SPECIAL TRAIN CARRIES CUBS AND FANS TO PLAINVIEW

CUBS TO BATTLE OLTON MUSTANGS FOR CHAMPIONSHIP OF DISTRICT 5-B

At Least 3000 People Are Expected to See This Thrilling Battle Between Two Great Class B. Teams. Hundreds Will Ride the Special Train From Brownfield.

Having no football games of their own to fight out on Turkey Day, the Plainview Chamber of Commerce seeing a good way to provide entertainment for their people who did not wish to go to Lubbock to see the Class A championship fight between Amarillo and Lubbock, they bid for and got the championship game between the Brownfield Cubs and the Olton Mustangs. Just what percentage the two contending teams will get, we have not learned, probably a percentage of the gate receipts.

As a consequence of the mutual ground being some 85 miles from Brownfield, an effort was made to get a special train out of Brownfield to leave here around the noon hour, the game being called at 2:30 p. m. At noon Tuesday sufficient tickets had already been sold to assure a train load of 150 passengers, and tickets were still being sold, so we are sure that some 200 or more will make the trip on the special, the fare being $1.80 for the round trip, which is cheaper than one can carry their own cars and less dangerous. Owing to the fact that the Amarillo-Lubbock game at Lubbock and the Brownfield-Olton games will break up about the same time, the highway between Lubbock and Plainview will be a mass of cars passing each other, and will be dangerous to say the least. So, if you are going to the game, better go on the train and come back whole. The train will leave Plainview back to Brownfield as soon as the game is over.

Fans expect the two teams to be fairly well matched in size as well as training. True the Cubs beat Olton 22 to 0 in a pre-season game, but Olton has licked every team they have played since that time. Football people say that both teams would shine pretty well in Class A football. A crowd of some 3000 people are expected to witness the game at the Plainview Bulldog stadium.

Winner of the game at Plainview will play Rotan December 2, in a bi-district game, probably at Lubbock.

Conerstone Laying Draws Big Crowd

Many visitors were here Saturday for the corner stone laying of the new Postoffice building at the corner of Fifth and Hill streets, among them being the following neighboring pastmasters: Joe Shelton, Tokio; Nat Shick, Big Spring; K. L. Scudder, Slaton; Owen C. Taylor, Lamesa; A. C. Littlefield; Phil Bouchier, Post; Mrs. Till W. Reed, Plains. On the platform was Hon. George Mahon, who was to deliver the principal address, and Chas. A. Guy, publisher of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. Several snapshots, and photos were made, including the visiting postmasters, one including Mr. Mahon, Postmaster Jas. H. Dallas, and Mayor Clyde C. Coleman, as well as one of the actual corner stone laying.

Postmaster Dallas acted as master of ceremonies, asking Rev. Fred A. Walker, pastor of the local Presbyterian church to offer invocation. Brief talks were made by Secretary J. E. Shelton of the Chamber of Commerce, who exerted much effort and time in landing the Federal building. Others introduced was Mayor Clyde C. Coleman, Mrs. Lela B. Toone, under whose administration an effort was started for the building. Construction Engineer, Richard W. Prendergast of Chicago, also spoke and promised one of the prettiest and most convenient buildings of its cost in this section. Harry L. Crosby, construction superintendent, representing the firm of W. K. Martin & Co., of Kansas City spoke briefly.

Jim Miller, local Mason, and Deputy Grand Master of this district, was head of the ceremonies in placing the corner stone. The Copper container, which carried to its resting place many interesting documents connected with securing the building, such as telegrams announcing the appropriation from Cong. Mahon, Sen. Tom Connally, photos, and one copy of the Historical Edition of the Herald published last fall, containing 56 pages. Following the song, America, Judge Raymond Simms, Masonic Chaplain, closed with a prayer.

A portion of a telegram from Postmaster General James A. Farley was read by Postmaster Dallas. Congressman Mahon's address was short, and was mostly taken up on the subject of patriotism and loyalty to country, especially in such trying times as we now have. The people of Brownfield and section are very proud of this new building, now under construction, and expected to be completed some time in March. A great crowd was on hand and while many had difficulty in hearing the program, owing to the absence of a loud speaker system, very few left before the closing ceremony.

The writer has received mail from all but two of the 16 postmasters that have handed out mail since the birth of Brownfield, these two being J. R. Hill and Homer Cotton. Several were on hand Saturday that have received mail from all of them. The following is a pretty accurate record of the 16 postmasters, and their tenure in office. We might add that pretty nearly all of them were democrats, but most of them served under GOP administrations, being, a there were no Republicans here.

- Joe R. Hill, April 1, 1904 to June 17, 1905.
- Homer H. Cotten, June 17, 1905 to Aug. 8, 1906.

Post Is the Ninth Victim of Cubs

By J. W. Chambliss

The Brownfield Cubs came back in a second-half rally to down a fighting Antelope "eleven" 25-7 last Friday night on the Post gridiron. The first half had the marking of an upset by the Antelopes but the Fightin' Cubs came back in the second half determined that the Antelopes were not going to put a blotch on their perfect record. With Rowden and Hill, first string end and halfback on the bench the Cubs seemed unable to get started in the first half.

But the appearance of Captain Hill on the battle field late in the second period, seemed to give life to the team but the half ended before they were able to do much. Post had managed to push over a touchdown and were leading 7-6. Coming back on the field with their full strength up and their sails spread, the Cubs swept over the Antelopes to win easily scoring twice in the third and once in the fourth period. The Antelopes were no match for the infuriated Cubs, failing to make a single first down in the last half while the Cubs picked up eight.

The Cubs first counter came midway in the first period. A pass from Brown to McLeroy for fifteen yards put the ball on the Post three yard line, and two plays later Brown again passed to Morton over the goal line. Jenkins failed to convert. Post's only touchdown came in the second quarter when Jenkins, halfback for Post, circled end for 27 yards and a counter. Justice plunged over for point after touchdown.

Four minutes after the opening of the third period, Hill drove over right tackle reversed his field and raced eighty-two yards to score. It seems there was an infringement of rules and the play was called back, the Cubs being penalized 15 yards for holding.

This failed to discourage the Cubs, however, and a few minutes later they blocked Justice's punt on the Antelope 34. Hill circled end for fourteen yards and then Brown faded back and tossed a touchdown pass to Morton. Jenkins converted, making the score 13-7 in favor of the Cubs. The third Cub counter came after Post's fumble on their 17 yard line. Hill made three yards over left tackle and on the next play Brown again faded back and threw two passes to Morton, one for twenty yards, and the other for fifteen, placing the ball on the one

BUSINESS MEN OF BROWNFIELD TO BRING ST. NICHOLAS TO THIS CITY

Great Parade of Children to March from the School Grounds, Headed by the High School Band. Christmas Packages For All. All to See Free Show.

Crowded out from the front page last week, we nevertheless told you that preparations were underway to entertain Santa Claus in Brownfield on the 16th of December, at which time all youngsters under 16 years of age in this area are invited to be the special guests of Brownfield, and to personally see Saint Nicholas. Well, things are moving along steadily toward that end, and Brownfield is really going to do something about the Christmas spirit this season, as well as last year.

Committees on arrangement and entertainment, and solicitors are going to be very busy in the very near future getting funds together for that day of all days for the kiddies of this section. This is not going to be just a one man affair, or just one newspaper affair, but the whole community, including the Chamber of Commerce, all the civic organizations, as well as individuals of the community are behind the move with all the resources they can command. Before many days, all you youngsters will be receiving invitations to attend. These will be printed in the cheering Christmas colors, and while each will be similar to the other, they stand as a personal invitation for the young people to attend. However, all are invited to come in, no matter whether your age is one or one hundred years. Let's all have a great time together.

There used to be a song in our childhood days, part of which went, "Christmas comes but once a year, so let us all be Merry." We hope the folks in the far reaches of the area come in, and be sure to bring the little fellows. They'll get a big kick out of the parade, out of seeing Santa Claus, and will be delighted with their present, and a free show.

Don't disappoint the little folks. Don't disappoint the people of Brownfield who are preparing for them.

Rev. Tharp Feeding Hogs on His Place

Rev. and Mrs. Tharp were in early Monday morning, and we suppose they had driven through from Abernathy while we had come six blocks to the office, and they almost beat us here. This Methodist preacher family kinder mixes up farming with the ministry. Bro Ed told us that he had been transferred this year from Abernathy to Sudan. He formerly held the pastorate at Brownfield.

Speaking of farming, Rev. Ed has two in Terry county, one west and one east of the city, his son-in-law having charge of the one west of the city. They have made lots of feed out there this year, and as feed is cheap, they are putting feed in pig hides, and will later sell the pigs. This is one preacher that is really preparing to retire, and when his superannuate days do arrive, he will have an income without depending on anyone, although we understand the Methodist take care of retiring ministers as well or better than most churches.

Ed informed us that he sure had a fine lot of high grade pigs out on the farm, and invited the editor out some day to see them.

Williams Believes In Strip Farming

Kirk Williams, one of our progressive young farmers of the Meadow section, was in last week to renew, and informed us that while his crop was behind that of last year, he was fairly well pleased with his 1938 crop, and acknowledged that he was learning more and more about farming in Terry county.

For instance, the idea of strip farming came up, and Mr. Williams informed us that while he had practiced it some the past few years, his idea was to get on to it more in the future, as it not only had a tendency to stop erosion of wind, but protected young cotton and corn plants in the early spring from blowing out. Then, too, of years when the cotton plants are low like this year, sand will begin to move high in the cotton field even before the crop is gathered.

These strips of cane or sudan has the effect, he said of a shelterbelt, protected the soil on both sides of these strips. He then spoke of some of the old farms in central Texas, one particularly on which he was raised, that was almost taken by Johnson and bermuda grass. Said he wouldn't try to farm such land now, but if he owned it he would turn the whole works into two grasses and stock with sheep and dairy cattle.

Fall Meeting to Start Sunday Night

Elder J. H. Killion was around Monday and said for us to put it in the Herald where all would read that Elder Jas. F. Black of Levelland would start the fall meeting at the Church of Christ Sunday night, Elder Killion filling the pulpit at the morning hour. Elder Black is a fine man and a good preacher. Hear him.

In the meantime, Killion and family are slipping off down to Alpine, from whence they came, carrying with them a 30-some-odd Winchester, and acts as if they might have some venison when they return. The Herald is promised a hunk—when and if!

Guy Tankersley, half back and Robert Pharr, playing guard on the John Tarleton Plowboy team for the past three seasons, will not be eligible for further play under conference rule. Their last game will be this week with N. T. A. C. of Arlington. Both are local boys.

DOING BUSINESS IN BROWNFIELD FOR 15 YEARS—OLD FIRM, BUT PROGRESSIVE

The Collins Dry Goods Company is a Fixture in Brownfield. Has Shown a Steady Increase in Business Each Year. Firm Means Much to This City.

Perhaps few people were aware that last Thursday was the 15th anniversary of the opening of the Collins Dry Goods Company in Brownfield, and in fact, the Herald just heard it by accident, too late to make any mention of the fact in these columns. But on the 17th day of Nov., 1923, a new dry goods store opened in Brownfield, known as the Collins D. G. Co., coming from Boswell, Okla., with W. H. Collins as stockholder and manager. With him was associated his brother, W. B. Collins, now of Lamesa, and S. C. Boswell, a silent partner who lives in Ada, Okla., who still owns an interest in both the Brownfield and Lamesa stores.

W. H. COLLINS

The store opened in a 25x80 building where the Club Cafe is now located, but it was soon found that the small store cramped their already large stock, and there was no chance for expansion. About that time Dr. G. S. Webber acquired the location of the present site from Longbrake & Downing, and the old wooden building was removed, and a store building 40x100 feet was started, doubling their space from 2000 to 4000 feet. Besides Mr. Collins, R. E. "Ned" Self, Mrs. Lissie Jones and Miss Lillie Jones, now Mrs. Self were the clerks. Miss Vonnie Lee Ditto was added to the force a few months later, and she and Ned have been with the firm since, Ned as head clerk and Miss Ditto as head of the ladies department.

At the present time, on the men's side, and including Mr. Collins and Ned, there is Wilson Collins, Jake Gore and Gordon Alexander, and on the ladies side Miss Ditto, Mrs. Guthrie Allen, Miss Jewel Townes, Miss Marguerite Travis, and Miss Jessie Chisholm, regularly, and Mesdames Walter Gracey and Joe Price on Saturdays and Tradesday and others during sales.

From the very start this popular store has made great strides, and the sales from year to year have shown a steady increase, 1937 being the best year in their history, and despite low prices and short crops, the store will show a wonderful business this year.

Mr. W. B. Collins and Mr. Boswell have made several trips to this section after the store was opened here, and they liked so well that a location for a second store was decided on, and the location for it was Lamesa. The store

The Official Paper of Terry County and the City of Brownfield

People in town as well as in the country should be very careful with fires about the place. It has been dry so long that weeds and grass will burn like tinder, and fires have a way of gaining headway when you least expect them.

Do Terry countians have much to be thankful for this Thanksgiving day? Let us ponder and see. Yes, we have had a short crop, but a big hearted nation has poured literally hundreds of thousands of dollars in for subsidy checks as well as retired acreage.

Writing about our problem with Mexico, following the seizure of land and oil properties belonging to citizens of the United States as well as English and Dutch companies, H. V. Kaltenborn asks this very pertinent question: "If we let Mexico get away with our properties below the Rio Grande, will others do the same?"

MORE REPUBLICANS!

What Texas needs is more Republicans. That cry has been raised so many times in recent years that many Texans have come to believe it is true.

In the matter, even so-called good Democrats must admit that Texas probably could get along better in many ways with a few handfuls of better grade Republicans thrown into the political stew.

MILKMEN HONORED FOR HEROISM

Milkmen heroes honored with Pasture Medals, presented by the Milk Industry Foundation, for deeds of valor on early morning rounds were acclaimed at the national milk conventions in Cleveland. W. A. Turner, Richmond, Va., receiving the gold Pasture medal for swimming flood waters with milk cans tied on his back to supply a boys' camp, Frederick Fenton, Long Island, received the silver Pasture medal for rescuing guests in a hotel fire. Bronze medals were awarded to fourteen other milkmen. "If milk could be produced on the farm at less cost and sold more cheaply, more of it would be used," said Prof. H. B. Ellenberger, University of Vermont, speaking at the meetings. "This would benefit the consumer, profits for the producer and distributor would be more secure. "It is unfair to compare a composite price," he said, "to the farmer of 3 cents per quart to a retail price of 12 or 13 cents to the consumer and imply that the difference represents the distributor's margin."

Otis and Bill Come In For a Visit

Friends wondered why Bill Palmer didn't come in for Armistice, as he never missed one while here, and has come every year since he moved back to Fredrick, Okla. While more than a week late, Bill got here, and was mixing around with old Pals all day Saturday, and spent the night with his uncle, Tom Warren and family. With Bill came Otis Draper, another old timer, who left here last spring to work with an old contracting boss on a job at Brownwood, but later was offered a job that will last 400 working days on a highway bridge over the Red River just north of Vernon, Texas, and of course took the long time job. Otis informed us that four years ago, he went south 200 miles to Quemado, Texas, at about the same time Bill went northeast some 200 miles, but now they are neighbors in neighboring towns of Frederick and Davidson, Oklahoma. Otis' job is to build forms for the huge concrete piers across the river. Right interesting to hear Otis tell how the water in the river, what little there is at present, is kept away from the work, so they may go down in dry sand some 300 feet to clay foundation for the piers.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Smith returned Saturday from their old home in Jacksboro, Texas. They were accompanied by Mrs. Smith's brother, C. W. Denison and wife. Mrs. Geo. Lasiter of Johnson community was in shopping Monday.

Mr. Alton Webb has accepted a position at Brownfield. Mr. Saunders has leased his cafe out and is now employed in the Copeland Drug store. Mr. Robert Welch is back in the Brownfield sanitarium. Mr. and Mrs. S. W. White and daughter, Mrs. Lee Walker expect to meet their other daughters and sisters, Misses Elsie Della and Ceba White at Colorado City and all eat Thanksgiving dinner with their son and brother, Horace White and wife. Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Turnbough and family contemplate visiting her sister at Lockney, Texas. Miss Mattie Morgan spent the week end with friends at Ropesville. Mrs. A. L. Sisk and daughter of Shallowater ate dinner with Mrs. D. J. Harris and Mary Margaret.

Hall said "fire-packed" bales were responsible for 90 per cent of all cotton fires in the opinion of experts who made a special study of them. "Each fire loss—and there have been too many—contributes to a higher rate for the whole industry," Hall said. "The fire insurance department wants to work with you to hold down the rate." The commissioner suggested the warehouse owners keep all freshly ginned cotton from the older cotton stocks at least 72 hours in order to locate fire-packed bales; keep grass and weeds cut away from the edges of the warehouse; keep water barrels fill with salt water and ready for use when a fire is discovered, and keep aisles throughout the warehouse cleared at all times.

Chambliss Says They Come Too Fast

Saw L. D. Chambliss, prominent local farmer hanging around the hospital the past week end, and our curiosity was aroused, as we suspected sickness in the family, and asked him about the matter. "Operation?" we asked. "Nope, my daughter, Mrs. Wayne Arnett, just had a baby, a girl."

We started to congratulate him, when he said: "And that's just half of it, a boy was born today (Sunday) to my son, Robert and wife out on the farm. Say, the grandchildren are coming mighty fast among my family." Youbet, Mr. Chambliss, but you'll get a kick out of everyone of the little fellows.

We had a good friend back in Central Texas when we came there 38 years ago from Tennessee. In fact h was a Tennessean, right from where we hailed. He had about three kids in his lap one night and we pulled that old one: "Well, Mr. T., I guess you are like everyone else, wouldn't give a penny for another, but wouldn't take a million dollars for those you have." His byword was By-Ned.

And quick as a flash he said: "By-Ned, I wish I had forty."

Country Editor Article Inspires Film Maker

The latest example of a motion picture which jumped right off the front page of a newspaper is the Bob Burns comedy-drama, "The Arkansas Traveler," which opens Sunday at the Rialto Theatre. When George Arthur, the noted Hollywood producer, saw a layout on a country editor in a national magazine he was so impressed that he decided then and there to make it the basis of his next picture.

Arthur, who sees Burns as America's leading homespun humorist and philosopher, immediately asked the sage of Van Buren to play the lead role. As a result of his success in "Wells Fargo," which convinced him he could play dramatic roles with ease, Burns accepted the part of "the Traveler," a happy-go-luck wandering printer, who becomes the crusading editor and political reformer of a country community.

To portray the other home town characters, Arthur chose some of the screen's most popular players. Irvin S. Cobb, another outstanding native humorist and author of the hilarious "Speaking of Operations," was given the role of a waggish constable, and Porter Hall that of the boss-ridden mayor. Others with important roles are John Beal, Jean Parker and Dickie Moore. Burn's leading lady is Fay Bainter, the dramatic star.

Dr. H. A. Castleberry, of Ben Wheeler was up last week looking after his place just north of the city. He stated to the Herald that he had again rented to the Chambliss boys. Dr. has been quite puny the past several months, but is improving, and if he continues to improve, may move back to this city.

We thank J. H. Jenkins, city, for his thoughtfulness in ordering up another year of the Herald.

Auto Tries to Burn Twice in One Day

When an automobile gets on fire twice in one day necessitating the calling of the fire department, that is news. That happened here Monday, and the last time it took fire, had not been moved from where it caught the first time.

The residence of W. I. Pickett caught fire in the roof Sunday night, and the fire department responded promptly, but Mr. Pickett and family had worked on it with a garden hose in the meantime, and had the fire out when the fire truck arrived.

It was also stated that the Pickett family took no chances, and had everything moved out of the house.

Stubble Grazing Is Dangerous

Stubble left on a field when the crop is harvested furnishes protection from wind erosion if not overgrazed. Too much grazing removes the protective cover of vegetation and trampling by livestock pulverizes the soil and permits blowing. Upper picture shows a stubble field being overgrazed. Bottom picture shows an overgrazed field which has suffered soil losses and is becoming hummocked.

"DEEP RIVER"

Arranged by Harry T. Burleigh

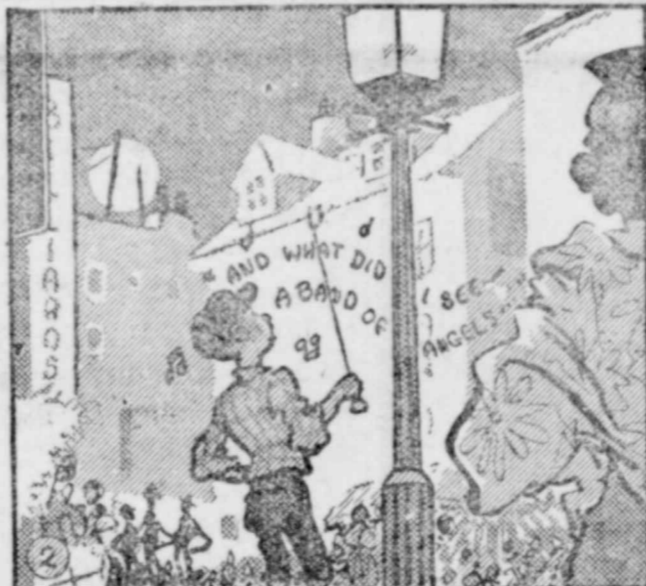

GRANDSON of a blind Maryland slave, Harry first saw light in Erie, Pa. His mother's college degree got her a school job as janitress.

He has been in St. George's ever since, was also for 25 years in Temple Emanuel choir and sang for European royalty including King Edward the Seventh.

BIRTH OF A SONG

From ASCAP Files by Joseph R. Fliesler and Paul Carruth

The young Burleigh worked as a lamplighter, deck steward and other such jobs. He had a fine voice and a good memory for the plantation songs his mother sang.

The songs of his race cried out for recognition and Burleigh, remembering from his mother, wrote them down in modern arrangements.

He sang so well in Erie churches that friends sent him to New York for a try at the Thurber Scholarship. Composer MacDowell's mother helped Burleigh make the grade.

George Maxwell, then President of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, urged Burleigh to publish these arrangements as well as his original compositions.

Dvorak learned "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" from Burleigh and it found a place in the second theme of the first movement of his New World Symphony. Harry meanwhile joined the choir of St. George's church.

"Deep River" has taken its place as an American classic and with Burleigh's other works earned him membership in ASCAP, which licenses their public performances for profit.

Demand For Better Cotton Grades

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 21. — Foreign spinners are anxious to receive quality cotton from Texas one-variety communities.

A letter recently received by E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas A. and M. Extension Service, from a cotton brokerage firm in Manchester, England, is an expression of this desire.

"We believe that some 'one-variety' cotton has been shipped to this country, but that it has been mixed in with ordinary shipments say a few bales in a hundred, which to our mind destroys the whole idea. We are very anxious to have a trial lot of 50 or 100 bales of Texas 'one-variety' Good Middling 31-32", which will go to a particular mill and be given a thorough spinning test," the English firm stated.

Even lots of cotton produced in one-variety blocks will be offered to foreign spinners through the AAA's 20,000 bale experiment, Miller said.

"The request shows the need for the improvement of Texas cotton on a county-wide or regional basis," the agronomist pointed out. "Our 213 one-variety communities have demonstrated that quality cotton pays in dollars and cents, but we need to build up the volume of this cotton."

Putting On Red Cross Drive Pretty Late

In conversation with Judge R. A. Simms, Monday, he stated that so many other things had come up of late, not the least of which was a term of county court, that he just hadn't got the soliciting committee started on the Red Cross Drive for Terry county.

However, he stated that he would round them up Tuesday, and start soliciting, as he figured better late than never. The Red Cross is one organization that no community can hardly turn down. We never know when we are going to need their assistance.

Weatherboarding Against Winter

Cold weather calls for heavier feeding to generate body heat in all kinds of livestock. Feed alone of course will not offset the effects of cold, and shelter is essential at some times every winter, even in the milder parts of the Southwest. On the other hand, shelter alone is not enough, especially with milk cows, laying hens, and animals in the fattening pen. There must be extra feed to burn in the body or else fat already acquired will be burned in keeping the body temperature normal.

The sudden changes of weather to which the Southwest is subject makes it hard to avoid some shrinkage, even with good shelter and additional feed, but every pound of avoidable shrinkage costs more to retain than to hold. It is poor economy to permit animals to burn up fat already accumulated and which must be restored before additional gains are made.

Range cattle or sheep permitted to struggle through without sufficient feed to hold the weight with which they entered the winter lose several weeks in spring and summer getting back the weight lost. They will be that much behind in getting into marketable condition next summer or fall, and will weigh just that much less when they go to market. It is therefore important that they also have extra feed in cold weather, to offset as much of the winter shrink as possible.

Everyone knows how slowly cows regain their normal milk flow after a cold snap, and if it is late in the lactation period they often never come back to full normal production. The same thing holds true of laying hens, though they respond more quickly to favorable conditions and the loss is less from the reduced production. This is a case in which the proverbial ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and extra feed which helps prevent these losses is about the most valuable feed in the barnyard. It often happens that stock get "all the feed they will eat" and eat little or no more in cold than in warm weather, falling off accordingly. If the water is icy cold they will not drink as freely as they should, and if they don't drink freely nor digest as well as they should. The same thing happens when their quarters are so cold they stand huddled up for warmth, so the effort to induce them to take the extra feed necessary for lack of feed, but for lack of sary in cold weather may fail, not comfort. Water and shelter of the right sort play an important part both in getting sufficient feed into animals and in the effects of the feed.

"Contented cows" is much more than an advertising slogan, for only when comfortable and contented do cows function at their best. Contentment is dependent on comfort, and on both adequate shelter, and feed. Water, plenty of it, at a drinkable temperature, is as necessary as palatable feed, and helps to make any dry feed more palatable, whether grain or forage. If we keep these things in mind a good deal of the usual winter losses of weight and production can be forestalled.

No matter with what kind of livestock or poultry we are dealing, an extra feed supply is mighty good weatherboarding against winter shrinkage in weight or slow-ed up production. The carbonaceous feeds of course play the larger part in supplying fuel for heat but this does not mean that the protein elements should be omitted if the carbohydrates are to do an efficient job. A balanced ration is to be assumed under any and all conditions, winter or summer, for growth or production, for fattening or mere maintenance.

TIME FOR CHANGE

No man is allowed to operate a railroad locomotive — though it runs along a predetermined track, with every conceivable safety device to prevent accidents — without long and vigorous training, and periodic examinations for health and capability.

No man can command a ship— though it plies oceans and waterways where the chance of collision with another vessel is microscopically small — Without similar training and examinations to determine fitness and ability.

No man can fly an airplane— though its "highway" is the empty air — without providing absolute proof of his competence.

Yet any man can operate an automobile down crowded streets and highways, where the margin between safe passage and a possible serious accident is a matter of inches, no matter how ill-fitted he is to drive safely.

That fact largely explains our gigantic motor vehicle accident toll. In some states no examination of any kind is required to obtain a driving license. In others not even a license is needed—the most incompetent can get behind the wheel and roar away, endangering everyone in his path. And in most of those states where drivers' licensing systems have been established the lay is usually inadequate and prevents only the most obviously incompetent from endangering the public safety.

The many friends of Mrs. L. R. Pounds and Mrs. D. P. Cartar will be glad to learn they are both much improved. While Mrs. Pounds is still in the hospital, Mrs. Cartar was taken to her home on Monday.

YOU DON'T CATCH COLD—IT CATCHES YOU

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 21. — Prefacing some seasonal advice on common sense ways of avoiding colds, with the remark that it is a mistake to say you "catch" a cold, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, added "As a matter of fact the cold catches you when you are not up to the mark, physically. Therefore:

1. Keep yourself as physically fit as possible. Eat nourishing food. Have your meals at regular times. Avoid rich, indigestible combinations. Include plenty of milk, other dairy products and fruit in your diet. Remember to drink plenty of water—several glasses during the day, every day.
2. Dress according to the weather. Add a sweater to your outfit, or a heavy coat when the cold days come. Avoid sudden chilling. Don't expose yourself unnecessarily to draughts. Don't sit around in wet clothing. If you are caught in a drenching downpour, change to dry clothing as soon as possible.
3. Take some outdoor exercise every day. Be out in the sunlight as much as possible. If you have a job that keeps you indoors most of the day, you will find it pays to spend a few minutes two or three times a day, at an open window, flushing your breathing apparatus with fresh air.
4. Get plenty of sleep. Strike a balance between work and play. Don't fool yourself into thinking you can play around at all hours of the day or night, day after day; snatch a few hours sleep, and be entirely fit, physically, and ready for your profession, your job, or for school, or household duties, when morning comes.
5. Colds are spread by the discharges from the nose and throat. Every time the victim of a cold has a coughing spell, germ-laden droplets of mucus are brought to the surface and spread around. Every sneeze throws germ laden spray into the air. Avoid these hazards. Don't mingle unnecessarily with persons who have colds.
6. The careless cougher or sneezer sprays his germs all around the place and leaves them on everything he touches. Don't use a common drinking cup. Have your own towel and wash cloth. Always wash your hands before eating.
7. If you happen to be overtaken by a cold, show as much consideration for your neighbor as you would like him to show you. Don't be a transmitter. Don't broadcast your germs. Sneeze or cough into your handkerchief. Use paper handkerchiefs that can be burned or otherwise disposed of. The quickest way to get rid of a cold is to go to bed; eat very lightly and drink plenty of water. At the first indication of fever, send for your doctor, and then follow his advice.

BANNING ROTARY CLUBS

It is difficult to believe that our modern civilization is not on the verge of a breakdown when news stories from Italy report that the Rotary clubs of that nation will be dissolved December 31. Similar action was taken in Nazi Germany some time ago.

The Rotary Club is an international peace loving organization and has followed a program to make the world an international brotherhood rather than an international armament camp. The club has pursued many objectives to world nations with each other.

sympathy from the state patrol board.

The game laws say that for each violation of the law the hunter's license is suspended for one year. Hunting rights can be restored only through executive clemency.

Heretofore, the governor's office handling restorations, and with no facilities for investigation, usually has taken the recommendation of the arresting game warden; and the game warden may feel that when a man has paid a heavy fine he should not be further punished.

Under the new law, however, restoration of hunting rights can be recommended only by the State Board of Pardons. This season is the first; and says Chairman Bruce Bryant, "we're going to revitalize enforcement of the game laws."

An instance: A dove hunter came in the other day and asked for a restoration. He pulled the usual strings by getting a supposed "higher-up" to take his plea to the board. Judge Bryant was adamant; not before Dec. 15 would he even give the hunter a hearing and the offender will miss most of the bird season and a part of the deer season at the least.

Fascist and Nazi states, however, are built on hate and single fidelity. They have no place for anything that might detract from the state. They have no place for programs which would make men of different nations love each other rather than hate each other.

It is easy to understand why the fascists do not want the Rotary clubs. Theirs is a program of hatred and rule by fear. The Rotary Club was originated on a program of friendliness and understanding.—Claburne Times.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Julian Capers, Jr.

AUSTIN — One of the hectic battles of the forthcoming 46th regular session of the Texas Legislature, in the opinion of Austin observers, probably will center around the proposal, made by Norman S. Taber, finance consultant of New York, to have the State take over $182,564,000 worth of country road bonds now outstanding. Taber's recommendation was the outgrowth of a resolution passed by the last Legislature, directing that the Board of County and District Road Bond Indebtedness have such a study made. Taber's firm was paid $25,000 for the job. His plan, in brief, proposes that the State shall issue $182,564,000 of State 3 per cent 20-year serial bonds, which would absorb road bonds of the counties and districts of the State. The State bonds would be retired by pledging auto license fees now going to the Highway Department, amounting to $7,000,000 a year; plus about $3,800,000 of license fees now going to the counties; plus about $10,000,000 a year revenue from 1 cent of the gasoline tax. This would create a debt service fund of nearly $21,000,000 annually while it is estimated only about $13,000,000 annually would be needed to retire the bonds. The surplus would, of course, go back to the Highway Department, since under the plan the $7,000,000 State auto license fee funds would only be used for the bonds if needed. Taber estimates the plan would save the counties up to $22,000,000 in interest charges over the 20 year period.

County Officials Behind It
The idea of having the State take over nearly $200,000,000 worth of "dead horses"—bonds issued by counties and spent for roads that in many cases are already obsolete or worn out,—originated with certain officials of some larger counties in Texas, whose finances are in bad shape. Not all county officials are in agreement upon the idea. In Dallas, for instance, whose officials have been active for the program, officials have overspent their general fund budget by some $600,000. They could absorb this deficit and have plenty of money left to give jobs and relief grants to persons who vote, if they could be relieved of their debt servicing charge. Critics of the plan, while admitting that it would probably enable a saving, are very doubtful whether politically-minded county officials would pass the saving on to local taxpayers. They think there would be no real reduction in county taxes, but merely a larger available sum for the local politicians to spend.

Highway Department officials are very cool toward pledging their share of the auto license fees to guarantee servicing the new bonds. They fear that a sharp cut

TWO HOMESPUN HUMORISTS MEET

Van Buren, Arkansas, meets Paducah, Kentucky, in the persons of Bob Burns and Irvin S. Cobb, in Paramount's new comedy drama, "The Arkansas Traveler," which will have its local opening Sunday at the Rialto Theatre. The two outstanding American humorists are now teamed for the first time. Fay Bainter is also cast.

in gasoline consumption, invention of gasoline substitutes, or other unforeseen development which might happen in 20 years, might take their $7,000,000 to service the bonds, and cripple their orderly and well-administered program of highway development.

Finally, the voters probably would be extremely cautious about voting the State, which now has virtually no bonded debt, nearly $200,000,000 into the red. Texans have built a splendid road system on a cash basis, without issuing bonds. They have never favored State bond issues, having defeated a proposed $100,000,000 highway bond proposal decisively a decade or more ago, and voting bonds only for relief purposes in recent years.

The Taber plan is so radical that it doubtless will not even be submitted in its present form, but it is virtually certain that some plan based upon it, calling for a huge state bond issue, will be brought to the floor during the regular session. The county officials of many counties are for such a program—and the county officials represent a powerful political force with the legislators.

O'Daniel Makes a Discovery
Gov. Elect O'Daniel's plan for a State RFC to lend $15,000,000 to needed industries, after a one-week public airing, has been abandoned.

The reason for it, O'Daniel revealed, is because he "has been busy discovering that Texas has just such a setup." The Governor-Elect has discovered what some 129,000,000 of his fellow-American citizens have known for the past 10 or 12 years—that the Federal government has an organization known as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which is headed by a well-known sound thinking Texas banker, one Jesse Jones, of Houston.

The Governor-Elect has now found out what nearly everybody else interested in the subject already know—namely, that the RFC, by special authorization of Congress, has been making loans to small businesses and large, new and old, at low interest, to enable them to expand or begin operations. Of course, Mr. Jones only makes sound loans, but he has some $900,000 of small industrial loans outstanding now in Texas, and there is available up to $150,000,000 more for Texas, if the borrowers are sound. Mr. O'Daniel included in his statement that he was "not prepared to concede it would be necessary to have a constitutional amendment" to carry out his plan, but the Constitution says it would anyway. In announcing his astounding discovery that the RFC has been on the job for years, Mr. O'Daniel also took a crack at the legislature when he remarked that "We already are moving ahead. And it didn't take an act of the Legislature to do it."

Oil Hearing Quiet
The monthly prorator hearing in Austin this week brought only a handful of oilmen, and the excitement over Saturday and Sunday shutdowns apparently had died out. Only Ray Starnes, of Gladewater, protested them, and hinted he might file a suit to test legality of the shutdown order, if it is continued through December, as expected. Commissioner Lon Smith declared he wouldn't sign the order if it called for Saturday and Sunday shutdowns, but operators here believed Commissioner Thompson and Terrell would continue rigid proration. Resignation of Laten Stanberry, once a county newspaper editor, as oil and gas supervisor of the Commission, presaged other changes expected when Jerry Sadler succeeds C. V. Terrell as Commissioner January 1.

Editors See Dams
Members of the Texas Editorial Association, all veterans of 20 years or more of newspaper work, convened in Austin, were entertained by Jack Dies at his beautiful ranch home near the capital, and spent a whole day inspecting the Colorado River Authority development, as guests of CRA and Contractor Herman Brown, who is building Marshall Ford dam. The editors were crammed with facts and figures about flood control, reclamation, irrigation and power development. They were feasted on barbecue and chicken, and thoroughly enjoyed the outing.

Behind the Scenes in American Business

By John Craddock

NEW YORK, Nov. 21. —BUSINESS — Wasting no time worrying about the coming session of Congress, business men are taking advantage of an accelerating recovery movement. Shoe production has been stepped up to almost 20 per cent above 1937. Textiles are selling in good volume after a two year lapse in demand, and leaders in the industry anticipate maintenance of the current production schedules for the remainder of the year. Although fall sales of department stores got off to a poor start because of the warm weather, they are now showing real improvement. Last week, according to preliminary indications, retail trade moved ahead of 1937 for the first time in several months.

WASHINGTON — America's farmers will be the chief beneficiaries of the trade treaties signed last week with Great Britain and Canada, government economists assert after studying the schedules of tariff rates involved. Great Britain, already the principal foreign market for our farm products, abolished duties on wheat, lard, canned grapefruit and some fruit juices; reduced duties on rice, apples, pears and certain canned fruits, and reaffirmed the non-duty status of ham and certain other pork products. The year value of Britain's imports of these products on which concessions were granted amounts to over $200,000,000. With agricultural income this year showing a decline from 1937, federal farm experts look for the treaty to brighten the farmer's financial picture in 1939.

It Sure is True That "Time Marches On"

It seems but yesterday that the writer and frau were just a new married couple, living in a little two room house across the railroad tracks, but there wasn't any tracks then, and a young lady about the wife's age, her school mate, would visit us—just a brief 28 years ago.

Now, our children have grown up, married, and have nests of their own, and we have a grandchild. But the young lady we referred to above has four grandchildren, the last one being born, Sunday, 20th, to Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Proctor, being a boy.

The grandmother was Miss Carrie Belle Price, and married Elbert Proctor about Christmas 1911, we believe. Yes, Time marches on.

A great many of the local football fans attended the Post-Brownfield game in that city last Friday night.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE AND STOLEN OIL

We can only describe recent news from Mexico as fantastic and as calling for prompt and vigorous action in Washington if the Monroe Doctrine means anything. The present Mexican fandango began last March, when President Lazaro Cardenas seized oil properties belonging to American, British and Dutch capital in Mexico. These properties could not have been built up by the Mexicans, who don't have the money or the technical skill. Cardenas made vague talk about paying for them some day in some kind of scrip. The Mexican situation has now come to this point:

Mexico generally is in business and financial panic. Cardenas, trying to sell stolen oil in Latin and South America countries, has been almost unanimously turned down—just as the Bolsheviks who seized the Fiat motor plants in Italy soon after the war found themselves unable to pass legal title to the cars they made.

So Cardenas has turned to the Fascist nations, Germany and Italy, as markets for oil stolen in the name of Communism. He closed a cash-and-barter oil agreement with German some time ago; has now announced that an Italian firm—the Azienda Generale Italiana Petroli di Rome—has contracted to buy "several million dollars" worth of oil from Mexico. He has sold some oil to Japan.

That would be disquieting enough, indicating as it does a Fascist and Nazi trade wedge being driven between us and the rest of our neighbors to the South. But it also announced that Cardenas, through one Ray Fisher of Detroit, is going to push sales of this stolen oil in the United States—meaning that with oil stolen from Americans he is going to try to put more Texas, Oklahoma and California oil workers out of jobs.

In the meantime, we are buying silver from Cardenas at prices held artificially above world prices. Also in the meantime, Cardenas continues to grab American-owned ranch lands in Mexico, and is now making passes at American-owned mines down there.

We think we can understand why Cardenas feels no compunction in selling oil to Fascist nations while professing some kind of Communism; the Trotsky kind.

Leon Trotsky has been a guest of Mexico for something over a year now. Trotsky is perhaps the greatest destructionist the world ever saw. Compared with him, Stalin is a conservative, constructive statesman. Stalin is at least trying to make a go of the Russian government such as it is. Trotsky's sole aim, wherever he goes, is to tear down, in the name of the world revolution.

Trotsky is a friend and advisor of Cardenas. So we can understand why it is O. K. by Trotsky for Cardenas to sell oil to Italy and Germany. That will help them against Stalin.

Thus, Mexico is being made a battleground for the Ideologies of Stalin and Trotsky, with the Fascists standing a good chance of jumping in and grabbing the works. That will mean a Fascist foothold established in this hemisphere in direct violation of the Monroe Doctrine.

Mexico's President is also being allowed to get away with robbery of Americans within his borders, while we connive at it by overpaying him for silver and thus helping to finance him.

Mr. Josephus Daniels, Ambassador to Mexico, is a charming gentleman, now 76. He was Secretary of the Navy during our participation in the World War, though his first assistant, Franklin D. Roosevelt, did the work.—Mr. Daniels later was a leading dry.

This lovable old character doubtless has his place in the scheme of things. But we do not think that place is Mexico City, which as far as the United States is concerned, is the most important diplomatic post in the world.—From New York Daily News.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving snaps such as this are easy with any camera. You can tell the whole story of Thanksgiving Day in pictures.

THANKSGIVING Day dinner offers one of the year's best opportunities for a series of story-telling pictures. These pictures can be taken easily, with any kind of camera, and they will occupy a proud place in your snapshot album. Most of the pictures will be indoor snapshots, and these are easy nowadays. All the equipment you need is two or three large photo bulbs and some inexpensive cardboard reflectors. Screw the photo bulbs into bridge lamps, attach an extension cord so the lamps can be moved about easily, load your camera with a fast panoramic film of the super type—and you are all ready to fire away.

Don't limit the pictures to the dinner itself. There is much more to shoot. Start early. Get a picture of Mother with her basket, bringing in the Thanksgiving groceries—or one of the store delivery boys bringing them in. Show the mixing of the Thanksgiving cake—and after it is baked, take a picture as the icing is put on. Snap the guests as they arrive. Catch a snapshot of the turkey as it is taken steaming from the oven, nestled in golden-brown potatoes. These preparations make remarkably interesting pictures—so don't miss a detail! At dinner, you will be pretty busy with food—but it's easy to take a few moments out now and then for a snapshot. Keep the camera at hand, and arrange your lights so they can be placed quickly and snapped on. You'll want a picture of the whole table, with everyone seated, just before dinner begins. Then there are individual shots—Billy admiring the turkey—Ann busy with an enormous "drumstick"—Uncle John cracking nuts.

You can easily see what a splendid story there is to tell—and there will be many more picture chances than those listed here. Better start making your plans, and let the family help make up a list of "must" snapshots. It will be fun for them as well as you.

John van Guilder.

The program as a whole must be submitted to the United States bureau of public roads for approval after which plans and specifications for individual items must be submitted and approved.
