Council to decide Feb. 8 on possible charter vote

By LARRY SUTHERLAND

Midland City Council will decide at its Feb. 8 meeting if Midland voters will have the opportunity to change the city charter.

The council instructed City Attorney Joe Nuessle to prepare an ordinance calling for four amendments to the city charter that will be presented to the council in two weeks.

If approved, the issue will be put 1979 election. The proposal would before the voters on the April 2 election ballot.

The proposed amendments include: - A change in the method of electing councilmen from the present at-large method to one calling for the election of four councilmen by districts with two councilmen and the mayor being elected at-large. The change would be effective with the increase the size of the council by one member.

- A change limiting the terms of councilmen and the mayor to three consecutive two-year terms, but not limiting the ability of a councilman to run for mayor.

- A change calling for special elections if a councilman leaves office with more than nine months remaining in his term, or if two councilmen leave office at the same time. Other vacancies would be filled by the present council-appointment

-A change that would preclude the council from hearing appeals on assessments by the board of equalization and refer the appeals to the district court, which is the method used for appeals of county, school district and college district assessments.

The proposal for single-member district elections drew the most interest of the four.

More than 25 Midlanders attended the council session specifically for the charter amendment discussion

Single-member district elections could afford greater representation to the approximately 20 per cent minority population of Midland, and several of the citizens appearing at the hearing were blacks or Mexican-Americans

Betty Sheeler, president of the Midland League of Women Voters, said her organization would like to see five councilmen elected by singlemember districts, and the mayor and another councilman elected at-large. She presented the league's position only after the council had already voted to have Nuessle's amendments drafted for the next council meeting for formal placement on the ballot.

Nevertheless, she said after the meeting that the league will likely support the city attorney's version.

Although the council and Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. virtually assured single-member election proposal will be on the ballot, it will not be supported by all of the elected officials. Mayor Angelo said he will still oppose single-member district elections, prefering the present system. He did support the other two charter amendments, however

Carter to pursue controls removal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is expected to ask Congress for power to remove price controls temporarily on some natural gas and to allocate the fuel to areas hardest hit by shortages.

Carter, who planned to send his energy proposals to Capitol Hill today, outlined the emergency plan for congressional leaders Tuesday.

Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary, said the measures would lead to "some marginal increases" in natural gas prices for consumers. But the plan also would include provisions to prevent gas producers from jacking up prices and taking excessive profits on uncontrolled gas, administration officials said. Administration and industry experts also said that while Carter's proposals might help ease the natural gas shortage, they would not solve it completely.

The plan would allow sale of to interstate pipelines until next July 31, the officials said.

The intrastate pipeline gas, which normally is sold only within the state where it is produced, is not under federal price control and sells at a higher price than the controlled, interstate gas.

It also would allow the government to allocate the gas to states hardest hit by the shortage, which has been compounded by the current cold wave throughout the South and East.

Congress was expected to act swiftly on the emergency gas legislation, with hearings already scheduled for Friday before the House Commerce subcommittee on energy and

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., the subcommittee chairman, said the plan would primarily benefit homes and small commercial businesses, not large industries.

The natural gas shortage has shut down industries and businesses in many eastern states, throwing an estimated half million workers off their jobs at times during the past 10

The plan would give Carter the power to allocate natural gas to hard-pressed states whose governors certify that the shortage poses a threat to "life, health or property," administration officials said.

Federal Power Commission rules already permit 60-day emergency gas sales of intrastate gas to interstate pipelines. But FPC figures show that emergency sales in October, November and December amounted to less than 1 per cent of the expected winter gas requirements.

Also, there was no guarantee that those emergency sales were delivered as promised Intrastate pipelines were delivering emergency gas only if they were left with enough to serve their own customers

Three separate bond issues totaling

$3.5 million for improvements in the Midland parks system were given tentative approval Tuesday by the city council. The bond issues include $1 million for a recreation center, $1 million for golf course improvements and $1.5 million for park improvements and new parks. Parks and Recreation Director

Robert Thomson had requested $5.6 million in one bond issue, but the request was trimmed by the council. The Parks and Recreation Commission will review the council's decision and decide if the agency wishes to continue with the bond issue election. If the commission agrees. the council will likely call the election for April 2. Final approval by city council is likely to come at its Feb. 22 In other action, the council

Memories of bygone days fill vacuum in her life

Remember when? Back in the days when white was white and black was not.

Maggie does, and the memories make her sentimental and longing. The terms "black" and "Afro-American" had not yet fully evolved. The black man or woman was either just "Negro" or "colored."

That's how Maggie remembers it. "All colored, all Negroes - that's the right name to call us. Not black,"

Maggie, it's plain to see, is from a by gone era. Whites were on one side of the tracks, and blacks, or Negroes or "the colored," were on the other. It's changed somewhat.

There were separate movie houses for the two races, or else the balconies (Continued On Page 4A)

Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) - Vice President Walter F. Mondale paid a symbolic visit to the Berlin Wall today and said. "We can only pray that progress will see the day when this kind of wall will disappear.

Mondale mounted the stand at the Brandenburg Gate to look over the wall 50 feet away into the eastern half of the divided city

Two East German guards stared back through the gray mist at the vice president, his aides and West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher.

Mondale went on to the city hall, where President Kennedy made his electrifying "I am a Berliner" declaration in 1963, and told officials: "I am here ... to assure you that United States policy is based on our full support for your city - a policy that guarantees, with our allies, your freedom and security, Mondale said President Carter "asked me to convey to you his determination that the United States will not only fulfill its promise to see that Berlin survives, but also to go further to help this city and its residents flourish as an important part of the Western world.'

Mondale's motorcade passed clusiers of people who stopped on the street and waved. There was no massive turnout, but several hundred people were gathered at the city hall.

From West Berlin, the Vice President flew to Rome for talks with Italian government officials and an audience with Pope Paul VI, continuing his 10-day tour of major U.S. allies in Western Europe and Japan.

Mondale met for nearly four hours Tuesday with West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and said afterward chances were "much enhanced" for a "cooperative solution" to differences between their governments over the West German agreement to sell Brazil uranium reprocessing and enrichment plants

Trustees delay action on MCAA withdrawal

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Midland school trustees Tuesday tabled a proposal to withdraw school district support from the Midland Community Action Agency. But, several school board members said they voted to table the proposal in order to allow the agency time to rewrite its bylaws to eliminate school district participation on the board. The trustees heard a report from the district's two representatives on the agency board, James Bradford, social studies chairman at Lee High School, and Ricardo Torres, counselor at Midland High School. The agency has a basic budget of $33,000 per year plus several grants. Three neighborhood centers which offer referral, transportation. emergency food, and other services are run by three full time workers currently employed. Trustee Don Sparks moved to withdraw district support. His motion was tabled in a 5-2 vote after Trustee David Grimes called on the board to avoid "precipitous action" and seek more information about the problems of the agency. In a prepared statement, Bradford told the trustees the agency has had problems caused by actions of the past executive director, Carol Burns, who was dismissed from her position.

"Her actions completely paralyzed the agency," Bradford said

But, "whatever has happened to the agency is the fault of the board of directors." The board "neglected to do" its job, he said.

"Nevertheless, the agency has a variety of problems involving grants, fiscal accounting, board member relationship and credibility. Once the board realized the whole ramification of its problem, it began to seek help. But because of board members having what seemed to be overzealous ambitions and operating in such a secretive manner, the total board split," he said.

'Some board members took things into their own hands without the advice and consent of a majority of the board. Some board members had acted improperly because of their relationship with the executive director. Still others usurped records, changed mail box numbers, wrote letters, made telephone calls and circulated correspondence before the total board had an opportunity to view it," he said.

Further, "pre-planned tactics" have caused confusion at board meetings and caused a "circus-like" atmosphere which "completely

Bell to assume position today

WASHINGTON (AP) - His confirmation battle over and won, Griffin B. Bell is taking office as the nation's top legal officer, the attorney general.

Bell, an Atlanta lawyer, former federal judge and longtime friend of President Carter, won Senate approval Tuesday by a 75-21 vote.

The President planned to attend Bell's swearing-in ceremony today in the Justice Department's Great Hall. Bell was the tenth of Carter's 11

Cabinet nominees to be confirmed. The Senate planned to vote today on the nomination of F. Ray Marshall as labor secretary.

Fifty-four Democratic senators voted for Bell's confirmation and only five against. The Republican line-up was 21 for and 16 against

Carter's selection of Bell aroused strong opposition from some black leaders and various civil rights and liberal organizations, but the President himself called Beil's civil rights record "superb."

Carter thinking rebate as nucleus of program

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is opting for tax breaks, including a $50 rebate this year for nearly all Americans, as the nucleus for his $31 billion package to stimulate the economy

While the President does not plan to send his economic proposals to Congress until Monday, he discussed them with congressional leaders Tuesday. His budget chief, Bert Lance, publicly revealed the plan for an across-the-board $50 rebate.

Lance said most taxpayers would receive a $50 tax rebate for every personal exemption claimed on their tax returns. A family of four would receive a combined rebate of $200.

Lance gave no indication that there would be any ceiling on the amount of rebate one family could get, other than the $50 a person rate of rebate. Organized labor contends that the new administration is placing too much emphasis on tax rebates and not enough on jobmaking programs.

The AFL-CIO's top two leaders, George Meany and Lane Kirkland. planned to meet with Carter today at the White House.

The AFL-CIO favors pumping the $30 billion directly into jobs programs without tax breaks. Lance said Tuesday that the rebates would go to taxpayers at all income levels, including the wealthy. But he added that there could be variations in the $50 per person payment for some income groups, and final details remain to be worked out. The total amount of rebates and cash payments would be about $11 billion. The rebates would be on 1976

He said the government also would try to make $50 payments to Social Security recipients and the poor who pay no taxes, although he said it may not be possible to find all the eligible

Lance estimated the two-year package will total $31.3 billion, including $15.8 billion this year. Carter and his advisers said on Jan. 7 that the stimulus package would cost up to $30 billion.

Lance and other Carter economic advisers will testify on the program before congressional committees next week after the President sends his plans to Capitol Hill. The program is subject to approval by Congress.

Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said he has "no problems" with the tax proposals and hopes they can clear Congress by the end of

Lance also disclosed that Carter has decided to include a second benefit for businessmen in his economic package, an increase in the investment tax credit to 12 per cent from the current 10 per cent. Lance said the purpose is to encourage new business investment. Businessmen would have a choice of two ways to take the investment tax credit. They could reduce their tax payments by a certain percentage of the cost of new investments, or take a 4 per cent tax credit equal to the amount of their Social Security tax payments for their employes.

Florida vegetable prices rise as damage estimate hits $250 million

Shoppers were lucky to have any tomatoes Tuesday. Last week's killer freeze destroyed 95-100 per cent of the vegetable crop in southern Florida.

In central Florida, where 35 to 40 per cent of the citrus crop was ruined. forecasters warned of a second but milder freeze early today. Estimates of damage to farm crops have risen to more than $250 Greengrocers are searching for produce to fill their shelves and most are hiking prices. A produce manager in Palm Beach said tomatoes and peppers priced at 59 cents a pound last week leaped to 99 cents Tuesday. The most expensive vegetables were tomatoes, peppers, squash, green beans and celery, grocers said, adding that prices and supplies of oranges and grapefruit were holding steady. "This week isn't going to be as big a disaster as next week," said Hardy Taylor, chief produce buyer for Winn-Dixie's 1,150 stores across the U.S. Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland said he will tour damaged Florida fields and groves next Monday in response to Gov. Reubin Askew's request to declare the state an agriculture disaster area, which would make low-cost loans available to farmers.

Askew said he may also ask for a presidential declaration to provide special unemployment compensation to migrant farm workers, who normally don't qualify for such benefits. State officials say 35,000 farm workers are idle because of the freeze; spokesmen for the workers claim 130,000 are out of work

Panama minister ordered to negotiate new treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Panama's foreign minister is under strict orders to negotiate a new Panama Canal treaty that will require total and final U.S. withdrawal from the Canal Zone within 23 years. Foreign Minister Aquilino Boyd and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will begin talks on a new canal treaty next Boyd, who arrives in New York on Friday, also has orders from his leader, Gen. Omar Torrijos, to tell Vance that the 600-square-mile Canal Zone will become the 10th province of the Panamanian state.

Panamanian embassy officials in Washington said any new pact between the Torrijos regime and the Carter administration will be submitted for popular acceptance or rejection in a national plebiscite.

The Panamanian officials say Boyd has firm instructions and will insist that the U.S. presence in and around the canal be ended by the year 2000.

These developments coincided with reports that President Carter plans to name Washington lawyer Sol M. Linowitz as co-negotiator with Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker. Bunker has been in charge of the canal negotiations for five years.

Vance privately has advised Latin American governments that he expects a new treaty to be completed in about three months, and Torrijos, in a speech last weekend, called Carter administration officials "men better fitted than the men they replaced.'

By JOHN M. WILLIS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The judge threatened to 'have a piece of his hide' if he lied and called on him to tell the truth as a fellow Mormon. Melvin Dummar stuck to his story that a mystery man brought him the will that leaves him a chunk of Howard Hughes'

The unusual grilling by Clark County District Court Judge Keith Hayes came Tuesday as Dummar, a 32-year-old ex-service station operator. testified voluntarily in a hearing on the so-called leaves him Hughes' estate, which has been estimated at $2.5 billion. Dummar was to return to the stand today

Dummar, admitting he had lied during earlier deposition sessions, said he delivered the three-page, handwritten document to the Mormon Church headquarters in Salt Lake City and wrote a note found with it. But he denied having anything to do with writing the will itself.

Instead. Dummar said that he had found an envelope addressed to the late Mormon Church President David O. McKay in the back of his Willard, Utah, service station last April 27 after an unidentified man visited him there. Dummar said he couldn't remember what the man looked like or what they talked about.

Dummar told Los Angeles attorney Harold Rhoden that he used an electric frying pan to steam open the envelope, because, "I was curious and I was scared to death." Rhoden represents former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich, named as executor of the estate in the Dummar said his wife. Bonnie, had joked several times that they would be named in Hughes' will and once said: "One of these days uncle Howie's gonna leave us in his will Dummar said he left later the same day for Mormon Church headquarters to see current church President Spencer Kimball. He said he worried that 'somebody was playing a bad joke on me," but said he later questioned his wife and was satisified she was not involved Dummar said he intended to return to Salt Lake the next day to tell his story to President Kimball. but changed his mind because, "I was afraid that no matter how I looked at it, I knew somebody, somewhere would accuse me of writing it (the will). After a recess for lunch, the casual tone of the civil proceedings changed abruptly. Hayes, 45, suffering from cancer and obviously pale from recent treatment, told Dummar to look him in the eye. 'Mr. Dummar, I think you're lying now," the judge said. "How long and how far is this thing going 'If you're lying ... I will make it my special duty to have a piece of your hide," Hayes said. "I want you to know. Mr. Dummar, the Nevada State Prison is not a country club.

Plan put into effect

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department has put into effect a plan to increase the assessments on cotton growers for promotion and research, beginning with the 1977 crop.

Officials said Tuesday that the larger cotton checkoffs were approved by 35,050 growers against 17.142 in a mail referendum on the issue last month. The approval rate of 67.2 per cent was just above the two-thirds majority required for approval.

The final vote figures were virtually unchanged from USDA's preliminary count announced Dec. 23 that showed an approval of 67.1 per cent.

Thus, beginning with this year's cotton crop, growers will pay an additional assessment equal to four-tenths of one per cent of the value of cotton sold. meaning a charge of $1 to $1.25 a bale at recent

School board votes limit to gifts

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Midland school trustees Tuesday set a $2,500 limit on gifts that can be given to the school district without prior board approval

The trustees asked staff members to formulate a gift policy after a recent situation in which an athletic booster club attempted to donate weight lifting equipment costing almost $7,000.

"It looks like this policy will prevent the kind of situation we recently had," board president Joe Dominey said Tuesday

"It (the weight-lifting gift) would be a violation of policy." schools superintendent Dr. James H. Mailey

During the meeting, trustees also approved a survey form to be used in formulating goals for the school district. Staff members presented a form which combines material from a staff-written questionnaire and action statements from neighborhood meetings the trustees held.

The trustees approved the format of the questionnaire after suggesting several minor changes

Also at the Tuesday meeting, the trustees approved appointment of full time principals for Long and West elementary schools, effective Feb. 1.

Until now, Long has shared a principal with Lamar Elementary School and West with Houston Elementary School.

Grimes also said he wants the board to invite the City Council PTA to speak to the board.

Trustee Ann Page asked that use of value clarification lessons in the school system be an agenda item at the next meeting.

Madrid strikes shut down industrial belt

MADRID, Spain (AP) - Thousands of workers struck today in protest against rightist attacks on leftists, closing down Madrid's industrial belt and construction sites. The government ordered police reinforcements into the capital to prevent renewed violence.

Police swarmed through the capital's streets in jeeps and buses in anticipation of disorders at the funeral of five Communists slain by right-wing extremists on Monday.

Faced with Spain's worst crisis since the death of dictator Francisco Franco 14 months ago, Premier Adolfo Suarez canceled a trip to the Middle East and met with his cabinet.

Liberal and leftist political leaders called on their followers to avoid "street action," and the government said the streets of the capital were free of demonstrators for the first time in four days.

Labor sources were unable to say yet how many workers were idled, but newspapers estimated 50,000 workers struck in Madrid and about 60,000 in Bilbao, the northern industrial center. Five leading labor organizations in Barcelona said their members were striking, and there were walkouts in several other cities.

Public transport was crippled in Madrid and Bilbao.

The joint appeal against violence was signed by Communist party chief Santiago Carrillo, Socialist party leader Felipe Gonzalez and the leader of the centrist Popular party, Jose

Maria de Areilza. Strike action began Tuesday, when 35,000 workers in Madrid and 30,000 in Barcelona quit work to protest a rightist machine-gun attack Monday night on the Madrid office of a

Communist labor lawyer in which five Communists were killed.

Police arrested more than 60 persons Tuesday in an effort to stop the tide of violence that also included student demonstrations, kidnapings, the assassination of a student demonstrator Sunday by an ultrarightist, and the killing of a woman student demonstrator Monday by a police gas grenade.

Universities in Madrid and Barcelona remained closed today as officials tried to avert further clashes between students and police. The university law faculty in San Sebastian, the Basque capital, also closed to protest the violence, which it said was induced by rightists.

A far-right organization called the Apostolic Anti-Communist Alliance (AAA) said two of its members made the machine-gun attack on the meeting in the Communist lawyer's office Monday night. The death toll from the attack rose to five Tuesday night when another labor lawyer died

The little-known group told the Spanish news agency CIFRA in a telephone call the country would suffer "a night of the long knives" if royal adviser Antonio Maria de Oriol

Oriol was kidnaped Dec. 11 by the ultra-leftist First of October Anti-Fascist Resistance Group, or GRAPO, which is demanding the release of 15 political prisoners. GRAPO also said it abducted Lt. Gen. Emilio Villaescusa, the 64-year-old president of the Supreme Court of Military Justice, on Tuesday.

School board votes limit to gifts

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Midland school trustees Tuesday set a $2,500 limit on gifts that can be given to the school district without prior board approval.

The trustees asked staff members to formulate a gift policy after a recent situation in which an athletic booster club attempted to donate weight lifting equipment costing almost $7,000

"It looks like this policy will prevent the kind of situation we recently had." board president Joe Dominey said Tuesday

"It (the weight-lifting gift) would be a violation of policy." schools superintendent Dr. James H. Mailey

During the meeting, trustees also approved a survey form to be used in formulating goals for the school district. Staff members presented a form which combines material from a staff-written questionnaire and action statements from neighborhood meetings the trustees held.

The trustees approved the format of the questionnaire after suggesting several minor changes.

Also at the Tuesday meeting, the trustees approved appointment of full time principals for Long and West elementary schools, effective Feb. 1.

Until now, Long has shared a principal with Lamar Elementary School and West with Houston Elementary School.

In other action, the board accepted bids for office furniture costing $10,778. The following companies were awarded contracts for part of the furniture: Adirondack, $248; American Desk, $5,658; Griggs Furniture, $1,330; Indeco Sales, $2,649, and Conex, $1,146. Carter Craft and Ec-Co Products bid on some of the items but received no contracts.

Trustee David Grimes requested

information on tests given groups of students in the school system and on how the debt-property valuation ratio in Midland compares to other cities.

Grimes also said he wants the board to invite the City Council PTA to speak to the board.

Trustee Ann Page asked that use of value clarification lessons in the school system be an agenda item at the next meeting.

In response to a question from Trustee James Ramsoure, Mailey said work on removing and renovating the Belmont and Columbia apartments near Edison Freshman School is proceeding slowly.

The trustees heard a report on the secondary school foreign language program from Robert A. Carter, who serves as foreign languages coordinator.

In other action, the trustees: - Authorized payment of $100 dues to the Permian Basin Regional

And somethings are very clear to her — particularly the past.

Maggie thinks about Stanton, Midland's neighboring town to the east, where she and her husband lived and worked for a spell. Good memories.

The school district rents the agency office space, formerly in the Carver Building and now in the old Bunche Elementary School.

County Commissioner Charlie Welch, who now serves as chairman of the board of the Community Action Agency, told the board this is not "a place to abandon ship and run from

Welch called the agency "one of the finest agencies operating in Midland County today" and called on the trustees to appoint their own members to the board and to become more involved in helping the agency solve Several board members said they do not think the school system should be involved in the agency because it is Warren said he hopes the agency can go on but "I don't see any part we need to play.

Former board member County Commissioner Win Brown said the naming of two board members each by city, county and school system was written into the by-laws when the agency was created 'If another government body removes itself at this point, (assuming the city is going to withdraw its support), that's the death knell for the services to the people of the community." Bradford said Grimes said the material the school board has been given to this point is insufficient. "I think we're setting ourselves up for a precipitous action." said.

He said he moved to table the motion to give the agency time to solve its problems and to give the school board time to get better in-

We have not officially heard from those folks who are most involved in this tempest in a teapot, the city and the county." Grimes said.

'Let's not be out on a limb having been the only ones to take official action," he said.

Grimes, Ann Page, Joe Dominey, Warren and James Ramsoure voted to table the motion. Warren said he wanted to "forewarn" the agency "to make some plans to do without us.'

Mrs. Page asked Welch to call an emergency meeting of the agency board to change the by laws before the next school board meeting in two weeks. Welch said he is not sure that can be done legally. After the discussion Bradford said he is satisfied with the board's action and that the board did not give in to "a pushy attempt by ex-board members to kill the agency.

Dominey, too, said he was satisfied with the action. "I think we'll be out of it sooner or later.

Madrid strikes shut

MADRID, Spain (AP) - Thousands of workers struck today in protest against rightist attacks on leftists, closing down Madrid's industrial belt and construction sites. The government ordered police reinforcements into the capital to prevent renewed violence.

Police swarmed through the capital's streets in jeeps and buses in anticipation of disorders at the funeral of five Communists slain by right-wing extremists on Monday.

Faced with Spain's worst crisis since the death of dictator Francisco Franco 14 months ago, Premier Adolfo Suarez canceled a trip to the Middle East and met with his cabinet.

Liberal and leftist political leaders called on their followers to avoid "street action," and the government said the streets of the capital were * free of demonstrators for the first time in four days.

Labor sources were unable to say yet how many workers were idled, but newspapers estimated 50,000 workers struck in Madrid and about 60,000 in Bilbao, the northern industrial center. Five leading labor organizations in Barcelona said their members were striking, and there were walkouts in several other cities.

Public transport was crippled in Madrid and Bilbao.

The joint appeal against violence was signed by Communist party chief Santiago Carrillo, Socialist party leader Felipe Gonzalez and the leader of the centrist Popular party. Jose

Maria de Areilza. Strike action began Tuesday, when 35,000 workers in Madrid and 30,000 in Barcelona quit work to protest a rightist machine-gun attack Monday night on the Madrid office of a

Communist labor lawyer in which five Communists were killed.

Police arrested more than 60 persons Tuesday in an effort to stop the tide of violence that also included student demonstrations, kidnapings, the assassination of a student demonstrator Sunday by an ultrarightist, and the killing of a woman student demonstrator Monday by a police gas grenade.

Universities in Madrid and Barcelona remained closed today as officials tried to avert further clashes between students and police. The university law faculty in San Sebastian, the Basque capital, also closed to protest the violence, which it said was induced by rightists.

A far-right organization called the Apostolic Anti-Communist Alliance (AAA) said two of its members made the machine-gun attack on the meeting in the Communist lawyer's office Monday night. The death toll from the attack rose to five Tuesday night when another labor lawyer died

The little-known group told the Spanish news agency CIFRA in a telephone call the country would suffer "a night of the long knives" if royal adviser Antonio Maria de Oriol was killed.

Oriol was kidnaped Dec. 11 by the ultra-leftist First of October Anti-Fascist Resistance Group, or GRAPO, which is demanding the release of 15 political prisoners. GRAPO also said it abducted Lt. Gen. Emilio Villaescusa, the 64-year-old president of the Supreme Court of Military Justice, on Tuesday.

Unconditional pardon

President Carter promised in campaigning for the presidency that he would grant unconditional pardons to Vietnam draft evaders as one of his first acts upon assuming office - and he has done just that. In fact, this was his very first executive order.

The pardon was full, complete and unconditional to all Vietnam draft evaders who were not involved in any violent act.

Estimates of the number of persons involved run into the hundreds of thousands, including many who failed to register for the draft.

Thus, draft evaders who are residing in other countries now may return home.

The action has been taken and there is no chance of recalling it. but this still does not make it an altogether wise or just move. Actually, it could be hazardous in case of a future conflict involving the United States.

We must agree with Sen. John Tower who termed the issuance of unconditional pardons as "nothing less than a complete travesty of justice."

He said at a meeting in Lubbock that this is true particularly "when you consider the fact that there are many hundreds of thousands of men who are willing and were willing to go out and fight and die if necessary" for

"The sacrifice these men gave to continue service jobs sidered," Tower continued. "This sets a bad precedent for the future. You'll have men who feel they can avoid the draft with impunity.

The President is bound to have known that many Americans would not agree with his action. but he went right ahead with it. believing, as his press secretary explained, that his (Carter's) move was a "responsible and moderate course to follow."

Servicemen's organizations. who had opposed the unconditional pardon proposal from the beginning, certainly would not go along with Mr. Carter's reasoning or action in the matter. and it readily is understandable why.

The draft evaders fled their country of their own accord rather than serve in its military forces.

It is true that the Vietnam conflict was not a popular war.

evading military service when called upon by one's country.

President Ford had offered a case-by-case pardon plan, but most of the evaders did not choose to return home under the conditions imposed

Mr. Carter's pardon includes an order that the government "forever give up its right to prosecute" any of the draft evaders covered. The evaders who have become citizens of another country can come home to visit families "without fear of prosecution," but if they wish to regain American citizenship, they will have to apply under the same terms and conditions as any other alien. Deserters from the military forces were not included in the President's order, but he has ordered an immediate study of their cases and also of the possible upgrading of bad conduct or underirable discharges. The pardoning of deserters really would be a travesty of justice. But it certainly might come about under Mr. Carter's thinking and reasoning.

It should be pointed out that draft evaders who joined the reentry clemency program set up by President Ford's administration also are automatically pardoned under the terms of the proclamation and they no longer would be required

all this has been accomplished in quick order by the new President, whether we like it or not. Hopefully, this action will result in a lessening of the divisiveness over the Vietnam

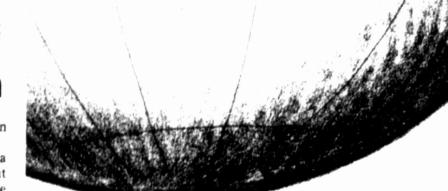

It also is hoped that if and when the pardoned persons return home, they will fit into the overall scheme of things, serving their communities, states and country in the best possible manner in appreciation of the action taken by President Carter. This perhaps will do more to end the divisiveness than any other one

All is not well in the Communist world of Soviet Russia. There is open political discontent in at least three of the key countries of the Soviet slave bloc. These countries include East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia. By permitting himself to be jockeyed into this position, Leonid Brezhnev violates a basic rule of the Kremlin's policy of not having difficulties with two or more Eastern countries at the same

In East Germany a growing Protestant church movement is winning more converts daily. Recently one of the leading ministers in that country burned himself to death in protest against the harassment of young Christians by the Russians. The nation is having tremendous economic trouble, too. The number of East Germans seeking permission to emigrate to West Germany now exceeds 100,000. They are of all ages and

In Poland, a number of intellectuals and the nation's powerful Catholic church openly are opposing the reference to their nation joining in an alliance with Russia and having the opposition because the Czechs learned to keep silent after the Soviet invasion of their country in 1968.

About the only gain made recently by Brezhnev, the Soviet with more power than any of his colleagues for the last 13 years, is the improvement of surface relations with Romania. Ever since the signing of the Warsaw Pact in 1974 the Romanians have strayed off the Soviet reservation and caused grave concern in the Kremlin.

The Romanians, like Yugoslavs, are attempting to maintain a degree of independence. As an example, the Romanians recently signed a trade agreement with the United States and went to great lengths to publicize this development worldwide.

It becomes increasingly difficult for Moscow to suppress news about what is going on in the Eastern Soviet bloc.

The situation thus far has not caused the Russians to send in tanks and machine guns or to put hundreds of planes overhead in these nations. But if all other efforts fail to keep the slave states in line, the Kremlin will resort to brute force. This was done in East Berlin when hundreds of unarmed civilians were machinegunned down and crushed by tanks. It happened again when the Russians went into Budapest at the time the brave patriots there tried to gain their freedom; block after block were leveled by tanks, artillery fire and dive bombers. Another difficulty for Russia is that the nations of the slave bloc want to trade with the West and need to do so because of their tottering and

New reservoir of Alaskan oil (?)

BY JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON - High above America's last untouched wilderness in Alaska, oil company planes are flying reconnaisance missions in search of a vast new reservoir of hidden oil

Oil already has been spotted seeping out of the ground in small pools, according to our sources, on the windswept tracts of the Arctic Wildlife Range. The oil companies believe there may be as much additional oil underneath the range as already has been tapped for the Alaska pipeline. The high-flying geologists are focusing on a massive. dome-shaped structure underground. which may be hiding a great pool of valuable oil

Environnental groups, meanwhile, have also been alerted and are preparing for an epic battle to save the wilderness area from development. They want to protect the caribou herds, giant polar bears and flocks of wildfowl that make their home on the Wildlife Range

Meanwhile, the oil companies are quietly pressuring the Interior Dept. our sources say, to open up the Wildlife Range for exploratory drilling

INSIDE REPORT:

Pentagon show-and-tell confirms Soviet arms buildup

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - Hush-hush briefings the past year exposing leading members of Congress to top secret intelligence on the Soviet arms buildup has transformed Capitol Hill opinion on defense spending in a way that apparently runs counter to President Carter's intentions

The decision by Donald Rumsfeld as Secretary of Defense to authorize the briefings cast a long shadow on the Carter administration. Prominent Congressmen believe it helped build fatal Capitol Hill opposition to Theodore Sorensen as director of Central Intelligence. Moreover, they feel the briefings have hardened congressional support for defense spending enough to seriously obstruct any Carter effort to reduce the Ford defense budget.

The contrast with the Carter administration's posture seems obvious. While Pentagon briefers were painting their frightening picture of Soviet military prowess to the last congressional recipients this month, Dr. Harold Brown at his Defense Secretary confirmation hearings said little about the Soviet buildup and indicated that to do so might have an adverse political effect.

The two-hour briefing conducted by John Hughes, deputy director of the Defense Intelligence Agency, shocked many members of Congress because it did not merely tell but actually showed the danger. Meticulous accounting by the Hughes briefing showed a growing Soviet industrial base devoted to missile, electronic espionage through satellite pictures. the briefing provides solid evidence of a varied arms production base. This has alarmed even those complacent Congressmen who in the past worried more about Pentagon exaggerations than any Soviet military threat.

"The biggest surprise," said one liberal House member who received the Hughes briefing just last week, "is evidence of high-technology weapons actually deployed in the field, such as on the European front — the T-72 tank, the new infantry-combat vehicle, the new SU-17C fighter, the new SS-20 intermediate-range missile with three warheads."

What gives the Hughes briefing its shock quality is not new Pentagon claims of Soviet advances but hard evidence of such advances — shown Congressmen for the first time. Never before have so many members of Congress been permitted a peek at the yield of this country's most exotic electronic intelligence-gathering instruments

There have been obvious security risks in Rumsfeld's decision to make this intelligence product available to Congressmen, notorious leakers of classified information. But Rumsfeld reasoned that since the briefing was also being given to top executive branch officials and to the NATO council, Congress had an equal right to it. Since that decision almost a year ago, no secret has leaked. The Hughes briefing shows Soviet Union, where pure research is graphically how the Soviet Union is spending between 13 per cent and 16

(GNP) on arms and military-related goods, as contrasted with about 5.4 per cent of the U.S. GNP. Although the U.S. has a much larger GNP, that translates into Soviet war production at least 140 per cent of the total U.S. military effort

Such statistics, however, are less impressive than the briefing's proof of the "diversity and redundancy" of Soviet weapons production: submarines, ballistic missiles, electronic equipment and other major weapons being produced in multiple varieties and at widely scattered areas

"The Soviets are beginning to have all those things that military men plead for but never get - sources of supply that offer maximum protection for continued production no matter what happens," one insider told us. "In other words, they don't have to put all their eggs in one basket any more.

Perhaps the most disturbing aspect is the shift between the U.S. and the Soviet Union in research. At the height of the cold war, the U.S. far outdistanced Moscow by spending billions on pure research - scientific experimentation which sometimes led down a blind alley, sometimes led to brilliant breakthroughs.

Today, with the defense dollar shrunk by inflation, exorbitant personnel costs of the all-volunteer force and competition from non-defense sectors, pure research has virtually ended here. Not so, however, in the

But constables, justices of the peace, a county attorney and two legislators said it would clog the courts, hamper efforts to collect on bad checks and create employment for Head's fellow lawyers.

Head's bill was referred to sub committee Tuesday afternoon after an hour's hearing before the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee.

Seventy-five per cent of the checks andled by my office were written by Constable Walter housewives." Rankin of Houston said.

"I don't feel all the housewives should be put in jail because they are bad bookkeepers," he added.

The Penal Code now makes it a class C misdemeanor, carrying a fine of up to $200, to knowingly write a check against an insufficient bank balance

Head wants a sliding scale of penalties, ranging from a $200 fine for a check under $5 to two to 20 years in prison for a check above $10,000. A $200 hot check could get you two to 10.

"I believe the people want this. I believe this is the session where the House and Senate should stand up for law abiding people," Head said.

Head gave as an example a man open account and makes his first $500 payment with a bad check.

'That $500 check is a class C misdemeanor. I don't think that is tough enough," he said.

Autopsy

BANDERA, Tex. (AP) Bandera County authorities awaited fingerprint and autopsy information today on a dead man found beside Texas 46 near the community of Pipe Creek in Southwest Texas.

Sheriff Bill James said identification on the man's body indicated he is William Marion Hughes, 48, a former resident of Hobbs and Lovington, N.M.

Positive identification was withheld pending a check of fingerprint records from Austin. An autopsy report that could reveal the cause of death also was expected today. James said.

The sheriff said a motorist who stopped to check a tire on the highway discovered the body Monday.

influence innovations in homes returning from World War II needed homes immediately.

Financial, economic factors

Rental units mushroomed under FHA sponsorship and new homes sprang up.

This kind of suburban building across America marked the dawn of the subdivision, mass housing on a large scale that was to provide solutions as well as problems in future decades.

The status symbol of the 1950s was the second bathroom — and, for some people, a third bedroom.

Generally during this period homes became larger and both bathrooms had pullmans or cabinets below, with more improved plumbing fixtures.

But it was in the kitchen that most new homes graphically changed. Women eyed built-in ovens and cook tops, marveled at the new garbage disposal and admired ceramic tile replacing linoleum with its traditional metal edging

The automatic washing machine and the relatively new clothes drier were provided for in the garage instead of the service porch, a mark of a prewar home.

The 1950s were years of significant changes in home demands. Prices continued to go up but the lot size was beginning to decrease.

Throughout the 1960s, Californians continued to lead the country in residential styling and innovation and still do. The homes featured kitchens with built-ins such as the standard garbage disposal, oven and range, but now also a dishwasher. Bathrooms became larger and more elaborate, with the tub and toilet often separate from the dressing area.

The family room became important - no longer as a luxury but a necessity. And it opened up the kitchen design so that breakfast bars often divided the kitchen only slightly from the family room, which also served as the informal dining spot for the family. Often there would be a bar in the family room, a status touch in the larger, more luxurious homes.

Carpeting was now included, vinyl floors in family rooms and kitchens were standard, and decorative ceramic tile was selected for foyers.

The first few years of the 1970s followed the pattern of the 1960s large amounts of space, applianceladen kitchens (now trash compactors and self-cleaning ovens were included) and many purely

Pediatrician's advice best

Dear Dr. Solomon: Our five-yearold son has had trouble with coughs and colds that seem to hang on and on during the winter. A throat doctor we took him to said he should have his tonsils and adenoids removed. However, our pediatrician doesn't feel we should have the operation done unless really necessary. What is your opinion, please?— Mrs. E.H.B. Dear Mrs. E.H.B.: Most internists and pediatricians are against having a T and A (tonsillectomy and adenoidectony) unless there is a very good and specific reason—such as difficulty in breathing, frequent bouts of tonsillitis, or recurrent middle-ear infections. Ear, nose and throat specialists, who are also surgeons, tend to be less conservative.

It is a continuing controversy, one reason being that we don't know exactly what tonsils and adenoids are supposed to do. They are lymphoid tissue, which produces antibodies against disease, but people without them don't seem to be more prone to infection than people with them. However, a T and A is an operation requiring general anesthesia, and therefore involving some risk. And there are studies indicating that many T and As still being performed aren't necessary.

I would follow your pediatrician's advice- especially as he knows your child better than a specialist who has only seen him once or twice. See how things go for the rest of the winter. And make sure that the air in your home, doesn't get too dry during the months when the heat is on American apartments and houses tend to be overheated. This dries out the mucous menbranes and can weaken the natural resistance to infections. If you don't have a humidifier, get one. Put it in your son's room and use it at night.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have been having middle back pain for almost a year. I went to my doctor, and he said I have a bad back called ankylosing spondylitis. Just the name scared me. Is it some rare disease or do many people suffer from it?—Harry

Dear Harry: No, it is not rare. Some 2 million persons suffer from the disease, many as yet undiagnosed, and are relieved by taking an antiinflammatory agent, such as aspirin.

Godfrey, in commenting on the Texas taxpayers' federal tax load, said: "Twenty-four billion dollars is so much money that most of us have trouble realizing how much tax money Texans will pay. One way to get an idea of how much this is, is to realize that when you add up the 1973 net profits of the 400 biggest businesses in Texas the sum total is about $2.48 billion net profits which is only about 10 per cent as much as the federal government will take from Texas taxpayers in 1978. Some misguided senators talked about obscene profits a few months ago. I think it is way past time to talk about obscene federal taxes and spending. This estimate was based on the State Chamber's calculations that Texas taxpayers bear 5.49 per cent of all federal taxes. Some knowledgeable Washington sources say President Carter probably will increase the budget by about $20

Nonogenarian recalls seeing Little Egypt

Meyer, 94, sipped his Manhattan cocktail and said: "The present generation didn't invent entertaining sex-type shows.

"There's nothing new about such shows," Meyer, a smail, droll man with a mischievous smile, added. "Why, 83 years ago I saw Little Egypt, first of the celebrated belly dancers. It was at the great Columbian Exposition in 1893, a World's Fair along the shore of Lake Michigan in Chicago.

Meyer paused for another sip. "She was something," he said cheerfully.

"She wasn't beautiful but she was attractive and her costume was revealing. She had black hair and oriental features and she was at the Turkish Theater on the Midway. She was accompanied by high-pitched reed instruments. I remember she put her hands over her eyes, with her elbows extended outward.

"Then she wiggled and wiggled," continued Meyer. "She was not a great dancer but she was amusing. Fact is, I went back to see her three times. Little Egypt was famous, with writeups in newspapers across the country and she drew big crowds. She didn't take her clothes off as Sally Rand did later at the Chicago World's Fair in 1933, but still she did a sexy dance. Maybe I went back to see her four times."

For half a century, Meyer was with a leading department store in Chicago and was head of the auditing department when he retired.

After retirement, he moved to California and ran a restaurant named "Bob's" in Berkeley until a dozen years ago. Fourteen years ago his wife died and now Meyer lives at the San Marco Convalescent Hospital in Walnut Creek

They laughed when I sat down at the telephone. But when I started to dial!-

Arthur had just returned from a three day sales trip and was feeling pretty pleased with himself. I decided this was my opportunity to prove a point. To the surprise of everyone in the room. I strode confidently over to my telephone and began to dial a customer in Greenville.

"Is he really going to phone Long Distance?" I heard someone whisper to Arthur.

"If he does," Arthur chuckled, "just wait'll the boss sees his phone bill! Long Distance is fine for urgent business, but if you want to reach customers, you gotta do it eyeball to eyeball."

Then I started to talk.

"Roger!" I said. "This is Bill at Acme Supply Yeah, good talking to you, too. Listen, we got a special promotion I think you'll be interested in.

The people around me were amazed. I wrote up a big order in just a few minutes. I didn't tell my co-workers, of course, that I had been out to Greenville a couple months back. And that I was simply keeping in touch by phone between visits. I knew I had my co-workers where I wanted them. So I made another Long Distance call. And another. And another. A complete triumph!

When I had finished, everyone rushed to my desk. "We had no idea Long Distance could be so effective!" Arthur exclaimed. "But your phone bill—" My phone bill comes to a lot less than your sales trip." I interrupted. Then I showed him how Long Distance not only cut down on my travel expenses, but gave me more time to concentrate on important details, making my work day more efficient

Soon everyone had gone back to their desks, instilled with a new appreciation for the value of Long Distance. Then, a few minutes later by the water cooler. I overheard Larry tell his secretary he was going to dictate some letters.

Confidently. I strode over to my telephone. This was my opportunity to prove another point

Weather only thing new about gas crisis

HOUSTON (AP) — Suppliers say the only thing new about the current natural gas problem is the weather.

Fred Ebdon of Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. said the natural gas industry has been complaining for more than 20 years since the Federal Power Commission, through a U.S. Supreme Court ruling, took control of the prices gas producers can be paid by firms dealing in the interstate sale

"We've been talking about it for years, but nobody listened," Ebdon said. He added that some gas companies have been forced to curtail outof-state gas shipments since 1970 and 1971, but he added that the weather. prior to this winter, has not been a critical factor.

The gas companies operate on two systems-interstate and intrastate. Interstate gas prices are those charged by the supplier for gas shipped across state lines. The prices are regulated by the federal government and kept at a level below the intrastate gas price that is regulated by the home state.

Although many Texas industries have been faced with 100 per cent gas curtailments and forced to switch to fuel oil, it's the interstate customer who is being frozen out—literally. Natural gas industry spokesmen in Texas say they are not going to drill for gas and sell it to out-of-state customers at prices kept at a lower level than gas sold in the intrastate system. Gas-rich Texans got a taste of what can happen a few weeks ago when the city of Wichita Falls had its schools and plants shut down by a gas curtailment. The city is supplied by the interstate system of Lone Star Gas Co. of Dallas. Suppliers claim interstate gas reserves are much lower than the intrastate reserves. As a result, outof-state customers, mostly states in the East, North and Midwest, have had their shipments curtailed by Texas gas producers.

In emergency cases, suppliers have received approval by the Federal Power Commission to buy new supplies at the intrastate rate and sell it in the interstate market.

Ebdon said his company, which serves primarily customers in Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, has been forced to curtail supplies. He said the company, which supplies 2.6 billion cubic feet a day, has reduced shipments overall this season by nearly 1.4 billion.

Ebdon estimates Panhandle has 7.4 trillion cubic feet of natural gas in reserve, or nine years, but he said reserves are steadily declining.

electric utilities should not be forced to stop selling power to Oklahoma, but neither should they be allowed to "shanghai" the large utilities into interstate commerce, says the chairman of the Public Utility Commission.

Garrett Morris said Tuesday the commission must decide whether the service reliability of the small utilities will remain sufficiently high if they are allowed to remain outside a statewide system.

And before the commission can determine that, it must learn the cost of operation for the small companies "disentangling and the cost of themselves," he said.

The commission voted unanimously to hear the case Feb. 7.

Hill says settlement on suit may be illegal

ENERGY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - State Atty. Gen. John Hill says an out-ofcourt settlement agreed upon between South Texas natural gas customers and their supplier may not

Hill told a news conference here Tuesday he has no reason to believe the plan is illegal, but will scrutinize it carefully before it is finalized. Details of the settlement were outlined earlier this week before the Texas Railroad Commission.

'I hope this settlement proves to be in the public interest. I hope it's legal, but I'm not certain," Hill said. The settlement package was offered by Coastal States Gas Corp. and its Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. subsidiary to their customers to settle more than $1.6 billion in customer suits against the companies.

San Antonio and its City Public Service Utility have a $485 million breach of contract suit against Coastal States and Lo-Vaca. It is the largest single action

All of the suits basically contend the companies broke contracts with customers to sell them gas at a specified low price.

Hill said the settlement will have to meet a number of criteria before he will recommend its acceptance by the railroad commission and the courts.

He said he wants to know the "bottom line" amount of money which customers will receive from the settlement.

Another important consideration will be the impact of the settlement on future gas prices for the customers. Hill said he expects some assurance that natural gas prices will not quickly escalate after the settlement is completed. He also wants to know the impact of the plan on future gas supplies and said the plan should stabilize supplies for the customers. And, he said he wants to study closely a gas search program which would be established under terms of

Handwriting reveals much

By DOROTHY ST. JOHN JACKSON Certified Master Graphoanalyst Copley News Service

On Jan. 20, James Earl Carter Jr. became President of the United States. Because he was elected by the people and for the people, it becomes our duty and task to take a deep look behind the smiling charm which gets him everywhere and which he projects in his outward image.

Mr. Carter is highly responsive to people and to happenings. Very little activity escapes his attention. His feelings are deep and he feels keenly his elations or disappointments, approval or disapproval, and his joys and sorrows.

His mind is sharp and he catches on quickly, seen in the pointed strokes throughout his signature. The v formations in the m's state that he is also capable of analytical thinking...the ability to examine and to test and prove the facts. His mental processes are further aided by a keen insight, providing knowledge, which often is unexplainable. It can be said that he possesses a "sixth sense." He can sense situations, and he "feels," without knowing why, the attitudes, moods and motives of other people. All of this is seen in the breaks between words. Because of this trait, Mr. Carter has "people pull." He has the charisma of a Franklin D. Roosevelt (whose writing contained this same intuitive quality and keen, quick

Also, akin to the Roosevelt image, Mr. Carter likes to speak, seen in the slightly open tops on most of the writing aids him successfully in his ease of delivery. His tremendous desire for responsibility, or his desire for importance, is bursting in the large beginning loop on capital J. Together with his very tall t's, which show his extreme sense of pride, his ego becomes his most important possession. Such pride will not allow him to appear in a dim light or at a disadvantage. An unusual desire for approval, acceptance and recognition, keeps him ever aware of his appearance, his mannerisms and his handling of

He doesn't like to be embarrassed or humiliated in any way, even though this trait is effectively hidden from the public eye by his pride and ability to disbelieve the realism of ridicule. What the "tissue issue." peanut punches and smiling cartoons will do. only Mr. Carter will know through inner distress.

His desire to excel over others acts as a driving force to achieve. It is seen in the smaller loop on capital J. He is quite jealous of his rights and

According to the principles of graphoanalysis, and in this particular writing, his goals are undetermined. They are weak and need direction, seen in the short and weak t crossings.

His drive for success shows up in his determination, seen in the strength and length of the downstrokes on y, in his mental alertness and in his desire to exceed others in recognition

Caution is a trait which keeps him from proceeding rashly, seen in the straight line extensions at the end of his two signatures. It slows him down in action until his mind can catch up with his emotions to act

Gambling major Yugoslavia vice

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — An estimated four million Yugoslavs out of a population of 22 million engage regularly in legal gambling, and the number is growing rapidly. In the past year alone the amount of money invested in sports predictions. official lotteries and many other forms of legal gambling increased by as much as 9 per cent. Although green-baize casino tables in hotels and resorts are beyond the reach of most Yugoslav citizens, the average turnover at a sleazy village tavern is believed to surpass greatly its plush Gambling was banned immediately after World War II as idle squandering of money but in the '50s the practice came back as an additional way of securing income for charity and welfare purposes and helping the state with industrialization plans. Once re-legalized, gambling grew beyond all expectation and has become a problem in some areas where people lose huge sums of money, leaving their families penniless, causing them to embezzle company funds and creating social tragedies. According to official estimates most of those

Some even risk their lives.

Zivoslav Ivanovic, an unemployed 27-year-old economist of Bozevac, near Posarevac, was walking by the Morava river when he read in the local paper that his lottery ticket had won the prize of 50,000 dinars ($3,000)

As he ran across a bridge he dropped his lottery ticket into the Morava.

Computer dating for the birds

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Condors are going from the West Coast to the Bronx. Bronx elephants are on their way to Knoxville, Tenn. Hairy-nose wombats from Phoenix, Ariz. are heading for Chicago.

It's all part of an animal "dating service," designed to put more romance in the lives of the condors, elephants and hairy-nose wombats of this country's zoos.

The success of a four-year-old computer service which advises 110 zoos in the United States and Canada has excited zoological park people. Shipping costs are shared, along with the offspring which result. The major purpose of the project: to keep endangered species going.

When there are unpaired animals, loan agreements are the only means of getting species together." Allegra Hamer, assistant zoologist at the Bronx Zoo, said.

Great bronc gets mount

QUINCY, Calif. (AP) - War Paint. who many cowboys say was one of the best broncos in the rodeo business. has been reborn after 120 hours in the shop of taxidermist Harold Tweedle. The famous 38-year-old bucking bronco from Oregon was put to sleep last year. Retired for the past several years, he was deaf and nearly blind.

When the horse's owners asked Tweedle to mount him, they wanted him kicking, with his hind legs in the air, in the position War Paint made famous by sending so many cowboys headfast into the dust.

"That's the way I did him. I even gave him his famous Roman nose and his tongue sticking out like it used to when he bucked," Tweedle said.

Court to rehash pregnancy rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rights — leave her job at a specific time in her of pregnant workers, handed a severe setback by the Supreme Court last month, once again will be studied by the nine men who make up the nation's highest court.

The justices voted Tuesday to decide when employers are justified in treating pregnancy differently than a disability that would be covered by various fringe-benefit plans.

On Dec. 7, the court ruled that private companies offering employes disability insurance do not have to include pregnancy benefits. Women representing the 100,000 female employes of General Electric had charged the firm with sex discrimination in that case.

Feminist groups now are lobbying Congress in an effort to have such protection written into the Civil Rights Act as a specific amendment. On Tuesday, the court agreed to hear arguments in pregnancy cases from Nashville, Tenn., and Richmond, Calif. The cases present several new questions for the court to

Late this summer the National Weather Service office in Midland will begin broadcasting continuous radio weather reports to area Reports will also be broadcast from stations set up in Amarillo, El Paso, Big Spring and Lubbock The reports will be prerecorded, except for live broadcasts during major emergencies, and aired over VHF radio at 162.55 megahertz. Special radios will be needed to hear the broadcasts, Lunney said. "The big advantage is you are getting it direct from us without any time lag," said Lunney of the system. Presently the service has to send out teletype information for radio and television stations to pick up, causing delays in getting out information that may be crucial for impending disasters like tornadoes. Some of the special VHF radios will

Third priority was to continue downtown development and renovation work, fourth was promoting energy development and conservation, and improving city image was ranked

Photographs add drama to walls

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

Big art - often with unlikely subjects - has become part of the home scene, sometimes to enliven walls where architectural interest is lack-

-In one designer's living room there is a huge painting of a compact car, a young girl holding a baby and a man peering off into the horizon. She bought it because "it seemed to be saying something" but the artist insists that he had no message.

ting of a racing car in his bedroom. Another chose a black and white photograph of his sports car.

-A large painting seen recently was a bakery wagon and an aproned man standing alongside it

And now we have big art in color photography. One New York gallery of contemporary photographic art is specializing in important color photographs, many of them large, emphasizing the art form that photography has become. It is sold like graphics, each print a part of a signed limited edition.

'We are trying to show art that can be hung in the home as an alternative to oils or graphics," explained Robert just sold a large photograph of the New York skyline to a Boston builder, he said.

Currently he is showing an exhibition by Robert Farber but his shows are continuous with artists who are doing interesting things. A slide bank of the works of more than 20 talented international photography artists may be viewed by interior designers, their clients and others. Prints may be ordered in the size that is needed, another plus for photographic art.

Farber uses light and texture more than most modern photographers do. Persky points out, and his color photographs - $250 to $900 - have a quality resembling paintings.

"I do all my work through the camera and not in the darkroom. I use filters and so on, but everything is done at the time of exposure.

In this particular show, he has concentrated on nudes. They are exceptional and most appear in his recently published, "Images of Women." But do many people display large nudes in a home atmosphere? Yes, he says, and they are becoming very popular.

They have a look of timelessness and antiquity which makes good

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — "The changeover" from America's Olympic figure skating gold medalist to commercial ice skating star "has been difficult," says Dorothy Hamill.

"The hardest thing is my life. I don't have it to myself. Sometimes I wish people just didn't care what I did," Miss Hamill said Tuesday.

Miss Hamill says "the changeover has been difficult, because in the Olympics, nobody ever saw one of my bad days. In the Ice Capades, you have to be at your best every night. It's very difficult mentally.

Last year, the Connecticut skater won the gold medal in the Winter Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria. Then after capturing the world championship, she signed a two-year contract with the Ice Capades, with an option for a third year.

Does she get nervous before going on the ice? "Opening nights are the worst," she replied."It gets me very tired. I get circles under my eyes and I look bored. But I'm not really bored at all, I just want to go to sleep

Miss Hamill says her professional career has given her something, too She spoke about the sacrifices her parents made over the years in guiding her toward Olympic gold and

Owls share 9-A crown; Stanton gains 5-A tie

The Reagan County Owls earned at least a share of the District 9-A title Tuesday night with a big 58-46 decision over major league contender

Reagan County is now 19-5 on the year and 9-0 in loop action. The Owls own a three game lead with three games left to play. They can wrap up the crown next Tuesday when they face Wall

Dennis Kruse led the way with 17 points and Jennings Teel added 13 points. Bobby Woodard scored 10 points. Jimmy Bosmans, the league's leading scorer, pumped in 28 markers

The Eldorado girls nipped the Owlettes, 46-40. Genna Jay led Eldorado with 17 points while Karri Page and Jill Schneemann each had 14 for Reagan County, who fell to 5-4. The Stanton Buffaloes ended the first half of District 5-A action with a share of the crown with Seagraves and Plains. Stanton defeated O'Donnell, 75-36, for a 3-1 loop record. Seagraves upset Plains, 68-55, to force the three-way tie.

Williams managed 14 markers

The Stanton girls opened the second half with a thumping 82-22 win over O'Donnell as Loretta Young had 29 points. Bonnie Bludworth had 23 points for Stanton

Odessa Ector neared the 2-AAA first half crown with a narrow 42-36 win over Andrews, who fell to 0-4. Ector is now 4-0 with one game left to play. Eddie Watkins pace Ector with 11 points. Fort Stockton stayed alive with a 67-61 win over Monahans

The Lamesa Golden Tornadoes opened the second half District 3-AAA race with a narrow 58-54 win over the Brownfield Cubs. Lamesa is now 13-9 on the year and 1-0 in the second half Arnold Martinez led the Tor attack with 21 points while Brownfield's Kerry Cranfill led all scorers with 24

In other 3-AAA action, Snyder upset Sweetwater, 53-51, and first half champ Lubbock Dunbar cruised past Lake View, 112-45.

The McCamey Badgers dropped a

Tim Glynn led Stanton with 31 62-55 non-conference decision to points while O'Donnell's Dan Ozona Tuesday Vaden Aldridge led Ozona with 16 points while Mc-Camey's Cesar Garcia led all scorers with 17 markers. Bobby Acosta and Carrasco each had 12 points.

Water Valley pulled off a major District 10-B upset with a 41-39 victory over the Greenwood Rangers. Greenwood fell to 18-6 on the season

The Greenwood girls, who shared the first half title, opened the second half with a 57-46 win over Water Valley. Cindy Brewer led the way with 30 points and Rusann Ratliff scored 15 points.

Joy Harris flipped in 37 points to lead the McCamey girls to a sound 70-49 win over Crane in a non-conference game. Emma Deanda added 19 points while Crane's Linda Byrd poured in 21

Just about anything can happen when Midland and Robert E. Lee take the basketball court together.

And happen it did Tuesday night before an overflow crowd in the Midland High Gymnasium as Coach Don Humphrey's youthful Bulldogs pulled off an exciting 65-63 upset over

The amazing Purple Pack, playing strictly the role of David and Goliath, did the impossible with only eight players suited out for the big Tall City

Riding the hot shooting hand of Brently Jackson in the third period, the Bulldogs fought off challenge after challenge. Jackson, who scored 11 points, fouled out of the contest with 3:11 left in the third period and it looked like Midland was doomed, but John Magness and Craig Dunn rose to the occasion along with sophomore Walter Bryson and Terry Rogers.

Magness connected on eight free throws with five coming in the final hectic period and Dunn came through with five important points and some great rebounding in the last eight minutes of the game.

AN EMOTIONALLY-DRAINED Humphrey was thrilled to death with the victory. "It was a great one for us. I can't say enough about this team, ' said Humphrey in a hot, steamy dressing room after the wild finish. "You know, we could have easily been 6-1 in district play. We lost to Permian by five points only because we missed 10 free throws and only lost to Cooper by two in Abilene, "added a happy Humphrey.

The only game that Midland played poorly in during the first half of the 5-4A race came against Abilene on the home floor which the Eagles won, 74-

Lee started off like gangbusters, taking a 10-2 lead over the jittery Pack, but once Midland settled down, it was a typical Midland-Lee battle.

Mike Denny, 6-5 senior center, dumped in eight points in the first period as the Rebels were off and running, but Midland fought back with Jackson, Magness and Rogers beginning to find the range.

It was 18-18 at the end of the opening period and Lee finally pulled out in front at intermission by a score of 35-

LEE HAD leads of six points on three different occasions in the third period, but once again Midland came back and scored three straight baskets on a tip-in by Dunn along with buckets by Magness and Rogers to make it 46-46, going into the final period

Billy Ray Ennis, who scored 13 points for the Rebels hit two consecutive baskets at the offset of the final period to give Lee a 50-46 lead. but Dunn hit a free throw and basket to cut the lead to 50-49 with 5:15 left and then the 6-3 senior hit a 20-foot jumper to give Midland the lead, 51-50, with 3:48 remaining.

Bobby Alexander connected for Lee and on a fast break. Roy Lee Smith scored on a driving layup for a 54-51 Reb lead with 3:58 left.

Once again it was Magness who flipped in a pair of charity tosses to bring the Bulldog to within one point, 54-53, but Lee surged ahead by four points on baskets by Mike Wallace and Denny

With a 57-53 advantage over the Pack, Bryson hit a short jump shot and Ennis countered with a basket of his own for a 59-55 Rebel lead with

JAMES HICKS hit from close in for the Pack to make it 59-57 and Wallace fouled out for the Rebels and in the process, was whistled for a technical

Rick Martin leads Wales

to victory

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Rick Martin's television interview was interrupted when a money-filled hand reached over the left wing's shoulder and tapped him in mid-sentence. The hand belonged to Brad Park and the money belonged to each of the members of the Prince of Wales Conference AllStars.

Martin smiled. "We each chipped in $10 and agreed that whoever scored the winning goal would get the pot," he said, holding what may have been the easiest $200 he ever made.

Indeed, it had been a profitable evening for the Buffalo Sabres' left wing. He scored the money-winning, game-winning goal with just 1:56 remaining Tuesday night, capping a twogoal performance and leading the Prince of Wales team to a 4-3 triumph over the Clarence Campbell Conference in the 30th National Hockey League All-Star game. Added to the $200 was the $500 awarded each member of the winning team-plus the car Martin won for being named the outstanding player of the contest.

"If I'd have known about this," he added, "I wouldn't have bought my wife a car for Christmas.'

where Magness hit from the top of the key for a 60-59 Midland lead.

With 57 ticks left on the clock. Lee called time out. Ennis was fouled in the process of shooting, but the lefthander, missed both free throws with Dunn coming down with the rebound after the second attempt for the Pack.

Bryson hit a pair of pressurepacked free throws to give MHS a 62-59 edge with 46 seconds left as the Bulldog fans went wild.

It wasn't over yet, however, as Denny hit a driving layup and was fouled in the process, making it 62-61 in favor of Midland with 32 seconds left. The big senior missed the free toss with Hicks coming down with the

Then with 20 seconds left, Magness hit two free tosses for a 64-61 advantage. Smith hit a layup to cut it to 64-63, but Dunn's free toss with four seconds left, sealed the victory for the

WITH THE loss, Lee is knocked out of a share for the first half title with Odessa Permian and Abilene Cooper. The Rebs wind up 5-2 in the first half of play and are now 22-6 on the year while Midland is 8-17 and 4-3.

Denny scored 18 points for the Rebs and Ennis added 13 more while Smith and Wallace scored 11 and 10 points, respectively for the losers.

Magness had 16, Dunn 14 along with Jackson's 11 and 10 more by Bryson. Coach Eddie Shirley's Midland Bullpups made it 18-4 on the season with a 77-68 victory over the Rebel junior varsity in the preliminary Bill Fredrickson led the way with 21 points for the Bullpups. Also in double figures were Randy Hammonds, Roy Jefferson and Milton Sanders. Hammonds had 15, Jefferson 14 and Sanders 11.

Big guns for Lee were Nate Goudeau and Mike Oestmann with 17-17 and 15.

The second half of the 5-4A race opens Friday with Midland entertaining Odessa Permian and the Rebels taking on Odessa in Odessa.

Baylor's Haller optimistic can accuse Baylor basketball coach Jim Haller of lacking confidence—Haller just wishes he could instill more confidence in his players.

"I really think we're going to beat Arkansas Saturday night,' Haller said after suffering the worst defeat of his head coaching career, 111-89 against Houston Monday night. HALLER, THRUST into the

"I believe we can beat Arkansas but I've got to con-1 job at Baylor.

THE BEARS should be able to work on their confidence against the Owls, who have lost nine of their last 10 games, but Haller offered the first half of the Houston game as an example of his team's lack of convince my players of it," said Halle, a successful junior college coach before joining Dawson's staff. That is my No.

"We were ahead of them 33-30 (with 6:55 left in the half), Haller said. "When we make a mistake, instead of getting tougher, we start looking for another mistake to make.

Wendy Overton faces Wade

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) - Wendy Overton isn't one of the big names in women's professional tennis, but at the moment she's just happy to still be

The 29-year-old player from Boca Raton, Fla., had to win her match in the ladies' $100,000 tour stop in Minnesota Tuesday night to avoid being dropped to the futures tour. She responded to the challenge with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Julie Anthony.

Miss Overton, who is trying desperately to im prove her game and build up enough points to live more comfortably on the tour, now faces top-seeded Virginia Wade of England in second-round action Wednesday.

"I don't have anything to lose playing Virginia, but I don't like the possibility of playing only two matches in the tournament," said Miss Overton. "You really need to play five or six times in a tournament

Miss Overton wasn't very optimistic about her chances against Miss Wade. "It would be great to beat her, because I usually don't play well against her," she said. One of the tournament's more optimistic entries. England's Sue Barker, is thinking about picking up her first tour championship.

The 20-year-old Miss Barker, who advanced to second-round action with a 6-2, 6-1 victory over Francoise Durr, says she's on top of her game. "I'm due to win one soon," said Miss Barker. "Especially since Chris Evert isn't here. She's the only player I've never beaten. Other singles winners Tuesday included Rosie Casals, Pam Teeguarden, Yugoslavia's Mima Jausovec, Virginia Ruzici of Romania, Martina Navratilova and Wendy Turnbull. Miss Teeguarden, Los Angeles, stopped Sweden's Ingrid Bentzer, 7-6, 6-2, and Miss Jausovec clipped South African Linky Boshoff by an identical 76, 6-2

Miss Casals whipped Mary Hamm, 6-0, 6-0, Miss Ruzici defeated Val Ziegenfuss of El Cajon, Calif., 6-3, 6-4, and Miss Turnbull nudge Dianne Fromholtz, 7-5. 6-7. 6-4

Post script on draft pick and other notes

BY TED BATTLES

There's a post-script to Doug Laufer's selection as No. 1 draft choice of the Philadelphia Phillies in the recent free agent draft.

Dick Schmidt, a teammate of Doug's on the Midland Lee baseball team, worked last summer in the Midland Cubs' clubhouse and was the one who talked the Cubs into taking a look at Doug.

Phillies' scout Doug Gassaway eavesdropped on the tryout and gave Doug good grades, so good that the Phillies not only drafted Doug, but sent him to Paris Junior College. which has a strong chance at the junior college nationals

Laufer will have until 24 hours after the last Paris game to sign with the Phils. If he doesn't he'll go back into the free agent hopper.

"It was a heartbreaker. We played too well to lose. I'm afraid that might be the straw that broke the camel's back," Don said after the 47-45 loss to Abilene Cooper.

"Everybody expected us to be 1-5 and we could easily be 5-1 instead of 3-3," he pointed out.

Humphrey said Midland's turnabout came primarily from reducing the turnovers and playing together as a team

As for the future, the Bulldogs erased his worries as to how they might react to the Abilene Cooper loss by beating Midland Lee Monday night

Financial problems plague NHL's Barons

Cleveland Barons Owner Mel Swig. abandoned by a partner who had agreed to raise "something like $4 million in new capital," continues in attempts to stave off financial dificulties which hamper the National Hockey League team's chances of finishing the season.

Swig said at a news conference Tuesday that George Gund III left the agreement without giving a reason last December, leaving him in the position of "trying to pull everything back together again after not being fully prepared to do so.

Swig has not been overly successful in his venture. The Barons are averaging 5,300 spectators per game. 'And if you need twelve or 13,000 per game to break even, it's obvious that problems can build." he said.

Problems now have reached the critical stage. The NHL's Board of Governors agreed Tuesday to assist Swig financially by not demanding payment of the Barons' franchise fees, according to a source

That would save $250,000, and with the league's agrament to lend Swig a reported $400,000, according to a source, some short-term problems may be reduced

ANDY MAC PHAIL no sooner arrived to help out Midland Cubs General Manager Bill Rigney, Jr. than a front office crisis developed.

It seems Bill is a devout worshipper of all that is evil in pro football, namely the Oakland Raiders. And Andy is for all that is good, unless you are a Cowboys fan, the Minnesota Vikings. In fact, Andy not only is a fan, but was Vikings ball boy for the perennial Super Bowl "Phailures" for a couple of seasons.

"It's a good thing I'm the boss," says Rigney

To which Andy, in a muttered aside, replies. "It's a good thing Oakland won, boss or no boss.

THE AMERICAN Football Coaches Association announced that the Coaches All-America Game, played in Lubbock, Texas, in recent years, will not be played in 1977.

"A lineman may be able to make more money this year because of the draft situation," declared Wilson Whitley, Houston Cougar lineman who is one of the finalists for the Vince Lombardi Award.

"I think they (pro owners) will modify the draft so the players have some kind of choice," Whitley said, "And the linemen in the top couple of rounds will be able to choose what team they want.

reports to the contrary, a formal world golf tour is not likely in the foreseeable future.

Major tours, offering growing purses and prestige, now exist in Europe, Asia and Australia, in addition to the United States. Purses in the $200,000 range are not unusual. There's a lesser tour in South Africa.

And there are a number of proponents, none in an official capacity, of a world tour. They envision a gathering together of the major events of the foreign circuits along with selected events in the United States. One nationally circulated golf magazine recently went so far as to publish a proposed schedule.

BUT IT isn't likely to happen. There are two major factors that work against it:

First, there is no support from the American PGA Tour- an absolute necessity for the success of any such Second, everyone who wants to play a world tour does so now. "Our loyalty must be to our

Martin eager for shot at Reds

By GREG BOECK Rochester (N.Y.) Democrat & Chronicle

ROCHESTER, N.Y. - Billy Martin, the fiery New York Yankees manager who has never run away from a fight, threw a verbal punch at baseball's heavyweight champions, the Cincinnati Reds. "I made a New Year's resolution."

announced Martin, who flew into Rochester Wednesday for a sports dinner in nearby Albion.

ROSE, WHO helped the Reds sweep

"I want the Reds to win the pennant, 'cause we're gonna win ours. I just don't want any team in the National League ... I want the Reds. I want to take Pete Rose's ugly face and stick it in the mud. And when we win, we're going to pop off like they

"What happened was pretty simple," he said. "It was a very poor job of scheduling. I don't think there should be a five-day layoff between the end of the season and the playoffs. The layoff should be between the playoffs and the Series.

'We won the climactic playoffs (in five games over Kansas City) Thursday night and then, boom, we were in the Series on Saturday. The World Series was anti-climactic to our guys. If I had said that at the time, it would have sounded like an alibi. I can say it now, five months later."

MARTIN, HOWEVER, preferred to talk about what's ahead for his Yankees rather than what's behind

He knows he's on the hot seat next season. Critics claim the Yankees bought the American League pennant with the signing of free agents Don Gullett and Reggie Jackson.

"I don't think we've bought a pennant," said Martin, who returned late in 1975 to manage the team he played for from 1950 to 1957.

"We won without those guys last year. I keep hearing we've already won the pennant. If that's the case, let's cut out spring training and go straight to October.

He admitted such talk will only make his job more difficult in 1977. "If we don't win, it's my fault now," he said. "But I don't feel the pressure. Pressure is my middle name. We've definitely improved our chances of winning, though. But to have a lock on the pennant now is ridiculous. If Gullett wins, it'll be a blessing rather than a burden to have signed him. If he doesn't, what do I have? Just a big

Pete Rose...on Billy Martin's list

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Connors said he had to change his thinking Tuesday night to cope with a troublesome playing surface in the $200,000 U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Championship.

"I decided to go out there and just play like I was taught." said Connors. 'Just hit the hell out of the ball and hope it goes.

Mottram, who made only $24,758 last year in comparison to the $687,335 earned by Connors, fought off four match points in the final game. Connors won on the fifth match point when he forced a weak return and put the ball away with a running backhand, cross court volley

WT HUNTING AND FISHING Bigger bass due at Amistad

Texas Parks and Wildlife

Amistad Reservoir has gained reputation of being a lake that is stingy with large bass. Fishermen at Amistad the last two years have come up with small bass from the one to two pound range without too much trouble, but the bigger ones have been hard to

There are some indications now, however, that the smaller bass are still abundant, but some of the largers ones will begin showing up on stringers also.

Amistad is that huge expanse of clear water that covers approximately 67,000 acres along the Texas-Mexico border, stretching up the Rio Grande more than 30 miles from the dam just above Del Rio. It is the nearest large lake in the state for many West

ONE VETERAN Amistad fishing guide who has been fishing the huge border impoundment since it began filling 9 1/2 years ago, said, "I'm more excited about our spring fishing this year than I have been in a long time. I think the fishing will be the best it has been in the last four or five years here.

What's the reason for all the optimism: There are several reasons. One, during the fall and early winter, anglers have been catching more bass. weighing more than two pounds than they did in similar periods in the last few years. Another reason is that there is growing excitement around Del Rio about results of some Texas Parks and Wildlife Department stocking programs and a growing interest in fishing for the transplanted striped bass and white-bassstriper hybrids.

THE SKEET committee for the Permian Basin Rifle and Pistol Club has set dates and committees for this year's monthly skeet shoots. The opener will be the Clay Pigeon Open Feb. 6 (birds only) with Bill Dawkins serving as captain assisted by Max Cooper

Paul Davis, Floyd Woods. Phil Daskevich and Van Hoozer teamed up to win the PBRPC December Trap Shoot with a 325x400 over Phil Barry, H.L. Mc-Carroll, Jeff Smith and Don Radtke, 323x400. Paul Davis had a 95x100 high overall.

NEW OFFICERS for the Permian Basin Bass Club are Derine Fernandez, president; Bill Smith, first vicepresident; Tom Kline, second vice-president; Eddie Echols, secretary, and Don Stanley, sargeant. Directors are Tommy Hall, Faul Cole, Garland Newton, L.C. Brasuel and Jim Short.

The club's next bass tournament in February will be held at Lake E.V. Spence. FISHING REPORT: Although "nasty" weather

'Unless we get something done in the next 10 days, we're going to be in a critical situation," said Bob Felknor, executive secretary of the Louisiana Cattlemen's Association.

'We are running out of hay," he said. "If we wait until the situation gets really critical, we're going to have our cattle dying in large numbers."

The reason for the shortage is that cold weather has stunted winter pastures, forcing farmers to fall back on hay supplies that are shorter than usual because of dry weather last summer. Gov. Edwin Edwards begin to handle the unemployed or absorb the 600,000 to 700,000 persons entering the job market each year. Mexico's 1977 federal budget is $30.8 billion, 38.9 per cent higher than in 1976, even though President Jose Lopez Portillo, who took office in December, has warned that this will be a year of austerity in Mexico. Even for those with jobs the times are not easy in Mexico. They were stunned Sept. 1 by the first devaluation in the Mexican peso in 22 years. Another devaluation quickly followed. Mexicans, who were promised there would be no devaluation, lost faith in the outgoing government of President Luis Echeverria. Money started flowing out of Mexico into banks in other countries. Larry Law, representative of the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. in Mexico, estimates that Mexico spent so much money trying to support the peso artifically, and so many people took money out of the country, that the nation had only $100,000 in reserves left by the time the Central Bank froze currency exchanges.

An $800 million loan by foreign banks operating in Mexico and additional loans for the International Monetary Fund in Washington bailed the country out.

Economists estimate inflation grew about 35 per cent in Mexico last year. The year before it was 27 per cent and the year before that 25 per cent. Law says private economists figure inflation will grow about 3 per cent a month this year.

For those shopping in the stores and markets of Mexico inflation is much higher.

For two decades Mexico claimed a growth in its gross national product The future looked rosy for Latin America's fastest developing nation. Now a growth rate of 3 per cent will be considered good.

The future still looks promising, but the honeymoon is over. It ended after the Luis Echeverria government started massive spending programs designed to narrow the gap between rich and poor. It was, Echeverria said, a matter of spend or fight a revolution.

Echeverria moved the government into areas formerly held by the private sector. The government took over a number of companies. Some estimates say the government spent as much as $400 million a year in direct subsidies to more than 800 government-owned businesses ranging from night clubs to newspapers.

Nego-Banco estimates the Echeverria government left office with a 307 billion peso deficit. Under the predevelopment exchange rate of 12 pesos to the dollar that would be about $24.5 billion. The foreign debt was estimated at from $20 billion to $24.6 billion.

The newspaper El Sol - itself one of the companies taken over by the government for a time - estimated that $1.1 billion left Mexico in the three months after the devaluation. Reserves were estimated to have been no more than $1.5 billion when the panic started

"Echeverria simply tried to do too much, too quickly, with too little,'

Defenders of Echeverria say the former president created a deficit by creating a nation. They predict that future generations will look upon Echeverria as one of the men who pushed Mexico into the 21st century.

His government increased the road system from 43,400 miles to 124,000 miles. It built hundreds of new schools and thousands of new classrooms. The number of university graduates increased 100 per cent in six years. A huge low-income housing project was started throughout the nation. Council to decide Feb. 8 on possible charter vote

By LARRY SUTHERLAND

Midland City Council will decide at its Feb. 8 meeting if Midland voters will have the opportunity to change the city charter.

The council instructed City Attorney Joe Nuessle to prepare an ordinance calling for four amendments to the city charter that will be presented to the council in two weeks. election ballot.

Carter to seek controls removal

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is expected to ask Congress for power to remove price controls temporarily on some natural gas and to allocate the fuel to areas hardest hit by shortages.

Carter, who planned to send his energy proposals to Capitol Hill today, outlined the emergency plan for congressional leaders Tuesday.

Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary, said the measures would lead to "some marginal increases" in natural gas prices for consumers.

But the plan also would include provisions to prevent gas producers from jacking up prices and taking excessive profits on uncontrolled gas, administration officials said.

Administration and industry experts also said that while Carter's proposals might help ease the natural gas shortage, they would not solve it completely.

The plan would allow sale of natural gas from intrastate pipelines to interstate pipelines until next July 31, the officials said.

The intrastate pipeline gas, which normally is sold only within the state where it is produced, is not under federal price control and sells at a higher price than the controlled, interstate gas.

It also would allow the government to allocate the gas to states hardest hit by the shortage, which has been compounded by the current cold wave throughout the South and East.

If approved, the issue will be put before the voters on the April 2

The proposed amendments include: - A change in the method of electing councilmen from the present at-large method to one calling for the election of four councilmen by districts with two councilmen and the mayor being elected at-large. The member - A change limiting the terms of councilmen and the mayor to three consecutive two-year terms, but not limiting the ability of a 1979 election. The proposal would increase the size of the council by one councilman to run for mayor. - A change calling for special elections if a councilman leaves office with more than nine months remaining in his term, or if two councilmen leave office at the same time. Other vacancies would be filled by the present council-appointment

-A change that would preclude the council from hearing appeals on assessments by the board of equalization and refer the appeals to the district court, which is the method used for appeals of county, school district and college district assessments.

The proposal for single-member district elections drew the most interest of the four.

More than 25 Midlanders attended the council session specifically for the charter amendment discussion.

Single-member district elections could afford greater representation to the approximately 20 per cent minority population of Midland, and several of the citizens appearing at the hearing were blacks or Mexican-Americans.

Betty Sheeler, president of the Midland League of Women Voters, said her organization would like to see five councilmen elected by singlemember districts, and the mayor and another councilman elected at-large.

She presented the league's position only after the council had already voted to have Nuessle's amendments drafted for the next council meeting for formal placement on the ballot.

Nevertheless, she said after the meeting that the league will likely support the city attorney's version.

Although the council and Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. virtually assured single-member election proposal will be on the ballot, it will not be supported by all of the elected officials. Mayor Angelo said he will still oppose single-member district elections, prefering the present system. He did support the other two charter amendments, however.

"NOW THAT YOU HAVE the shirt off my back" . . . New Bedford, Mass., Mayor John A. Markey, right, turns his clothes over to city labor negotiator Arthur J. Caron to protest the state's binding arbitration law.

Park bonds get tentative OK

Three separate bond issues totaling $3.5 million for improvements in the Midland parks system were given tentative approval Tuesday by the city council

The bond issues include $1 million for a recreation center, $1 million for golf course improvements and $1.5 million for park improvements and

Parks and Recreation Director Robert Thomson had requested $5.6 million in one bond issue, but the request was trimmed by the council.

The Parks and Recreation Commission will review the council's decision and decide if the agency wishes to continue with the bond issue election. If the commission agrees, the council will likely call the election for April 2. Final approval by city council is likely to come at its Feb. 22

In other action, the council:

- Heard a highly favorable audit report from accounting firm Billingsley, Johnson, Kubica, Stewart & Co. on city finances in fiscal year 1976, and the council decided to have the same firm do the audit of city books for fiscal year 1977.

- Approved a March 8 date for sale of $6.5 million in bonds, most of which was approved by voters in December for the downtown exhibition center and the Midland Regional Air Ter-

Trustees delay action on MCAA withdrawal

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Midland school trustees Tuesday tabled a proposal to withdraw school district support from the Midland Community Action Agency.

But, several school board members said they voted to table the proposal in order to allow the agency time to rewrite its bylaws to eliminate school district participation on the board. The trustees heard a report from the district's two representatives on the agency board, James Bradford, social studies chairman at Lee High School, and Ricardo Torres, coun-selor at Midland High School.

The agency has a basic budget of $33,000 per year plus several grants. Three neighborhood centers which offer referral, transportation. emergency food, and other services are run by three full time workers currently employed.

Trustee Don Sparks moved to withdraw district support. His motion was tabled in a 5-2 vote after Trustee David Grimes called on the board to avoid "precipitous action" and seek more information about the problems of the agency.

In a prepared statement, Bradford told the trustees the agency has had problems caused by actions of the past executive director, Carol Burns, who was dismissed from her position.

"Her actions completely paralyzed the agency," Bradford said.

But, "whatever has happened to the agency is the fault of the board of directors." The board "neglected to do" its job, he said.

"Nevertheless, the agency has a variety of problems involving grants, fiscal accounting, board member relationship and credibility. Once the board realized the whole ramification of its problem, it began to seek help. But because of board members having what seemed to be over-zealous ambitions and operating in such a secretive manner, the total board split," he said.

"Some board members took things into their own hands without the advice and consent of a majority of the board. Some board members had acted improperly because of their relationship with the executive director. Still others usurped records, changed mail box numbers, wrote letters, made telephone calls and circulated correspondence before the total board had an opportunity to view it "he said. it," he said.

Further, "pre-planned tactics" have caused confusion at board meetings and caused a "circus-like" atmosphere which "completely

Bell to assume position today

WASHINGTON (AP) - His confirmation battle over and won, Griffin B. Bell is taking office as the nation's top legal officer, the attorney general.

Bell, an Atlanta lawyer, former federal judge and longtime friend of President Carter, won Senate approval Tuesday by a 75-21 vote.

The President planned to attend Bell's swearing-in ceremony today in the Justice Department's Great Hall. Bell was the tenth of Carter's 11

Cabinet nominees to be confirmed. The Senate planned to vote today on the nomination of F. Ray Marshall as labor secretary.
Fifty-four Democratic senators voted for Bell's confirmation and only five against. The Republican line-up was 21 for and 16 against.

Carter's selection of Bell aroused strong opposition from some black leaders and various civil rights and liberal organizations, but the President himself called Bell's civil rights record "superb.

Bell has been a friend of the President and his family since boyhood. He was born in Americus, Ga., near Carter's hometown of Plains.

Carter thinking rebate as nucleus of program

While the President does not plan to send his economic proposals to Congress until Monday, he discussed them with congressional leaders Tuesday. His budget chief, Bert Lance, publicly revealed the plan for an across-the-board $50 rebate.

than the $50 a person rate of rebate. Organized labor contends that the new administration is placing too much emphasis on tax rebates and not enough on jobmaking programs. The AFL-CIO's top two leaders, George Meany and Lane Kirkland, planned to meet with Carter today at the White House.

The AFL-CIO favors pumping the $30 billion directly into jobs programs without tax breaks.

Lance said Tuesday that the rebates would go to taxpayers at all income levels, including the wealthy. But he added that there could be variations in the $50 per person payment for some income groups, and final details remain to be worked out. The total amount of rebates and cash payments would be about $11 billion. The rebates would be on 1976 taxes.

Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said he has "no problems" with the tax proposals and hopes they can clear Congress by the end of February.

Lance also disclosed that Carter has decided to include a second benefit for businessmen in his economic package, an increase in the investment tax credit to 12 per cent from the current 10 per cent. Lance said the purpose is to encourage new business investment.

Businessmen would have a choice of two ways to take the investment tax credit. They could reduce their tax payments by a certain percentage of the cost of new investments, or take a 4 per cent tax credit equal to the amount of their Social Security tax payments for their employes.

His critics contend Marshall is too pro-labor, particularly because he favors repeal of Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act, which permits states to ban union shop agreements.

The Senate Labor Committee recommended Marshall's confirmation last week by a 13-2 vote after a one-day hearing at which some senators assailed his position on 14-B. his support for public employe Virginia's conservative senators, Independent Harry Byrd and Republican William Scott, said they would vote against Marshall. Byrd said his positions "constitute nothing

Section 14-B — on the books since 1947 — is the provision in the federal law allowing states to ban labor contracts requiring all workers to join a union as a condition of employment. Not since the mid-1960s has organized labor mounted a major

Connally clearing queried

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A Justice Department official's decision to clear former Texas Gov. John Connally in connection with a federal investigation has drawn opposition from other department officials, the Daily Oklahoman reported

The newspaper said Richard L. Thornburgh, assistant attorney decision to clear Connally in September.

"The accusations that involved Mr. Connally were investigated and found to be groundless and accordingly there was no need to call him before the grand jury,'

Thornburgh said. However, William I Aronwald, who was in charge of the investigation as head of the lepartment's Organized Crime and Racketeering Strike Force in Manhattan, has said he argued unsuccessfully to have Connally called before a New York grand jury probing the alleged use of phony securities in an attempt to purchase an insurance company. 'I was dissatisified from the standpoint of the investigation that not enough information had been developed to indicate in either way whether Mr. Connally was or was not involved. Aronwald told the Oklahoman.

Madrid strikes shut down industrial belt

MADRID, Spain (AP) - Thousands of workers struck today in protest against rightist attacks on leftists. closing down Madrid's industrial belt and construction sites. The government ordered police reinforcements into the capital to prevent renewed violence. Police swarmed through the capital's streets in jeeps and buses in anticipation of disorders at the funeral of five Communists slain by right-wing extremists on Monday.

Faced with Spain's worst crisis since the death of dictator Francisco Franco 14 months ago, Premier Adolfo Suarez canceled a trip to the Middle East and met with his cabinet.

Liberal and leftist political leaders called on their followers to avoid "street action," and the government said the streets of the capital were free of demonstrators for the first time in four days.

Labor sources were unable to say yet how many workers were idled, but newspapers estimated 50,000 workers struck in Madrid and about 60,000 in Bilbao, the northern industrial center. Five leading labor organizations in Barcelona said their members were striking, and there were walkouts in several other cities.

Public transport was crippled in Madrid and Bilbao.

The joint appeal against violence was signed by Communist party chief Santiago Carrillo, Socialist party leader Felipe Gonzalez and the leader of the centrist Popular party, Jose Maria de Areilza.

Strike action began Tuesday, when 35,000 workers in Madrid and 30,000 in Barcelona quit work to protest a rightist machine-gun attack Monday night on the Madrid office of a

Communist labor lawyer in which five Communists were killed.

Police arrested more than 60 persons Tuesday in an effort to stop the tide of violence that also included student demonstrations, kidnapings, the assassination of a student demonstrator Sunday by an ultrarightist, and the killing of a woman student demonstrator Monday by a police gas grenade.

Universities in Madrid and Barcelona remained closed today as officials tried to avert further clashes between students and police. The university law faculty in San Sebastian, the Basque capital, also closed to protest the violence, which it said was induced by rightists.

A far-right organization called the Apostolic Anti-Communist Alliance AAA) said two of its members made the machine-gun attack on the meeting in the Communist lawyer's office Monday night. The death toll from the attack rose to five Tuesday night when another labor lawyer died.

The little-known group told the Spanish news agency CIFRA in a telephone call the country would suffer "a night of the long knives" if royal adviser Antonio Maria de Oriol

Oriol was kidnaped Dec. 11 by the ultra-leftist First of October Anti-Fascist Resistance Group, or GRAPO, which is demanding the release of 15 political prisoners. GRAPO also said it abducted Lt. Gen. Emilio Villaescusa, the 64-year-old president of the Supreme Court of Military Justice, on Tuesday.

Unconditional pardon

President Carter promised in campaigning for the presidency that he would grant unconditional pardons to Vietnam draft evaders as one of his first acts upon assuming office - and he has done just that. In fact, this was his very first executive order.

The pardon was full, complete and unconditional to all Vietnam draft evaders who were not involved in any violent act.

Estimates of the number of persons involved run into the hundreds of thousands, including many who failed to register for the draft.

Thus, draft evaders who are residing in other countries now may return home.

The action has been taken and there is no chance of recalling it. but this still does not make it an altogether wise or just move. Actually, it could be hazardous in case of a future conflict involving the United States.

We must agree with Sen. John Tower who termed the issuance of unconditional pardons as "nothing less than a complete travesty of justice."

He said at a meeting in Lubbock that this is true particularly "when you consider the fact that there are many hundreds of thousands of men who are willing and were willing to go out and fight and die if necessary" for their country.

"The sacrifice these men gave out (in Vietnam) must be considered," Tower continued. "This sets a bad precedent for the future. You'll have men who feel they can avoid the draft with impunity."

The President is bound to have known that many Americans would not agree with his action. but he went right ahead with it. believing, as his press secretary explained, that his (Carter's) move was a "responsible and moderate course to follow."

Servicemen's organizations. who had opposed the unconditional pardon proposal from the beginning, certainly would not go along with Mr. Carter's reasoning or action in the matter. and it readily is understandable why.

The draft evaders fled their country of their own accord rather than serve in its military forces.

It is true that the Vietnam conflict was not a popular war. but this was not just cause for evading military service when called upon by one's country.

President Ford had offered a case-by-case pardon plan, but most of the evaders did not choose to return home under the conditions imposed

Mr. Carter's pardon includes an order that the government "forever give up its right to prosecute" any of the draft evaders covered.

The evaders who have become citizens of another country can come home to visit families "without fear of prosecution," but if they wish to regain American citizenship, they will have to apply under the same terms and conditions as any other alien.

Deserters from the military forces were not included in the President's order, but he has ordered an immediate study of their cases and also of the possible upgrading of bad conduct or underirable discharges.

The pardoning of deserters really would be a travesty of justice. But it certainly might come about under Mr. Carter's thinking and reasoning.

It should be pointed out that draft evaders who joined the reentry clemency program set up by President Ford's administration also are automatically pardoned under the terms of the proclamation and they no longer would be required to continue service jobs.

So, all this has been accomplished in quick order by the new President, whether we like it or not. Hopefully, this action will result in a lessening of the divisiveness over the Vietnam

It also is hoped that if and when the pardoned persons return home, they will fit into the overall scheme of things, serving their communities, states and country in the best possible manner in appreciation of the action taken by President Carter. This perhaps will do more to end the divisiveness than any other one

'Soviet paradise is not all milk, honey

By VIRGIL PINKLEY Copley News Service

All is not well in the Communist world of Soviet Russia

There is open political discontent in at least three of the key countries of the Soviet slave bloc. These countries include East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia. By permitting himself to be jockeyed into this position, Leonid Brezhnev violates a basic rule of the Kremlin's policy of not having difficulties with two or more Eastern countries at the same

In East Germany a growing Protestant church movement is winning more converts daily

Recently one of the leading ministers in that country burned himself to death in protest against the harassment of young Christians by the Russians. The nation is having tremendous economic trouble, too. The number of East Germans seeking permission to emigrate to West Germany now exceeds 100,000. They are of all ages and In Poland, a number of intellectuals and the nation's powerful Catholic church openly are opposing the reference to their nation joining in an alliance with Russia and having the country's constitution so state.

There has been a series of strikes and protests in Poland against sharply increased food prices. Prices announced some months ago have had to be canceled because of the strikes

In Czechoslovakia there is no open

opposition because the Czechs learned to keep silent after the Soviet invasion of their country in 1968.

About the only gain made recently by Brezhnev, the Soviet with more power than any of his colleagues for the last 13 years, is the improvement of surface relations with Romania. Ever since the signing of the Warsaw Pact in 1974 the Romanians have strayed off the Soviet reservation and caused grave concern in the Kremlin.

The Romanians, like Yugoslavs, are attempting to maintain a degree of independence. As an example, the Romanians recently signed a trade agreement with the United States and went to great lengths to publicize this development worldwide.

It becomes increasingly difficult for Moscow to suppress news about what is going on in the Eastern Soviet bloc.

The situation thus far has not caused the Russians to send in tanks and machine guns or to put hundreds of planes overhead in these nations. But if all other efforts fail to keep the slave states in line, the Kremlin will resort to brute force. This was done in East Berlin when hundreds of unarmed civilians were machinegunned down and crushed by tanks. It happened again when the Russians went into Budapest at the time the brave patriots there tried to gain their freedom; block after block were leveled by tanks, artillery fire and dive bombers.

Another difficulty for Russia is that the nations of the slave bloc want to trade with the West and need to do so because of their tottering and stalemated economies.

The Russians are finding that they cannot continuously pour huge sums of money and credits into the Eastern Soviet bloc. Even the Russian fiscal barrels have definite bottoms.

Russia also needs to trade with the West and now has borrowed, or has loans owed to the West, exceeding $10 billion. The Kremlin wants more credits from the West in the future.

Every time the extreme U.S. intellectuals and unknowing radicals to the left say that Russia can be trusted, the Soviets make some blundering move which reopens our eyes to realities.

So, despite radical statements to the contrary, many of them made by college professors, all is not milk and honey in the "Soviet paradise." Actually, the latter word is a misnomer; the words "slave states" should be substituted.

New reservoir of Alaskan oil (?)

BY JACK ANDERSON and LES

WASHINGTON - High above America's last untouched wilderness in Alaska, oil company planes are flying reconnaisance missions in search of a vast new reservoir of hidden oil.

Oil already has been spotted seeping out of the ground in small pools, according to our sources, on the windswept tracts of the Arctic Wildlife Range. The oil companies believe there may be as much additional oil underpeath the range as already has been tapped for the Alaska pipeline. The high-flying geologists are focusing on a massive. dome-shaped structure underground. which may be hiding a great pool of valuable oil

Environnental groups, meanwhile, have also been alerted and are preparing for an epic battle to save the wilderness area from development. They want to protect the caribou herds, giant polar bears and flocks of wildfowl that make their home on the Wildlife Range.

Meanwhile, the oil companies are quietly pressuring the Interior Dept... our sources say, to open up the Wildlife Range for exploratory drilling.

NUCLEAR DANGER: In past columns, we have reported that terrorists are trying to get their hands on American nuclear weapons. Yet the nation's nuclear stockpiles are dangerously vulnerable, government investigators believe, with sloppy security that could be breached by determined extremists.

Federal officials have concentrated on safeguarding plutonium, which can be used to make nuclear bombs. But there is another element, called neptunium, which can also be used to make nuclear weapons. Unlike plutonium and uranium, however, neptunium is not subject to tough nuclear materials. We have obtained an unpublished study which warns of the dangers of neptunium. It was conducted by Dr. Marvin Resnikoff, a Buffalo nuclear physicist who works for the New York Public Interest Research Group.

The Nuclear Regulator Commission doesn't dispute these conclusions. But an NRC spokesman said the commission is not worried because there isn't enough neptunium in private hands to make a nuclear bomb Scientists estimate it would take over 100 pounds of the material to produce

INSIDE REPORT:

Pentagon show-and-tell confirms Soviet arms buildup

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - Hush-hush briefings the past year exposing leading members of Congress to top secret intelligence on the Soviet arms buildup has transformed Capitol Hill opinion on defense spending in a way that apparently runs counter to President Carter's intentions.

The decision by Donald Rumsfeld as Secretary of Defense to authorize the briefings cast a long shadow on the Carter administration. Prominent Congressmen believe it helped build fatal Capitol Hill opposition to Theodore Sorensen as director of Central Intelligence. Moreover, they feel the briefings have hardened congressional support for defense spending enough to seriously obstruct any Carter effort to reduce the Ford defense budget.

The contrast with the Carter administration's posture seems obvious. While Pentagon briefers were painting their frightening picture of Soviet military prowess to the last congressional recipients this month, Dr. Harold Brown at his Defense Secretary confirmation hearings said little about the Soviet buildup and indicated that to do so might have an adverse political effect.

The two-hour briefing conducted by John Hughes, deputy director of the Defense Intelligence Agency, shocked many members of Congress because it did not merely tell but actually showed the danger. Meticulous accounting by the Hughes briefing showed a growing Soviet industrial base devoted to missile, electronic and conventional arms production.

Partly by increasingly accurate espionage through satellite pictures. the briefing provides solid evidence of a varied arms production base. This has alarmed even those complacent Congressmen who in the past worried more about Pentagon exaggerations than any Soviet military threat.

"The biggest surprise," said one liberal House member who received the Hughes briefing just last week, "is evidence of high-technology weapons actually deployed in the field, such as on the European front — the T-72 tank, the new infantry-combat vehicle, the new SU-17C fighter, the new SS-20 intermediate-range missile with three warheads.

What gives the Hughes briefing its shock quality is not new Pentagon claims of Soviet advances but hard evidence of such advances - shown Congressmen for the first time. Never before have so many members of Congress been permitted a peek at the yield of this country's most exotic electronic intelligence-gathering instruments.

There have been obvious security risks in Rumsfeld's decision to make this intelligence product available to Congressmen, notorious leakers of classified information. But Rumsfeld reasoned that since the briefing was also being given to top executive branch officials and to the NATO council, Congress had an equal right to it. Since that decision almost a year ago, no secret has leaked. The Hughes briefing shows graphically how the Soviet Union is spending between 13 per cent and 16

(GNP) on arms and military-related goods, as contrasted with about 5.4 per cent of the U.S. GNP. Although the U.S. has a much larger GNP, that translates into Soviet war production at least 140 per cent of the total U.S. military effort. Such statistics, however, are less impressive than the briefing's proof of the "diversity and redundancy" of Soviet weapons production: submarines, ballistic missiles, electronic equipment and other major weapons being produced in multiple varieties and at widely scattered areas. "The Soviets are beginning to have all those things that military men plead for but never get - sources of supply that offer maximum protection for continued production no matter what happens," one insider told us. "In other words, they don't have to put all their eggs in one basket any more.

Perhaps the most disturbing aspect is the shift between the U.S. and the Soviet Union in research. At the height of the cold war, the U.S. far outdistanced Moscow by spending billions on pure research - scientific experimentation which sometimes led down a blind alley, sometimes led to brilliant breakthroughs. · Today, with the defense dollar shrunk by inflation, exorbitant personnel costs of the all-volunteer force and competition from non-defense sectors, pure research has virtually ended here. Not so, however, in the Soviet Union, where pure research is encouraged and heavily financed.

The intersection of these lines, the per cent of its gross national product U.S. side going down and the Communist side moving up, carries an ominous message: superior quality of U.S. weapons, long the justification for permitting huge Soviet advantages in numbers of weapons, is beginning to come to an end. When and if the end of qualitative superiority arrives, the Soviets will be in a dangerously enhanced position with an industrial base for arms production far greater than the U.S.

Such arguments have moved the defense debate away from the theoretical to the practical, both for Congressmen and European leaders who have been chilled by the Hughes briefing. Whatever else Don Rumsfeld accomplished in his brief tenure, this explains his success in turning Congress from complacency to growing concern. It is a different mood on Capitol Hill that Mr. Carter and Dr. Brown face today.

It's all part of an ammal "dating service," . designed to . put more romance in the lives of the condors, elephants and hairy-nose wombats of this country's zoos.

The success of a four-year-old computer service which advises 110 zoos in the United States and Canada has excited zoological park people. Shipping costs are shared, along with the offspring which result. The major purpose of the project: to keep endangered species going.

When there are unpaired animals, loan agreements are the only means of getting species together," Allegra Hamer, assistant zoologist at the Bronx Zoo, said.

And so it goes. The American Association of Zoological Parksand - Aquariums runs the International Species Inventory" System, located at Apple. Valley, Minn. outside Minneapolis.

The only member outside America or Canada is the Rotterdam Zoo in The Netherlands but the Copenhagen Zoo and others in Europe have expressed interest. "The foreign zoos are still refuc-tant because of the cost and the fact that it's an American operation, says Marvin Jones, animal statistician at the San Diego Zoo. Jones went to Europe to sell the idea. To get the quarterly computer printout of mating species, a zoo must pay $1 for each mammal in its entire collection as of Jan. 1 each year, and 25 cents per bird. That can add up to several thousand dollars annually for some.

The service's computerized list gives the age, sex and number of a species in member zoos. Michael Crotty, curator of animals 4at the Los Angeles Zoo, said 20 zoos are involved in breeding loans with his

Court to rehash pregnancy rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rights of pregnant workers, handed a severe setback by the Supreme Court last month, once again will be studied by the nine men who make up the nation's highest court.

The justices voted Tuesday to decide when employers are justified in treating pregnancy differently than a disability that would be covered by various fringe-benefit plans. On Dec. 7, the court ruled that private companies offering employes disability insurance do not have to include pregnancy benefits. Women representing the 100,000 female employes of General Electric had charged the firm with sex discrimination in that case.

Feminist groups now are lobbying Congress in an effort to have such protection written into the Civil Rights Act as a specific amendment.

Great bronc gets mount

QUINCY, Calif. (AP) - War Paint. who many cowboys say was one of the best broncos in the rodeo business; has been reborn after 120 hours in the shop of taxidermist Harold Tweedle.

Tweedle to mount him, they wanted him kicking, with his hind legs in the air, in the position War Paint made famous by sending so many cowboys headfast into the dust 'That's the way I did him. I even

Only to lose his license

TORONTO (AP) — Russell Mackay hitch-hiked 269 miles in a fierce snowstorm from his home near Pembroke, Ont., to Toronto to face an impaired driving charge.

Mackay, 39, said the journey took seven car rides and a snowmobile lift. On the way, Mackay related, he helped start at least 15 cars, rescued a mother and two small babies stranded in their car and found them a place to stay and gave artificial resuscitation to a woman who suffered a heart

He arrived in court this week about half an hour before the case was heard. "I tried to tell the judge what I had to go through to get here, but he wan't interested," Mackay said.

Judge Joseph Addison fined him $225 and suspended his licence for three months. Mackay said he left his car home because he figured he would lose his driving license.

Hill says settlement on suit may be illegal

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - State Atty. Gen. John Hill says an out-ofcourt settlement agreed upon between South Texas natural gas customers and their supplier may not

Hill told a news conference here Tuesday he has no reason to believe the plan is illegal, but will scrutinize it carefully before it is finalized. Details of the settlement were outlined earlier this week before the Texas Railroad Commission. "I hope this settlement proves to be in the public interest. I hope it's legal, but I'm not certain," Hill said.

The settlement package was offered by Coastal States Gas Corp. and its Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. subsidiary to their customers to settle more than $1.6 billion in customer suits against the companies. San Antonio and its City Public Service Utility have a $485 million breach of contract suit against Coastal States and Lo-Vaca. It is the largest single action. All of the suits basically contend the companies broke contracts with customers to sell them gas at a specified low price. Hill said the settlement will have to meet a number of criteria before he will recommend its acceptance by the railroad commission and the courts. He said he wants to know the 'bottom line' amount of money which customers will receive from the settlement. Another important consideration will be the impact of the settlement on future gas prices for the customers. Hill said he expects some assurance that natural gas prices will not quickly escalate after the settlement is completed. He also wants to know the impact of the plan on future gas supplies and said the plan should stabilize supplies for the customers.

And, he said he wants to study closely a gas search program which would be established under terms of the deal. The proposal also provides for the issuance of stock in Coastal States to the customers, and Hill said normally the customers are, to own stock in a private corporation. He said, however, that terms of the deal-to place the stock in trustmight be an exception to the law since the stock would be received by the

He met with bankers Tuesday morning to discuss legislation he plans to have introduced that would increase supervision of the purchase of controlling interest in state banks by groups or individuals.

He said the bill would require the State Banking Commissioner to review applications from those seeking to control banks. The commissioner could block the purchase, but his decision would be subject to appeal to the courts, Hill said.

Hill, a Democrat, also said he me for lunch with "about 60 very good friends" to discuss a possible campaign next year to become Governor of Texas.

The attorney general said he is "very serious in a contemplative sense" about making the race but will make no public decision until later

James Sail Carter De

I use Jimmy Carter

Handwriting reveals much

By DOROTHY ST. JOHN JACKSON Certified Master Graphoanalyst

Copley News Service On Jan. 20, James Earl Carter Jr. became President of the United States. Because he was elected by the people and for the people, it becomes our duty and task to take a deep look behind the smiling charm which gets him everywhere and which he projects in his outward image. Mr. Carter is highly responsive to people and to happenings. Very little activity escapes his attention. His feelings are deep and he feels keenly his elations or disappointments, approval or disapproval, and his joys and sorrows. His mind is sharp and he catches on quickly, seen n the pointed strokes throughout his signature. The v formations in the m's state that he is also capable of analytical thinking...the ability to examine and to test and prove the facts. His mental processes are further aided by a keen insight, providing knowledge, which often is unexplainable. It can be said that he possesses a "sixth sense." He can sense situations, and he "feels," without knowing why, the attitudes, moods and motives of other people. All of this is seen in the breaks between words. Because of this trait, Mr. Carter has "people pull." He has the charisma of a Franklin D. Roosevelt (whose writing contained this same intuitive quality and keen, quick

Also, akin to the Roosevelt image, Mr. Carter likes to speak, seen in the slightly open tops on most of the

His thoughts are fluent and the rhythm of his writing aids him successfully in his ease of delivery. His tremendous desire for responsibility, or his desire for importance, is bursting in the large beginning loop on capital J. Together with his very tall t's, which show his extreme sense of pride, his pride will not allow him to appear in a dim light or at a disadvantage. An unusual desire for approval. acceptance and recognition, keeps him ever aware of his appearance, his mannerisms and his handling of

Some self-consciousness is evident in his writing, seen where the final "hump" of the first m in "Jimmy slightly and extends above the rest of the letter. He doesn't like to be embarrassed or humiliated in any way, even though this trait is effectively hidden from the public eye by his pride and ability to disbelieve the realism of ridicule. What the "tissue issue." peanut punches and smiling cartoons will do, only Mr. Carter will know through inner distress. His desire to excel over others acts as a driving force to achieve. It is seen in the smaller loop on capital J. He is quite jealous of his rights and privileges.

According to the principles of graphoanalysis, and in this particular writing, his goals are undetermined. They are weak and need direction, seen in the short and weak t crossings. His drive for success shows up in his determination, seen in the strength and length of the downstrokes on y, in his mental alertness and in his desire to exceed others in recognition.

Caution is a trait which keeps him from proceeding rashly, seen in the straight line extensions at the end of his two signatures. It slows him down in action until his mind can catch up with his emotions to act effectively

Mr. Carter is eager to please and be pleased. He is mpressive, expressive and approachable.

His handwriting indicates quite clearly that the White House is the answer to his personality needs. Let us, in turn, trust that his personality and ability will fulfill our country's hopes. Gambling major Yugoslavia vice

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) - An estimated four million Yugoslavs out of a population of 22 million engage regularly in legal gambling, and the number is growing rapidly. In the past year alone the amount of money invested in sports predictions. official lotteries and many other forms of legal gambling increased by as much as 9 per cent.

Although green-baize casino tables in hotels and resorts are beyond the reach of most Yugoslav citizens, the average turnover at a sleazy village tavern is believed to surpass greatly its plush competitor.

Gambling was banned immediately after World War II as idle squandering of money but in the '50s the practice came back as an additional way of securing income for charity and welfare purposes and helping the state with industrialization plans. Once re-legalized, gambling grew beyond all expectation and has become a problem in some areas where people lose huge sums of money, leaving their families penniless, causing them to embezzle company funds and creating social tragedies. According to official estimates most of those regularly making financial sacrifices with hopes of seeing their investment multiplied involve people with the smallest incomes - manual workers. students.

Some even risk their lives. Zivoslav Ivanovic, an unemployed 27-year-old economist of Bozevac, near Posarevac, was walking by the Morava river when he read in the local paper that his lottery ticket had won the prize of 50,000 dinars ($3,000) As he ran across a bridge he dropped his lottery ticket into the Morava.

Although he did not know how to swim, he hurled himself into the river. Were it not for others who helped him ashore, he would have drowned, along with the ticket he feverishly clutched.
