Gilmore executed after stay lifted

Judge David Lewis shows credentials before entering Denver court building.

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP) — Gary Mark Gilmore, the killer who demanded death and twice attempted suicide in prison, was executed by a Utah firing squad today, held to a chair by white nylon straps.

The 36-year-old Gilmore was the first person to be executed in the United States in nearly 10 years. His lengthy fight for the execution, which was stayed three times, drew worldwide attention.

Gilmore, sentenced for the shooting death of a Provo, Utah, motel clerk, wore a T-shirt and pants as he faced the five-man rifle squad in what was once the prison cannery. He died at 8:06 a.m. MST.

A witness said blood emerged through Gilmore's black shirt onto his white pants after the riflemen fired.

Some 40 minutes after a federal appeals court in Denver overturned the third stay of Gilmore's execution, a spokesman for the prison dictated a short announcement of the death. Outside the prison, some 60 opponents of capital punishment stood in silence.

"The order of the 4th District Court has been carried out. Gary Mark Gilmore is dead," the prison spokesman told newsmen.

Lawrence Schiller, who has the rights to Gilmore's life story, then described the execution. He said there were about 20 other people at the execution. Gilmore talked briefly with Warden Samuel Smith but Schiller could not hear what was said.

A prison employee passed out cotton to witnesses to guard their ears from the sound of the rifle fire.

Gilmore did not move in the chair. He spoke to his uncle, Vern Damico, to Schiller and to his lawyers, Robert L. Moody and Ronald Stanger. Stanger hugged him around the neck.

The warden then read a legal order. Gilmore looked directly at the warden without quivering.

"Gary looked up for an extended period of time and said, 'Let's do it,'" Schiller said.

"There were some emotional exchanges. A priest, a doctor and several other prison employees placed a hood over Gilmore's head. He was wearing tennis shoes.

"He did not move when the hood was placed over him," Schiller said. "We could not hear anything that was being said."

"All the prison personnel moved away. Father Thomas Mearsman gave some rites to Gilmore before the hood was placed over his head.

"A circular target was placed on Gilmore's T-shirt. I think I saw the warden give the signal out of the corner of my eye. I heard three noises in quick rapid succession — bang, bang, bang. Gary's body moved. His head turned slightly to the left."

Then slowly red blood emerged from under the black T-shirt onto the white slacks.

Moody, one of Gilmore's two attorneys, said Gilmore had asked to stand and face his executioners and to not have the black hood.

Damico, the uncle, told newsmen after the execution: "I would like to say at this time, Gary, my nephew, died like he wanted to die, in dignity. He got his wish to die. He died in dignity. That's all I have to say."

Gilmore's other lawyer, Stanger, said through tears that he spent the night with Gilmore. "He was even trying to teach us some western songs," Stanger said of Gilmore. "He made the statement that he had received a gift. That gift was he knew when was going to die and he was indeed fortunate. In the wee hours of the morning, he expressed thanks and some sorrow. He was a good man. He expressed love for children."

Schiller said that after he heard the report of the rifles, "The body still had movement for approximately 15 to 20 seconds."

He said that as he left the execution site, the stretcher to remove Gilmore's body was coming forward "and no one looked back."

"Gilmore seemed aware of

Sorensen asks Carter to withdraw nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Theodore C. Sorensen stunned the Senate Intelligence Committee today by disclosing that he had asked President-elect Jimmy Carter to withdraw his nomination to be director of the CIA.

Sorensen did not say what Carter's response had been, but committee chairman Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, indicated that the committee would accede to Sorensen's wish to step aside.

The former counsel and close associate to President John F. Kennedy dropped his bombshell at the close of a lengthy statement in which he asserted he was qualified for the post and denied a series of what he called "scurrilous and unfounded personal attacks which have anonymously circulated against me."

The allegations to which he referred were that he had mishandled and improperly used classified materials from the Kennedy administration, might have known of U.S. plots to kill foreign leaders, had taken a questionable tax deduction upon donating papers to a library, held pacifist views and tried to avoid military service and might be involved in conflicts of interest because as a lawyer he had represented several foreign governments.

In seeking to withdraw his name, Sorensen said it was clear that some senators and many members of the intelligence community were not ready to accept his views that the CIA should be subject to greater controls and should allow more information about itself to be made public and that the director's job was to provide "objective intelligence not policy to the President."

He said, "These critics view this post as part of the national security decision-making apparatus and prefer in that post someone with policy commitments more like their own." He did not name the critics.

There was no immediate comment from Carter or his aides in Plains, Ga.

Jurek hopes for stay in Tuesday execution

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Jerry Lane Jurek, whose case served as the U.S. Supreme Court test of Texas' death penalty, waited in his cell today for word on a possible stay of execution.

Jurek, 25, of Cuero, was sentenced to death in the August 1973 strangulation death of a 10-year-old girl.

Barring any stay of execution, Jurek is scheduled to die moments after midnight Tuesday in "Old Sparky," the Texas Department of Corrections electric chair.

Prison officials said Jurek was to be asked today to name the five persons he wanted to watch him die.

Raising top steers Martin County habit

STANTON — "They're dead and gone," farmer-stockman Vernon Holcomb said. He did not once twitch, sigh or otherwise show a sign of regret.

"It's a shame you can't keep 'em," he said of a couple of blue-ribbon steers.

It also would be a shame not to latch onto a windfall that would fill a couple of bank bags with $35,000 and $23,000 in good ol' U.S. greenbacks and coins. The once hefty and well-groomed steers that impressed livestock judges and that gave delight to their owners were turned into beef steaks and other choice cuts.

Yes, those well-hoofed and top-of-the-line steers that the Vernon Holcomb and Sammy Yates youngsters groomed with pride were sold "for money," Holcomb said. "That's the name of the game."

All that money was won last year at the Houston Fat Stock Show by the two Martin County families.

Tana Yates, 18, showed the family's 1,145-pound Maine-Anjou steer called "Old Joe." The "old" steer was only 20 months into his life at the time he was judged the grand champion steer. He brought $35,000 at the chopping block.

Fine specimen. Great hunk of juicy flesh.

No more grazing. No more green pastures.

Now, Susan Holcomb, 12, showed her family's 1,146-pound Black Limousin steer named "Black Jack." He took second place — the reserve grand champion steer — at the livestock show.

Old Black Jack commanded, so to speak, $23,000.

Again, the ax fell heavily and surely.

Holcomb described the Houston show as the "world's richest livestock show." Tana Yates said it is the "Big

Ford presents $440 billion budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford handed Congress today a lame-duck federal budget of $440 billion for 1978 that calls for a substantial increase in defense spending and permanent tax cuts totaling $47.5 billion over the next six years.

Ford, who has only three days remaining of his presidency, said his budget would "help us to fulfill the promise of America." But President-elect Carter's advisers already were at work on changes to fulfill the Democrat's own promises to the voters.

Ford's tax cut plans likely will receive little attention from both Congress and from Carter, who has his own tax-reduction plans and who wants to use any increased tax receipts to pay for new programs, such as health insurance, rather than turn that revenue back to taxpayers.

Carter plans to submit proposed changes to the Ford budget to Congress in mid-February, after which the Democratic-controlled Congress will hammer out a final budget for the year beginning Oct. 1 undoubtedly more to Carter's liking than to Ford's.

Ford's budget provides for a 7 per cent increase in spending over the estimated 1977 budget expenditures of $411 billion. Since receipts are estimated at $393 billion, there would be a 1978 deficit of $47 billion, down from $57 billion this year.

Carter, however, already has said the 1977 budget deficit will have to be increased to between $70 billion to $75 billion if Congress approves his $30-billion tax cut-jobs program to stimulate the economy.

Ford gave up on his campaign pledge to aim toward a balanced budget in 1979. Even if all his recommendations were accepted for this year and next, there would still be a deficit of $11.6 billion in 1979, he said.

He said this was the fault of Congress for not approving his previous recommendations for spending restraint.

But despite the reasons he gave, it brought a sigh of relief from Carter's advisers who had felt the psychological impact of a Ford proposal for a balanced budget in 1979 could make it more difficult for Carter to get public acceptance of a bigger deficit this year.

Ford again asked Congress to approve some of the same spending restraints it had rejected in the past, including $2 billion from Medicare, $1.2 billion from child nutrition programs and $800 million from food stamps.

Of the $12.4 billion in spending restraint Ford proposed, about $9 billion of it was termed as "silly, not serious stuff" by Bob Hartman, a budget adviser to Carter.

"They are old-hat reductions that Congress did not act on in the last year or two," he said, predicting they would again be rejected.

Ford proposed a $12-billion increase in defense spending for 1978 to a total of $112 billion with new outlays for the controversial B1 bomber and development work on the sophisticated intercontinental MX missile that eventually could cost $30 billion.

The budget "assumes" 244 B1 bombers will be produced, according to Ford budget aides. Carter has taken a guarded position on whether the plane should be produced and has not outlined a position on the MX missile.

The tax-cut plan provides for a $7.2-billion reduction in income taxes this year, followed by additional reductions of $14.7 billion in 1978, $7.3 billion in 1980, $19.6 billion in 1981 and $30.6 billion in 1982.

These reductions would be partially offset by increases in Social Security taxes, so the net reduction would be $47.5 billion. The program includes tax cuts for business, as well as individuals.

James T. Lynn, Ford's budget

director, said the purpose of the cuts would be to maintain the share of income that Americans pay in taxes roughly the same as it is now. Without the reductions, he said the tax payments of the average family would increase 39 per cent by 1982.

But the plan also appeared designed to build public pressures to keep Carter from ever having the $60-billion budget surplus the president-elect says he hopes to have by 1981 to help pay for new and expanded government programs. He has pledged to have a balanced budget by then.

Under Ford's proposals for 1977, a family of four with an income of $10,000 a year would receive a reduction of $166 in income taxes, which would be partially offset by a $30-hike in Social Security taxes for a net gain of $136.

Carter to propose big changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter will propose big changes in President Ford's budget, possibly including rejection of about $9 billion in spending cuts a Carter aide calls "silly, not serious stuff."

Many of the President-elect's proposals are likely to win favor in the overwhelmingly Democratic Congress, rendering Ford's budget obsolete.

"We can turn the Ford budget around into a Carter budget within 30 days all by ourselves," one congressional source quoted Rep. Brock Adams, then chairman of the House Budget Committee, as telling Carter shortly after the election.

Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's domestic policy adviser, says: "There are a number of areas which we're interested in and that we're going to make revisions in, but that should be distinguished from the writing of a complete budget."

Eizenstat said there isn't time to do that, Carter plans to submit his budget proposals in mid-February.

Bob Hartman, a Carter budget adviser, said Congress may reject about $9 billion of the $12.4 billion in cuts proposed by Ford because they are "silly, not serious... (and) old-hat reductions that Congress has not acted on in the last year or two."

He cited reductions for food stamps, saying the cuts already have been ruled out of order by the courts, and reductions for Medicare. In addition, Carter has called for increasing spending to create jobs, rather than the cutback Ford proposes.

Ford has proposed a lame duck budget of $440 billion for fiscal 1978, beginning Oct. 1. That would be a 7 per cent increase in government spending. It includes a $12-billion jump for defense and calls for new spending on the B1 bomber, which Carter has indicated he doesn't favor.

The President-elect has said he will cut $5 billion to $7 billion in Pentagon waste, but that this cannot be done immediately. He said there can be an even larger reduction if he succeeds in reducing tensions in the Middle East.

Carter said the money "would be available in the general fund for tax reduction, for social programs or perhaps for other kinds of expenditures."

Ford's budget envisions a net $47.5-billion tax cut in five years. Carter and leading congressional Democrats have agreed in principle on a two-year, $30-billion program of job projects and tax cuts. Carter's plan emphasizes a large, one-time rebate and smaller permanent tax reduction.

Under Ford's proposals, a family of four with income of $10,000 a year would have its 1977 income tax reduced by $166 but its Social Security tax increased by $30 for a net gain of $136. Carter has said the same family could expect a $100 to $200 rebate on its 1976 taxes under his plan and permanent $100 reductions in future years. Carter's tax cuts benefit lower income persons more than Ford's proposals do.

Carter has not advocated increasing the Social Security tax rate.

Bill Dillon invites you to stop at the Bill Dillon State Farm Insurance Agency, 1202 Andrews Highway, for all your insurance needs.

Dillon celebrates 15 years in Midland

Bill Dillon opened a State Farm Insurance Agency in October of 1961 in a small office on Second Street behind Barnes Pelletier Shoe Store. Dillon, who had been with Shell Oil Company in Midland for five and a half years, said that he had to go out and get business since no one could find his office. Since that beginning fifteen years ago, his business has steadily grown. Dillon ranks number 97 in sales in a ranking of 12,500 agents in the United States and Canada and is still climbing. At the time he opened his office, several people told him that he was foolish to quit a secure job with a major oil company to try selling, particularly since his degree was in an unrelated field. The beginning was small, but now he operates a large, successful agency. Dillon insures approximately 1500 homes and businesses and over 2500 automobiles. He sells in excess of $1,000,000 in life insurance each year. Dillon said that one secret of his success is the fact that he gets personally involved with his clients' claims. Policyholders claims should be handled promptly. Dillon realizes that no one likes to wait on money that is due. He enjoys writing company drafts to pay his clients' claims. "It is a pleasure to represent an organization such as the State Farm Insurance Company."

Dillon said, "State Farm is the most respected name in the industry as well as being the world's largest writer of automobile and homeowners' policies." Dillon continued, "Midland people are intelligent as well as beautiful. If a company offers a product at a good price and that product is serviced properly, people will buy from that company and stay with that company." This spring, Bill Dillon Agency will be expanding its offices to include the entire building at 1202 Andrews Highway. Stop in and see Bill and his friendly staff. If you have not talked with Bill Dillon about insurance, you may be missing a good deal.

Defective 'airbag' deflates Nader skit

NEW YORK (AP) — When consumer advocate Ralph Nader paid a visit to "NBC Saturday Night," it was supposed to be all fun and games. But before the show got as far as the first commercial, he had discovered a defective auto airbag.

In one of the first comedy routines, Nader, the guest host, was supposed to embrace Laraine Newman, one of the show's regulars, and whisper a veiled suggestion: "Does your car have airbags?" At that point an airbag — a safety feature being pushed by some consumer forces — was supposed to balloon from Nader's shirt.

The airbag had worked perfectly in four rehearsals, but fizzled on the live show. "I think GM sabotaged it," Nader joked afterward. General Motors is the most famous target of Nader's efforts for the consumer. The show opened with Nader in cowboy hat and sequins, telling the audience, "For 90 minutes tonight I'm just going to cut loose. I'm here to have fun. I'm Ralph Nader, Mr. Goodtime." Earlier, he had told the crew that the makeup they wanted to put on his face "contained red dye No. 2 and can cause cancer."

On the way to wardrobe, Nader informed a cast member that the frankfurter he was eating might contain rodent hairs and rat excrement. Then came the airbag snafu. Afterward, Mr. Goodtime told the audience he was happy NBC was treating him well despite the fact that his research group "has just sued them for $10 million for deceptive advertising." The camera promptly went out of focus.

Inflation rate decline gratifying, but still high

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The decline of inflation in the industrial world since 1974 has been gratifying, even though a deep recession was required to bring it about, even though it still leaves us with more than we want.

In 1974 the United States experienced consumer price inflation of about 11 per cent. In 1976, the rate declined to between 5 and 6 per cent.

In Japan the rate fell from 24.5 per cent to a bit more than 9; in Germany from 7 to 3.7; in France from 13.7 to 10.1; in Canada from 10.8 to 5.6.

The two big problem economies, the United Kingdom and Italy, remained exceptions, the rate in Italy rising from 19.1 per cent in 1974 to 21.3 in 1976, and the British rate falling only 1 percentage point to 15. But even the British have shown improvement of late, their rate falling from 24.2 in 1975.

Gratifying, but apparently not encouraging, Leaders of some large economies have been left so shaken by inflation that they are wary of expansionary measures, and are opting instead for another year of restraint.

While this might in the long run be viewed as good common sense, the immediate effect will be to leave people unemployed and other resources underutilized and, as some see it, run the risk of recession all over again.

The disturbing reality is that what occurs these days in one of the large trading nations inevitably has its impact on the economies of others, no matter what those other economies do to protect their own interests.

In the United States, where restraint remains obvious in the final budget and economic program presented by President Ford, growth this year is widely expected to be around 4.5 per cent without stimulation, 5.5 with it.

While this is sufficient to cut into unemployment, it still is likely to leave the country with what used to be felt was an unacceptable rate, somewhere between 6.5 per cent and 7 per cent of the civilian labor force.

But what continues to worry some economists is not what the United States does so much as what other economies are likely to do. Japan and Germany are of particular concern, since both are constraining expansion.

Praphas, home from exile, still force in Thailand

By LEWIS M. SIMONS
The Washington Post

BANGKOK — Thailand's former military strongman, Field Marshal Praphas Charusathien, who returned from three years of political exile just over a week ago, met the press and said that he was "an old man" who wanted to live out his remaining years quietly in his homeland.

But the actions of the 65-year-old ex-dictator and the homage paid him since his return from Taiwan on Jan. 8 leave little doubt that he is once again a force to be reckoned with in Thailand's turbulent political life.

Already, Thai and foreign observers are describing Praphas as "the most powerful man in the country." It is anticipated that he will exercise a powerful hand in guiding the military-backed government which seized power last Oct. 6 and cleared the way for his return.

But as he spoke to about 100 newsmen on the rear patio of his palatial residence here, Praphas said nothing could be further from the truth. Asked what his plans were, he replied, "Anything I can do to help the country I will do. But as for politics — enough."

Implying that he was a poor man, Praphas said his first priority was "a find-food-to-eat project." Several times he noted that he wasn't even sure whether he still owned his home.

This was a reference to the fact that the vast house, together with his fleet of automobiles, pleasure boats and other property were confiscated by the government when the military dictatorship headed by Praphas, former Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn and Thanom's son, Lt. Gen. Narong Kittikachorn, was ousted in a student-led rebellion in October 1973.

However, the new regime, which toppled the Democratic government last Oct. 6, has cleared the trio of all blame in the rebellion — during which at least 70 students were slain — and there is little doubt that their property will be restored.

Praphas had tried to return to Thailand once before, on Aug. 19. But following student rioting, during which two students were killed, the government of former Prime Minister Seni Pramroj compelled him to return to Taiwan one week later.

One month after Praphas slipped into Bangkok, Thanom entered the country from his own exile in Singapore and immediately was ennobled as a Buddhist monk in a temple under the patronage of Thailand's royal family.

This move triggered another student demonstration at Thammasat University. This swiftly led to a bloody campus battle between police and students, the collapse of the Seni government and the coup by military officers who remain the real powers behind a thin veneer of civilian administration.

The role of the royal family in the coup is a subject of much conjecture and gossip among Thais and foreign observers in Bangkok. However, because criticism of the crown is a serious crime in this Buddhist kingdom, the subject is never discussed publicly or in print.

It is clear, though, that both Thanom and Praphas were able to return to Thailand only after King Bhumibol Adulyadej granted them permission. Narong, who is married to one of Praphas' three daughters and is reportedly disliked by the king, remains in exile in Dusseldorf, Germany. Praphas told journalists that his son-in-law was in poor health and had no immediate plans to return.

Some observers believe that Narong will not be allowed to enter Thailand until the present regime feels more secure. Narong, who headed the government's anti-corruption committee, was widely suspected by students and other opponents of the former regime as being deeply involved in Thailand's massive illicit drug trade and other corrupt practices.

As one indication of the power Praphas commands now that he is back and the nation is once again under military rule, he was granted a three-hour audience by the king on Jan. 12.

at Safeway. Yes, you!

Carter as yet almost unknown in Soviet Union

The Los Angeles Times

MOSCOW—The Kremlin has nervous frowns for candidate Jimmy Carter. For President-elect Carter it has cautious smiles as inauguration day nears.

Nothing succeeds like success. The Soviet leaders know they must deal with him for at least four years and naturally hope to start without rancor. But the Soviet press is also reflecting a Carter who, having beaten Ford and Kissinger, now sounds less hostile to Moscow and detente. He still speaks of the need to negotiate but has dropped the threat to use economic leverage, for example, to get better deals than the Republicans did.

His Cabinet and top aides have been broadly welcomed, including the two least likable to the Soviet Union, Secretary of State-designate Cyrus Vance and National Security adviser-designate Zbigniew Breznevski. Both men "paid tribute" to the cold war in the past, Pravda said. But, it added, both have "partially revised their views in the spirit of realism, and support, although with certain reservations, the continuation of the process of detente and the search for constructive agreements with the U.S.S.R., above all on the limitation of strategic arms."

A more chauvinistic impression can be heard, too. "He's picked a lot of women for his Cabinet," said a Russian woman, smiling. The 15-member Politburo here has had only one woman member, and none in more than a decade.

Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, in a year-end interview, said the first order of business in Soviet-American relations is to reach a new SALT agreement "at the earliest possible date." The existing treaty expires in October. Carter appears to recognize "the urgency of the question," Brezhnev added, and expressed "hope that this promises early success." He clearly made SALT the compass by which the Kremlin will set its relations with the Carter White House.

Brezhnev promised that the Soviet Union would not test the inexperienced new President as Nikita S. Khrushchev had challenged John F. Kennedy with a bristling pre-inaugural speech and pressure on West Berlin. But it is inevitable that Carter will be tested, and early, and on SALT.

He is very much an unknown quantity here — "a one-term Georgia governor who has never even visited the Soviet Union," said one Soviet journalist. The first bilateral negotiation, which will be on SALT, will be a learning process for the Kremlin which must be expected to push hard, both to get the best deal and to get a good measure of Carter.

It is too early to expect the Soviet people to have a clear impression of Carter yet. But he has been getting considerable exposure on television since the election, most of it neutral or slightly positive.

A month ago the most popular TV news program carried a U.S. Information Agency film biography of Carter lasting over five minutes. A Soviet commentator then cautioned about "elements of polishing" in the film, that Carter had won with the help of monopolies as well as the people, that his family farm was a capitalist enterprise that made millions in profits, and so forth.

But the film had run without a single cut, which was unprecedented. No USIA film has ever done that here before, not even that on Kennedy after the assassination, and Kennedy was the closest any American official has come to hero status here since World War II.

Practically every night since then the TV news has had an item on Carter, often with a still picture of him, sometimes with a short film clip. At times it's a blast at the military-industrial complex, but usually, although brief and very selective, it is straightforward.

Inadvertently and also for the first time, the Soviet public is getting a look at the transition process at work. Soviet intellectuals are said to have become very interested in this aspect of American democracy.

'Medal of Freedom'

Henry Kissinger has received the Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian award, presented last Thursday night by President Ford at a reception given by the Washington diplomatic corps for the outgoing secretary of State.

It certainly was a well-deserved honor, made all the more significant as the President referred to the award recipient as the "greatest secretary of State in the history of our republic."

"He has a record of unprecedented scope and enormous accomplishment," President Ford said in making the surprise presentation.

Kissinger was credited by the President with much of the success of the Ford administration, citing a lengthy list of the secretary's achievements.

And the list of accomplishments is fantastic. If one will go back and review the record, President Ford had done just that and there was no reason for hesitancy on his part in awarding the coveted medal and in listing Kissinger's major achievements as secretary of State.

The secretary, after expressing appreciation for the nation's highest civilian decoration, praised President Ford on his 29-month presidency, which ends this week.

"I believe history will record that our President preserved America when enormous dangers threatened it," Kissinger said.

Addressing Ford, he continued: "... Out of difficulties and potential chaos you fashioned the world in which we are today.... In every trouble spot of the world, there is more hope today than when you took office."

Kissinger most certainly knew whereof he spoke in this regard, as a vast majority of Americans will agree.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

CIA, Cuba planned germ warfare

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Apparently, the United States and Cuba planned to wage germ warfare against one another's livestock a few years back.

The Senate Intelligence Committee is already investigating the startling charge that the CIA spread African swine fever in Cuba. The disease devastated the island's pig population.

Now we have learned that the Cubans had a scheme of their own to infect U.S. cattle with hoof-and-mouth disease. The idea eventually was abandoned, but in April, 1962, Cuban Politburo member Antonio Nunez Jimenez discussed the hoof-and-mouth plot with four top Cuban scientists.

The amazing story has been buried in intelligence documents, which we have now seen.

Nunez Jimenez informed the four scientists, according to an intelligence memo, "that Cuba was now ready to give the United States a 'dose of its own medicine.'"

"Nunez Jimenez further explained," continued the memo, "that Cuba had the ability, through specially trained agents, to destroy the cattle industry of the United States by spreading an epizootic fever known commonly as 'hoof-and-mouth disease.'"

A hoof-and-mouth epidemic would have forced the destruction of the infected cattle. An outbreak in the United States in 1929 and in Mexico in 1946 wiped out millions worth of livestock.

Federal agents, alarmed at the first-person account of Nunez Jimenez' threat, made further inquiries and found that "the Cuban government had opened a bacteriological laboratory in Soroa, Pinar del Rio Province."

This secret lab, "located in the former orchid gardens of Soroa," was run by a Spanish exile named Dr. Martinez Viera. He was assisted by a Cuban and a former American resident. The latter was a woman who washed the test tubes and vials used by Dr. Viera, reported the memo.

At the time of the memo, written in 1963, it appeared that "Nunez Jimenez had made arrangements for three Soviet bacteriologists to take over the laboratory."

One purpose of the lab, interestingly, was to "determine the cause of an epidemic which completely destroyed the birds of a turkey farm." However, we can find no evidence that the turkeys, like a reported 500,000 Cuban pigs, may have been the victims of CIA germ warfare.

- ANOTHER COVERUP? There is no longer any question about it: both the FBI and CIA withheld essential facts from the Warren Commission about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The FBI never allowed the commission access to its files, and the members were so intimidated by the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover that they never protested. Instead, they relied upon FBI summaries and Hoover's letters.

We have now learned, for example, that the FBI had in its files at least 69 reports on the pre-assassination activities of Lee Harvey Oswald. Only 46 of these were summarized for the Warren Commission; the remaining 23 were held back. Thus, the commission accused Oswald of the murder

KNOW YOUR HEMISPHERE: Panama talks about ties with Russians

By WILLIAM GIANDONI
Copley News Service

Panama still has one card up its sleeve in its prolonged effort to get a new canal treaty out of the United States — diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union.

But dictator Gen. Omar Torrijos is getting conflicting advice how to play it.

Some responsible Panamanians are urging caution on Torrijos, the National Guard officer who has run Panama most of the time since the October, 1968, revolution toppled the country's last elected president.

Others, including his foreign minister, Aquilino Boyd, favor the idea of establishing formal ties with the Soviet Union.

Typical of advice to the contrary was the open letter that Dr. Edgardo Burgos, former Panamanian ambassador to Argentina, wrote to Boyd recently.

Burgos warned that establishment of diplomatic relations with the Moscow government at this time could prejudice Panama's chances of obtaining a new treaty with the United States on the future of the Panama Canal.

Formalization of relations with the Soviet Union would hardly be the way to convince President-elect Jimmy Carter and his new administration that Panama would be immune to blandishments from the Communist block if only the country were to control the canal, Burgos suggested.

Foreign Minister Boyd, on the other hand, seems to feel that such action might spur the new U.S. government into prompt conclusion of a canal treaty.

The decision is up to Torrijos and, Boyd said, the general has not yet indicated his intentions on the matter of Soviet relations to the foreign ministry. As "chief of government," Torrijos outranks Panamanian President Demetrio Lakas and is in charge of directing the Isthmian Republic's foreign policy.

Boyd made his own opinion clear. "The foreign ministry is in favor of Panama establishing relations with the USSR, which, as you well know, is one of the two nuclear superpowers in the world and also one of the two superpowers with the greatest military and industrial strength in the world," Boyd told a recent Panamanian interviewer.

Boyd also said that Panama has the impression that the Carter administration expects a draft treaty to be ready for submission to the U.S. Congress by June, 1977.

Were that to happen, it would mean the successful conclusion of negotiations that began 13 years ago, in 1964, during the administration of President Lyndon B. Johnson, and which have gone on ever since.

The basis for the prolonged talks in recent years has been the "statement of principles" which Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and then-Panamanian Foreign Minister Juan Antonio Tack signed in Panama in February, 1974. Under that Tack-Kissinger declaration, the United States agreed to abandon its claim to control of the canal "in perpetuity," forever, as provided in the Treaty of 1903 under which the United States built the interoceanic waterway.

However, one of the major stumbling blocks in the talks since then has been precisely the length of time during which the United States would retain jurisdiction over the canal. Panama has been insisting on taking control by the year 2000; the United States wants a date well into the next century.

Although Boyd did say that "the Ford as well as the Carter administration expects the draft treaty to be ready by June, 1977," Panama apparently still lacks assurance that the Carter government will in fact pursue the talks.

The conclusion may be drawn from Boyd's expression of hope "that when the Carter administration assumes office, we can issue a joint communique stating that the new government is interested in continuing the negotiations based on the (Tack-Kissinger) agreement of principles in order to conclude a treaty in the first months of 1977, at the latest."

The guns of NATO

The combined resources of the 15 nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization provide an imposing defense force in manpower and in weapons technology.

And that, paradoxically, is NATO's chief problem.

In the early days of the alliance, the United States developed most of the military hardware. Equipment was relatively simple and was quickly adopted and mastered by the member nations.

But economic recovery in Europe changed all that.

As the European nations expanded their armament industries, manufacturers and politicians put on nationalistic pressure to buy at home. As a consequence, the proliferation of types and standards of weapons has eroded NATO's potential for military efficiency.

NATO forces today are armed, for example, with 41 different naval guns, 31 different antitank weapons, 36 varieties of fire control radar and they require 50 types of ammunition. They are confronted with a multiplicity of spare parts, mountings, procedures and operational requirements.

The weapons, unfortunately, are not interchangeable — or, in NATO language, "interoperable."

At a time when Communist spending on arms is running away from restricted Western budgets, the weapons gap can be kept from widening only by getting maximum use of the funds available.

The diversity of arms programs is inconsistent with that objective.

The military and defense officials of the several nations are aware of the problems and are taking belated steps to make corrections. Acknowledging the nationalistic tendencies in Europe today, they concede that total standardization is impossible.

But they do hope to produce a weapons system which can be more harmonious and more effective.

The contemplated policy would require certification from NATO that equipment under development is blessed with "interoperability."

It is little enough to ask of the suppliers to the organization to which half of the world looks for security.

INSIDE REPORT:

New voice -- that of Harold Brown -- at the Pentagon

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The chilling realization that the Pentagon will cease Cassandra warnings of fatal dangers in the massive Soviet military buildup came early in Tuesday's Senate confirmation hearing on Harold Brown as Secretary of Defense.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, doughty champion of military preparedness, tossed a softball to Dr. Brown. Noting the protracted Soviet buildup in conventional and nuclear arms, Jackson asked: "What are they up to?"

Brown's Republican predecessors of the past eight years would have stroked that pitch over the wall by relating the Soviet buildup to Communist political activism throughout the world. Brown merely fouled it off. "We are going to have to learn to live with ambiguity," he remarked ambiguously, professing inability to give a clear answer.

Throughout the long day's testimony, not once did he volunteer mention of the Soviet buildup. To the contrary, he urged that the less said about it the better. While Melvin Laird, James Schlesinger and Donald Rumsfeld warned of the consequences in falling behind in the arms race, Brown's greatest urgency was for quick negotiation of a new SALT (strategic arms limitation) agreement. Unmistakably, the Pentagon's new master is giving it a new voice.

The total unity on national security emerging inside the Carter administration is what has surprised and saddened moderate Democrats (and most Republicans) who had hoped for something quite different. Whereas the Carter State Department may not in the end differ all that much from the Ford State Department, the Defense Department and Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA) will no longer operate as hard-line adversaries. If super-soft Paul Warnke accepts an offer to be ACDA director, that agency's role on SALT will reverse 180 degrees.

Nobody could accurately apply the super-soft label to Harold Brown, who at his confirmation hearing made clear defense spending will go up, not down — possibly including B-1 bomber funds. Moreover, his technocratic circumlocutions lulled the committee (with one relatively hard-line Senator inferring that Brown represents no change at the Pentagon).

In fact, the change in emphasis is overwhelming. After Brown fouled off Jackson's softball, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona offered help by pointing to Communist intervention in Africa and the Middle East. Brown made no comment.

Asked by Jackson whether Soviet military prowess could have world-wide political impact, Brown conceded that might be so but quickly added this warning: "worst-case" estimates of Soviet prowess "do not do a service to American political strength throughout the world." The indictment against Laird-Schlesinger-Rumsfeld playing Cassandra was explicit.

Brown practiced what he preached when Sen. Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma asked whether he thinks NATO's nuclear and tactical nuclear forces in Europe are equal to the Warsaw Pact's. Brown replied that NATO's forces are "not inferior, and I think we may very well be ahead." Bartlett, who had received contrary information on a recent European trip with Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia, blanched. Similarly, Brown pooh-poohed respected analyses of the Soviets overtaking the U.S. in naval strength.

Besides abandoning the Pentagon watchtower alerting the West to the Soviet threat, the new Secretary of Defense has withdrawn from the Laird-Schlesinger-Rumsfeld skeptic's corner on SALT. At his hearing, Brown refused to be pinned down either for restricting the Soviet Backfire bomber or against restricting the U.S. cruise missile.

To sophisticated ears, the most telling SALT change at the Pentagon came when Brown raised the old arms control lobby saw, that a new agreement would discourage nuclear proliferation. Until now, the Defense Department has contended that U.S. concessions on SALT would encourage development of their own nuclear forces by such small states as South Korea, Taiwan, and perhaps South Africa, and expansion of Israel's existing capability.

Will there be dissenting second-level civilian voices at the Pentagon? Or dissent permitted within the uniformed military? Brown finessed such questions, but left the unmistakable impression that private dissent will be restricted and public dissent severely discouraged (no easy matter with the generals and admirals).

Thus did Dr. Brown evoke memories of the early 1960s, when charges of muzzling the military were leveled against his old chief, Robert McNamara. Brown's emphasis, like McNamara's, will be on cost-effectiveness rather than sounding the alarm about the greatest peacetime armament program in the history of man. The Pentagon's role as a brake on runaway detente is clearly to be terminated.

Dummar admits taking 'will' to Mormon Church

By JACK JONES
The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — Utah gas station operator Melvin Dummar, 31, cut in for a share of the late Howard Hughes' fortune under a "will" found at Mormon Church headquarters in Salt Lake City, now has admitted delivering the document there, an attorney said here.

Dummar also confessed during a closed meeting with five lawyers in Ogden that he wrote a note accompanying the so-called "Mormon Will" when it turned up last April 27, said Harold Rhoden, attorney for former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich.

Dummar, who previously insisted he knew nothing of the purported will before it surfaced, still denies forging it or having anything to do with its production, Rhoden said at a press conference.

Although Dietrich was named executor under the supposed will and stands to earn vast amounts of money if it is declared legitimate, Rhoden said, "he has given me carte blanche to withdraw the petition (for probate) if at any time I believe that will is a phony." He added, "We don't want to be parties to a fraud on the court."

In Ogden, attorney John Sampson, one of Dummar's representatives, confirmed that his client finally broke down and admitted delivering the envelope which already has been found by the FBI to bear his thumbprint.

Sampson said Dummar's various stories of how he happened to obtain the "will" in the first place are being checked out.

Rhoden told reporters in Los Angeles that Dummar continues to insist he doesn't know who wrote the will—if, indeed, Hughes did not. "He's lying like hell," said Rhoden. "I'm going to move to get him on the witness stand in Nevada to testify under oath. He'll go to jail if he persists in his story."

Dummar, supposedly bequeathed a one-sixteenth share of the recluse industrialist's billions, has agreed to renounce all financial interest in the estate even if the questioned will is admitted to probate, Rhoden said.

During the Ogden meeting, Rhoden said, Dummar offered at least two bizarre versions of how he happened to obtain the envelope for delivery to Mormon headquarters.

One involved a series of mysterious notes left in his parked car and a telephone call directing him to a Las Vegas casino where a mysterious man gave him the envelope to take to Salt Lake City, Rhoden recalled.

The other scenario had an equally mysterious stranger suddenly appearing at Dummar's gas station in Willard, Utah, and giving him the sealed envelope with instructions for delivery.

Dummar, according to Rhoden, said he burned the instructions, which he had violated by secretly opening the envelope and reading the supposed last will and testament of Howard R. Hughes, written in ink on three sheets of plain white paper.

Because he had seen his own name in the document, Dummar reportedly explained, he covered up his own role in the delivery, knowing people would think he was a forger.

Rhoden said Dummar told him that because he steamed open the envelope and read the contents, "his fingerprints will probably be all over that will."

Rhoden said he was not yet ready to declare the will itself a forgery. The FBI is still checking it for fingerprints and for the ages of the paper and ink, since it purportedly was written in 1968.

"What if the FBI says Hughes' prints are on the will, or that the paper and ink are eight to 10 years old?" Rhoden asked.

Bastrop couple's disappearance remains mystery

BASTROP, Tex. (AP) — It has been almost a year since millionaire rancher John Whatley and his wife vanished from their home on a sprawling Central Texas ranch, but former Bastrop County Sheriff Jimmy Nutt says the disappearance still "bugs the ... out of me."

Nutt, who says investigators are stymied, said "... I don't know a bit more than I did the first night I went out to the ranch."

The former sheriff has traveled to Mexico and even employed a psychic in his lengthy, but vain attempts to find the missing couple.

Nutt, 56, is so concerned about the disappearance that he almost backed out of his announced resignation from office to pursue the case and now says he will come out of retirement to work in the case if he can find a new lead.

Nutt, a deputy and a neighbor found the thick-walled home locked and silent last Jan. 31 after Mrs. Whatley's daughter reported the couple missing.

Investigators discovered what appeared to be a bullet hole in a bedroom window and found what was apparently a second bullet mark in the concrete tile interior of the window.

Inside, they said they saw an orderly bedroom with a spotless floor that appeared to have been recently cleaned.

A mahogany door to the bedroom was missing, having been lifted from its hinges, and the locks had been removed from every window. They were found in a jar in the house.

There was no trace of the reportedly eccentric 74-year-old rancher and his 68-year-old wife Fay.

Days of frustrating search followed. Searchers, sometimes numbering 100, fanned out over the sprawling ranch, dragging the nearby Colorado River. They found nothing, despite using a helicopter.

Texas Rangers combed the house, using chemical paper that changes color in the presence of the faintest trace of blood. It failed to react.

"You'd really have to clean it up good not to leave a trace that would show on that paper," Ranger Wallace Spillar said.

Nutt said a bullet hole in the window shade failed to match the trajectory of the slug that had penetrated the glass and window screen. "Someone had pulled down the shade after the shot was fired," said Nutt.

No slugs were found, although authorities said they discovered some bullet fragments under a bed. The rancher's fully-loaded .22-caliber revolver was in a desk drawer. Nutt said Whatley's wallet, with $7 in it, was in the home and nothing of any value was missing.

After weeks of futile investigation, Nutt called in a psychic who told the sheriff that Whatley was buried near water, but not the Colorado River. The woman speculated that Whatley had been killed and his wife injured by three people, but provided no real clues.

On his vacation last year, Nutt expanded his investigation to Parral, a Mexican mountain town near the former holdings of the Whatley family, which fled the Mexican revolution.

Nutt said he came away from the area convinced that the elderly rancher, who spoke fluent Spanish, "could live forever down there if he chose without being identified."

Only a few days after the disappearance, officers questioned Whatley's only son and sole heir after hunters told Nutt they'd seen a van or camper go toward the ranch and return 45 minutes later on the night the Whatleys vanished.

Barney Whatley, 41, a $1,000-a-month weed inspector for the City of Austin who owned a van, denied being near the ranch that night. The younger Whatley retained an attorney and declined to take a polygraph test.

The younger Whatley, who said he was financially independent of his father, added that he refused to take the polygraph exam because of a "disagreement" with law enforcement officials. Fay Whatley's 49-year-old daughter, Mrs. Bennett Blake, who visited the ranch house soon after the disappearance, said, "I think definitely that bedroom had been cleaned up. And there were things arranged on the dresser in such a manner that my mother would never have done. I knew my mother that well."

Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Whatley's daughter by a previous marriage, was named as the missing woman's sole heir.

The missing rancher, who had been married five times, had experienced domestic problems with his wife, who had been married twice before, since their 1973 wedding. Nutt said he found a bundle of legal documents in a dry well shortly after the disappearance.

He said they were unstained, indicating they had been placed there since the last rain, adding that they included divorce petitions Whatley had filed against Fay just 14 weeks after their marriage.

The difficulties had been worked out, Nutt said, and the divorce was dropped.

The wealthy rancher, Nutt said, was last seen by some pecan thrashers, who told officers he was accompanied by a man convicted of burglary. The man is wanted in Florida for violating his probation and Nutt never got to question him about the missing Whatleys.

Mrs. Blake has offered a $10,000 reward for information that would determine the whereabouts of the Whatleys. No one has come forward to claim it.

U. S. creeps toward metric system

By The Associated Press

Slowly but surely, inch by centimeter, the United States is going metric.

Liquor bottlers started introducing metric sizes last fall and will convert completely to six basic metric sizes within two years. Soda companies are testing one-liter containers. Almost half the states are using metric measurements on some of their road signs.

The metric system — used by almost all the rest of the world — has been a long time coming to America.

The federal Office of Consumer Affairs says that George Washington urged Congress in 1790 to adopt a uniform system for currency, weights and measures.

It was 1975 before Congress acted, passing the Metric Conversion Act establishing a 17-member U.S. Metric Board to coordinate a voluntary switch to the metric system.

The board has several duties under the law. It is required to make sure the public is represented fairly in the conversion process, to publicize proposed changes, to encourage the standardization of metric language in science and engineering, and to consult with other countries to make sure that U.S. standards are in keeping with those in the rest of the world.

The Office of Education already has awarded $2.1 million in grants and contracts to state and local governments for metric instruction projects. The agency will start issuing similar grants to public and private nonprofit organizations this year.

The money covers four basic types of projects: —School programs operated by a local education agency. —State and multistate planning programs. —Teacher training programs conducted mainly by colleges and universities. —Programs providing technical support for national metric education.

The switch may seem confusing for a while, but the Office of Consumer Affairs says: "When metrication is complete ... it should make little difference to consumers that gasoline will be sold by the liter instead of the gallon, that distance will be measured by kilometers instead of miles or that food will be packaged and sold by kilograms instead of ounces and pounds."

Lawmakers view week

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Legislators returned from a long weekend today to learn whether they would have a short week.

The Senate was scheduled to go in session at 10:30 a.m. and the House at 1:30 p.m.

Li. Gov. Bill Hobby said last week that the Senate would quit Tuesday because of the Jan. 20 inauguration of President-elect Jimmy Carter.

Speaker Bill Clayton said only 13 House members had told him they were going to the inaugural, and he wanted the House to stay in session.

Bus drivers try to raise money

DALLAS (AP) — A organization of Dallas school bus drivers is attempting to save enough money to purchase a hearing aid for one of their "adopted" deaf children.

The 25 bus drivers who transport deaf children to and from a Dallas elementary school have formed a club to aid the children. It is believed to be the first such organization of its kind.

Many of the drivers are also learning sign language on their own.

"We're with those children every day and we know what their needs are," said Mrs. Marty Davis, one of the drivers who organized the club. "We're just trying to help them out."

Club members have "adopted" some of the children, giving them clothing, shoes and groceries, Mrs. Davis said.

The purchase of at least one hearing aid is the club's main goal.

The drivers have $47 in their treasury now and a hearing aid costs from $300 to $800, but she said, "We're not going to give up."

The drivers contribute $1 per month in dues and have scheduled a bake sale and arts and crafts show Feb. 3 to raise more money.

Mrs. Davis said "When you get a letter from a child thanking you for a few groceries, it makes it all worth it."

MEMO CITIZENS!

ATTEND PUBLIC MEETINGS on Midland's Community Development Programs

The City Council wants you and your neighbors to report the projects needed in your part of town that might be provided with community development funds next year. Please attend the Public Meeting.

JANUARY 18, 1977
MIDLAND CITY HALL 7:00 P.M. 300 N. LORAIN ST.

Midland received its first Community Development grant of $259,000 in July, 1975, and the projects provided in that program are now 70 percent complete.

Street paving in older neighborhoods has been accomplished.

Midland Historical Site has been restored.

Curb and gutter in the older neighborhoods have been installed.

A Second grant for $576,000 was received in October. Housing rehabilitation work has started. Demolition of unsafe and vacant houses is being planned. Planners are designing Park rehabilitation plans.

And now a third year grant of $947,000 is expected in October 1977. The Planning has begun for that application. With your help, additional neighborhood needs will be provided.

CITIZEN PARTICIPATION

You are needed to help plan for the neighborhood improvements that might be provided when community development funds become available in October, 1977.

After reviewing all the ideas presented at the public meetings and suggestions received from a mail survey, the staff will present its recommendations to the City Council.

A public hearing will be held by the City Council prior to a final decision on which projects to include in Midland's application for $942,000 in community development funds.

ELIGIBLE PROJECTS

Midland's $942,000 may be used for many purposes:

- Purchasing and selling property for public purposes, and relocation expenses for persons and businesses which are displaced.
- Construction of water and sewer lines, streets, street lights, traffic signals, sidewalks, park and other public facilities.
- Code enforcement including removal of weeds, junk cars and substandard houses.
- Curb ramps and other projects to aid the mobility of the elderly and handicapped.
- Planning and administrative costs.

*An additional requirement is that the community development program give maximum feasible priority to projects which will benefit low and moderate income families and which will aid the prevention or elimination of slums and blight.

Every married couple has story describing how pair first met

By MICHAEL KERNAN
The Washington Post

Meetings. Every couple has a story.

They were college students. He came up to her at a student get-together in a settlement house and asked her to dance. She wasn't especially attracted to him, intense and serious and lean. She liked them cute. Also, he was too determined.

After college they lived in different cities but kept in touch. It was seven years before she finally said yes. (Married 14 years, three children.)

They had both been married before; he was 37, she 38. A mutual friend set up a double date at her house and told him to bring some booze. He showed up with half a case of whiskey (that's another story), but when he got there he found that his date was 6 feet tall. He is 5-foot-4. So he switched to the hostess.

The next night he came back to her house, to help, as he said, with the whiskey.

(Married 30 years, two children, four grandchildren.)

How about this one? As a student she had fallen wildly in love with a married man with the somewhat uncommon name of, let's say, Albert Prince. He was in med school, on the way to becoming a gynecologist. In time the affair broke up, and the two of them went their separate ways.

Years later in another city, when she was working in a hospital, she got a message to call a Dr. Albert Prince in Pediatrics.

Delighted, she quickly dialed the number. A strange voice, false starts, confusion.

It was a different Dr. Albert Prince. He took her out to coffee.

(Married five years, two children.)

She was literally the girl next door, in New York City, the brat sister of his best friend, eight years younger.

She was always hanging around getting in the way of the young men who visited her brother. Finally she grew old enough to date her brother's friends.

"She went through the whole list. I was absolutely the last one to go out with her," he said.

(Married 19 years.)

A very old lady stumbled in a crosswalk on Boylston Street in Boston. She sank to the pavement, her ankle twisted under her. Immediately two passers-by lifted her up by her arms and helped her to the curb. There, the young man steadied her while the young woman waved down a cab. They put her into it, exchanged names, and the tax: drove off. The young man and woman started to talk.

They invited the very old lady to the wedding.

(Married four years.)

A college radical leader, he had written an angry manifesto that was circulated around the campus. One day after a rally, as he was walking away in his uniform of jeans, blue plastic windbreaker and uncombed hair, this girl accosted him.

"Did you write that crap?" she demanded. For 20 minutes they wrangled about politics there on the path while people walked around them. Finally she snapped, "Man, you are a bad trip" and stormed off in her jeans, blue plastic windbreaker and uncombed hair.

The next summer, which he spent with his wealthy parents on Long Island, he was a guest at a flossy wedding. He was milling around, champagne glass in hand, in the big striped tent on the lawn overlooking the Sound. Suddenly he saw a huge picture hat. With a face under it that he knew from somewhere.

"You!" he said.

"You!" she said.

(Married three years, one child.)

MRS. FLOYD HANSEN, right, is the new president of the United Methodist Women of St. Mark's United Methodist Church. Mrs. Caleb Hildebrand, left, is the new vice president.

President named

Sandy Gerron was named president when the Midland Childbirth Without Pain Education League had a salad luncheon in Midland Country Club.

Doug Ingram of the City of Midland Swim Team was the guest speaker.

G-G group swaps items

"Switch Your Elephants" was the theme of a dessert and card party held by the Permian Basin Geological and Geophysical Auxiliary in Midland Country Club.

Members exchanged white elephant items before the card party. Mrs. Louis Lee won high for bridge, and Mrs. Richard A. Mendenhall was high Tripoly winner. The membership prize was won by Mrs. Robert H. Frazier.

Co-chairmen were Mrs. Matthew C. Lutz and Mrs. Richard L. Warwick. The hostesses were Mrs. Gerald G. Calhoun, Mrs. Frank Cornish, Mrs. William Henry, Mrs. Don Huxman, Mrs. Joseph M. Reese, Mrs. W. J. Vaughn and Mrs. James D. Williams.

Named to the nominating committee to present a slate of officers at the February meeting were Mrs. Frazier, chairman, and Mrs. Fred K. Yates, Mrs. L. Brent Watson, Mrs. William C. Collins, Mrs. Lawrence J. Seright, Mrs. Rochard L. Warwick and Mrs. Vaughn.

Women eligible for membership may contact Mrs. Clyde A. Pine, membership chairman, 683-3016, for information.

DEAR ABBY

Woman expects tragedy if reunited with child

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for voting for the right of biological parents to remain anonymous if they wish. I suppose some biological parents would dearly love to be reunited with the child they gave up, but for me it would be traumatic.

I was 14 when I gave up the child I had conceived by my stepfather. That part of my life was a nightmare, and the day I signed away my legal rights to the baby I really did not want I knew that I had done the right thing.

When the child is 18, I will be 32, and by that time I hope I will be married and have a child by a man I love.

Abby, I'm writing this because I want adopted biological mothers, who had the good sense to give most cases, they are them to parents who better off for having been wanted them. I closed a door I never want opened. — grateful to their FLORIDAN

PTA meeting slated

Burnett Elementary School will hold a Parent-Teacher Association meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the school cafeteria.

Clinton Adams will speak on what is a principal and what parents should know about the schools. Mrs. Lynn Hightower, special education teacher, will speak on the language learning disabilities program.

Valentine program plans also will be discussed.

Linda Harbour marries Walker

Linda Harbour and Jimmy F. Walker were married in a double ring ceremony in the Midland County Courthouse with Judge John Biggs officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McLaughlin of McNeil, Ark. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Joyce Walker of Big Spring.

The bride is employed by J. C. Williamson, an independent oil operator and she is a member of the Desk and Derrick Club.

Walker is a graduate of Texas Tech University and is employed with Caprock Electric Co. in Stanton.

After a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will reside at 4212 Tanner Drive.

Parents to hear discussion

Parents of students at Bowie, Ben Milam and Anson Jones Elementary Schools are invited to attend a Parent-Teacher Association meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Anson Jones.

Participating in the panel type discussion will be principals of the three schools, Jack Francis of Milam, Frank Marlow of Bowie and Keller Stamy of Anson Jones. Joining in the discussion will be Doug Browne, assistant superintendent of schools, and Garland Chapman.

A question and answer session will follow the discussion which will be focused on the clustering of schools to begin next fall.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGHTER (Tues. Jan. 18)

GENERAL TENDENCIES The early part of the day has some confusing influences and you would be wise to be absolutely sure what you are doing is right. A high level of achievement could easily follow.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Know what is expected of you by higher-ups, and then you can perform in a most accurate way. Find better ways of expressing self.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study a new plan before putting it in operation. Know exactly where you are headed by proper analysis. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't be prejudice where personal matters are concerned for best results. Try and gain a whole new perspective.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Know what is expected of you by associates and then cooperate to the best of your ability. Keep promises made.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Coordinate your efforts with co-workers so that all goes smoothly. Study new ways of achieving greater abundance.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You may want to engage in a new kind of recreation but should consult an expert first for best results. Try to please you mate more.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Come to a better understanding with family members. Tomorrow is a better time to start a new project.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Day hours are best for catching up on routine duties. Try to be more thoughtful of relatives and friends. Be more cheerful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Put your financial affairs on a more secure basis so that you can plan the future more intelligently. Think logically.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find better ways to gain personal aims. The evening can be a most delightful one with the persons you like and admire.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find better ways of doing routine work. Intuitive faculties are not working well early in the day. Strive for happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Await until evening before going after a personal aim you have in mind. Obtain the data you need from the right sources.

I lost 36 pounds and didn't gain a bag or a sag!

Agnes Hall's True Story:

I've been overweight for so long, I was beginning to think I was just naturally a fat person. Even when I got married forty years ago, I weighed 160 pounds — not what you'd call a slim bride. Over the years, my weight crept up to 175, and I found myself wearing size 16. That's when I decided something had to be done.

I tried a health spa, but I didn't like undressing, or musing my hair, or going in the water — and I couldn't do floor exercises because of back problems. I heard some women there talking about Pat Walker's, and since I'd already seen some ads, I thought... well, why not?

Two, sometimes three treatments a week on Pat Walker's passive exercise unit have gotten me down to — would you believe it? — a size 10!

I've lost 36 pounds and 45 1/2 inches, and I've kept my figure firmed and toned the whole time.

My friends are amazed. One of my bowling partners says that almost everyone she knows who's lost the pounds I have, has gotten bags and sags, but I haven't.

I think that's a real compliment!

I look and feel better than I have in at least fourteen years. I may be 63, but I'm a new person.

If you'll call Pat Walker's, they'll give you a free figure analysis and sample treatment just like the one that started it all for me.

Whether you're 24, 44, or 64, I know you'll be satisfied. I am.

Here I am in 1963. My middle age spread was really showing.

FREE TRIAL TREATMENT AND FIGURE ANALYSIS

Pat Walker invites you to come in for a free trial treatment and figure analysis. You'll be pleased to know there is no disrobing; you'll reduce in complete privacy with our exclusive program that has benefited millions over the last 25 years. Call today, without obligation, for a complimentary treatment. You have nothing to lose but inches and weight.

Stand-ins for President Ford, Vice President Jimmy Carter and Vice President-elect Walter Mondale participate in an oath-taking rehearsal on the inaugural stand in Washington Sunday.

Andrus seems sure of quick approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus is the only person President-elect Carter says he ever considered for interior secretary, and the Senate Interior Committee seems ready to quickly ratify that choice. Confirmation hearings on the 45-year-old Idaho Democrat were to begin today. Chairman Henry Jackson, D-Wash., set aside three days, but committee aides claim it is doubtful more than two will be needed.

Supported by environmentalists and praised by both Democrats and Republicans on the committee, Andrus is expected to get the panel's speedy approval — possibly at the conclusion of Tuesday's hearing. "There's nothing to suggest that there will be problems of any kind. The nomination should glide right through," said a member of the committee's minority staff.

beginning." Andrus has even been well received by some industry officials. National Coal Association President Carl Bagge said he was "delighted" with the choice. "My only hope is that, with a western governor, we can straighten out an apparent Carter administration tilt against development of western coal," Bagge added.

Coal production is certain to be a major topic at the confirmation hearings. President Ford has advocated doubling U.S. coal production by 1985, much of the increase to come from strip-mined western coal. Ford twice vetoed strip mining control bills.

Inaugural a five-day festival

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — At Andrew Jackson's inaugural in 1828, visitors to Washington slept five to a bed and on pool tables after the hotel rooms ran out. At Martin Van Buren's, they rented bales of hay from local stables to sleep on and took turns snoring in barbershop chairs.

At Zachary Taylor's bash, the Grand Inauguration Ball lasted until 4 a.m. When the revelers were ready to leave they found the servants had gone, leaving a great mound of coats and hats in the lobby. Fistfights broke out, and Abraham Lincoln, then a freshman congressman, lost his hat.

At Lincoln's own inauguration reception, guests were expected to arrive in groups of 400 at the Patent Office Building. Instead, 4,000 came at once and the Lincolns had to escape out the back door.

Now comes Jimmy Carter, the peanut farmer and ex-Navy officer from Plains, Ga., who cheerfully invited the entire country to his inauguration. He also announced that this Southern hospitality was to be accomplished with less money than has previously been spent accommodating fewer people, and that there should be something to do for the people who can't get into the exclusive, expensive events.

What we're going to get, according to the Carter inaugural committee's plans, is an unprecedented five-day festival that appears to be a combination of the July 4 Bicentennial celebration, a country fair, the 1969 Woodstock rock and people festival, the Democratic National Convention, and the world's biggest Battle of the Bands.

The number of things to do, hear and see in Washington between Jan. 18 and 22 is so staggering that it is impossible to arrive at an exact count. A rough count shows 48 classical music concerts, 25 jazz, 57 folk, pop or gospel, 12 children's events, six sightseeing tours, 44 special events and 46 outgoing tours and exhibits.

There will be numerous special religious services, events of particular interest to senior citizens, receptions that are open to the public and receptions that are closed to the public, six official inaugural parties, at least four other inaugural balls, countless state society receptions.

brunches, cocktail parties and get-togethers.

The handicapped citizens lobby has insured that for the first time special provisions for the handicapped have been incorporated into the parade viewing plans. The ethnic group lobby has made sure that the committee included Ukrainians, Hungarians, American Indians, Polish Americans, Japanese Americans, Serbian-Americans, Arab-Americans, Cajuns, and others into the performance schedule.

Judging from the schedule of events, the only thing left out is a half-Jewish, half-Siberian Buddhist who tap dances and rides an elephant.

"I beg your pardon," said inaugural committee cochairperson Bardyl Tirana. "I am part Albanian, part Jewish, part Muslim, and part WASP."

For the first time, there will be free public transportation to take people to and from the swearing-in, the parade, and the official parties. For the first time, the President's wife will not be wearing a new dress at the inaugural parties. For the first time, people who have tickets to sit at the swearing-in (100,000 people will be standing) will be on folding chairs instead of benches because it's cheaper — and so over 28,000 rented chairs are on the way to Washington along with the floats, the bands, and the people.

Other firsts include the presidential reviewing stand is positioned on a slant from the White House instead of in front of it and will be solar-heated. There will be a public prayer service at the Lincoln Memorial three hours before the swearing-in and officials at Washington National Airport have agreed to limit air-traffic over the area as much as possible during it. The gala concert will be televised by CBS. And for the first time since he got involved in politics in 1929, Baltimore City Councilman Dominic (Mimi) DiPietro, 71, has been invited to an inauguration.

More importantly, for the first time in eight years, there are no antiwar demonstrations planned, no counter-inaugurals, and no protesters other than a small group of Yuppies who plan to good-naturedly install "Nobody" as President during an all-day rally at the Washington Monument. They'll have speeches demanding the "liberation of marijuana," amnesty for Vietnam war resisters, "reparations" for political prisoners and various other causes — but, as social scientists have observed, many of the anti-establishmentarians of the past have now become part of the establishment and will be participating in the regular inaugural.

Indeed, one of the top inaugural committee planners was a participant in the counter-inaugural four years ago. "Sometimes I wonder if we're doing the right thing with all this fuss," he mused one day. "Maybe we should all just go over and camp out at the Pentagon again, but then I think — it's kind of fun."

Given the budget ($3 million for the official events), about $350,000 for the public events), the few months in which to plan, and the relative youth and inexperience of the inaugural committee staff, there are, inevitably, a lot of people who are angry at either not being invited to something, not being allowed to perform, not having their religion represented on the swearing-in platform, or not having their letters answered.

The Democrats have not had to put on an inaugural for 12 years. Most of the paid staffers at the committee are left over from the campaign and new to Washington — many were advance people in their early 20s who are apparently not slated for jobs in the new administration.

They have had to cope with thousands of requests for invitations, boxes full of offers to perform, and the countless little details that will make up this vast theatrical production. Where will the 340 horses stay? Where will the stars playing in the gala stay? (One demanded a townhouse all to himself.)

On Friday a man walked in carrying a banjo, sat down in the invitations office, and started to sing a song he had written especially for Carter's inauguration. "Hurrah! Hurrah! It's Jimmy Carter's Day!" he boomed out as staffers talking on the telephone clapped their hands over their ears and shrieked, but a lot of workers didn't even notice.

No one is quite sure how many people are going to show up. "At least 8,000 are coming from Georgia," said state Democratic party associate director Tommy Dorthe. The Maryland Inaugural Committee has rented a train seating 2,500, and at least 600 are coming from Iowa. There are 15,000 persons in the inaugural parade alone.

The tens of thousands of Americans who are expected to converge on Washington for the week of inaugural ceremonies, will find Washington's hotels jammed.

Southern Railway's 18-car "Jimmy Carter Georgia Inaugural Special" will leave Atlanta Tuesday evening for its 15-hour trip to Washington, carrying 380 Georgia politicians, government officials and other Carter supporters.

The sun is the most powerful source of energy known, if only it can be harnessed. Someday, we hope, widespread solar-generated electricity will be a reality.

Sunshine is free. So why aren't we using it to make your electricity?

Sure, sunshine is free. But right now the equipment needed to generate electricity with it is very expensive. It will be years before solar power can provide large amounts of electricity at reasonable prices.

To hasten that day, Texas Electric participates in and supports a national solar energy development program.

Meanwhile, we have to make your electricity with fuels available now. That's why we're building lignite coal and nuclear power plants.

While this means electricity will have to cost more, it also means we'll be able to make sure you continue having the electricity you need.

Electricity. You count on it today. We're working to keep it that way.

Lietzke finds whole new world

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Bruce Lietzke, a dramatic playoff winner in the Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open Golf Tournament, had two chores to do today.

He has to rearrange his playing schedule in the wake of his first professional triumph. And he has to find his putter.

"Oh, my lord, stop it," he shouted as a tour official reeled off the list of events for which he'd just become eligible—the Masters, the PGA, the Tournament of Champions.

"Stop it, please. I can't stand it. This opens up so much. The first thing I thought of was the Masters. But there's the Tournament of Champions, too. I'll have to rearrange my schedule—but I don't mind that at all. And there's overseas, too. I've got to think of that."

But Lietzke first must find the club that enabled him to beat veteran Gene Littler on the fourth hole of sudden death late Sunday afternoon and earn a $40,000 first prize. It's his putter, the one that stroked in a dramatic 65-foot birdie putt, easily the longest winning putt that has been holed in any tour event in a decade.

"When the ball was about three to four feet short of the hole, I saw it was on line and I turned my back," said

Lietzke, a hard-hitting 25-year-old Texan in his second full year on the tour. "I'm not sure why I turned my back. I guess I couldn't stand the thought of watching it spin out of the hole."

"I didn't see it go in, but I heard the crowd reaction. I went crazy. My mind went blank," said Lietzke, still trembling with emotion more than a half hour after he'd won.

A confused, concerned expression crossed his handsome face.

"I don't even know if I got my putter back," he said. "I really don't. I don't know what I did with it, where it is. I've got to find my putter."

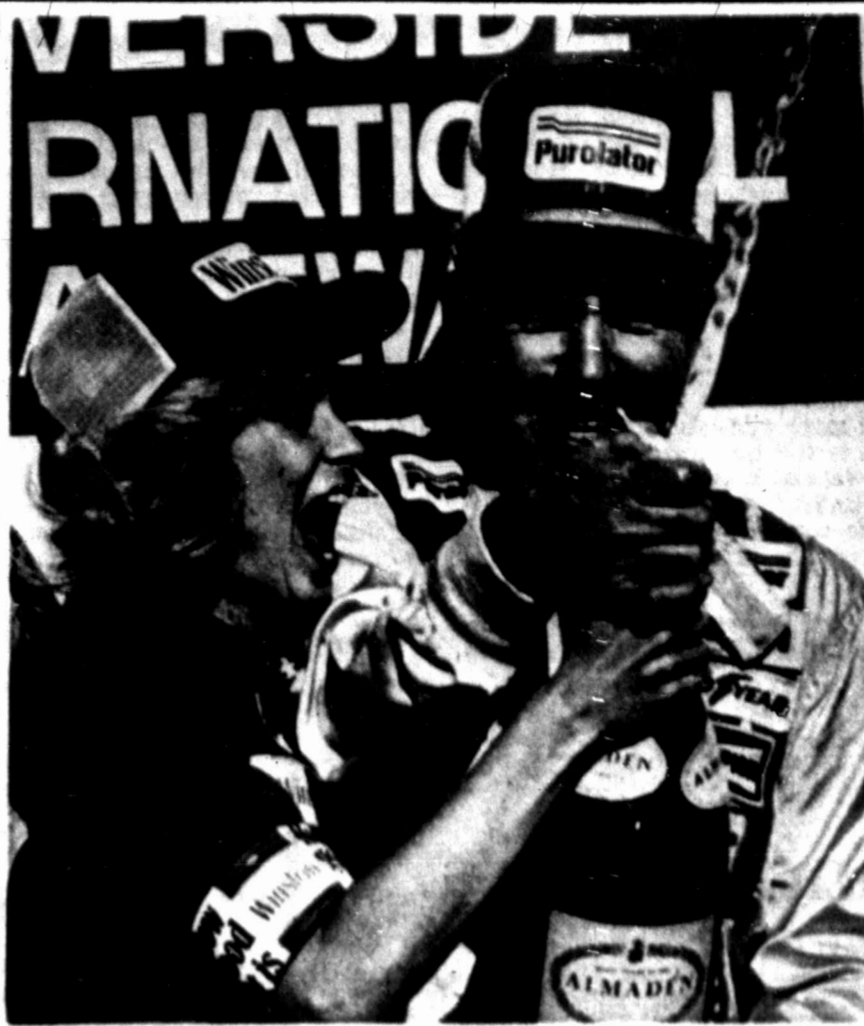

Ironically, the cross-country putt he holed for the winner came on the 18th at the 7,305-yard Tucson National Golf Club. From almost exactly the same position on the same hole one-half hour earlier, Lietzke had three-putted for bogey, missing a five-foot second putt that set up the playoff with the 46-year-old Littler.

Pride Battle ends grid play

SEATTLE (AP) — After a week of leisurely practice and socializing in balmy San Diego, it's all business tonight when the National Football League's top stars from the National and American conferences meet in the Kingdome in the annual Battle of Pride, the Pro Bowl game.

The NFC, which has lost the past five Super Bowls to its AFC rivals, has saved face by winning the past two Pro Bowl games to even the series at 3-3 since the all-star tilt was revised after the merger with the American Football League.

Either Pittsburgh's Chuck Noll or Los Angeles' Chuck Knox is going to have his perfect Pro Bowl coaching record broken in the nationally televised (ABC) 8 p.m. CST game.

It's Noll's second appearance as an AFC Pro Bowl coach. The other time came four years ago when the Americans beat the Nationals 33-28. On the opposite side will be Knox, who is making his third straight appearance as boss of the NFC. He coached the NFC squad to victory last year, 23-20, and in the 1975 game, 17-10.

Weary David Pearson not tired of winning

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — David Pearson, at 42 years of age, is tired.

Tired of people who keep circulating rumors he wants to retire from stock car racing.

Tired of hearing he doesn't care anymore.

Tired of those who say he's "taking it easy" on the race track.

Tired of insinuations his best years are behind him.

"I'm not gonna quit until racing stops being fun. I don't think that time is gonna come for a few more years at least," said the gray-haired grandfather from Spartanburg, S.C. "I still enjoy what I do, especially when I win."

FROM THIS we developed our own preparations for playing in the Super Bowl.

The results of a week ago speak for themselves. So while the fans may yawn and look the other way, don't tell Madden the Pro Bowl is a meaningless waste of time. He and the Raiders have the rings to prove it isn't.

sitter Cale Yarborough, the defending NASCAR Grand National champion, until Yarborough spun out on the 103rd of 119 laps around the 2.66-mile Riverside International Raceway road course.

"I know people will say I took it easy, was conservative until there at the end," Pearson said. "But you can't really take it easy here. If you take it easy, that's when you get in trouble. If you're taking it easy on this course, and you're stuck behind a slower car, you can lose all sorts of time."

BATTLE SCENE

Pro Bowl not meaningless to some

BY TED BATTLES

In comparison with the 75 million who hungrily awaited the Super Bowl, only to push away still-furnished by what turned out to be a starvation menu, the Pro Bowl, ending the football season, will go virtually unnoticed and unheralded.

Yet, competitively it's usually a better show than the Super Bowl has been over the years.

Before the advent of the ballyhooed battle of NFC and AFC champions, it did provide a fitting climax to the pro football season. Maybe it lacked the suspense of a championship game, but it still possessed the stimulation that goes with the parade of the year's best players matched in combat.

HOWEVER, IN recent years it has suffered the fate of most all-star games in all sports, a waning of interest.

About the only all-star game that continues to stir the imagination is the Major League All-Star game, and this despite the fact that it has evolved into little more than an exercise in National League superiority.

However, don't tell Oakland Raiders Coach John Madden that the Pro Bowl is meaningless. For him, all those years of finishing as runnerup in the American Football Conference were not wasted.

You see, Madden and his staff, as a bitter consolation prize, wound up coaching the AFC squad in the Pro Bowl.

Instead of approaching it as a boring, inescapable task, Madden turned it into the stepping stones to a Super Bowl championship.

"WE WERE able to watch this thing from the outside for years," Madden said. "And we always tried to gain something that would help us in the future. We gained a lot of first hand information from the Pro Bowl."

"We checked out the qualities of the players who made the squads, height, weight, speed, emotional makeup. From this we developed the profile of a Pro Bowl player for all positions. That helped us in drafting and trading."

Madden went on, "We also spent a lot of time talking to players coming from the Super Bowl, in our case, these players always were the ones who had won and that gave us an even better insight.

"We talked to them about their team's preparations and asked what they found that was good and what was bad."

FROM THIS we developed our own preparations for playing in the Super Bowl.

The results of a week ago speak for themselves. So while the fans may yawn and look the other way, don't tell Madden the Pro Bowl is a meaningless waste of time. He and the Raiders have the rings to prove it isn't.

Jackson narrows field

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP) — Billy Don Jackson, a highly recruited schoolboy football tackle, says he wants no part of illegal recruiting offers even if it means turning down fast cars, fast women, fast money and easy grades.

The 6-3, 247-pound high school All-American, who supports his family by working parttime during school, said, "I have my pride. I can't take no handouts."

Added Jackson, who has received more than 1,000 recruiting letters, "It would hurt my pride as a man. And it would hurt Sherman as a school and a city. I will accept nothing from nobody."

Jackson, 18, who lives in a $57 per month housing project, has trimmed his prospective list to Southern Methodist, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Alabama, Texas Tech and UCLA. He has visited SMU and Nebraska and will visit the others before the Southwest Conference signing date of Feb. 8.

Dozens of recruiters have made the pilgrimage to the North Texas city and Jackson said some of them have indirectly offered automobiles.

"These guys won't tell you they'll give you a car. They'll be real subtle. They'll say they'll set you up with a car dealer, stuff like that," he added.

"A couple of them said they'd take care of my homework, give me a tutor, whatever. Make sure I don't have to go to class, things like that," said Jackson. "That ain't the life for me. Those schools are out of the running. I don't give them a second look."

He declined to reveal which schools made the offers.

"I've worked all my life. My father taught me to appreciate a hard day's work. He said if you work for it, the money's good," said Jackson, who averaged 20 tackles per game this year for the Bearcats.

Jackson's parents divorced when he was three and for the past three years, Jackson has supported his family in lieu of his ailing mother by working fulltime in the summer and parttime during school days.

"I make ends meet," said Jackson. "We may not have three meals a day but we have one good meal a day. We get food stamps, we get by. God blesses our household, I know. And he's blessed me with athletic talent, which I intend to use to the fullest."

Rutgers signs Tide for game in Jersey

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Rutgers University will play perennial college football power Alabama University at Giants Stadium in the Meadowlands Sports Complex here in 1979 or 1980, the Newark Star-Ledger has reported.

Rutgers athletic director Fred Gruninger sealed the agreement with Alabama coach and athletic director Paul "Bear" Bryant at the NCAA convention several days ago in Miami, the paper reported in its Monday edition.

Alabama, ranked 15th this past season, agreed to play the Scarlet Knights of Rutgers in order to gain the exposure of a metropolitan market and to enhance recruiting, the paper said.

The agreement gives Rutgers a chance to play big time football and move into the Bowl level.

Rutgers will open the 1977 season with an 18-game winning streak, the longest in the nation among major colleges.

Longhorns capture Invitational swimming

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas scored 360 points to capture the UT Invitational Swim Meet at Gregory Gym Pool Sunday night.

The Longhorns concluded the third day of competition by winning five of the seven events. UT's Darrell Fick was a dual winner, taking the 400 yard individual medley in 4:07.32 and the 200 yard freestyle with a 1:43.17 clocking.

Texas A&M won the women's competition with 260 points, 20 ahead of Texas. LSU was third with 194 followed by Midland College with 136 and UT Arlington 9.

The Longhorns' Lisa Kelsey scored a pair of wins in the 400 individual medley and 200 freestyle.

Report recommends diet changes for longer life

By MARIAN BURROS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Americans must make drastic changes in their eating habits if they want to live longer, according to a Senate committee report.

Kennedy to participate in President Classroom

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A Midland High School student has been selected to participate in a President Classroom for Young Americans. Morgan Adele Kennedy was selected to attend seven days of seminars and briefings. From Jan. 29 to Feb. 5, she will study major components of the federal government plus other institutions which have significant relationships with the government, including the military, the news media, corporate management and organized labor.

Morgan Adele Kennedy

to live longer, according to a Senate committee report. The report, entitled "Dietary Goals for the United States," recommends significant reductions in the consumption of the kinds of foods most Americans love to eat — soft drinks, candy, baked goods, potato chips, pretzels and red meat.

The chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, George McGovern (D-S.D.), told a news conference that "too much fat, too much sugar or salt can be and are linked directly to heart disease, cancer, obesity and stroke among other killer diseases."

The report, while recommending a decrease in consumption of sugar, salt and meat and of other foods high in fat and cholesterol, said Americans should increase their consumption of fruits, vegetables and whole grain products. The report calls for: —Reduction of sugar consumption by 40 percent. "The most obvious item for general reduction," the report said, "is soft drinks." At the beginning of the century people consumed about 76 pounds of sugar; today they eat more than 100 pounds.

—Reduction in salt consumption by 50 to 85 percent. People can get all the salt they need, according to the report, without adding salt to any food.

—Reduction in overall fat intake by 10 percent and replacement of some saturated fat with polyunsaturated and monounsaturated fat.

In order to achieve these goals the report recommends that people get more protein from fish and poultry, whole grain products and skim milk instead of red meat, whole milk and foods high in butterfat such as ice cream and cream cheese.

—Reduction of cholesterol consumption by half from 600 mg to 300 mg a day. This would mean eating fewer eggs since the yolk of one egg contains 250 mg of cholesterol.

Such a diet, the report said, could reduce heart attacks by 25 percent, incidence and death from cancer by 20 percent and infant mortality by 50 percent.

"In addition to improving the health of many Americans a shift to the dietary goals outlined offers potential for significant reduction in food costs."

To implement the recommendations, the report says Congress should provide money for nutrition education for students, school cafeteria workers and for those in federal feeding programs such as food stamps, and said extensive use should be made of television to educate the public. The report suggested that labels on food products be required to carry information about fat, sugar, cholesterol and caloric content.

Forsan school board to open bids

FORSAN — Bids for the track, dirtwork, restrooms and lighting at the football field will be opened today in the Forsan school board meeting.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. The trustees also will set the date and name election judges and clerks for the upcoming trustee election. They also will consider people to serve on the board of equalization and discuss and act on the superintendent's contract.

In other business, the trustees will discuss the following items:

- Bids for typewriters;
- Bus needs for future years;
- Addition to HEP program materials;
- Whether or not to join the Texas Associations of School Boards for 1977;
- Best time to take bids for the school car;
- And type of chair and fabric most suitable for new furniture.

Trustee elections on agenda

LAMESA — Trustee elections will be scheduled and election officers appointed during the Lamesa school board meeting at 7:30 p.m. today.

In addition, the trustees will amend the 1976-1977 school calendar, discuss acceptance of tennis courts and discuss repair and/or replacement of school buses.

- In other business, the trustees will:
- Consider personnel resignations and recommendations;
  - Consider superintendent's contract;
  - Consider a recommendation from Big Spring State Hospital;
  - And discuss various by-laws and policies.

The superintendent will present reports on job descriptions for February consideration, the school calendar for 1977-1978, and a visit by the Division of Technical Assistance.

YMCA Travel Club schedules Las Vegas trip

The YMCA Travel Club, with a membership now nearing 100, will leave Feb. 17 on another one of its group tours. This trip to Las Vegas, Nev., is for four days.

During the summer, a large group had a very pleasant trip to Alaska via air, boat, train and bus, with stops in Prince Rupert, Juneau and Skagway, Fairbanks and Anchorage.

Trips planned for the future include: New England Fall Foliage, Alabama Garden Tour, Pageant in Eureka Springs, Ark., Disneyland, Big Bend, Florida, East Coast, Mount Rushmore and Nashville, Tenn. Plans are now being made for a trip to Hawaii in April and Australia and New Zealand later in the year.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the club can call the YMCA (682-2551) or Don McKibbin (652-3569).

MTCU meeting tonight

The Midland Teachers Credit Union will hold its annual meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in Alamo Junior High School Auditorium, 3800 W. Storey St.

An election will be held for four vacancies on the board of directors, according to James Devenport, chairman. The union has 1,885 members.

24 men abandon wild exploration in Gulf

By AUSTIN WILSON NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two dozen men sat cramped in the steel egg shell, buffeted by 10-foot waves and remembering a similar flight that ended in death for 13 offshore oil workers last year. This time the voyage ended happily. "I'm sure they were worried, just as I was. But they were calm and orderly," said Paul Cormier. A rig 80 miles out in the Gulf of Mexico blew wild Sunday, and Cormier and 51 other men abandoned the Mesa Petroleum Co. platform in two escape capsules that look like partly flattened eggs. Last April a crew abandoned a stricken rig, one of the capsules capsized and 13 men drowned. A Coast Guard board of inquiry still has not determined what caused the capsule to flip. "If any of the men were thinking about that, they didn't say it out loud," said Cormier by telephone from his home at Gueydan, La. "I think maybe that's what helped me more than anything. They stayed calm." Cormier, 38, was the crew's driller, a title that means he was in charge of the work on the platform. The position also put him in charge of the evacuation. "I was too busy to do much thinking," he said. It was a brand new operation. Work had begun on the platform about 3 a. m. Sunday. R.P. Haddock, division manager for Mesa, said the drill apparently hit a very shallow gas pocket about 10:30 a. m. "I really don't know what happened," said Cormier. "Someone hollered that she was blowing out, there was mud all over the living quarters. The next thing I heard was, 'Abandon the platform!'" "I got on the capsule. Then the news came to me there was still a man on the derrick hurt — with a broken leg."

Morgan City with a fractured leg, the most serious injury suffered by any of the workers. The threat of fire didn't materialize, and Mesa officials said they expected work to be resumed on the rig today. "Aside from the injury, the worst thing was that we were all seasick," Cormier said. "It was rough, real rough." He said he spent the four-hour, three-mile journey to the closest landing spot — a Shell Oil Co. rig — with his head out of the top of the capsule, navigating. "I guess the capsule stands about five feet out of the water, but the waves were 10-foot tall. I got plenty of water in the face."

Abo oiler potentials

Amoco Produvn Co. completed its No. 94 W. G. Frazier as the third well and 3/4-mile northeast extension to the Hockley County portion of the Kingdom (Abo) field. It had a daily potential of 304 barrels of 28.2-gravity oil and 41 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio measuring 1971-1. Completion was effected through perforations at 7,622-7,905 feet. Location is 1,787 feet from south and east lines of section 10, block X, PSL survey, five miles southeast of Sundown.

Yates well completes

Harvey E. Yates Co., Inc., operating from Roswell, N.M., filed applications for permits to drill two 3,800-foot undesignated tests in Chaves County, 18 miles south of Kenna. Both are in section 6-8-31e, and in a northwest extension area of the Siete (San Andres) field. No. 2 Exxon-Federal is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of the section. No. 3 Exxon-Federal is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of the section.

Devonian test flows

John C. Snyder, Fort Worth and Tucker & Heath, Midland, No. 1 Meriwether, Devonian test in the Worsham-Bayer field of Reeves County, 1 1/2 miles northwest of Coyanosa, flowed gas at the maximum, daily rate of 1.2 million cubic feet on a drillstem test in the Devonian. Tool was open one hour on the test taken from 13,900-15,075 feet. Gas surfaced immediately at the above rate, and decreasing to 1 million cubic feet daily. Recovery was 3,164 feet of drilling fluid. The sampler contained 3.04 cubic feet of gas and 800 cubic centimeters of drilling fluid. Location is 467 feet from south and west lines of section 5, block 7, H&GN survey.

Austral sets site

Austral Oil Co., Inc., operating from Lamesa, has staked site for an 11,000-foot wildcat in West Central Terry County. It is No. 1 TY Unit. Location is 1,980 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of section 38, block K, PSL survey, 17 miles west of Brownfield and 2 1/2 miles northeast of the Tokio, South (Wolfcamp) field.

Drillstem test flows

W. A. Moncrief Jr., Midland, No. 1 State, Lea County, N.M., wildcat, eight miles northeast of Maljamar and 3/4 mile southwest of a Pennsylvania oil strike, has indicated production in the Seaman with the flowing of gas and oil on a drillstem test. Tool was open 105 minutes on the test taken from 11,594-11,616 feet. Gas surfaced in seven minutes and oil in one hour, flowing an estimated 40 barrels of oil per hour, with gas rate at 2 million cubic feet per day. Reversed out of the test tool was 6,200 feet of 40-gravity oil and recovery from below the sub was 120 feet of water. Flowing pressures were 1,006-2,186 pounds and 90-minute initial and three-hour final shut-in pressures were 4,219 and 3,268 pounds, respectively. An earlier drillstem test in the Pennsylvanian from 11,306-11,461 feet, recovered 1,225 feet of mud- and gas-cut 46-gravity oil and the sampler also returned gas and oil. Drilling continued below 11,762 feet in lime and shale on a 14,000-foot Morrow contract. Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 26-18s-33e.

Othar Kiel

SPE Chapter to meet

The Permian Basin Chapter of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME will hold its regular monthly dinner meeting Tuesday at 6:30 p. m., at Ranchland Hill Country Club. Othar Kiel, fracturing consultant of Houston, will speak on "Hydraulic Fracturing in Tight Reservoirs." Kiel began working in the oil fields as a pumper in 1932. He was graduated from college in 1939 with degrees in mathematics and chemistry. He received a degree in petroleum engineering in 1957. After 15 years in research, he received a special award from the board of directors of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey for his invention and development of a special fracture fluid. He formed his own fracturing consulting company in 1972. He also holds 26 patents of which 18 are in the stimulation category.

Four Gulf employees mark anniversaries

Two Gulf Energy and Minerals Co.-U.S. Midland District employees have observed their 40th anniversaries with the company, and two others have completed 25 years. One of the 40-year veterans is W. E. Shamblin of Midland who is district office services director in the Midland District. Shamblin joined the company Jan. 1, 1937, in Louisiana where he served in geophysical field operations until he entered the U.S. Army in 1943. Upon completion of his military service May 9, 1946, he returned to Gulf Research and Development in Texas and advanced to geophysical party manager. He was transferred to the Exploration and Production Department in July 1955 and assigned to the Midland District office where he has served as unit supervisor, senior unit supervisor and general services supervisor in addition to his present classification. D. O. Weiser of Crane is the other 40-year hand. He is a material supervisor in the Crane Area. His anniversary date is Jan. 13. Weiser served in various field positions in Texas and Louisiana before being transferred to Crane as a roustabout in 1941. In addition to his present classification, he has served as senior clerk, warehouse stockman and senior stockman. W. S. Strickland of Odessa and M. E. Harges of Midland have marked 25 years with the company. Strickland is a material supervisor in the Goldsmith Area. He joined Gulf as a senior clerk in the Goldsmith Area Jan. 16, 1952. In addition to his present assignment, he has served as senior accounting clerk. His entire tenure has been in the Midland District. Harges has been with Gulf since Jan. 14, 1952. He originally was employed in Roswell, N. M., as a geologist. He now is serving as senior staff geologist in the Exploration Department in the Midland District Office.

John W. O'Neal

J. O'Neal to retire

John W. O'Neal, claim agent in geophysical operations of the Southwestern Exploration Division in Midland of Exxon Co.-U.S.A., will retire Feb. 1 with 28 years of service. He joined the company in South Texas in 1949. He was given subsequent geophysical assignments in other areas of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Kansas and he returned to Texas in 1972. He was honored at a dinner in Midland, at which he was presented retirement awards by Southwestern Division Geophysical Manager H. Jeff Noble.

Garza area gets offset

An offset to a recent field pay reopener has been scheduled in Garza County, and Andrews and Loving County fields gained extensions to production. Victory III Petroleum Co., Houston, intends to drill No. 2 John F. Lott as a 1/2-mile south offset to its No. 1 John F. Lott, recently completed Pennsylvania reopener in the Lazy JL field of Garza County. Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 13, block 30, T-7-N, T&P survey, 15 miles south of Post. Scheduled depth is 9,000 feet. The reopener finalized last December 24, for 52 barrels of 45-gravity oil per day, through perforations at 7,979-7,982 feet.

ANDREWS CONFIRMATION

Petroleum Exploration & Operating Corp., Midland, No. 1 Conoco-University has been completed as the second current well and 3/4-mile southeast extension to the Prichard (Ellenburger) field of Andrews, about 18 miles northeast of Andrews townsite. The new producer had a 24-hour flowing potential of 240 barrels of 42-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio measuring 400-1. Completion was through a 10-64-inch choke and perforations at 13,424-13,423 feet, following a 1,000-gallon acid treatment. Wellsite is 1,980 feet from south and 2,173 feet from east lines of section 7, block 7, ULS.

LOVING COMPLETION

Gulf Oil Corp. has completed No. 1 Grayling Gas Unit, 3/4 mile northwest of the nearest Fusselman well in the Yermojo field of Loving County. It had a calculated, absolute open flow of 418 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, producing through perforations at 18,571-18,937 feet, which had been acidized with 24,000 gallons. It is 1,600 feet from northeast and 1,320 feet from northwest lines of section 68, block 1, W&NW survey, 3 1/2 miles southeast of Mentone.

WASHINGTON OIL Cold weather boosts gas supply scramble

By CLYDE LA MOTTE Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Continuing colder-than-normal weather is intensifying the scramble for natural gas supplies and complicating the problems of regulatory agencies. The trouble is that there simply isn't enough gas to go around, particularly not when cold weather boosts demand to peak heights. So the tricky problem then is to determine who is going to get gas, who is going to be cut back and who is going to be left out entirely. One of the techniques that has been used to meet temporary supply situations is for the Federal Power Commission to grant a 60-day emergency authorization to a pipeline transmission company to supply a given customer or category of customers. This has proved helpful but is far from a satisfactory solution because it leaves unanswered the question of what to do when the 60-day period expires. (The commission at one time was granting 180-day authorizations but the courts ruled against that, saying this was tantamount to deregulating sales.) An example of the 60-day problem confronted the commission last week. It concerned what to do in the case of emergency sales by Houston Pipeline Co. to Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. and United Gas Pipe Line Co. During November and December Houston Pipeline, operating under a 60-day authorization, was selling 150 million cubic feet of gas daily to Transco and 85 million cubic feet daily to United. Since the price on such emergency sales is not regulated, they ordinarily run well above the nationwide ceiling price of $1.42 per thousand cubic feet permitted under new, long-term contracts. In this case, Houston Pipeline was selling the gas to Transco and United for $2.15 per thousand cubic feet. However, when the 60-day period ended, the transmission companies and their customers were still needing gas supplies. Without the gas, some industrial and commercial establishments, such as the textile mills in Georgia and the Carolinas, face the prospect of having to shut down. These mills use gas flames in finishing textiles, and say they cannot substitute some other fuel. Houston Pipeline sought to solve the problem by filing for a "new" emergency certificate. In the filing, it simply switched the amounts going to Transco and United. This put the FPC on the spot. If it approved the sales, it feared it would be opening the gates for a flood of similar requests by other companies and the commission would be accused of permitting a big growth in unregulated sales. On the other hand, if it simply gave a 60-day extension of the original sales it could be charged with circumventing the court's ruling against lengthy "emergency" sales not subject to FPC price control. A third alternative, to do nothing at all, would mean that some of the customer's of Transco and United would have to suffer the consequences. Last week the commission held a hearing on the issue and as the week neared an end was struggling over a decision. FPC is well aware that the problem is much broader than the case it had before it. As a result, it included in the hearing procedure consideration of the need for implementation of some plan for coping with supply problems in other areas of the country, many of which are experiencing adverse weather and gas shortage conditions. There is a host of other problems stemming from the supply squeeze. For example, if one transmission company has enough, or nearly enough, gas to meet its customers' requirements, should it be forced to take gas away from these customers to provide a supply to another pipeline company with inadequate supplies? There are also regional problems. Should customers in a gas-producing state be forced to do without adequate supplies in order to provide supplies to non-producing states caught in a supply bind that may even mean shortages for hospitals and homes. Then there is the perpetual question of price, including the price of supplemental supplies such as gas from coal, imported liquefied natural gas or gas from the far-away North Slope of Alaska. There has been a continuing argument over whether high-cost supplemental supplies should be sold separately or whether the price of supplemental gas should be rolled in with the cost of conventional natural gas so that no one would feel the full impact of the high-cost supplemental supply. Some producing state officials are concerned over this issue of a rolled-in price if the price of new gas sold in interstate commerce is decontrolled. This is the reason for the concern: Unclear deregulation, interstate pipeline companies could outbid most intrastate purchasers for new gas supplies if the interstate pipeline companies were permitted to average this price in with the cost of its existing supply of "old" gas already under long-term contract. The result could be that customers in producing states would be left in short supply while interstate pipelines moved gas from their states to other regions in increasing amounts.

Act today on this opportunity. Mail your Enrollment Form before January 29, 1977

Now—$1 enrolls you in the new Physicians Hospital Policy that lets you choose your plan and renewal rate. It pays you cash benefits from the very first day you're in the hospital—$900 a month ($30 a day).

We guarantee to issue you this insurance—regardless of your age, health or family size. Then you can renew for as little as $7.55 a month—depending on your age.

- Pays cash benefits from the very first day of hospitalization.
- Pays $900 a month cash—$30 a day—for you, your wife and children.
- 50% cash increase for cancer and heart attacks.
- New sicknesses and accidents are both covered immediately.
- No limit to the number of days you can collect cash benefits.
- Cash benefits paid direct to you—to spend as you wish—unless you tell us otherwise.
- Guaranteed renewable for life.
- Pays over and above any other insurance you may have—including Medicare.

These days, one of the most scary things about going to the hospital is the final bill. Inflation has driven up the average price of hospitalization in the United States to $130 a day according to the American Hospital Association. So even if you already have basic hospital insurance, it only covers part of the cost. You have to come up with the rest.

Meanwhile, if you're hospitalized for any length of time, your income may stop. And those bills will keep piling up at home—rent, loans, mortgage, telephone, utilities, credit card and all the rest. Pretty soon, you could find most of your savings are eaten up. You could even wind up deeply in debt.

Now for the good news. Physicians Mutual Insurance Company—run by doctors since 1902—has created this new Physicians Hospital Plan to help you and your family extra protection against the high cost of hospitalization. Here's how it works—and why you should enroll now.

$900 a month—$30 a day—cash!
Hospital rates are usually the same for everybody. That's why this policy pays the same $30 a day cash benefit when you, your wife or any of your children are hospitalized for any covered sickness or accident. Compare these benefits with other policies that pay reduced benefits for dependents.

50% increase in cash benefits for cancer and heart attack: $1350 a month, $45 a day.
No one likes to think about getting cancer or having a heart attack. But it happens all the time. About 53 million Americans now living will eventually have cancer. That's 1 in 4 persons. And it's estimated that nearly 4 million people have a history of heart attack. We sincerely hope you never have to collect. But if you should, daily benefits are increased 50% if you or any covered member of your family are hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease) or heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion).

Double benefits for you and your wife!
When your wife is covered and both of you are hospitalized at the same time due to accidents, your daily benefits are increased. That's right, you get twice the regular cash benefit—$3,600 a month ($120 a day) to help you through this emergency. By the way, hospitalization doesn't have to be due to the same accident, you and your wife could be injured in unrelated accidents.

Your policy is guaranteed renewable.
Don't forget, this extra protection is yours as long as you want to have it and pay your premiums when due. We cannot drop you or cancel your coverage because your health changes, or because you're a few years older, or because you've submitted a number of claims. On the other hand, you can drop your policy on any renewal date. Also, your premium can never be increased unless premiums are raised on all policies like yours in your entire state.

If you have any questions about this policy call 800-228-9100 toll-free from anywhere in the Continental United States. (Nebraska residents, call 402-558-8900 collect.) Our Customer Service staff is ready to serve you from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Central Time, Monday thru Friday.

Pays you maternity benefits, too!
You'll collect full benefits—$30 a day—for hospitalization due to pregnancy or any pregnancy complication. If coverage includes your wife and if your policy has been in force for 10 months, there's no added cost to you.

No waiting period for accidents or new sicknesses.
You're covered the very minute your policy is issued and put in force for new sicknesses—and accidents. That means you could be rushed to the hospital a few minutes after you get your policy—and be able to start collecting your $30 a day benefits immediately, starting that very day!

You get lifetime coverage and benefits.
There's no limit on the number of days for which you can collect cash benefits. You can be hospitalized as often as necessary and stay as long as you have to, knowing that your $30 a day benefits cannot run out. Our plan will pay you benefits for as long as you're hospitalized—even for life!

Pays cash benefits in addition to any other insurance you have.
Remember, this is extra, supplemental protection. Your benefits are paid over and above any other insurance you may carry—including Blue Cross, Blue Shield, Major Medical and Medicare. This policy is designed to help you make up the difference between your total hospital bill and what your other insurance will pay.

Your benefits are not taxable.
Your benefits from your Physicians Mutual Policy are not taxable by any level of government. They are not subject to state or Federal income tax.

Please note these exceptions.
Pre-existing conditions, health problems that became evident or were medically treated before the effective date of the policy are not covered for one year from the date the policy is issued. Half benefits ($15 a day) are paid for up to 4 weeks confinement due to mental disorder. Not covered is hospitalization for alcoholism, drug addiction or any condition covered by Workmen's Compensation or Employers' Liability Law benefits. Confinement in nursing homes, Federal hospitals, or the self-care extended care or convalescent units of hospitals is not covered. Pregnancy or any consequence is covered after your policy is 10 months old.

Backed by Physicians Mutual—the company run by doctors since 1902.
From its founding in 1902 until 1942, the Company specialized in health insurance for physicians, surgeons and dentists exclusively. Then, recognizing the growing need for insurance to supplement basic hospital coverages, Physicians Mutual began making such protection available to the general public. And it is one of the first companies to do so. Today, our various policies protect over 1,000,000 Americans in a walk-of-life.

We can't say "No" to you.
Don't worry, we guarantee to issue you a policy. You will not be turned down because of your age, health or size of your family.

As soon as we receive your Enrollment Form, we will issue your policy. Please check and get it in time!
From that day on, even before you're in a hospital, you're insured for new sicknesses and accidents. Naturally, we can issue only one policy to you on a guaranteed issue basis.

If you're already a Physicians Mutual policyowner and would like information about additional coverage available to you, please write for details.

You can enroll in this new Physicians Hospital Policy right from this page. All you need do is fill out the short Enrollment Form and mail it, together with $1—which pays for your first month.

No salesman will call or visit you.

Now—Physicians Mutual gives you a choice of extra protection plans and cash benefits.

First, choose the insurance plan that fits your needs best.

Individual Plan

Choose this plan if you're single or only want to cover one member of the family. Pays you $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when you're hospitalized for a covered sickness or accident.

Husband-Wife Plan

Designed for the married couple without children or whose children are grown and no longer dependent. Pays $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when either of you is in the hospital for a covered sickness or accident. Maternity included at no extra cost. And benefits double when both husband and wife are hospitalized at the same time due to accidents.

All-Family Plan

Offers protection for the growing young family. Covers you, your wife and all your eligible dependent children—including future additions. Pays the same $900 a month cash—$30 a day—for every insured family member. Maternity covered at no extra cost. And benefits double when both husband and wife are in the hospital at the same time due to accidents.

One-Parent Family Plan

Created especially for the single parent with children. Covers you and all eligible dependent children. Pays $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when you or an insured child is hospitalized for a covered sickness or accident.

Remember, your first month's premium is $1. Then you can keep this extra protection working for you for the renewal rates shown below for your age.

	Under 40 (Use age of principal insured)	40 and Over
Individual Plan	$7.55	$9.95
Husband-Wife Plan	$13.65	$18.75
All-Family Plan	$16.85	$21.95
One-Parent Family Plan	$10.75	$13.15

Note: Your renewal rate does not increase as you move from one age group to another.

Or, if you prefer, choose cash benefits of $600 a month ($20 a day).

Up to now, you've been reading about $900 a month ($30 a day) cash benefits. You can have all the features of this fine policy at a lower rate, if cash benefits of $600 a month ($20 a day) better suit your protection needs. Your policy will still pay cash benefits from the very first day—still pay 50% increased benefits for cancer, heart attack—still pay double benefits when husband and wife are hospitalized at the same time due to accident—still pay lifetime benefits—and we still guarantee to issue you a policy.

Your first month's premium is $1 and you can keep this extra protection working for you for the lower renewal rates shown below for your age.

	Under 40 (Use age of principal insured)	40 and Over
Individual Plan	$5.35	$6.95
Husband-Wife Plan	$9.65	$12.95
All-Family Plan	$11.85	$15.15
One-Parent Family Plan	$7.55	$9.15

Note: Your renewal rate does not increase as you move from one age group to another.

A Special Invitation to Folks 65 and Over.

Physicians Mutual warmly welcomes your enrollment in this new extra protection hospital plan. And we guarantee to accept you regardless of your age and health.

Perhaps you're thinking that because you have Medicare, you don't need additional coverage. Not so. Despite its many fine features, Medicare does not cover all of your hospital expenses. That's why our new plan pays you daily cash benefits to help meet expenses—and for every day of your hospital stay, regardless of how long it might be.

No rate increase at age 65

We also know most older folks are on a fixed and often limited budget. So, instead of raising rates when you become 65, we pay half benefits ($15 a day) for the first 60 days of hospitalization after age 65. You get the full $30 a day cash benefits after that. And your monthly premium continues to be the same as when you first enrolled in the plan.

So, you'll have cash coming in when you're laid up in the hospital, regardless of how long you may have to stay. Enroll today in this new extra protection hospital plan.

Your policy comes in this handsome vinyl wallet.

It's a convenient way to keep your important personal papers in one place. With your policy, you also receive a Claim Form. It's easy to use and assures prompt processing of your claim when an accident or sickness puts you in the hospital.

Money-Back Guarantee

We will send you your Physicians Mutual Hospital Policy Form P350 Series or rate. When you receive it, read it through. You will see that it is honest, direct to the point and easy to understand. If for any reason you decide that you do not want this protection, you may return the policy within 30 days and we will promptly refund you your dollar.

Gilmore executed after stay lifted

Judge David Lewis shows credentials before entering Denver court building.

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP) — Gary Mark Gilmore, the killer who demanded death and twice attempted suicide in prison, was executed by a Utah firing squad today minutes after a federal appeals court lifted a stay granted during the night.

The 36-year-old Gilmore was the first person to be executed in the United States in nearly 10 years. His lengthy fight to be executed drew worldwide attention.

Gilmore, sentenced for the shooting death of a Provo, Utah, motel clerk, was dressed in white and wearing an overcoat as he was taken from Utah State prison in a van to the execution site.

A spokesman for the prison dictated a short message to newsmen moments after the appeals court ruled at 7:35 a.m. MST. He said: "The order of the 4th District Court has been carried out."

"Gary Mark Gilmore is dead," the spokesman said.

Robert L. Moody, one of Gilmore's two attorneys, said Gilmore was seated in a chair when he met death, denied his request to stand and face his executioners. The execution took place at 8:06 a.m. MST.

Vern D'Amico, Gilmore's uncle, said: "I would like to say at this time, Gary, my nephew, died like he wanted to die, in dignity. He got his wish to die. He died in dignity. That's all I have to say."

Gilmore's other lawyer, Ronald Stanger, said through tears that he spent the night with Gilmore. "He was even trying to teach us some western songs," Stanger said of Gilmore. "He made the statement that he had received a gift. That gift was he knew when he was going to die and he was indeed fortunate. In the wee hours of the morning, he expressed thanks and some sorrow. He was a good man. He expressed love for children."

Lawrence Schiller said the first indication that Gilmore was to be executed after the various legal maneuverings was when 4th District Court Judge J. Robert Bullock changed his order from sunrise to anytime during the day. When Schiller got to the execution site, Gilmore was already strapped into the chair with nylon straps. Nearby were about 20 other people Gilmore talked briefly with Warden Samuel Smith but Schiller could not hear what was said.

A prison employe passed out cotton to witnesses to block their ears from the report of the rifles.

Gilmore did not move in the chair. He stayed rigid. He spoke to his uncle privately and to Moody, then Schiller and Stanger, who hugged him around the neck.

The warden then read a legal order. Gilmore looked directly at the warden without quivering.

"Gary looked up for an extended period of time and said, 'Let's do it,'" Schiller said.

"There were some emotional exchanges. A priest, a doctor and several other prison employes placed a hood over Gilmore's head. He was wearing tennis shoes.

"He did not move when the hood was placed over him," Schiller said.

"We could not hear anything that was being said."

"All the prison personnel moved away. Father Thomas Mearns gave some rites to Gilmore before the hood was placed over his head."

"A circular target was placed on Gilmore's t-shirt. I think I saw the warden give the signal out of the corner of my eye. I heard three noises in quick rapid succession — bang, bang, bang. Gary's body moved. His head turned slightly to the left ...

Then slowly red blood emerged from under the black t-shirt onto the white slacks."

Schiller, a promoter who has rights to Gilmore's life story, added, "The body still had movement for approximately 15 to 20 seconds."

He said that as he left the execution site, the stretcher to remove Gilmore's body was coming forward "and no one looked back."

Jurek awaits execution

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Jerry Lane Jurek, whose case served as the U.S. Supreme Court test of Texas' death penalty, waited in his cell today for word on a possible stay of execution.

Jurek, 25, of Cuero, was sentenced to death in the August 1973 strangulation death of a 10-year-old girl.

Barring any stay of execution, Jurek is scheduled to die moments after midnight Tuesday in "Old Sparky," the Texas Department of Corrections electric chair.

Prison officials said Jurek was to be asked today to name the five persons he wants to watch him die.

Because of a ruling by U.S. District Court Judge William Taylor of Dallas, many Texans may be given an opportunity to view Jurek's death on television.

Judge Taylor, ruling in a suit brought by Dallas television newsmen Tony Garrett, said the state could not bar the filming of the execution.

Gilmore wanted to die unhooded

COPYRIGHT (C) 1977 by Lawrence Schiller and Barry Farrell, The New Ingot Company, Inc.

(In compliance with a final request by Gary Gilmore, excerpts from a 15,000-word interview conducted by journalists Lawrence Schiller and Barry Farrell were released today. The interview, which will be published in Playboy magazine March 10, was compiled from more than 20 hours of face-to-face and taped sessions conducted through Sunday, Jan. 16, 1977.)

Special to The Los Angeles Times

As the date of his execution approached and he became confident that no further appeals would stay or prevent it, Gilmore's attention turned to the ritual of the firing squad and his desire to face his executioners standing and unhooded.

G.G.: I think sitting down and wearing a hood is a morbid, macabre thing. I never wore a hood before. Why should I start wearing one now?

Int.: You think it's more manly to do it your way?

G.G.: No. I just want to look them in the eye when they shoot me.

Int.: I think the warden might be worried that you'd move or flinch at the last moment.

G.G.: I won't budge. I would assume those marksmen they got would prefer a moving target. But I'm not gonna satisfy the bastards.

Three days before he was due to be shot, Gilmore had a talk with Utah State Prison Warden Sam Smith and learned that his requests had been denied.

G.G.: I believe he's concerned that my standing there and looking at the firing squad will unnerve 'em. He's worried about them guys getting nervous. But, listen, he did say this — emphatically. He said they usually come to your cell, put a hood on you there, and you wear the hood from the time you leave your cell till you're dead. He said he would not do that to me. He said he wouldn't put the hood on me until after I'm in the chair. I want the son of a bitch to keep his word on that much, at least.

Elsewhere in the interview, Gilmore is asked if he feels he has compromised his wish to "die with dignity and grace" by trying twice to "sneak out softly on drugs."

G.G.: That's a possibility. But also, I was anxious to get it over. You know I'm an impatient guy. I'm impatient about this, too. I don't like layin' around in here till the 17th, and I thought that if I did commit suicide, then all these other death row guys

Raising top steers Martin County habit

STANTON — "They're dead and gone," farmer-stockman Vernon Holcomb said. He did not once twitch, sigh or otherwise show a sign of regret.

"It's a shame you can't keep 'em," he said of a couple of blue-ribbon steers.

It also would be a shame not to latch onto a windfall that would fill a couple of bank bags with $35,000 and $23,000 in good ol' U.S. greenbacks and coins.

The once hefty and well-groomed steers that impressed livestock judges and that gave delight to their owners were turned into beef steaks and other choice cuts.

Yes, those well-hoofed and top-of-the-line steers that the Vernon Holcomb and Sammy Yates youngsters groomed with pride were sold "for money," Holcomb said. "That's the name of the game."

All that money was won last year at the Houston Fat Stock Show by the two Martin County families.

Tana Yates, 18, showed the family's 1,145-pound Maine-Anjou steer called "Old Joe." The "old" steer was only 20 months into his life at the time he was judged the grand champion steer. He brought $35,000 at the chopping block.

Fine specimen. Great hunk of juicy flesh.

No more grazing. No more green pastures.

Now, Susan Holcomb, 12, showed her family's 1,146-pound Black Limousin steer named "Black Jack." He took second place — the reserve grand champion steer — at the livestock show.

Old Black Jack commanded, so to speak, $23,000.

Again, the ax fell heavily and surely.

Holcomb described the Houston show as the "world's richest livestock show." Tana Yates said it is the "Big

Ford presents $440 billion budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford handed Congress today a lame-duck federal budget of $440 billion for 1978 that calls for a substantial increase in defense spending and permanent tax cuts totaling $47.5 billion over the next six years.

Ford, who has only three days remaining of his presidency, said his budget would "help us to fulfill the promise of America." But President-elect Carter's advisers already were at work on changes to fulfill the Democrat's own promises to the voters.

Ford's tax cut plans likely will receive little attention from both Congress and from Carter, who has his own tax-reduction plans and who wants to use any increased tax receipts to pay for new programs, such as health insurance, rather than turn that revenue back to taxpayers.

Carter plans to submit proposed changes to the Ford budget to Congress in mid-February, after which the Democratic-controlled Congress will hammer out a final budget for the year beginning Oct. 1 undoubtedly more to Carter's liking than to Ford's.

Ford's budget provides for a 7 per cent increase in spending over the estimated 1977 budget expenditures of $411 billion. Since receipts are estimated at $393 billion, there would be a 1978 deficit of $47 billion, down from $57 billion this year.

Carter, however, already has said the 1977 budget deficit will have to be increased to between $70 billion to $75 billion if Congress approves his $30-billion tax cut-jobs program to stimulate the economy.

Ford gave up on his campaign pledge to aim toward a balanced budget in 1979. Even if all his recommendations were accepted for this year and next, there would still be a deficit of $11.6 billion in 1979, he said.

He said this was the fault of Congress for not approving his previous recommendations for spending restraint.

But despite the reasons he gave, it brought a sigh of relief from Carter's advisers who had felt the psychological impact of a Ford proposal for a balanced budget in 1979 could make it more difficult for Carter to get public acceptance of a bigger deficit this year.

Ford again asked Congress to approve some of the same spending restraints it had rejected in the past, including $2 billion from Medicare, $1.2 billion from child nutrition programs and $800 million from food stamps.

Of the $12.4 billion in spending restraint Ford proposed, about $9 billion of it was termed as "silly, not serious stuff" by Bob Hartman, a budget adviser to Carter.

"They are old-hat reductions that Congress did not act on in the last year or two," he said, predicting they would again be rejected.

Ford proposed a $12-billion increase in defense spending for 1978 to a total of $112 billion with new outlays for the controversial B1 bomber and development work on the sophisticated intercontinental MX missile that eventually could cost $30 billion.

The budget "assumes" 244 B1 bombers will be produced, according to Ford budget aides. Carter has taken a guarded position on whether the plane should be produced and has not outlined a position on the MX stamps.

The tax-cut plan provides for a $7.2-billion reduction in income taxes this year, followed by additional reductions of $14.7 billion in 1978, $7.3 billion in 1980, $19.6 billion in 1981 and $30.6 billion in 1982.

These reductions would be partially offset by increases in Social Security taxes, so the net reduction would be $47.5 billion. The program includes tax cuts for business, as well as individuals.

James T. Lynn, Ford's budget

director, said the purpose of the cuts would be to maintain the share of income that Americans pay in taxes roughly the same as it is now. Without the reductions, he said the tax payments of the average family would increase 39 per cent by 1982.

But the plan also appeared designed to build public pressures to keep Carter from ever having the $60-billion budget surplus the president-elect says he hopes to have by 1981 to help pay for new and expanded government programs. He has pledged to have a balanced budget by then.

Under Ford's proposals for 1977, a family of four with an income of $10,000 a year would receive a reduction of $166 in income taxes, which would be partially offset by a $30-hike in Social Security taxes for a net gain of $136.

Carter to propose big changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter will propose big changes in President Ford's budget, possibly including rejection of about $9 billion in spending cuts a Carter aide calls "silly, not serious stuff."

Many of the President-elect's proposals are likely to win favor in the overwhelmingly Democratic Congress, rendering Ford's budget obsolete.

"We can turn the Ford budget around into a Carter budget within 30 days all by ourselves," one congressional source quoted Rep. Brock Adams, then chairman of the House Budget Committee, as telling Carter shortly after the election.

Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's domestic policy adviser, says: "There are a number of areas which we're interested in and that we're going to make revisions in, but that should be distinguished from the writing of a complete budget."

Eizenstat said there isn't time to do that. Carter plans to submit his budget proposals in mid-February.

Bob Hartman, a Carter budget adviser, said Congress may reject about $9 billion of the $12.4 billion in cuts proposed by Ford because they are "silly, not serious ... (and) old-hat reductions that Congress has not acted on in the last year or two."

He cited reductions for food stamps, saying the cuts already have been ruled out of order by the courts, and reductions for Medicare. In addition, Carter has called for increasing spending to create jobs, rather than the cutback Ford proposes.

Ford has proposed a lame duck budget of $440 billion for fiscal 1978, beginning Oct. 1. That would be a 7 per cent increase in government spending. It includes a $12-billion jump for defense and calls for new spending on the B1 bomber, which Carter has indicated he doesn't favor.

The President-elect has said he will cut $5 billion to $7 billion in Pentagon waste, but that this cannot be done immediately. He said there can be an even larger reduction if he succeeds in reducing tensions in the Middle East.

Carter said the money "would be available in the general fund for tax reduction, for social programs or perhaps for other kinds of expenditures."

Ford's budget envisions a net $47.5-billion tax cut in five years. Carter and leading congressional Democrats have agreed in principle on a two-year, $30-billion program of job projects and tax cuts. Carter's plan emphasizes a large, one-time rebate and smaller permanent tax reduction.

Under Ford's proposals, a family of four with income of $10,000 a year would have its 1977 income tax reduced by $166 but its Social Security tax increased by $30 for a net gain of $136. Carter has said the same family could expect a $100 to $200 rebate on its 1976 taxes under his plan and permanent $100 reductions in future years. Carter's tax cuts benefit lower income persons more than Ford's proposals do.

Carter has not advocated increasing the Social Security tax rate.

Food stamp program termed cash aid also

By BRIAN B. KING

WASHINGTON (AP) — When a family enters the food stamp program, each dollar's worth of coupons the government adds to its grocery budget frees up to 43 cents of its cash for other needs, a new analysis by the Congressional Budget Office calculates.

CBO Director Alice M. Rivlin told reporters in releasing the study Saturday that Congress needs to understand that the 13-year-old program is a cash welfare program as well as a way to increase the amount poor people can eat.

"As the current program is expected to cost... about $5.4 billion in fiscal year 1978, a key budgetary issue to be addressed is whether the program should be redirected to emphasize either of its two current goals of increased food consumption or income supplementation or whether the current mix or emphasis should be continued," she said.

Since $5.3 billion was paid out in the last fiscal year for food stamp benefits, the CBO's calculations would mean that recipient families had almost $2.28 billion to divert from groceries to other expenses.

Eligible families are charged a cash price, depending on their income bracket, for their coupons, which are allotted by household size. About 5.38 million families are on the rolls now.

G. William Hoagland, chief author of the CBO analysis and of options for revising the program, gave three examples of three-person families affected differently by the program's combined nutrition and welfare aspects.

Each of the three families has a gross income of $200 each month and deductions under the program rules of $20 for a "net income" of $180. In that bracket, the program's price table requires $46 cash a month for the $130 in stamps.

The similarities end there. Before being certified for food stamps, Family A spent $46 a month on food, Family B, $130, Family C, $80. Once the stamps are in hand, he continued, Family A has $84 more in the form of coupons to spend on food but no extra money freed; Family B spends no more on food but has $84 free to spend on other things; Family C has $50 more for food and $34 in its "old cash" to spend otherwise.

The study was noncommittal on what should be done. Most food-stamp families also benefit from the 54 other federal programs for the poor that provide either direct cash payments, which about 45 percent receive, or such "in-kind" services as Medicaid.

Mrs. Rivlin noted that about 78 percent of the families fall below the official poverty lines and get almost 86 percent of the benefits. For three-person households, the poverty line is now $383 a month. Agriculture Department studies say the average family on the food-stamp rolls has 3.2 persons, a gross monthly income of $298 and expenses deductible under program rules that total $74. It pays $58 for $130 in stamps.

Claudine to teach French, lawyers may stall sentence

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — After weekending with ex-husband Andy Williams, Claudine Longet plans to return to her volunteer job teaching French to second-graders this week as her lawyers try to keep her from going to prison for killing her lover.

The 35-year-old French-born entertainer faces a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a $5,000 fine after being convicted Friday of criminally negligent homicide, a misdemeanor. State District Judge George Lohr, who presided over her trial, can reduce or suspend the prison term and fine or put her on probation.

Miss Longet spent the weekend with singer Williams and their three children. She was convicted in the March 21 death of champion skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, who died of a single gunshot wound at the mountainside home they shared for two years.

The prosecution had sought conviction for reckless manslaughter, a felony. But the jury decided on the homicide charge after being presented that choice by Lohr.

Charles Weedman, one of two defense attorneys, said Sunday that Miss Longet hopes to resume giving French lessons at Aspen Elementary School "sometime this week."

She started the lessons before her trial began Jan. 3. "It's her option," said Nancy Wall, the regular teacher. "It's strictly a volunteer thing. She's a little low right now, and I'm not going to bug her about it." Mrs. Wall said Miss Longet would be welcomed back.

The Arctic freeze threatened to create a fuel crisis in some states. Four Ohio gas companies asked their industrial and commercial users to stay closed today and residential users to turn thermostats as low as they could bear.

Dayton Power & Light and West Ohio Gas said they would supply only enough fuel to industrial customers to keep pipes from freezing.

National Fuel Gas in Buffalo, N.Y., told 100 commercial customers Sunday to switch to alternate fuels immediately because of dwindling natural gas supplies. Natural gas utilities serving Illinois, Kentucky and Maryland also curbed service to large industrial customers and asked smaller users to lower their thermostats.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE TO BIDDERS: Sealed proposals addressed to the Mayor and City Council of the City of Midland for the construction of approximately 117,000 square yards of base and surfacing and installation of approximately 47,000 linear feet of concrete curb and gutter will be received until 2:30 p.m. on the 17th day of February, 1977, and publicly opened and read aloud at 3:30 p.m. on the same day.

Any bid received after closing time as stated above will be returned unopened. Bid envelopes shall be plainly marked "Proposal for Street Project 142."

Complete copies of the specifications and contract documents may be examined at the office of the City Engineer, City Hall, Midland, Texas, and obtained at a separate charge upon deposit of $50 which will be returned upon return of the plans and specifications in good condition.

A bid or proposal guaranty is to accompany the bid, thereby guaranteeing the good faith of the bidder and that the bidder will enter into the written contract. The guaranty is to amount to five percent (5%) of the total bid and must be in the form of cash or certified check issued by a bank satisfactory to the City of Midland, or a bid bond. If in the form of cash or certified check, it is hereby expressly understood and agreed that the City of Midland gives the right to retain such as liquidated damages if such bidder withdraws his bid anytime after such bid is opened and before official rejection of such bid or if successful in securing the award thereof such bidder fails to enter into the contract and furnish satisfactory performance bond and payment bond. If a bid bond is submitted, it shall be executed on forms contained in these contract documents by a corporate surety authorized to do business in the State of Texas and acceptable to the City of Midland.

A successful bidder will be required to furnish a performance bond and a payment bond each in the amount of the contract price by a responsible surety company authorized to do business in the State of Texas and acceptable to the City of Midland.

The City of Midland, Texas, reserves the right to accept or reject any or all proposals or bids or to waive technicalities to make any investigation deemed necessary to verify the accuracy of the information furnished by the bidder and to accept or reject any and all proposals or bids. The Council is the most authoritative body in the City of Midland, Texas.
