County Agent Reports Area Crop Prospects

Since the first of August is a good time to analyze the crop situation in Bailey County, the Journal contacted County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley for an over-all report on crops in our area.

The agent reports that 'the situation here in our county is very complex. There are producers who have good crops considering the lack of moisture and other weather elements; however, there are other producers that do not have any crop at all this year. Producers in the south part of the county are now faced with complete crop failure, due to the consistent drought that persists in our area. All dry land farmers have suffered tremendously, and there are very few dryland acres in production.'

'On the other hand,' said Tanksley, 'producers in the northern section of Bailey County are fortunate to have a fairly good crop due to the availability of irrigation water.'

Tanksley stated that 'it is believed by most agricultural experts in our area that we have an increase in corn acreage this year however, projected yields may be down in comparison to past years. This year, corn producers have been faced with constant irrigation since pre-watering of beds in March. Stands are estimated to be only 'good' because of the poor germination conditions existing in April. Also, other seedling corn plants were lost due to dry soil and blowing sand. Producers will not be certain what the corn production will be until harvest time.'

'In view of ASCS trial figures, grain sorghum production for our country will probably be approximately one-half the amount of the 1973 crop,' said the County Agent. He continues, 'Grain sorghum is considered to be two to three weeks late because of the late planting dates. A high amount of the grain sorghum has suffered from lack of moisture, insects and other existing drought conditions. Producers should be reminded that in order to make top yield in sorghum, moisture is required during the booting, flowering and seed development stages of the plants.'

Tanksley commented on the cotton crop in Bailey County in the following statement, 'Standing cotton is fruiting well, setting bolls and in peak bloom stage of development.' He also stated in a quote from John Fuston, Bailey County ASCS office that 'as of August 1, standing cotton for Bailey County was 45,467 acres, with another 3,000 acres that will probably not be harvested due to drought disaster.' Tanksley surmised that 'this is about one-half of the 1973 cultivated acreage reported last year.'

The County Agent did say however, that 'irrigated cotton will make excellent yields, providing frost comes at a late date.'

Tanksley reported that the 'vegetable acres are about the same for Bailey County. The potato harvest is in full swing and should be completed within the next two to three weeks. Other crops such as navy beans, peas and peanuts are doing well and will be harvested sometime the first part of October.'

This is the report of the City water study as prepared and presented by Bill R. McMories and Associates, Inc. as of July 25, 1974

I. WATER SUPPLY WELLS

A. of six existing wells a total of 3,700 GPM was shown during the winter; as of July the total GPM was 2,650. The productivity of the wells has dropped significantly since the last report. Due to drought conditions wells are over-worked.

B. FIRM CAPACITY

We need a water supply that can deliver a peak day in 16 hours with the largest well out of service. The present supply has a capacity of (2,650-700) 16 hours X 60 minutes = 1.87 MGD based on this criterion.

C. NEEDS

This year the superintendent reported a peak of 3.2 MGD; We are therefore at least 3.20 - 1.87 or 1.33 MGD deficient in capacity. This equals 924 GPM. We suggest at least two wells be installed at this time with a total capacity of 1,000 GPM. These wells need to be pumped into the south 1,000,000 gallon ground storage. Within three years another well should be constructed.

II. GROUND STORAGE AND BOOSTER PUMPS

A. EXISTING FACILITIES

Out of four existing storage stations there is a total capacity of 1,390,000 from a total of 4,350 GPM Booster Pumps. B. NEEDS (GROUND STORAGE)

It is recommended that you maintain ground storage capacity to equal a 24-hour supply at average usage. Your 1971 annual water consumption was 378 million gallons or 1.04 MGD while in 1972 the usage dropped to 361 million gallons or 0.99 MGD. The present ground storage (1.39 million gallons) should be adequate for many years. (BOOSTER PUMPS)

The booster pumping capacity with the largest unit out of service is 3,100 GPM or 4.43 MGD. If the peak usage of 3.2 MGD occurs in a 16-hour span then the following firm booster pump capacity is needed, taking in account the 250,000 gallons in elevated storage.

3,200,000 gallons usage
250,000 less elevated storage
2,950,000 gallons needed in 16 hours or 3,073 GPM.

We have surplus booster capacity of 3,100 - 3,073 or 27

Large Hail Reported In Sudan Area

A.S.C.S. official John Fuston said in a report to the Journal Tuesday morning 'that the rains in our area over the past two days have given a more optimistic view to the crop situation in Bailey County.' According to Fuston, 'Grain sorghum production could increase an approximate ten per cent in yield. The same could hold true for the cotton yield. Corn will be helped to some extent, where the development is not as far advanced.'

'In the dry land farmers' situation, Fuston said, 'should we receive several more inches of precipitation, wheat and other cover crops could be planted; aiding in a possible good wheat crop depending on coming winter and spring weather conditions. If wheat can come to a good stand, wheat forage for cattle would be in abundance, due to the many acres of cotton and grain land that were not planted this year. However, at this time, we are approximately two to three inches short of enough moisture to plant the wheat. Irrigated farms will have a little relief due to the moisture received this week.'

Regarding Government Aid Fuston stated, 'The recent moisture will have no effect on the already set disaster payments for non-planting; however, the total disaster declaration will depend on the amounts of rain we receive within the next few weeks.'

A general survey by the Journal resulted in rain reports over the country for Monday and Monday night follows: On the Ruel Kirby farm, five miles north of Maple was reported 8/10; with the general Maple area a receiving from one half to two inches. Gary Phillips who farms five miles west, two miles south of Stegall reported two inches; Charles Farmer, twelve miles west and two south of Muleshoe reported one and 2/10 inches; and on another place five miles west of Stegall on the state line 8/10 inches of rain.

Harold Allison who lives eight miles east of Muleshoe reported 1/2 inch of rain.

In the Bula Community, John Blackman reported one inch of rain on their farm with an approximate two inch rain in the general Bula area.

On the Bob Hargett farm, three miles north and three miles west of Clay's Corner they received 1 2/10 inches. Also, near Lazbuddie school one and one half inches of rain was recorded.

Butch Vandivere, three miles north and one and one half mile east of Muleshoe recorded 9/10 inch and John Agee reported that one inch was received on his farm located nine miles north on the Friona Highway.

L.H. Davenport, one half mile north of Needmore recorded .65 and Circleback Baptist Church reported 7/10 inch of rain. The Gore farm located two miles south of Circleback received one and one half inches of rain.

John Gunter, three miles west on FM1760 reports one and one half inches. Seven and one-half miles north west of Muleshoe, Floyd Grimsly recorded one 6/10 inches. Clayton Myers on the Clovis highway reported one and 8/10 inches of rain and one and one-half mile east of West Camp store, one inch of rain was reported.

EDD Chairman

County Judge Glen Williams and Mayor Alex Williams Friday appointed Bob Finney as overall Committee Chairman for certifying Bailey County for an Economic Development District. Economic Development

Districts involved local people on various committees which develop plans to be funded which in turn create jobs.

Economic development districts are designed to keep people in rural areas and assist with federal funding of housing, industry, recreation, health and other public projects at a low rate of interest. Finney explained that committee chairmen would be appointed in the near future and work would get underway in order to certify Bailey County for Economic Development Funds.

DROUGHT AND THE ECONOMY
Despite the vast scientific progress we have made in so many fields during recent years, Mother Nature still calls the tune on much of our farm production and, as a result, on many of the prices in the supermarket.

Government tries to alleviate many of the drastic conditions which cause farm production to behave sometimes in roller coaster fashion. But thus far, we have found no way to break the type of severe drought which now grips much of Texas and a large portion of the Midwest. The lack of moisture will cost Texas farmers many millions of dollars this year -- and, in the face of continuing strong consumer demand, probably will force housewives to pay even higher grocery prices.

Ironically, the current drought hit just as many farmers were planning to increase production. Last year's removal of acreage limitations by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, coupled with increased market prices for many farm products, prompted many farmers to plan increased planting this year. With the demand growing rapidly for food and fiber, both in this country and abroad, this seemed only logical.

But the elements, unfortunately, do not always behave in a logical fashion. Severe weather conditions in virtually all parts of Texas have played havoc with many of these well-laid plans.

Early hail in the major cotton-producing areas of Texas, followed by extremely dry weather, prevented many farmers from being able to plant on time. The drought kept a large amount of acreage from being planted at all, and in many cases, it caused crops far below average. There is still hope for many Texas farmers, but we are now in a critical period when timely rains would enable many producers to make adequate crops. But that is on the hopeful side. We must realize that if the rains do not come soon, many Texas farmers face the possibility of complete crop failures.

We have made great progress in irrigation, of course. But even in areas where irrigation is feasible, severe drought conditions greatly influence production. The long, hot, dry days quickly deplete any moisture which can be applied artificially and many farmers find it impossible to irrigate their crops as often as they would desire.

Most of the cotton in Texas is now in a stage where the next few days may determine the size of the harvest. Grain sorghum plantings must be made very soon -- but it is too dry in many areas to plant sorghums. Wheat plantings are due to begin in most wheat-producing areas of Texas during August and September -- but, without rain, the normal planting intentions mean nothing. And this could have a significant impact on the total amount of wheat available for harvest next summer.

The drought also is compounding the severe problems of cattle producers. Unless the rains come soon, many cattlemen must sell at present low prices or begin feeding, thereby increasing the demand for feed which already is in short supply due to the same drought conditions.

This cattlemen as well as farmers find themselves at the mercy of the elements. This produces complications not only for them, but for all of us who are the consumers.

The current drought underscores the need for further studies into realistic alternatives for adequate water supplies. You can be sure that providing adequate water is one of our most important needs. We must find feasible methods for transferring water from areas which have too much into areas which have too little.

I have sponsored many water conservation measures in the past and will continue to support all those which I believe to be wise investments for the taxpayers. I will also continue to support such agencies as the Soil Conservation Service and soil and water conservation districts -- not just for the benefit of farmers and ranchers but for the benefit of all.

It is a well-known fact that costs of food and fiber production do not include only tractors, fuel, seed and fertilizer. The cost of water is a vital part of the overhead for farmers and ranchers. If we are to have production adequate to meet demand and keep consumer prices at reasonable levels, water for crops must be available at reasonable prices.

The drought has hit some counties in Texas so hard that the Governor has asked that they be designated disaster areas. Such designations make emergency funds available, through the Farmers Home Administration of the Department of Agriculture, to those producers who find themselves hard-hit. This does not solve their problems, but it does alleviate them enough, in most cases, to let them continue operations. I shall continue to cooperate with the Governor's office in trying to expedite such designations in all areas where they are warranted.

Delivery date on an over head water storage tank has been estimated to be in excess of two years.

IV. DISTRIBUTION MAINS
The 12" loop line across the park is needed at this time to strengthen the distribution network.

V. ESTIMATED COSTS
The estimated cost for the above items are as follows: water wells, $100,000; Booster pumps, 12,000; Elevated Storage, 255,000; Distribution mains, $35,000. Total estimated cost would be $402,000.

VI. ORDER OF IMPORTANCE
We suggest the following items be undertaken at this time:

- (a) Two water wells at $61,200; and Lines Bldgs., Etc., $38,800;
- (b) 12" Distribution main at $35,000. This brings a total amount of $141,000 on improvement needed now with an added engineering, contingencies, ect. costs of $14,000 brings a grand total of $155,000.

The City Manager was instructed to investigate Federal and State funds that might be available for water improvement.

Now it's the Governments turn to be cited for air pollution. How did it happen? By trying to dispose of all those worn out dollar bills and other denominations of paper currency. The San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank has been charged with violation of local air pollution rules 13 times in the past 24 months and faces a $500 fine for each infraction. (Each regional Federal Reserve Bank must dispose of worn and unusable paper currency.) The problem is complicated by the fact that our paper money is a combination of 75% cotton and 25% linen. The ink contains iron oxide and lead. This compound give our paper money an average life of just 18 months. But the process for destroying paper and other trash doesn't work very well on our paper currency.

Several of the Federal Reserve Banks burn the worn out currency just as they have for many years. The Dallas Fed uses a hammermill to chew up the currency. This causes problems due to the large amount of space required for the equipment which makes a tremendous racket heard throughout the building when the machinery cranks up. It also creates a fluff several times the volume of the currency being destroyed. Dallas bales this fluff and ships it to a drilling mud company in Kansas. The San Antonio Fed converts its fluff into roofing felt and the Philadelphia Fed converts its fluff into wall plates for electric switches.

Destroying currency by the use of wet chemicals would be a neat solution except for the water pollution and handling problems which it creates. Meanwhile the New York Fed burns over 400-million pieces of money and the Los Angeles branch burns over 150-million bills a year in clean burning incinerators which are loaded with scrubbers, afterburners and mixing chambers designed to reduce air pollution. Although federal agencies are not subject to local air pollution control ordinances, the government is striving to comply. The U.S. Treasury was recently scolded by the District of Columbia Health Dept. for "smoking up" the air during periodic burns. The city has given the Treasury a one-year grace period to cut down on the amount of smoke.

Gold ownership by U.S. citizens will soon become a reality for the first time in four decades, probably by December 31st. Experts disagree on the effect this will have on the price of gold but if you are planning to invest in gold or use it as a hedge against inflation (historically it's been a poor inflation hedge) then the warning to the investor is Caveat Emptor; "let the buyer beware."

Standards of size and purity will be established very soon by the major gold trading exchanges. Be sure that any gold bars which you purchase meet those standards. There are a few gold dealers in the U.S. today but you can bet that new names will swarm into the field once gold ownership finally becomes legal. So, protect yourself by dealing with a long established firm, known for reliability. Fraudulent gold bars that contain less than the stamped amount and with forged stampings of the major gold bullion dealers will begin showing up. The only way to avoid getting caught with a forged bar is to do business with a reputable dealer.

If you intend to buy bullion, don't buy small bars, wafers or medallions. This is what unscrupulous and unregulated silver and placer gold dealers in Utah and Nevada are pushing now with astronomical markups. Buy the biggest bar you can afford. You will pay a higher premium for the smaller bar and take a heavy discount when you get ready to sell it. Wafers and medallions are even harder to sell.

Gold coins are still probably your best bet if you are a determined gold investor. You don't have to wait until gold ownership becomes legal to buy coins. Gold coins are a legal investment now. One of the key advantages in coins is that they are much harder to counterfeit or shave than bars. They also have excellent certification, the government issuing them. They are in effect round bars of gold since each coin contains an ounce or more of gold. They are also easier to sell and have the added intrinsic value of being a collectors item. The best bargains in gold coins are the Austrian 100 Corona (.98 oz. of fine gold) or the Mexican 50 Peso (1.2 oz.). Both are currently selling only 10% to 15% above actual gold content.

If you are going to keep gold or gold coins in your house, get ready for some stiff insurance premiums. You can also keep them in a bank safe-deposit box but remember the banks don't insure the contents of the box.

The effort to make money often prevents the making of a man.

Growth Predicted For Texas Cattle Feeding

COLLEGE STATION -- The Texas Cattle Feeding Industry is projected to reach at least 7.3 million head level by 1980. That would be 70 per cent greater than the 4.3 million head output recorded in 1972, predicts Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Uvacek says, "Demand for beef is forecasted to continue to rise steadily through 1980. This will be brought about by a larger population and a substantial increase in the per capita disposable income level, plus added demand factors such as the food stamp program."

In 1973 Texas fed cattle marketings represented 17 per cent of the national total. If Texas attains the projected 7.3 million head level by 1980 and the rest of the nation grows to the expected 38.5 million head level, the Texas share of the national output will increase to 19 per cent.

"My guess would be that Texas cattle feeding could easily reach that 7.3 million level and maybe even as much as 7.7 million head," contends Uvacek.

The trend toward larger feedlots also seems certain. With bigger lots being utilized more efficiently, fewer such facilities will be needed. The upper-end of the Texas Panhandle has recorded the major growth in feedlots, in slaughtering plants and related beef industry firms. This area is in the sorghum belt, the principal cattle-feed supply region.

One interesting facet of this feeding expansion in the High Plains of Texas is the fact that within less than a 100 mile radius from Amarillo are four other cattle feeding areas in other states. These other areas are still within easy reach of the same sorghum supplies, the same packers and the same other related industries. What then will keep cattle feeding in Texas? Probably even more important than that -- Uvacek asks, "What factors will cause cattle feeding to shift out of Texas?"

He lists several important items -- a state corporate tax, state income tax, more stringent pollution laws, imbalance in intra-versus inter-state transportation rates, attitude of Texas toward the cattle feeding business, and other state or federal regulations affecting the industry.

"Certainly these and numerous other economic and political influences will dictate whether or not Texas can retain its leadership role in cattle feeding. They may even be more important than competitive advantages.

"All Texans must not only realize that Texas makes beef, but also that beef contributes greatly to the economic well-being of everyone in the state. The cattle feeding industry deserves and must receive everyone's support," emphasizes Uvacek. "It is the underlying industry that supports thousands of others related industries."

McMorries & Associates, Inc., not later than 48 hours prior to the time for receiving bids; or (2) The Contractor submits a bid and all documents are returned in good condition to Bill R. McMorries & Associates, Inc., not later than five days after the time that bids are received.

All proposals shall be accompanied by a cashier's check of certified check upon a national or state bank in the amount of five (5%) percent of the total maximum bid price payable without recourse to the City or a bid bond in the same amount from a reliable surety company, as a guarantee that bidder will enter into a contract and execute such bonds as may be required within ten days after notice of award of contract to him. The bid security must be enclosed in the same envelope with the bid. Bids without check or bid bond will not be considered.

THE SUCCESSFUL BIDDER on the project will be required to furnish a performance bond and payment bond, each in the full amount of the contract, written by a responsible surety company authorized to do business in the State of Texas, and satisfactory to the City Council as required by Article 5160, V.A.T.C.S. Attention of bidders is also directed to the provisions of Article 5159a, V.A.T.C.S., requiring that not less than the general prevailing rates of per diem wages for work of similar character in the locality where the work is performed shall be paid all laborers, workmen and mechanics in the construction of public works.

BIDDERS are expected to inspect the site of the work and to inform themselves of all local conditions, and carefully examine the plans, specifications and other documents. Should a bidder find discrepancies in, or omissions from, the plans, specifications or other documents, or should he question their meaning, he should at once notify the Engineer and obtain clarification prior to submitting any bid.

NO BID may be withdrawn for a least thirty (30) days after the scheduled closing time for receipt of bids. All bidders within three (3) days after the opening of bids, and the remaining bid securities will be returned promptly after the City and the successful bidder have executed the contract and furnished performance and payment bonds, or, if no award has been made within thirty (30) days after the date of the opening of bids, upon demand of the bidder at any time thereafter, so long as he has not been notified of the acceptance of his bid.

On the date and time set for the awarding of the contract (September 3, 1974, 8:30 o'clock a.m.) the City proposed to authorize the issuance of Certificates of Obligation (payable from taxation) in the maximum principal amount of $50,000 in payment of all or a portion posed to be incurred. The successful bidder will be required to accept such certificates in payment of all or a portion of the contract price or assign such certificates to the party with whom the City has made provision for the contractor to sell and assign such certificates at their face value (no accrued interest), and each bidder shall be required to elect on the bid form whether he will accept or assign such certificates.

In case of ambiguity of lack of clarity in stating the contract price the City reserves the right to consider the most advantageous construction thereof. In addition, the City reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive formalities. Alex H. Williams Mayor, City of Muleshoe, Texas. 15-32-2tc

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm examines foreign policy this week, more or less.

Dear editor: There are some things in life there's no use trying to understand. I gave up on U.S. foreign policy long ago.

Take a recent example. As I understand it, a large portion of opium reaching this country comes from poppies grown in Turkey, so to try to put a stop to it the U.S. a couple of hundred million dollars or so such amount not to grow poppies, and Turkey agreed, took the money and stopped its farmers from growing the things. Maybe taught them to grow food.

Now however the money has all been used up and Turkey has told its farmers to start growing poppies again.

Naturally and rightly this outraged Washington, so much so it has even talked about cutting off all the military and economic aid we're giving Turkey, which runs into the millions of dollars annually.

But of course we won't do it. Our foreign policy operates like the proprietor of a small town or city neighborhood grocery store used to operate. He'd extend credit right and left and most folks would pay up but occasionally he'd get a customer who wouldn't, and when the bill got up pretty high, say up to $1,000, the owner would consult with himself and say, "you know, I've got to cut off that fellow's credit, tell him he can't charge any more until he pays up his back bill." Then he'd get to thinking further and say, "no, if I cut him off, he'll get mad, won't try to pay his back bill and furthermore will take his business some place else."

A lot of such grocerymen eventually went broke and went to work for cash-and-carry supermarkets, but some of them, I'm convinced, went to Washington and got control of our foreign policy. They work in offices just down the street from the marginal farmers who couldn't make a go of it on the land and are now running the postal service.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.
