19 injured in bus-car collision

BIG SPRING - Three women remained in a Big Spring hospital this morning after a cross-country bus and a car collided four miles east of Big Spring on Interstate 20 about 1:25

State police said 19 persons were injured when a west-bound car driven by Peggy Wade Carey, 22, of Coahoma, ran off the highway shoulder and back over the median, colliding with the east-bound Continental Trailways Bus Co. vehicle.

All occupants of the car were thrown from the car, Big Spring police said. The car overturned three times, the police said.

The car ripped off the front of the bus in front of its operator, Paul Jackson, who suffered a leg injury. All but three of the injured persons were released from the hospital, a

Carter draws mixed review from Burns

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

WASHINGTON (AP) - With President Carter's call for sacrifice and cooperation fresh in mind, Congress moved ahead today with consideration of the new administration's $31 billion proposals to create jobs and cut taxes. Carter drew mixed reviews for his economic stimulus program from Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, who told the House Banking Committee that "our nation needs to make progress during 1977, in creating more jobs and in expanding our industrial capacity."

But Burns called the Carter proposals "an inefficient way to stimulate the economy." The Reserve Board chairman was particularly critical of the proposed $50 rebate on 1976 taxes. He called it unnecessary and added, "The Treasury doesn't have this money. It's not a good habit

. for the country to get into. Nonetheless, Burns said the Carter program was "prudent" considering the advice the new President was getting.

Other congressional committees met to question Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, Labor Secretary F. Ray Marshall, Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps and other top administration officials about the details and impact of the economic stimulus program sent to Congress by Carter.

His presidency barely two weeks old, Carter addressed the nation Wednesday night in a setting that evoked memories of Franklin D. Roosevelt and his radio fireside chats during the Depression and World War

the only path to longrange solutions.

And he promised that government officials would join private citizens giving up some comforts long taken for granted. Burns, whose positions are influential among more conservative members of Congress, did not refer directly to the Carter proposals although his statement supported the principles behind the program. However, Burns also warned that any long-term economic program must be directed toward combatting inflation. "The outlook for prices is thus a worrisome matter and it must be given careful attention," the Reserve Board chairman said. In his fireside chat, Carter made clear his intention to cultivate direct communication with the American And even as Congress labored over his economic proposals, Carter promised to send it by the end of the week his request for authority to reorganize executive departments and agencies of the government.

Carter outlined his initial proposals aimed at solving immediate problems, from the natural gas shortage brought on by extreme winter weather to the problems of unemployment and a stagnant But the strongest message Carter had for the American people was the need for personal sacrifice to solve national problems — sacrifice on the part of government officials as well as the peop

Carter signed an emergency mcasure passed by Congress that gives him authority to shift natural gas supplies to the areas of the nation hardest hit by extreme winter weather.

And even as he spoke natural gas began moving eastward from California and the Paciic Northwest.

While congratulating Congress for quick action on the natural gas bill, he emphasized that a long-range solution still must be sought. He has promised to send Congress a comprehensive

Emergency bill given signature

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Congress Wednesday sent President Carter the emergency natural gas bill which supporters hope will help ease the fuel shortage in the frigid eastern states. And Carter signed the bill into law

Wednesday night just prior to his first "fireside chat. This first major piece of legislation sent to the new President won final Senate approval by voice vote and

House approval 336 to 82 after minor differences between their two versions were settled. The new law empowers the President to declare a natural gas emergency and then take two tem--He could, until April 30 when the cold weather should be over, order interstate gas pipelines to switch gas from surplus to shortage areas.

—And he could, until July 31, waive controls on the price interstate pipelines may pay producers for natural gas and permit them to pay any "just" price in an effort to get more gas into their pipelines flowing

Gas provided by these actions could be used only to heat homes, hospitals, small businesses and other establishments where loss of heat would endanger health or destroy property. It could not be used to reopen factories closed by the cold.

No one seemed to know during the congressional hearings and debates how much gas the bill might provide to distressed areas. The general feeling was that it wouldn't add much but that it might prevent cutting off gas from homes in some areas, and that this was worth doing.

It's a hobby that can become as complex and circuitous to the neophyte name-chaser as the old tube-and-guts radio was to the fledgling amateur radioman.

State TSTA president discusses educators' legislative package

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Increased salaries and retirement benefits, improved sick leave, and mandatory consultation between school boards and teachers groups are among the legislative goals of the Texas State Teachers Association, Grace Grimes, organization president, said Wednesday.

Mrs. Grimes was in Midland, along with several other TSTA staff members, to participate in a membership campaign for the Midland Educators Association, the city TSTA

About 12 to 15 TSTA staff members. plus a number of other organization members, are registered lobbyists working to get the group's six-bill legislative package passed into law, Mrs. Grimes said.

The first bill, one to allow teachers to teach sixth grade with secondary school certification, already has passed, she said. The bill was needed because of the growing number of middle schools which include sixth grade with junior high, she said.

The bill which probably will be most difficult to get passed, Mrs. Grimes said, is one which would make consultation between school boards and teachers groups or groups of auxiliary employes mandatory, if the majority of teachers or employes requests consultation.

"There are those who see it is collective bargaining," she said. But, the crucial difference between collective bargaining and consultation, she said, is that the school board would have "final authority in all things" under the proposed bill.

There are no provisions for binding arbitration or strikes in the bill, which is merely the "right to discuss" problems, Mrs. Grimes said.

Another bill in the TSTA package is a school finance proposal, which Mrs. Grimes said covers all aspects of the subject. One portion of the bill TSTA favors would raise the beginning salary for teachers with a bachelor's degree to $10,000. It also would add two more steps to the salary scale to keep career teachers from reaching their maximum salary in the next two years, she said.

The beginning salary increase would bring Texas up to the national average, she said.

The retirement proposal TSTA favors would raise salary benefits by increasing both the employe and state shares put into the retirement system

Another proposed bill would increase sick leave from the five days allowed by the state to one day per month of the contract, 10 days per

The professional contract proposal would give teachers multi-year contracts after three years in a school system and would require cause for dismissal after that initial three-year period, she said.

The group does little entertaining in its lobbying efforts, she said. "Most of our lobbying is going by the office to visit with them." The lobbyists do occasionally take a legislator to dinner if that is the only time the legislator is free to talk.

In order to see one senator, it is necessary for the lobbyists to take a bucket of fried chicken to his office at lunch time and talk to him while he works and eats chicken, she said.

Another topic that is the subject of discussion in the Legislature is accountability of teachers and students. One bill introduced would require students to pass a standardized test before being promoted from sixth grade and before graduating from

The value of family-history research, save for pride and shame, should not be diminished or exalted "by what you find," Mrs. Wegner

(Perhaps pride should be tempered and shame, squashed.)

Occasional horse thievery "makes the family tree a little more interesting," Mrs. Wegner said.

She, without coaxing, pointed to an "Indian fighter" on her husband's side of the family. It wasn't that Leroy Wegner's great-grandfather was a horse thief or a bad guy or anything like that. It's just that his past is sort of clouded.

"After doing some poking around," she said, "the name should be James" - not Wegners

For reasons now lost to the grave, Phillip (or Philip) James changed his surname to Wegner after his stint of Indian-fighting in Texas and settled in Indian Territory (Oklahoma) in the late 1800s.

"I don't know," Leroy Wegner's wife said. "(But) I figure he stole a horse, or shot somebody. "He was quite a codger. He (even) lied about his age," she said. She seemed more amused and entertained than anything. Her background? Instead of being of Aryan, Anglo-Saxon, Celtic or what-not origin, Mrs. Wegner's side of the family was of French origin, she reckons. "(But) I haven't really got that Frenchman in the corner yet," she admitted. (Who knows, she may find a Ben Franklin.)

As today, people back then were a mobile society.

"They were a moving bunch of people," she said, and that further complicates record-chasing.

Tracking the family's lineage becomes increasing difficult when you delve into the pre-1850 years. Records become scant.

When Mrs. Wegner got seriously into genealogy, she became somewhat disillusioned. Those imbued with the family-tree interest span the ages, but most are 30 and beyond. Both men and women fancy the hobby.

"Heating bills will consume all of the tax rebate," Sen. Hubert Humphrey warned Charles Schultze, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, at a hearing of the Joint Economic Committee on Wednesday.

Humphrey released a Library of Congress study that estimated the extra fuel costs this winter will total $8.4 billion, or an average of $139 per household. The study also projected a possible wage loss of $1.6 billion because of plant shutdowns.

"If that's anywhere near right, it's an awful blow to the economy," Humphrey said.

Schultze said a special administration task force was trying to assess the economic damage caused by the weather. He conceded that the administration may have to increase the rebates or boost the two-year, $31.2billion economic stimulus program in some other way to offset the expected to make his first public comweather's effects.

But Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal told the House Banking Committee on Wednesday he saw no need to increase the package. While the weather "clearly makes the situation worse," the economy has performed "better than expected" in recent months, he said.

Blumenthal said he expects the Federal Reserve Board will cooperate in its money and interest rate policies with the Carter plan. Board Chairman Arthur Burns was ment on the program today before the House Banking Committee.

All 38 Republican senators came out Wednesday against Carter's $11.4 billion rebate plan, calling it a gimmick. They proposed their own $26.2 billion program to stimulate the economy by permanently cutting

Some Democrats, meanwhile, contended the rebates were wasteful and that the money should be pumped into public works and jobs programs.

Reps. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, and Otis Pike, D-N.Y., members of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee. Vanik said, "I am not enthusiastic about the rebate," and Pike added, "Isn't a tax rebate a terribly inefficient way to create jobs?" But the committee chairman, Al Ullman, D-Ore., defended the rebate plan and said he thinks it is virtually certain to win approval despite the

Ullman nevertheless criticized Carter's proposals affecting business as a "hodgepodge." He said he would push for his own plan for a tax credit that could amount to $1,050 to an employer for each employe hired in 1977 and 1978, instead of Carter's 2 per cent investment tax credit increase or 4 per cent credit on payroll taxes.

Government raises near reality

WASHINGTON (AP) - Automatic pay raises of nearly $13,000 a year for members of Congress and other top government officials are a step closer

Despite the loss, Allen said at least he succeeded in forcing a roll call vote that put senators on record on the pay hike

The vote came on an amendment Allen offered to a Senate reorganization bill. The Senate tabled the amendment, effectively killing it.

An attempt may be made in the House to get an anti-pay raise resolution out of committee. But Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill has predicted the House will not block the pay hikes.

Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.VA., made the motion to table Allen's amendment, calling it "totally irrelevant to the pending bill." Byrd noted that, except for a 5 per cent cost of living adjustment in 1975, members of Congress have had no pay raise since their salaries were increased in 1:169 to $42,500 from $30,000 a year. In the meantime, the cost of living has gone up 61 per cent, he said.

Carter family policy seems certain to be coming

By COLEMAN McCARTHY The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - What kind of family policy will be advanced by the Carter administration? It is almost certain that one will be forthcoming. A major Carter campaign speech was on the government and the family.

Three years ago as a senator, Walter Mondale used his Subcommittee on Children and Youth for hearings on "American Families: Trends and Pressures." Joseph Califano went to HEW after gaining Carter's confidence with a report, "American Families: Trends, Pressures and Recommendations."

Is something about to happen - or are the politicians, ever rooting through the catchy-ideas barrel, merely concocting another topic for the commission-seminar-conferencehearings-task force circuit? More will be known later about the sincerity of the Carter administration's commitment. But before policy is created, a bold line has to be drawn that separates families as victims of poor governmental policy and families as victims of poor parental policy.

That a victimization is occurring is beyond argument. The deteriorations family life are so regularly reported - the increase in child abuse, juvenile delinquency, wife beating, runaway fathers, illegitimacy, divorce - that they are accepted as all but inevitable. Nor is it a mystery that such tragedies as unemployment directly affect family

The Califano report notes that "when unemployment reached 20 per cent in Flint, Mich., Flint became the city with the highest rate of alcoholism in the country, drug abuse treatment centers had caseloads twice what was projected and the incidence of child abuse soared." Little doubt exists that when vast sums are spent for "national security" families may be made anything but secure. Andrew Billingsley of Howard University told the Mondale subcommittee: "All of us must be grateful that our participation in the Vietnam war has finally ended. Yet, the cessation of hostilities seems to have made no impact whatever on the budgetary priorities of the nation. Indeed, the government ... seems incapapable of redirecting the vast economic resources devoted to war and warrelated activities in order to enhance the quality of life for children and their families who are certainly the nation's greatest resource for the

After the easiness of making the case that government policy is often anti-family and calling for the proverbial "something should be done," what about fathers, mothers and children and their obligations to family stability? Here the issue is not something so clearly defined as policy: instead, it is emotions, behavior and values - all the loose and shifting intangibles that determine whether a family can "make it." Can government policy, for example, redirect the father who spends a 60-hour work week serving his corporation but only minutes with his children? Can the government affect the materialistic mother who fills the home with the trophies of shopping

By raising questions about the internal affairs of families, the issue is still government, but on a smaller scale: In a family everyone governs, from the little depot that is the twoyear-old in a twit over his lost toy to the wise grandfather who has been through the battle and now rules by example. But in the government of

sprees and then enters

psychoanalysis because her life is empty? What can federal policy do for the parents who risk their children's health by allowing them to feed on overpriced, worthless sugar foods?

the family, one element exists that is absent in the government of the nation run by experts, managers and politicians. It is personal caring. The opportunities to exercise this caring are either embraced or rejected, and no family's happiness or sadness is explicable in any other way.

It has to be assumed — it would be to grim to think otherwise - that the current turmoil within many American families is because the value of caring has been temporarily forgotten rather than permanently denied. The forgetfulness is understandable. The process of family life is all too often obscured by the daily demands. There is despair that these demands mean anything — is it worth the hassle to get the children into their boots? Over it all is the awareness that life is often facing one risk after another. But the effort to overcome the forgetfulness may be worth making.

Parents often complain that their young - in their early 20s and gone from home - are selfish and aloof. But how often, as the children were raised, did the parents involve the family in situations in which it was routine to care unselfishly for someone in pain who was outside the family? How can the young adult be expected to show sudden kindness to his parents when he was never taught kindliness to others?

Some parents worry that their youngsters are growing up without a sense of roots. But do they take advantage of the local church or temple to expose their children to the rootedness of religion? The timeless stories of a Ruth, Daniel or Peter, or the liturgies of religious holidays, are proven ways by which the past is studied and ancestry honored. Parents complain that the cities and suburbs are scenes of isolation, yet how often are invitations extended to another family from the same block or apartment? Do we create the strangers we fear? Ideally, the move toward stabilizing family life should come from both the government and families. When Walter Mondale asked Margaret Mead where the country should begin, she replied, "You have to begin everywhere at once. An approach that says, 'Well, we have to educate the children first, and when they grow up they will have fine families' fails. We find by the time we do - those children have grown up in bad families, they make bad parents that we are going around in circles ... Wherever we turn, what we need to do is look at our programs in terms of people and the needs of people, and not in the name of pipelines or offshore drilling or more strip mining to destroy our landscape This would mean looking at every piece of major legislation and every program in terms of what it does to the family."

Finns promote mushroom culture

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) - Not only might mushrooms help stave off starvation in the poor Third World countries, but they could also be a healthy contribution to the Finnish economy, which depends too heavily on timber production, says a high Finnish official.

While millions of people are hungry in Africa and Asia, enormous amounts of first-class food are going down the drain in wood-rich Nordic countries, Kalevi Pohjola, chief in-spector of the Vocational Training Board, said.

The Finns, who have embarked on a unique project to exploit their resources, claim there could be an of which only a tiny percentage is used now. The Finns are also harvesting 25 million tons of different sorts of berries, which is only 5 per cent of the estimated amount available.

A study, announced recently by the Forestry Institute, showed that the value of mushrooms, blueberries and lingonberries in the woodlands is comparable to the value of timber production in the same area.

This opens up new possibilities for a nation that relies heavily on timber, a raw material in decreasing supply.

The interest in mushrooms has snowballed here the last few years, home-grown mushrooms are said to be tastier and more nutritious.

An international nutrition symposium in Hamburg, discussing the worldwide economic importance of mushrooms, concluded that the situation of hungry nations could be improved drastically if their people learned to eat mushrooms. Finland hopes to increase its exports. In an unprecedented program here, authorities are training "mushroom consultants" who in turn train an army of mushroom pickers. Today this northern nation has 1,200 consultants and 38,000 active pickers.

The number of different varieties of mushrooms in the Nordic countries

Pohjola said the consultants pass through a seven-day crash course to learn to recognize about 30 commercial varieties of mushrooms.

A dense network of assembly points has been built up throughout the nation, mainly dairies and cooperatives, which purchase the mushrooms and transport them to processing plants.

Particularly in the underdeveloped areas such as eastern and northern Finland, many families live only on their tax-free income from picking mushrooms and berries. In the fall, whole villages take to the woods to pick large amounts of mushrooms, lingonberries, blueberries, cloudberries and cranberries.

Andrus voices concern about water supply

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus, voicing concern about the worsening drought in Western states, said Wednesday it may be necessary to limit use of water for industrial and power-generating purposes to conserve it for irrigation and home consumption.

The former Idaho governor, in a wide-ranging interview on his 11th day in office, said Americans for too long have wasted too much water. "We're going to have to clean up our act and recognize that water is our lifeblood," he said.

His comments on the Western drought came as the eastern half of the nation continued to struggle with another weather-related crisis - a natural gas shortage caused by a record cold wave.

In fact, Andrus' office was a chilly 61 degrees Wednesday morning - the result of a governmentwide turning down of thermostats — and he had built a log fire in the suite's fireplace.

Later in the day, the White House sent Congress its first supplemental appropriation request stemming from the drought. It sought $6.4 million for the Southwestern Power Administration to buy thermalgenerated power to make up for a shortfall of hydroelectric power resulting from low reservoir levels in Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas.

"Unless additional funds are made available, power shortages and blackouts will occur in the areas served, causing severe economic and social dislocations," President Carter said in his message submitting the request to Congress.

Andrus said his concern about the drought has been heightened by recent reports indicating "a dramatic reduction in normal snowpack," the accumulation of snow in the mountains which feeds the spring runoff and usually fills reservoirs throughout the Western United States.

'We are probably running at less than 50 per cent of normal snowpack in many areas," he said. "Unless we have a tremendous amount of snowfall, ard conditions in the month of February, be in serious trouble throughout the

Andrus, discussing ways the government can ease the drought's impact said, "we've got to be very, very careful that all of these reservoirs ... are controlled so we have as much water available downstream for agricultural purposes, domestic pur-

"This sometimes will run head-on into allocation for industrial or power purposes," he added. "The judgment call has to be made, within confines of the law, as to what the highest priority is going to be."

Asked whether he was advocating limits on water for power and industrial uses. And replied: "I don't want to say, yes, I am planning on doing that. What I want to say is, I am looking at it so we can make an intelligent decision ... I don't have the answer but, yes, our people are in the middle of it right

Andrus' Interior Department, through the Bureau of Reclamation, controls vast amounts of water impounded behind nearly 300 federal dams in 17 Western states.

The secretary would not elaborate on possible water use restrictions, but other officials have said power production from the bureau's California reservoirs already has been severely affected by low

Farmers in the 400-mile-long central valley also were told last month by bureau officials that deliveries of irrigation water will have to be cut by 25 per cent and possibly as much as 50 per cent this

Since 85 per cent of California's developed water supply goes to irrigation, such cutbacks could have serious economic implications for a state where agriculture is an $8 billion-a-year industry.

On another subject, Andrus said he is seeking to break up "little fiefdoms throughout the (Interior) Department, all operating independently of one another for the most part."

"The oil companies have their people in one place who are sympathetic to them; the cattlemen have their people in another place; the water users have their people," he added "We're going to tighten that

He said he hopes Congress will enact as soon as possible a new law governing strip mining, and that it will pass legislation so leasing can proceed for oil and gas deposits on the outer continental shelf.

Uncertainty about rules governing development of these resources has been "unfair to the industrial entities" which provide the financing. "They deserve to know what the ground rules are," he said.

Bell to retain antitrust man

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - Atty. Gen. Griffin B. Bell has decided to retain Donald I. Baker as assistant attorney general for antitrust, it was learned Wed-

Baker, 42, has advocated stiffer punishment for price-fixers, in tune with the crackdown on pricefixing that Bell endorsed during his Senate confirm ation hearings. A Justice Department official familiar with Bell's decision said the attorney general mentioned no time frame in his discussion with Baker. It had been speculated within the department that Baker would be kept on only until the end of the academic year.

Baker is on leave from Cornell Law School, which he left to become assistant attorney general last summer. He is the only assistant attorney general to be retained. Bell also has decided to retain Peter B. Bensinger as administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration, at least until he decides whether to merge some of DEA's functions into the evaluation section, then was named director of policy planning in 1971. In 1973, he became deputy assistant attorney general for antitrust. He resigned in 1975 to go to Cornell.

In an interview last week, Baker said that, at the request of a lawyer who was working in the Carter Presidential campaign, he had sent copies of his speeches and other public documents to Carter's aides in early 1975. The speeches dealt chiefly with reducing the amount of government regulation.

Last November, in what the Justice Department described as Baker's most important speech, he urged judges to "think felony" in punishing price-fixers.

Young 'shot down' again for comment

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The State Department officially took issue Wednesday with U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young's contention that Cuban troops "bring a certain stability and order" to Angola.

But Young appeared unperturbed by his dif-ferences with official policy in an interview Tuesday, just before departing for Africa on his first official trip abroad. He defined his role in the Carter ad-ministration as "a kind of point man," taking positions on issues before formal policy is declared.

Whether the conflict between Young and his boss, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, was real or apparent there were no reprimands or angry words but rather the promise of public differences in the future between the U.N. Ambassador and the State Department briefing room.

Wednesday's State Department comments appeared to fall somewhere between a clarification and a reversal. They marked the latest example of revised pronouncements by Carter administration

Speaking for Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, spokesman Frederick Z. Brown said:

"Neither Ambassador Young nor the secretary condones the presence of Cuban troops in Angola. Young, in a CBS interview last week, had said that "there's a sense in which the Cubans bring a certain stability and order — to Angola, for instance ...

That statement cut right across former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's insistence that a withdrawal of all organized Cuban troops in Angola is a prequisite to normalizing U.S. relations with Cuba.

To Kissinger, the presence of Soviet-supported Cuban forces in Angola was a global symbol of Soviet "adventurism." State Department officials estimate that 10,000 to 15,000 Cuban troops are still in Angola, supporting a Marxist-oriented regime which defeated western-supported factions.

State Department spokesman Brown was asked Wednesday if the new statement, which amplified Vance's milder efforts on Monday to disclaim the Young statement, represented "a retraction" of the Young remark.

Brown, determined to avoid any characterization, said: "I'm saying precisely what I mean to say on the subject, regardless of what Ambassador Young was quoted as saying several days ago."

Asked if Vance agrees with Young that the Cuban forces in Angola are a force for "stability," however, Brown bluntly responded, "No."

State Department officials said afterward, in response to questions, that the "exact language" used Wednesday on not condoning the Cuban troop presence had not been cleared with Young. But it represented Young's "overall position," they maintained, as he had expressed it in talks with several officials in the Department.

Nevertheless, the overall result clearly was an official knockdown of Young's original remarks on

In an interview at the United Nations just before he left for Africa to explore new U.S. policy options on majority rule in southern Africa, Young said that he had spoken with Vance about his unorthodox concept of his role as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Young said he told Vance that to preserve "the right to say what I really believe, I'd be willing to take whatever flack came and I'd be willing to be repudiated by him whenever it was officially necessary. I got no ego problems about that, what-

In less than a week on the U.N. job, Young already had been repudiated three times by the State Department (twice by Vance personally), over statements on Vietnam, Rhodesia and the Cuban presence in Angola.

Last week the State Department shot down a Young statement advocating U.N. membership for Vietnam. On Monday, Vance, referring to Young's view that the white minority regime in Rhodesia will have to negotiate with black majority leaders if South Africa tells it to, said that the matter is "not quite that simple.

Vance also said on Monday, when asked about Young's comment about the Cuban troops being a stablizing factor in Angola, that "I think that the presence of any outside forces is not helpful to a peaceful solution.

Vance went on to say, "I think that this is a matter that should be settled by the Africans themselves."
"That's not a put-down," Young insisted in the interview. "Because everything I said there is gonna

Lowering heat can aid health

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Americans who have foresaken their normally toasty household temperatures for the chilly discomfort of 65 degrees may take some solace in this: it's probably good for you.

That's the word from the American Medical Association, which has long campaigned against "overheating" in the typical American home.

Dr. William Barcley, a physician who edits the association's journal, said Wednesday that people who have lowered temperatures in their homes and offices in response to the energy shortage "are probably healthier than those who continue to push their thermostats up to 72 degrees."

Experts on contagious disease at the National Institutes of Health agree.

"Reducing the heat even to 60 degrees inside won't do any harm to your health," says John Blamphin, of NIH "and it may be even healthier as far as respiratory diseases are concerned.'

Blamphin explains that "since viruses grow better at warm temperatures, there's evidence that cooler conditions retard the transmission of disease."

In one NIH study, Blamphin says, a group of healthy people were stripped to their underwear and kept shivering in temperatures below 40 degrees for several hours. They showed no greater susceptibility to colds or other respiratory diseases than another gorup in normal clothing in a normally heated room.

Hundreds of millions of people in Europe and Asia

where an indoor temperature above 60 degrees
would be considered unusually warm on a winter night — offer proof that the human body can adjust to ower temperatures without serious harm.

Barcley said higher temperatures remove moisture from the air, aggravating bronchial and other respiratory diseases, and they "can contribute to dry throat and nose, coughs, and dry itchy skin."

Lower indoor temperatures reduce the shock to the respiratory system that comes with stepping from a warm house to the outdoor chill, Barcley added.

Snow activity could eventually produce floods

By The Associated Press

New supplies of natural gas are already flowing east, but the effects of the bitter winter of 1977 are spreading even faster.

Layoffs, for example, have begun reaching into New England - an area spared until now because it uses little natural gas.

In Ohio and western New York State, two of the hardest hit areas, calm weather and slightly rising temperatures on Wednesday gave something of a respite to cleanup crews and river pilots trying to deliver fuel.

But a new snowstorm, moving through the West, promised more trouble as it headed for the Great

And with an estimated 75 dead and 2 million already temporarily out of work nationwide, officials in Pennsylvania and New York expressed yet another worry: they fear major floods this spring if a quick thaw suddenly melts the huge amounts of snow now on the ground.

President Carter signed emergency legislation approved by Congress Wednesday giving him the power to declare national or regional natural gas emergencies and to order gas moved from state to state to keep homes and hospitals warm — but not to reopen shutdown plants.

The legislation also allows in-terstate pipelines to temporarily buy gas in some cases at higher prices prevailing in intrastate markets.

Even before the signing, one of the biggest interstate natural gas pipelines, Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp., reported it had completed arrangements to obtain about 130 million cubic feet of gas a day from the Pacific Northwest. Some of the gas was already moving toward Texas, where Transcontinental is based, by Wednesday night.

But gas moves at only 15 miles an hour in pipelines, so the prospect of quick relief for curtailed areas was

Federal Power Commissioner John H. Holloman III said many of the plant closings could last until spring — and could be followed by other closings this summer.

In Buffalo, N.Y., where soldiers and National Guardsmen are helping the city dig out from a series of harsh storms, the widening effects of the crisis were illustrated by a jam up of railroad boxcars unable to move. The backlog in Buffalo spread misery as plant for two days, idling 3,200 persons. Until now New England had escaped suffering because its industry does not rely heavily on natural gas.

Feed grain dealers in Massachusetts also complained of critical shortages, and one official suggested rationing feed to livestock - which in turn could cut the state's egg production.

Ohio obtained a promise of aid Wednesday night when President Carter declared it to be in a state of emergency. The declaration will enable the state to get federal aid to The prospect of a sudden thaw prompted Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania to urge homeowners and apartment dwellers to buy federally subsidized flood insurance. Insurance Commissioner William Sheppard said many are already doing that — some 50,000 have the policies and new applications are coming at a rate of 2,000 a week.

On the Ohio River, some 200 barges carrying fuel oil, coal or salt were able on Wednesday to make progress upriver after being stalled for about two weeks. Other barges remained stalled, however, because of balky

> WASHINGTON - Representatives of blacks and Hispanic Americans, anxious to become more visible in President Carter's subcabinet than they are in his cabinet, are stepping up their pressure on top administration officials.

> Carter is scheduled to meet Thursday afternoon with a delegation from El Congreso, the National Congress of Hispanic-American Citizens, which is upset that only two Hispanic Americans have been appointed so far to high-level, policy-making jobs.

> The Congressional Black Caucus met with three members of Carter's cabinet so far this week, and plans more meetings next week, in an effort to win not just more high level jobs for blacks, but also some commitments on issues.

> The White House has not said publicly how far along the process of nominating subcabinet officials is. Few such nominations have been sent to the Senate, where many must be confirmed. But sources have said some cabinet members have almost completed their selections.

One of those members, Hank Lacayo, who heads the political arm of the United Auto Workers, said in a telephone interview from Detroit Wednesday, "I do feel there's been a breakdown between what he said and what has been done by staff or whoever."

Manuel D. Fierro, president of El Congreso, hinted Wednesday that his group's strong oppostion to Terence Todman, the black U.S. ambassador to Costa Rica nominated to be assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, might be a bargaining chip during the meeting with Carter. We'd certainly be receptive to a proposal that would give us a Mexican-American ambassador to Mexico," Fierro said. "I think that will certainly be a factor in our continued opposition to Todman.

WASHINGTON - Charles D. Ferris, chief counsel of the Senate Democratic Policy Committee, is under consideration by President Carter as the next chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, Senate sources said Wednesday.

The sources said Carter is expected to nominate Ferris, 43, to the post prior to the June 30 retirement of the present chairman, Richard E. Wiley

Ferris told a reporter he met with the President in the White House last Friday and that he is hopeful of getting the appointment but that no final decision

Ferris was endorsed by 54 senators in December for the position of deputy attorney general, a job that remains unfilled.

records from 1971 on. For the period 1971 through 1975, the club raised $150,000 for Wright, according to his own reports.

There have been other political fund-raisers over the years for Wright's campaigns. And in addition he has had other income. His reports to the House Ethics Committee showed more than $108,000 in personal income above his congressional salary in the years 1955 through 1966.

On top of that, Wright reported that he was "forced to sell most of his personal assets (a small ranch in Kerr County and his home in Fort Worth) in order to reduce indebtedness and keep interest payments current." The ranch brought $60,000 when it was sold in 1967, Wright said. He said he got $17,000 for the house in 1962. Fort Worth advertising agency he had previously But there were business losses during his congressional years, too. He said he lost at least $40,000 in a Leesburg, Va., Pontiac agency in the late 1960s.

During the same period, he said, he lost between $6,000 and $10,000 in a land development deal in Fort Worth and "a small amount" in a Virginia land deal. Wright was divorced in 1971 from his first wife, Mary, giving her a settlement he calls "generous" and a yearly payment in lieu of alimony reported to be about $13,000. Wright remarried late in 1972. In 1973, according to a report of outside income which Wright filed with the Clerk of the House, he received $6,250 for "contract writing for an ad agency.'

Wright recently refused to identify the ad agency for which he worked. Nor would he specify what work he had done. "I have given you so much more than the ethical obligation," was his explanation.

In 1973, one of Wright's Fort Worth-based staff members, Joe Shosid, also was president of Advertising Unlimited, a Fort Worth agency. Shosid, in a telephone interview, said there was "only one year that he (Wright) did some work" for Shosid's agency. "I don't know exactly what year," he added, saying "some of it was market surveys in which (Wright) had expertise." Shosid said that he would not make any records paign debts. But he evidently ran up substantial peravailable and that he had ended his connection with the agency at Wright's request last December. In 1973, according to House Clerk records, Shosid's pay as Wright's assistant went from the $15,689 he got in 1972 to $22,418. Shosid said he got the raise because he agreed "to do more than what I had been

In 1973, also, Shosid served as treasurer of Wright's 20-year testimonial dinner. Held in October in Fort Worth, it drew 3,612 people at $20 a ticket and netted $53,593 for Wright's campaign fund.

None of that money was spent to retire any past campaign debts. Instead it, and another $60,000 raised in 1974, were used in the general election that year. Against a well-financed Republican opponent,

Wright won with 68 per cent of the vote. Advertising Unlimited, Shosid's firm, handled the Wright campaign that year and received $40,000 in ad money. Most of that went to purchase space in newspapers or time on television stations. Shosid said recently his agency took the normal commission for placing the ads, money he said which "came out honor of his 10th year in Congress. News stories at of the station's charges."

The trouble with most of us is that we're too unselfish. We're always thinking of others, never of ourselves. What we need, at the bridge table especially, is more selfishness. I wouldn't tell you this if I couldn't prove it with a bridge hand.

West's return didn't matter. South could win a club or a diamond and lead trumps. East takes the ace of trumps, but West is out of trunps and the defenders are out of tricks. South draws another trump and claims the rest.

East was too considerate of his partner when he returned a spade at the second trick. This play gave West a ruff, but East should think of a ruff for himself.

SINGLETON At the second trick East must return his singleton club. South wins and returns a trump.

Now East remembers his partner. East takes the first trump and returns a spade for West to ruff. West can then return a club for East to ruff. This gives the defenders four tricks instead of only three.

The point is that West's ruffing trick said is also an entry—the only entry to the West hand. East can make effective telegram he sent to Presiuse of that entry only if he first clears the singleton club out of his hand. DAILY QUESTION

Hill says he may run

PALESTINE, Tex (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill says he is seriously considering running for governor and already has someone on his political payroll to check his prospects.

Hill told reporters in Palestine Wednesday, "If I run for governor it will be next time. I now have a person on my political payroll probing deeply the prospects."

In a speech to a Palestine Rotary Club, Hill said Texas should win the Howard Hughes will case.

"I believe Mr. Hughes meant for Texas to be his domicile and it is my opinion that none of the existing wills are valid." he

Hill also read a dent Jimmy Carter about the gas crisis.

He said it is essential that consumers in other states pay as much as Texans for gas, that no Texas workers be laid off because of lack of gas and that diversion of gas to other states cause no increase in the price of gas in Texas.

He said in his telegram he felt if other states had paid the market price for gas during the past three years some of the crisis might have been avoided.

Hill also spoke about the narcotics problem on the Texas border and said would be a consolidation of local, state and naall of the border states.

He added that poppy fields in Mexico must be eradicated and hoped the meeting soon between President Carter and result in action on this.

It's his fault we stay up late watching lights

AP Special Correspondent

NASHUA, N.H. (AP) - It is not given to many in this world to do something that will truly change the course of civilization and alter man's view of himself.

Ralph Baer has done that. Ralph Baer is the inventor of TV games, those spooky things that go been in the night

Ralph Baer is responsible for millions of otherwise rational Americans staying up late, in saloons and in their own living rooms, fran-tically twisting knobs of frustration to move paddles of light in pursuit of targets of futility across screens of despair.

He has raised the national threshold of self-doubt.

He did not intend it to be that way. He wanted it to be fun.

"I could just picture the neighborhood tavern," he said, blue eyes glinting delight, "the television on the shelf above the booze, two people, rivals, playing the game by remote control from a table in back, their fans all along the bar looking at the TV screen, making bets, cheering them on.

Such dreams cheered Ralph Baer on until, eureka, he did it, got it marketed, defended his invention in court - one of about 75 patents bearing his name - and sat back to enjoy it.

To one who began in his chosen field by taking a home correspondence course in radio repair at night, this latest success must be sweet indeed.

The Nazis kicked him out of school in Germany in 1936 when he was 14. and out of the country two years later. His father, brothers and sisters were not as fortunate; they perished.

Ralph learned English, learned to fix radios, and, after helping defeat the Germans in World War II, got a degree in television engineering under the GI Bill.

By 1962, the slight fellow with a broad, kindly brow and thin gray hair, was in charge of an entire division of Sanders Associates, Inc., a big electronic systems development firm

"At that time 8there were more than 60 million homes with television," Baer recalled. "I thought to myself, by God, there ought to be something to do with them other than just watch television. Why not a

So Baer, in his free moments, took to his workbench. "By late 1966 I finally had two spots chasing each other around the screen.

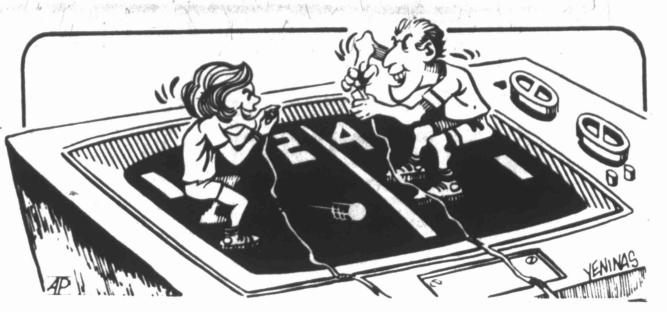

Baer recruited two associates to help. They took over a small room on the sixth floor of the firm's big brick building. They locked the door.

Within a year the three were playing ping pong, hockey, darts games! - in a paradoxical world of chroma oscillators, sync pulses and potentiometers.

By 1972 other Americans were playing the games too. Last year 3 million of the things were sold, $200 million worth. People ask him how the blamed thing works, how he gets the ball to beep and bounce and the hockey players to chase the puck and do all those other magical things he has

"That's easy," he said. "In the back of every picture tube there's a little

Texas senate tackles list

RESGES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas senators aim to please the home folks today.

With no debate and few of the upper chamber lawmakers on hand, the Senate tackled a long list of so-called "local and uncontested" bills.

The House scheduled a brief morning meeting and quick adjournment for a busy afternoon of committee meetings.

Heading the committee calendar this afternoon was a session of the House Ways and Means Committee on two tax reduction measures.

One bill would exempt residential consumers from the state sales tax on utilities and allow cities to remove the local sales tax if they wish. It also would increase the inheritance tax exemption. The net loss to the state treasury would be $210 million for the net loss to the state of $344 million the next two years. covered by health or accident insurance

The Senate finally approved Wednesday, by a 21-7 vote, a proposed constitutional amendment to allow bingo and raffles by non-profit or charitable organizations.

If approved by the House, the proposition will go to Texas voters in the general election of November,

In other action the Senate also approved and sent to the House by voice vote a bill that would make it against the law to sell or buy a baby. Adoption agencies would still be able to charge a reasonable fee for care of the mother or the baby. "But there will be no more of this charging $10,000 to adopt a baby." said Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls

Senators also approved bills to include doctors of The second bill would exempt both residential and podiatric medicine in workmen's compensation commercial users from the utilities sales tax for a coverage and to let certain podiatry services be

Snow stops some mail back East

WASHINGTON (AP) -Neither rain nor snow nor anything else is supposed to keep the mail from getting through. But that's been a tall order this frigid winter.
The Postal Service has been called upon to deliver mail through Arctic temperatures, howling winds and blizzards this winter. And postal officials say the mail has gotten through in most areas, despite O record low temperatures and heavy snowfalls

But nature got the best of the Postal Service in western and northern New York State, where near-blizzard conditions have prevailed this week. and in other scattered areas.

Mail could not be = delivered Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday in Buffalo, Watertown and Rochester, N.Y., and surrounding areas, Postal Service spokesman Bernard J. O Roswig said

Some mail service was restored Wednesday in the Buffalo and Rochester areas but not in the Watertown area, he said.

3 DAYS ONLY!

While the weather was bad, Roswig said it was not always weather alone that stopped mail deliveries in those areas. Traffic, including mail trucks, was prohibited from traveling some snowbound roads.

"The first truck since Jan. 29 got through today from Syracuse to Watertown," Roswig said Wednesday.

Hebert hospitalized

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - F. Edward Hebert, 76, of New Orleans, who retired last month after 35 years in Congress, is hospitalized in serious condition with heart disease.

A Hotel Dieu spokesman said Wednesday that Hebert was admitted Jan. 26 "for evaluation of treatment of heart disease. His present condition is listed as serious."

However, the spokesman said the Hebert had not had a heart attack. Hebert, who had won re-election to the House 18 times from a district that included part of New Orleans and adjacent parishes, did not seek re-election last year. In 1975, the House Democratic Caucus unseated him as chairman of the house Armed Services Committee, which as the ranking Democrat he had headed for four

The ouster movement was led by young congressmen opposed the seniority system and Hebert's hawkish military views. But he said it wasn't the reason he retired.

NEW YORK (AP) - Competent women are insensitivity to the code. missing opportunities to advance in the corporate code by which large industrial enterprises operate, a management authority says.

"Assertiveness is no match for the smarts," said Prof. Eugene Jennings, who has spent his adult life studying the routes and techniques used in ascending the corporate management ladder.

Jennings, management professor at Michigan State University and confidential adviser to many corporate chief executives, said the female behavior pattern has revealed itself as more managerial jobs open up for them.

'Potentially competent women are opting themselves right into oblivion," he said. After promising beginnings, and in spite of equal rights legislation, their upward mobility is stalled by an

Jennings states that the first principle of mobility world because they fail to understand the unwritten is to see the corporation as it really is. Assertive women, he explained, sometimes try to make the company over to fit their desires rather than to work with it as it is.

> "American women have been misled into thinking the assertiveness of the service world, such as advertising, will work in the more sedate and toughminded manufacturing sector of our society," he continued.

Those who understand the real world of manufacturing know that "nobody is put in charge of an enterprise unless trusted implicitly, and hard work and assertiveness are not necessarily synonymous with trust," said Jennings.

A woman with the smarts, as Jennings chooses to call a knowledge of the corporate code, recognizes that it is a team effort that cannot be played by just one person, no matter how assertive that person might be. Compromise is essential. The smart woman, he said, will recognize she must

DEAR ABBY: Last summer for my 16th birthday, my mother gave me a nose job. My nose is a lot smaller now but it's slightly lopsided. I mean one of my nostrils is higher than the other.

After I had my nose done, my mother had hers done by another doctor. Hers came out really perfect, and now she wants HER doctor to do my nose over.

I don't want to go through that whole thing again with the black and blue eves and the swollen face, but

I don't want to go through that whole thing again with the black and blue eyes and the swollen face, but my mother insists on it. Don't you think I should have something to say about it? After all, it's my nose. My mother says that as a minor I have to do

'Annie Get Your Gun' launches MCT season

Theatre's 1977 season- Whitten. opener, "Annie Get Your Gun," comes to Theatre Centre tonight to highlight the observance of Texas Theater Week

The special week was proclaimed for Jan. 30-Feb.6 by Gov. Dolph Briscoe "in recognition of the valuable contributions talented Texans have made to the art of theater and to life in Texas."

MCT's ''Annie'' initiates the theater's 1977 membership year. Seventeen or more performances of the musical are scheduled through late February. Five add, it ional productions will be of-fered during the year.

"Annie Get Your Gun," with book by Herbert and Dorothy Fields and music and lyrics by Irving Berlin, was one of the first big musicals to come on the scene following World War II. The Broadway version had Ethel Merman in the pivotal role of a real-life character of the Oakley. Mary Martin later toured as Annie.

MCT's version, designed and directed by Art Cole, features Daphne Pemberton Walker of Odessa as Annie and Louis Martin Kluck of Odessa as Frank Butler, Annie's love interest. Other parts are assigned to David Legg. Bill Shaner, Louis Pare, Jack Scannell, Dee Rose Jr., Gloria Stephenson, from the stage of the Lance Burch, Susan

Beware of the Polish curse Southern Southwest Conference game, and Detroit beat Eastern

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

Some mid-week thoughts and a Polish curse on all my sports writing colleagues who are trying to portray sweet little Dorothy as a chain smoking, whiskey drinking ingrate, who hangs around with tulip-carrying Hollywood types and turns her skates on all of her friends.

If the Minnesota Vikings had lost to Washington or Los Angeles in the NFC playoffs and never reached the Super Bowl, they wouldn't have attracted a fifth of the criticism they have for "losing the big one." Seventy-five per cent of the National Football League players never get the opportunity to play in the Super Bowl. Why should a team be publicly admonished for getting farther than every club in football, save one?

SPEAKING OF the Vikings, how can Bud Grant get along so well with only six assistants, while other pro. college and even high school heads need nine, ten and sometimes more? There will come a day soon, when staffs will become so specialized there will be an assistant in charge of helping players go to the bathroom

The Texas Sports Writers Association recently censured Rice and Texas Stadiums because of complaints received from some of the organization's members. Rice got their hand slapped for turning off the power in the press box while writers were still working. The Irving complex was publicly whipped for denying members of the working press use of the stadium's press box for a high school playoff game because of a private party that was being held inside.

Talk about hard luck. Recently, the Florida University basketball team was beaten on the road by Southeastern Conference rival Georgia, 92-82. Then, on their way back to Gainesville, the universityowned DC-3 carrying the team had to make an emergency landing in Macon, Georgia after one of the engines went out.

The Gators took a chartered bus from there, but that soon broke down as well. It was 7 the next morning when the team finally got back to the

And then there's Esther Pena, the coed at Texas A&I, who refused to wear a bra while playing for the Javelinas' girls basketball team. She said it restricted her movements, and added that male athletes are not required to be similarly encumbered. Try wearing a jock Esther, and find out what restriction really is...

TENNIS NEWS: Tickets are now available for the WCT's World Series of Tennis in Dallas, May 10-15. The $200,000 event will be held at Moody Colliseum and ducats can be obtained by sending checks to WCT, 1990 First National Bank Building, Dallas, Texas 75202. Inner circle seats are sold out, but upper end ($55), reserved ($40), and family plan ($25) are still available. Those tickets will be good for all six days.

The Avon Futures Tennis Circuit will get underway soon, with nine $20,000 tournaments this season' and a finals event worth 25 grand. The Futures tourneys are open to any female with the $25 entry fee. The top four finishers in each event will then be moved up to the Virginia Slims

When asked why he took the news of New Orleans Jazz Coach Butch van Breda Kolff's firing so calmly, Pete Maravich answered: "The last time I was surprised was when I found out that ice cream cones were hollow." And while we're quoting, there's Marquette basketball coach Al MaGuire, who said after announcing he would retire at the end of this

Filming began in Dallas three weeks back on the movie version of Dan Jenkins' best selling, ficticious look at pro football, "Semi-Tough." Starring in the film will be Burt Reynolds, Kris Kristofferson, and Bert Convy. Bert Convy?

FROM THE man who predicted the return of Dave Cowens and the 'Great Flood' comes yet another rognastication: The University of San Francisco basketball team's bid for an undefeated season will fall by the wayside in their final game before the NCAA playoffs, when they will be beaten by Notre Dame in South

NBC will never match ABC's prolific coverage of the Olympics.

Only improvement for the viewer will be the Olympic basketball coverage with Dick Enberg and Bill Packer if they're still around. They're the two best cage commentators in the business, and they compliment each other beautifully.

Says Packer, the two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference guard at Wake Forest in the early 60s: "I'm not the kind of announcer who tells the viewers which players like strawberry ice cream. I try to explain why one team is ahead of another and what the other team can do to catch up." That's good news unless you're a Baskin-Robbins freak.

P.S. to mom and dad: the horse is the one you ride and the cow is the one you milk. Take my word for it.

Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy is thankful that his team does not take basketball polls too seriously.

'We haven't talked about them (polls) all year," said Tacy Wednesday night after his fifth-rated Deacons defeated Duke 89-80 in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball

"We notice the polls, though," he added. "And I think we're looking better than the sixth-place (ACC) finish predicted for us at the beginning of the season.'

Indeed, they are. The Deacons now are 17-2 over-all and lead the tough ACC with a 6-1 record.

FORWARD ROD Griffin sparked Wake Forest to its lastest victory with

"He's playing better than anyone in the league right now," said Tacy. 'He's just meant so much to us in every game we've played.

"They're a very quick team," said Duke Coach Bill Foster. "We tried to play more of a tempo game (without the fast break), but turnovers killed us. We don't practice turnovers, but we seem to be very good at them.

"Wake Forest is playing very loose and poised right now. And they shot very well down the stretch," added

In other games involving rated teams, Pittsburgh upset No. 12 Cincinnati 65-64 on a 22-foot jump shot by junior Larry Harris at the final buzzer; Arkansas, No. 14, routed 20th-rated Detroit beat Eastern Michigan 87-82.

"The bench told me to take the shot, even if I was doubleteamed," said Harris, whose winning basket gave Pitt's leading scorer 31 points for the

"We've got to start to believe in ourselves," addeedd Harris after the 4-14 Panthers upended Cincinnati,

"We have made Tulane and now Pitt's season," remarked Cincinnati assistant coach Gary McPherson, referring to a loss to the Green Wave earlier this season.

"Pitt played as inspired as we played uninspired," he added. "We had them on the ropes early but we didn't have the killer instinct. We played a poor game. We contributed vastly to their success."

SMU left Marvin Delph open for outside shots and he scored a career-

high 30 points in the Razorbacks' 10th straight victory.

Deacons ignore the polls

'We kept them outside, but they shot too well," moaned SMU Coach Sonny Allen.

John Long scored 32 points and Terry Tyler 25 for 17-1 Detroit, which has won 16 straight games.

In other Wednesday night action, John Gerdy scored 28 points as Davidson nipped the Citadel 62-60 in a Southern Conference game; freshman Jo Jo Hunter scored a career-high 20 points, leading Maryland over Virginia 82-67 in the ACC; freshman Darryl Gladden hit two free throws with three seconds left, giving La Saffe a 71-70 upset over Villanova in the second half of a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia after St. Joseph's, Pa. downed American 77-70.

Nine consecutive points by Glenn Williams and a 28-point performance by George Johnson sparked St. John's over Georgetown 82-66, while Fordham snapped its 10-game losing streak with a 68-53 victory over CCNY.

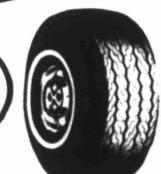

MIAMI OF Ohio snapped Northern Illinois' five-game winning streak and took over first place in the Mid-American Conference with a 99-91 triumph as Archie Aldridge scored 28 points for the winners. Central Michigan outscored Toledo 88-81 in another MAC game.

Amarillo, FPC has lacked the consistency to contend, but in this league, that isn't too strange.

FPC brings a 4-7 WJCC and 11-11 overall record into tonight's game and instead of a contender, they lurk like a spoiler in the bushes.

With 6-8 James Lyons, Gerald Booker, Robert White and Paul Bantley, FPC is a team that can make trouble on any given night. MIDLAND WON the first meeting at Borger, 93-87, as Ricky Hudgins scored 22 points, Jackson Pace 16 and Alvin Mayes 15. Booker's 24 and 20 more by White topped FPC while Lyons had 19. The Chaparrals come off an 89-80 loss to Howard College at Big Spring and are faced with a must win situation if they are to keep daylight between themselves and Howard. which is one back at 6-5. The Hawks play Odessa College in Odessa while NMMI and Clarendon clash in the other tilt. Amarillo plays Western Texas at Snyder in a game Saturday night.

game, strangely enough. Shepard makes decision: Texas

Education major.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Odessa quarterback Darrell Shepard, considered by many to be the top blue-chip recruit in the state, says he will attend the University of Texas, the Austin American-Statesman reported

Shepard was quoted as saying his final choice was between Texas and the University of Houston.

"BUT I figured I'd have a better chance to start at Texas," Shepard said. "I liked both schools and both cities, but it's a whole lot different playing for the University of Texas.

You're representing a whole state, not just a city.

Several schools told me that Texas wouldn't start a black at quarterback, but I talked about it with Coach (Freddie) Akers, and he said that wasn't true," he said. He declined to name the school that told him that.

Houston has an established star at quarterback in Danny Davis, who has two more years. Texas finally settled on freshman Mark McBath at the end of a 5-5-1 season last year. Shepard is the only high school player picked by all nine Southwest Conference football coaches in a Dallas Times Herald blue-chip poll. He rushed for 920 yards and passed for 1,156 more in his senior season.

SHEPARD'S OLDER brother. Woodie, is a sophomore running back at Oklahoma, and there was speculation that Darrell would follow him to Norman. But Darrell said Woodie advised him not to go to Oklahoma because the Sooners run the Wishbone-T, which gives a quarterback less opportunity to develop his passing skills.

Chris wins once again

SEATTLE (AP) - Chris Evert won another tennis match, but only after having her service broken three straight times in the first set.

And after recovering to beat Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-4, 6-1 Wednesday night in the second round of a $100,000 women's tournament, the top-seeded star from Fort Lauderdale, Fla. said: "I think that's my problem—the more I play, the harder it is for me to get inspired on the tennis court.

Inspiration was no problem for Rosie Casals of Sausalito, Calif. She stormed past Valerie Ziegenfuss of El Cajon, Calif. 62, 6-3. 'I've never lost to Val, and I've played her umpteen times," Miss Casals said. "I was picking off her shots well, and that comes from knowing her game very well.' Today, Miss Casals faced Natasha Chmyreva of the Soviet Union, a 6-0, 6-0 winner over Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles. Second-seeded Martina Navratilova, a Czechoslovakian expatriate, also advanced to the quarter-finals, with a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Linda Mottram of England. Miss Navratilova was matched against Sharon Walsh, who had a tough time subduing Marcie Louie of San Francisco, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Closing out the first round in competition, Cynthia Doerner of Fresno, Calif. edged Ilana Kloss of South Africa 6-4, 7-5

Borg and net sweetheart sign tennis agreements

CLEVELAND (AP) - Bjorn Borg strode through cold, clear Cleveland warmed by the arm of his fiance and tennis colleague Mariana Simionescu, a plush raccoon coat and the security of a three-year, $1.2 million contract with the Cleveland-Pittsburgh Nets of World Team Tennis.

The ruggedly handsome, blond Swede and the Romanian expatriate, Mariana, both 20, were on top of the world Wednesday as Nets owner Joe Zingale escorted them on a whirlwind trip to announce the signings-his and Zingale's hired jet picked up Borg and Miss Simionescu in North Little Rock, Ark., early in the day, took them to New York for a news conference, then on to Cleveland and Pittsburgh for introductions to the media before depositing them back in Arkansas early today.

BORG WHO played a first-round match in a tournament at Little Rock Tuesday night, was scheduled to play there again tonight.

"I've done everything for five years, played every major tournament, and I wanted to do something new. I've always been thinking about playing team tennis," Borg said with a smile. "I like to try new things and now I'll see how it is.

"Another reason I signed," he added happily, "was that I'll be able to see Mariana often."

Miss Simionescu was signed to a smaller contract, estimated at $20,000, for the 1977 season. A source close to Zingale, a Cleveland businessman and radio executive, set the price of Borg's pact at $1.2 million and said the Swede would have the option of ending the contract at the end of each year.

BORG SAID he likely would limit his tennis, outside the WTT, to the U.S. Pro Championships at Boston, the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, N.Y. and the Wimbledon Championships in England. "Four years ago I saw a young man, just about the time I got involved in the WTT, playing tennis in Toronto," Zingale said. "He was just 16 years old, but I saw him hit balls the way nobody else could do it. I said someday that young man was going to be the brightest star in tennis, and he Asked how he could justify the huge salary for Borg, as well as Nets female star Martina Navratilova, in light of poor attendance last season, Zingale said, "I'm a businessman. Who says the contract is that far out when it's for the No. 1 player in the world? And it adds to the value of the franchise, too."

WAC issuing help wanted ad

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — With the University of Arizona and Arizona State University set to leap from the Western Athletic Conference, a crowd of applicants is lining up at the WAC's application gate.

The two schools, Arizona in Tucson and ASU in Tempe, have been invited to join the Pacific Eight Conference in 1978. But the presidents of the other WAC schools are holding firm on keeping Arizona and ASU to their football commitments through 1981.

'We were unable to get them to even consider a compromise. Arizona President John Schaefer said after the WAC presidents refused Tuesday night to let the two schools out of their scheducles. "We will essentially be independents for at least four years," he said. BUT IN the meantime, the WAC

President's Council, knowing two members are leaving, said it would begin taking applications for expansion until the end of March.

"We hope expansion would proceed as soon as possible after that," said with the National League between the Phillies and Commissioner Stan Bates. There was baseball club through Bowa's agent, Jerry no indication how many schools might be accepted, but speculation was that the WAC might become a 10-team league.

Bates said a quick expansion the contract is a five-year leagues in 1970.

"would alleviate the scheduling problems of Arizona and Arizona State. indicating the Arizona schools may eventually get what they want - the freedom to compete in 1978 for the Rose Bowl berth and Pac-10 crown, as the league will eventually be called.

"We have an application already prepared," said Utah State Athletic Director Ladell Anderson. "We're going to do whatever is necessary to make known our interest." Anders said adding four teams would compensate nicely for the loss of the Arizona schools. 'WE WANT to actively make something happen," said San Jose

State Athletic Director Don Murphy "I'll be on the next plane to Denver if Stan wants to discuss it."

Murphy also said there has been some discussion of merging the WAC with the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. Other schools voicing interest, but less enthusiastically, were San Diego State, New Mexico State, Hawaii and the University of Nevada-Las Vegas.

Bates said applications from interested schools would be reviewed for, among other things, the number of Division One sports, the number of scholarships and the attendance at sporting events.

Well, in the first place, it would have to employ a great many more persons, and secondly, it would have to find funds somewhere to purchase additional equipment.

Auxiliary members have given 21,000 volunteer hours in less than 12 months. This is a lot of hours and would represent a sizeable sum of money if the volunteers were reimbursed at the going rate.

Then — and here is where the equipment purchases enter the picture — the auxiliary, according to the January-February issue of the MMH Headliner, voted recently to purchase three Abbott slave scopes for installation in the hospital's Coronary Care Unit. Total purchase price for the three scopes is said to be $12,600.

ART BUCHWALD Kremlin backs down after getting facts

WASHINGTON - The Soviet colonel came into the situation room of the Kremlin. He was holding in his hand a photograph of the United States taken from a Russian spy satellite.

"Look, Comrades. The Americans are digging holes all over the country. Why are they digging so many holes unless it's for missiles? The Joint Soviet Command studied the satellite map.

"Is true," said a marshal. "Hole is here, hole is there. No one makes as many holes unless they are going to put in launchers. We must speak to KGB chief for North America immediately.

A button was pushed and Borix I came in

'Why," a general demanded, "you have not reported United States is digging holes for new missiles to be aimed against U.S.S.R.?' The KGB man took a look at the satellite photograph. 'Those are not rocket launcher holes, Comrades. Those are potholes made by American cars and trucks.' 'What are potholes?'' another Soviet general demanded. The KGB man said, "In America there is winter, yes?' Everyone agreed. "In winter," he continued, "there is

snow and ice, yes?'

'Get on with it," the marshal said. "To break up ice and snow on roads they put salt on them. Salt not only breaks up ice, it also breaks up road When road breaks up there is hole. Americans call it pothole," the KGB don't Americans fill in potholes?" the marshal demanded. Because there are so many of them it's impossible to fill them all in. Is better to let them stay as holes until municipal elections.'

"What are these yellow lights and pieces of wood around these holes? Surely they must be for missiles," a general said.

"Is not for missiles. Traffic police put up these lights to warn people there is a pothole," the KGB man

"Why don't they put them up around all the potholes?" a general a sked. 'They don't have enough yellow warning lights."

'How do they decide which holes to put lights on and which holes not to put lights on?'

For the first time the KGB chief was nervous. "We haven't been able to find out why they choose to put lights on some holes and not others. There doesn't seem to be any pattern

The marshal said, "There must be a reason for it. Americans wouldn't just mark some potholes and not others. If they did that they would wreck their automobiles."

The KGB man said, "That's just it. They are wrecking their automobiles. My people are trying to find out why police mark certain potholes and don't mark others, but is impossible to get information so far. No policeman will explain why he chooses one pothole over another."
"Is possible," said a general, "that

ones with yellow blinkers are really dug for missiles."

"But," said another general, "suppose they put yellow blinkers there to make us think those potholes are missile sites, when in fact unmarked potholes are real missile launch

The KGB man said, "Comrades, as you know I have lived in America for a long time. It's true from the air that American potholes look like missile pads. But I have driven over them and I assure you that they are rarely more than six feet deep. A car can fall in one, but a missile can't be fired from it. We must not come to conclusion from one satellite photo that the Americans are building launching pads all over their highways.

"But," said the marshal, slamming his fist on the table, "how can we be

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

The 116th and Rojo the rooster

JACK ANDERSON and LES

WASHINGTON - The Air Force is aghast at the outlandish behavior of President Jimmy Carter's homestate heroes, the pride of Georgia - the men of the 116th National Guard Tactical Fighter Wings.

Their antics have been solemnly documented by Air Force investigators. Dropping a dummy bomb on a road maintenance crew and shooting up an observation tower are grave enough matters. But the weekend pilots, according to sworn statements, also contributed to the delinquency of Rojo the rooster. They would gather on weekends. these modern minute men, ready to defend the nation against all enemies. But since the United States was not at war, they often whiled away the weighty hours at the officers club. where they would crowd around the piano to serenade Rojo. The rooster usually joined in the levity. His favorite drink was whiskey and water, which was administered to him through an eyedropper. From his piano perch, Rojo occasionally presided over games of "dead bug." This was a unique training exercise. Suddenly, some devilish pilot would scream: "Dead bug!" Then, those highly trained, elite members of America's defense team would spring into the air, crash to the bar-floor on their backs and furiously wriggle their arms and legs in the air. The last man to emulate a dying cockroach would be obliged to buy a round of drinks for his fellow cockroaches.

Rojo's duties sometimes took him outside the officers club to the training grounds. On such occasions, he strutted around with the air of a peacock in special battle dress. He wore red baby overalls, complete with suspenders, to keep him warm in the extremity where he was shy on tail feathers.

The official Air Force inquiry int the wondrous ways of the 116th concluded gratefully that "dead bug was not played at staff meetings." But this doesn't square completely with the recollections of the joy boys themselves. Several confided to us that during at least one formal briefing. some sly dog sounded the battle cry "Dead bug!" And the troops responded. As for Rojo's boozing, the Air Force investigation failed to turn up any evidence that the eye-drop cocktails had impaired his official duties. The Air Force sleuths found that the activities at the club were social and that the rooster "apparently was offered, and consumed, some alcoholic beverages."

It was last October 28 that elements of the 116th accidentially bombed Brookhaven, Ga. in the heartland of their new commander-in-chief. The investigators recounted that at 2:30 p.m. on that otherwise ordinary day, a member of the county road maintenance crew was working 300 feet from the intersection of Canoochee Drive and Appalachee Drive.

Suddenly, a flight of F-100 warplanes from the 116th appeared overhead. Out of the blue, a 25-pound dummy bomb whistled down, snapped two power lines and gouged a chunk out of the county road Although houses lined both sides of the street, there were no casualties.

Indignant county officials. however, sent a $424.62 damage bill to the National Guard. But G Adjutant General and National Guard commander, Maj. Gen. Billy Jones, eventually convinced the DeKalb County commissioners that "it would cost more money for the goverent to process the bill than it would be worth

We forgot about it. This wasn't the first narrow miss for the 116th. On Aug. 11, 1975, Lt.Col. Thomas Saffold participated in a fourplane strafing attack at the Rodman Naval Range, Fla. He whipped his F-100 fighter through the tight combat pattern, searched the ground whizzing by him for his target and cut loose a burst of machine gun fire. The spattering bullets barely missed an observation tower 200 yards from the For this indignity to the official observers, Saffold is no longer allowed to fly F-100s. But to salve his humiliation, he was promoted to colonel and was made vice-wing commander of the 116th. He now helps command the F-100s he is not allowed

The commander of the 116th, Col William Berry Jr. also qualifies for more administrative work. Last October 12, he missed a turning point in a flight plan and led a flight of F .-100s into the traffic pattern at the Gainesville, Fla., airport. This was disconcerting to an Eastern Airlines pilot who was bringing in his B-727.
According to the Federal Aviation

Administration's account of the incident, "The four F-100s took evasive action and stated they came no closer than one mile. The captain of the B-727 did not take any evasive action but stated that they came within 100 yards

The FAA took no action against Berry who, in civilian life, works for

When the joy boys aren't training to keep at their perilous peak of readiness, they sometimes function as an appendage of the state government. In this capacity, they ferry state bigwigs hither and yon in the pursuit of public policy.

Gen. Jones told our reporter Janice Selinger that he sees nothing wrong in the ranks he commands. But he has lost one element of his command. Rojo left the 116th sometime last fall. He turned in his red baby overalls and officers club privileges for the less glamorous life of a civilian chlcken.

NICK THIMMESCH

Writer explains the 'why' of natural gas shortage

WASHINGTON - People and industries using coal or oil are not suffering because of the long cold spell. But millions of other people and many industries using natural gas are suffering because this cold snap has caused supplies to be sucked up to the point that severe shortages Why is this? Well, natural gas is popular because it is cheaper than other fuels. It was once so cheap, that people used it to fuel cute, outdoor decorative lamps or to heat their swimming pools. But there is plenty of undeveloped natural gas, so what's the problem? Why isn't it brought out of the ground and put into pipelines so it can go into homes and industries? Shouldn't we blame the gas and oil westerners, or John Connally, or John Wayne, or Bebe Rebozo, or Julie Nixon Eisenhower, or Idi Amin, or somebody else? Can't we blame the Arabs again? No, we can't blame any of the above. If we blame anybody we companies, or the rich South-

should blame ourselves for electing congressmen who demagogue the energy situation, and who have helped make the art and enterprise of exploring for and developing natural gas a discouraging one. Here we are, rich, big, fat U.S.A., with a treasure in coal, oil and gas resources, the most piggish nation in the world when it comes to consuming energy. And here we are, with a sizable segment of our industry shut down because of a shortage of a commodity which is plentiful beneath our own terra firma. Schools, churches and factories close, unemployment climbs, people can't live the good life, and President Carter must fly to Pittsburgh instead of going to

The reason there is a shortage of natural gas is that the Federal Power Commission (FPC) was empowered by Congress many years ago to regulate the shipment and price of natural gas in interstate commerce. Since pipelines cross state lines, that means the natural gas so transported is under federal control

Until 1961, the FPC-administered price was about what the producers could get in a free market anyway, so no problem. But as coal and oil costs climbed, regulated natural gas became a bargain, and people and industries converted to it. Finally, the producers got into a cost-price squeeze, and production leveled off. Almost two-thirds of the price you pay for natural gas at the burner goes for its transportation and distribution. Now so-called "liberal" congressmen relished their roles in thundering against any move to deregulate natural gas. The producers were complaining that they couldn't make a buck any more, exploring for and producing natural gas. It was like the federal government saying that tomatoes could only cost 10 cents a pound. How many farmers would even want to raise them for those develop new gas sourcing, made do with the FPC-regulated prices, and also cooked up other ways to make a buck. One was to produce and sell the gas in the same state, thus excluding it from federal price regulation. This is called "intrastate" natural gas. So if you live in a state blessed with its own natural gas, there probably isn't a shortage because you're buying unregulated, plentiful gas.

As early as 1975, various gents in the natural gas industry and a number of academics as well warned that one day there would be a severe natural shortage if its price were artificially regulated. These people were laughed at, as though they had declared that the world is flat. And in the Sixties, an FPC chairman named Lee White held the hard, liberal line against freeing up natural gas prices. Naturally (no pun intended), gas production did not expand (no pun here, either).

Finally, with the same certainty of hitting a mule on the head with a sledgehammer, Congress realized that we sorely need that natural gas. In the last session, the Senate passed a bill freeing up natural gas prices, but the House voted it down

Now President Carter, who really can't do much other than make symbolic gestures at this point, asks Congress for "emergency" natural gas pricing and an allocation system "spread" the shortage. There is some merit in the bill, but it is not the solution. The solution is to slowly but steadily de-regulate the natural gas industry.

Now whether Speaker "Tip" So producers, with no initiative to O'Neill and some of the House dunderheads are able to put their antibusiness rhetoric aside for a while, and do something clear-eyed and useful about the natural gas situation, is your guess, you poor suffering citizen out there in Columbus, Peoria, Louisville or Cleveland.

The Carter Administration's "emergency" legislation is designed to relieve an emergency. The longrange answer is de-control and some sobering up by all of us piggish Americans who overconsume energy We need smaller engines in our cars. healthier temperatures in our homes (lower the thermostat) and much more hard thinking about energy

We have had cold winters before, but coal and oil kept us going. So we indulge ourselves in regulated cheap natural gas, thus arresting its production, and now wonder why there is a shortage. It makes one wonder if all those billions in federal aid to education do any good? Can't anybody think straight around here?

January colder in city

January weather in Midland wasn't anywhere near as cold as the sub-zero weather parts of Ohio, Penn-sylvania and New York experienced last month but temperatures were still colder than average for January in Midland.

The National Weather Service office in Midland reported a January average temperature of 40.5 degrees, which is 3.1 degrees below normal.

The lowest temperature in more than five years was Jan. 8th's 8 degrees. Last month's high was 70 degrees.

January continued a nine-month string of below-normal temperatures.

The average daily maximum was 53.5 degrees, and the average daily low was 27.4 degrees.

These two averages were also slightly below normal.

Precipitation was slightly above normal, .63 of an inch. There were four days of measurable rain and one day of measurable snow

Give pet valentine

By CECILY BROWNSTONE AP Food Editor

At holiday time last December I received an amusing surprise. My friend Betty McNeill brought me a Santa Claus, bedecked with colored sprinkles, that looked like a cookie.

"Don't eat it!" Betty said. "Although it's full of food things. It's a dog biscuit. I made some for Tiber (Betty's black-andtan smooth dachshund) and his friends. Dogs get a whiff of the chicken stock I cooked to put in it and they go bananas. Cats love the biscuits, too. I thought you might like to use the recipe in your column."

I was fascinated because I had never heard of anyone baking dog biscuits - let alone putting homemade chicken stock in them. Betty found the recipe in the December-January issue of "Apartment Life" (a magazine put out by the publishers of "Better Homes and Gardens"), to which she subscribes. Because I am dogless and always try the recipes I recommend on my own tasters, I sent Betty's dog biscuit home with my assistant for her German Shepherd. According to her report, he ate it with gusto in one twink

When I looked over the recipe Betty had used, I noticed it had been devised for "Apartment Life" by my friend Bernie Clayton who wrote "The Complete Book of Breads' (for humans), the best cookbook of its kind. No wonder the recipe works well. With Valentine's Day around the corner, Betty made some heart-shape dog biscuits for Tiber and his friend Willi, a red longhair dachshund. Willi belongs to Betty's neighbor, photographer Haidi Kuhn, who caught Tiber of Teckwell and Willi waiting for their canine valentines and presented the picture to

Homemade Dog Biscuits (Makes about 8 dozen biscuits)

31/2 cups all-purpose flour 2 cups whole wheat

flour 1 cup rye flour 1 cup cornmeal

2 cups cracked wheat bulgar 1/2 cup nonfat dry milk

4 teaspoons salt 1 package dry yeast 2 cups chicken stock or other liquid 1 egg and 1 tablespoon milk (to brush on top) Combine all the dry ingredients except the yeast. In a separate bowl, dissolve the yeast in 1/4 cup warm water. To this, add the chicken stock. (You can use bouillon, pan drippings or water from cooking vegetables.) Add the liquid to the dry ingredients. Knead mixture for about 3 minutes. (Dough will be quite stiff. If too stiff, add extra liquid or an egg.) Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Roll the dough out on a floured board to 4-inch thickness, then immediately cut into shapes with cookie cutters. Place on an ungreased cookie sheet and brush with a wash of egg and milk. Place in oven. After 45 minutes, turn off the heat and leave biscuits overnight in the oven to get bone hard. Reprinted by

AN ATTENTIVE AUDIENCE of fourth, fifth and sixth graders in the city attended a special student concert presented by the Midland-Odessa Symphony's chamber orchestra Monday afternoon in Midland High auditorium. The annual concert was presented under auspices of the Midland Symphony Guild and its youth concerts committee.

'Night Watch': fine cast, weak play

ODESSA — "Night Watch" has many of the qualities of of a good suspense thriller, including the requisite surprise "twist" at the end. What it does not have is much drama, theatrical tension, to keep viewers on the edge of their seats before that ending is reached. This Lucille Fletcher stage work, a fairly recent Broadway item, is currently onstage at Permian Playhouse as the third attraction of the Playhouse's 1976-77 season. There may be more to this play than meets the eye in the production here but to my way of thinking, it's no match for

classic suspense thrillers around

"Angel Street" or any of the other

"Night Watch" marks the directorial debut at the Playhouse of C. L. Holloway, who became co-director of the community theater last fall. Likely, Holloway would have preferred any one of several dozen other stage comedies or dramas to initiate his Playhouse career, but the season was set before he arrived, and so "Night Watch" it was.

Holloway has assembled a believable and mainly competent cast for his production, has staged the production well and has provided a remarkably attractive set.

The drama revolves around Elaine Wheeler, insomniac and semi-invalid, and her matter-of-fact husband, John, solicitous of her well-being but skeptical of her hysterical claim that she has seen a dead body, not once but twice throgh the window of an apartment building across the courtyard.

The plot is thickened, so to speak, by several enigmatic personalities: The tender and concerned "best friend" of Elaine, an ominous maidservant, a flamboyant next-door neighbor, a lady psychiatrist, a neighborhood businessman and two police detectives who emphatically and rudely disbelieve Elaine's story of dead bodies.

Our sympathies are with the pathetic and forlorn Elaine through most of the play's two acts - for, after all, isn't she the victim, the target, of some warped and twisted mind intent on driving her mad? (Is it the husband? The best friend? What about the militant maidservant, and is the lady psychiatrist really a psychiatrist?) But, come the surprise ending we find that we are about as far off-base as those two policemen. Who has done what to whom? It's not as we thought, at all!

Diane Toomey, who has provided some excellent characterizations at Permian Playhouse and the Globe Theater in the past, turns in a finelyhoned and sensitive portrayal of the unhappy Elaine. Mike Malone as husband John does an excellent job as well. Handling the characterization of the best friend, Blanche, creditably, if not remarkably, is Gwen Renee Creech and the small part of the lady psychiatrist is handled in believable fashion by Judy Miller. Helga, the maid who seems to know too much, is played with requisite restraint by Nancy Lipscomb. The unconventional, gossipy neighbor is well played by Kerry Pell. Rounding out the cast are Charlie Guy, Cody Yates and Richard Atkins.

"Night Watch" had rather light attendance at its Friday night opening, no doubt the victim of TV's "Roots" which cut attendance at public events everywhere last week. The Playhouse will have a special performance at 8:30 p.m. today, other performances at 8:30 Friday and Saturday, and a Sunday matinee at

The five-member Federal Power Commission (there is one vacancy at present) is charged with regulating the price of natural gas that flows across state lines and with overseeing the pipelines that transport gas from the states in which it is discovered to the states in which it is burned.

The Washington Post

The agency also oversees the vast interlocking electrical power grid which covers the country. Durham said the power commission began to get worried about the winter gas problems after a survey of 19 major interstate pipelines showed sizeable deficiencies in their ability to meet committments if the winter were normal.

It was not until November, when the severe cold trends became apparent, that the commission got worried Winter really began this year in October instead of November,"

Dunham lamented. In December the commission set up special bi-weekly reporting system for pipelines so the agency could keep on top of potential problems. "But the real kick in the bucket was the first two weeks of January," when the weather turned extraordinarily cold and distribution companies had to dig deeply into their gas stores.

In the 17 northeastern states, nearly all customers but those with the highest priority such as homes and hospitals have been deprived of gas supplies, to keep pressure up in the distribution systems and assure that there is gas available in February and early March - traditionally the peak heating season.

Since mid-January Dunham and his fellow commissioners have been working long hours to approve emergency purchases of gas by interstate pipelines from unregulated. intrastate pipelines, which sell the is in the same state in which it is discovered at prices well above the federal rate.

"We've set some records in approving some of these emergency purchases," Dunham said. "Some have been approved as fast as four or five hours. In the past such approval might take days.

The commission has taken to accepting applications by wire and to validating emergency sharing of gas supplies by hard-pressed pipelines, rather than requiring formal prior approval.

"We used to meet once a week as a full commission," Dunham said in an interview. "Now we meet almost daily. We met twice last Saturday. Once last Sunday." Last Saturday

Link test rates flow

Penroc Oil Corp., Midland, No. 5 Ross Draw Unit, link test in the Ross Draw (Delaware) gas field of Eddy County, N.M., 19 miles southeast of Malaga, flowed gas at the rate of 2.35 million cubic feet per day from the upper Morrow.

The flow was on an unreported choke and perforations at 13,994-14.012 feet, following a 4,000-gallon acid treatment. The project, slated to 16,500 feet to test the Siluro-Devonian, was drilled to 16,326 feet, and has a 7%-inch liner hung from 11,200-16,015 feet. Pluggedback depth is 14,100 feet. Operator was preparing to per-forate opposite the Wolfcamp and test. It flowed gas from that zone at the rate of 790,000 cubic feet daily, on a drillstem test from 14,196-14,266 Location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 27-26s-30e, two miles north of a Loving County, Tex., Wolfcamp strike.

ROBERT A. ROSENBLATT

Los Angeles Times WASHINGTON — A Federal Power Commission hearing officer Tuesday recommended approval of a $8.5 billion pipeline project to carry Alaskan natural gas across Canada to the United States, with 30 per cent of the initial supply reserved for

The California Public Utilities Commission and the state's major gas utility firms were strong backers of the 4,100-mile pipeline network proposed by the Alaskan Arctic Gas

Pipeline Co. Nahum Litt, an FPC administrative law judge who presided over 253 days of hearings, said the Arctic Gas proposal would bring natural gas to market "cheaper and more reliably" than two competing projects. Litt rejected plans submitted by El Paso Alaska Co., and the Alcan Pipeline

The Arctic Gas pipeline would run from Prudhoe Bay on Alaska's North Slope, where oil and natural gas are produced, east into Canada, and then south to Alberta, where the line would divide into two sections. The western leg would run down into the United States, passing through Washington and Oregon, and into California. An eastern section would run through Montana, the Dakotas, Iowa and Illinois. Litt's ruling was an important, but far from conclusive step, in determining how the rich reserves of

Alaskan natural gas will reach American markets. The full Federal Power Commission will consider Litt's ruling. then offer a final recommendation to President Carter by May 1. The President is expected to pick a final route by Sept. 1. His choice can be overruled by a congressional resolution, requiring House and supports Alaska line Natural gas is expected to begin flowing through the pipelines five or six years after a route is approved. Shipments would start at 2.25 billion cubic feet per day, 5 per cent of present demand. The western leg of the Arctic Gas pipeline would funnel 660 million cubic feet daily into California, with two-thirds going into the distribution system of Southern California Gas Co., and the rest reserved for Pacific

Gas and Electric Co. The Federal Power Commission staff had opposed a pipeline leg for the Western states. However, Litt strongly supported the idea of a pipeline branch for the Pacific States. The promise of equal access for both the East and the West to Alaskan gas was promoted as one of the chief benefits of the Arctic Gas

plan, according to Litt. The Arctic Gas study group, which sponsored the pipeline plan recommended Tuesday, includes nine interstate pipeline companies (aced with severe supply shortages beyond this winter. The group expects their supplies to meet only 74 per cent of their customers' demands by 1985.

If the Arctic Gas proposal falls through, a plan submitted by El Paso Alaska, a unit of El Paso Natural Gas Co., would be acceptable, Litt said. It calls for construction of a pipeline across Alaska, paralleling the route of the oil pipeline. The gas would be liquefied, poured into refrigerated tankers, and carried to a terminal on the coast of California

The third competitor, Alcan Pipeline Co., was backed by Northwest Energy Corp. and several Canadian firms. Litt's ruling dismissed this design as inefficient and uneconomic, and said the financing plan was "totally unsupported" by evidence. The Alcan line would follow a portion of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline, then move east into Canada and south toward the United States

By MIKE DOAN

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) - The chairman of the House Assassinations Committee, given two months to prove his panel should stay in business, says he has new evidence that indicates the killers of John F

Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr did not act alone. After the House voted Wednesday night to continue the panel through March 31, Rep. Henry Gonzalez. D-Tex., told reporters that he has new uncorroborated evidence of conspiracies in each assassination. We have threshold evidence, no yet completely corroborated and cross-checked, that indicates the strong possibility that James Earl Ray did not act alone" in the King slaying and that Lee Harvey Oswald was not alone in killing Kennedy, said The assassinations panel was established last September, but a controversy developed over its Sprague. The two-month extension was a compromise, and Gonzalez will have to work with $84,000 a month. Gonzalez said the new evidence had developed since the committee issued its preliminary report in December. He declined to elaborate, saying it might jeopardize the investigation.

and he stressed that the leads still have to be checked out closely. His remarks conflicted directly with a Justice Department report leaked earlier Wednesday that concluded Ray alone killed King. After a 10-month investigation, a team of Justice Department lawyers rejected theories that Ray was only a cog in a conspiracy to assassinate the

The report, completed several weeks ago, was withheld from formal publication so it would not influence the House vote Justice Department sources said. But opponents of the assassination committee cited the report Wednesday. Supporters said they found the timing of the leak, suspicious "I find it very irregular I have not

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Stuart Long, Aldwell Ranch - Burns 63, widely known Texas newspaperman and author, died here

early today after a long illness. Long, a native of Abilene, had been a state Capitol correspondent most of the time since he finished the University of Texas in 1936. For many years he operated the Long News Service, serving a number of Texas newpaper and radio stations and was part owner of the service at his death. He also served as an Austin correspondent for a number of newspapers including the New York Times. Long had been a reporter and editor for the old International News Service, the New York newspaper PM and the Austin American. He had been a newsman and commentator for several Austin radio and TV stations. The Long News Service also published the Austin Insurance Report, Austin Report, Texas Pollution Report, Texas Water Report, Texas Finance Report and Texas Transporation Report news tetters.

With Sam Kinch Sr., Long was author of the book "Allan Shivers:

Pied Piper of Texas Politics." Long was a former president of the Texas Association of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society. He was a member of the State School Land Board, which administers Texas' public school lands. He formerly served on the President's Water Pollution Control Advisory Board, which advises the Secretary of

Interior on water pollution tters. In January, 1976, Long was honored by the Texas Water Quality Board in recognition of "outstandinl commitment to informing the public" on water quality matters Survivors include his wife, Emma, a former Austin city council member. and two sons, Jeff and Jeb.

When news of Long's death reached House members, Speaker Bill Clayton interrupted proceedings and had all the state representatives stand in silent prayer.

Funeral services will be 3:30 p.m. Saturday in Austin with burial following in the State Cemetery.

Market gives ground

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market gave ground again today in an atmosphere of cold-weather worries and political uncertainty.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, off 5.57 to a new early-1977 low on Wednesday, dropped another 4.07 to 948.72 by noontime today.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 7-4 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed

Analysts noted lingering uneasiness over the effects of severe winter weather on the economic outlook.

They also reported conern that Congress might change President Carter's economicstimulus plan, adding spending programs Wall Street would consider inflationary and at the same time resisting tax breaks for business.

Amerada Hess topped the active list, down % at 33%. The NYSE's composite ndex of all its listed common stocks fell .21 to 55.47. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .42 at 112.64. Volume on the Big Board tailed off to 10.03 million shares over the first two hours from 11.08 million in the comparable period on Wednesday. Peabody International which dropped merger talks with Weatherford In ternational, rose a point to

Dear Dr. Solomon: My husband has been stripping some old furniture we picked up at a country auction and which we are planning to repaint. He has been working in the basement, but I'm not sure there is enough ventilation down there-just those tiny little windows high up that look out on the garden at ground level. Isn't this apt to be dangerous?-

Dear Adelaide: Yes, it certainly can be. Inhalation of paint remover is a well-known hazard. And a recent study from the Medical College of Wisconsin as identified a new danger: heart attack.

The Wisconsin researchers were alerted by the case of a retired man who had taken up furniture refinishing as a hobby and who suffered three heart attacks-the last one fatal. They decided to do some tests on healthy volunteers. What they discovered was that nethylene chloride, a solvent used in many paint removers, is rapidly changed to carbon monoxide when breathed.

Carbon monoxide cuts down the blood's oxygencarrying capacity, and this puts a strain on the heart muscle, as it is not getting enough oxygen. The researchers also found that the carbon monoxide level in the blood continued to rise even after exposure to the paint remover vapors had ended.

The best place for your husband to strip paint off furniture is out of doors. But remind him to wear goggles and protective gloves, because paint remover can do a lot of damage to eyes and skin. And, of course, keep the stuff away from children.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My husband and I are planning a trip to Mexico and Central America and have been warned about drinking the water. Is there anything else we should avoid? - Myra L. Dear Myra: In addition to avoiding unpurifed drinking water, avoid ice cubes and do not eat unpeeled fruits and vegetables, including salads, that might be contaminared by such water.

The water could contain the diarrhea-producing variant of the microbe E. Coli, a rod shaped creature that inhabits all human intestines, or it could contain salmonella, shigella or a variety of more exotic bugs. To be safe, drink boiled water or bottled water that you can cap yourself or beer, tea, or wine

Tax help, legal advice offered

First Christian Church's Senior Service Office is offering Midland's elderly free assistance in filling out income tax returns and some limited legal ad-

The two services will be offered weekly in the Fellowship room in the church, located at 1301 W. Louisiana Ave.

On five consecutive Mondays, beginning trained volunteers will be available for tax-return preparation from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 3

The volunteers are all senior citizens who recently completed an Internal Revenue Service course sponsored by Midland Retired Teachers.

Retired attorney R. T. Harris will be available for consultations on routine legal forms and procedures. The lawyer will give consultations every Wednesday from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Midland College's Roadrunner bus service for the elderly will provide bus transportation. Bus reservations and appointments for tax aid or legal assistance may be made by telephoning 682-7577.

Proposed swap hits obstacle

By ANDY WELCH

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN-The Texas House of Representatives may require a certified appraisal before the state Employment Commission and a Midland bank can trade adjoining property.

Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland encountered that stumbling block Wednesday evening to legislation which has already passed the Senate. Any changes by the House would require the bill to return for Senate action again.

As outlined before the House State Affairs Committee by Cradick, the legislation would allow the Texas Employment Commission and The First National Bank of Midland to exchange lots of approximately 12,000 square feet and 14,000 square feet, respectively. The exchange would allow both concerns to then have adjoining property available for future expan-

TEC General Counsel Steve Hollahan testified for the proposal, saying the state was "getting a piece of property more valuable" than the one it was giving

However, the objection came from Rep. Al Brown of San Antonio, who said he lerned from personal ex-perience two years ago about the benefit of an appraisal when "the state's money" is involved. That incident involved the purchase of a parcel of in-dustrial property in Bexar County at a cost of $750,000.

Craddick said the property being sought by the Employment Commission was paved and striped for parking, and could be used at some future time if funds are appropriated for expansion of the building.

The legislation was referred by Chairman Tom Uber of Bay City to a subcommittee, which will apparently decide on the need for an appraisal, before reporting back its recommendations to the full 15member panel.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My husband has been stripping some old furniture we picked up at a country auction and which we are planning to repaint. He has been working in the basement, but I'm not sure there is enough ventilation down there—just those tiny little windows high up that look out on the garden at ground level. Isn't this apt to be dangerous?-

Dear Adelaide: Yes, it certainly can be. Inhalation of paint remover is a well-known hazard. And a recent study from the Medical College of Wisconsin

as identified a new danger: heart attack.

The Wisconsin researchers were alerted by the case of a retired man who had taken up furniture refinishing as a hobby and who suffered three heart attacks-the last one fatal. They decided to do some tests on healthy volunteers. What they discovered was that nethylene chloride, a solvent used in many paint removers, is rapidly changed to carbon monoxide when breathed.

Carbon monoxide cuts down the blood's oxygencarrying capacity, and this puts a strain on the heart muscle, as it is not getting enough oxygen. The researchers also found that the carbon monoxide level in the blood continued to rise even after ex-posure to the paint remover vapors had ended. The best place for your husband to strip paint of furniture is out of doors. But remind him to wear goggles and protective gloves, because paint remover can do a lot of damage to eyes and skin And, of course, keep the stuff away from children

Dear Dr. Solomon: My husband and I are planning a trip to Mexico and Central America and have been warned about drinking the water. Is there anything else we should avoid? — Myra L.

Dear Myra: In addition to avoiding unpurifed drinking water, avoid ice cubes and do not eat unpeeled fruits and vegetables, including salads, that might be contaminared by such water

The water could contain the diarrhea-producing variant of the microbe E. Coli, a rod shaped creature that inhabits all human intestines, or it could contain salmonella, shigella or a variety of more exotic bugs To be safe, drink boiled water or bottled water that

Olsak elected by Lamesa group

Texas Electric Service Co. office, has been named to succeed J. D. Dyer as president of Lamesa Industrial Foundation.

The foundation held its annual meeting last Thursday in Lamesa and elected officers and directors for three-year terms.

Olsak is a former member of the board of directors and helped with industrial prospecting, tract development, team training and other aspects of industrial relations in Lamesa for several years. Other officers and board members selected include: Dick Griffin, president of Dotty Dan Manufacturing Co., vice president; Don Bryant, vice president of Lamesa Federal Savings and Loan, reelected as secretary-treasurer; Lloyd Cline, president of First National Bank, director; Jake Broyles, farmer and rancher, director; Ed Fulbright, attorney, director; Keith McCormick, partner in McCormick Oil Co., director, and Don Stephens, certified public accountant, director. In addition, Dale Newberry will replace George

Norman on the board with a term expiring in January 1978, and Ron Cloud of Sentry Savings and Loan was named to replace Vice President Griffin on the board. Cloud's term ends in 1978. A five-man executive committee was also elected

and includes Dyer, Olsak, Griffin, Bryant and Walter

Gas bill protester attacks 'hizzoner'

JENA, La. (AP) - Glenda Rose, 29, was furious over a $20 increase in her gas bill. So, police said, she stormed into town hall and hit the mayor over the

Mrs. Rose was booked on suspicion of aggravated battery and aggravated assault. She then swore out a warrant accusing Mayor Orland Sandifer with battery.

Both were released under bond. Sandifer said he told Mrs. Rose that the increase in her gas bill was a result of increases in the wholesale price in gas, and that the entire town was affected. But police said the explanation didn't satisfy Mrs. Rose. They said she cursed the mayor, hit him in the head with her fist and tried to kick him before she

FPC facing big job monitoring supplies

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Richard L. Dunham is the man in the middle of the latest energy crisis the nation

The 47-year-old chairman of the Federal Power Commission has been working seven-day weeks monitoring the dwindling supplies of natural gas, approving emergency purchases of gas and, last week at least, worrying about strains on the nation's ability to generate electricity.

The five-member Federal Power Commission (there is one vacancy at present) is charged with regulating the price of natural gas that flows across state lines and with overseeing the pipelines that transport gas from the states in which it is discovered to the states in which it is burned.

The agency also oversees the vast interlocking electrical power grid which covers the country.

Durham said the power commission began to get worried about the winter gas problems after a survey of 19 major interstate pipelines showed sizeable deficiencies in their ability to meet committments if the winter were normal.

It was not until November, when the severe cold trends became apparent, that the commission got worried. Winter really began this year in October instead of November,"

Dunham lamented. In December the commission set up special bi-weekly reporting system for pipelines so the agency could keep on top of potential problems. "But the real kick in the bucket was the first two weeks of January," when the weather turned extraordinarily cold and distribution companies had to dig deeply into their gas stores.

In the 17 northeastern states, nearly all customers but those with the highest priority such as homes and hospitals have been deprived of gas supplies, to keep pressure up in the distribution systems and assure that there is gas available in February and early March - traditionally the peak heating season.

Since mid-January Dunham and his fellow commissioners have been working long hours to approve emergency purchases of gas by interstate pipelines from unregulated, intrastate pipelines, which sell the gas in the same state in which it is discovered at prices well above the

"We've set some records in approving some of these emergency purchases," Dunham said. "Some have been approved as fast as four or five hours. In the past such approval might take days. The commission has taken to accepting applications by wire and to validating emergency sharing of gas supplies by hard-pressed pipelines, rather than requiring formal prior approval.

But each one of the extraordinary decisions must be made by the commission — not by the staff or by Dunham alone "We used to meet once a week as a full commission," Dunham said in an interview. "Now we meet almost daily. We met twice last Saturday. Once last Sunday." Last Saturday

Course Scheduled

The West Texas Geological Society is sponsoring a comprehensive carbonate short course, "Ancient Car-bonate Reservoirs and Their Modern Analogs," Monday and Tuesday.

The four sessions of the course will be from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m. Monday and from 8:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. and from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The course will be presented at the Midland Community Theater by Drs. James Lee Wilson of Rice University and Richard Rezak of Texas A&M University.

Cost, including the short course book, is $25.

Texas Education Center, Pliska Drive, Midland Regional Air Ter-Classes will be from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Saturday, and from 2 to 6 p. m.

Dr. Jim Lewis, assistant director of planning and evaluation at the West Texas Education Center, will be the instructor. The sourse uses a transactional analysis approach toward improving leadership proficiency. Techniques for improving self-perception and self-understanding will underscore the emphasized areas: interpersonal relationships, problem solving. decision making and methods for improving communications.

Dunham missed the commission meeting - it was chaired by commissioner James Watt — because he was at the White House conferring on the energy crisis with Carter Administration officials.

Dunham, his fellow commissioners and top staff officials missed the inauguration of President Carter as well. The Federal Power Commission spent the day holding hearings and taking action on a variety of measures designed to get more gas flowing in the interstate pipelines.

Dunham was named by President Ford to head the commission in 1975. President Carter is expected to name a replacement soon. Dunham was an aide to former Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, serving finally as budget director of the state of New York. When Rockefeller became vice president, Dunham joined his staff and later became deputy director of the White House Demostic Council. which Rockefeller chaired.

FPC hearing officer supports Alaska line

ROBERT A. ROSENBLATT Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - A Federal Power Commission hearing officer Tuesday recommended approval of a $8.5 billion pipeline project to carry Alaskan natural gas across Canada to the United States, with 30 per cent of the initial supply reserved for California.

The California Public Utilities Commission and the state's major gas utility firms were strong backers of the 4,100-mile pipeline network proposed by the Alaskan Arctic Gas

Nahum Litt, an FPC administrative law judge who presided over 253 days of hearings, said the Arctic Gas proposal would bring natural gas to market "cheaper and more reliably" than two competing projects. Litt rejected plans submitted by El Paso Alaska Co., and the Alcan Pipeline

The Arctic Gas pipeline would run from Prudhoe Bay on Alaska's North Slope, where oil and natural gas are produced, east into Canada, and then south to Alberta, where the line would divide into two sections. The western leg would run down into the United States, passing through Washington and Oregon, and into California. An eastern section would run through Montana, the Dakotas, Iowa and Illinois. Litt's ruling was an important, but far from conclusive step, in determining how the rich reserves of

Alaskan natural gas will reach American markets. The full Federal Power Commission will consider Litt's ruling. then offer a final recommendation to President Carter by May 1. The President is expected to pick a final route by Sept. 1. His choice can be overruled by a congressional resolution, requiring House and

Senate passage. Huge volumes of natural gas underlay the North Slope oil fields. Natural gas is expected to begin flowing through the pipelines five or six years after a route is approved. Shipments would start at 2.25 billion cubic feet per day, 5 per cent of present demand

The western leg of the Arctic Gas pipeline would funnel 660 million cubic feet daily into California, with two-thirds going into the distribution system of Southern California Gas Co., and the rest reserved for Pacific

The Federal Power Commission staff had opposed a pipeline leg for the Western states. However, Litt strongly supported the idea of a pipeline branch for the Pacific States. The promise of equal access for both the East and the West to Alaskan gas was promoted as one of the chief benefits of the Arctic Gas

plan, according to Litt. The Arctic Gas study group, which sponsored the pipeline plan recommended Tuesday, includes nine interstate pipeline companies faced with severe supply shortages beyond this winter. The group expects their supplies to meet only 74 per cent of their customers' demands by 1985.

If the Arctic Gas proposal falls through, a plan submitted by El Paso Alaska, a unit of El Paso Natural Gas Co., would be acceptable, Litt said. It calls for construction of a pipeline across Alaska, paralleling the route of the oil pipeline. The gas would be liquefied, poured into refrigerated tankers, and carried to a terminal on the coast of California.

The third competitor, Alcan Pipeline Co., was backed by Northwest Energy Corp. and several Canadian firms. Litt's ruling dismissed this design as inefficient and uneconomic, and said the financing plan was "totally unsupported" by evidence. The Alcan line would follow a portion of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline, then move east into Canada and south toward the United States.

Cleary has oil strike

Cleary Petroleum Corp., Midland, has completed its No. 1-74-A Cunningham-Davis as a San Andres oil strike in Gaines County, and has proposed field designation of Homann (San Andres).

The well had a 24-hour pumping potential of 101 barrels of oil, gravity not reported, plus 25 barrels of water. with gas-oil ratio measuring 385-1.

Completion was through perforations at 5,314-5,406 feet, following a 100-gallon acid treatment. Drilled to 5,500 feet, it has 512-inch casing set at 5,490 feet. Wellsite is 853 feet from north and 990 feet from west lines of section 74, block G. WTRR survey, seven miles northeast of Seminole.

Energy shortage 'U.S. failure'

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - When floods and tornadoes strike, the National Guard is rushed to the rescue. When the nation's economy falters, government experts hurry forward with fiscal and monetary smelling salts. But last week, with the eastern twothirds of the country caught between the worst winter in modern times and a fuel crisis that threatened lives, property, and the livelihood of thousands. Washington made a painful

Emergency actions can almost certainly avert wholesale personal of misery. Beyond these ameliorative steps, however, there really is not much the government can do to solve the basic problem. As officials of the fledgling Carter Administration hastened to point out. no White House edict could dissolve ice jams that stretched 70 miles and more along sections of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, trapping barges ladden with fuel oil for the Midwest No amount of presidential jawboning could push more natural gas through pipelines in the unexpectedly frigid South, lines that already are pumping at full capacity but still cannot meet demands created by weather the engineers never dreamed of. Not even the enormous majorities commanded by Democrats in Congress and the presence of a member of their own party in the White House could brush aside the regional rivalries and divergent economic interests that promised to paralyze all but the most moderate proposals for emergency legislation. And, most important of all, government and private experts agreed, nothing Washington or anyone else does now can squeeze substantially more natural gas from long-dwindling domestic fields — not in time to help the embattled South, Midwest, or East if severe weather persists. What has happened, specialists are

Mother Nature has accomplished in a few savage weeks what all the energy Jeremiahs and Cassandras had failed to achieve in the three years since the Arab oil embargo added "energy crisis" to the American lexicon: The Winter of '77 has brought the nation face to face with the realities of its energy problems, and with the tangle of interlocking relationships,

almost unanimous in agreeing, is that risks, and vulnerabilities that stem from those realities. 'Instead of coming up on the country gradually," one high-level analyst at the Federal Energy Administration mused last week, "it has hit us like a sledge hammer in the forehead."

In part, the present crisis springs from the fact that record cold weather has placed demands on the nation's fuel delivery systems which they were never designed to meet, particularly in the South. Far more important, analysts

agree, the weather has exposed the country's failure to agree upon workable policies on natural gas, oil, conservation, and a host of other energy issues. Thus, while the scrambling of government officials and others may well avert immediate catastrophe, it will do almost nothing to avert the profound social, political, and economic costs of the crisis - costs that will continue to sap the nation's is over. Distant and incredible as it all might seem to a West coast basking in unusually mild weather, the effects of the unprecedented cold and snow bat-

vitality months after the Winter of '77

tering the rest of the nation were clear enough from government statistics. The Federal Power Commission, which regulates interstate pipelines. estimated last Friday that 8,9000 industrial plants have been closed and 548,000 workers laid off because of natural gas shortages and the

Significantly, the FPC's estimate of crisis-related unemployment was up sharply from 400,000 estimated by the government only two days earlier. The speed with which the statistics had escalated was particularly alarming because most of the states east of the Rockies were shuddering through the coldest weekend of the winter thus far and the effects of those new strains on fuel supplies are still to be felt in the economy. In testimony urging prompt passage of President Carter's emergency natural gas bill, which would allow the government to shift interstate gas supplies to regions of greatest need to protect lives and pro-perty and to lift federal price controls on interstate gas until Aug. 1, White House energy chief James R. Schlesinger noted that even before Christmas the winter was running 20 per cent colder than normal nation-

The Southeast has sustained temperatures 40 per cent to 50 per cent colder than normal this winter, Schlesinger added

National Weather Service Friday predicted unusually cold weather through February for the eastern twothirds of the nation. More troublesome than the recordsetting plunges in temperature has been the persistence of the cold, a pattern visible in statistics on what heating specialists call "degree days." (A technical term corrolating outdoor temperature, the population, and fuel consumption, the degree day figure reflects the need to run indoor heating systems.) The increase in degree days this winter has been phenomenal. Ohio, for example, would normally have ac-

above normal. Florida, which normally would have had 395 degree days by Jan. 23, had experienced 680 degree days by that time this year. What all this translates into is an unparalleled surge in demand for fuels of all kinds — natural gas, heating oil, electricity, propane, and

cumulated 3060 degree-days by late

January, according to FEA chief analyst John D. Christie. This year, the degree-day total stood at 4,200 -

an increase of more than 30 per cent

This surge in fuel demand, coupled with the severe weather itself, has hit other parts of the nation's complex, interrelated energy system like the proverbial domino that falls and topples an endless line of other dominos.

To understand how this happens it is necessary to remember that neither the United States nor any other large industrial nation produces all the fuel it needs on a continuous. contemporaneous basis. Instead, fuel is produced and stockpiled during seasonal periods of low demand for use during periods of high demand. Refineries churn out reserves of fuel oil in the spring and summer for winter use, then switch to gasoline production in winter to get ready for the summer driving season. Similarly, natural gas is stored in warm weather to meet peak demands in winter. Even pumping full tilt, U.S. gas wells cannot begin to keep up with normal winter demand, much less the requirements of a record-cold season. The difference between actual production and demand must be met from storage.

Los Angeles: 1,100,000 illegal aliens by 1981

The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — More than a million illegal aliens will live in Los Angeles by 1981 if they continue to reach the city at the alarming rate of the last five years.

That is one of the conclusions in a "briefing paper" prepared by a Los Angeles Police Department task force. The report was presented at a recent meeting of staff officers.

The Illegal Alien Committee, composed of three LAPD commanders, a sergeant and a police officer, also concluded that:

-The presence of an estimated 650,000 illegal aliens now living in the city as a "hidden" population dilutes LAPD services, so that the "thin blue

-The image of the illegal alien as a servile person who stays out of trou-ble at all costs is no longer accurate. The involvement of illegals in crime appears to be increasing.

-The Immigration and Naturalization Service's resources are grossly inadequate to stop illegal immigration. The threat of penalty is not a sufficient deterrent because chances of an illegal alien getting caught are so

-The solution to the great social depends on passing the necessary federal legislation, providing the estimates to reach the conclusion that - if conditions remain unchanged -1,110,000 illegals will live in Los Angeles by 1981.

According to the INS, illegal aliens in the city increased from an estimated 190,000 in 1971 to 650,000 in late 1976, a 242 per cent increase. The LAPD study group projected that rate of increase and concluded, "This may be considered a conservative projec-

Police Chief Edward M. Davis said problem of illegal immigration in an interview that it is obvious no one can take a census of illegal aliens because no one will open the door and resources and giving the problem say, "I am an illegal alien. Arrest me. Nevertheless, he supported the use of INS estimates by the LAPD. He 3,474,828 persons in Los Angeles, instead of the 2,824,828 residents the Border Patrol people, all of them, are people of good faith."

Davis accused the federal government of "being neglect" of the illegal alien problem by failing to provide the INS and Border patrol with enough resources.

He said "virtual nonenforcement of federal immigration laws" has created "tremendous" lawenforcement problems, but the federal government pays nothing to help local authorities to cope with

One of those problems, according to the task force, is a stretching of LAPD counted officially.

When an estimated 650,000 illegal aliens are added to the census figure, the report said, the LAPD's ratio of 2.63 officers per thousand residents drops to 2.14 per thousand, an 18.6 per cent decrease. "The actual population, which is 23 per cent larger than the census, causes a significant diminution in police services provided," the briefing paper said.

"Based on per capita expenditures the cost of providing police services to illegal alien residents in the City of Los Angeles was $37,050,000."

LAPD researchers could find no citywide statistics measuring the level of crime committed by illegal aliens, but they said:

"If we assume that illegal aliens commit no more or less crime than the general population, we could impute a share of the crime load to this group based on their percentage representation in the general popula-

"This would be 18.7 per cent of the crimes committed." Whether this crime level extrapolation is higher or lower than the actual is not as significant as the fact that any crime committed by an illegal alien should not be occurring in the City of Los

By CECILY BROWN-STONE

AP Food Editor At holiday time last December I received an amusing surprise. My friend Betty McNeill brought me a Santa Claus, bedecked with colored sprinkles, that looked like a cookie.

"Don't eat it!" Betty said. "Although it's full of food things. It's a dog biscuit. I made some for Tiber (Betty's black-andtan smooth dachshund) and his friends. Dogs get a whiff of the chicken stock I cooked to put in it and they go bananas. Cats love the biscuits, too. I thought you might like to use the recipe in your column."

I was fascinated because I had never heard of anyone baking dog biscuits - let alone putting homemade chicken stock in them. Betty found the recipe in the December-January issue of "Apartment Life" (a magazine put out by the publishers of "Better Homes and Gardens"), to which she subscribes. Because I am dogless and always try the recipes I recommend on my own tasters, I sent Betty's dog biscuit home with my assistant for her German Shepherd. According to her report, he ate it with gusto in one twink. When I looked over the recipe Betty had used, I noticed it had been devised for "Apartment Life" by my friend Bernie Clayton who wrote "The Complete Book of Breads' (for humans), the best cookbook of its kind. No wonder the recipe works well.

With Valentine's Day around the corner. Betty made some heart-shape dog biscuits for Tiber and his friend Willi, a red longhair dachshund. Willi belongs to Betty's neighbor, photographer Haidi Kuhn, who caught Tiber of Teckwell and Willi waiting for their canine valentines and presented the picture to

31/2 cups all-purpose flour 2 cups whole wheat

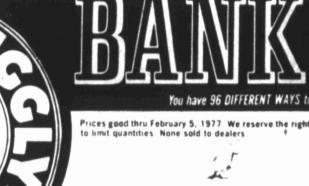

flour 1 cup rye flour 1 cup cornmeal 2 cups cracked wheat

bulgar 1/2 cup nonfat dry milk 4 teaspoons salt

1 package dry yeast 2 cups chicken stock or other liquid

1 egg and 1 tablespoon milk (to brush on top) Combine all the dry ingredients except the yeast. In a separate bowl, dissolve the yeast in 1/4 cup warm water. To this, add the chicken stock (You can use bouillon, pan drippings or water from cooking vegetables.) Add the liquid to the dry ingrefients. Knead mixture for about 3 minutes. (Dough will be quite stiff. If too stiff, add extra liquid or an egg.) Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Roll the dough out on a floured board to 14-inch thickness, then immediately cut into shapes with cookie cutters. Place on an ungreased cookie sheet and brush with a wash of egg and milk. Place in oven. After 45 minutes, turn off the heat and leave biscuits overnight in the oven to get bone hard. Reprinted by courtesy of the magazine,

Beware of the Polish curse

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

Some mid-week thoughts and a Polish curse on all my sports writing colleagues who are trying to portray sweet little Dorothy as a chain smoking, whiskey drinking ingrate, who hangs around with tulip-carrying Hollywood types and turns her skates on all of her friends.

If the Minnesota Vikings had lost to Washington or Los Angeles in the NFC playoffs and never reached the Super Bowl, they wouldn't have attracted a fifth of the criticism they have for "losing the big one." Seventy-five per cent of the National Football League players never get the opportunity to play in the Super Bowl. Why should a team be publicly admonished for getting farther than every club in football, save one?

SPEAKING OF the Vikings, how need nine, ten and sometimes more? There will come a day soon, when staffs will become so specialized there will be an assistant in charge of helping players go to the

The Texas Sports Writers Association recently censured Rice and Texas Stadiums because of complaints received from some of the organization's members. Rice got their hand slapped for turning off the power in the press box while writers were still working. The Irving com-plex was publicly whipped for denying members of the working press use of the stadium's press box for a high school playoff game because of a private party that was being held inside.

Talk about hard luck. Recently, the Florida University basketball team was beaten on the road by Southeastern Conference rival Georgia, 92-82. Then, on their way back to Gainesville, the university-owned DC-3 carrying the team had to make an emergency landing in Macon, Georgia after one of the

Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy is thankful that his team does not take basketball polls too seriously.

'We haven't talked about them (polls) all year," said Tacy Wednesday night after his fifth-rated Deacons defeated Duke 89-80 in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball

"We notice the polls, though," he added. "And I think we're looking better than the sixth-place (ACC) finish predicted for us at the beginning of he season.

Indeed, they are. The Deacons now are 17-2 over-all and lead the tough ACC with a 6-1 record.

FORWARD ROD Griffin sparked Wake Forest to its lastest victory with 28 points.

"He's playing better than anyone in the league right now," said Tacy. "He's just meant so much to us in every game we've played. "They're a very quick team," said Duke Coach Bill Foster. "We tried to play more of a tempo game (without the fast break), but turnovers killed us. We don't practice turnovers, but we seem to be very good at them.

"Wake Forest is playing very loose and poised right now. And they shot very well down the stretch," added

In other games involving rated teams, Pittsburgh upset No. 12 Cincinnati 65-64 on a 22- foot jump shot by junior Larry Harris at the final buzzer; Arkansas, No. 14, routed Southern Methodist 81-58 in a Southwest Conference game, and 20th-rated Detroit beat Eastern Michigan 87-82.

'The bench told me to take the shot, even if I was doubleteamed," said Harris, whose winning basket gave Pitt's leading scorer 31 points for the game.

"We've got to start to believe in ourselves," addeedd Harris after the 4-14 Panthers upended Cincinnati,

"We have made Tulane and now Pitt's season," remarked Cincinnati assistant coach Gary McPherson, referring to a loss to the Green Wave earlier this season.

"Pitt played as inspired as we played uninspired," he added. "We had them on the ropes early but we didn't have the killer instinct. We played a poor game. We contributed vastly to their success."

that isn't too strange FPC brings a 4-7 WJCC and 11-11 overall record into tonight's game and instead of a contender, they lurk like a spoiler in the bushes.

With 6-8 James Lyons, Gerald Booker, Robert White and Paul Bantley, FPC is a team that can make trouble on any given night.

MIDLAND WON the first meeting at Borger, 93-87, as Ricky Hudgins scored 22 points, Jackson Pace 16 and Alvin Mayes 15. Booker's 24 and 20 more by White topped FPC while

John Long scored 32 points and Terry Tyler 25 for 17-1 Detroit, which has won 16 straight games.

In other Wednesday night action, John Gerdy scored 28 points as Davidson nipped the Citadel 62-60 in a Southern Conference game; freshman Jo Jo Hunter scored a career-high 20 points, leading Maryland over Virginia 82-67 in the ACC; freshman Darryl Gladden hit two free throws with three seconds left, giving La Salle a 71-70 upset over Villanova in the second half of a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia after St. Joseph's, Pa. downed American 77-70.

Nine consecutive points by Glenn Williams and a 28-point performance by George Johnson sparked St. John's over Georgetown 82-66, while Fordham snapped its 10-game losing streak with a 68-53 victory over CCNY.

MIAMI OF Ohio snapped Northern Illinois' five-game winning streak and took over first place in the Mid-American Conference with a 99-91 triumph as Archie Aldridge scored 28 points for the winners. Central Michigan outscored Toledo 88-81 in another MAC game.

SEATTLE (AP) - Chris Evert won another tennis match, but only after having her service broken three straight times in the first set.

And after recovering to beat Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-4, 6-1 Wednesday night in the second round of a $100,000 women's tournament, the top-seeded star from Fort Lauderdale, Fla. said: "I think that's my problem—the more I play, the harder it is for me to get inspired on the

Miss Simionescu was signed to a smaller contract, estimated at $20,000, for the 1977 season. The two schools, Arizona in Tucson and ASU in Tempe, have been invited to join the Pacific Eight Conference in 1978. But the presidents of the other WAC schools are holding firm on keeping Arizona and ASU to their football commitments through 1981.

'We were unable to get them to even consider a compromise. Arizona President John Schaefer said after the WAC presidents refused Tuesday night to let the two schools out of their scheducles. "We will essentially be independents for at least four years," he said.

BUT IN the meantime, the WAC President's Council, knowing two members are leaving, said it would begin taking applications for expansion until the end of March

"We hope expansion would proceed as soon as possible after that," said Commissioner Stan Bates. There was no indication how many schools might be accepted, but speculation was that the WAC might become a 10-team league.

"would alleviate the scheduling problems of Arizona and Arizona State," indicating the Arizona schools may eventually get what they want - the freedom to compete in 1978 for the Rose Bowl berth and Pac-10 crown, as the league will eventually be called.

"We have an application already prepared," said Utah State Athletic Director Ladell Anderson. "We're going to do whatever is necessary to make known our interest." Anders said adding four teams would compensate nicely for the loss of the Arizona schools.

"WE WANT to actively make something happen," said San Jose State Athletic Director Don Murphy. "I'll be on the next plane to Denver if Stan wants to discuss it." Murphy also said there has been some discussion of merging the WAC with the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. Other schools voicing interest, but less enthusiastically, were San Diego State, New Mexico State, Hawaii and the University of Nevada-Las Vegas. Bates said applications from interested schools would be reviewed

Young 'shot down' again for comment

The Washington Post

 ${\bf WASHINGTON-The\ State\ Department\ officially}$ took issue Wednesday with U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young's contention that Cuban troops "bring a certain stability and order" to Angola.

But Young appeared unperturbed by his dif-ferences with official policy in an interview Tuesday, just before departing for Africa on his first official trip abroad. He defined his role in the Carter administration as "a kind of point man," taking positions on issues before formal policy is declared.

Whether the conflict between Young and his boss, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, was real or apparent there were no reprimands or angry words but rather the promise of public differences in the future between the U.N. Ambassador and the State Department briefing room.

Wednesday's State Department comments appeared to fall somewhere between a clarification and a reversal. They marked the latest example of revised pronouncements by Carter administration

Speaking for Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, spokesman Frederick Z. Brown said:

'Neither Ambassador Young nor the secretary condones the presence of Cuban troops in Angola.' Young, in a CBS interview last week, had said that "there's a sense in which the Cubans bring a certain stability and order - to Angola, for instance ...

That statement cut right across former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's insistence that a with-drawal of all organized Cuban troops in Angola is a prequisite to normalizing U.S. relations with Cuba.

To Kissinger, the presence of Soviet-supported Cuban forces in Angola was a global symbol of Soviet "adventurism." State Department officials estimate that 10,000 to 15,000 Cuban troops are still in Angola. supporting a Marxist-oriented regime which defeated western-supported factions.

State Department spokesman Brown was asked Wednesday if the new statement, which amplified Vance's milder efforts on Monday to disclaim the Young statement, represented "a retraction" of the Young remark.

Brown, determined to avoid any characterization, said: "I'm saying precisely what I mean to say on the subject, regardless of what Ambassador Young was quoted as saying several days ago.' Asked if Vance agrees with Young that the Cuban forces in Angola are a force for "stability," however, Brown bluntly responded, "No."

State Department officials said afterward, in response to questions, that the "exact language" used Wednesday on not condoning the Cuban troop presence had not been cleared with Young. But it represented Young's "overall position," they maintained, as he had expressed it in talks with several officials in the Department.

Nevertheless, the overall result clearly was an official knockdown of Young's original remarks on

In an interview at the United Nations just before he left for Africa to explore new U.S. policy options on majority rule in southern Africa, Young said that he had spoken with Vance about his unorthodox concept of his role as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Young said he told Vance that to preserve "the right to say what I really believe, I'd be willing to repudiated by him whenever it was officially necessary. I got no ego problems about that, what-

In less than a week on the U.N. job, Young already had been repudiated three times by the State Department (twice by Vance personally), over statements on Vietnam, Rhodesia and the Cuban presence in Angola.

Last week the State Department shot down a Young statement advocating U.N. membership for Vietnam. On Monday, Vance, referring to Young's view that the white minority regime in Rhodesia will have to negotiate with black majority leaders if South Africa tells it to, said that the matter is "not quite that simple."

Vance also said on Monday, when asked about Young's comment about the Cuban troops being a stablizing factor in Angola, that "I think that the presence of any outside forces is not helpful to a peaceful solution."

Vance went on to say, "I think that this is a matter that should be settled by the Africans themselves."

"That's not a put-down," Young insisted in the interview. "Because everything I said there is gonna happen. I'd stake my life on those. You know its gonna happen on all of them."

Lowering heat can aid health

WASHINGTON — Americans who have foresaken their normally toasty household temperatures for the chilly disconfort of 65 degrees may take some solace in this it's probably good for you.

That's the word from the American Medical Association, which has long campaigned against "overheating" in the typical American home. Dr. William Barcley, a physician who edits the association's journal, said Wednesday that people who have lowered temperatures in their homes and who have lowered temperatures in their homes and offices in response to the energy shortage "are probably healthier than those who continue to push their thermostats up to 72 degrees."

Experts on contagious disease at the National Institutes of Health agree.

"Reducing the heat even to 60 degrees inside won't do any harm to your health," says John Blamphin, of NIH "and it may be even healthier as far as respiratory diseases are concerned."

Blamphin explains that "since viruses grow better at warm temperatures, there's evidence that cooler conditions retard the transmission of disease."

In one NIH study, Blamphin says, a group of

In one NIH study, Blamphin says, a group of healthy people were stripped to their underwear and kept shivering in temperatures below 40 degrees for several hours. They showed no greater susceptibility to colds or other respiratory diseases than another gorup in normal clothing in a normally heated room.

Hundreds of millions of people in Europe and Asia where an indoor temperature above 60 degrees would be considered unusually warm on a winter night — offer proof that the human body can adjust to lower temperatures without serious harm.

night — offer proof that the human body can adjust to lower temperatures without serious harm.

Barcley said higher temperatures remove moisture from the air, aggravating bronchial and other respiratory diseases, and they "can contribute to dry throat and nose, coughs, and dry itchy skin."

Lower indoor temperatures reduce the shock to the respiratory system that comes with stepping from a warm house to the outdoor chill, Barcley added.

Yachts find hard sailing in few ports

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — A New Zealand couple and eight crewmen recently paddled a homemade canoe 2,000 miles from the Gilbert Islands to this South Pacific island. They were arrested on a charge of illegal entry

when they arrived.
Fiji and other South Pacific islands are tightening up on what they regard as wandering gypsies of the sea — the rising number of yachtsmen cruising the ocean in craft that range from 25-foot, single-handed sloops to 100-foot, floating apartments with air condi-

The island governments are par-ticularly tough in searching for drugs, although they rarely find any. In Fiji, the authorities have also insisted that the yachtsmen — called "yachties" or "shippies" — go through port and immigration formalities before cruising to the outlying islands. This can take a yachtie 1,000 miles out of his way just to get his passport stamped.

In September and October Suva is like a yachtie's convention center with more than 100 yachts of a dozen different nationalities readying to up anchor and sail on to Australia and New Zealand or return to the United States before the hurricane season starts in November.

No one knows exactly how many yachts cruise the Pacific at any one time but estimates range between 500

For many the fascination of cruising the Pacific has long since worn off. Gossips in anchorages across the Pacific tell of broken marriages, failed love affairs and ruptured friendships.

"Sailing is the most expensive way of traveling third class I know of" is a common gripe among yachties. But for others, like Jeff Munger, 32, of Rumson, N.J., it is a way of life. "Sure, there are some nights when it's blowing and you're up there haulit's blowing and you're up there hauling in sail and you say to yourself why the hell aren't I like my brother living on a farm in Vermont. At least his bed doesn't move," said the former stockbroker, who skippers "Affair," a 60-foot. Hong Kong-built, Chicagoregistered yawl.

"But you make up for it in places like Bora Bora. Boy, that's paradise!"

paradise!" Munger, owner Theo Spectorsky and three others, including a young Granadian boy, have been sailing for three years on a round-the-world voyage. They left Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in December 1973, cruised the Caribbean, sailed through the Panama Canal, the Marquesas, Tahiti, Samoa, Tonga and Fiji.

From here, "Affair" is heading south to Australia before continuing on through Southeast Asia and then

Yachties form a fraternity of the Yachties form a fraternity of the sea. They meet one another in distant ports, talk about storms, ports of call they liked and places to get supplies at the cheapest price.

They keep in touch at sea on a ham radio network, coordinated out of Port Vila in the New Hebrides by a New Zealander known only as Robbie. Robbie, call sign YJBAN, runs a ham service known as the "Mickey Mouse" service known as the "Mickey Mouse

Net" purely for the fun of it.

He plots positions of yachts, handles distress calls and often arranges for urgent spare parts to be flown to disabled boats.

Yachties also stay in touch through the yachting news column of the respected news magazine, Pacific Island Monthly, which runs two pages of movements of cruising yachts.

But all is not plain sailing. Many yachts are lost on the lonely coral reefs of the Pacific, high-seas dramas that rarely are reported.
