ARE INVENTORS OF A NEW CHRISTIANITY

Editor Courier:

I left off my discussion last week of church matters in speaking about the Modernists denying the divinity of Christ. Some say they believe he is divine like all other persons are divine, have something of divinity about them. But our church people of the various denominations who are sound in the faith believe that Jesus was God, and also mysteriously united with his divine nature a true human body and human soul.

The Modernists claim not to believe much in a creed—and they show their disregard for creed by departing in their teachings from what they have solemnly promised to believe and teach. But a part of their creed that will bob out and show itself is not to believe in the miracles the Bible tells of. The Bible is so full of statements about the miracles of our Savior and of the prophets and apostles that the Modernists can only reconcile this item of their creed by claiming that the Bible statements about miracles are not inspired, and so we are not bound to believe them when they are so contrary to science and reason. So if we follow these Modernists we must give up a large part of our Bibles, and bring our Savior down to the level of a man, no more able to work miracles than other men. But I am thankful that we are not bound to follow these Modernists. My little knowledge of science and reason does not require me to throw away belief in the miracles recorded in the Bible. My reason teaches me that the God I serve, who is great enough to have created the universe and control it, is great enough to work miracles, and this is just what I would expect of such a great being. If our Savior is God, I see no difficulty in believing that he raised the dead and did many other wonderful things. The Jesus that has worked such a wonderful change in the religious history of the world for twenty centuries, in my judgment could and would have worked the miracles that the Bible reports him to have worked. In fact, it is easier for me to believe this than to believe that he did not work miracles. His greatest miracle was his own resurrection. The Modernists are so constituted in their skeptical frame of mind that they say they cannot believe Christ arose from the dead. Anyhow the Bible is full of statements claiming he did rise from the dead. These statements are so strong and clear that I cannot doubt them. In fact, it is easier for me to believe the writers of the Bible were inspired and told the truth than it is to believe that these Modernists have in their advanced science and scholarship invented a new Christianity that virtually throws away three-fourths of our good, old-fashioned Bibles. And the wonderful thing is that these new creed men, who do not believe in any creed and claim liberty to believe as they please, regardless of what the Bible teaches—that they still claim to be Christians. It would be more consistent for them to line up with Ingersoll and other infidels. Another wonder is that such men as Spurgeon, Woodrow Wilson, Harding, Gladstone, Sir Isaac Newton, Jonathan Edwards and other intellectual giants were such fools that they could not invent this new-fashioned Christianity. S. F. Tenney.

CROCKETT AWARDED GOOD FIRE RECORD

The state fire insurance commission has awarded Crockett a credit of 15 per cent to be deducted on all insurance policies written on and after March 1, this year. This reduction is secured on Crockett's good fire record. A statement showing that the loss ratio of Crockett for the years 1921, 1922 and 1923 is .204 has been filed with and approved by the state fire insurance commission. Under the provisions for credit for good fire record, Crockett is awarded the credit of 15 per cent. Efforts by Crockett citizens are being made to secure further reductions. This credit for a good fire record, while applying on all policies written on and after March 1, 1924, will not apply on policies written on and after that date in 1925.

Afraid They'll Prove It.

A Courier subscriber who lives far from town, but who nevertheless sees the amusing side of things, called to renew his subscription and to ask how "evolution is getting along?" After expressing his belief in a free country, he asked if by evolution it was meant that humanity evolved from monkeydom? The editor, frantically assuming an air of great wisdom, gave assurance that it was something like that. Our subscriber then expressed himself as believing that every man who believes that his ancestry sprang from the monkey or bear should be permitted to do so, but as for himself he held no such views. He further said, without wishing to give offense to anybody's views, as he expressed himself, that judging by the fuss that is being made, the evolutionists must be afraid "they are going to prove it on 'em!"

Hearing on Highway.

Monday, March 17, is the day set by the state highway commission for a hearing at Austin on the application of citizens of Groveton, Pennington, Crockett and intervening points for the creation of a state highway between the places named. Encouragement is given to the applicants by the fact that a date has been set for the hearing, although the commission has announced that it would designate no new highways for the present. It is believed that the designation may be secured on account of all preliminaries for this highway having been arranged before the issuance of the statement by the highway commission as well as on account of the importance of the highway itself.

Raising Good Cattle.

Dan Dear of the Belott community sold in Crockett last week two calves less than a year old each and both weighing 1240 pounds. These calves were sold to Mack McIver at a price satisfactory to Mr. Dear. They were half and half Hereford and Jersey, which Mr. Dear thinks is the best breed of cattle for general purposes.

BEN F. BRIMBERRY FOR TAX ASSESSOR

The Courier has a new announcement this week in the candidacy of Mr. Ben F. Brimberry of Grapeland for tax assessor. Mr. Brimberry hopes to have the opportunity of meeting all the people of Houston county before the primary election to be held in July. His candidacy is subject to the action of the democratic party, as are all the other names appearing in that announcement column. To those who do not know Mr. Brimberry, the Courier will say that he is a man of education and experience, 32 years old and a man of family. He was born and reared on a farm near Grapeland and is still farming. His honesty and integrity are unquestioned, and his candidacy is respectfully submitted for the consideration of the democratic voters of Houston county, with the promise of faithful service if elected.

Paving Progress.

It is expected that the asphalt topping on East Main street will be completed this week and that the concrete base on North LeGory street will be completed also this week. North LeGory street will remain closed to traffic until it receives its topping of asphalt. Work will next begin on East Public avenue, which will be closed to traffic, but East Main street will be opened to traffic as soon as the asphalt topping is completed, which it is said will be at the end of this week.

Barn Burned.

The barn on the farm of Dan Langston, a few miles south of Crockett, burned recently with a loss of about $2000. Besides losing his feed and farm implements, Mr. Langston also lost considerable lumber which he had stored in the barn to be used in building a house. In addition to his loss, Mr. J. D. Woodward suffered a loss of about $600 in implements and other farm supplies stored in Mr. Langston's barn. Mr. Woodward's land adjoins Mr. Langston's.

Two Sanitariums for Crockett.

The Courier hears that the discussion as to the need of a sanitarium in Crockett may result in two sanitariums being established here. While one company is being spoken of to take over one sanitarium site, we hear of another company under process of organization to take over another location in the city. It seems that neither project is yet assured, and for that reason no definite information can now be given as to either project. Whether or not Crockett has two sanitariums, we at least hope it will have one.

Election Carries.

The election held in Crockett Tuesday on the question of a new school house for the negroes and for a school maintenance tax carried by about three to one. On account of the small opposition, voting was light. The vote for the school bonds was 148, against the school bonds 56. For the school maintenance fund the vote was 156, with 43 votes against it. The bonds are to be used in the construction of a brick building for the negroes on a lot bought for that purpose on the Huntsville road or street. The present building and location of the negro school on Arch street will be sold by the Crockett school board. The old wooden building has well served its day and time, but is fast becoming unsafe.

Auditorium Plans Submitted.

New plans for the city auditorium on the Crockett Shakespeare Club lot have been drawn and submitted to the building committee for approval or rejection. The new plans contemplate two business buildings with a wide entrance between, the entrance leading to the main auditorium. The business houses and auditorium entrance will face Public avenue on the south, with entrances also from Church street on the east, the location being at the northwest corner of Public avenue and Church street. The plans are being considered by the building committee and members of the city council.

Crockett Out of the Mud.

Crockett's $250,000 paving program is well advanced. It will crowd five miles when completed. With good roads extending in every direction, Crockett's pavements will become a good investment for its property owners. The spirit of highway improvement, beginning naturally around the court house, will extend to eventually cover the whole of Houston county. County residents outside of Crockett can now come to town and get around to transact business without wading knee-deep in the mud.

SENTENCED TO BE ELECTROCUTED

WIDOW OF SLAIN MAN IS PRESENT AS VERDICT IS ANNOUNCED.

Lufkin, Texas, March 1.—Booker T. Williams, negro, sentenced to death here at 5:15 Saturday afternoon for the murder of Andy Sulser, commissary keeper, was expected to arrive in Houston at 7 a. m. today in charge of Texas rangers. The negro, guarded by the rangers, will be there for a short time before boarding an L-G. N. train for Huntsville. The date of his execution was set for April 4.

Throughout the trial and sentencing of Williams, Mrs. Sulser, widow of the slain man, sat in the court room, dry-eyed, and showing no emotion. The conclusion of the trial ended the most tense period in the city's history.

Sulser was killed Tuesday. Wednesday the negro confessed. That afternoon he was indicted and during the evening a mob formed. It stormed the jail, attempting to take him from Sheriff R. V. Watts, who answered with gunfire, wounding three. For hours hundreds of men milled in the streets, but with the coming of the National Guard, late in the day, and rangers Friday the excitement subsided.

Enters Guilty Plea.

Williams entered a plea of guilty shortly after 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Four hours later he was sentenced to die.

During the entire course of the trial he made only one request. He asked that his body be sent to Keechie, La., for burial.

When sentence was pronounced, through his attorneys, Tom F. Coleman and E. J. Cohn, appointed by the court, he waived his right of two days of grace in order to file a motion for a new trial.

The hearing went on under the protection of State rangers and the militia. None except those having business there were allowed in the court room. But two blocks away a crowd formed that filled the long squares. Back and forth before the throng the soldiers marched to prevent any from breaking over an agreed "dead-line." But at no time was there a demonstration.

When the court had adjourned the crowd broke up and scattered to its members' various occupations. The sentiment seemed to be that the negro got his just deserts and got them in a legal way.

The rangers were in personal command of Adjutant General Thomas D. Barton, and with the sentencing of the negro he said that he would be taken to the penitentiary at once.

The task of choosing a jury began early in the day. Forty-two men were examined before 12 were selected as qualified to sit. But of the 42 only one said he was opposed to capital punishment.

None of His Business.

maintaining the roads in said District, and it appearing to the Court that said petition is in due form and signed by the proper number of qualified voters, said petition is therefore in all things granted.

CROCKETT SHRINERS TO GET INVITATION

Crockett Shriners, members of El Mina Temple, Galveston, each will receive a personal letter within a few days from Charles H. Munnis, illustrious potentate, asking them to be present at a spring ceremonial which will be held on "Treasure Isle" Saturday, March 29, 1924.

Heretofore the potentate has named "ambassadors" in each town, but this plan was considered inferior to inviting every member to be present and to bring a "novice," a Mason anxious to "walk the hot sands."

El Mina's spring class is expected to be one of the largest in its history and special efforts for entertainment are being made by Galveston members.

Although some months away, Galveston Shriners are making big plans for the gathering of Texas Shriners August 4-14, when a mammoth encampment of Texas Shriners will be held on Galveston's famous seawall boulevard.

Crockett Shriners, members of El Mina Temple, are: Edgar C. Arledge, Greer D. McClain, Chas. W. LeGory, Wm. McLean, John LeGory, C. M. Neel, John Markham, Dr. J. S. Wootters and Gail Q. King.

There has been growing in our little city for some time a spirit of rowdiness, and it is fast reaching a time when action must be taken by somebody somewhere to stop the things that destroy property and put in jeopardy the property and lives of the citizens of a community. Some of our youngsters celebrate the coming of the new year by doing injury to property, personal and private; then they celebrate Washington's birthday in like manner, and then they get to celebrating when there is nothing to celebrate. This will eventually mean that some action must be taken to stop the destruction of property. We are for good morals and wholesome entertainment that injures no one, but the limit is reached when the de-

It's the KIND of Feed—NOT the Amount

A WELL fed horse from the standpoint of quality may be in poor condition. This is so because just a monotonous diet of oats or corn with hay fails to keep him in real fine shape.

Dry, tasteless oats are not appetizing and generally only partially digested.

Horses that are fed in the cities in this fashion, and never are turned out on pasture for a few weeks each summer, rapidly lose their strength and vigor. They die much earlier than horses which are given a variety of feed. This is because the animals' bodies demand certain things, which cannot be supplied in oats and corn.

Purina O-Molene has the necessary variety. O-Molene is not only more appetizing than ordinary feeds but it is more digestible. It takes less of O-Molene than the usual grain rations because it is completely balanced and does not have too much of one ingredient and not enough of another.

SOME HINTS TO POULTRY RAISERS

Early spring is nature's favorable growing season. By hatching chicks early they will have the advantage of longer growing period than those hatched late in the spring or summer. Hot weather retards the growth of chicks, and are less liable to resist diseases and insect that naturally appear as the summer advances. Given care and attention, chicks that are hatched in the latter part of February and early March will weigh more, be stronger and more vigorous, and fewer will die from disease than those that are hatched in May. A chick develops rapidly the first four weeks of its life. This means early matured pullets that will lay early in the fall and be broody early the following spring. They will also be laying heavily at Christmas time when the price of eggs are highest. Both cockerels and pullets are ready for early fall shows and fairs.

A nest in which eggs are set to hatch should be carefully prepared. It should be about fourteen inches square and fourteen inches high and located in a nice, quiet place and protected from rains and cold. Thoroughly clean and disinfect with a strong stock dip or some other disinfectant. Cover the bottom with about two inches of clean soil. This will help to hold a more uniform temperature and supply a certain amount of moisture. Round the soil in the center in a nest-like shape, and cover with clear, fresh hay or excelsior.

The hen should be thoroughly content with her nest before the eggs are placed under her. She should be dusted with ten to twelve pinches of sodium fluoride to prevent the lice, then given a day to get settled before placing the eggs under her. After she is established on her nest, do not bother her, but leave her to do her work.

Test eggs the seventh day and remove the infertile eggs. The infertile eggs will be perfectly clear when placed in the light. Fertile eggs will show a dark spot with blood veins radiating in all directions. Also test again the fourteenth day. The live germs will have covered about two-thirds of the egg, and formation of the chick may be seen. Remove eggs with dead germs.

Begin to watch for pips the eighteenth day. White shell eggs will probably hatch before the brown shell eggs. By the end of the twenty-first day all chicks should be out of the shells. When completely dry move from the nest to coop in a basket lined with woolen, and this should be done at night when the chicks are less active, thus preventing them from chilling. Chilling at this stage is very serious.

Baby chicks are made from the white of the egg. Just before the shell is pipped the yolk is taken into the body. This is nature's way of providing nourishment for it until the stomach is strong enough to digest other food. This will require about forty-eight to seventy-two hours. The chick should not be fed until the close of this time. A safe plan is to feed them a very small feeding of sour, skimmed milk at the close of forty-eight hours and give them their first feed at seventy-two hours. The four important factors for the success of baby chicks are correct feeding, exercise, sanitation and temperature.

For the first feeding either corn bread or oatmeal is good. The corn bread should be cooked hard and crumbled and then browned again. Place on the crumb board and remove when chicks have been allowed to feed for five minutes. Food should never be placed on the ground, for it will become tainted and cause bowel trouble. During the same time let them have skimmed milk. Feed them five times each day, five minutes at a time. On the tenth day add about ten per cent hard-boiled eggs to the food. In from two to four weeks decrease the number of feedings per day to three, then at the end of six weeks decrease to two times daily. Add to the feed two kinds of cracked grain and feed this for one time. Give chicks plenty of sour, skimmed milk, fresh water, chick size grit, charcoal and plenty of green food.

Then as a summary to follow: Keep the chicks warm at all times.

Allow the chicks to run on fresh ground.

Keep them dry and free from vermin.

Make them work.

Do not let them crowd.

Kill all weak and ailing chicks.

Never feed anything that is not clean and free from mould.

Do not use mouldy litter.

Buick Character Makes Buick Value

Buick value is something more than appears on the surface. It is more than the excellence and beauty of Buick design—more than the greater riding comfort, power and safety that Buick provides. Buick's value comes from the sum total of all those Buick qualities and traditions which together make up Buick character. A Buick owner fully appreciates Buick character. He knows the dependable, satisfying and trouble-free transportation which Buick gives, however long or however far a Buick owner may elect to drive his car.

DISABLED MONTANA TOWED TO HALIFAX

Atlantic Transport Liner Had
Rudder Head and Tiller Smashed.

From the Halifax Echo.

With her rudder broken at the head, tiller smashed, rudder engine twisted out of shape and tooth rack broken, the steamer Montana of the Atlantic Transport line arrived yesterday morning and anchored in the stream. The steamer Poland, of the same line, which had towed the disabled steamer to the harbor, and then turned the ship over to tugs, also came into port. The Poland in letting go of her anchor rather suddenly, bent the eccentric rod and broke the eccentric strap, which were repaired by Burns & Keleher.

On Saturday, February 9th, the Montana left New York for Hamburg, with 8,000 tons of general cargo, and when about 500 miles off New York ran into a heavy gale on Monday, which raged all day, and about seven o'clock in the evening a giant wave struck on the starboard, throwing the rudder hard apart, breaking it at the head, and smashing everything in its way. One of the deck engineers, who was in the rudder house at the time had a narrow escape, being forced to a bench on the wall to save himself from being thrown against the side of the room.

The engineer, when able to secure a footing, opened a little door on the side of the wall, and tried to descend the small ladder there to the room below but was forced back by the escaping steam. He then got out of the rudder shed and went into the place next to it where the windlass is placed, for safety. Shortly before the accident happened the third assistant engineer and another of the crew had been in the rudder shed doing minor repair and had only left a few minutes before the sea struck the ship. Had they been in the shed during the accident, the consequences would have been much more serious.

Rudder Weakened.

Some time ago a portion of the tooth rack had been broken off and repairs effected in New York, and it is thought that the rudder had been weakened on the former occasion.

Immediately following the smashing of the rudder the crew tried to effect temporary repairs by hitching heavy cable wire onto the rudder stock from a windlass and using the hand steering apparatus. But the ship was too heavy for the hand steering gear, and on Wednesday they wirelessly for help, the Poland being ordered to their assistance. While using the hand steering gear the windlass to which the cable hawser was attached was broken.

The Poland, with one, a lady passenger, on board, and a large cargo, left New York on Monday for Antwerp, was reached by wireless made all haste arriving late on Wednesday afternoon. She stood by the Montana all night, while a strong breeze was blowing, and about four o'clock on Thursday afternoon a hawser of about 70 feet of wire cable attached to the anchor chain, which had been unhitchel from the anchor, was passed aboard the ship, which started off under her own steam with the Poland at the stern steering.

Towed to Halifax.

In this way the tow started for Halifax from a point about 268 miles southeast of Halifax. Fairly good progress was made till Saturday morning about 70 miles off the coast the tow line parted and it was several hours later when the line was repassed on board and the tow resumed to Halifax.

About one o'clock yesterday morning the tugs F. W. Roebing, Togo, and Sampson, having been despatched out to meet them, the tow was picked up about 12 miles off the harbor. Lines were passed from the Montana to the Roebing which led off with the other two tugs on either side, but this had to be abandoned as the ship was going around in circles and the tugs were unable to keep her on a straight course.

When daylight came the tugs

THE PORTER WELL RESUMED TUESDAY

The Porter test on the Austin farm south of Crockett resumed drilling activity Tuesday morning, after a shut-down of several months. It is hoped by Mr. Porter and all citizens of Crockett that a paying oil well will be developed at this place.

The drill stem was stuck at the time of the shut-down and was broken in two with a charge of dynamite. A new drill-stem will be used and the old stem side tracked from where it was shot in two, that part of the drill stem above the break being pulled out.

again passed lines aboard the Montana and began to tow her into the harbor, arriving about eight o'clock and anchoring the steamer in the stream.

Yesterday the surveyors went out on board the steamer to examine the extent of the damage, and today a diver will go down to see what damage the rudder post and frame had sustained. Yesterday afternoon the Montana was moved along the stone wall at the south Terminals, where she will remain until the survey is over and the contract for the repairs is let. It is understood that a new tiller and other parts necessary will be sent here from New York.

On the arrival of the steamers Mr. Jones, of A. G. Jones and Company agents for the steamers went out to the Montana and is looking after the details in connection with docking and repair of the ship. After repairing her eccentric rod and strap the Poland left last evening about 8:30 to continue her trip to Antwerp.

L. K. Meriwether of Crockett, Texas, was the senior radio officer of the steamship Montana.
