaxing his strength while working in a store, Mr. Woodson had since been unable to undertake any work that required physical exertion, so he had been practically for a long time retired from active business. He has been an example to others in the patient endurance of his retired life and in his long sickness."

Mr. Woodson was a member of the Baptist church for more than fifty years. Being a life-long friend and army comrade, Rev. S. F. Tenney of the Presbyterian church, assisted by the Baptist pastor, Rev. A. S. Lee, conducted the funeral services, which were held Friday afternoon with interment in Glenwood cemetery. His children yet living, Mrs. Lawrence Corley of Midway, Miss Lena Woodson of this city, J. D. Woodson of Fullerton, La., Mrs. B. L. Ayers of Fayetteville, Ark., and Mrs. J. E. Grace of Bay City, were all present at the funeral. He had been preceded in death by his wife and also a daughter, Mrs. A. L. Keene.

In his closing remarks Mr. Tenney quoted the following lines as appropriate:

"O child of God, O glory's heir!
How rich a lot is thine!

"A hand almighty to defend,
An ear for every call,
An honored life, a peaceful end,
An heaven to crown it all!"

Miss Annie Williams.

Miss Annie Williams died at the home of her nephew, Mr. D. A. Nunn, in this city Friday afternoon of last week. Appropriate funeral services, conducted by the Methodist pastor, Rev. E. A. Maness, were held at the Nunn residence Saturday afternoon and interment followed in Glenwood cemetery. The following life-sketch and tribute, written at the request of the Courier, is paid the deceased by Mrs. W. C. Lipscomb, who perhaps knew her better than did any one else in Crockett:

"Miss Annie Williams was born June, 1838, in Macon, Miss., of cultured parents. She had a happy, care-free childhood and girlhood. She early decided to make teaching her life-work, and was a conscientious, competent and successful teacher. For many years she taught in Meridian, Miss., in the high school, in the Methodist Woman's College, and later was head of a private school giving employment to several other teachers. She held up the highest standards, the noblest ideals to her pupils. Her influence was strong and extended in ever-widening circles over many lives. She organized the first civic club in Meridian and was its president. This club did much good along sanitary and beautifying lines—but it pioneered the settlement house, idea, and its greatest work was in helping the poor, the sick, the homeless—those who had fallen "by the wayside of life." She did much of this philanthropy out of her own means—giving not only money, but personal service and sympathy.

"About twenty-five years ago Miss Annie Williams came to Texas to be nearer her sister, the lamented Mrs. D. A. Nunn, and her brother, Judge F. A. Williams of Galveston. She taught in the city schools of Crockett, Galveston, Houston, Beaumont, Georgetown and San Angelo until failing health compelled her to give up her chosen career. In the home of her niece, Mrs. Corinne N. Corry, and nephew, Mr. D. A. Nunn, she was beloved and honored, surrounded by every care and attention that love and money could give. She was artistic and literary in her taste. In earlier years she did some journalistic work, and as an artist produced paintings worthy to hang on the walls of noted art galleries. Only a few of these did she sell—most of them were gifts to beloved relatives and friends. She was a true daughter of the old south and was a charter member of the Daughters of the Confederacy. Perhaps the new south cannot realize how much we owe to these women of the old regime for helping so valiantly to preserve the refinement, the high traditions of our earlier civilization.

"Miss Annie Williams helped to organize the first civic club of Crockett. Her interest in affairs of the day, in the progress of the world, in our local happenings, was keen to the last. She was a faithful member of the Episcopal church. She was one who believed that God had given us a beautiful world, full of sunshine and hope, for our enjoyment—no gospel of gloom and despair ever appealed to her. The Star of Hope always shone for her. She was not afraid to die—she felt that she had received that "Peace that passeth all understanding." She looked forward to meeting loved ones "Beyond the River." The world has been made purer, better, brighter by her life. Her passing was quiet and serene—she fell into sleep Friday afternoon, April 14, at 3:15. Hail and farewell."

Rev. S. F. Tenney, the Presbyterian pastor and her life-long friend, has furnished the Courier with the following tribute to the memory of Miss Annie Williams:

"I know not what others may have to say to the public about the dear sister who has left us after a life of usefulness, but will mention, as due to her memory, that a son and two of my daughters were under her instruction in the public school. She did not lose interest in them, but frequently inquired about them, particularly as to my son who had gone out from our community. These had great respect for her as a conscientious teacher, my daughter remarking to me a few days ago that Miss Annie Williams was especially good in having her school work begun each day with prayer and repeating verses of Scripture. Doubtless a similar impression was made upon the minds of many others of her pupils. I fear in these days we do not have enough of that kind of religion to go hand in hand with the intellectual work of the schools."

Editor Courier:

We were glad to see the sunshine last week, as it was the last week of school. We had a program the last of school. It began Friday night at eight o'clock and lasted until eleven o'clock and was enjoyed by all. There were over a hundred visitors present besides the children's parents.

Miss Ada Mae Rains Ashe spent the week with her mother, Mrs. R. B. Ashe, and was in the program. We enjoyed it very much until time to say good-bye to our dear teacher.

We were sorry for our school to close, because we spent such a pleasant term with our teacher, Mrs. R. B. Ashe. We loved her very much.

LAST CALL

We have a few ACALA and LONE STAR Cotton Seed left. Supply will soon be gone—better get them now. Fine seed will insure you a good cotton crop and produce a staple which will sell for a premium.

Edmiston Brothers

enjoyed a beautiful Easter on the banks of Salt Branch. Easter eggs were hid and found by the youngsters.

After the Easter hunt dinner was enjoyed by all. After dinner was served, Sunday school was held under the shades of the oaks.

Mr. and Mrs. Green and family, Miss Gladys Denton and two of her friends and Mrs. Buchanan and brothers were visitors from Crockett. The day was enjoyed by all.

We missed Mr. Long's presence at the dinner because he was always present, and helped with the religious work. We miss him very much in our community. We were very sorry to hear of his death.

Christian Church.

Easter was a good day with us. The sunrise prayer meeting was well attended and a deeply spiritual service. The Bible School Easter program was a success in every way.

Next Sunday we expect to begin a home-force meeting to continue through the week. Preaching each evening at 7:45. We invite the co-operation of all who love the Lord. E. S. Allhands.

Between Seller and Buyer.

Live merchants advertise because they want the people to know of the goods they have to sell, especially when more than ordinary values are offered.

People read the ads because they want to know where they can buy to best advantage, and this can only be determined by knowing what the merchants have to offer.

The local paper is the medium between seller and buyer.

The one should use it, and the other should read it.
