CROCKETT TO HOLD CITY ELECTION

Proposed to Issue Funding Bonds to Retire City's Present Indebtedness.

A city election has been ordered by the city council of Crockett to be held on Tuesday, October 20. The election will be held at the court house in Crockett, and Mrs. J. C. Millar and Mrs. B. J. Gunter were appointed by the council as election managers.

The purpose of the election is to ascertain the wish of property tax payers on the question of the city's issuing funding bonds. Only property tax payers are allowed to vote in an election of this kind. The question to be voted on is whether the city should issue funding bonds in the sum of $202,000 to be used in retiring the city's present indebtedness of that amount. The city's total outstanding indebtedness is $202,000. The proposed new issue of bonds is to be payable serially in 40 years.

Of the new issue of bonds $29,000 are to bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent, payable annually, and $172,000 to bear interest at the rate of 5 1-2 per cent, payable semi-annually. The election provides for the levy of a tax sufficient to pay the interest and create a sinking fund adequate to retire the bonds in 40 years, at maturity.

As stated, the bonds, if authorized by the property tax payers of the city, are to be used in cancelling a like amount of indebtedness heretofore incurred by the city and now outstanding. The city's indebtedness is in part for city hall and auditorium, fire truck, water and sewer extensions, street paving, fair grounds, etc.

City warrants to the amount of $12,900 are now held by the Brown-Crummer Company, a bonding company. The Brown-Crummer Company will take the new issue of $202,000 and will refund the city's indebtedness. The Brown-Crummer Company will pay all expenses incurred in the election, thus saving the taxpayers of Crockett any expense in that regard. Included in this expense is the publication of the election notice, employment of counsel, etc. Hon. J. W. Young of Crockett is representing the Brown-Crummer Company and the city of Crockett in a legal capacity.

Crockett city bonds are desirable by the bonding companies. By issuing new bonds and retiring all outstanding bonds and warrants the city's present indebtedness will be spread out over a longer period of time. The immediate gain to the city, while lengthening the time in which the interest will be paid and, correspondingly, the amount of interest to be paid, will be to lower the amount of interest now being paid and to correspondingly lower, it is said, the city's tax rate. Simply stated the plan, as understood by the Courier, is to spread the city's indebtedness over a longer period of time and thus make immediate payments smaller.

The city has heretofore bonded itself to the limit. No more bonds can be issued under the law until outstanding bonds are cancelled. While the Courier has heard of no immediate improvements that are contemplated, no further expenditure for improvements can be made until a new bond issue is authorized by a vote of the property taxpayers. As stated, the tendency of the new bond issue would be to lower the immediate tax rate under present indebtedness. A future increase of the city's indebtedness would, as a matter of course, raise the rate correspondingly.

The election, which comes on Tuesday, October 20, is expected to create the usual amount of interest created when tax matters are involved.

CROCKETT SCHOOLS SHOW INCREASE

The Crockett public school opened Monday with an increased attendance. Superintendent Thomas and his seventeen assistants were kept busy throughout the day, issuing books, arranging schedules, giving instructions to students, and innumerable other things. With a larger class advancing each year in every grade, the school's facilities are crowded to the utmost. No child is admitted who has not been seven years of age since September 1, but as this has been the rule for several years, no relief from overcrowded conditions is afforded by this restriction.

Every class, from first grade to eleventh, is crowded. Every available class room is utilized. It would hardly be possible to add additional teachers to the faculty, should this become necessary, because of the lack of an available class room. The faculty was enlarged to the utmost at the beginning of the 1924-25 term.

Body Returned Here.

Mrs. Sid Johnson arrived in Crockett Thursday with the remains of Lewis Sidney Hill, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hill Lacy of Long Beach, Calif., who died in February. The remains were interred in the Crockett cemetery. The child was a grandson of Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson, whose home was in Crockett before going to California, will remain here for an indefinite visit.

Licensed to Wed.

Marriage licenses were issued at the county clerk's office during the past week to the following couples:

Louie Holster and Miss Alma Randall.

STANDARD RULES MOST DESIRABLE

Due largely to a division of sentiment regarding rules governing the club, enthusiasm among the Crockett country club's membership has not been as much in evidence this year as in years gone by. Local rules are always difficult of adoption and execution. What is needed, it would seem, is a set of standard rules to govern the club. There are standard rules governing clubs—rules which would apply in the government of any club, wherever located. There are clubs similar to Crockett's country club at Palestine, Tyler, Marshall, Corsicana, Waxahachie, Bryan, Brenham, Navasota, Nacogdoches and Lufkin, and no doubt these clubs are all governed by tried-out, standardized rules—the rules governing in the one being similar to those governing in the others. A copy of these rules is easily procurable from any or all of these clubs. If standardized and nationalized rules are adopted, the chances are lessened for local opinion to create divisions in the club regarding membership privileges.

CROCKETT FREIGHT SERVICE IMPROVED

The local railroad company announces the inauguration of a package car from Houston to Crockett. The car, loaded with Crockett freight exclusively, will leave Houston every morning and be set out at Crockett during the afternoon or evening. This is in addition to the local freight service, which requires two days from Houston to Crockett. This through car, loaded exclusively with Crockett freight, will be handled on a fast, through freight train, to be set out at Crockett without being opened enroute. This is a big improvement over former package service from Houston to Crockett, which was by local freight to Trinity the first day and to Palestine the second day, switching, loading and unloading being done enroute. Former local freight service will also be maintained.

New Pastor Considered.

Rev. C. E. Newton of Lufkin has been offered the new pastorate of the Presbyterian church in Crockett, the Courier is informed. We are not advised as to whether the offer has been accepted. The decision to offer the pastorate to Rev. Mr. Newton was made Sunday. The vacancy was caused by the resignation and retirement of Rev. S. F. Tenney.

Let's not boast too much about ancestry. There wasn't any Ellis Island or restricted immigration when the Mayflower came over.

PIGSKIN WARRIORS SWING INTO ACTION

This week-end marks the official opening of the football season, with almost every team sweeping into action against some opposition, either an easy "breather," or a hard practice game.

All eyes will be turned to South Bend, Indiana, where Frank Bridges' Baylor Bears meet Knute Rockne's Notre Dame Irish in an attempt to establish the reputation of Southwestern conference football. Notre Dame was conceded the national championship last year by sport writers generally, but Rockne's pupils received sheepskins in large numbers last June, and entire rebuilding is a necessity. Bridges, however, has a veteran team, with welcome additions to his squad, and despite their underdog position may surprise the dopsters who will flock to South Bend Saturday.

Getting back to the Southwest we find A. & M. meeting Trinity on their own Kyle field. The cadets are not likely to see their gridiron squad fall before the T. I. A. A. squad. With a veteran line, good defensive and a new coaching system, the Tigers should make the Aggies work to produce a good score. Last year the Aggies won 33 to 0.

Texas university, per usual, meets the Southwestern Pirates at Austin in their opening tussle Saturday. Texas, with an unusually fast young backfield, including Saxon, Baldwin, Rufus and Joe King, Captain Wright, Fred Thompson, etc., should run up a good score, according to custom. Last year it was 27 to 0.

T. C. U. meets the East Texas Normal at Ft. Worth, and the Horned Frogs should likewise experience no trouble in disposing of their opponents. About 45 to 0 was the 1924 tally.

Rice meets Stephen F. Austin at Houston Saturday. The Lumberjacks are a fast-coming squad, but will doubtless be overwhelmed by the powerful Owl club, all reports to the contrary. Arkansas will satisfy herself with another week of practice. Frank Schmidt lost most of his fast 1924 club.

S. M. U. sends her new club against Denton Normal. S. M. U. expects anything but a walk-over. Her 1924 team managed to win by a 7 to 3 count from Fouts' eleven.

Baylor's reserves will give the home fans a game against Decatur College Saturday, while the first team bottles Notre Dame.

Howard Payne, last year's T. I. A. A. champs, have an association game with Abilene Christians, and should win despite the Wildcats' veteran line-up.

Oscar Eckhart's Canyon Normal club meets Clarendon Junior College; a good stiff scrimmage will doubtless be had. The Buffaloes are veterans. Simmons gave her squad sprinting practice last Saturday against Wayland College, rolling up the junior collegians 74 to 0. A close victory will be very pleasing to the Cowboys Saturday at the West Texas Fair, however, as the Notre Dame of the Southwest, St. Edwards, will give them a very good practice indeed.

Sam Houston opens on her home grounds, with Westminster, Country Williamson's club, furnishing the opposition. Sam Houston can hardly afford to drop this contest to the junior college boys.

Rusk Junior College gets a good workout Saturday by playing at Lufkin against the strong high school there.

With the Dixie series, World series, football games and other events, the sport pages will be well filled for the next few weeks.

CROCKETT MAY BE ON NEW HIGHWAY

Roy M. Johnson of Ardmore, Okla., a member of the Oklahoma state highway commission, and County Engineer Caldwell of Walker county were in Crockett Tuesday consulting local authorities in regard to the advisability of routing a national highway through Crockett. The part in question was that part of the highway from Dallas to Galveston. One of two possible routes will be chosen. The one to pass through Centerville, Madisonville and other points to Huntsville and on to Galveston; the other to pass through Palestine, Crockett, Trinity and other connecting points to Huntsville and on to Galveston.

This highway passes through Texas, Oklahoma and several other states, and is very desirable for Crockett, inasmuch as thousands of travellers would pass through Crockett on this highway annually. Data was gathered for a report to be made later.

Coming to Crockett.

Mr. J. D. Clarke of Houston has been made agent of the Magnolia Petroleum Co. in place of Mr. G. C. Waller, who resigned, due to ill health.

Mr. Clarke is a young man of sterling character, and has been engaged in the oil business for six or seven years with this company, being assistant credit manager for several years. He is a married man, having a wife and two children, who will join him about the first of the month. The Courier takes this opportunity of welcoming this good family to our city.

Action Approved.

County Judge Leroy L. Moors has received notice from the state highway commission of approval by that body of the resolution of August 24 by the Houston county commissioners' court setting aside approximately $14,000, placed in escrow in the First National Bank, for the purpose of building the highway from Crockett to the Lovelady district line. The estimated cost of this road work is $31,346.75. Further information has not been received from the commission.

The Methodist Church.

Sunday at 11 a. m. the pastor will preach, using as his theme, "Christ's Message to the Discouraged." At 8 p. m. he will give some observations of his recent trip to Richmond, Va., and Washington, D. C. All are invited. Good music at every service.

At 9:30 a. m. the Sunday school will celebrate its annual promotion day; every member of the Sunday school is requested to be present.

C. A. Lehmborg, Pastor.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS LIGHT, BUT SPEEDY

Courier Sport Writer Reviews Possibilities of High School Football Success.

The candidates for the Crockett high school football team got down to hard work Monday afternoon under the direction of Coach W. L. Jordan. Football fundamentals and conditioning work have been the order of the practice thus far. No scrimmages will be indulged in until the men show proper condition for such practice.

The men reporting for practice are for the most part light and inexperienced, but show natural speed and a willingness to learn. The prospect is not altogether discouraging. Coach Jordan, who has the assistance of Ben Cannon in working with the men, is hopeful of presenting a fighting line-up throughout the season.

Twenty-six men reported for first practice, with others in prospect. The men beginning first practice are Turner, Wooters, Baughman, Spence, Jordan, Jack Sharp, Foster, Towery, Nelson, Martin, Odom, Smith, Cook, Dawson, Frank Sharp, Adams, Murphy, Driskell, Clinton Baughman, Hughes, Durst, Green, Dawes, Lansford, Parker, Ellis and Bryant.

Seven games have thus far been scheduled, as follows:

October 16, Madisonville at Crockett.

October 23, Trinity at Crockett.

October 30, Huntsville at Crockett.

November 6, Crockett at Madisonville.

November 13, Crockett at Trinity.

November 20, Groveton at Crockett.

November 25, Crockett at Palestine.

ATLANTA SEVEN FORT WORTH TWO

The Ft. Worth Cats, six times champions of the Texas league and five times Dixie champions, dropped the first game of the Dixie series at Atlanta Wednesday by a 7 to 2 score. Each club got nine hits, but Atlanta hit when it meant runs. Cullop hit a homer with one on. Batteries: Atlanta—Cavet and Jenkins; Ft. Worth—Johns, Head, Walkup and Moore.

The second game is set for today at Atlanta. The scene will shift to Ft. Worth Saturday where three games will be played, provided Atlanta does not win four straight, which the fondest Atlanta admirer could not hope for.

BIG REVIVAL NOW ON AT LOVELADY

The big revival meeting held jointly by the Baptist and Methodist churches of Lovelady is now well into its second week. Rev. Sid Williams, noted evangelist, and Singer-Harpist Brown are drawing a congregation from Crockett, Trinity and other towns, besides Lovelady. A religious revival is sweeping Lovelady, and a great Christian movement is noticeable. Crockett people are attending nightly. Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Monday of Longview are in attendance.

COTTON RECEIPTS AND SHIPMENTS

At Tuesday noon the Crockett warehouse had weighed 12,422 bales of the 1925 cotton crop, according to information furnished by W. E. Hail, public weigher. The records show that through September 22, 1924, the warehouse had received 8,058 bales of the 1924 crop. This year is therefore over 4,250 bales ahead of last year.

The Crockett railroad station Monday had shipped 12,157 bales. Of this amount, about 3,000 bales were shipped direct, leaving about that amount at present in the warehouse. This cotton shipped direct, if added to the warehouse receipts, brings Crockett's total cotton receipts to around 15,000 bales.

JULIUS ROSENWALD GIVES MILLION TO JEWISH RELIEF

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.—Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the board of directors of Sears, Roebuck & Co., at yesterday's session of the national conference of American Jews at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, pledged $1,000,000 toward the campaign of the Jewish Relief Organization for relief and colonization in Europe.

Before more than 1,000 of the leading American Jews, engaged in this relief campaign, Mr. Rosenwald endorsed the "back to the land" movement and urged that his contribution be part of a $9,000,000 fund which he hoped would be raised within three years for the rehabilitation of the land of Russian tradesmen, artisans and others who have in the past been under severe economic pressure in Russian towns and cities.

Service Manager of Ford Dealer Returns From School.

the land has done much to popularize this car," declared N. S. Box, service manager of Towery Motor Co. on his return from the Houston branch of the Ford Motor Company.

The Ford Motor Company is looking after the training of men on the improved type car, so that there will be no interruption in the servicing of the improved type, merely because certain changes have been made. So it was that the company called upon the Towery Motor Co. to send their service manager to the Houston branch of the company for a course of training in the assembly, construction and repairing of the improved type cars.

Mr. Box reports that he received instructions which will not only be invaluable to him and the men under him in the local Ford dealership, but that the knowledge gained of the changes in construction and of the little fine points in servicing the improved car will mean much to the customers of the Towery Motor Co. in this section.

A. SANGER, HEAD OF SANGER BROS., DIES AGED 78

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 14.—Alexander Sanger, 78-year-old president of Sanger Bros. Dry Goods Co., died at 2:40 a. m. yesterday morning following a major abdominal operation performed last Thursday. Funeral services will be held tomorrow or Wednesday.

Alexander Sanger was born in Obenbreit, Bavaria, in 1847, the son of Elias and Babette Sanger. He attended the public schools of his country, and at 13 became an apprentice in the dry goods business of M. Benario in Obenbreit.

After coming to the United States in 1865, he located for a time at Cincinnati, where he worked as a bookkeeper for Heller Bros. Later he and four others purchased the business of Ochs, Lehman & Co., in which he remained until 1872. That same year Mr. Sanger came to Texas, joined the firm of Sanger Bros. at Waco, and opened a store for the firm at Dallas in a one-story frame building 50 by 80, on Elm street. The business he established met with great success, developing into one of the largest department stores in the Southwest.

On May 11, 1879, Mr. Sanger married Miss Fannie Fechenbach of Cincinnati.

In 1918, the business was incorporated as Sanger Bros. Dry Goods Co., with Alex. Sanger as president.

ELECTION CALLED FOR WATER WORKS

The City Council in regular session last Monday ordered an election for October 19, submitting to the people of Grapeland the proposition of issuing bonds in the sum of $45,000 to build an up-to-date water works plant.

The order for the election is the result of a mass meeting held a week or two ago, in which was present a representative body of people of the community, when they voted unanimously in favor of the proposition. Many people have expressed themselves as favoring water-works, and very little opposition is anticipated, as it only requires a majority vote to carry it.

The Council has retained Mr. Von Zuben of Crockett as consulting and supervising engineer, who has already prepared plans for a water system that will materially reduce the fire insurance rate, in both the business and residence districts, and give water service to nearly every one in town who wants it.

Plans call for a deep well, thus eliminating the danger of water pollution, to which the entire community is now exposed all the time from the numerous shallow wells over town.

It is estimated that enough water users will be secured to make the plant self-sustaining within a few years and a very low tax will have to be paid to retire the bond indebtedness.—Grapeland Messenger.

The highway department is spending the people's money—not its own. Yet when certain expenditures are assailed as being wasteful and fraudulent, instead of co-operating in an effort to find out the truth of the charges the state highway commission chairman and one of its engineers threaten to withdraw support from Harris county roads. One would think that these millions which come from the pockets of the people were "patronage," to be distributed here and there according to the whims and selfish interests of the highway board. Evidently Mr. Latham forgets that the people of Harris county pay several thousand dollars into the highway department fund each year. So far as we have been able to find out, they pay considerably more into this fund than they get back.—Houston Post-Dispatch.

It has not been so very long ago when the newspapers of the country were flashing the meteoric rise of Young Leonard Wood, junior, who "cleaned Wall street," making his millions. Now these same newspapers tell us that young Wood, though going up financially with the speed of a rocket, came down like its stick. He is a bankrupt.

Better by far the steady pull to playing the Wall street game, where you are hailed as a millionaire today, and are a bankrupt tomorrow. And precious few who make money gambling know enough to keep it. They lose by the same methods they win—playing the game of chance.—Palestine Herald.

A Clean Tooth Never Decays.

And it may be said that a clean machine seldom deteriorates.

Reports from service men show that over 85 per cent of the trouble they are called upon to help remedy is due to just plain dirt in some form or other.

Oil is good; but too much oil attracts dust particles, and this forms a gummy substance that will cause almost every one of the common troubles such as failure of the matrices to respond to the key, sluggish keyboard action and faulty distribution.

It is the history of agriculture in the southwest that the years in which abundant feed crops have been produced have brought greater prosperity to farmers than years when the money received from cotton must be used in the purchase of those commodities from growers in distant sections. A one-crop farm never prospers, taking the average over a ten-year period. One-crop agriculture cannot survive. In the end the worn-out soils must be rebuilt through a long and expensive process.

HOUSTON COUNTY IN SEVENTH PLACE

The department of commerce, through the bureau of the census, made public on Tuesday, September 8, a preliminary report of cotton ginned in Texas prior to September 1. This report shows Houston county to be the seventh county of the state in ginning, with a total of 19,613 bales ginned, as compared with 5,317 bales ginned to the same date in 1924.

The entire state had ginned a total of 746,855 bales, as compared with 630,898 bales to September 1, 1924. The ten leading counties, those ginning more than 15,000 bales, are as follows:

- Hidalgo, 53,105.

Weak In Back and Sides

"Before the birth of my little girl," says Mrs. Lena Stanchl, of R. F. D. 2, Matthews, Mo., "I was so weak in my back and sides I could not go about. I was too weak to stand up or do any work. I felt like my back was coming in two. I lost weight. I didn't eat anything much and was so restless I couldn't sleep nights. My mother used to take so I sent to get it. I improved after my first bottle. Cardui is certainly a great help for nervousness and weak back. I took six bottles of Cardui and by then I was well and strong, just did fine from then on. Cardui helped me so much. Thousands of weak, suffering women have taken Cardui, knowing that it had helped their mothers or their friends, and soon gained strength and got rid of their pains. Cardui should do you a lot of good.

For Female Troubles

MANY SCHOOLS OPEN IN HOUSTON COUNTY

During the past year a dozen or more school elections have been successfully held in Houston county. As a consequence the greatest building program that Houston county's schools have ever known has been carried out.

Several additional schools are this year adding manual training and domestic science courses. Eight or ten schools now offer these courses.

All Houston county teachers attended a joint institute at Huntsville last week. One teacher, excused, due to illness, comprised the absentee class from Houston county.

Houston county has over forty schools besides the Crockett, Grapeland and Lovelady independent schools opening this week. This is due to the earliness of the crops throughout Houston county, and will give the pupils the benefit of attending during the early fall, before the bad weather sets in. The following, besides possibly other schools, according to information obtained from Mrs. Gertie Sallas, county superintendent, opened Monday:

Five-teacher school—Porter Springs.

Four-teacher schools—Arbor Grove, Belott, Ratcliff, Pearson Chapel, Rockland (Lone Pine), Weldon.

Three-teacher schools—Ash, Daniel-Bellview, Center, Enon, Ephesus, Grounds, Kennard, Latexo, Liberty Hill, New Prospect, Percilla, Prairie Point, Union, Waneta.

Two-teacher schools—Center Hill, Center Ridge, Conner Creek, Cooper, Creek, Dalys, Friendship, Holly, Plain, Reynard, Rock Hill, Blue Lake, San Pedro, Union Grove, Wesley Chapel.

One-teacher schools—Douglass, Mt. Olive, Post Oak, Salt Branch, Tadmor, Woodland Hall.

They keep that school girl complexion at the drug store.

K. K. Enemies to Blame, Madison Judge Says.

Madisonville, Texas, Sept. 16.—Parties demanding the resignation of himself and the county commissioners of this county are the same political foes of Ku Klux sympathies who opposed him in the last election, County Judge T. Ferguson stated here today.

The statement followed on the heels of a mass meeting here Monday at which a formal demand was made for the resignation of the county officials. A contract entered into with a Dallas firm in connection with the collection of delinquent taxes gave occasion for the action. Private citizens went into court some time ago and asked an injunction against the carrying out of the contract. The district judge now has the case under advisement.

Speakers at the mass meeting declared that a new contract had been entered into by the commissioners' court prior to a decision on the case.

THE COURIER'S LIFE-LONG POLICY.

The Crockett Courier was first given to the public on Friday, January 30, 1890, Hon. W. B. Page editing the paper at its beginning. The Courier started as a 7-column, 4-page paper. The paper was then enlarged to an 8-column, 4-page paper. Then it was changed to five columns, eight pages, the size in use for many years. Of recent years, however, the necessity of printing extra pages to care for the large amount of news and advertising, together with improved facilities within the printing department, has led the Courier to make another enlargement. Beginning with this issue, the Courier will be six columns, eight pages, in size.

In the more than 35 years of the Courier's existence, under the editorship of Mr. Page and his successor, the present editor, the policy of the Courier, as announced by Mr. Page in the first edition, has been unchanged, and the years have shown how well this policy has been carried out. With the change in size of the paper, we take the opportunity to present to our readers the policy of the Courier, as it was in 1890, and as it still is in 1925, 35 years later:

"It is neither the purpose nor the inclination of the Courier to make war on any individual, class, faction or organization. A paper organized for such a purpose, and dominated by such a spirit, could not expect, nor would it deserve, to succeed—would not be entitled to nor should it enjoy public confidence and public support. The Courier aspires to labor on a higher plane and for higher ends. The field for the exercise of the functions of legitimate journalism is a broad and inviting one. We are not of those who think that the prime object and mission of a newspaper are necessarily political. Neither do we believe that political issues, party principles and party methods should be ignored—but in this day of phenomenal material development, we can but concede that there are other topics for newspaper discussion, and other avenues in which the influence and the usefulness of a journal may be employed than those which relate strictly to politics. While we shall always be ready to discuss such public questions as may be of the greatest current interest to the people, criticize the acts of public men as they affect the public weal, we wish the people to understand that the material resources, and the best methods of developing these resources, of East Texas generally and Houston County in particular, will be, if not of paramount, at least of commending importance to the management of the paper. Those who are engaged in this enterprise, who are devoting their time and money to making it a success, are doing so with the fond hope of not only arousing in the present inhabitants of this county a spirit of enterprise, and a just and proper appreciation of their opportunities and of the county's needs and capabilities, but with the further desire of arresting and inviting the attention of men of capital and energy abroad to the vast and wonderful natural wealth of this part of Texas, in the working and development of which are to be found happiness and plenty, and a "merchandise richer than the merchandise of silver and the gain thereof greater than fine gold." It is an era of advancement and the spirit of progress is abroad in the land, quickening whomsoever it touches into new life, and imparting to all whom it meets an enthusiasm for work. This section of Texas must either go backward or forward. In this day there is no middle ground. A country is what the people make it and the people can make of it what they are pleased to do. These reflections, it would seem, are somewhat at variance with the customary newspaper salutations, but we trust are not altogether out of place. The Courier will deal fairly and candidly with all classes of our citizens, and will spare no means at its command to do whatever it can for all sections of Houston County and all classes of its people."

IMPORTANCE OF WEEKLY GAZETTE.

Settled down on the sun-baked sand of Arizona, away out among the coyotes and the cactus, life spins out its monotonous routine in a little village of a few hundred. There are houses, shacks, dobe huts, a church, a few stores, a lunch counter which has lost the splendor it possessed as a saloon, and a printing office. Without the Weekly Gazette to read, discuss, joke about, and abuse, the inhabitants would be deprived of their chief interest in existence.

Cowboys come loping into town on Friday afternoon to get it, and the ranch is supplied with conversation material for another week.

Whirling presses in the basement of a loop skyscraper vie with the deafening roar of Chicago traffic outside as the tenth edition of an afternoon daily is poured out at the rate of some 90,000 an hour, ready to be loaded into waiting trucks and hurried away to the news stands. Men must know who won the ball game.

Elsewhere in the same city a great printing plant is running three shifts a day, grinding out a mail order catalog in four colors, all printed at the same time.

In an eastern city other four-color presses are producing a two-million edition of a weekly magazine which will be delivered in every part of the country on the same day four weeks hence. Printing is essential to civilization. In Ashtabula and Cedar Rapids and Albuquerque, day in and day out, printers' rollers are inking forms to print books and magazines, novels and newspapers, dance programs and death notices, posters and letter heads, bill heads and bank checks, spreading human knowledge, telling the American citizen what's going on, and furnishing the necessary printed matter to make it go.

Wherever a little one-man print shop is serving to circulate the life-blood of a rural community; wherever a metropolitan daily newspaper proclaims the latest news in screaming headlines; wherever a post card of a broadside is carrying an advertiser's message through the mail, there is felt the influence of printing on modern life.

It is not hard to see why historians date the beginning of our present civilization from the invention of printing. Modern civilization begins with printing.

BUSINESS INVITATIONS.

Advertising is a business invitation. When you read a merchant's advertisement in the newspaper, you are being invited to come to his store and inspect his goods and get his prices.

Business goes where it is invited and stays where it is treated well. That is the reason the stores that advertise the most consistently have the best business.

And the stores that advertise back up their claims with quality and service. People have learned that it pays to patronize advertisers because they know they may expect good goods and courteous treatment.

They know, too, that merchants who advertise do not offer shop-worn stock. An advertiser has to back up his claims in his invitation. It is not only because of business ethics, but also because it pays not to violate the confidence of his customers.

Advertisers can't take advantage of their customers and prosper. You may depend on their goods being as represented. You will profit by accepting these business invitations.

TEXAS TALK.

There are a good many Texas customs which cannot be trampled on with impunity, even when the law is squarely behind those who try to do the trampling.

For many years it has been a custom in Texas to show leniency in the treatment of delinquent tax payers. Often, in times of drouth or flood, a severe hardship could be worked on impoverished property owners through rigid adherence to the legal methods for securing each year's taxes as they fall due.

The Thirty-ninth legislature enacted a new delinquent tax law, which was hailed as a triumph by tax reform advocates. It allows the commissioners' court of any county to enter into contract for the collection of all back taxes, paying the collector on a commission basis.

It is just this sort of a contract which has caused an acute situation to develop in Madison county and led to the demand of citizens that the county judge and the commissioners resign forthwith.

In the light of the Madison county situation, it is doubtful if officials of many other counties will be anxious to avail themselves of the new machinery for collecting back taxes.

Advocates of the measure, at the time it was before the legislature, produced figures purporting to show that many wealthy individuals take advantage of prevailing sentiment and refuse to pay their taxes, even when they are well able to do so.

Granting that this fact is true, it does not give justification for ruthless condemnation suits brought by private firms for profit. And the fact that somebody derives fat fees from the state's seizure of property under the delinquent tax law is the most objectionable feature of the law.—Houston Post-Dispatch.

Still Complimenting Us.

Two travelling men, representing wholesale printers' supply houses, were in the Courier office Tuesday afternoon, and both said that the Courier had the best-arranged, best-equipped and best-kept printing office and plant they had seen anywhere in their travels, and they both travel all over the southwest.

Sample Copies.

This being the first issue of the Courier in its increased size, 225 sample copies are being mailed to Houston county people who are not now subscribers. To those who wish to subscribe or renew, the price is the same as heretofore—$1.50 a year. The Courier is issued weekly and covers the local field.

Firestone

Double the Mileage at Half the Cost

Only a few years ago a 32 x 4 cord tire listed over $50.00. Today, you can buy the highest quality 32 x 4 tire—a Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord—for about $26.00.

Last spring crude rubber cost tire makers around 40 cents a pound. Today, it is over 90 cents a pound.

It was not so long ago that 7,500 miles represented the average life of a cord tire, while today, 15,000 miles—and more—is only the usual performance for a Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord.

Due to large, concentrated production, specialized machinery and simplified factory methods, together with economical distribution, Firestone is able to keep tire prices low—no matter where the price of crude rubber goes.

And, because of special Firestone processes, chief among which is Gum-Dipping, motorists are today getting thousands of extra miles by using Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping is an exclusive method used by Firestone. It is an extra process, carried out in special Gum-Dipping plants, after which the cords are put through the usual calendering machines. Gum-Dipping insulates and impregnates every fiber of every cord with rubber, and practically eliminates internal friction and heat, and builds strength and endurance into the tire.

In the day-in and day-out service of taxicabs, buses and trucks—on the cars of hundreds of thousands of motorists everywhere—Gum-Dipped Cords are giving unheard-of mileage, dependability and satisfaction.

Get ready for the coming months of slippery pavements and bad roads. Assure yourself of greater safety, comfort and economy by equipping now with Firestone Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons.

CROCKETT PASTOR HAS LONG RECORD

ALMOST 60 YEARS IN MINISTRY;
54 YEARS IN CROCKETT CHURCH.

Editor Courier:

Samuel Fisher Tenney was born in Athens, Georgia, March 26, 1840, was one of six children, he being the only one now left of his father's family, one brother died July 21, 1861 of disease, in the Confederate army. His mother was Sarah Margaret Colt, born in New Jersey, but in early life moved with her mother's family to Athens, Ga., Athens then being one of the new and growing towns of Georgia. His father, Samuel Tenney, was born at Bradford, Massachusetts, in 1812, descended from Thomas Tenney, who came in a colony from Rowley, England, in 1838. They settled in Massachusetts and built the town of Rowley, not far from Boston.

From Thomas Tenney to my family are eight generations, Puritans in their religion in England, but Congregationalists in their New England home. They came from England on account of persecution, hoping to have religious and political freedom in America. True to their love of freedom a number of the descendants of Thomas Tenney were found as patriots in the Revolutionary war.

Samuel Tenney in early life came to Athens, Georgia, where he married Miss Sarah Colt. They were married April 9, 1839, and my mother both being members of the Presbyterian church of Athens, Ga. Dr. Nathan Hoyt, the pastor, performing the ceremony. I was baptised when quite young by Dr. Hoyt. The same pastor baptising my mother's children, and performed the ceremony at the marriage of my oldest sister, and received me into membership in the same Athens church in 1860, when I was about 18 years old. I was received at a time of gracious revival, when Dr. Hoyt was assisted by Dr. Stiles, a noted evangelist of Liberty county, Georgia.

My father's education was good for those early days, having studied at Bradford Academy. That school developed into a large and famous institution for young ladies. My mother's education was very limited, there being no free schools in those days, and her father dying when she was quite young, and leaving a large family. However, my mother applied herself diligently to study, and became a fairly successful teacher of a primary school, and with the help of my father taught successfully a country school. In that school I received my first education, which was continued in home study, with help from father and mother, (working some and studying some, there being no free schools in those days). When I was 11 years old I was sent to Athens to an Academy taught by Mr. A. M. Scudder, a splendid teacher, and a fine Christian gentleman. Mr. Scudder built up a splendid school, and prepared many students for the Georgia University. I owe much to his faithful, kind instruction, as also to the president and faculty of the Georgia University, who were valuable helps in my education.

In 1861 I left my class in college to volunteer as a soldier in the Confederate army. I went out as a private soldier of infantry, in Company K of the Third Georgia Regiment, Wright's Brigade. In April 1861 we were sent to Portsmouth, Va. There we were stationed and drilled for some months. Later our regiment was sent to Roanoke Island, to fortify it. While at Roanoke Island, our regiment took part in an engagement with Federal troops on Pamlico Sound, the Twentieth Indiana Regiment having landed on a narrow strip of land, at Chickamomico Beach. Our gunboat landed our troops, our soldiers wading out to the beach, the Federal soldiers making a hasty retreat. We pursued them until a Federal warship appeared on the Atlantic ocean. When they began firing at us we beat a hasty retreat, and returned to our camp at Roanoke Island, having lost no soldiers, except one or two, who died from fatigue.

Our regiment remained for several months on Roanoke Island, and then was transferred back to Portsmouth. When Roanoke Island was surrendered to the Federals, and Portsmouth was evacuated, our part of the army was transferred to Lee's army, around Richmond. We were in the Seven Pines battle and the seven days' battle around Richmond, under General Lee, our closing engagement being in the battle of Malvern Hill.

After these battles our troops rested near Petersburg and Drewry's Bluff. After a rest and reorganizing we were marched through the wilderness country, crossing the Rapidan and Rappahannock rivers, and engaging in the battle of Second Manassas, and later in the battle of Sharpsburg. (in some histories called the battle of Antietam). We took part in the campaign when Harper's Ferry was captured and in engagements in Maryland. After that campaign our troops were in winter quarters near Orange, Va. In those winter evenings the soldiers held prayer meetings and preaching services in their camps, and gracious revivals were experienced. During that winter I was promoted to be sergeant-major of the Third Georgia regiment, then commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Ruben Nesbit.

Part of my winter time was spent in addition to making out reports as sergeant-major in writing a history of the Third Georgia Regiment. During that winter I stood an examination and won an appointment of First Lieutenant. I was assigned to be ordnance officer of a Georgia Brigade, on the staff of General Ed Thomas, Covington, Georgia. I was given the rank of First Lieutenant of Artillery. My duties led me to look after the ammunition supplies of the brigade, the wagons carrying ammunition being under my command. After this appointment I was allowed a horse, and in parades rode on horseback at the head of the brigade with the general's staff. While no longer being in battle as an infantry soldier, yet in duties as an officer sometimes exposed me to fire, once a ball grazing my thigh, but doing no harm. During my whole army service I was struck by a spent ball three times, once causing one of my fingers to bleed a little. Except this I received no wounds, and escaped being taken prisoner.

While yet in the infantry service I was in the battle of Gettysburg, being in a charge on Cemetery Hill the first day's battle. After Gettysburg our army retreated, and were camped for some time near Winchester, Va. Later I was identified with the brigade of General Ed Thomas (A. P. Hill's Corps) until the surrender. While we were camped near Petersburg, I obtained a furlough, about March, 1865. This caused me to be absent from Lee's army when he surrendered. I was endeavoring to reach the army when I learned of the surrender. Then I turned back, and retreated towards my home in Georgia, walking most of the way (when I could not get a ride on a railroad, the railroads being badly broken up.) On my way walking through South Carolina and North Georgia, I came to a ferry on Broad river. The river was broad and full. The ferryman was on the other side, and so was his boat. I was endeavoring to reach several times I did not care to wait. So I pulled off my clothes, and swam across, and took charge of the ferryboat. I managed to take it over, put on my clothes, and ferried myself across and continued my walk towards home. When I arrived at home, my home folks were much surprised at my appearance, and grieved to learn of the result of the war. In my travels I did not encounter any Federal troops. So I did not surrender until I surrendered to the Federal parole officer in Atlanta. Having taken the oath of allegiance in my parole I have endeavored to be a loyal citizen of the United States, not feeling at liberty to engage in any Ku Klux movement. So ended my war experience, having been four years, from April, 1861 to April, 1865, in the army.

My early life was short, and my soldier life occupied only four years. Part of my winter time was spent in addition to making out reports as sergeant-major in writing a history of a good house of worship and a good school, the latter partly kept up by the church and partly as a public free school. At first only one Indian was found who could read. Now nearly all read and have Bibles. They have also a good Sabbath school. Faithful work in this mission has been done by Rev. Thomas Ward White, Rev. Mr. Currie and wife, Rev. Jones and wife, and Rev. Chambers and wife. These Indians are contented, dress like our white citizens, have comfortable and neat homes, observe the marriage relation and the Sabbath, have small farms. Besides working their own farms, these Indians help white farmers in their work, and work for sawmills. It is pleasant to see the progress made from heathenism to Christianity in this Indian village.

Another auxiliary to my work was the establishment of the Mary Allen Seminary for colored girls. It is under the auspices of the northern Presbyterian church. It has been in existence about thirty years. It is a splendid educational school, giving instruction in sewing, laundry work, making and mending shoes, and housekeeping. The girls are expected to keep their rooms in a neat condition, to do their own washing, making and mending their clothes and assist in cooking. The institution is well equipped, having two large brick buildings for dormitories, class rooms, and an auditorium, accommodating about one hundred girls. Heretofore its faculty was composed of a white man as president, and a corps of white teachers. Recently there has been a change. They now have a colored man as president and a corps of colored teachers. They are doing good work, and are equipping the girls to good house work, to make good wives, and to be good Christian teachers. The Bible is one of the regular studies, and also the Westminster Shorter Catechism. Such an education cuts only out a stream of wholesome Christian influence to bless both the colored and white people. Along with the Mary Allen Seminary there is a Presbyterian church of colored people in connection with the northern Presbyterian church. This work was begun by my efforts to maintain a Sabbath school and day school for the colored folks. In this good work I was helped by some of my good church members.

It is pleasant to look back and see the great improvement in the condition of the colored people of Crockett and over a wide section of country. Mary Allen Seminary draws students not only from a wide section of Texas, but also from several other states. In this way the race problem is being solved, and friction between the two races diminished and interracial relations improved. Such work does not lead to social equality, but leads the negro to have more self-respect, and to rise to a higher and better state.

When I began in Crockett I went to a meeting of colored people, to invite them to hear me preach. I found a large number with hands joined going around in a circle in a sort of holy dance. Now in Crockett they have several nice houses of worship. They have good singing, have organs, and choirs, and preachers of intelligence. They have a good brick building for a school house with competent teachers. The general condition of the Crockett colored people has improved wonderfully. So have their views of religion and morality.

When our mission work had advanced so that I needed a preacher who could give his whole time to the work I made this want known through our church papers. Soon a white minister of Tennessee responded to my call. About the same time I received a letter from New York telling of a white man who was willing to pledge $600 a year for the support of that preacher. His check came regularly every month for several years—a remarkable coincidence of God's providence, I thought—the minister provided and his support. That white minister kept up the work faithfully until God called him above. Then the work was taken up by colored ministers, and eventually a Presbytery of colored people was formed. One of the first fruits was, a man before he came to Sunday school was a gambler. He became a useful preacher, and died in Alabama some years ago, his funeral was conducted by white ministers who highly commended his work.

When our Gospel work for the colored people began much prejudice was manifested. However, our prominent lawyers defended the work, publishing statements in the papers showing that if the state of Texas appropriated money for the public schools for both races it was lawful and honorable work. One of my good lady friends volunteered to teach our day school. Her high social standing and Christian character soon quieted prejudice.

One of my first elders was from Ireland, son of an Irish Presbyterian minister. That elder was forward in every good work, advancing his own money when necessary for church work, being very particular about closing up the church, taking as much care of it as if it were his own property.

Another of my elders was a very poor and uneducated man, but a faithful, earnest Christian. His daily life was a great help. Some of his children and grandchildren are useful and honored citizens.

When an effort was made to build a new house of worship in Crockett some of our best people could hardly believe we would succeed. But through God's good providence means came, and the house was finished. It now has rooms for Sunday school, and a good auditorium. Besides on the same lot we have a church parlor. This property and the lot would now cost fifteen or twenty thousand dollars. When we undertook to build a manse some of our good people thought it would be a failure. But the work was finished, and it is a valuable property to the church.

In my early days one Sunday morning on my way to preach I stopped at a wayside house. The farmer who gave me a drink of water was invited to attend my preaching. He replied he had work on his fences to do. I built under the labors of Dr. S. A. King, a bell was bought for the church, General Collins advancing the money for it. When our new church was built (more than fifty years later) it was found that the old bell had never been paid for ($50.00). The widow and daughter of General Collins agreed to donate the bell. That bell, after sixty years, is still in use, and together with several other church bells, is heard every Sabbath morning, calling worshippers to church. S. F. Tenney.
