HERSHELL TIMMONS PASSES

A highly respected old timer passed on last Thursday night about 9:45, when R. H. Timmons, aged 56, known to old timers better as Hershell, breathed his last after several weeks suffering with pneumonia and blood clots, following an operation about six weeks ago. His wife passed on some three years previously. Mr. Timmons was in the runoff for County Commissioner with Mr. George Henson.

Mr. Timmons was taken seriously ill following a speaking of the candidates at Meadow, about a week before the first primary. He was brought immediately to the Treadway-Daniel hospital, where an operation was performed next morning. He rallied quickly from the operation but complications set up in about ten days, from which he never recovered.

The body was prepared for burial by the Brownfield Funeral Home, and carried to the old home, where it was held till Friday afternoon, and carried to Meadow for the funeral at the Baptist church, of which he was a very consecrated member. Between 1500 and 2000 people were on hand to pay their last respects to their friend and neighbor, many more than could crowd into the church. Floral offerings were profuse.

Funeral rites were read by his pastor, Rev. J. N. Campbell, Rev. K. W. Horn, assisted, following which, burial was had in the Meadow cemetery. He left a son, Malcolm, and a daughter, Mrs. L. A. Wingham, four brothers, and a sister to mourn his passing. Terry county sustained a great loss in the passing of Hershell Timmons.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD "OFF-GUARD" PICTURES

MOST people like to have their pictures taken. In fact, they like it so well that when they see the camera they put on a special "picture expression." There's a way to keep your subjects from seeming camera-conscious. Briefly, it is—"Catch them when they aren't looking." Pictures so taken are known as "off-guard" snapshots. How to take them? It's easy. Just learn to handle your camera unobtrusively. If you haven't tried taking "off-guard" shots, try it. It's fun, and the results are a delight. John van Gulder

THE PUBLIC WARNED ABOUT BUYING OYSTERS

AUSTIN, Texas, August 30—"Be ware of uncertified oysters," warns Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. In Texas each grower of oysters is furnished a certificate from the State Health Department covering the oyster beds he uses, provided surveys of such areas have shown them to be free from pollution and the shucking houses are sanitary. A shipping number is granted simultaneously with the certificate, and this number must accompany all shipments of oysters to show their source. Each operator of a shucking house where oysters are opened must have a certificate testifying that his shop has been found sanitary and his employees have been examined and found free of all communicable diseases, particularly typhoid fever. These certificates are issued annually. The Federal government cooperates with the states by exercising supervision over methods used and issues lists of certified shippers in all parts of the country where oysters are produced.

MEN HIDE WHILE STATE POLICE MEND TIRES

AUSTIN — A number of Texas motorists have devised unique schemes in order to avoid repairing their cars in South Texas. In one instance two highway patrolmen reported they came upon a woman attempting to change a tire on a South Texas highway. The officers smilingly repaired the puncture, inflated the tire and put it back on the wheel. As they drove away one of them looked back and saw a man walk out of a roadside brush, climb into the car with the woman and drive away laughing. Careless week end visitors are blamed for the loss of more than 1,300,000 trees in English forest fires since the first of the year. Marketing is the other half of the job with farmers.

FARM RECORDS

COLLEGE STATION—"Running a business without records is like running a clock without hands," T. R. Timm, farm management specialist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, recently told the 430 Texas whole farm demonstrators in the course of a radio address. "It is running, but you can't tell whether it is gaining or losing or in what direction it is going." Whole farm demonstrations aim at improving the efficiency of all the farm and home operations, and record keeping is an essential part of the plan developed by the Extension Service and first put into operation in 1937. "If nothing else, record keeping causes farmers to pay closer attention to the business end of their enterprises," the economist said. "If a seaman notices a leak in his boat he quickly plugs it. All too often a farmer cannot find the leak in his business without records." Studies made by several states show conclusively that a farmer's income tends to rise as he continues to use books, he pointed out. Among the many reasons assigned to these income increases are that a farmer will not keep on using equipment or continue a type of farm operation if his records show the enterprise is losing money.

O'DANIELONA: The Flour Broker's endorsement of his six-man slate brought forth a new crop of political stories.

One going around currently tells of the genuine hillbilly supporter of O'Daniel who heard the news of the endorsement with sorrow in his heart. He felt that Lee had not only let the hillbillies down, but had ruined his own political career. The old gentleman, after July 23 had put a big picture of O'Daniel on the wall of his shack. It was his political shrine. When news of the endorsement came out, the old man got a picture of the six men who received the blessing, hung it below O'Daniel's picture. Around the group he put a piece of black cloth. A neighbor, in for a visit, asked what it was. "Oh, that's just to commemorate Lee and his six political palbearers," he replied. Two plantings of chinese cabbage at 15 day intervals will assure regular supply of this vegetable from the fall garden.

LESS HORSES AND MULES LESS FEED DEMAND

COLLEGE STATION — Within the past 8 years the number of horses and mules on Texas farms has decreased by 379,000, while the decrease in the United States as a whole for the past 10 years is in excess of 10 million. Jack Shelton, vice-director and state agent of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, sees in these figures a partial answer to the puzzle of declining farm markets.

"A recent U. S. D. A. Bulletin, entitled 'The Farm Horse,'" shows that the farm work stock will consume an average of 125½ bushels of oats or 71 7-10 bushels of corn per head in the course of a year. That means that a market equal to more than 47 million bushels of oats or over 27 million bushels of corn per year has been lost in Texas," he pointed out.

"For the United States as a whole, the annual loss amounts to a million and a quarter bushels of oats or 715 million bushels of corn. Too, 20 years ago hay was the third largest U. S. crop where today it is in twenty-sixth place." Shelton emphasized that he was not decrying the use of power machinery or questioning its efficiency in many operations, but insisted that there exists a demand for horse and mule colts that it far greater than the supply. "Texas farmers are missing an additional and profitable source of income in this connection, and at the same time are losing a chance, however indirect, to increase the volume of the market for grain produced on their farms," he said. "It is gratifying to note that production of horses and mules in Texas is on the upswing."

RURAL ELECTRIC LINES IN USE

Lubbock county's rural electrification project is in use, according to The Avalanche, which reported the energizing of 41 miles of the South Plains Electric Co-operative, Inc.

It is the first rural electric line in the county and the second in Northwest Texas to be put into operation.

The project will continue, and just as fast as farmers have their houses wired and inspected additional miles of high line will be placed in service.

It was expected that within ten days or so the entire 135 miles included in the plan will be energized. Around 300 customers will be served.
