Citizens help firemen working to control a grass fire which jumped Holiday Hill Road and threatened a residential section in west Midland.

Blaze scorches west end

By JIM STEINBERG

Thirty-mile-an-hour winds turned a small fire in a roadside ditch into a raging prairie fire at times two miles wide that threatened Midland's west side Thursday afternoon.

The fire, first reported by the Midland County sheriff's office at 12:32 p.m. as being alongside FM 1788 one mile north of U.S. 80, quickly spread along the dry grasslands sending columns of smoke hundreds of feet into the air, and forcing the evacuation of 479 students at Henderson Elementary School, 4800 Graceland Drive, and 526 students at Anson Jones Elementary School, 4915 Anson Jones Elementary School, 491>

Shadylane Drive at about 1:30 p.m.
"We've had fires that burned longer never had one that threatened the City of Midland like this one," Fire Chief Melvin Little said.

"At first we just dispatched two fire trucks, and about five minutes later it seemed like the whole city might go." said one Midland firefighter.

Off-duty firemen were called in and more than 150 persons volunteered to establish a firebreak at Holiday Hill Road, some six miles from the fire's original starting point.

"I think just about every department in the city had people out there fighting that fire," police chief Wayne Gideon said.

Law enforcement personnel set up roadblocks to keep curiosity seekers out of the fireline area at Holiday Hill Road and knocked on doors of residents of southwest Midland, asking them to water down yards and roofs, Gideon said.

Many people volunteered to give police a hand directing traffic, Gideon said, while others who just came to watch, at times interferred with the flow of heavy earth-moving equip-ment and reserve water-tankers brought in to contain the blaze.

Construction crews at the Midland Regional Air Terminal were diverted from runway building to build a firebreak on the north side of the terminal, as the fire raced by on its easterly path to Midland. Flight service was not interrupted, Terminal officials reported.

"We were able to control the fire's width, but with that wind, we just could't stop it from getting to Midland," fire training chief Raymond Lewis said.

"It jumped Hollday Hill Road like it was wall to wall grass," Lewis said.
The southern tip of the two-mile wide fire hit Midland first, Lewis explained, and after jumping the fire line at Holiday Hill Road flames lapped up grass on Henderson Elementary School and whipped into alleys behind homes on Versailles

At that critical point in the fire, another fire, unrelated, broke out at Rocky Ford Van Lines, 3811 W. Instrial St., As the situation seemed NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ugandan President Idi Amin today ordered all Americans in Uganda kept there until Monday and sent President Carter a telegam demanding that the United States take care of its own human rights problems before accusing Uganda, the Uganda radio said.

The announcement of the telegram came as some 200 Americans trapped inside Uganda on Amin's orders, waited to learn why they had been summoned to meet the Ugandan leader in Kampala next Monday at 11

Amin ordered his security forces to bar the Americans, mostly missionaries, from leaving the country until after the meeting.

Carter on Wednesday said that developments in Uganda, where an Anglican archbishop was killed and reports of alleged massacres of Christian tribes, had "disgusted the entire civilized world."

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) - One man was killed and a policeman wounded in an apartment house here early today where a man armed with a rifle was holding a pregnant teen age girl and her child hostage and threatening to kill them.

"He's absolutely 100 per cent serious," said police spokesman Rod Carr. "So serious that if anything goes wrong he's going to kill them."

Police said the only demand the man had made thus far was for a pack of cigarettes. They would not say if they had granted his request.

Carr said the gunman, identified as Leroy Cotton, 30, held the baby girl in front of a window in a second-floor apartment and told police the child would be killed if they attempted to

The gunman and his hostages were both residents of the apartment building, but apparently are not related, police said.

A psychiatrist, a physician and Police Chief Thomas Sardino were negotiating with Cotton through a closed door of the apartment, located in a residential area several blocks from downtown.

Sardino said the discussions were limited to "release of the hostages."

An anxious mother peers through a school bus window searching for her child who was evacuated from Henderson Elementary School when the fire reached the campus.

Schools' fire drills paid off

All those school fire drills paid off in two Midland elementary schools Thursday when an uncontrolled grass fire threatened the campuses.

"I was so proud of them. They went out just like they did in the fire drill," one first grade teacher said.

Jones and Henderson elementary schools were evacuated, Henderson for a little more than 30 minutes, and

Jones for a hout an hour. During the evacuation, children huddled together in class groups. Some cried, others held their coats over their heads to protect themselves from smoke and ashes. But the atmosphere was calm and the teachers in control of the situation.

"Our kids were super. They really were. They'd been trained by the teachers. I give credit to the teachers," Henderson principal Lee Roy Shannon said.

There were no injuries at either Both principals were at a meeting at the administration building when grass fires began to threaten the Shannon said the actual decision to evacuate was made by the school secretary and a teacher. Schools superintendent Dr. James H. Mailey said the schools were evacuated after the school secretaries reported the situation. After the children had been cleared from the building, the police requested buses to take the students out of the area, Mailey said.

At Jones, the fire came as close as one block from the school, principal Keller Stamy said. The building was cleared about 1:45 and the students transported by bus to

Alamo Junior High School. They were moved back to Jones about 2:45, Mailey said. At Henderson, the fire actually burned two small areas on the school grounds, including up against the building at one point. Students walked four blocks south on Eisenhower Street to escape. Hilda Hinds, first grade teacher at Henderson, said some of her children. cried from fright during the evacuation. "I just reassured them."

she said. "The only bit of confusion at all was when parents came rushing up and grabbing their children. . . and we were trying our best to see who had been taken and where," Mrs. Hinds said.

Stamy said the smoke set off some mild asthma attacks but the evacuation "went fine." While waiting for the buses, Stamy said, the

Joe Thorp had rather brag on Clayton Tolliver than on just about anything else - although he's worth a good vaunt 'n' boast himself.

"He's a go d'un," horse stabler Thorp said ot race horse trainer Tolliver. "This son o' bitch is smart. He can tell you what's what about horses. He lacks this much (half inch or so) being a vet," said the exuberant Thorp.

Thorp, who wears a musty cowboy hat and an outfit to match, is an oilfield pumper when he's not stabling and breeding horses or setting up a rodeo or some other horse fare.

This man Thorp is a former cowhand, rodeo cowboy and a bit-

Thorp, Tolliver really know their horses

He put on an American Junior Rodeo Association (AJRA) rodeo last October, and this year, he plans to host AJRA shows on the first weekends in June and September. In the meantime, the sprightly Thorpe, at 49, will be hosting cutting horse, calf roping, barrel racing, pole racing and, probably, other shows.

Also in the mill is a girls' rodeo. And he was sort of goaded into staging it by a spirited and hardy Odessa gal who's "wilder than nine acres of goats."

This cowgirl does just about anything a cowboy does and can do in the arena. She even does what Thorp did in his younger days - bounce with the bulls.

"It takes a hell of a girl to ride bulls," he said. Thorp has talked a "hometown boy," Neil McDonald, into announcing his rodeos. "He's . . . very, very good and very plain-spoken," Thorp said.

So is Thorp himself. He's particularly outspoken about this Tolliver fellow, whom he respects and cottons to.

Tolliver, Thorp said, knows about everything there is to know about horses - from tail to muzzle. "That's about right." Tolliver allowed. "I know a lot about 'em. I've been around horses since I was a Since Tolliver got into racehorse training in 1944, he has groomed and coached untold numbers of the briskly running beasts. (And you can bet that he has given generous advice to the agile jockeys.) He has trained horses from the East Coast to the West, "you might say," Tolliver said.

At present, he's training 25 thoroughbreds and quarterhorses in a 90-day-long session. More will come after that stint.

This expert horseman rodeced "off and on" between 1946 and 1955. And in 1949, he wound up in the running for Rodeo Cowboys' Association (RCA) champion saddle-bronc rider of the year.

"I just got beat by $9 for the year," Tolliver said. The RCA's top money-winner in saddle-brone riding in '49 was Louis Brooks of Sweet-

Both Thorp and Tolliver will drop a word or two every now and then about their rodeoing and cowboying days.

Thorp tends to shy away from retelling his wrangler-playing roles in the old Western movies. But he talks

Tolliver, in his easy-going but sure and confident manner, talks sparingly about rodeoing and race horse training

As important as the yesteryears are to them, these two fellows are darnsure concerned about their roles today and in the tomorrows to come. Says ace race horse trainer Tolliver of the thoroughbreds and quarterhorses that he schools:

"Most of 'em, they're just collar broke. We train 'em from scratch." He has produced many a frontrunner at the racetracks.

And smiling Joe Thorp says this of his plenty-big rodeo arena:

"We're going to get it going. Boy, everybody brags about it.

Both are proud men. They've got a

"If houses in the area of Henderson Elementary had caught on fire we would have had a real problem, Lewis said. Winds at that time, were gusting at 30 to 41 mph, the National Weather Service reported.

By 2:30 p.m., most fire fighting crews were diverted to the northern tip of the fire where flames were "higher and hotter" than the southern portion, but the threat of fire damage was considerably less, Lewis said. That point was just south of the Andrews Highway. There, heavy earth graders plowed side-by-side to form a fire break and a water pumper followed behind to wet down grassland adjacent to the firebreaks Lewis said. Late Thurday afternoon winds dropped to speeds in the mid-20s, making the final mop-up operations easier. Then late Thursday, exhausted fire crews were called to a grass fire five miles north of Midland, near Texas children were told to sit down as close to the ground as possible to cut down on smoke inhalation.

Mailey said "normal emergency procedures" were used at both schools. He said the teachers did "a superb job" of keeping the students orderly. This is the first time schools have had to be evacuated in Midland because of grass fires. Mailey said the rapid movement of the fire was what made it imperative to evacuate immediately because "we didn't want to evacuate them into burning grass."

He said the transportation department did a good job of providing "all the buses we could get our hands on" to help in the effort. Police had to escort some buses.

An evaluation of the experience will be made to see if other contingency plans need to be made, Mailey said.

Records Act" whether the motives for withholding can be a factor.

The attorney general cited a ruling by the Texas Court of Civil Appeals which said police records should be open unless they involve a continuing investigation or unless releasing the information would hamper law enforcement efforts.

Hill stopped in Midland on his way to New Mexico to speak at a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers hearing on proposed reservoir in New Mexico.

He expressed fears that if the permit for the Brantley Reservoir project is approved, it will "impair the ability of Texans" to get water it is entitled to under the Pecos River Compact. "Our experience with New Mexico has not been a very happy one. . . We've been shortchanged (on water)," Hill said.

Texas already has a suit pending before the U.S. Supreme Court which asks the court to order New Mexico to provide the water the state is entitled to under that compact.

In response to a question, Hill said he will decide whether or not to run for governor after the legislative session in progress now is over.

Hill discussed an opinion he has issued regarding the legality of Medical Center Hospital in Odessa hiring a management corporation as superintendent of the hospital. Hill's ruling is that it cannot be under the law but the corporation can be hired to assist an individual acting as superintendent.

Also in the wide-ranging news conference, the attorney general talked about his efforts to remove Texas from jurisdiction of the Voting Rights Act. He said he is not attacking the act itself in his appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court but rather is contending that the situation in Texas does not justify its inclusion under the act. The case is a "procedural attack" on the law, Hill said.

Hill also has entered a case in which the Hereford Independent School District is suing the U.S. attorney general in an attempt to be released from the constraints of the act.

The situation in the Hereford school district is similar to the Midland situation, with the U.S. Justice Department having filed an objection to a change from at-large to place system voting for school trustees. Hill said the Hereford case is a "test case" which should be decided in court. He noted he had predicted that "the cities would be held under the law to be exempt" when the law was applied to Texas.

On another topic, Hill called

Mexican heroin flowing into Texas "our main crime problem, without any question."

One way to combat organized narcotics would be use of special state grand juries, he said. A bill to allow creation of such grand juries for investigative functions is pending before the Legislature and Hill said he is "dissappointed" that its chances of pasaage are slim.

"The old adage, don't ever do anything for the first time seems to apply sometimes in Texas politics,"

The grand juries also would be useful in situations such as one recently in Duval County in which there was a "breakdowm" and the local governmental bodies could not handle it.

At his news conference, Hill touched on a variety of other subjects. ranging from the Howard Hughes case to speed limits.

He thinks the state will be able to establish the fact that Hughes was a Texas resident and thereby collect inheritance taxes for the state.

An algae burger?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — University of Texas researchers say a Central African tribe can provide the world with an easy way to get protein.

The continent that gave Alex Haley the origins of his "Roots," which provided millions of black Americans with a cultural heritage, has a tribe that has eaten a blue-green algae for at least 2,000 years, according to Dr. Mike E. Leesley, assistant chemical engineering professor.

"One of the best ways of introducing protein to the diet is by using protein produced directly by photosynthesis. Energy is lost at each link of a food chain. The more basic step in the food chain that is used, the more efficient the intake of protein," Leesley said."

Leesley said."

"Algae are the most efficient organisms at producing protein by photosynthesis. We can utilize algae, which are at the bottom of the food chain, for protein, then we can avoid the overhead losses of a long food chain," he said.

'Will keep promises'

President Carter's statement of a couple of days ago to the effect that he plans to honor his campaign pledge to the governors of Texas and Oklahoma to seek deregulation of new natural gas certainly is good news to natural gas producers, as well as to residents of the two states, and their governors in particular.

Deregulation certainly would result in more gas reserves being discovered and developed over a period of time, which would make more gas available to consumers across the land. It should be good news to all Americans. Government regulations in general bring nothing but grief and problems galore. A free market is the only

The President's statement. however, doesn't mean that deregulation will occur. This is up to Congress. But Mr. Carter did acknowledge the commitment and said he will work with Congress "on the deregulation of natural gas as part of an overall energy policy."

He said he didn't know how he would go about it, "But I do plan to keep my promises."

"The position I have taken, and the positions the governors of Texas and Oklahoma took at the governors conference to which I was referring was deregulation of natural gas for a limited period of time, four to five years, to see how it works out - leaving existing contracts in effect" the President said.

The fact that Mr. Carter plans to keep his pledge is the significant part of the statement.

Syndicated columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak had reported in a column appearing on this page last Monday that Carter aides felt that he was not bound by the letter since it was drafted by a representative of oil and gas interests. The letter is said to have enabled Carter to carry Texas and other oil producing states, including Louisiana.

There also have been widespread reports that many of IT HAPPENED HERE the President's energy advisers oppose deregulation. This very well could be one of the reasons why Carter had delayed saying anything about the controversial measure until his Wednesday press conference.

Referring back to the letter, dated Oct. 19, 1976, it reportedly used stronger language than Mr. Carter's statement of this week. And neither did the letter refer to a trial period, although Carter had used the trial period comment in other campaign statements.

In the letter, Carter said, "First, I will work with the Congress as the Ford administration has been unable to do, to deregulate the new natural gas."

In Louisiana speeches late in the campaign, Carter promised unconditional deregulation, according to Evans and Novak.

The columnists also explained that the deregulation question came to the fore in recent days when Dr. James Schlesinger, Mr. Carter's cabinet-level energy adviser, and Secretary of the Interior Cecil Andrus indicated that there was no commitment to deregulation. Congressional sponsors of deregulation who had canpaigned for Mr. Carter - including Rep. Bob Krueger of Texas - were unpleasantly surprised. We would imagine that Mr. Krueger really was shocked, aa were the governors of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana. Protests undoubtedly were filed and Carter was forced to clear the air.

But the thing about the whole business which worries Krueger and others is the possibility that the Carter plan will put some cap on future prices or tie gas prices to oil prices, substituting statutory regulation for regulation by the Federal Power Commission. This, it is explained, would perpetuate the same conditions which largely are responsible for today's natural gas short-

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, was quoted as saying, after Carter's press conference, that the President's attitude on natural gas "is a lot better than what I've been hearing." Future developments are awaited with interest.

CUBAN TRADE WITH U.S.: Sugar market closed until claims paid

Copley News Service

Cuba can't afford to do much susiness with the United States, Commander in Chief Fidel Castro's Commander in Chief Fidel Castro's dictatorship doesn't have the hard cash it would take. What is more, until Communist Cuba arranges payment for the $1.8 billion in U.S. property the Castro regime confiscated, the U.S. sugar market is, for all practical purposes, closed to it, economic embargo or no.

That being the case, talk of lifting the embargo on Cuba, while politically or ideologically stimulating, offers little promise of

That, of course, is a hypothetical case. The bearded revolutionary spelled it out in an effort to prove to his 9.5 million countrymen that Cuba's intimate relationship with the Soviet Union is all that keeps the Caribbean island affoat. As Castro explained it, Cuba ex-wheat, raw materials, equipment and other goods from them.

All this is possible, according to Castro, because the Soviets pay 30 cents a pound for Cuban sugar and charge Cuba less for fuel than the world market price.

So Cuba has made out by buying from capitalist countries what it can't get from the Socialists, with the proceeds of the sale of the sugar not earmarked for the Soviets and Eastern Europe. Eastern Europe

But, now with the world sugar market depressed, Communist Cuba's ability to pay has been reduced accordingly.

In 1974, the year that sugar peaked at 65.5 cents a pound, Cuba's sugar exports were worth an estimated $2.445 billion. Currently, the world price of sugar is around nine cents a

However, even were the trade embargo relaxed by President Carter in the interests of establishing a dialogue with Castro and Cuba, there are the other impediments to com-merce between the two countries.

First is the matter of the $1,799,548,568.69 in awards made by the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission to U.S. citizens whose property was seized by Cuba. (Another $1.5 billion and more in claims also was denied U.S. citizens.)

claims also was denied U.S. citizens.)

The U.S. Department of Commerce has pointed out that "as long as these claims are outstanding, normal banking and shipping relationships cannot be restored, since Cuban assets in the United States would be subject to possible attachment." The department said that "clearly constitutes a major barrier to resumption of normal trade relationships."

There also is the matter of Cuban indebtedness to the Soviet Union. By the end of 1976 it presumably amounted to at least $5 billion. (A CIA estimate the end of 1974 calculated estimate the end of 1974 calculated Soviet loans to Cuba since 1961 totaled $4.381 billion and indicated the million a day.)

Although Castro has said that repayments do not have to start until 1986, 10 years hence, presumably Cuba will feel, or be, obliged to go on sending the Soviet and its other Socialist creditors most of its sugar.

That still would theoretically leave

Cuba with some two million tons available for sale to the United States. But, as the Commerce Department has said, in the absence of a claims settlement, "any imports of Cuban sugar could result in U.S. court action based on attachment of the sugar by former owners of the plantations."

India, tragic piece of earth

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON - The collapse of the world's largest democracy came with breathtaking abruptness. Overnight Indira Ghandi transformed India into a police state. Some 600 million Indians awoke to find themselves under martial law, their lives suddenly regulated by a dictator they came to call the "Iron Her regime jailed oppo leaders, brutally tortured political prisoners and intimidated the populace. But beneath the surface.

according to secret intelligence reports, the country is in turmoil. Nervously, Indira Ghandi has now consented to an election campaign. Some of her closest aides responded by quitting the government and denouncing her police-state rule. They are attracting more enthusiastic crowds than the Prime Minister The Indian subcontinent is a tragic piece of earth abused by man and nature. It has been bedeviled by crop failures, devastated by plagues and oppressed by greedy rulers. For centuries, Hindus and Moslems have fought over the land. Then a succession of British viceroys siphoned off the wealth of India.

Yet out of the catastrophes and calamities, the Indians fashioned a proud, virile democracy. In 1971, we came to its defense when former President Richard Nixon secretly ded against India in the India-Pakistan war. Grateful Indians. according to press reports, staged "Jack Anderson rallies" in Bombay. Calcutta and New Delhi.

Many Indian leaders have appealed to us, therefore, to expose Indira Ghandi's totalitarian tacties. Our reporter Michael Viner visited Indian cities and learned how the middle classes, have been harassed by the secret police. INSIDE REPORT:

'Don't bug business' is President Carter's order

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - A summons to Dr. Eula Bingham to the Oval Office for a private and unusual interview reflects both the nature - and the limitations — of President Carter's campaign to reassure businessmen by cutting down on paperwork.

Before deciding on the appointment (still unannounced at this writing) of Dr. Bingham to head the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), Mr. Carter called her in. After impressing on her his desire to stop OSHA's harassment of businessmen and believing that she understood, the President decided to name her. Dr. Bingham was one of only two presidential appointments at the Assistant Secretary level who met personally with the President before being picked.

That personal attention grows out of the campaign of budget director Bert Lance, Mr. Carter's ambassador to the world of business, to improve business confidence and capital investment by easing the oppressive regulatory burden imposed by Uncle Sam. OSHA, a curse for small business, has been intensely studied at the White House by domestic policy aide Stuart Eizenstat and his staff. Their verdict: far too many regulations are just plain silly.

But Dr. Bingham, professor of biology at the University of Cincinnati medical college, scarcely seems the answer to a businessman's prayers. A crusader for more healthful con-ditions in factories, she has been called a health extremist by critics. That is one description, Dr. Bingham has said privately, she is proud to Why, then, not name a businessman to OSHA if Mr. Carter really wants to reassure business? Therein lies the limitation of his campaign. His supporters in organized labor would not stand for a signal that industrial safety standards are being lowered. Dr. Bingham, who was cleared weeks ago by the AFL-CIO, in fact may be the most moderate choice who could get labor's backing.

Moreover, she tells friends she wants to raise health standards in big factories, not continue OSHA's nitpicking persecution of small enterprises. Small business will love her, Dr. Bingham adds, but big business may hate her.

A footnote: After lecturing Dr. Bingham against hectoring business, Mr. Carter conceded a need for OSHA. He remembered an asbestos plant he visited during the campaign that seemed noxious to him despite requirements imposed by OSHA. But some businessmen, said the President, don't seem to understand — and, he told Dr. Bingham, they include a peanut warehouse operator from Plains, Ga., named Billy Carter. NO THANKS TO TIP

Although the selection of Speaker

Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neili's man as acting head of the General Services Administration has prevented open war with the White House, President's men grumble that the speaker played little part in Mr. Carter's first big victory in Congress. O'Neill was asked to help build support for the Carter version of reorganization authority inside the House Government Operations Committee against chairman Jack Brooks of Texas by lining up co-sponsors for the Carter bill. But the speaker politely told White House aides to do it themselves. Although O'Neill says he has done everything possible for the reorganization bill and has urged committee members to support it, the White House grumbles he called no members except two from his own state of Masaachusetts (Reps. Michael Harrington and Robert Drinan, but only Harrington agreed to help).

So, the White House can thank Rep.
Dante Fascell of Florida, a senior member of the committee, for leading the charge that lined up an over-whelming majority against Brooks. In addition, a junior member — Rep. Elliott Levitas, a second-termer from Atlanta - worked closely with the White House in rolling the chairman.

A footnote: Both the speaker and House majority leader Jim Wright of Texas regretted invitations to Mr.
Carter's first state dinner Feb. 15 because of previous engagements. "I didn't know anybody ever sent regrets to a presidential dinner," said one presidential aide, reflecting the old Washington doctrine that such an invitation constitutes a command performance. THE 'E' IN HEW

The uneasy truce between the White House and Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Secretary Joseph Califano may be exploded down the road over a possible new Department of Education.

Although reorganization planning is at an early stage, there is little doubt at the White House that the E must come out of HEW in any rational proposal. That view is held by the two strongest men around the President: Hamilton Jordan and Bert Lance.

"They'll do it over Joe's dead one administration insider told us, however. Califano, who has learned all there is to know about Washington infighting over the last 16 years, did not take office to preside over the dissolution of HEW.

MIAMI - A proposed television variety series starring Anita Bryant has been cancelled because of "extensive national publicity" arising from her campaign against a homosexual rights ordinance here, the singer said Thursday.

Bryant said she was notified of the cancellation in a telegram from Barry Drucker, president of Tele-Tactics, a New York television production firm. "We sincerely regret that the extensive national publicity arising from the controversial political activities you have been engaged in in Dade County (Miami) prohibit us from utilizing your services..." the telegraph said. Bryant, 37, has been the leader in a campaign against a recently passed county ordinance banning discrimination against homosexuals in such areas as employment, housing, labor unions and private education. She contends that the law, by allowing homosexuals to "come out" into the open, will encourage them to "recruit" from the youth of the area. She is president of a newly formed group called Save Our Children, Inc., which is gathering signatures for a petition to repeal the law passed on Jan. 18. The petition, which will be presented to the commission Tuesday may force either repeal of the law or a WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. officials are more concerned about civil defense than at any time since the early 1960s following reports of an elaborate Soviet civil defense program that includes construction of shelters to protect citizens and critical industries from nuclear blasts.

Some U.S. experts believe the Russians are spending about $1 billion a year on civil defense. This is about 12 times the current U.S. Civil Defense budget of $82.5 million.

But some western observers in the Soviet Union say they have not seen while the U.S. population was not.

However, there are significant differences of opinion about the extent of the Russian civil defense effort. Defense Secretary Harold Brown is skeptical. He told a Senate hearing last month that "I am not convinced ... that the Soviets have gotten very far" in developing an effective civil defense program.

On the other hand, the joint chiefs of staff told Congress: "The Soviet program is more extensive and better developed than it appeared to be several years ago."

Wanted: whites for busing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Officials of the nation's second largest public school district have a problem: beginning this September. It envisions a similar minority children form the majority. There aren't approach for junior and senior high schools at a later enough white pupils to spread around to comply with a court-ordered school integration plan.

Latest figures show the Los Angeles Unified School District, with 600,000 students, has 38 per cent Spanish-surnamed students, 23 per cent black, 5 per cent Asian and 33 per cent white.

The percentage of blacks and Asians has remained about constant over the past 10 years, but Spanish surnames have jumped from 19 per cent in 1967 while whites have dropped from 55 per cent. Only two years ago it was 40 per cent white and 30 per cent

Spanish surnamed. Thousands of students in heavy minority areas will not be able to take part in the school district's proposed integration plan because there aren't enough whites to go around, officials say.

A district spokesman noted that "whites will be spread pretty thin" in the program because some schools are allowed to be 75 per cent white when the district is just 33 per cent white.

At a public hearing Thursday, the $30 million plan was attacked as both too little integration and too much integration. Only one of 25 speakers favored

Although stopping short of confirming the appointment, the former Democratic party chairman told Democratic senators at the dinner party he had been "looking forward to getting rich" practicing law when Carter talked him into "coming into government service" government service." Strauss, who was host at the party, joked that this meant he couldn't afford to pick up the tab.

Carter replied: "I knew he was broke. I knew he couldn't pay the bill. That's why I came late and why I'm going to leave early." Then, turning to Byrd, whom Carter will count on for confirmation of a Strauss' nomination, the President said:

"No money and no confirmation; think it over, Mr. Byrd."

Carter, who had said he would cut down pomp and circumstance for visiting dignitaries but then declared he would welcome them properly, sent an Air Force jet to bring the Waldheims from New York to

Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young and their wives were included in the reception for the secretary general. Mondale, Vance and Young were expected to join in the talks.

The ceremony fell short of the cannon salutes and review of troops Carter ordered for the leaders of Mexico and Canada, who visited recently. But reporters could recall no ceremony at all for visits by past U.N. officials.

Carter and Waldheim are interested in resuming Middle East negotiations at Geneva. Waldheim was expected to tell Carter about his Middle East tour earlier this month when the Israelis told him they are prepared to resume the Geneva talks immediately.

Israel's U.N. ambassador has condemned as "terrifying and sinister" a General Assembly resolution calling for the creation of a Palestinian state in territory occupied by Israel.

Legislature invites Carter to session

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - President Jimmy Carter has an invitation from the Texas Legislature to address a joint session and discuss his energy proposals. The date is left up to the President.

The House-approved invitation was passed on voice vote by the Senate Friday shortly before adjourning until Monday.

The House also quit until Monday.

An effort to discuss a proposed constitutional amendment that would abolish the property tax as the main support of Texas schools and clear the way for a refinery tax bill was defeated 12-17, with 24 votes needed. Sen. Bill Moore, D-Bryan, author, indicated he would try again next week.

The Senate spent most of Friday in the approval of three new regents for The University of Texas

Conservative coalition doesn't scare Brock

WASHINGTON (AP) - The already weakened Republican party is facing an organized rival, a conservative coalition determined to take over the role of spokesman for the outof power party.

But despite the formation of a "shadow cabinet" by conservatives usually counted as staunch GOP supporters, the traditional Republican party hierarchy is exhibiting little concern.

"It's a free country," shrugged GOP chairman Bill Brock after the conservatives unveiled their "shadow cabinet" Thursday to criticize and offer alternatives to Carter administration policies.

"Everyone has the right to criticize the President and the Democratic Congress if he or she wants to. I have no objection to that," said Brock, "The Republican party will continue to offer constructive, responsible programs to solve the problems of the people of this country.

"We anticipate the involvement of the citizens cabinet in foreign affairs and we think that we'll send delegations abroad to meet with foreign leaders and with members of the opposition parties in other countries," he said.

New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson, a Republican who is the shadow secretary of state, said he plans to lead a delegation to Panama to express conservative concern over the Panama Canal negotiations.

The chairman and "attorney general" of the shadow cabinet is William Rusher, publisher of the National Review. Rusher is a Republican, but an ardent advocate of forming a new conservative party.

Howard Phillips, director of the Conservative Caucus and a prime organizer of the new coalition, said "not everybody on the cabinet shares" Rusher's desire to bolt the

Copy of 1862 march diary given to historical group

A Xeroxed copy of the original diary kept by 1st Lt. Edward Livingston Robb in a march made in 1862 from Santa Fe, N.M., to El Faso and on to Ft. Lancaster, Tex., has been given to the Midland County Historical Society by Lt. Col. Robb R. Satterfield (USAF Ret.) of Mildand who is a great-grandson of Lt. Robb.

Mrs. John A. Hord, a member of the Midland County Historical Society, was on hand in the Midland County Public Library Thursday to accept the copy of the diary.

Col. Satterfield was accompanied by his wife and their daughter, Marilyn.

Lt. Robb, a Confederate officer of Sibley's Texas Brigade, was wounded and captured in the Battle of Glorieta Pass near Santa Fe.

In September and October of 1862, Lt. Robb and 93 other men who were also paroled prisoners of war, were marched under guard of Federal troops from Santa Fe to El Paso. There they were re-paroled and started back to their East Texas homes through hostile Indian country by way of Ft. Quitman, Ft. Davis, Ft. Stockton and Ft. Lancaster, where the diary ends.

The only known contemporary account of its kind, the diary has been treasured by Lt. Robb's descendants and is in excellent condition

Col. Satterfield also has presented a photograph of Lt. Robb to the historical society, along with the copy of the diary.

Mr. and Mrs. Hord last fall traveled by car over much of the route of Lt. Robb's march, after having done considerable research on Lt. Robb and his march across New Mexico and West Texas. They presented a paper on the subject at the February meeting of the Midland County Historical Society.

Mention was made in The Reporter-Mention was made in The Reporter-Telegram's account of the meeting and program that it was understood that the owner of the original diary resided in Midland. It also was stated that the society would appreciate having a copy for its Midland County Historical Museum which is located in the Midlad County Public Library. Col. Possible relief seen for dry Basin area

A chance of rain today and rain possibly mixed with snow promises some relief from the drying conditions which may have brought about the area's grass fires Thursday.

The weatherman predicted a slight chance of thunder showers today and a 50 per cent chance of rain possibly mixed with snow tonight. There should be a 40 per cent chance of rain again Saturday, said a National Weather Service spokesman at the Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Conditions tonight should be cloudy

Conditions tonight should be cloudy and colder, with a low temperature in the mid-30s. Saturday should have decreasing cloudiness and continued cold, with a high in the upper 40s.

Winds tonight should be from the northwest at 15 to 25 mph.

Midland area cities were enjoying fair weather this morning. Andrews reported 48 degrees with partly cloudy skies and mild conditions. Lamesa was partly cloudy and warm. Crane was cloudy and still. Stanton was overcast but warm. Rankin had high clouds and "no wind so far."

It is possible: While divorce has become more prevalent and more socially "acceptable" in the past two decades, it still can be a sad and painful process for many couples. And brutally lonely. Often, divorce is greeted by little more than silence from friends, acquaintances, church and family.

But according to a study by a task force of the United Methodist Church, divorce is exactly when a couple may need their friends, their church and their God the most. The new publication, "Ritual in a New Day," suggests way of bringing divorce to the altar: A joyless couple stands solemnly before their

Friends and family look on to provide support

... The former husband and wife "release" each other with vows of forgiveness and charity and gratitude for good times ... Wedding rings are moved to the right hand.

The suggested ritual is not in practice yet, but members of the Methodist task force think their church would be the first to legitimize a divorce ceremony. The proposed divorce ritual itself is a far cry from earlier Methodist thinking. In 1884, for instance, the church ruled that divorced members could only remarry "an innocent party whose spouse was involved in adultery.

Outlook for tv discussed

Bob Madison and Dave Floyd of KMID-TV were the speakers Thursday noon at the meeting of the Midland Downtown Rotary Club in the Hilton Inn, discussing things to come in television broadcasting.

Madison, in his opening remarks, said that many exciting, new things will happen in tv in the immediate future. He said the eight-part production, "Roots," is directly responsible for some of the upcoming changes. Discussing program-ming, he said the trend definitely is away from violence.

Floyd told of changes anticipated in news coverage and in production.

Using an arsenal of statistical weapons, the subcommittee staff concluded that:

—More than 70 per cent of the rise in the cost of living between 1966 and 1975 was caused by "excessively rapid money growth."

—A bigger supply of money leads to an improved economy, but only in the short run. A year or two later, prices spurt in a new burst of inflation. "The good news comes quickly, the bad news follows behind," said Rep. Stephen Neal (D-N.C.), subcommittee chairman. committee chairman.

The prime ingredient in the inflationary stew is the supply of money, defined as coins, paper currency and checking deposits, according to the report. That's what consumers use to pay for goods and the portfolios of the nation's commercial banks. This puts cash into the banking system. Banks can then make more loans, businesses can expand, consumers can borrow funds to buy more goods.

To shrink the money supply, the Federal Reserve sells government securities to the banks. This drains cash from the banking system, leaving less money available to fuel the economy.

Closely watching the unemployment rate, the rise and fall of interest rates, and indicators of economic output, the Federal Reserve governors decide on a prescription for a healthy money supply. They order "buy" or "sell" actions to adjust the flow of funds coursing through the financial network.

"Most Americans do not know how important money policy is to the prices of the goods they buy, the interest rates they pay, their job opportunities, wages and profits," Neal said.

Because of bad timing in adjusting the money supply, the report said, the Federal Reserve often makes bad times worse and turns good times into inflationary periods.

A Christoval woman told authorities Wednesinflationary periods.

When too much money is pumped into the system, a burst of inflation hits two years later. When the

The report followed the "monetarist" theory, whose most eloquent spokesman is Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago. Friedman, who won the Nobel Prize for economics last year, argues that careful adjustments in the money supply are key tools in achieving economic health.

Although Friedman's views have become more influential in government circles, the argument over inflation is far from settled.

Henry Kaufman, an economist for Salomon Bros., a major New York investment banking firm. "It's a very small component of the total picture. Monetary policy is only one arm of the government."

Fiscal policy — the taxing and spending activities of the government — also play a key role. Years of big government deficits, with Washington spending billions more than it raised in taxes, contributed to the inflationary pressures. When the economy was going well, the deficits should have been smaller, or perhaps eliminated completely, Kaufman said.

Prof uses menus to study history

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — For those who believe "You are what you eat," Prof. Bert Gordon's college course in the history of food should be easy to digest.

The Mills College course — "A Taste of History" — takes the student back through the ages via menus of Gordon's intensive month-long course exposes students to cookbooks, fictional accounts of food-related events, history books and even trips to four restaurants—Greek, Danish, Italian and Basque. "I think it's very important," Gordon says. "I take it very seriously."

Gordon says the history of food is not as cut and dried as it seems. In fact, he contends that much of the flavor of history lies in dissecting basic social functions—such as eating.

For instance, what you eat provides a clue to where you see yourself in the social scheme of things, says Gordon. In traditional Europe, people who want to raise their status eat white bread, rejecting more nutritious brown bread as a sign of the lower classes.

In modern America, similarly, the boom in wine

In modern America, similarly, the boom in wine sales indicates a desire for upward mobility among "It's more chic to drink wine," Gordon said. "Beer is thought to be sort of lower middle class and Archie Bunkeresque. The rapid growth of the wine industry unquestionably reflects those pyschological fac-

He says the recent decline in the consumption of fish resulted from the Catholic Church's lifting its ban on eating meat on Friday. And is it coincidence, he asks, that the Lenten season, when people are asked to give up various foods, coincides with the time of year when food supplies normally are low?

But social change can be traced to food — or in some cases the scareity of it. Consider the potato, Gordon says. The lack of that common tuber in Ireland in 1845 created famine and drove thousands of emigrants to the United States.

"People don't eat with their stomachs," he says. "They eat with their eyes and minds."

to set prices for oil and natural gas.

The legislation, which calls for creation of a Cabinet department to coordinate the nation's energy policies, goes to Capitol Hill Tuesday. It would abolish several agencies—the Federal Power Commission, the Federal Energy Administration, and the Energy Research and Development Administration—and transfer their functions plus energy respontheir functions plus energy respon-sibilities from other agencies to the new department.

Details of the reorganization, the first fundamental change in the federal government since the federal government since the Department of Transportation was created in 1966, were made available Thursday to The Washington Post.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), who will introduce the administration bill, promised that his Government Operations Committee will hold hearings within the next two weeks.

"My feeling is that the President is going to have to fight and fight hard," Ribicoff said.

Congressional sources and leaders.

Congressional sources and leaders of a number of interest groups have expressed concern over what impact the new Cabinet office would have on energy policy and on the power of key congressional committees, especially

Besides getting all FPC, FEA and ERDA functions, the new department would receive from the Interior Department regional marketing functions over electric power, now handled by the Bureau of Reclamation and the Interior's four regional power administrations; energy data collection done by the Bureau of Mines; and control over the rate of public land leasing and energy production responsibilities currently under the Geological Survey and the Bureau of Land Management. The BLM will retain responsibility for actual leasing of public lands.

The new department also would ficiency standards for model residential and commercial building conservation programs from the Commerce Department.

—Jurisdiction over the Naval Petroleum Reserves and Naval Oil Shale Reserves currently in the Department of Defense.

—Securities and Reserves.

-Securities and Exchange Com-mission authority to regulate elec-

Pecos test rates flow

Texas Pacific Oil Co., Inc., No. 9 Montgomery-Fulk, 11/2-mile south and slightly west outpost to the Elsinore multipay field of Pecos County, 24 miles south of Fort Stockton, flowed gas at the rate of 5.75 million cubic feet per day plus five barrels of load water per hour, for 24 hours.

The flow was through a 32-64-inch choke and perforations at 12,896-12,977 feet. The section earlier had been treated with 10,000 gallons of acid and fractured with 45,000 gallons and an unreported amount of sand. Location is 1,320 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 9, block 170, TTRR survey.

Transportation Department.

Carter's energy reorganization plan closely follows the outlines of a plan set forth in a campaign statement last apt. 21.
Abolition of the FPC, and Carter's

Abolition of the FPC, and Carter's plan to combine regulatory and development functions in a single department are viewed by some congressional sources as the most controversial dimensions of the President's proposal.

Rep. John D. Dingell (D-Mich.), who chairs a key House energy subcommittee, said, "I may have reservations about transferring federal regulatory responsibilities to federal regulatory responsibilities to an old-line Cabinet authority." Dingell, however, said the program possible."

A senior FEA official said, "It would be cumbersome if the pricing and other functions associated with the regulation of crude oil, petroleum products and natural gas were not embodied in the same department."

Carter's plan would insulate the Energy Department's pricing and allocation functions within an Energy Regulatory Administration and would create a Board of Appeals composed of administrative law judges who conduct hearings on rate and allocation decisions. The Occupational Health and Safety Administration within the Labor ministration within the Labor Department has a similar body.

Gulf project in Eddy gauges deep gas flow

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-EM Littlefield-Federal Communitized, Eddy County, N.M., deep prospector in the Shugart, North (Queen) area and seven miles northeast of Morrow gas production in the Hackberry field, flowed gas at the rate of 8.211 million cubic feet per day, increasing to a stabilized, daily rate of 10.931 million cubic feet per day on a %-inch choke, from the Morrow.

Tool was open 1½ hour on the test taken from 11,642-11,693 feet. Gas surfaced in five minutes at the above minimum rate.

An earlier test from 11,525-11,583 feet, open 11/2 hour, had gas to the 520,000 cubic feet per day, and recovered 100 feet of gas- and distillate-cut drilling mud and 319 feet of gas-cut muddy water.

Still earlier, a test from 11,075-11,175 feet flowed gas at the rate of 8,041 million cubic feet per day.

Popping of pills

MEN Milw acro

Sp

Dear Dr. Solomon: Do you think that all the pillpopping that is going on to relieve anxiety is a good thing. During the last few years, I've noticed that most of the people I know have taken to tranquilizers. They carry them around in their purse or pocket and just reach for them the way you would for a cigarette. Wouldn't it be better to try to cope...
It seems to me that getting through one crisis helps you make it through the next—it sort of toughens you what do you think. —Gail.

Dear Gail: There is no doubt that Americans have taken to tranquilizers in a big way since they came on the market, back in the '50s. Valium is the most widely sold prescription drug in the country, and Librium is number three. They are chemical coustins—belonging to a group called benzodiazepines—and together account for about 30 million prescriptions in a single year.

Many doctors would agree with you that tranquilizers are overused. There are occasional side effects like insomnia, lessening of sexual drive, nausea, headaches and dizziness. And prolinged use can lead to dependence. The Food and Drug Administration cautions, too, that use of tranquilizers by pregnant women can cause birth defects.

There is also good evidence that they impair skills needed in driving or operating machinery—they certainly do when combined with alcohol. So one shouldn't take them if one is doing anything that requires full mental alertness. The FDA took these potential hazards into account last year when if put imits on refilling tranquilizer prescriptions.

All this doesn't mean that tranquilizers aren't very good drugs when used properly. This means under a doctor's advice and direction they can tide a person over a difficuit period, and they are helpful in treating hypertension, muscle spasm, epilepsy and other disorders. And so-called major tranquilizers, a separate group, have proved effective in getting serious mental illnesses under control.

One point in favor of the minor prescription tranquilizers, such as Valium, Librium, Equamil a

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Two Memphis banks have placed mechanical tellers in area supermarkets in an effort to automate at least a portion of the weekly marketing chore.
But the banks are 37 years behind Clarence

Saunders, a supermarket genius who once automated an entire store.

The banks' automatic teller machines are supposed to make it easier for customers to obtain cash or pay for their purchases at the point of purchase.

But the customer still has to push a cart around the store and stand in line at a cash register before the groceries can be taken home.

Clarence Saunders, who made and lost at least two fortunes in the grocery business in Memphis, wanted to eliminate all that.

He came up with what he called the "Keydoozle Market."

Instead of a push cart, customers picked up a pistol-like device or Keydoozle when they entered the

Instead of strolling up and down long aisles of grocery shelves, shoppers made their selections from a wall studded with small display windows and keyholes. Behind each window was a can, box or other type of merchandise, labeled with its price.

Selections were made by inserting the Keydoozle into the keyhole beneath the windows. That registered the price on a roll of paper tape in the Keydoozle's handle and triggered an electrical switch which allowed the merchandise to drop onto a conveyor belt deep inside the store.

The system was designed to make the shopper and his selections arrive at the cashier at the same time. Checkout time was supposed to average less than a eckout time was supposed to average less than a

Eldon Roark, a columnist for the Press-Scimitar, Memphis' afternoon newspaper, remembers the Keydoozle market.

"It worked very well, but I think Saunders had to have more people to make the thing work than he would have had in a regular supermarket," Roark

The store closed during World War II.
"Saunders said he couldn't get men to maintain the equipment," Roark said.

In 1939, Saunders boasted his store could handle 10 customers a minute, each spending $2, which in those days would purchase a large bag of groceries.

Never one to think small, Saunders planned a Keydoozle equipment factory employing 1,000 people. When the Memphis store opened, he announced he had contracts for Keydoozle franchises in Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, Los Angeles and Texas.

The first Keydoozle store, however, was also apparently the last. It was also Saunders' last fling in the supermarket business.

Saunders made his first million when he built the "Piggly Wiggly" supermarket chain. He lost that business in a battle with what he called "the wolves of Wall Street" in the 1920s.

NEW YORK (AP) — In an episode that doctors dubbed "From Russia With Love," a 32-year-old Brooklyn construction worker has received a new kidney only 48 hours after its original owner, a 16-year-old youth, died in an automobile accident in

"This is indeed a testament to the brotherhood of man," said Dr. William Stubenbod, the surgeon who performed the kidney transplant on Jose Serrano at the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

Dr. Albert Rubin, who earlier had made the informal arrangement with a Soviet physician that led to the trans-Atlantic transplant, said it came about because Russia's "brain death" law makes organs more readily available.

Dr. Rubin said he learned during a trip to Moscow that organ procurement was "more advanced" there, and last September arranged with Dr. Valery Schumakov of Moscow's Institute of Organ and Tissue Transplant to try the trans-Atlantic operation.

He said an estimated 50,000 persons in this country are receiving dialysis machine treatment while waiting for kidneys to become available for transplants.

The two doctors' first effort three weeks ago failed because the kidney from Moscow arrived here infected. Then last Saturday, when the young was brought to the institute and his kidneys removed. One was transplanted into a Russian patient, and the other put in a refrigerated preserving solution for shipment to New York.

Conservative coaltion doesn't scare Brock

WASHINGTON (AP) — The already weakened Republican party is facing an organized rival, a conservative coalition determined to take over the role of spokesman for the outof power party.

But despite the formation of a "shadow cabinet" by conservatives usually counted as staunch GOP supporters, the traditional Republican party hierarchy is exhibiting little concern.

"It's a free country," shrugged GOP chairman Bill Brock after the conservatives unveiled their "shadow cabinet" Thursday to criticize and offer alternatives to Carter administration policies.

"Everyone has the right to criticize the President and the Democratic Congress if he or she wants to. I have no objection to that," said Brock. "The Republican party will continue to offer constructive, responsible programs to solve the problems of the people of this country.

"We anticipate the involvement of the citizens cabinet in foreign affairs and we think that we'll send delegations abroad to meet with foreign leaders and with members of the opposition parties in other countries." he said.

New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson, a Republican who is the shadow secretary of state, said he plans to lead a delegation to Panama to express conservative concern over the Panama Canal negotiations.

The chairman and "attorney general" of the shadow cabinet is William Rusher, publisher of the National Review. Rusher is a Republican, but an ardent advocate of forming a new conservative party.

A Xeroxed copy of the original diary kept by 1st Lt. Edward Livingston Robb in a march made in 1862 from Santa Fe, N.M., to El Faso and on to Ft. Lancaster, Tex., has been given to the Midland County Historical Society by Lt. Col. Robb R. Satterfield (USAF Ret.) of Mildand who is a great-grandson of Lt. Robb.

Mrs. John A. Hord, a member of the Midland County Historical Society, was on hand in the Midland County Public Library Thursday to accept the copy of the diary.

Col. Satterfield was accompanied by his wife and their daughter, Marilyn.

Study suggests church divorce

By DAVID BEHRENS Newsday

Dialogue of the future?

1st couple: "We're going to Reno for our divorce."
2nd couple: "We're going to Haiti."
3rd couple: "I guess we're sentimental. We'll have a traditional church divorce ... just the family and a few friends. It is possible: While divorce has become more prevalent and more socially "acceptable" in the past two decades, it still can be a sad and painful process for many couples. And brutally lonely. Often, divorce is greeted by little more than silence from friends, acquaintances, church and family.

But according to a study by a task force of the United Methodist Church, divorce is exactly when a couple may need their friends, their church and their God the most. The new publication, "Ritual in a New Day," suggests way of bringing divorce to the altar:

A joyless couple stands solemnly before their minister.

Friends and family look on to provide support

sband and wife "release" The former no other with vows of forgiveness and charity and gratitude for good times ... Wedding rings are moved to the right hand.

The suggested ritual is not in practice yet, but members of the Methodist task force think their church would be the first to legitimize a divorce ceremony. The proposed divorce ritual itself is a far cry from earlier Methodist thinking. In 1884, for instance, the church ruled that divorced members could only remarry "an innocent party whose spouse was involved in adultery.

Blaze scorches west end

By JIM STEINBERG

Thirty-mile-an-hour winds turned a small fire in a roadside ditch into a raging prairie fire at times two miles wide that threatened Midland's west side Thursday afternoon.

The fire, first reported by the Midland County sheriff's office at 12:32 p.m. as being alongside FM 1788 one mile north of U.S. 80, quickly spread along the dry grasslands sending columns of smoke hundreds of feet into the air, and forcing the evacuation of 479 students at Henderson Elementary School, 4800 Graceland Drive, and 528 students at Anson Jones Elementary School, 4919. Shadylane Drive at about 1:30 p.m. "We've had fires that burned longer and covered more area, but we've never had one that threatened the City of Midland like this one." Fire Chief Melvin Little said.

Off-duty firemen were called in and more than 150 persons volunteered to establish a firebreak at Holiday Hill Road, some six miles from the fire's original starting point.

"I think just about every department in the city had people out there fighting that fire," police chief Wayne

Gideon said.

Law enforcement personnel set up roadblocks to keep curiosity seekers out of the fireline area at Holiday Hill Road and knocked on doors of residents of southwest Midland, asking them to water down yards and roofs, Gideon said.

Many people volunteered to give police a hand directing traffic, Gideon said, while others who just came to watch, at times interferred with the flow of heavy earth-moving equip-

WASHINGT. N (AP) — The Carter administration, in an action designed to dramatize its commitment to human rights, is recommending cuts in foreign military aid to Argentina, Uruguay and Ethiopia because of concern that those nations are abusing their citizens' rights.

The cuts, revealed by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance on Thursday, involve millions of dollars, but only Uruguay would be completely cut off from U.S. military aid.

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

The name of a deer hunter who killed the slayer of a police officer probably should be released, Texas Attorney General John Hill said Thursday.

But, Hill said, he would not "foreclose any arguments" against making the name of the hunter public.

Hill spoke at a news conference at U.S. farming interests want the American negotiators to seek new access for food exports abroad, and are more than willing to grant increased access to foreign industrial goods here in exchange. U.S. industrial interests tend to take the opposite view.

It is understood that Carter, Vice President Mondale, White House adviser Hamilton Jordan and others involved in filling the trade job had a difficult time finding someone acceptable to most major factions.

The name of the San Angelo man who shot Larry Darnell Ewers in an attempt to save the life of Department of Public Safety patrolman Sammy Long Nov. 21 was withheld originally hy Reagan County District Attorney Aubrey Edwards.

District Judge Charles Sherill of Fort Stockton ordered all transcripts relating to the case sealed after a grand jury decided not to indict the deer hunter.

The name of the hunter was withheld at first to protect his identity until the gunman who killed Long was

Thorp, Tolliver know horses

Joe Thorp had rather brag on Clayton Tolliver than on just about anything else — although he's worth a good vaunt 'n' boast himself.

"He's a good'un," horse stabler Thorp said of race horse trainer Tolliver. "This son o' bitch is smart. He can tell you what's what about horses. He lacks this much (half inch or so) being a vet," said the exuberant Thorp.

Thorp, who wears a musty cowboy hat and an outfit to match, is an oilfield pumper when he's not stabling and breeding horses or setting up a rodeo or some other horse fare.

This man Thorp is a former cowhand, rodeo cowboy and a bit-actor, an extra, who played wrangler parts in the old Western movies.

Lately, he and his wife Elizabeth have been running the J&E Stables and fixing up and readying the Thorp Rodeo Arena west of town.

This fellow Tolliver, who grew up with horses on a ranch near Sonora, was a rodeo cowboy, a hig-timer was a rodeo cowboy, a big-timer.

And since 1944, for 33 straight years. Tolliver has been breaking, training and readying thoroughbreds and quarterhorses for the racetracks. He runs Midland Downs just east of Strauss, 58, a lawyer and self-made millionaire from the small Texas town of Lockhart, was given much of the credit for pulling the Democratic party together after its disastrous factional strife in 1972.

He provided Carter with a boost by naming him national Democratic campaign chairman for the 1974 elections, a post that helped the little-known Georgia governor broaden his political contacts before launching his successful bid for the Presidency in Strauss resigned as the Democratic national chairman to make way for Carter's personal choice, former Maine Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis, 46, to take over last month.

As special trade representative, Strauss will have to walk a narrow line between a variety of powerful competing interests in the United States as well as deal effectively with representatives of America's trading partners.

Many U.S. corporations are eager to reduce or remove tariffs, quotas and other barriers to trade around the world. Other corporations — and many labor unions — are concerned about protecting domestic jobs and markets from the competition of foreign-made products.

So is Thorp himself. He's particularly outspoken about this Tolliver fellow, whom he respects and cottons to. Tolliver, Thorp said, knows about everything there is to know about horses — from tail to muzzle. "That's about right," Tolliver allowed. "I know a lot about 'em. I've

This expert horseman rodeoed "off and on" between 1946 and 1955. And in 1949, he wound up in the running for the Rodeo Cowboys' Association (RCA) champion saddle-bronc rider of the year.

crews were diverted to the northern tip of the fire where flames were 'higher and hotter" than the southern portion, but the threat of fire damage was considerably less, Lewis said. That point was just south of the Andrews Highway.

There, heavy earth graders plowed side-by-side to form a fire break and a water pumper followed behind to wet down grassland adjacent to the firebreaks Lewis said. Late Thurday afternoon winds dropped to speeds in the mid-20s, making the final mop-up operations easier. Then late Thursday, exhausted fire crews were called to a grass fire five miles north of Midland, near Texas evacuate was made by the school secretary and a teacher. Schools superintendent Dr. James H. Mailey said the schools were evacuated after the school secretaries reported the situation. After the children had been cleared from the building, the police requested buses to take the students out of the area.

Mailey said. At Jones, the fire came as close as one block from the school, principal Keller Stamy said.

The building was cleared about 1:45 and the students transported by bus to Alamo Junior High School. They were moved back to Jones about 2:45, Hilda Hinds, first grade teacher at Henderson, sald some of her children eried from fright during the evacuation. "I just reassured them," she said.

"The only bit of confusion at all was when parents came rushing up and grabbing their children. . . and we were trying our best to see who had been taken and where," Mrs. Hinds

Stamy said the smoke set off some mild asthma attacks but the evacuation "went fine." While waiting for the buses, Stamy said, the children were told to sit down as close to the ground as possible to cut down on smoke inhalation.

Mailey said "normal emergency procedures" were used at both schools. He said the teachers did "a superb job" of keeping the students orderly.

This is the first time schools have had to be evacuated in Midland because of grass fires. Mailey said the rapid movement of the fire was what made it imperative to evacuate immediately because "we didn't want to evacuate them into burning grass."

He said the transportation department did a good job of providing "all the buses we could get our hands on" to help in the effort. Police had to escort some buses.

An evaluation of the experience will be made to see if other contingency plans need to be made, Mailey said.

Sometimes it's a need to augment the family's income. Sometimes it's a desire to switch from full-time desire to switch from full-time homemaker to active participant in the business or professional world. Whatever the motivation, more married women are in the American labor force today than at any point in the country's history. And one result is a dramatic increase in the number of working couples — over 16 million and still growing.

For the husbands and wives involved in this phenomenon of the seventies, the changing pattern of living is not always easy to adapt to. As the former Mrs. Housewife backs the family's second car out of the garage or runs for the 7:45 bus, she leaves behind the traditional duties which have heretofore received her wholehearted attention. Obviously, the home scenario has to be rewritten. the home scenario has to be rewritten.

the home scenario has to be rewritten.

"When the wife as well as the husband spend their days out in the work world, the home takes on a different character," J. Ernest Clark, senior designer for a home furnishings firm, said. "It is no longer an environment decorated, organized and operated by a woman who greets a returning husband at 5:30 with the place in picture-perfect order, sparkling crystal on the table and sparkling crystal on the table and homemade bread in the oven creating the right atmosphere for their special lifestyle poses a real challenge to both

Clark suggests a few goals for the working couple who want their home to serve as a functional support system as well as a comfortable setting for mutually and individually egalitarian quality.

2. Organize storage space. A place for everything and everything in its place may seem like an unrealistic dream for the working couple. But an organization plan which incorporates the right furnishings into every room setting can remove much of the onus from pick-up-and-put-away chores. For example, filling an otherwise dull wall with wood and glassfront stackable units not only allows ample storage space but creates visual interest as well.

terest as well.

3. Entertain casually. Almost all home chefs have perfected some favorite hurry-up menus for serving guests. Sit-down meals, after-theater gatherings and Sunday buffet brunches can be managed with ease and aplomb when the fare and the surroundings are kept casual and informal. Timing and number of guests have to be important considerations.

4. Make room for privacy. Transform a garage into a studio, split a den in half or settle for a dining room table turned into a temporary desk, but be sure to provide adequate at-home work space for both careerists. No matter how hard most people try to leave the job behind at the end of the day, there is always that occasional night or weekend when a few extra papers have been stuffed into the briefcase and dutifully carted home. Lack of at least a modicum of privacy for these after-hours assignments can strain the patience and the relationship of the working couple.

5. Simplify the environment. An uncluttered home interior with a minimum of dust-catching accessories and a maximum of worksaving devices is a requisite Com-

Man gets Soviet kidney

NEW YORK (AP) — In an episode that doctors dubbed "From Russia With Love," a 32-year-old Brooklyn construction worker has received a new kidney only 48 hours after its original owner, a 16-year-old youth, died in an automobile accident in

"This is indeed a testament to the brotherhood of man," said Dr. William Stubenbod, the surgeon who performed the kidney transplant on Jose Serrano at the New York SUN POWER Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

Dr. Albert Rubin, who earlier had made the informal arrangement with a Soviet physician that led to the trans-Atlantic transplant, said it came about because Russia's "brain death" law makes organs more readily available.

Dr. Rubin said he learned during a trip to Moscow that organ procurement was "more advanced" there, and last September arranged with Dr. Valery Schumakov of Moscow's Institute of Organ and Tissue Transplant to try the trans-Atlantic operation.

He said an estimated 50,000 persons in this country are receiving dialysis

Kansas wheat crop damage not as great as expected

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — The head of the federal government's Soil Conservation Service in Kansas said Wednesday's dust storm severely damaged the wheat crop in some counties in extreme western Kansas but the overall damage is not as great as in-dicated by the intensity and immensity of the storm.

Robert Griffin, the soil conservation service direc-tor, said a more exact measurement of the loss will not be available until the service receives the next of its field reports at the end of February.

"Most of that dust in the air was from eastern Colorado, and dust in the air doesn't damage the wheat," Griffin said. "It is local blowing dust that does the harm, cutting off the wheat and finally blowing the roots out of the ground."

Griffin said there was some damage from local blowing dust in Kansas, particularly in a dozen or so counties along the Colorado line or one tier back in the southwest corner of the state. His calls to Syracuse had determined one of the hardest hit counties was Hamilton, on the Colorado border west of Garden City.

Griffin had reports that 30 to 40 per cent of the wheat acreage in Hamilton County was damaged and that on about half that acreage the crop was destroyed. Hamilton County harvested 112,000 acres Around Hugoton, in the second county back from the Colorado line and on the Oklahoma border, local blowing was estimated to have damaged 8,000 to 10,000 acres. Stevens County harvested 39,500 acres of wheat last year after dry weather led to abandonment of almost half of its 86,000 seeded acres.

Griffin indicated checks with some of the other counties indicated they had damage from local blowing ranging from 8,000 to 15,000 acres. Most of them usually harvest at least 100,000 acres.

The soil conservation specialist said continued lack of rain plus a shortage of subsoil moisture because of several years of dry weather have brought the 1977 crop to a critical point.

Some specialists have estimated more than four million acres are ripe for the local dust blowing which hit the extreme western counties Wednesday- out of a state total of around 12 million acres

"But you still have to remember that wheat is a very hardy plant," Griffin said. Griffin said he had word from eastern Colorado that 25 to 30 per cent of the crop there was destroyed.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) The Senate Finance Committee approved, 10-0, Thursday a bill to exempt all Texas-published newspapers and magazines from the state sales tax on mail

The same form of bill will be presented to the House Ways and Means Committee next Monday.

Under a substitute bill presented by Sens. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena; Bill Meier, D-Euless, and Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells, a newspaper was defined as a publication printed on newsprint and sold for an average sales price per copy for not more than 50 cents.

The original bill was sponsored by Sen. A.M. Aikin, D-Paris

President Bill Hartman Newspaper Association told the committee today that the definition will cover all Texas papers although about half a dozen papers now charge 50 cents for their Sunday issue. He said the state comptroller computes the average sales price pe copy over a 30-day before the oil shortage our orders were up. People seem to be returning to things of proven substance and stove."

There also is something solid and comforting, if not ironic, about a century-old stove foundry, using methods and patterns unchanged over the years, struggling to keep up with demand for a product considered obsolete two decades ago.

When it comes to cast iron wood stoves, John Pozerycki is an incurable romantic. The bustle rattling the old handhewn rafters at the Portland Stove Foundry was not really what he expected when he took over the company two years ago.

"I was just looking for some place to go in Maine," he said. "I was 60. The children were grown and married, and I had had enough of traveling all over the place as a consulting engineer.

Californians relaxing

Carter to ask pricing power for department

WASHINGTON - President Carter will ask Congress next week to give his new Department of Energy power

to set prices for oil and natural gas.

The legislation, which calls for creation of a Cabinet department to coordinate the nation's energy policies, goes to Capitol Hill Tuesday. It would abolish several agencies—the Federal Power Commission, the Federal Energy Administration, and Federal Energy Administration, and the Energy Research and Develop-ment Administration — and transfer their functions plus energy respon-sibilities from other agencies to the new department.

Details of the reorganization, the first fundamental change in the federal government since the Department of Transportation was created in 1966, were made available Thursday to The Washington Post.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), who will introduce the administration bill, promised that his Government Operations Committee will hold hearings within the next two weeks.

"My feeling is that the President is going to have to fight and fight hard," Ribicoff said. Congressional sources and leaders of a number of interest groups have expressed concern over what impact the new Cabinet office would have on energy policy and on the power of key congressional committees, especially

Besides getting all FPC, FEA and ERDA functions, the new department would receive from the Interior Department regional marketing functions over electric power, now handled by the Bureau of Reclamation and the Interior's four regional power administrations; energy data collection done by the Bureau of Mines; and control over the rate of public land leasing and energy production responsibilities currently under the Geological Survey and the Bureau of Land Management. The BLM will retain responsibility for actual leasing of public lands.

The new department also would

-Authority to set thermal efficiency standards for model residential and commercial building codes now in the Department of Housing and Urban Development. -Voluntary industrial energy conservation programs from the Commerce Department. -Jurisdiction over the Naval Petroleum Reserves and Naval Oil

Shale Reserves currently in the Department of Defense. -Securities and Exchange Com-mission authority to regulate electrical utility mergers.

-The Interstate Commerce Commission's oil pipeline ratemaking authority.

The new department will also have an advisory role in recommending auto efficiency standards to the

Val Verde well finals

The Devil's River (Strawn) gas field of North Val Verde County gained its fifth well and a 1/2-mile east extension with completion of Gulf Oil Corp. No. 5 Bertha Glasscock, eight miles northeast of Juno.

It finaled for a calculated, absolute pen flow of 13.5 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations at 10,157-10,260 feet, after treating the pay section with 17,000 gallons of acid. Total depth is 10,450 feet, and 51/2inch casing was set at 10,448 feet.

Location is 2,291 feet from north and 2,264 feet from west lines of section 5. block G, GWT&P survey, abstract

Carter's energy reorganization plan closely follows the outlines of a plan set forth in a campaign statement last

Sept. 21.
Abolition of the FPC, and Carter's plan to combine regulatory and development functions in a single department are viewed by some congressional sources as the most controversial dimensions of the President's proposal.

Rep. John D. Dingell (D-Mich.), who chairs a key House energy subcommittee, said, "I may have reservations about transferring federal regulatory responsibilities to an old-line Cabinet authority." Dingell, however, said the program 'should be enacted as early as the regulation of crude oil, petroleum products and natural gas were not embodied in the same department."

Carter's plan would insulate the Energy Department's pricing and allocation functions within an Energy Regulatory Administration and would create a Board of Appeals composed of administrative law judges who conduct hearings on rate and conduct hearings on rate and allocation decisions. The Occupational Health and Safety ministration within the Labor Department has a similar body.

Wednesday appeared to relax its opposition to Standard Oil Company of Ohio's proposed oil terminal in Long Beach, Calif., thanks largely to new regulatory assurances from the Federal Energy Administration.

WASHINGTON - California

John O'Leary, the new FEA administrator, has indicated that the Long Beach project will not be approved unless it meets both state and federal environmental standards, Tom Quinn, chairman of California's Air Resources Board, said Wed-

Quinn indicated he would no longer stand in the way of the project if it meets the state's standards.

"I've never said I opposed it. I'm opposed to it unless there are very rigid environmental controls." Quinn said. "We felt all along there was a reasonable possibility those problems could be solved." The FEA already is "leaning

Popping of pills

Dear Dr. Solomon: Do you think that all the pill-popping that is going on to relieve anxiety is a good thing. During the last few years, I've noticed that most of the people I know have taken to tranquilizers. They carry them around in their purse or pocket and just reach for them the way you would for a cigarette. Wouldn't it be better to try to cope. It seems to me that getting through one crisis helps you make it through the next—it sort of toughens you. What do you think...—Gail.

Dear Gail: There is no doubt that Americans have taken to tranquilizers in a big way since they came on the market, back in the '50s. Valium is the most widely sold prescription drug in the country, and on the market, back in the '50s. Valum is the most widely sold prescription drug in the country, and Librium is number three. They are chemical cousins—belonging to a group called benzodiazepines—and together account for about 80 million prescriptions in a single year.

Many doctors would agree with you that tranquilizers are overused. There are occasional side effects like insomnia, lessening of sexual drive, nauses beadaches and dizziness. And prolinged use

nausea, headaches and dizziness. And prolinged use

nausea, headaches and dizziness. And prolinged use can lead to dependence. The Food and Drug Administration cautions, too, that use of tranquilizers by pregnant women can cause birth defects.

There is also good evidence that they impair skills needed in driving or operating machinery—they certainly do when combined with alcohol. So one shouldn't take them if one is doing anything that requires full mental alertness. The FDA took these potential hazards into account last year when it put limits on refilling tranquilizer prescriptions.

All this doesn't mean that tranquilizers aren't very good drugs when used properly. This means under a doctor's advice and direction they can tide a person over a difficult period, and they are helpful in treating hypertension, muscle spasm, epilepsy and other disorders. And so-called major tranquilizers, a separate group, have proved effective in getting other disorders. And so-called major tranquilizers, a separate group, have proved effective in getting serious mental illnesses under control.

One point in favor of the minor prescription tranquilizers, such as Valium, Librium, Equanil and Miltown, is that they seem to be both safer and more effective than over-the-counter products advertised for simple paragraphs. for simple nervous tension. Almost all the non-prescription tranquilizing drugs contain an an-tihistamine, a bromide or a sedative from the deadly tihistamine, a bromide or a sedative from the deadly nighshage plant called scopalamine—or a combination of these substances. The bromides and scopalamine are ineffective in small doses and dangerous in large ones, according to an FDA panel. And the only way antihistamines seem to ease tension is by inducing sleepiness. The panel also found that patients with only mild anxiety responded about equally well to whatever pill the doctor gave them—including a sugar pill.

I personally feel that a certain amount of stress and tension is a normal and healthy part of life and that we should not try to tranquilize it away with pills. If anxiety becomes a real problem, tranquilizers can be a useful aid temporarily, but in the long run, if the anxiety is interfering with life, the underlying problem may need looking into under professional guidance.

He pioneered 'Keydoozle'

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Two Memphis banks have placed mechanical tellers in area supermarkets in an effort to automate at least a portion of the weekly marketing chore.

But the banks are 37 years behind Clarence Saunders, a supermarket genius who once automated an entire store. The banks' automatic teller machines are supposed to make it easier for customers to obtain cash or pay for their purchases at the point of purchase.

But the customer still has to push a cart around the store and stand in line at a cash register before the groceries can be taken home. Clarence Saunders, who made and lost at least two fortunes in the grocery business in Memphis, wanted to eliminate all that. He came up with what he called the "Keydoozle

Instead of a push cart, customers picked up a sistol-like device or Keydoozle when they entered the

Instead of strolling up and down long aisles of grocery shelves, shoppers made their selections from a wall studded with small display windows and keyholes. Behind each window was a can, box or other type of merchandise, labeled with its price.

Selections were made by inserting the Keydoozle into the keyhole beneath the windows. That registered the price on a roll of paper tape in the Keydoozle's handle and triggered an electrical switch which allowed the merchandise to drop onto a conveyor belt deep inside the store.

conveyor belt deep inside the store. The system was designed to make the shopper and his selections arrive at the cashier at the same time.

Checkout time was supposed to average less than a Eldon Roark, a columnist for the Press-Scimitar. Memphis' afternoon newspaper, remembers the Keydoozle market.

"It worked very well, but I think Saunders had to have more people to make the thing work than he would have had in a regular supermarket," Roark

The store closed during World War II.
"Saunders said he couldn't get men to maintain the equipment," Roark said.

In 1939, Saunders boasted his store could handle 10 customers a minute, each spending $2, which in those days would purchase a large bug of groceries.

Never one to think small, Saunders planned a

The first Keydoozle store, however, was also apparently the last. It was also Saunders' last fling in parently the last.

Saunders made his first million when he built the "Piggly Wiggly" supermarket chain. He lost that business in a battle with what he called "the wolves M of Wall Street" in the 1920s.

Do you have a friend? A friend who would leave his business and fly to your bedside when you were sick, a friend who had a sick sister and children but never faltered when eveyone else turned you down to be with you. A friend who spent $20,000 in two years on you trying to help you out, to make you better. I have had open heart surgery and I am on the road to recovery but could never have done it without a friend such as mine. If anybody has a friend like mine, thank God for him or her every day. I just wish to say God Bless and Thank You. There is no way to repay, except with love from my heart. Thank You brother, 694-3125.

Our Father in Heaven, Holy is thy name. I have been a sinner and I have been sick. I believe in the Holy Trinity-which is: Our Father, his son Jesus Christ, and the Holy Spirit. The truth first enters my mind and then my heart; this is a baptism of the Holy Spirit. Through the power of Jesus Christ the evil thought in my mind will be purged out and the evil words that come from my heart through my mouth will cease forever, and I will speak only truths. This will heal the sickness of my flesh; I understand that as long as my flesh lives there will be some evil remain in my flesh by nature, but with the Holy truths in my mind and heart I will control these evils and live by purpose and not by desires. I will live in dignity and not disgrace. When I speak I will hesitate until our Lord gives me the words to say. I will no longer have any fears because thou are with me. Surely Goodness and Mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever. Amen.

Chaparrals finish fast to win 'slow' game

Action under the basket at times was rough and ready as indicated by this melee in Thursday's NMMI vs. Midland College game. In white are Midland's Ricky Hudgins (42) and Jeff Jackson (30) while Reggie Franklin, second from left, and Harvey Daniels (50) are the NMMI players identifiable.

David Hobbs signs with Cisco College

CISCO - David Hobbs, an outstanding football player from Midland Lee High School has signed with Cisco Junior College for the coming school year of 1977-78, ac-cording to an announcement by Karl Sartore, head football coach. David is the son of Mr. and Mrs.

Conrad Hobbs of 1800 Culver in the Tall City. He is 6-0 and weighs 185 pounds, and runs the 40-yard dash in 4.8, according to Lee Coach Jim Acree. Hobbs played quarterback for the Rebels and was a three-year letterman. Hobbs was chosen one of three captains of the Lee team this past season in which the Rebs went to the

BY TED BATTLES

To paraphrase that old saw about the swords, a team that survives by the slow-down offense can expect to perish the same way, which is what happened to New Mexico Military Institute in a 62-43 loss to Midland College Thursday night at the MC gym.

The loss knocked NMMI from the Region V Junior College Tournament at Abilene next week while the win nailed down sole possession of second place for the Chaparrals, who must now wait for word from Abilene to learn who its opening round foe will be in the tournament next Thursday.

IN A three-way tie for fourth and desperately needing a win, NMMI beat champion Western Texas College with the slow-down, 50-49, in overtime last week and for a while Thursday, it looked like it might work

In a game in which there were so many backdoor entries, it at times looked more like a thieves' convention than a basketball game, the Broncos jumped to a 6-0 lead and led 16-10, 23-6 and 27-20 at various stages in the first half.

Coach Dave Campbell's strategy was simple and for a long while effective. Keep the ball at mid-court and along the sidelines and moving until someone was left unattended umder the basket and, then, pow, right in the bucket. DOWN 27-20 with 3:07 left in the half, MC rallied on a 12-foot jumper by Jeff Jackson and then two quick turnovers led to Ron Jones baskets and when Tommy Parks converted a couple of free throws with 57 seconds to go, MC had its first lead, 28-27. Jackson's tip made a three-point edge before 6-6 Reggie Franklin cut it to 30-29 at the half.

And if the stall worked for NMMI in the first half, MC Coach Delnor Poss figured there was no reason why it couldn't work for the Chaps in the second. However, MC had to get the

Jones' basket and two by 6-6 Ricky Hudgins made it 36-31. Franklin, NMMI's leading scorer with 14, countered for the Broncos, but then Sim Nickerson converted a pair of free throws to make it 38-33 with 15:42 left. That's when Poss opened the icebox door with a hand signal from

"WE WERE just going for the high percentage shot and had the patience to wait for it," he said.

By the time the clock wound down to 6:00, MC had a 52-37 lead, waiting on the outside for the defensive lapse that would open the lane for Parks or Alvin Mayes to drive for the hoop and the easy basket.

Hudgins led the Chaps in scoring with 16 and Parks had 12, but Tommy, working under the pressure of a "We can't make a mistake offense" probably worked harder than he does on one of those 30 point nights.

Parks in addition to his scoring had five steals and three assists while Hudgins' 11 rebounds were tops.

Play was marred near the end when Franklin fouled Nickerson in the backcourt, a legitimate tactic to break a stall, but Sim thought the gusto attached was uncalled for.

NICKERSON CAME up swinging and suffered a nasty gash on his knuckles in addition to being ejected. Franklin, the Broncos' leading scorer from Houston Yates, lost a tooth.

When the end of the game came soon after, the happy Chaps, who finished 21-8, hoisted Coach Delnor Poss to their shoulders in a triumphal exit and when they spotted Chester Story, whom Poss succeeded Jan. 20, he was given the shoulder ride treatment as well.

CHAP CHIRPS - NMMI was so careful in making sure outset that the Broncos went the first seven minutes before missing a shot....The win gave MC a 12-6 WJCC finish. The top four teams in the WJCC qualify for the Region V tournament in Abilene while four more teams come from the Eastern Conference, where McLennan is repeating as champion.... MC was 14 of 34 from the field in the first half and 10 of 17 the second half. NMMI was 13 of 20 the first half.

Judy Rankin one to beat

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) - The 105 golfers teeing off in the $100,000 Bent Tree Classic today will have to beat favorite Judy Rankin, who captured the last LPGA tournament by five strokes.

The par-72, 6,214-yard Bent Tree course is especially demanding in the wind. But the wind didn't stop Mrs. Rankin in the Orange Blossom at St. Petersburg, Fla., last Sunday.

Mrs. Rankin collected $7,500 at St. Petersburg, second stop in the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour. Her $150,000 winnings last year set a tour record.

Among the pros entered at Bent Tree Golf and Racquet Club is Kathy Whitworth, who last winter won this tournament in its first year by one stroke over Holis Stacey.

No picnic for Ernie

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) Pittsburgh Steelers defensive tackle Ernie Holmes, acquitted Thursday of cocaine possession charges, said of the last 14 months since his arrest in Amarillo: "I felt like I was on a deserted island with no water, no food, with only salt water and sun staring at me."

The 260-pound member f the "Steel Curtain" defense heard his character praised by several Steeler personalities during the trial, including President Coach Chuck Noll.

Holmes was arrested in motel restroom during wedding reception Jan. 31, 1976.

Jurors believed his version of what hap-pened—that a man stered him to buy what what described as a "silver bullet." Holmes is a collector of silver.

MC girls in fifth

Midland College girls stand in fifth place after the first day of action in the TAIAW swim meet here Thursday.

The University of Texas girls lead the meet after the first day with 182 points while Texas A&M is second with 169 points. Houston has 107 markers and Lamar leads Midland College, 98-92. Southern Methodist has 88 and Texas Tech 83

Gary Player leads Gleason tourney

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)

— "I have as much desire as those young fellows," said 40-year-old Gary Player after overcoming wind to score a four-under-par 68 for the first round lead in the $250,000 Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Golf Classic.

Player was talking about the young PGA players who captured the year's first seven events—Jerry Pate, 23; Bruce Lietzke and Tom Purtzer, both 25, and Tom Watson, 27.

Bruce Lietzke and Tom Purtzer, both 25, and Tom Watson, 27.

A few hours after his statement, he found himself being shadowed, at 69, by an even younger lion—22-year-old Curtis Strange, the 1974 NCAA champion. Strange, who failed by a stroke to earn his playing card last fall, got into this 159-man field on a sponsor's FIVE PLAYERS stood another shot behind after Thursday's first round, at 70, headed by Jack Nicklaus. The Golden Bear started out like he was going to gain a commanding first-round lead, going five under par after 12 holes. But he faltered in the wind.

Tied with Nicklaus at 70 were Jim Simons, Bobby Walzel, Calvin Peete and Fuzzy Zoeller. Purtzer, who won last week's Los Angeles Open, was out of contention at 79. Player, one of four players to have captured all the major tour-naments—the British and U.S. opens, the Masters and PGA-said the new competition was good.

Nicklaus thought Player got an advantage by playing the front nine first Thursday morning before the winds of 17-21 miles an hour got gusty.

The

UCLA back on top in Pac-8

By The Associated Press

"I'm really happy for George Raveling," UCLA Coach Gene Bar-tow said Thursday night after learn-ing that Raveling's Washington State team had knocked off Oregon.

Chances are, though, he was even happier for Gene Bartow.
That's because UCLA's 114-83 rout of Stanford, coupled with Washington State's 55-53 defeat of 17th-ranked Stanford, restored Bartow's fifth-ranked Bruins to what they consider their rightful spot—namely, un-disputed possession of first place in the Pacific-8 Conference. Oregon trails by a game and both teams have two contests remaining.

FOUR OTHER members of The Associated Press' Top 20 were in action and all were winners.

Sam Smith scored 24 of his 30 points in the second half to lead fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas past Denver 99-82; Ray Williams and Kevin McHale combined for 52 points, including nine of Minnesota's 10 in overtime, as the 13th-ranked Gophers shaded Purdue 84-78; Cincinnati, No. 14, spanked Biscayne 74-43 and Terry Duerod scored 21 points as No. 16 Detroit thrashed Marshall 122-86.

Locked in an unaccustomed tie for the Pac-8 lead after bowing to Oregon's deliberate attack last weekend, UCLA came out running and gunning with its most explosive performance of the campaign. Marques Johnson led the way with 30 points and 14 rebounds while David Greenwood added 26 points. "It felt good to get running again," Johnson said. "If we sustain our intensity like tonight there's no reason why we can't go to Pocatello and continue through Provo and Atlanta."

THOSE ARE the three stops UCLA

THOSE ARE the three stops UCLA must make if it hopes to win the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball championship.

Meanwhile, Oregon went down to defeat despite Greg Ballard's 22 points when Washington State's Marty Giovacchini scored his only basket of the game on a driving bank shot with 5 seconds left and added a free throw 12 seconds later.

Nevada-Las Vegas led Denver by only 37-35 at halftime but pulled away with a 12-2 spurt at the start of the second half, including three straight baskets by Smith. Eddie Owens added 20 points for the Rebeis.

Williams scored 29 points, grabbed 16 rebounds and handed out seven assists for Minnesota while McHale had 23 points. The Gophers had to play the last 3:52 without conference scoring leader Michael Thompson, whose 13 points made him the first player ever to score 1,000 points in Big Ten competition before his senior BOB MILLER and Steve Collier powered Cincinnati over Biscayne with 15 points apiece. The Bearcats broke open a tight game by outscoing the losers 23-6 over the last 81/4 minutes of the first half.

Detroit surged to a 54-30 halftime bulge over Marshall and continued to pour it on, putting six men in double figures.

Elsewhere:

—Indiana, playing without injured star center Kent Benson, lost to lowly Wisconsin 66-64 on Bob Falks' turnaround jump shot with three seconds left. The Hoosiers' record dropped to 12-12 in the wake of a national chamionship season a year ago.

Stevens gives Court a scare

DETROIT (AP) — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia trounced Wendy Overton Thursday in the Women's Professional Tennis Tournament, but Australia's Margaret Court had a tougher time with her opponent.

It took three sets before Miss Court, seeded third, managed to score a come-from-behind triumph over Greer Stevens of South Africa 5-7, 7-6, 6-3. Miss Navratilova defeated Miss Overton of Boca Raton, Fla., 63, 6-2.

England's Virginia Wade, the No. 4 seed, downed Renata Tomanova of Czechoslovakia 75, 7-6. In doubles competition, the team of JoAnne Russell of Naples, Fla., and Janet Newberry of Los Angeles upset a Court-Wade combination in a marathon match that continued until nearly 1 a.m.

The score was 6-7, 7-6, 7-6.

The team of Miss Navratilova and Betty Stove of Holland won by default over Miss Stevens and Kerry Reid of Australia. Mrs. Reid was reported suffering from a bad ankle.

No. 2-seeded Sue Barker of England and Terry Holladay defeated Romania's Virginia Ruzici and Yugoslavia's Mima Jausovec 6-3, 6-3; No. 8-seed Kristien Shaw and Val Ziegenfuss, both of San Diego, Calif., defeated No. 5-seeded Rosemary Casals and Francois Durr of France 7-6, 6-4.

In afternoon singles matches, Yvonne Vermaak of South Africa upset No. 6-seeded Miss Stove 6-4, 6-2; Miss Ruzici defeated Cynthia Doerner of Australia 6-1, 6-4, Miss Durr bested Miss Shaw 6-2, Shaw 6-

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) - Veteran Raul Ramirez of Mexico brought 17-year-old Eliot Teltscher back to earth with a straight-set victory Thursday in the $225,000 Tennis Games at Mission Hills Country Club.

The youngster from Palos Verdes, Calif., had been the surprise of the tournament after his upset Wednesday of 16th-seeded Cliff Richey. But Thur-sday he was leveled 6-4, 6-2 by the top-seeded Ramirez, the former University of Southern California star and Mexican Davis Cup captain.

Second-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina also defeated a Palos Verdes youngster when he took former UCLA star Billy Martin in straight sets 6-3, 6-

It's a family affair in the water

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

Steve Montgomery has discovered that recruiting swimmers under the "family plan" can not only be profitable, but quite interesting as

"It's different," explained the cordial Midland College tank coach. There's never been a dull monent around here this year."

Different is just one of the many explatives that have been used to describe the presence of Chris and Beth Lysinger, and Fernando and Denise Prado, the two brother-sister combinations on the Chaparral squad who have made this season a real family affair — minus Buffy, Jody, Cissy, Uncle Bill and Mr. French. They've made the 1976-77 campaign successful as well, with the kind of talent that has Montgomery thinking about next signing the Quenus quintuplets.

MONTGOMERY DIDN'T recruit the Lysingers and Prados with a package deal in mind, but it seems to have worked out that way, and no one's complaining, least of all Mon-

The Chap mentor first lured Denise and Chris, the elder statesmen (or statespersons if you prefer) of their families to the Tall City campus, and last fall, no doubt induced by glowing reports from big brother and big sister about Montgomery and the MC swim program, Fernando and Beth

The story of how the Frados ended up at Midland College is a credit to Montgomery's magnetic personality and his obvious powers of persuasion.

While attending the American
Swimming Coaches Clinic in Las Vegas four years ago, Montgomery met and became acquainted with the Prados' Brazilian swim tutor. Through him, he offered Denise a scholarship, and several months later, the dark-haired lass was enrolled at MC.

Paulo high school, it didn't quite prepare her for the land of the Southern drawl.

"SHE WAS sweet," H.A. Tuck, the school's Sports Information Director remembered with an amusing grin "She just walked around those first few weeks smiling at everybody and shaking her head.

Denise agreed. "I had some English in high school, but when I came here and tried to talk with people, it was so different," she laughed.

Fortunately, time and a few more English courses have broken down the language barrier Denise en countered, and the pretty Soutl American can now concentrate or getting an education and swimming - the latter of which she does ver well. In 1973, as a member of the Brazilian team, she participated is the World Student Games in Russia.

At Midland, her specialties includ the 100 and 200 butterfly and the in dividual medley event, and she is jus now returning to top form, afte taking an entire year off to con centrate on her studies.

HER BROTHER Fernando, who also swims the 100 and 200 'flies, has only been in the United States a little more than a month. He graduated from high school in January, and quickly followed his sister to Midland. where he has had a little bit more success in his initial encounter with the "real" American language and Chris and Beth have never had to worry about adjusting to America. They've lived here all their lives. The two hail from a family of ten children that now resides in Portland, Texas, a small town just 10 miles outside of Corpus Christi, and swimming has practically been a way of life for them the past decade. "Everyone of my brothers and sisters is a swimmer," explained Chris, "except the youngest one that

Staff Photo By Charles McCain They've got swimming in their blood. Sitting on one of the starting blocks is Denise Prado and Beth Lysinger, while Fernando Prado and Chris Lysinger back them up.

He's an All-American breaststroker who holds the junior college national record in the 100. Beth is also exceptional in the breastroke events, as well as the 500 freestyle.

The Lysingers' presence under the MC banner stems from a vow Chris made to himself as a freshman in high school. He swore that he would earn a swimning scholarship to college, and although he performed well in the state meet as a senior four years later, coaches didn't exactly shower him with overwhelming offers.

FINALLY, ON April 1, Montgomery called Chris on the phone and offered him that full scholarship. "I thought it was an April fool's joke at first," Chris admitted two years

It wasn't, and Lysinger accepted. Beth admits that her brother's presence at MC had a lot to do with her coming here, and she doesn't hide the fact that Chris has been a great aid to her in the water.

"I rely on him a lot of times," she said, "and he's helped me a lot." It's obvious that the Lysingers and the Prados are closely knit families, and swimming has had a great deal to do with that. But this weekend. they've gone their separate ways. Chris and Fernando are up in Livonia, Michigan for the National Junior College Athletic Association Championships, while Denise and Beth are down in Houston for the Association for Inter-collegiate Athletics for Women state meet. While miles of American terrain may separate them, it's quite obvious even now, that the family that plays together, stays together, and the family that swims together . . . ends up at Midland College.

Bring on Buffy and Jody, Mr. French.

Finley expected to ink Dick Allen

By The Associated Press

And now to further enthrall you, baseball fans, comes the latest shocker courtesy of Charles O.

Reportedly galloping from his Perkasie, Pa., farm to join up with the mule-loving maverick owner of the Oakland A's is none other than the noted Pennsylvania horse-fancier Richard Anthony "Call Me Dick"

How do you like them apples, Bowie

The report comes from Finley, who disclosed Thursday that he expected to reach agreement "any minute" with the veteran slugger, who'll be 35 next month and who was cut adrift by the Philadelphia Phillies following another antic-filled 1976 season.

If Allen indeed makes it to Oakland. the A's will be the controversial first baseman's fifth major league club, including two tours with the Phillies, who had it up to here with him both

Allen was up for grabs in a special free agent draft last year and the A's, clutching at straws after most of their own free agent stars fled Finley's clutches, were the only ones to reach out for him.

In 85 games with the Phillies last season, Allen batted .268 with 15 home runs and 49 runs batted in, giving him 346 homers and 1,088 RBI in his 13year career.

Finley said Allen's lawyer told him that "as far as he was concerned we had a deal, but we have to wait for Dick to give it his agreement." The A's owner would not discuss details of the planned signing, but said it would not be a long-term contract.

With Allen's checkered history, did anyone think it would be?

While Allen apparently was finding a new home just as spring training was getting under way, the Boston Red Sox were faced with a horse of a different color.

Bob Woolf, who represents Luis Tiant, the team's ace pitcher, said the 36-year-old right-hander would not report to camp today as scheduled and is "seriously considering the possibility of retirement" unless the Bosox agree to extend a contract that was renegotiated last season through 1977 to a reported $180,000 a year.

"Luis is very emotional and exceedingly disturbed by the Red Sox' refusal to extend his contract," Woolf said. "He's a man of great pride and feels he's not being treated fairly by the club, or even being treated like other players on the team."

Woolf also said Tiant has asked him "to look into the possibility of his sale of his house" in a Boston suburb.

"I feel badly about the entire thing," Woolf said. "I will continue to try to resolve the situation. I'll make every effort to do so and I'll certainly try to prevent Luis from retiring. About all I can say right now, though, is that I'm still hopeful."

In other developments around the spring camps:

-The A's sent veteran first baseman Ron Fairly to the fledgling Toronto Blue Jays for infielder Mike Weathers, whom they sold to Toronto last November for $175,000. The A's received an additional $30,000 along with Weathers.

-General Manager Dick Wagner of the world champion Cincinnati Reds said he hopes to have the team's five unsigned players under contract by

NEW YORK (AP) - Jimmy Connors' torn leg muscle was examined in Los Angeles Thurday and the tennis star has been given permission to work out lightly, a spokeswoman for promoter Bill Riordan said Thursday.

Connors, who was injured during a match in Toronto last Sunday, is scheduled to meet Ille Nastase March 5 in Puerto Rico in a nationallytelevised match.

Martel and Miss Boles seem very well matched th and wit and a "fey" and entirely believable believable I found myself worrying about her (after stage, up and down un-seen stairs and as she pulls what has to be one of the funniest run-away scenes in theater.

Martel's blustering, heavy-handed, heavyhumored Harry is quite good, too. Very wisely he has chosen to avoid a tooclose imitation of the late Paul Ford so that his characterization emerges somewhat harder-edged, it seems to me, than Ford's portraval in the Broadway version. It is nevertheless effective, and Martel has many excellent comedy moments as a result.

As the spoiled daughter and the son-in-law. outraged at the old folks' lack of decorum, Miss Gleason and Mitchell are the show started pretty first-rate. There are some especially funny intervals involving some new bathroom fixtures and Mitchell and Martel also have a very humorous drunk scene. Now, all this may sound a bit coarse or crude, but it isn't, really.

Two Midland men were sentenced to the state penitentiary this week in 142nd District Court.

John Allen Smith was found guilty Wednesday on charges of burglary. Judge Perry D. Pickett sentenced him to two years. Thursday after a jury was chosen, Langford Wood pleaded guilty to charges of delivery of heroin. Pickett set his sentence at 10 years. Both men accepted their sentences, assistant district attorney Mark Withrow said. Wood was indicted on Dec. 2, 1976, and Smith was indicted Jan. 20.
