CREATION OF NEW PARTIES FAVORED BY FRANK MUNSEY

NEW YORK PUBLISHER SAYS OLD ONES HAVE LOST THEIR USEFULNESS.

New York, Oct. 4.—The creation of two new political parties, a conservative-liberal and a radical, and substitution of a selective system for immigrants for the present limitation by quotas was advocated today in an address before the American Bankers' association by Frank A. Munsey, publisher of the New York Herald and Sun, both republican newspapers.

Mr. Munsey based his plea for new political divisions on the ground that the old republican and democratic parties had outgrown their usefulness; that both lacked clearly defined issues; and that they appealed to voters with promises of "popular government, differing only on minor points because it is their business to differ; to create differences, to work up issues, without which they would cease to exist."

"Indeed," said Mr. Munsey, "the democratic and republican parties have become so strongly organized, have become so thoroughly entrenched that it is a question if they have not become our masters, not our servants."

It has been, however, "the business of each party to oppose and to fight the acts and proposals of the other party," he continued. "There is very little team work between them in congress and our State legislatures given to constructive measures, very little team work given to the economies of government or given unselfishly to the interests of the government and the people."

"The truth is that neither party has a sufficient margin of safety to justify it in forgetting for a minute the vote back home."

While this "political jockeying" has been going on "a new issue has developed that now divides all America into two political camps, as yet without political camps," said Mr. Munsey. "They are the radical camp and the conservative camp."

Abolition of these old party labels, he continued, would enable voters of like sympathies, beliefs and political tendencies to realign themselves with a new party which expressed their desires, conservative or radical.

The issues upon which the republican and democratic parties were founded were the tariff and States' rights and these issues, "no longer function," he said. The political divisions of North and South largely on the tariff question has ceased to be logical, said the speaker, because he foresaw the South "with raw materials at its door, low living costs and nearer to the centers of consumption an industrial camp destined to become bigger than the North, vastly bigger."

"In this situation, the tariff has no place in our politics," Mr. Munsey continued.

"It is wholly a business question and should be so treated. Standing out, however, as the original issue between the two parties, it is still the fighting ground between them to the shame of the American people who permit these two parties to keep this great economic question under the sordid heel of politics."

INCOME TAX SCOURGE TO THE ENGLISH

London, Oct. 4.—British citizens are just undergoing their annual torture—that of the income tax officials. Compared with it the star chamber and the Spanish Inquisition were institutions of mercy. They merely tortured physically. The British income tax leaves the citizen practically without a cent and entirely without self-respect.

For the average person in Britain the income tax is five shillings in the pound—25 per cent of income. For the wealthy, when combined with what is known as "supertax," it may amount to as much as 80 per cent of income.

With these he does his best. And then the person known as the "income tax-survivor" begins to dispute. He begins by assuming that the innocent taxpayer is attempting to defraud the treasury. He demands more and further information and threatens the direct penalties of the law.

The taxpayer makes further returns, but meets with the same fate. He is told that his return is incorrect but that the income tax commissioners have assessed him at a certain figure. That figure is usually just three times the amount of the citizen's return.

And the powers of these income tax people are entirely arbitrary. If the amount they demand is not paid to the minute they can do practically what the please. If they wish they can just descend on the taxpayer's home—without notice—and seize and sell all his furniture without more to do.

Process of this kind is beloved of income tax officials. Extreme action of this sort brings them official commendation and increase in salary. For every extra percentage they extort from the taxpayer they receive kudos in kind.

Sometimes the citizen insists on appealing his assessment to the institution known as Somerset House, the headquarters in England of the inland revenue. And there he meets his Waterloo right away.

To begin with, he is kept waiting between four and five hours in a great big, lofty, unfurnished waiting room. Then, when more or less less brought to the proper frame of mind, he is suddenly introduced into the presence of the gentlemen known as the "Commissioners of the Inland Revenue."

Twelve of them sit around a table, and as the unhappy victim approaches they make one concentrated dive in his direction.

"How long have you been defrauding the revenue?" asks one in a hectoring voice.

"Do you know the penalties for an incorrect return?" says a second.

"Have you anything to say before we instruct the authorities to take proceedings against you?" shouts a third, and so the process goes on. In three minutes the poor, unhappy victim believes himself guilty of all charges and is glad to escape the best way he can.

In the finish he is usually told that his assessment is treble the figure originally fixed, and he rushes out and pays it, glad to get away from these fiends.

And then the trained team of income tax inquisitors, reckoning it has done a fine morning's work for the country, goes to lunch and laughs.

REGARDING HEALTH CERTIFICATES

Austin, Texas, October 2, 1922.

To the Local Health Officers of Texas: We understand that there is still some confusion in regard to the ruling passed by the State Board of Health making it necessary for all health certificates issued in accordance with House Bill No. 120 to be countersigned by the local health officer.

We suggest that you have the resolution published in bold type in one or more of your local papers and report all doctors to the state health officer who advise people otherwise.

We believe the health of the people should be high above the business or personal feeling of any individual.

Respectfully,
J. H. Florence,
State Health Officer.

The State Board of Health, at a session held in Austin on March 16th, 1922, passed the following ruling:

"Whereas, the law has not been as effective as contemplated and it is the sense of this board that where such certificate be issued by examining physician, the same shall be approved and countersigned by city or county health officer without charge. Effective July 1, 1922."

France Loses Money By State Ownership.

Nearly 300 members of the French Chamber of Deputies are reported to have signed a bill in favor of transferring the telephone system of the nation to private hands. On three public services owned by the state—the postal, telegraph and telephone systems—there is a loss of about six hundred million francs annually, according to the Wall Street Journal.

To Fight Mosquitoes.

If you have a rain barrel drop half a cupful of kerosene into it. This is the advice of a department of health to those who wish to keep their neighborhood as free as possible from mosquitoes. Mosquitoes breed in roadside pools, swampy sections, backyard puddles and other places where there is quiet, stagnant water. The rain barrel contributes largely to the city population of the pests.

NEED FOR PROPER COTTON MARKETING SHOWN BY PETEET

DUMPING STAPLE ON MARKET TENDS TO KEEP PRICE DOWN.

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 7.—"If there was a time when the orderly marketing of the cotton crop would return substantial benefits to the producers and through them to all the people of the South, now is that time," declared Walton Peteet, secretary of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation, in a statement made public today.

"The present crop is going to be a small one. The large carry-over stocks have been exhausted, and general business is improving. All authorities agree that the statistical position of cotton and the general improvement in business justifies higher prices. There is likewise very general agreement upon the statement that only the continued dumping of cotton by the farmers is holding the price down.

"Present prices are not determined by consideration of the total supply and total demand, but by the immediate supply. As long as farmers continue to rush their cotton to market as fast as it is ginned, the daily supply will be greater than the daily demand and the price will be kept down during the harvesting season and advance when most farmers have sold their crops.

"The Farm Bureau Cotton association understands the situation and is not dumping its cotton. It will have cotton to sell throughout the season and will be in a position to obtain for its members the benefit of higher prices which will follow the close of the dumping period. But the association, standing alone, can not stem the tide of reckless dumping.

"The Farm Bureau therefore appeals to all farmers to stop rushing their cotton to market as fast as it is ginned. Do not let it continue to be said by the spinners and speculators that cotton is worth more, but why pay more than farmers are willing to sell at present prices?"

"There is nothing in the financial condition which compels drastic liquidation. I have just read a public statement by the Oklahoma agency of the war finance corporation, denying a report that they were forcing bankers to demand immediate selling by their farmer customers. The statement went on to say that the war finance corporation favored orderly marketing and was entirely willing for the customers of borrowing banks to sell their cotton through the Oklahoma Cotton Growers' association, and that it would gladly extend the paper of banks to that end.

"I have no doubt that the Texas agency of the war finance corporation, the federal reserve bank and the reserve city banks, are pursuing a similar liberal and patriotic policy."

FIND REPORTS ARE UNFOUNDED

CHRISTIAN MINORITY IN EASTERN THRACE TO BE PROTECTED.

Paris, Oct. 7.—Lord Curzon, British secretary for foreign affairs, in a flying visit to Paris, has not only obtained assurances that reports from Mudania that the French representatives there are encouraging the Turks to extend their demands are entirely unfounded, but has secured the approval of M. Poincare to a formula regulating the transfer authority in eastern Thrace which will safeguard the Christian minority.

The French cabinet has approved the formula which provides that the Greeks shall immediately evacuate eastern Thrace, that allied troops shall undertake to preserve order, that Turkish civilian authorities shall at once replace the Greeks, but that Turkish troops cannot enter the territory until after signature of the peace treaty.

Premier Poincare has sent instruction to this effect to the French representatives at Mudania.

The French premier and British foreign secretary discussed other aspects of the question of peace between Turkey and Greece, and agreed to adhere strictly to the joint note to the Ankara government of September 23. It is affirmed in French circles that the reports that the French representatives at Mudania have been exceeding their instructions and going outside the terms of the allied note were based on a misunderstanding. The result of Lord Curzon's visit has brought a feeling of relief in Paris, though the situation was not taken so seriously here as in London.

Cabinet Approves Agreement.

London, Oct. 7.—The agreement formulated by Premier Poincare and Lord Curzon at Paris was approved by the cabinet council late tonight and will forthwith be communicated to the Mudania conference.

Latest dispatches from Mudania says that the Thracian question is in abeyance at the conference, pending instructions from the allied governments. It probably will be taken up Sunday.

In the meantime, although there seems to be a feeling of relief in both Paris and London, British warlike preparations have not been halted. The battleship Benbow, a sister ship of the Iron Duke, is sailing from Malta for Constantinople tomorrow with several smaller craft, all taking large quantities of arms and ammunition.

According to a semi-official dispatch from Paris, Turkish circles there favor acceptance of the allied decisions respecting Thrace, while other Paris dispatches record "a deep feeling of relief after many alarms."

IMPROVED LIVING STANDARD NEEDED, MRS. FELTON SAYS

WOMAN SENATOR HOPES TO ENCOURAGE PEOPLE TO LIVE CLEANER.

Catersville, Ga., Oct. 4.—"A woman who has lived to be 87 and still retains her optimism over the outlook for human control in America, can not help but realize that it is not so much a question of laws to govern men and women as it is a question of enforcement."

This was the statement of Mrs. W. H. Felton, who has become the first woman United States senator, as she declared at her home here today that she is succeeding the late Senator Thomas E. Watson without exciting herself over such question as the tariff, the bonus and the "fast disappearing" flapper type of girl.

"Good laws and good lawmakers," she continued, "we already have. I shall not strive to win glory in statesmanship. If only I can aid in making men and women live cleaner, sweeter and more wholesome lives, I shall be well satisfied."

"A strong nation is dependent upon its women and the manner in which the women of this country grasp their opportunities will decide most of the great issues of the future. I am thankful for the good laws that we have now, but even more important are the greater laws that society must observe if we are to have a strong citizenry. We must have more thought of the simple, sweet virtues of life, men and women must be good because they want to be good.

"No amount of legislation can make them good," she asserted, "though the future of our nation and of our race depends largely upon it."

"I see a better citizenry coming to America only through efforts to improve our living standards. The working man must have a living wage. He must not be forced too much in competition with unskilled labor from abroad. There must be every encouragement."

Senator Felton declared that the legislation this country most needs today is that gained "at the knees of the mothers of America—laws that are greater than laws."

Motorist, Spare That Chicken!

(From the New York Sun.)

The well known Go Slow. Danger—School Ahead sign so familiar to motorists was apparently the basis for a novel and courteous warning which strikes the eye of automobile drivers approaching a farm on a State highway in the Catskills near Phoenicia. It reads:

Danger!
Chickens Ahead.
Please Drive Slowly.
We Thank You.
The Chickens Thank You.

A Gift.

"I am afraid, doctor," said Mrs. Smith, "that my husband has some terrible mental affliction. Sometimes I talk to him for hours and then discover that he hasn't heard a word."

"That isn't an affliction, madam," was the weary reply. "That's gift."

BORAH ESPOUSES RECOGNITION FOR RUSSIAN SOVIET

IDAHO SENATOR ALSO ADVOCATES RELEASE OF WAR VIOLATORS.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Release of all wartime violators and recognition of the Russian soviet government were advocated by Senator William E. Borah of Idaho Sunday at what was announced as the first of a series of meetings to be held throughout the country in behalf of these two aims.

Senator Borah devoted much time to a discussion of free speech and read a supreme court decision handed down at the close of the civil war defining speech rights. He said the political prisoners were convicted because of their activities in industry rather than sedition. Incidentally he assailed the injunction recently obtained by the government against the striking railway shopcrafts.

At the close of the meeting a resolution was adopted which said in part:

"We demand that President Warren G. Harding immediately release all political prisoners."

RULING ON LIQUOR IS EXTENDED FOR IN-COMING SHIPS

DAUGHERTY SETS OCTOBER 14 AS DATE FOR ENFORCEMENT.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Foreign and American vessels sailing for the United States after October 14, next will be subject to the prohibition against the bringing of intoxicating liquors into American territorial waters, it was announced tonight at the treasury department.

Decision to defer in the case of these craft the enforcement of Attorney General Daugherty's ruling with respect to the prohibition of the transportation of liquor cargoes or stores was made by President Harding. The executive in a letter to Secretary Mellon said any early attempt at enforcement in the absence of the due notice and ample regulations would be inconsistent with just dealing and have a tendency to disrupt needlessly the ways of commerce.

"This delay in enforcement does not apply to the sale of intoxicating liquor on vessels sailing under the American flag," the president said. Immediate cessation of such sales was ordered Saturday by Mr. Harding after the attorney general's ruling had been presented to him.

Masters of shipping board vessels were ordered by Chairman Lasker to remove and surrender to treasury officials all intoxicating liquors aboard such ships. The order became effective immediately as to ships in their home ports and will be made effective on those at sea and in foreign ports upon their arrival in the United States.

A formal notice to foreign steamship lines and to lines operating privately owned American craft of the application of the prohibition amendment and enforcement act to carriers entering American waters probably will be given early next week.

Meantime, internal revenue commissioner Blair is having formulated the necessary regulations to enforce the law with respect to foreign and privately owned American craft.

PROCEEDINGS IN DISTRICT COURT

The fall term of the Houston county district court convened in regular session Monday morning, District Judge Bishop presiding and all other members of the court being present.

The grand jury was empaneled as follows: J. M. Murray, W. G. Creath, W. H. Holcomb, Oran Riats, W. M. Bumgarner, G. Q. King, B. A. Speer, Sid Johnson, A. H. Holly, H. B. Brown, J. W. Bennett and N. O. Slay. Sid Johnson was appointed as foreman and Mattie Satterwhite as door bailiff. Riding bailiffs were appointed as follows: S. W. Tigner, Houston Betts, W. J. Townsend, W. N. Anderson, J. A. Harrell, Arthur Holcomb, John Sims and W. N. Ferguson.

Following the usual charge and instructions from the judge, the grand jury retired to enter upon its deliberations.

This week will be taken up in district court by non-jury civil cases, including divorces. Next week will be given over to the trial of civil cases with and without juries. On Monday of the third week all ordinary felony and criminal cases not specifically set for some other date will be on call. Witnesses in such cases and witnesses in cases continued from the last term of court should be on hand promptly at the beginning of the third week of the court, unless summoned for some other specific date, as it is desired to clear the docket as near as possible, District Attorney Dent announced, and in which announcement District Judge Bishop concurred.

The more important criminal cases had not been set for trial on Tuesday of this week, as shown by the docket, but will likely be set this week.

Watch the Dog.

Rabies in dogs is usually first manifested by a change of disposition. The brute becomes morose and sullen, or irritable and snappish. Occasionally a dog becomes extra affectionate. The voice of the beast changes, for the bark may vary from a hoarse whine to a hoarser howl. The animal is easily startled by noises when in the somnolent stage. The dog refuses its customary food and swallows sticks, straws, stones and pieces of coal. Salivation increases and swallowing becomes difficult. In the two types affecting the dog, paralytic or dumb rabies has a short period of excitation, but death does not ensue before the fifth day or possibly later. When deglutition becomes difficult in the first period of this stage, many persons believe that an obstruction in the throat of the beast exists. In endeavoring to remove the same with their fingers persons are apt to be bitten, as the jaws may close spasmodically when the oesophagus is irritated by the touch. Again abrasions on the fingers may invite infection by contact with the saliva.

In the furious type of rabies the dog runs away from his home, rushing madly hither and thither, snapping at every object in its way and biting animals and humans. Then after the furious stage has run its course convulsions set in, or the paralytic form supervenes. This usually commences in the hind legs, and the brute crawls forward on its front limbs, dragging the rear of the body along the ground. The dog in this state is vicious and snaps at everything, until the jaws become partly locked by paralysis. Death after the furious stage may come within the week or sooner.

BELIEVE BANKS WANT GOLD IN CIRCULATION

Commodity Markets Have Acted Normally, With Wool, Silk and Cotton Strong.

New York, Oct. 1.—At my request checks for comparatively large amounts on fourteen of the more important New York banks and trust companies were cashed last week. "Twenties" and "fifties" were asked for, but the currency in which payment was desired was not otherwise specified. Against these checks the payees received an average of about 60 per cent in gold certificates, or "yellowbacks."

These "yellowbacks," as is generally known, are receipts certifying that the equivalent in gold has been deposited with the United States treasury and is payable to the bearer on demand. I arranged to have the checks cashed to ascertain whether there was any basis for the report that the banks were making an effort to get gold into circulation. The result seems to indicate that such an effort is being made.

Incidentally, it may be observed that if we ceased to import gold and the banks succeeded in forcing any considerable amount of their holdings into circulation, the resulting reduction in reserves would be reflected in higher interest rates and a decline in the price of bonds and those dividend-paying securities that fluctuate in inverse relation to the money market.

Liberties Below Par.

Coming events sometimes cast their shadows before, and it may be that the decline in liberty bonds and other high-class obligations is due to the selling of some longheaded financiers who foresee "tighter money" sooner than is generally expected. Meantime, all the liberty 4½ per cent issues are again below par, and the enormous transactions recorded during the week indicate that some very large holdings have been disposed of.

These considerations and the expectation that Secretary Mellon will shortly undertake some very important refunding operations that will temporarily tie up much capital lead me to feel that for the present at least any further advance in the security market is unlikely.

Special stocks may be put up for special reasons, but commercial loans are gradually increasing and bankers probably foresee a further demand for money from merchants that would make it difficult to finance a concurrent boom in stocks.

As to our domestic trade in merchandise, all the indications continue favorable. Some hesitancy has, however, been induced by the apparent truculence of Kemal and the fear that he may compel Great Britain to resort to force or attract the support of the Russian soviet army. The news from Constantinople and Asia Minor may, in fact, be interpreted according to taste. No one really understands its import or can foresee the future. Most thoughtful Americans are disposed to be cautiously confident of peace, although we are so isolated that the outcome will not make much difference to us and our export trade.

Commodities Normal.

But when we consider our own tariff bill and the impoverishment of Europe, it becomes a question of whether we can expect much trans-Atlantic export trade in any event. Three of the largest American life insurance companies have announced their withdrawal from all Europe, except England, and our financial and commercial relationship with the territory thus abandoned are likely to become more and more tenuous pending the re-establishment of fiscal and political order.

This is why I doubt whether business in the United States would be much shocked by an actual outbreak of hostilities abroad. From the standpoint of the humanitarian, such a contingency is horrible to contemplate, but it would not much affect our trade on this side of the Atlantic or with China and Japan.

Considered in detail, the commodity markets have acted normally. Wheat advanced when the dogs of war came nearer and declined as they retired. But, on the whole, the wheat market seems to be intrinsically stronger. Cotton reversed the action of wheat, as it always does when war threatens, but with the South selling about 50,000 bales a day at an average of $100 a bale and thereby strengthening its cash position at the rate of $30,000,000 a week, an advance was hardly to have been expected. After a few weeks of this, the cotton planters will be able to hold the rest of the crop comfortably and this is what they threaten. Meantime, the American spinners seem wisely disposed to buy freely, as the market approaches 20c, below which it is unlikely to go at present.

AN EXAGGERATED IDEA OF HONOR

The recent tragic death of a young engineering student in Vienna shows to what the exaggerated code of honor still upheld in some Continental countries is liable to lead to, remarks the Vienna correspondent of the Times.

A few weeks ago the police raided the rooms of the Saxonia Students' association and prevented a duel which was about to take place between two of its members. The duel was no ordinary "mensur" bout, but a serious encounter which was to settle an affair of honor. The quarrel, it was stated, had arisen over a lady. One of the barked duellists, a doctor's son, took the affair very much to heart. The fact that he was unable to give his opponent satisfaction preyed on his mind to such an extent that he decided to take his own life. He wrote letters to his father and his fiancée telling them of his intention, then locked himself in his room and shot himself.

PARIS BELIEVES DANGER POINT IN NEAR EAST PAST

KEMAL IS PRAISED FOR SHOWING CONCILIATORY ATTITUDE.

Paris, Oct. 1.—The general feeling in Paris Sunday night is that the danger point in the Near East situation is past. The withdrawal of the Turks from Eren Keui and, as semi-officially reported, also from their positions at Chanak, is accepted as proof of the Angora government's readiness to comply with the allied desires.

It is explained here that there will be two conferences at Mudania, the first between General Harington, the British commander, and Mustapha Kemal or his representative alone. This is to settle the question regarding the neutral zone on the Asia Minor side of the straits. The second will be quite a distinct conference and will draw up a provisional statute for Thrace, the allied and Turkish generals being present.

Great Britain is given credit in French official quarters with having held a dignified and firm attitude, which has greatly contributed to the solution of the difficulty. At the same time, Mustapha Kemal is praised for having shown a conciliatory attitude, which, it is hoped, the British will not overlook, as the Kemalists will not evacuate the neutral zone first. French officials are anxious that Great Britain will find a means to satisfy Turkish public opinion. The text of Mustapha Kemal's reply to the allied joint note of September 23, was made public Sunday night by the foreign office.

The reply is dated September 29 and promises immediately to stop the military operations which have been developing toward Constantinople and Chanak "in pursuit of the Greek armies." It accepts the proposal for an armistice conference at Mudania next Tuesday with representatives of the entente and nominates General Ismid Pasha to act for the Turks.

Dealing with Thrace, the reply is worded with marked firmness. It credits the entente with sentiments of justice toward Turkey, but demands that Thrace shall not be left one day longer under the Greek army, saying that it is indispensable that Thrace shall be evacuated immediately and restored to the Angora government up to the west of the Maritza river including Adrianople.

The note, which is signed by Yussif Kemal, minister of foreign affairs, begins by saying that a formal reply to the entente's note will be sent in a few days by his government.

"Confident in the assurances which M. Franklin Bouillon has given the commander-in-chief of the Turkish armies in accord with the representatives of the entente powers meeting in Paris, and persuaded that negotiations will at once be proceeded with to establish a just peace," the note continues, "an order has been given to stop immediately our military movements which have been unceasingly developing in the direction of Constantinople and Chanak Kales in pursuit of the Greek armies."

"The assurances given by M. Franklin Bouillon have established the sentiments of justice with which the preparations of the entente are truly inspired, with a view of assuring the rights of Turkey. Nevertheless, as the maintenance of Thrace, if only for a day more, under the administration and occupation of the Greek army is a cause of danger of every kind and grief to Turkey's people, it is indispensable that Thrace to the west of Maritza river, with Adrianople, be evacuated immediately and restored urgently to the government of the great national assembly of Turkey."

The reply, in conclusion, accepts Mudania for a conference on October 3, and names Ismet Pasha, commander of armies on the western front, as Turkish representative and asks to be informed as to the names of the generals representing the entente powers.

According to the Havas correspondent, states that the Greek authorities in Thrace have discovered a plot fomented by Kemal emissaries. The Kemalists are charged with stirring up the Turkish inhabitants against the Greek officials and distributing arms and bombs. A number of arrests have been made by the Greeks and a quantity of munitions has been seized.

SIX KILLED WHEN GIANT PLANE FALLS

Mineola, N. Y., Sept. 23.—First Lieutenant Raymond E. Davis, U. S. A., air service, and five enlisted men were killed when a huge Martin bombing plane crashed to earth at Mitchell field late tonight.

The enlisted men killed were First Sergeant Thomas Benfield, Corporal David H. Stiven and Privates Edward H. Kane, Henry Ray Nichols and Irving M. Whitney, all stationed at Mitchell field.

A report of the accident as given out several hours later by the adjutant's office at the field said that the plane had been inspected shortly before leaving the field and that the cause of the fatal accident "probably would not be known."

"Soon after leaving the field," the report said, "the plane passed out of the rays of the huge searchlights which had been arranged and used in the night air maneuvers; the plane approached a steep angle and then suddenly went into a nose dive."

"There were no lights on the plane as it fell. The crash occurred some distance from the field."

Seldom has an aerial accident at night happened in such a thoroughly illuminated setting and before such a huge crowd of spectators.

INCOMING LINERS FIRST TO FEEL EFFECTS OF LIQUOR RULING.

New York, Oct. 7.—There was the usual "moaning of the bar" upon liners putting out to sea today, despite Attorney General Daugherty's ruling on high seas liquor and the announcement of Chairman Lasker at Washington that all shipping board craft had been ordered to travel dry.

Incoming vessels were first to feel the effects of the attorney general's ruling. On arriving in port each vessel, irrespective of the flag she flew, was boarded by customs officials, who locked and sealed up all bars, liquor stores and even the private supplies of ships' officers and seamen.

Confronted by the possibility of a parched voyage across the Atlantic, a score of passengers scheduled for the shipping board craft America threatened to leave the ship at the last minute. Only when officers of the United American line, who manage the vessel, assured the thirsty ones that "in the absence of definite instructions from Washington the bars would be open as usual" was the ship able to depart with her full sailing list.

The Majestic, mastodon of the seas, likewise without interference from customs authorities with her $10,000 supply of liquor is ready for the expected onslaught beyond the three-mile limit. White Star line chiefs declined to discuss Mr. Daugherty's ruling, except to say "it apparently wouldn't hit the Majestic this time."

Orders to turn the spigots and seal the casks were received by radio aboard the North German Lloyd ship Hanover, while she still was some distance out, according to passengers. Not understanding the orders, the ship officials closed the bars long before the three-mile limit was reached.

The general opinion of local steamship men and experts in admiralty law was that Attorney General Daugherty's position was backed by numerous precedents, some dating back more than 100 years. In some quarters the belief was expressed that by prohibiting all ships from bringing liquor into American ports, shipping board craft would be placed upon a more even competitive basis with foreign owned vessels.

Transatlantic passengers will shun dry voyages, however, was the opinion of other shipping men and may result in some of the big foreign companies docking at Canadian ports instead of those of the United States. Still others declared it would be possible for large ships, such as the Majestic and Mauretania to establish regular "booze lighters" outside the three-mile zone, where they would leave supplies on entering and pick them up on sailing away.

It was also pointed out that America would in no case be able to prevent ships bringing liquor from Europe, as long as supplies were disposed of before they touched the three-mile line.

That shipping board craft would be at some disadvantage under the new ruling was indicated in a statement issued by the American Steamship Operators' association, which declares that "even with its inclusion of foreign ships entering our waters, it adds a further handicap to American steamers in the foreign trade."

REGULATED CONSCIENCE BY LAW.

It is hard to regulate a person's conscience by law. As long as this writer can remember there has been argument as to the best methods of maintaining party fealty. Before we had any law regulating primary elections voters by resolutions and otherwise pledged those participating in primary conventions to support the nominees of said conventions. But no party was ever strong enough to hold the voter who did not desire to be held. All such laws should be repealed, and the whole question left to the conscience of the voter. It is impossible to legislate party fealty into the average American citizen. It never has been done; it never will be done. Most men who participate in a primary or any other method of nominating men for office feel morally bound, without any pledge, to support the nominees and no law can force those who make up their minds to bolt. It seems that men of the highest moral conception of right and wrong will violate at will all party obligations when they think it is to the best interests of their country to do so. Mr. Wilson, history says, put all party pledges behind him and voted against Bryan, and thousands of others did the same thing. If a man is bent on maintaining his party organization he generally votes for the nominees of the party machinery, law or no law. But there are thousands of Americans who do not care a cent about party machinery. If all the people who voted for Harding were to vote for him at the next election it certainly would be worse than foolish for the Democrats to name a ticket. It has been the shifting from one party to another that has elected the only democratic presidents since the civil war. The only hope the democrats have of ever electing another president is that the republicans will desert their party. But those who do not expect to be bound by the democratic pledge are doing violence to good faith, and they should have remained out of the primary, unless something develops in the character of the nominees not known at the time of the election. ***

The whole world is short on cotton, but why should the world pay a big price for it when Liverpool and New York and fix the price? And it should be said once for all time that Europe and New England will never pay the value of cotton until the South has cotton mills sufficient to manufacture a good majority of cotton produced. And never will that time come as long as the cotton producers are mortgaged to somebody for supplies to produce it. ***

A school teacher writes in to know if "athletics" are singular or plural. Athletics are plural, and the reason why athletics are plural is simply because they are not of the singular number. Even Prof. Woodrow Wilson, who uses the United States in the singular number uses athletics in the plural number. Athletics are paramount now, and the United States say, "go it, boys." ***

THIS IS GOOD READING.

Congressman Smith of Idaho used the following splendid matter in a speech a few days ago:

"The necessity of rural life and the cultivation of the soil, in the growth and welfare of a nation, have been often voiced by far-seeing men, and we quote from a recent article by O. C. Stine, Office of Farm Management, United States Department of Agriculture:

"Webster said: 'Let us never forget that the cultivation of the earth is the most important labor of man.' By the demoralization of rural life Greece was deprived of the means of rejuvenating her city life. The farmers constituted the most prolific portion of her population, but the Hellenic element was almost entirely removed from the farms. In the city the population declined in virility. Polybius tells us that in his time Greece was suffering childlessness and general depopulation, the cities were becoming deserted, and the fields were not yielding though they had known neither war nor plague. The people became greedy idlers. They did not care any longer to marry; if they did marry they did not care to bring up more than one or two children that they might inherit the individual fortune of their parents. The leading cities of Greece became absolutely dependent upon foreign supplies for food. Cato thought highly of a man engaged in commerce, but he says: 'It is from the tillage of the soil that springs the best citizens and staunchest soldiers.' Varro, in his introduction to a book on livestock husbandry, writes: 'Those great men, our ancestors, did well to esteem the Romans who lived in the country above those who dwelt in town.' When the barbarians from the north invaded Rome they found but a feeble resistance from the State which was dying of dry rot through the disintegration of its agricultural life. The dawn of our modern civilization came with the revival of commerce from the surplus of the products of a reorganized agriculture. Macaulay, writing to an American correspondent 50 years ago, points out in a striking way the problems that would be faced by this country when our free land was exhausted. He says: 'As long as you have a boundless extent of fertile and unoccupied land your laboring population will be found more at ease than the laboring population of the Old World; but the time will come when wages will be as low and will fluctuate as much with you as they do with us. Then your institutions will be brought to the test. Distress everywhere makes the laborers mutinous and discontented and inclines them to listen with eagerness to agitators who tell them that its monstrous iniquity that one man should have a million and another can not get a full meal. The day will come when multitudes of people, none of whom fast or expect to have more than half a dinner, will choose a legislature. Is it possible to doubt what sort of legislature will be chosen? There will be, I fear, spoliation. Either civilization or liberty will perish. Either some Caesar or Napoleon will seize the reins of government with a strong hand, or your Republic will be as fearfully plundered and laid waste by barbarians in the twentieth century as the Roman Empire in the fifth.' The importance of the country as a training ground for citizens can not be overestimated. Former President Roosevelt has said: 'If there is one lesson taught by history it is that the permanent greatness of any State must ultimately depend upon the character of its country population than upon anything else. No growth of cities, no growth of wealth, can make up for a loss in either the number or character of the farming population.'

UP TO THE PRESS.

"The newspapers ought to quit publishing so much scandal."

You can hear such remarks any day in the year, and from highly intelligent people.

But we disagree. They do not stop to think.

Unfortunately, we have reached the point in this country where but little respect is shown for our laws, because the laws are indifferently enforced, or not enforced at all.

Certain people can evade them with ease. Others, less fortunate, must pay the penalty.

Occasionally there is a notable exception to this rule, but only occasionally. It is for this reason we are losing our respect for law and its manner of enforcement.

But it is different with the great newspapers of the country—and also with the smaller ones. They tell the truth as they find it. The man of great wealth who forgets his manhood is as pitilessly exposed as the one without a dollar—perhaps more so.

This pitiless publicity of the press is the one safeguard that stands between respectability and a reign of debauchery that would rival the days of Sodom and Gomorrah.

There are millions of pure and high minded people in this country, but there are other millions who reek with clandestine infamy.

Some agency must keep this debauched element in check for the welfare of society in general.

The press, through its publicity, is meeting with a reasonable degree of success, where the law is but a dismal failure.

Think before you criticize.—Exchange.

MEN.

It is often said of this or that man that he is a self-made man—that he was born of the poorest and humblest parents, and that with every obstacle to overcome he became great. This is a mistake. Poverty is generally an advantage. Most of the intellectual giants of the world have been nursed at the sad but loving breast of poverty.

Most of those who have climbed highest on the shining ladder of fame, commenced at the lowest round. They were reared in the straw thatched cottages of Europe; in the log houses of America; in the factories of the great cities; in the midst of toil; in the smoke and din of labor.—Ingersoll.

My life was ever destined to be quite happy. It was laid along lines which I could not foresee, almost from earliest childhood. It has left me with nothing to hope for. Inherited wealth is a big handicap to happiness. It is as certain death to ambition as cocaine is to morality. If a man makes money, no matter how much, he finds a certain happiness in its possession, for in the desire to increase his business he has a constant use for it. But the man who inherits it has none of this. The first satisfaction and the greatest, that of building the foundation of a fortune, is denied him. He must labor, if he does labor, simply to add to an over-sufficiency.—William K. Vanderbilt.

About the only way to prevent wars is for every nation not involved to refuse to lend money or sell supplies to the combatants. But what country has ever been known to sidetrack a lot of fat war contracts?

Here's a case of hard luck. A young man who biffed a ball player with a pop bottle gave his victim a lot of sympathetic notoriety, but failed to get his own name in the newspapers.

If the advocates of impartial law enforcement will stand up and be counted we fear the result will be nothing. Everybody wants himself to be exempt.

STANDS BY THE OATH.

From the Dallas Times Herald: Democrats of Texas should stand by the oath solemnly delivered in the primaries. The oath declares:

"I am a white democrat, and pledge myself to support the nominee of this primary."

It is simple. It is short. It is unequivocal.

Earle B. Mayfield is the nominee of the run-off primary, and every man who calls himself a democrat is morally bound to support Earle B. Mayfield.

Earle B. Mayfield won fairly. He led in the first primary.

He defeated James E. Ferguson in the second primary.

His political opponents had two chances to defeat him. They failed twice. Now by what right do they feverishly seek a coalition of the political butchers, bakers and candlestick makers to heave at him again?

As for us, we stand by the oath of the primaries, and we expect an overwhelming majority of the democrats of Texas to do the same thing.

FLIVERLESS STUDENTS.

The Athens Review says: "President Bizzell of A. and M. has ruled that no student may have an automobile during the forthcoming session. Prexy no doubt contrasts his action with the days when he rode a mule to school." In after years, yes in ten years. The young men of Texas who will be the farmers, bankers, engineers, educators, stockmen and business men of their generation will rise up and declare that President Bizzell is the greatest educator of Texas and one of the foremost of the nation. He has by that order at A. and M. College set a precedent that will be far reaching and one of the greatest forces in the nation of making real stalwart educated citizens.—Bryan Eagle.

A stay-at-home married lady with four children says her husband doesn't care for her any more and spends most of his time at night away from home. She wants to know what she should do. Our advice would be about this: Straighten up and make it snappy. Put on just the right amount of powder and paint, and let the old scout come home and find you all dolled up in a pretty, clinging frock with rosettes of blue and pink peeping through, and all-the-way silk stockings flashing above your sport slippers. Sit him down to a dandy good meal and stand behind him and comb your fingers through his hair while he feeds. Then if he doesn't slobber over you like a suckling calf give him a whaling big dose of strychnine.—Alto Herald.

DIG OUT OF DEBT AND STAY OUT.

Big business and little business—manufacturing and farming—all were out on the end of a long pole when the slump came. One who was not deeply in debt in 1919 was considered a "piker." Borrowing and buying on credit were quite the style during the first half of 1920.

During all of that period, I kept urging the folk to cash in and clean up—to get out of debt and stay out. But I was quite lonesome. Some of my friends got after me because I didn't join in the popular movement and urge farmers to hold their wheat and cotton for higher prices.

I have never felt that I could foretell the course of the markets. The only conclusion which I felt sound is that when prices of wheat and cotton are very high, they are likely to drop. And if one has produced enough stuff to pay a lot of debts at present prices, it is good business to sell it, pay up, and stop the interest.

Necessity during the last two years has compelled all of us to retrench and bring our operations within our ability to manage them. The best news I have heard lately is that the demand from farmers for loans on their land is very light. That's an indication that farmers generally have gotten their operations down to the solid basis of their own capital and labor. On that basis, they may not get rich but they will not go "busted."—Oklahoma Farmer.

Fewer Hairnets Worn in America and Europe.

Chefoo, Province of Shantung, China.—Women in America and Europe are using fewer hair nets than heretofore, if the fall in the market here is a criterion. The making of hair nets is one of Shantung's chief industries. More than 70,000 persons are employed in the 270 factories in weaving into hairnets hair obtained from "pigtailed" discarded by Chinese.

Since the republic was established there has been a surplus of hair because many Chinese cut off their queues which the Manchus required to be worn as badges of subjugation. The black Chinese hair is easily dyed to the various shades of brown, blonde and brunette desired by western women. Recently the demand has fallen off and many hair net makers are unemployed. About 70 factories were closed within a week. The industry is described as unpromising. The Chinese merchants are wondering whether western women are no longer using hair nets because they are bobbing their hair or whether Europeans are becoming competitors in the trade.

INDIAN SCHOOLS SHOULD BE HIGHER, SAYS DR. HIGLEY

URGES CARRYING NATIVES FARTHER ALONG CIVILIZED WAYS.

Chicago.—The greatest defect in the present Indian educational program is that it does not carry the Indian far enough along civilized ways, is the opinion of Dr. Elmer E. Higley, Chicago, superintendent of Indian work of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"Our schools for Indian children do not take them far enough," he said. "Open for them the high schools, afford them the opportunity for college training and the problem of 'going back to the blanket' will be solved. It is estimated that not 3 per cent of those receiving high school education ever go back to their native customs."

"Many object to the evangelizing of the Indian because of sentimental reasons. 'The Indian in his primitive condition is so picturesque,' they say. 'Leave him alone against the background of his colorful paganism and his untutored savagery.' 'Certain Indians have resented the intrusion of the white man's religion. The cause of this resentment has not been so much in the intuitive desire to hold to pagan rites as it has been from hatred engendered by cruelties and injustices which the red men have suffered at the hands of their white brothers.

"The Indian's earlier contact with white men and the Christian religion was unfortunate. His opinions were based largely upon what he saw of the borders of our civilization. To these borders came the white traders, usually a class having no scruples against taking advantage of the red man.

"The false impression has been and is now rapidly undergoing change. The educated among them especially are recognizing its superior merit. They know the old faiths are false and now are asking for preachers and teachers to direct them the way of the 'Jesus road'."

This case was transferred from Harris county, where Russell was convicted and given a death sentence, for retrial in Houston county. Russell's wife, a sister of Crow, had secured a divorce from Russell when he shot and killed Crow in the Harris county court house. Russell is now in the Houston county jail.

First Honors in Agriculture.

Hoyt Kelley of the Belot community and Jim McCarter of the Grounds community left Sunday on No. 4 for the Boys' Club encampment at the Dallas fair. These boys were the successful contenders for the free scholarship given away by the State Fair of Texas. Hoyt Kelley won first in cotton by producing 1100 pounds of seed cotton on one acre of ground, which brought him $95.00, and after allowing himself and team $3.00 per day and $1.50 per day for himself for cultivation, he cleared $75.00 on his one acre. Jim McCarter won first in corn, his having been judged the best acre of corn.

All farm boys and girls of Texas who are members of any of the clubs organized by the extension service of the A. & M. College of Texas, in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, are eligible to compete for scholarship. One boy is chosen for each 60 members enrolled in a county.

County Agent R. R. Morrison reports that there was some very close competition for these scholarships this year, as many of the club boys made a very creditable showing.

quirements of the examination can be secured from the postmaster at the place of vacancy or the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

SOME NEWS OF THE CROCKETT OIL FIELD

Mr. George L. Porter of the Porter Oil Company, operators of the Austin No. 2 well at Crockett, left last week to close up some unfinished business at other points and to complete arrangements for the final test of the Austin No. 2 well. He will not resume drilling in the Crockett well until his arrangements for the final test are complete, which it is hoped will be at an early date.

The drill in the Driskell well has just penetrated 20 feet of Austin chalk at a depth of 2500 feet. Col. T. E. Otis, the operator, says the indications are of the most encouraging nature and that all formations are similar to those encountered in real oil fields.

The Weldon well has resumed drilling and is around 2000 feet, the Courier was informed by Mr. W. H. Mangum of Weldon Monday. Mr. A. B. Mulligan of Porter Springs informed the Courier Tuesday that drilling is to be resumed in the Porter Springs well this week, probably Thursday.

The Grapeland-derrick remains inactive.

AVERAGES 116.65 MILES AN HOUR

Detroit, Oct. 8.—Lieutenant A. W. Gorton, United States navy, won the Curtiss marine flying trophy race here today with an average flying speed for the eight 20-mile laps, of 112.65 miles an hour. Eight planes piloted by aviators of the navy and marine corps started.

Lieutenant T. A. Elliott of the navy won second place. Lieutenant L. P. Sanderson of the marine corps won the prize for the best average speed in the air.

Lieutenant Sanderson had the race won until a mile from the finish line on his last lap when he was forced to land with an empty gasoline tank. His average speed in the air was 125 1/4 miles an hour. He piloted a Curtiss 18-T triplane.

Gorton, winner of the trophy, and who was the only one to finish the race except Lieutenant Elliott, piloted a navy TR-1 seaplane, powered with a 220-horsepower Lawrence radial air cooled motor.

Lieutenant Elliott's average speed was 109 miles and hour. Of the six planes that failed to finish the race, two were damaged in forced landings.

OPPOSE AMENDING THE CONSTITUTION

New York, Oct. 8.—The National Security league will wage a nationwide campaign against the movement to amend the constitution of the United States so as to permit congress to pass upon decisions of the supreme court, the executive committee of the league announced today.

"The most dangerously destructive doctrine that has been voiced in America since the birth of bolshevism," said a statement from the executive committee, speaking of the movement, and outlining the plan to wage an active fight against all who declare themselves in favor of submitting the proposed amendment to the State legislatures.

A GLORIOUS AGE.

In 1827 the School Board at Lancaster, Ohio, was asked for the use of the school house to hold a debate upon the question, "Are railroads practical or not?" They replied as follows:

"You are welcome to use the school house to debate all proper questions in, but such things as railroads and telegraphs are impossibilities. * * * If God had designed that His intelligent creatures should travel at the frightful speed of fifteen miles an hour, propelled by steam, He would have foretold it through His holy prophets. It is a device of Satan to lead immortal souls to hell."

Now we are being propelled at fifty, sixty, and even more than a hundred miles an hour, on the ground, through the water and in the air. The compunctions of the Lancaster Board sound crazy now, but they were, at that time, the sober opinions of the town's best people.

We are becoming used to progress now. Edison proposes communication with spirits and retains a reputation for wisdom. Marconi promises communication with other planets, and do we laugh; we think he may be right. Today we hardly dare use the expression, "It can't be done."

We are just beginning—just seeing a little light. When we consider that science, in spite of all its discoveries, is only beginning to learn the great secrets of Nature, we readily can see that discovery is only in its infancy. Our present growth is just a start toward the fields, ahead hidden by the future.

50,000 POUNDS HAIR ARRIVES

S. S. Luckenbach In Port With Cargo of Queues For Textile Mills.

Houston, Sept. 24.—Fifty thousand pounds of Chinese hair, clipped from the heads of several hundred thousand coolies over a half dozen provinces of China, arrived in Port Houston Saturday aboard the steamship Hattie Luckenbach. The hair was consigned to the Oriental Textile Mills, the plant of which is located in Houston Heights.

The baled queues were shipped originally from Shanghai, but additions to the consignment were made at Tien Tsin and Hankow. It was unloaded at San Francisco, from which port it was trans-shipped to Houston.

Each bale weighs 500 pounds and so securely are they packed that not a hair is loosened in transit, according to Garvin Radford, manager of the textile concern. He said that formerly pressed cloth was made from camels' hair, but that with the edict five years ago of the Chinese government, ordering all subjects of the Celestial kingdom to cut off their hair, the textile industry turned to this product as a substitute.

At the plant in Houston Heights the bales are run through live steam, then sent to a carding machine and on to the spinning rooms. Two kinds of weaves are made there, one a twill, or diagonal weave; the other, a straight weave.

In the last fortnight the Oriental company has received 100,000 pounds of the hair, Mr. Radford said. Other shipments now en route to Houston from China total 350,000 pounds, he said.

DRY LAW SLEUTHS MAKE WATERHAUL

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 8.—Veteran officers today declared the raid of a whiskey still late last night netted the largest capture ever made in Dallas county. The officers confiscated 275 gallons of red whiskey and 30 gallons of white corn whiskey, destroyed more than 3,000 gallons of corn and rye mash, and confiscated a gaint still that is declared to surpass all others ever seen in Dallas county for size and construction.

The raid was in a barn on Five Mile creek, five miles south of Oak Cliff.

Ninety dozen half gallon fruit jars, all new and not yet unloaded from a three-ton truck, also were seized.

Two men and a woman were arrested and placed in the county jail.

The six deputies, in charge, reported that after they found the still and mash they located the 30 gallons of white whiskey, which they destroyed, thinking this all the liquor. After looking around the barn a few minutes, they said, they began digging into a large shed of hay, partly through curiosity, where they unearthed 23 five-gallon kegs and five ten-gallon kegs, all filled with red liquor.
