TWO LETTERS FROM OUR CONGRESSMAN

Washington, D. C.,
September 28.

Mr. S. M. Monzingo, Secretary,
Farm Bureau Sweet Potato
Association, Crockett, Texas.

My Dear Sir:

Mr. R. R. Morrison, county agent of Houston county, informed me that you held the present official position as secretary of the Houston County Farm Bureau Sweet Potato Association, and I am delighted to hear of the effort which is being made throughout the county and east Texas generally to develop and market the fine sweet potatoes which the community is capable of growing.

In fact, I feel that if the public not only in Texas, but particularly in the northern and western states of the country are once introduced to the delicious character of the east Texas sweet potato and the number of palatable dishes which can be made from it, that farmers of Houston county and east Texas generally will find sweet potato raising one of the most profitable and satisfactory forms of agriculture.

I am sending you under separate cover several bulletins issued by the Department of Agriculture on sweet potatoes, which I hope may be of interest and value, and if you desire any more of any such bulletins, I shall be only too glad to secure the same for you as far as they may be available.

Assuring you of my interest, I beg to remain sincerely yours,
Clay Stone Briggs.

Washington, D. C.,
September 28.

Mr. R. R. Morrison,
County Agricultural Agent,
Crockett, Texas.

Dear Mr. Morrison:

Yours of the 25th instant is at hand, giving the names of the officers of the County Farm Bureau Sweet Potato Association.

I have noted from the newspaper reports the growth of the movement in Houston and other counties in my district, as well as in the adjoining ones, for putting upon the market, in an efficient way, the highest grade of sweet potatoes successfully grown in east Texas.

In fact, I do not believe that many people appreciate how fine they are. The variety of sweet potatoes which are found throughout the north and east, as well as the western, part of the United States are those hard and dry without the high content of sugar which is found in the east Texas sweet potato.

I have been deeply interested in seeing an organized effort developed for marketing the best grade of the east Texas potato, not only throughout Texas, but the country at large, and I am delighted, as stated, to observe that such organization is now being accomplished.

Of course, not only an excellent sweet potato must be grown and well graded, but the public outside of communities like our own, which know the food value and delicious character of a fine sweet potato, must be informed as far as possible of the number of appetizing dishes which may be made from sweet potatoes and the different methods of cooking and preparing the same.

While traveling from St. Louis to Texas not long ago, I met on the train a gentleman who informed me that he was a large dealer of produce in the former city and that he was accustomed to handling some of the Texas products, among which were tomatoes, Texas onions and some sweet potatoes.

The tomatoes from east Texas, he stated, were usually received in splendid condition, were well packed and well crated and sorted and as the shipments were early ones, it was possible to market them readily and to build up a growing demand for them. He stated that tomatoes were also received from another section of the state, but that they were not well crated or sorted and that in the same crate will be found tomatoes which were picked green and some which were picked almost ripe with the result that frequently upon receipt of the shipment many of the tomatoes were overripe, the crates found to be leaking and the value of the shipment greatly lessened and demand destroyed.

He also stated that the Texas sweet potatoes were not received early enough in St. Louis to command the best price as they came in competition with potatoes from other states and there was not enough distinction between the sweet potatoes from the various sources to give Texas sweet potatoes an advantage in the late shipment.

These were all matters, I am sure, which are receiving the attention of the Farm Bureau Sweet Potato Association as well as yourself and other county agents, and I sincerely hope that all difficulties in achieving the greatest success in this work will readily be overcome and that through the system of cooperative marketing, which is greatly encouraged by the government and which I had the pleasure of assisting in passing through congress, the hopes of all will be fully realized.

With best wishes, I beg to remain very truly yours,
Clay Stone Briggs.

Presbyterian Revival Meeting.

I am expecting Dr. Thacker to preach at the Presbyterian church on Wednesday, at 7:45 p. m., the 11th inst. Also on Thursday at 10:30 a. m. and at 7:45 p. m. and Friday at 10:30 a. m. and at 7:45 p. m. No preaching on Saturday. Preaching Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church. Sunday night we expect all the churches to unite in a service at the Methodist church. And afterwards all services to be held at the Methodist church. The Methodist pastor very kindly agreed that we may have our services at the Methodist church. The Baptist pastor is also willing that we use the Baptist church, but for the reason that the preaching can be heard better in the Methodist church, it will be best to have the service there.

We cordially ask the hearty cooperation of all the churches, so that it may be for the good of all the community. We also especially request the choirs of other churches to join with the Presbyterian choir in the singing. Dr. Thacker will have a singer with him. Come one! Come all, to these services! And let us all be earnest in prayer for God's blessing.
S. F. Tenney.

Mrs. B. S. Kirkpatrick of California, who was a Miss Pritchard before her marriage, was a visitor with relatives and friends in Crockett.

JUST A WORD WITH OUR SUBSCRIBERS

Callers at this office since last issue report an unusually dry fall and cotton almost gathered. They say that stock water is getting scarce in some localities. Those who have finished picking have turned their cattle into their fields with the hope that the cattle will eat up and destroy the fall crop of boll weevils in the foliage of the stalks. Some who are through picking have started fall plowing, where the fields are not too dry, with the view of improving their lands. Lands are generally too dry for planting fall crops.

Our list of subscription renewals is larger than it was last week. Those whose subscriptions are expiring are hurrying to renew before the weather and the roads get bad. Among the number renewing or subscribing since last issue are the following:

J. A. Bricker, Crockett.

Mr. Berkley Ellis.

Mr. J. B. Ellis, better known as Berkley Ellis, died at his home in Crockett Saturday afternoon at an early hour. Mr. Ellis was one of the oldest native residents of the county. He was born, within a mile of the home in which he died, more than 82 years ago and had lived continuously in Houston county all of his life. Besides being one of the county's oldest native citizens, he was one of its most respected and honored. He was a steward in the Methodist church at Crockett for more than 45 successive years. During this time he occupied various positions of public trust and honor. He preferred the simple, quiet, Christian life, without the modern veneer and display. His last years were spent in his farm home at the edge of the city's limits in the quietude of life which he loved so well.

Mr. Ellis was twice married and is survived by his second wife. His first wife was Miss Annie Saxon, of which union the following sons and daughter are yet living: A. W. Ellis of Crockett, Mrs. J. W. Edens of Waco, J. A. Ellis of Crockett and J. E. Ellis of Waco. The second wife was Miss Elizabeth Allen, a teacher in the schools. There were no children following the second marriage, but a daughter of A. W. Ellis, Cora, now Mrs. C. B. Moore Jr. of Houston, was reared from infancy, following the death of her mother, by the grandparents.

Funeral services were held at the late home of Mr. Ellis Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and interment followed in Glenwood cemetery. The religious service was conducted by Rev. E. A. Maness, the Methodist pastor. It is the passing of another of Crockett's landmarks—the falling of another oak in the field of Houston county's business and religious activities. The tree is fallen, but the remembrance of its sheltering life remains.

SOME NEWS OF THE CROCKETT OIL FIELD

Mr. George L. Porter, operator of the Austin No. 2 well of the Porter Oil Company, was in Crockett this week, but announced that he would not resume operations in his well for an indefinite time yet. He has not yet perfected arrangements to resume drilling and will not start the drill until everything is in readiness to carry the project to completion. When he starts in again he does not want any more shut-downs until an oil well is brought in or a dry hole discovered.

The Driskell well is drilling toward 3000 feet with the indications continuing good. The Courier has no report from either the Weldon, the Porter Springs or the Grapeland wells, except that the Porter Springs well is being washed out at regular intervals, in order that drilling may be resumed at some future time.

Street Paving Discussed.

The Courier hears considerable discussion of the proposed plan to pave the public square and some streets of Crockett. There are very few who would not like to see the square and some of the streets paved, but the first question that is asked very naturally is about the cost and how the money is to be raised. The kind of paving to be done and permanency are usually the second points of discussion. The climax of the discussion usually brings the question, would the people get their money's worth in the pavement laid or would the people who lay the pavement be the largest beneficiaries? Those things will all have to be threshed out, and should be threshed out to the satisfaction of all concerned. If the people of Crockett want any paving in their town, they will have to interest themselves in the matter and see to it that the cost is not too much, that the funds are raised in a just and equitable manner, that the paving is of the permanent but economical kind and, finally, that the taxpayers get the worth of their money in the expenditure. The undertaking is more than a one man's job and will have to be worked out by the combined citizenship. We all want the paving, so let's keep up the discussion until the best and most economical way is found. We need the paving just as badly as we needed the water-works and the sewerage, which many of our good citizens first opposed, but later favored. A healthy discussion is good for any honest, wide-open, daylight movement, and no other kind of movement is desired.

Many of the best people of Crockett, this county and east Texas have been using good glasses fitted by Dr. Shelfer for years with best results. Come to see us while he is here Friday and Saturday, October 20th and 21st.

KU KLUX KLAN HAS NIGHT BARBECUE

More Than a Hundred Candidates Initiated Into the Mysteries of Klanism.

Monday night a stream of automobiles led to the old fair grounds in south Crockett. Investigation resulted in the finding of a big barbecue in the process of arrangement. The center of the old race course held a brilliantly illuminated cross with other electric illuminations over a roped-off space in which candidates for membership were initiated. Masked guards were stationed at the entrance gate and lined the inside of the fence around the grounds. Hundreds of people lined the roadway to view the maneuvers at a distance. Only Klansmen were permitted to enter the grounds. A class of more than a hundred, it is said, were initiated into the mysteries of the Ku Klux. Those on the outside of the grounds could only observe the maneuvering of the white-robed Klansmen. Following the initiation ceremonies, a movement of Klansmen was seen toward immense tables, where a barbecue spread was in waiting. It is said that many Klansmen from Palestine, Elkhart, Grapeland, Ratcliff, Kennard, Weldon, Lovelady, Trinity and Huntsville participated in the ceremonies. It is known that many automobiles from out of Crockett were here that night. The outside public is of the opinion that the Klansmen made a big night of it.

Crockett High Wins.

In the first game of the season, Friday, Crockett defeated Trinity in football by a score of 12 to 6. Although Trinity had the advantage of three weeks' training over Coach McConnell's eleven, the Crockett boys out-classed their opponents in every play of the game. The locals have started the season with a bang and a win, and expect to make a showing in the State Interscholastic Football League this year. All men have first-class equipment and make a fine showing in their blue and white colors.

Friday, C. H. S. play their annual game with Palestine at the fair grounds in south Crockett, and after another week of the strenuous training that the local team is now getting, they will be in first-class condition to beat the visiting boys.

Everybody who has any spirit and fight in them at all should come out and back the home players to victory.
"Let's make it a C. H. S. day," say the football boys.

Horrors of Mohammedan Victory Recounted By Survivors.

Smyrna, Sept. 17.—Smyrna, which the Turks have called the eye of Asia, is a vast sepulchre of ashes. Only the shattered walls of 25,000 homes and the charred bodies of countless victims remain to tell the story of death and destruction unexampled in modern history. The ruins are still smoldering like a volcano which has spent its fury. No effort has been made by the Turks to remove the dead and dying. The streets are full of the bodies of those who sought to escape. For the most part they are those of women and children. Every building in the Arme-

FORD STARTS UP PLANTS; PROTESTS AGAINST PRICES

Factories Around Detroit Are Affected; 100,000 Men Return to work.

New York, Sept. 15.—As a protest against paying what he believed exorbitant prices for coal and steel, Henry Ford yesterday began closing his industry, but today started up again, having secured a supply of cheaper coal.

With the suspension complete when the last shift of workers left yesterday approximately 100,000 men would have been idle indefinitely. The plants affected include the five factories around Detroit, and numerous assembling stations throughout the country. Other concerns, the output of which goes chiefly to the Ford company, also are expected to suspend operations.

In announcing the contemplated closing, Mr. Ford declared no coal shortage existed, that brokers were holding enough coal to supply the needs of the country, and that the public was being "gouged" by the dealers. He also criticized methods of government agencies in apportioning coal.

The first lay off of men occurred last midnight, when about 18,000 workers turned in their tools and were told not to return until notified. Two thousand men are to be retained at this plant, to fire the coke ovens, which can not be allowed to cool.

At the Highland Park plant the night force received the same notice given the steel workers. The day and early night forces were to be checked out similarly.

The remainder of the workers affected are employes of the Dearborn Tractor Factory, the Lincoln plant, a factory at Northville, and those in cities outside Michigan.

Most of the factories likely to be affected by the closing of Ford industries, through the loss of their chief market, are located in Detroit or nearby Michigan cities. They manufacture various parts and accessories.

THE PARTY OF THE DOUBLE CROSS.

Texas now has a new political party. It is a fusion of so-called democrats, an element who make a pretext of jumping the party because they allege its nominee for United States senator is the representative of the Ku Klux Klan or a follower of the "flaming red cross," and the pie-seeking element of the Texas republicans, and possibly a few other off-color and off-brand politicians. The leaders of the rebellion against the organized democratic party are in the main men who supported Ferguson in the recent primary, and who went into the primary under a pledge to support the nominee of the party, and who because their man failed now violate their word of honor, or what is a word of honor to men of honor, and undertake the overthrow of the party by joining forces with men of other or no parties.

The Herald is not apprehensive of the outcome. This paper believes there are enough self-respecting voters in Texas, including men of all parties, to defeat any such effort to run in a dark horse, when the dark horse is promoted and backed by men who have taken an oath to do something else.

The party of the double cross has asked for a fight and they should be given one that will satisfy them. Here in Anderson county, and in every other county in Texas, the democrats should keep check on the rebels and list them in a little book of remembrance, and another two years, when the primaries are to be held again, it should be seen to that these fusionists are denied the privilege of voting or participating in the party's affairs. It can be done. Let's make the double cross effective, by keeping these people out of the party. They want independent action and they should have it. Since they have gone out of the party, keep them out.

Another thing. The Herald ventures the guess that hundreds of up-right republican voters will not be a party to any such scheme as that hatched in Dallas, and will vote, if they vote at all, against the candidate named in the Dallas spite conference.—Palestine Herald.

Ironized Yeast Gives the Stomach Natural Digestive Power!

There's one organ in the human body that "kicks back" when it gets weak, and that's the stomach. No stomach on earth can operate without vitamins-and-iron. The same thing is true about the nerves. There is hardly anything that can happen to the nervous system that is not at once reflected to the stomach. Weak nerves! weak stomach! Nature has only one answer; more vitamins ironized. But remember that Ironized Yeast is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. This is why Ironized Yeast produces almost immediate results in cases of loss of appetite, aversion to food, belching, gas on the stomach, fermentation, "jump-of-lead" feeling after eating, dyspepsia, indigestion. There is only one Ironized Yeast in the world; it contains yeast-vitamins-with-organic-iron, the very natural food-power which every strong stomach and every strong nervous system possesses. The answer is, ironize! vitaminize! Ironized Yeast, is sold at all drug stores at $1.00 a package. Each package contains 60 tablets, each tablet is sealed. They never lose their power. STATE WAGES LONG BOLL WEEVIL FIGHT

REWARD OF $50,000 OFFERED FOR REMEDY IN 1902 IS STILL UNCLAIMED.

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 30.—Twenty years ago the attention of scientists, inventors, cotton farmers and numerous others of an ingenious turn of mind over Texas, the United States and in foreign countries, was caught and whetted to unusual degree of interest by the following announcement emanating from offices in the state capitol at Austin:

"In pursuance of the provisions of chapter 53, acts of the twenty-eighth legislature, we, in the name of the State of Texas, offer a reward of $50,000 to any person or persons who shall discover and furnish a practical remedy for the destruction of the cotton boll weevil in Texas, the tests of the practicability of said remedy to be made and determined with the publication of the said law."

This official pronouncement was signed by S. W. T. Lanham, governor of Texas; D. F. Houston, president of the A. and M. College, who afterward became secretary of agriculture under President Wilson, and W. J. Clay, commissioner of agriculture of the state.

The offer of a reward of this magnitude for some means to cope with the ravage of the young and tender cotton bolls is in itself an enlightening commentary on the havoc to Texas cotton fields that followed in the wake of the preying pest, even in those days two-score years ago. So great was the damage sustained that public opinion, aroused by state and county meetings to the need of relief, crystallized into a sentiment that inspired the legislature to pass in quick order the law offering a reward to whoever might demonstrate his ability to stop the growing evil.

The result of hanging up this tempting purse for whoever might qualify was to flood the office of Governor Lanham, and later the board of commissioners he appointed to conduct the tests of exterminating processes submitted, with hundreds of suggestions, formulas and plans of mechanical contrivances for eradicating the boll weevil. It is doubtful if anyone at the time believed the $50,000 would go long unclaimed. Various officials and others expressed the opinion that the pesky weevil would soon meet its Waterloo, either at the hands of the scientists or through the ingenuity of the practical citizen, alive to the problems of the day.

So far as the records show, however, no claim to the $50,000 reward has been upheld. The house bill No. 243, chapter 53, twenty-eighth legislature, "providing for the extermination of the boll weevil," still remains a valid part of the general laws of Texas, no repealing act having ever been passed. It is of unusual interest at this time when experts of state and federal governments have again gathered in official conference for the undoing or at least checking of the boll weevil in Texas, to recall the great fight against the pest that was waged twenty years ago in the state and that has been continued almost without interruption to the present. The migration of the boll weevil from Mexico into Texas is generally supposed to have taken place in 1892-93. It was not until about ten years later, however, that the ravages of the cotton destroyer became so enormous as to attract state and nationwide interest and to incite a campaign on organized lines to curb the inroads of the pest.

Three years after crossing the Rio Grande into the border counties of Texas, the weevil was found engaging in its destructive work in Bee, Karnes, Wilson, Guadalupe and Bexar counties. In 1898 it had extended its activities into Bastrop, Lee and other counties bordering on the great Central Texas black land cotton region. By 1903 it had reached the Red River and was doing millions of dollars worth of damage to Texas cotton.

In 1902 and 1903 boll weevil conventions were called that an organized plan to fight the weevil might be mapped out. These conventions, some of which were held in Dallas, were attended by men from all cotton-growing sections of the state and by state officials. Countless suggestions of how to rid the state of the weevil were made and hundreds of plans were followed by the anxious farmer battling to save his money crop.

SENATOR WATSON, FIERY GEORGIAN, DIES SUDDENLY

Washington, Sept. 26.—Another powerful and picturesque figure passed from public life in death today Senator Thomas E. Watson of Georgia. His death, which occurred at 2:40 o'clock this morning, was sudden and unexpected, according to physicians, resulting from an attack of asthma.

The senator had been a sufferer for several weeks from the disease and only last Sunday experienced an acute attack. Two physicians and a nurse were at the bedside when the end came, but the widow, who is in ill health, and other relatives were at the home in Thomson, Ga., for which Mr. Watson had planned to depart today for the congressional recess.

For 40 years Senator Watson had been active in politics, a national as well as state figure. He was nominated by the populist party for president in 1904 after receiving its vice-presidential nomination in 1896. He was a populist member of the house of representatives in 1891-1893. In 1920, he was elected senator, as he said, on an "anti-Wilson, anti-league (of nations) and anti-war measures" platform defeating former Senator Hoke Smith and former Governor Dorsey. We was 66 years of age September 5, last and his senatorial term would have expired March 3, 1927.

SUMPTUARY LAWS.

Laws, now generally obsolete, enacted in the supposed interest of public morals, to restrain extravagance in private expenditure, especially in matters of food, dress and amusements. The abounded in ancient Greece and Rome, and found great favor in the legislation of England from the time of Edward II (1307-1327) to that of the Reformation (1517). They existed in France as early as the time of Charlemagne (768-814), and continued to be enacted as late as the seventeenth century; but in neither country do they appear to have been enforced to any great extent. Sumptuary laws were repealed in England in 1856.—Kansas City Star.

STRICTER COLLEGE ENTRANCE FAVORED

DR. HOPKINS DECLARES TOO MANY OF ONE KIND OF STUDENTS.

Washington, Sept. 30.—An interesting discussion is in progress among Eastern educators over the statement of President E. M. Hopkins of Dartmouth College that "too many men are going to college." While some educators are in strict disagreement with President Hopkins' statement, Dr. Sidney E. Mezes, president of the City College of New York, and former president of Texas University, disagrees with the opinion only in part. Dr. Mezes disagrees with the illustrious educator entirely if the latter means to imply that the country is getting too many college-trained men. In this respect, Dr. Mezes thinks the country can not have too many well trained men. "But I think he is talking of those persons who are actually in college but ought not be there," Dr. Mezes is quoted by the New York Times, referring to Dr. Hopkins' statement. "We are getting too many of one kind of students, and too few of another. Many persons of great capacity and industry are not going to college, and others who have neither capacity nor industry are going. I suppose one reason that those of capacity and industry do not go is that they do not have the money or opportunity at the right time."

"What President Hopkins says of character is true. We do not want drones or idlers, or those who can not profit by the training, but colleges should be open to all those who can profit."

President Mezes is reported by the Times as saying that the process of weeding out the unfit or those who neglect their studies was going on all the time in colleges, and he told of the efforts at City College to apply entrance requirements strictly so that the work of the college might have the highest effect. He related the physical tests, the standard of admission one the ground of studies and recommendation on the grounds of good character.

"The country needs many more college-trained men," Dr. Mezes continued, "because the complicated problems today require not only intelligence, but training and knowledge as well."

While some of other educators agree with Dr. Mezes' statement that Dr. Hopkins' version was applicable to persons unfit to be in college, still other persons are inclined to disagree entirely with the theory advanced. S. S. McClure, the publisher, is quoted by the Times as believing in surrounding the youth "with temptations to do good" and that the good temptations could be found in colleges.

"You can not tell in their youth who are going to be the leaders," said Mr. McClure. "We have twenty-nine presidents of the United States, and nineteen of them were college men. Among the other ten who had no college training were Washington and Lincoln. That is one difficulty you would meet in any attempt to single out the intellectually eager and alert."

In connection with the opinions it is interesting to note that Harvard, which opened its 287th year Sept. 25, had an enrollment which will reach about 6,000 students, exceeding all previous records.

THE CONSPIRACY AGAINST POLITICAL MORALS.

The Post expressed the view a fortnight ago that the nomination of Paddy for United States senator by the republican committee was not legal, and that the attorney general would so hold when the matter was submitted to him for decision.

It required no professional profundity to reach such a conclusion, in the face of the plain provisions of the act of 1913. The attorney general could have rendered no other opinion, unless the law itself were flagrantly unconstitutional, which he does not believe.

The alleged democrats who are so deeply interested in the republican candidate for the senate now have the right to apply to supreme court for a writ of mandamus, and The Post has no doubt that the court will uphold both the act of 1913 and the attorney general's opinion.

The act of 1913 provides that all party nominations for United States senator shall be made in a primary election. If the law with respect to the nomination for senators differs in some respects from that governing the nomination of State officers, it is in the respect that the newer law is better, and the older law ought to be amended so as to require all party nominations to be made in a primary election, instead of the convention privilege given to small parties.

The law did not contemplate such a condition as recently has arisen, in which the republican machine, conspiring with bolters from the democratic party, has sought to farm out a position on the republican ticket to one who claims to be a democrat and who participated in the democratic primary as a democrat.

No republican right has been sacrificed by the opinion of the attorney general, and the law was never intended to encourage such fraud and trickery as that attempted by the Dallas conspiracy.

to abuse its authority in an attempt to throw the republican vote to one of another political faith is a species of bossism and trickery that the law expressly prohibits, and its prohibition of such immorality is not Klan influence, but inherent righteousness of the law.

The whole spirit of the law, as faulty and unsatisfactory as many of its provisions are, is against dirty politics such as the Dallas conspiracy has attempted to inject in the campaign. If those responsible for the treachery and trickery were endowed with anything resembling a sense of proportion they might be grateful that the law has afforded them an escape from their folly, for the public condemnation that the November election has in store for them is certain, if they ever regain sufficient political consciousness to comprehend it.

So far as the people—democrats and republicans—are concerned, they consider the campaign virtually ended except for the noise made by disgruntled politicians who have nothing to do but nurse their own grudges, rave at their own obsessions or revel in the hallucination that what they do, say or think is impressing a commonwealth concerned with the serious affairs of life.—Houston Post.

MAYFIELD'S NAME TO BE CERTIFIED AS PARTY NOMINEE

Austin, Texas, Sept. 30.—Contests against democratic and republican nominees for United States senator were considered settled here Saturday unless court action is forthcoming following announcement by Secretary of State S. L. Staples that Earle B. Mayfield's name will be certified as democratic nominee without further ruling from the attorney general.

Supporters of George E. B. Paddy, republican nominee, however, have announced that proceedings will be brought to compel the Secretary of State to certify Paddy's name. No action was filed in the supreme court Saturday.

Secretary Staples Saturday finished plans for printing the official ballots but these will not be completed until probably the middle of next week. Meanwhile, court action is probable. Lists of district, congressional and judicial candidates already have been sent out.

Clemenceau Career Had Its Start In America.

Paris, Sept. 30.—Former Premier Clemenceau has become reminiscent since he decided to visit America next November. Clemenceau was 25 years old when, as a young doctor, he landed in New York 56 years ago, and found employment as a librarian, a position he held for two years. The grizzled old "tiger" says these two years were among the happiest of his long life. The reading public did not patronize the library much in those days, Clemenceau said, therefore he was able to seclude himself among the books and spend most of his time reading the best philosophers and historians. "There my mind acquired what it lacked and my intellect completed its formation," he said recently.

It was after this that he became professor of French in a school for young ladies at Stamford, Conn. A school mistress, who was a practical soul, learned that he was an accomplished horseman, therefore she requested him to accompany the girls on their rides across the country. It was thus that Clemenceau fell in love with and became engaged to Miss Mary Plummer of Boston, whom he afterward married. She is the mother of his three children.

Clemenceau returned to France in 1869, and a year later came the Franco-Prussian war. As mayor of Mont Marte, Clemenceau began his political career, which has lasted for upwards of 50 years.

PEDDY AND THE CONSTITUTION.

At first we thought Mr. Peddy came under the age required of a man for the office of United States Senator. But the Constitution says: "No person shall be a Senator, who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years and been nine years a citizen of the United States; and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen." But if Mr. Peddy lacked many years of the required age he would then be plenty old by the time he would be elected.

The New York World says Daugherty should take a day off and read the Constitution. We will agree with the World, but the time has come when a great many people won't believe the Constitution when they read it. They are like the Irishman about the Bible story of Samson and the foxes. He simply did not believe it.

The tariff bill seeks to bring about a condition that will make the farmers slaves to the manufacturers. It has always been more or less that way, but the present bill is the most oppressive since the days of McKinley. Mr. McKinley convinced a majority of the American people that the foreigners paid the tariff.

The strike is almost settled. The people were getting rightly tired of the ugly mess. It is to be earnestly hoped that the owners of the railroads and the workers will get together like humans should, and hereafter settle disputes without making the people pay the bill of damages.

The great masses of our people will cling to the principles of this Republic as long as they are the masters of the soil. If the time ever comes when the lands shall pass from those who till it into the hands of others, patriotism will die and decay will ensue.

This thing that met up at Dallas and put out a candidate against Mayfield was a huge joke. The people should dismiss the whole thing from their minds. Time is too short and space is too valuable to discuss the matter. We shall let the matter drop here.

It is now a matter of record that the Silvey bridge is completed, and tourists can cross over it without fear and trembling, provided they can get to it. The bridge is a substantial one, and reflects upon all those who are responsible for it.

This Republic is founded upon the virtue and intelligence of the people, just laws, equal rights, equal opportunities, equal and exact justice to all, supported by the religion of God and the Father; and will live no longer than these shall exist.

It is now in order to tell about a million school children in Texas what this Republic stands for. All those who can read right well should be urged to find out some things that are in the Constitution.

The Turk is still dreaming in his tent. Civilization has put up with his dreams about long enough. He should be made to quit his meanness or be abolished completely.

Newberryism is destined to destruction. The people are beginning to realize that either Newberryism has to go, or the Republic will exist only in name.

It should be borne in mind that the Constitution, including the Bill of Rights, must be on the programme this school year for at least one reading.

If England is forced to fight Turkey it is devoutly desired that she will finish the job while she is at it so it will stay fixed.

INDICTMENTS FOR
HERRIN MASSACRE
INCREASED TO 214

STATE ADMINISTRATION IS SCORED IN REPORT OF GRAND JURY.

Marion, Ill., Sept. 23.—The special grand jury investigating the 22 killings at the Lester strip mine June 21 and 22 today returned 152 additional indictments, bringing the total to 214. In a partial report it censured the "State administration," Adjutant Black, of Illinois, Sheriff Melvin Thaxton, of Williamson (this county), and "local police."

The jury after making its report, recessed until October 23.

The report declared the "State administration undoubtedly realized the acute situation at Herrin," and asserted the "adjutant general's office and the sheriff alternated in passing responsibility, neither taking decisive action to prevent disorders and protect property."

"The atrocities and cruelties of the murders," the report emphasizes, "are beyond the power of words to describe. A mob is always cowardly, but the savagery of this mob in its relentless brutality is almost unbelievable. The indignities heaped upon the dead did not end until their bodies were interred in unknown graves."

The jury returned a total of 44 indictments for murder, 58 for conspiracy, to commit murder, 58 for rioting and 54 for assault to murder.

The report stated a telegram from John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was one of the causes of the riot. The telegram was to State Senator Wm. Sneed, a district president of the strip miners, and declared the union men "are justified in treating this crowd as an outlaw organization and in viewing its members in the same light as they do any other common strike breakers." This telegram was posted at various places, the report declared, and shortly thereafter the strip mine was attacked, after hardware stores had been rifled for firearms and weapons. "The weapons were either taken by force or upon a verbal assurance that the local would pay for them," the report amplified.

Fair At Weldon.

The writer visited Weldon, Prairie Point and Lovelady last Saturday, distributing advertising for Trades Day Saturday of this week and also advertising matter on Trinity's Trade Campaign in which some valuable prizes, including a Ford car, will be given away by Trinity business men. We saw some pretty country, some good crops and some nice houses and farms. Some of the best people in Texas reside in these communities and on the road between Weldon and Lovelady we saw some mighty good and well finished homes. The people in the Prairie Point community have a nice church and school building, and a well kept cemetery. We also visited the Antioch community and the people of this section have a nice church and one of the prettiest cemeteries in East Texas. On every hand we viewed evidence of thrift and real honest to goodness work on the part of these people and this portion of Houston county is in fine condition. We just wish that all of those good people lived within two or three miles of Trinity instead of fifteen miles.

On our trip last Saturday we stopped for half an hour in Weldon, and Mr. Mangum, cashier of the Weldon State Bank informed us that cotton was about all marketed in that section, and that while the crop was short, the good price would enable many of the farmers to pay out of debt and have some money left. He also told us about the Big 4 Community Fair that is being planned for Weldon next month and the business men of Weldon and the farmers of the surrounding communities deserve much credit for what they are doing in that line of endeavor. Some good prizes will be offered at this Fair and Mr. Mangum informed us that all of the lumber needed to build the fair grounds there had been paid for and that they would all contribute labor and erect the buildings within the next two weeks. We congratulate the people of Weldon and surrounding communities for their enthusiasm and cooperation in this work, and if the Tribune can be of assistance to them in their work, they only have to let us know and any publicity that we can give them will be given gladly and freely.—Trinity Tribune.

A PECULIAR POLITICAL ENTERPRISE.

We fancy when the republican nominee for United State senator, Mr. Peddy, hits the trail next week, the most peculiar political enterprise ever staged in Texas will be under way.

Whoever before heard of a nominee of the republican party having as his platform the saving of the democratic party?

And in order to push the good work along, the republican machine purposes to import some Kansas republican spellbinders as assistant saviors of the democratic party.

No democratic spellbinders will be asked to help the good work along, either from within or without the State. The very nature of the coalition precludes that. This part of the job will be taken care of by the republican nominee, Mr. Peddy, and the imported orators of the republican party.

It may be, of course, that some former democrats will help—men who invaded the democratic primaries and voted ballots reading, "I pledge myself to support the nominees of this primary"—but they can not be regarded as members of the democratic party now or hereafter. They are not even entitled to call themselves independents. They are merely welchers—men who entered the primary with a solemn pledge which they did not intend to keep unless James E. Ferguson happened to be the successful contestant.

They have attempted to sell out the democratic party to the republicans, but it happens they don't own it to sell. And they have attempted to sell the "light wine and beer" democrats out to a bonedryers. It remains to be seen whether they can deliver the goods.

But the most pitiful thing they have done has been the beguiling of a youth who in time may have won honors in Texas by reason of his personal worth and ability.

They played upon his ego and induced him to violate a solemn pledge he took when he voted in the primary, and default upon the implied obligation he assumed when he became a champion of one of the senatorial contestants in the August campaign. —Houston Post.

FORD PASSES ROCKEFELLER AS RICHEST MAN

New York, Sept. 20.—Henry Ford, according to the Wall Street Journal, is the richest man in the world. His wealth surpasses even that of John D. Rockefeller.

"Henry Ford has in the Ford Motor Company the largest income, and if capitalized, the largest fortune in the world," the Journal says. "His income, adding to his boundless wealth $500,000 a day through the busy season, is probably unequalled in all history."

"Profits before taxes for 1922 will exceed $125,000,000. After taxes they will be $110,000,000, about $100 a car. With these earnings the Ford Motor Company could be capitalized at $2,000,000,000 and pay 5 per cent on that capital."

"Ford condemns bankers, but with $180,000,000 cash he himself is the largest individual banker in the country, if not in the world. Michigan sugar beet growers and automobile manufacturers have little need for such a stupendous sum and only a few millions are banked in Detroit. Wall street, the finance center of the country, absorbs the other millions and Ford accumulated profits expand and multiply with Wall street's assistance."

"In his newspaper interviews Ford says that Wall street and the gold standard have outlived their usefulness, but his millions flow through to Wall street at 4 per cent to bring his company a possible $7,200,000 gold standard money annually in interest. This is more than $6 for every car he produces."

"Even a republican congress unites to add to the Ford wealth. The company paid more than $50,000,000 in federal taxes in 1921. Because of the abolition of the excess profits levy it will pay only $18,000,000 in 1922. The Fords are $34,000,000 richer though for if they were to draw their riches out they would pay more than 50 per cent additional personal income taxes."

"So Ford continues to pile up in his business the millions which find their way into Wall street. His replacement parts business is so profitable that he could chop off his manufacturing profit of probably $80 a car and make more than $15,000,000 annually, or $14 on each car produced, from the sale of parts necessary to keep the millions of Fords now on the roads in running condition."

"He could distribute this $14 as a bonus to his workmen and still make the $6 a car profit interest."

"But he is not selling at cost. He is holding on to profits from interest, parts and cars, $58,000,000 in the record ten months ending last February, despite the heavy taxes; $110,000,000 in all probability after taxes in 1922."

"Henry Ford is a Wall street in himself, and the few blocks of Woodward avenue running past his factories form a companion thoroughfare with the few blocks of Wall street from Trinity Church to the East River."

"If he continues to pile up cash at this rate he can not long denounce Wall street or the money power of the country."

"Henry Ford will be that money power."

SAYS ROCKEFELLER IS RICHEST OF ALL

FORD CAN NOT EQUAL OIL MAGNATE, SAYS FINANCIAL AUTHORITY.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—John D. Rockefeller is still the richest man in the world, and Henry Ford has yet to take that distinction away from him, according to James A. Davis, one of the best known financial authorities in the Middle West.

But Ford, Davis said, is the second richest man beyond a doubt.

Davis took issue with statements of the Wall Street Journal in regard to Ford's wealth, in an interview today. Davis, besides being nationally known as a financial expert, can speak from the viewpoint of an automobile man, as he is now directing the finances of a large motor manufacturing concern.

The war put all European contenders for the "world's richest man" title out of the running, Davis declared. The Rothschilds were hard hit by the ruining of many mines in the war zones and by bad loans to European governments, he said, while the dukes of Westminster and Devonshire, in England, have been almost impoverished by heavy taxation.

"In the first place," Davis asserted, "the Wall Street Journal erred in assuming that a man's wealth may be capitalized on the basis of his earnings, and I don't think the paper was entirely serious when it did so. A contract of business may be capitalized, but not earning power."

"There is no question but that Henry Ford has been making an enormous amount of money and has a wonderful organization, but it's pure speculation to guess as to a man's worth in dollars," said Davis.

If this course were followed in the computation of wealth, he said, it would be necessary to take into consideration the man's past record, his reliability and his experiences as a trained, thoughtful financier and shrewd business man. Rockefeller, in Davis' opinion, far surpasses Ford in all these things.

"Rockefeller, in the estimated value of his holdings in various concerns in which he is interested, has an infinitely greater wealth than Ford is known to have," he continued.

"The difference in the earning capacity and dependability of a man whose business began and grew through sheer ability, shrewdness and foresight might be ten times as great as that of one whose whole career has been erratic. "I don't think, however, that there is any other person whose wealth can be compared with that of either Rockefeller or Ford. Morgan's personal wealth is comparatively small. The various syndicates which he controls, of course, command great sums." Referring to other great fortunes, Davis said, the "second class" of American families in point of their estimated wealth includes the Astors, the Vanderbilts, the Fields and the Kennedys.

Where Extra Service is Demanded Firestone Cords Predominate

WHEREVER the exacting and tests of tires are most severe—there you will find Firestone Cords in universal use.

The hard jobs seek Firestone. And so well has Firestone responded under difficult conditions—so consistently has mileage mounted to totals impossible to obtain from ordinary tires that today Most Miles per Dollar is the buying slogan of thinking motorists everywhere.

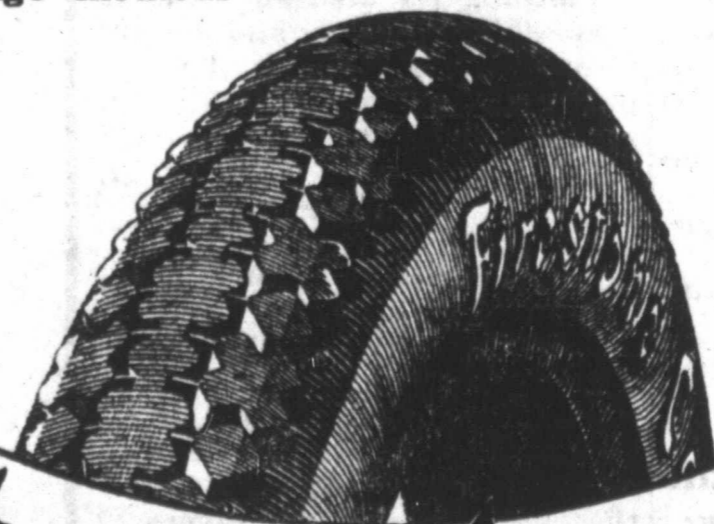

The blending and tempering of rubber, gum-dipped cord construction, air-bag cure—all these mileage methods have been developed by men whose life work is the production of constantly increasing tire values for the public.

Users in this vicinity verify Firestone reputation, and report almost daily some new Firestone record of extra distance travelled.

Don't be satisfied to buy tires—buy values—the longest mileage at the lowest price consistent with such reliable performance.

Make Most Miles per Dollar your principle of tire economy—choose your next tire on that basis.

Forrest Stanley in "Enchantment."

He's an actor by profession; he takes the part of an actor in the picture and he has to do still a third bit of acting which proves his undoing. This is the experience of Forrest Stanley, leading man with Marion Davies, star in her latest Paramount-Cosmopolitan production, "Enchantment," which will be the feature of the Crockett theatre next Monday night.

As Petruchio in "The Taming of the Shrew," Mr. Stanley, in the role of Ernest Eddison, meets the charming nineteen year old, Ethel Hoyt, with a long record of scalps. Her father and the actor are good friends. Finally the father, worrying about the exploits of his daughter, asks Ernest to "tame" her—to pay marked attention to her and then drop her to teach her a needed lesson. Ernest consents. He is used to acting.

He begins to lay siege to Ethel's heart. And what is the result? His own is conquered and he confesses that he's a "bad actor," for he loves the girl and tells her the whole truth. The settings in this picture are unusually beautiful and massive. Tom Lewis, a noted Broadway comedian, makes his screen debut in this picture.

The individual who sits around and waits for something to turn up, usually finds that he has waited at the wrong place; that off at another place some individual has turned up the very thing he was waiting for to turn up. The same is true of cities; the ones that wait for things to turn up, usually find themselves outstripped by the nearby city whose citizens go out and turn something up.
