A Letter To Our Service Men

Dear Boys: While we are addressing this letter to the boys, we are going to have to include the "gals," too, as we now have some of them in the WAACS and WAVES, and therefore being in the service, they must be included in this letter. It has been some spell since anyone thought to write you. This is mostly caused by all hands hereabout having the spring fever, complicated with typewriter cramps in both hands. So we, they and all of us are in no condition to do much writing.

Of course, we expect you boys to write home frequently, "as that is all you have to do" except to drill, dig trenches, and hundreds of other things that would be back and brawn killing to a civilian. Besides, you boys can't tell much if you are overseas, especially. We have seen a number of your letters to the home folks of late, and that Mr. Censor seems to follow you boys around everywhere you go, shears a neat strip out where you mention any time of landing, your unit or names of towns you saw. Therefore, you mostly have to confine your communications to the old standby of the old time friends of 50 years ago, who had a relative in some other state: "I take my pen in hand (except that it was generally a pencil) to drop you a few lines to let you know that we are all well and doing fine, and hope you all are the same, your loving son, Willie, far, far from home."

Now you fighting men of this generation think perhaps that the above sample is an exaggeration, but we have seen 'em almost verbatim, except that perhaps a few tasks and visits were mentioned. Here at home, the merchants are pretty busy counting costs and points in the rationing program, especially grocerymen. It is a double task, and the customer of course is kept waiting and often on Saturday the line is formed far back in the store. But the grocery men are learning fast and you'd be surprised to know how well they have memorized how many points certain items have, without consulting their chart. And, if you think the people are grouching about the matter, you're off. They take it in stride, but may crack a joke with a neighbor about how the sugar and coffee are holding out.

Out on the farms right now, the farmers are very busy scanning the skies for a cloud no bigger than a man's hand, but one hardly ever appears. You boys know that it is getting time to plant and no moisture in the ground. Today, (Tuesday) as we write this, the wind is strong from the southeast, with some hazy clouds. And generally speaking that is a good sign here, but we can't promise any soap this year. Farmers have all their land up and ready to start planting for freedom when and if the sky juice descends in sufficient quantities. The quality is always good—it wets.

Boys and girls, here is a little secret. The next call will have a number of married and childless men, and they don't seem to mind in the least. Do you suppose it could be possible that these men are glad to get from under the watchful eye of their fraus for awhile, and roll and loll in freedom? Doggone if it don't appear that way. But when the time comes, we figure that both the men and their loving companions will shed some tears, not that either party thinks it is not right for their men to go to the front and fight the heathen if necessary, for generally speaking the married men are just as patriotic as the others, and they mission with his class, 43-D at the Lubbock Army Flying School, recently. Aggie worked hard for his wings and commission, and his friends are proud with him.

The subject of this sketch attended high school at Crane, Texas, and was active in sports, mainly football, and later when he attended Abilene Christian College, he was actively in the football team in college. After attending college, he spent some time in South America with the Geophysical Service Incorporated. He has made Brownfield his home for the past several years.

In aviation, he had his primary training at Cuero, Texas, and his basic at Randolph Field, Texas. He is now stationed at Tarrant Field, Fort Worth, where he is taking training as a B-24 pilot. Prior to entering flight training Lt. Thornton was a gauger for the Texas-New Mexico Pipe Line Co.

His wife, the former Miss Ona Faye Tittle, resides at 205 East Tate street.

Jim Graves Still Thinks Local TDG Great

The Junior Editor had a letter this week from Jim Graves, who is still in the hospital at Great Lakes naval base in Illinois. Jim really got a hard fall on ice, breaking his leg in several places, and he stated that he was to be in the hospital several weeks more, yet.

Jim is tickled that he is getting his Herald regularly now, and hopes that his contact with the home news will not be broken again.

Jim stated that he noted the draft board was taking a lot of the local Texas Defense Guard personnel, but he still believed Brownfield has the best company in Texas.

Bobby and Deverle Lewis of Texas Tech visited their parents Monday and Tuesday. Bobby is in the Naval Air Corps Reserve and Deverle is in the Marine Reserve.

maintain that if it takes all the single men, all the married men, and all the family men to lick the Axis, let's get at it.

We are very sorry to report, boys, that Terry county fell down on its Victory Bond quota, which as we stated last week, is based on bank deposits and not population, and that 35 percent of the deposits in Brownfield Banks belong to out-of-county folks. But according to population, we think we did fairly well. We were told that some that were wealthy refused to buy. We hope, however, that this is a mistake. Take care of yourselves, and make very short count.

"I Am An American" Day To Be May 16

The annual celebration of I AM AN AMERICAN DAY takes place on Sunday, May 16.

This year's celebration will have a special significance, for never before has American citizenship been so precious a possession. The values and responsibilities of that citizenship represent the greater part of all that we are fighting for.

I AM AN AMERICAN DAY gives us an opportunity to welcome into our membership those who have become citizens in the past year — roughly 2,750,000 persons. About 250,000 of these are foreign-born who have been naturalized. Approximately 10,000 are members of the armed forces who have been granted citizenship under provisions of the Second War Powers Act. But the largest group of our new citizens is composed of young men and women who, during the past year, reached the age of twenty-one — nearly two and one-half million of them.

The actual community program will be in the hands of local committees and will be sponsored by local organizations.

WELLMAN SENIORS WILL PRESENT PLAY

Friday evening, May 7, the Seniors of Wellman High School, will present the play, "Bound to Marry." Miss Josie Oliver will sponsor. The admission will be 15 and 30c. The play is to help on the expenses of the graduation. It will start at 9:15. Everyone is invited.

Pvt. Earl R. Holland of the Pampa Flying School came in Saturday night for a week's visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Holland.

Convoy Of Soldiers Stop Here Sunday

A convoy of some 32 army trucks and jeeps spent the night here Sunday. They took their meals, supper and breakfast, at the Hotel Coffee Shop, and set up their pup tents in the court-park. This made quite a military showing as there were a great many more men than there were trucks.

The convoy came from the southwest, and was headed north. Due to military regulations they were asked little and told less.

LEGIONAIRES TO HONOR SERVICE MEN AND WOMEN

Veterans of War I and all men attend.

Starting promptly at 8:30 o'clock, the program planned to be given will include Army talent obtained through the assistance of Captain Warren C. Freeman, Special Service Officer, South Plains Army Flying School, Lubbock. The entertainment will consist of a variety of music, novelty numbers, dance numbers by colored soldiers with the concluding talk by an army chaplain or returned hero from overseas.

Guests attending are invited to register, and no admission will be charged on this occasion. The Legion Auxiliary will be hostess to the wives, mothers, and sisters of our boys now in the service.

Morgenthau Sends High Praise To Newspapers

WASHINGTON, May 4—Secretary Morgenthau expressed "sincere gratitude" to the Nation's newspapers Monday night for the aid they gave the Treasury in the second War Loan Campaign and declared their support was "as invaluable as it was unparalleled in promotional history."

The secretary's statement, addressed to the newspapers of America, follows:

"The second War Loan Drive has ended. The final tabulations have not been made, but it is evident that the goal has been exceeded by a substantial amount, more than $4,000,000,000.

Our thanks are due to many people—workers, advertisers, advertising media, retailers, theaters—all who devoted themselves so wholeheartedly to this vital cause. I wish to express to the Allied Newspaper Council and to newspapers generally our sincere gratitude for the part they played. The support they gave us in the handling of news, in compelling and imaginative features, and in the promotion of sponsored advertising was as invaluable as it was unparalleled in promotional history."

Mrs. J. A. Drennan, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ellis and Mrs. Raymond Preston and small daughter, were in Lubbock Wednesday to see in Mrs. Preston's mother, Mrs. F. J. Meyers, who is up there to the left the spread eagle. Our President was most pleased and grateful. "This," he said, "is to be my most treasured gift."

We, the entire personnel of the 1st Cavalry School Detachment, are grateful, also, both to Sergeant Green, and to the Saddlers' school, who made the presentation possible, for having made our honored guest's visit a more memorable and unforgettable one.

Pressure Cookers To Be Rationed

College Station — Pressure cookers have been placed under rationing orders and will be distributed through local farm rationing committees which already are rationing farm machinery and supplies, according to the Texas USDA War Board.

County quotas will not be established, according to present plans, but eligible participants must assure farm rationing committees that cookers can be obtained before purchase certificates are issued.

Plans are now underway to release for immediate use 80 percent of this year's production which will total 150,000 cookers throughout the nation. The remaining 20 percent will be held in reserve to be released later or through appeals to meet special needs of certain areas, if they develop, the board explained.

Under the program, each state will receive a proportionate share of the nation's total production. Allocation to Texas has not been announced.

Purpose of the rationing order, which applies to farm and urban residents, is to distribute a limited supply of steam pressure cookers among all producers to attain the greatest possible pack of home-canned food this year. Increases in Victory gardens and farm gardens throughout the nation have resulted in heavy demand, the board said.

Criteria for determining eligible applicants include (1) individual families, (2) neighborhood pools, consisting of an applicant who has obtained the agreement of several neighbors to share the use of a pressure cooker, and (3) organizations, such as garden clubs, the women's church organizations, members of which have agreed to share the use of a pressure cooker.

Almost all of the new pressure cookers will be war models with enameled steel bottoms and tin-plated steel tops. Nearly all made will be the seven-quart size, holding seven glass jars or 14 No. 2 tin cans. Approximately 15 percent of this year's production will be the 14 quart size, the board estimated.

C. C. Primm, L. C. Heath, A. A. Sawyer and T. C. Hogue, attended a district panel meeting in Lubbock, Monday, where they were given instruction on OPA prices, and other matters that have to be handled by local price boards.

Mr. Heath, who is chairman of the Terry County Panel, stated that representatives from more than 20 counties were on hand for the meeting.

Wellman FFA Holds Father-Son Banquet

On Friday night, April 30, the Wellman FFA held their annual Father and Son Banquet. Chicken barbecue, red beans, and gumbo stew were the main dishes on the menu. Valden Durrett made the welcoming speech and Mr. J. H. McDonald responded for the fathers. Terry County Extension Agent, Mr. Hartzog, gave the principal address, one that he called his "Longhorn Speech." Mr. Lee Fulton and Mr. J. T. Jones followed with speeches that were well received by the men and boys. Mr. Orville Phillips didn't make a speech, but he was one of the heartiest enjoyers present. I think everyone enjoyed themselves immensely.

Agricultural Notes

By Looe Miller, ACA Secretary
We have just received the following statement issued by Chester C. Davis, War Food Administrator:

"This is the most important planting season in American Farm History. We can still increase the number of acres we plant. In a few days it will be too late. The War Food Administration is asking the farmers to plant to the limit for critical war crops, food crops and feed for livestock. In the drive that has been made to increase the acreage of beans, potatoes and soil crops.

"There has been no intention to minimize the importance of other essential crops. Expanded production of feed grains and hay is vitally necessary if we are to continue to record heavy production of livestock and livestock products. The War Food Administration is organizing the country's latent labor resources to help with the harvests this year. Acting with the manufacturers and with other agencies of the government, we will do our best to see that more Harvesting machinery is ready by the time it is needed. We will work for continuing price supports and fair levels in order to minimize risks in the market place. We ask farmers on their part in the days that remain of spring planting to take an extra degree of chance this year for their country to plant in full the acreage they can expect to handle under the most favorable circumstances."

Under the program, each state will receive a proportionate share of the nation's total production. Allocation to Texas has not been announced.

AUSTIN GREEN PERSONALLY THANKED BY PRESIDENT FOR NAME PLATE

Recently when President Roosevelt visited the Cavalry School at Fort Riley, Kansas, Sgt. Austin C. Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Green of Terry county, presented the president with a hand-worked, leather tooled name plate. The president personally accepted the gift and thanked Austin. You can tell by the big grin on Austin's face in the above picture.

Austin is instructor in the saddlery department of the Cavalry School. The president stated that it was a most treasured gift, and would sit on the desk of his study. The following was taken from a Fort Riley paper:

The most envied man in our midst is Sergeant Austin C. Green, who on Easter Sunday had the high honor of personally presenting to Fort Riley's most distinguished guest, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, a beautiful hand carved leather name plate. The gift, which was presented on behalf of the Saddlers' School, was a product of Sgt. Green's deft hands. Set in a block of solid walnut, and carved from heavy saddle skirting, the plate bore the President's name in carefully carved, raised letters. To the right of this famous name appeared the original coat of arms and to the left the spread eagle. Our President was most pleased and grateful. "This," he said, "is to be my most treasured gift."

We, the entire personnel of the 1st Cavalry School Detachment, are grateful, also, both to Sergeant Green, and to the Saddlers' school, who made the presentation possible, for having made our honored guest's visit a more memorable and unforgettable one.

The Herald has been advised that there will be no Cowboy Reunion at Stamford this year, and probably not another for the duration, on account of restricted travel and transportation of show stock. The directors voted to invest their $3,000 surplus in War Bonds.

A writer in the Bolivar (Tennessee) Bulletin recently devoted some three columns to the Hardeman family for which the county of which Bolivar is the county seat is named. This same Thomas Hardeman came on to Texas in the early 1830's, and had a part and share in winning the independence of Texas from Mexico, and the county of Hardeman in west Texas was named for Thomas and his brother. The last of the clan known to live in Tennessee, the article stated, is President N. B. Hardeman of Freed-Hardeman College, at Henderson, Tenn., a church of Christ college.

There seems to be a war on stray dogs over the land. In Littlefield and Tahoka, the folks seem to be going about the matter in a legitimate way. That is, the dogs are taxed and those wearing collars are exempt from execution. Otherwise, the city Marshals of those towns are instructed to destroy the stray canines. But here in Brownfield some seem to have taken the law into their own hands and have pomisciously strewn poison over the town. It is getting rid of the dogs, all right, many of them pets of small children. On the other hand some little child is likely to pick up pieces of this meat and be poisoned. The practice is positively dangerous, as very small children will put most anything they find in their mouths.

A very interesting book has been received by the Herald from the publishers, "Railroading From the Head End" by S. Kip Farrington, Jr. This book was sent us complimentary by the Santa Fe Railway Co., and will find a place in our library. While the book touches only two rail lines in the south, the Santa Fe that runs from Chicago through Amarillo to the Pacific Coast, and quite a lengthy sketch of the Louisville & Nashville, other roads in the old south and the southwest familiar to the boyhood and manhood of most West Texans, are not mentioned. As an epic of railroad builders in America, and especially the progress that has been made by them in the past three decades, the book is very interesting, and shows the great strides the railroads have made to improve transportation, both passenger and freight. Facts show that freight now moves faster in America than passenger travel did 25 years ago.

Those who keep a watchful eye on Dame Nature have already had their spring tonic from lamb's quarter growing from somewhere about in the corner of the premises, on a lake side or by the side of the road. This point free unrationed pepper upper is nature's way of taking care of its poor folks. Those of us who have tasted of this bounty already this spring are undoubtedly a jump or two ahead in pep and good health, and those who are waiting for their stamps to come in, so they can buy something in a can that will not do the job as well as the roadside variety of greens. Poke greens and lambs quarter sure do make your eyes sparkle, your teeth shine and the calcium level rise up in your bloodstream. For beauty, for health, for economy or money and ration points hurry out and grab off some of nature's bounty before the leaves get too tough. Floydada Hesperian.

WRITE ONLY CHEERFUL LETTERS TO SOLDIERS

In our opinion great care should be taken in writing letters to soldiers away from home. Only the things that cheer and build up morale should be written, never the things that might cause worry and fretting. It is not a good or smart thing to tell of petty worries and annoyances of one's own troubles. Write cheerful letters, morale building letters. These are the letters that are eagerly looked for and which leave the recipient stimulated and happy. Whatever trouble one is having at home the boy on the foreign battle front or training camp in the states has a bigger one. Just being away from home is enough. A lot of letters are written that it would have been much better if they never had been sent. Common sense and a little thought will tell you what kind of letter one should write and what kind should not be written.—Ford County News.

BOYCE HOUSE

Texas has many large and medium-size cities—but there was a time when the third best "one-night show town" in the State was a place with only 6,000 inhabitants—Eastland.

C. U. Conellee, founder of the town, used some of his oil wealth along in 1919 to build what was perhaps the biggest and finest theater between Fort Worth and El Paso. After the boom, the showhouse came under the management of A. C. Stalcup, an alert showman, who capitalized on the seating capacity and the network of good linked Eastland to many nearby towns: Cisco and Ranger were only 10 miles and Breckenridge, Brownwood and Abilene were not more than 80 minutes away.

The first big road show to play at the Conellee was "Up in the Clouds"—and your columnist saw the attraction from the very top row in the gallery—that was almost being "up in the clouds!"

Stars whose names were famous generation ago trod the boards of the Eastland playhouse. Margaret Anglin appeared in "The Woman of Bronze." Willie and Eugene Howard — (they're still Broadway favorites)—headed a big musical revue. Raymond Hitchcock, one of the great comedians of all time, brought "Hitchy-Koo."

He had attended the Rotary luncheon at noon, and then that night he stood in front of the stage as the audience was filling in and greeted the mayor and other leading citizens by name. They were flattered, of course, and the crowd applauded. Afterward, it was learned that the secretary of the club was seated only a foot from Hitchy and mumbled the names as the celebrities entered!

The biggest rival of Zeigfeld's Follies came to town—the New York Winter Garden's Passing Show, and that afternoon the bankers and oil men loaded the 50 lovely chorus girls in automobiles and took them for a tour of the oil field.

Capacity audiences thrilled to the melodies of "Blossom Time," laughed at Lasses White's minstrel and chilled at such mysteries as "The Bat" and "The Cat and the Canary."

Scenery, costumes and companies of these road shows were the same as were seen in such metropolises as St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco. The size of the stage and its equipment were such that elaborate lighting effects were possible. Broadway was brought into the land of the derricks and mesquite.

All of this was many years ago. Memories cling about the old stage and perhaps it has ghost of light-footed dancers, glorious-voiced singers and gay, glamorous women.

Shine Phillips of Big Spring, druggist-author of the humorous and successful book, "Big Spring," sends one of the letter-heads of George McIntire of Sterling City. It reads:

"U Ranch—established in 1876 by D. H. Earnest and W. J. Holland.

"Weather Forecast by Uncle Bill Kellis:
"Today, Fair, dry and windy.
"Tomorrow, Fair, windy and dry.
"Sunday will be a clear, dry day.

"All the rest of the week will be like Sunday, only a little drier, dustier, sandier, windier. There won't be any rain to speak of during the entire week."

And the ranch motto is: "Thankful for a rain or a calf any time."

It's a far cry from the "gold fish" and "canned willy" of other American armies to the present day ration of our modern Army. An elderly Texas woman—the pioneer type—strolled into a barn where a young man was milking a cow. With a snort she asked, "How is it you're not at the front, young feller?" "Because, ma'am," answered the milker, "there ain't no milk at that end."

An American soldier in England, born and bred in Texas, was attempting to give a group of British Tommies some idea of the size of the United States. "Why, you can board a train in mah state of Texas at dawn," he said, "and twenty-four hours later you'll still be right thar in Texas." Yes, I see," said one of the Britishers doubtfully, "but what does it prove? We've got trains like that here, too."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

While we have not heard so much about them, our air-borne command is inferior to none. We have thousands of these especially trained troops and the glider is a necessary factor in their successful operation.

We build gliders in three types and their capacity is a military secret. The type shown here costs about $19,000 each. Buy War Bonds with at least ten percent of your income every payday and help pay for these gliders for our intrepid fighting men. U. S. Treasury Department

Goes Fishing On The Clear Fork

D. P. Carter has returned from a trip to Anson, where he visited his father, the Rev. Carter, 82, a retired Baptist minister. Also, his sister, Mrs. L. P. Henslee. Mrs. Henslee is the wife of Editor Henslee, of the Western Enterprise, Anson's oldest paper.

While down there, Mr. Carter stated that he and his father, and two other young fellows, up in their eighties, made a trip down on the Clear Fork of the Brazos, and caught quite a lot of fish.

Early Diagnosis Important In TB Cases

AUSTIN—Urging the importance of early diagnosis as the surest avenue of recovering from tuberculosis, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, declares that the danger of this disease lies not so much in its virulence as in its stealthy attack.

"If a tuberculosis patient realized his plight in the earliest stages of the disease, immediate treatment could very likely save his life," Dr. Cox said.

The victim usually has sufficient warning of the onset of the disease, but all too frequently ignores them.

"The warning signs are usually noticeable enough to attract attention," Dr. Cox said. "A cough that persists, loss of weight, easy tiring—if any of these symptoms are present, delay in seeking proper medical attention only lessens the chance of arresting the disease."

"It is the better part of valor, in the presence of such symptoms, to seek the advice of the family physician without delay," Dr. Cox asserted. "Early diagnosis is a dearly treatment are the real foes of tuberculosis. To deprive oneself of their immeasurable advantages results at best in a long period of treatment, and all too frequently in premature death."

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gunn and children, Ginger and Charles, left Wednesday for Fort Worth. Mr. Gunn will transact business and Mrs. Gunn will visit with a sister and brother. They were accompanied by Mrs. Jack Stricklin Jr. and Jack Taylor. They will visit Mrs. Stricklin's parents in Denison.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Adams, Tom and Irene Adams and Nephew Bill Adams, attended the graduation of their daughter and sister Mary Nell, Monday night. Mary Nell was graduated from the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

No More "Blank Checks"

Out with the December sweepings of the 77th Congress went H.R. 7762, its revisions, modifications and amendments, bag and baggage. If this bill had passed it would have authorized the President to suspend federal laws at will, in whole or in part, "for the effective prosecution of the war," to give free movement of people, property and information into or out of the United States.

Formerly this Congress had given the administration everything it asked. H.R. 7762 was the first declined request from the President for a war measure. What caused Congress, at the year's end, to deviate from its unbroken record of granting all war legislation requested by the President? I have tried earnestly to get the truth, and I will report what I have heard.

Why the Change?
After talking with a number of congressmen and studying discussions of the measure in meetings of the Ways and Means Committee, I am satisfied that Congress has experienced a complete change of legislative powers to others. I predict that bureau chiefs aspiring to make their own rules this year will be disappointed. Even those who have been doing so for ten years may encounter difficulty.

Many congressmen, without casting the least shadow of blame in the direction of the Chief Executive, claim that subordinate executives have used the President's influence to obtain, through legislation, powers which Congress did not want them to have nor imagined they would get. The President is busy every waking minute with numberless complicated problems of a world-wide war. Obviously he can't watch everybody. He must trust a great many people.

Fear Carte Blanche
Congressmen express belief, not without resentment, that some of the President's advisers have taken advantage of his preoccupation. They point to a series of disappointing experiences with laws requested by administration executives; cases where congressmen found quite a little difference between their understanding of a bill before it was passed and the uses made of it after it became a law. Consequently they are reluctant (not to say unwilling) to keep on giving a free hand to miscellaneous executives.

The price ceilings miff makes a good example: For some time, House members sensed an effort to force them to place legal price limits on food (products of the farm) without permitting them at the same time to fix an up-stop on wages—fruits of the laborer's toil. And finally, last September, Congress gave in, accepting assurances that the President would take care of wages. Now certain congressmen complain that the law they passed is being used, not as administration men led them to believe when they voted, but quite differently.

Flouting the Senate
Then, too, there was the circumstance about salary limitations. Three times Congress had silenced with decisive vote, proposals to name a top figure for anybody to draw as a salary. Then an administration bill came along to give James F. Byrnes potent authority over payrolls. Some of its backers said the bill would not be used to lower existing salaries, but soon after passage, it WAS used for just that. Moreover the high limit was pegged at the very figure Congress had three times disapproved: $25,000.

Probably the most comment grew out of the construction of a certain building in Washington, D. C., after the Senate had refused authority to erect it. Subordinate executives used money obtained from one of the "blank checks" Congress had given the President, and built it anyway. Naturally the Senate is a little particular about who "goes over its head."

Congressmen Speak
May I present some hand-picked utterances? Rep. Gearhart of California said, "We have begun to lose faith in some of the promises made, in the light of what has transpired since." And, with reference to the anti-inflation bill, Rep. Disney of Oklahoma remarked, "We have learned a lot of things since we passed that bill that we did not know then, and which we do not like now."

Opposition to giving the President authority to suspend laws controlling the importation of undesirable food products brought representatives of 4,500 farm associations to Washington. This has strengthened the conviction of congressmen that they should retain all of the legislative powers of Congress.

A Still Worse Example
Probably the shoddiest suit of second-hand law making power, with which a bureaucrat was ever clothed, came with a law providing for re-negotiation of war contracts. It gives power, not to bureau chiefs alone. It permits thousands of auditors and other special clerks to exercise many authorities which the Constitution gives to Congress alone, even to break government contracts and revise prices as they please. I predict the authority of these underlings will be reduced sharply by the new Congress.

Mrs. Van Nelson is visiting her sister in Tulsa, Okla.

Mrs. Mattie Donaldson of Houston, sister of Aut Graham, died Monday. She was buried in Clovis, New Mexico, Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Aut Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Blue Graham, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Sawyer, Mrs. Tom May, Mrs. Cye Tankersley, Mrs. Roy Ballard, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sawyer attended the funeral.

My home life is much happier since our daughter has been reduced to a poor beau. While she had a rich beau I felt like an unwelcome visitor in my own home. Everything had to be just so all the time while the rich young man was coming there. I couldn't move a chair in the front room without being criticised, and at the dinner table I was fearful of making a blunder that would drive away the prospective fortune-in-law. But now that daughter has a real poor beau I am allowed privileges in my own home. Wife and daughter don't even care if I tell him that joke of mine. Of course it is nice for daughter to have a rich beau, but if she has a poor one father can remain head of his house during the courtship.

Baptist Church News

Assurance is coming in from some of the other churches of the Brownfield Association that the want to share with our church the task of rendering aid to the Mexican Baptists who have moved to this country and are undertaking to secure a place of worship and where they may teach the Bible to their children. These Mexicans need help financially as they little property of their own and work for their wages mostly for their living but they desire a church building and Baptist churches in this territory will do themselves credit by giving this worthy cause their aid.

Next Sunday has been designated as Mothers Day and the services in this church will be in keeping with the day. The young peoples choir will conduct the music and the sermon will deal with the religious influence of mother in the home as well as the church.

The greatest religious opportunity for mothers as well as fathers is in their homes while their children are with them as early impressions are the most lasting and now that more than 126 men from the homes of this church have been called to the service of their country, mothers as well as fathers are thinking of the opportunities that have gone by when they did not live the Christian life altogether as was their privilege.

It is the same in the homes of many in Brownfield as there are several hundred children in what are known as Christian homes that never read the Word of God in their homes and never attend regularly where it is taught and this is said to invite them to be present next Sunday morning at exactly 10 o'clock for the teaching service of this church where there is a class room and teacher for every one of every age.

Visitors are always welcome but people who live here should become regular attendants of the services of the church.

Why butter won't melt in Africa

AS EVERYBODY KNOWS, butter will melt unless you keep it cool. And the African desert isn't cool.

Nevertheless, the Americans who are fighting there carry butter—and it doesn't melt.

It doesn't melt because it's fortified with a fat which has a high melting point. The result is a butter which can be packed in a can, like beans or beef, won't melt, and will keep indefinitely.

You might think our soldiers could get along without butter. They could. But—they don't have to! Butter is good for them—and Uncle Sam is seeing to it that American soldiers are the best-fed, best-equipped, best-cared-for soldiers in the world!

Of course, it takes money to do that. So much money that, to help pay the bill, every one of us must loan every dollar we can to Uncle Sam through War Bonds.

Sabotage

An interesting letter has come to my desk. I regret that it is necessary for me to withhold the writer's name. I am giving it to you without comment, beyond saying that I am laying the case tactfully before Mr. Prentiss Brown, administrator of the OPA, confident that he will be as anxious as anybody to correct such abuses if they are at all general.

Dear Dr. Benson:

I wonder if you are in a position to tell Captain Rickenbacker or somebody else who gives a hoot, that absenteeism among industrial workers is not the only kind of sabotage that plays havoc with the war effort? But let me start at the front end of my story.

Rickenbacker is an idol of mine. I never met him, but they could adorn the Captain with two stars or break him down to two stripes and he would still be Eddie Rickenbacker to me, and to many a kid my age (over fifty) who, like myself, loved to strip an old jaloppie, rev-up its motor, paint the skeleton red and call it a racing car.

Hero Worship Maybe

Of course I listened to Rickenbacker's radio talk here a while back, and what he said was still on my mind the next day when I went to my local ration board after gasoline coupons for my truck. I'm a union man at heart, certainly no labor-baiter, but I'm a farmer. All the time I worked at my trade I was buying some land, and my truck (a Ford pick-up) is used exclusively for farming, the same as me. I'm positive that I'm not prejudiced; I'm against nobody but the enemy, at home as well as abroad, regardless of his calling.

At the ration-board office I had to fall in line of course—I'm getting used to that now, and don't mind much. The man ahead of me in line had a job in a plant where they make airplane parts. He had just got a promotion and started working under a new boss in a new department. He had come to get gasoline coupons too. He lives 20 miles from the job and said he couldn't get to work the next day without gasoline; neither himself nor four neighbors who ride with him.

He Didn't Get It

The fellow was an honest looking chap. He explained everything plain enough for me to understand it; and I'm no braintruster. He said he knew he needed a form, part of which had to be filled out by his employer, and he had asked the Ration Board for such a form but did not get it. He conceded that the Board had probably overlooked his request for a special form innocently, his change of jobs being a sort of irregularity.

The man went on to explain that when he had fixed up his papers (all but the one he didn't have) and had brought them to the Ration Board's office, he was told that the "employer's form" also had to be completed. He declared that he had attended to it immediately but, on account of the delay, he failed to get his papers in on time to receive official action at the Board's last meeting. All he got from the manager of the Board was assurance that the case would be considered at the Board's next meeting—four days off.

Five Workers Absent

If the man had wanted to buy 25,000 barrels of gasoline in I.C.C. drums he couldn't have been treated any cooler, but actually all he wanted was an emergency supply to take him and four other airplane builders to work for four days until the Board met. He tried to emphasize that point but it only served to irritate the manager who began phonographing, "Your case will be considered when the Board meets."

I am telling you truthfully, it completely got my goat. I got the gasoline coupons I went after. Maybe I ought not to be kicking about a headache that belongs to somebody else. But you see I was still all built up with the common sense patriotism of Captain Rickenbacker. He had talked about how American soldiers in tropical fox-holes need support from the air. He had made staying home from work look like a felony, half-way between arson and murder.

Abuse of Authority

Personally, I think the fellow sitting right there looking down his nose and opening his mouth just wide enough to say "Your case will be considered when the Board meets," had enough authority to allow this man some gasoline to take five war workers to their jobs. But maybe not. Perhaps he is tied down by rules and gets pretty tired every day listening to arguments over things he can do nothing about. But it's a rotten situation if the manager of a Ration Board can't allow an emergency ration of two gallons per man to keep them making airplanes four whole days.

Maybe this fellow likes his job. After all, if it wasn't for the war he wouldn't have that position of authority. Maybe he thinks it's to his personal interest to let the war last as long as possible. I can't believe that is what's the matter with him, but the results are the same.

Bill Kendall and his family are moving to the northern part of New Mexico.

NEED FOR UNITED EFFORT

To win this war we must have unity of effort. "The do-as-I-tell-you-not-as-I-do" attitude will never mobilize national power or bring speedy victory.

This need for united effort was emphasized by the President in his recent call for a 40 per cent reduction in the use of government automobiles. Take the use of tires and gasoline by various federal agencies. A report of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures says:

"Despite the growing automobile crisis, both in tires and gasoline, the investigation of the committee indicates that for the first four months of the present fiscal year the various agencies of the government, exclusive of the Army and Navy, continued for the most part to use as many passenger cars, to drive as many miles, and to consume about as much gasoline as did these agencies in a comparable period of the previous year, notwithstanding the efforts of the government to reduce the consumption of gasoline and conserve rubber.

Same Standard for All

"The committee believes that the same standard of strictly essential driving should be applicable to government employees as now applies to individual citizens."

The committee gives figures upon which its conclusions are based. In the last fiscal year the government owned 17,305 passenger automobiles, exclusive of the Army and Navy and exclusive of trucks and motorcycles. It now owns 18,953 passenger automobiles.

In the last fiscal year the cost of operating these automobiles was $4,243,602. According to the use of the first four months of the present year the cost will be $3,924,069. In the last fiscal year these government-owned cars traveled 203,550,260 miles. According to the first four months of this year, government-owned cars will travel, this fiscal year, 199,830,930 miles and consume 12,853,533 gallons of gasoline.

The report also quotes from a statement of the Director of the Budget, indicating that "until now government cars have had an average of six and one-half tires each." The Committee's finding "that the same standard of strictly essential driving" should apply to government employees as is applied to individual citizens is too downright sensible to require discussion.

Why More Payrollers?

Another example of the need for united effort is found in the problem before Congress as to whether excessive profits on war contracts require new bureaus and additional payrollers or whether the Department of Internal Revenue can do the job.

The average citizen struggling with high taxes and a shortage of manpower answers: If necessary, amend the Internal Revenue Act for this purpose.

To win the war we must spend money and use materials wisely. We have enough manpower to do our essential jobs, but we have neither the manpower nor the taxes to hire special payrollers to do work that can be done better by established agencies.

"ACTS AND AMERICA" SERMON SUBJECT AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Next Sunday morning at the First Christian church the Minister will begin a series of sermons on the Book of Acts. This book records the beginning of the Church, the actions of the early disciples and Paul's travels. A large map has been prepared upon which these events will be traced. Each sermon will be an attempt to relate the lessons in Acts to present day life, asking the questions in each chapter, "What lesson is there here for me, and for America, today?" You will be interested, informed and inspired. And you will be welcome. Sunday is Mother's day. Honor your mother as well as your God by going to church Sunday.

Women AT WAR

Leonora

Leonora straightened the objects on her desk with great care. She had put her desk at the end of her room facing the door so that when her mother came in she would have to cross the whole room under Leonora's stern executive eye to get to her. From movies and pictures in the newspapers Leonora had gotten a good idea of how the desk of a busy woman of affairs should look.

With an important scroll, Leonora picked up a sheet of paper. Now she was two people—herself, the busy woman, and her own stenographer. "Miss Simpkins, take a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, will you?" she murmured under her breath. "Yes, immediately," she murmured back at herself. Leonora cleared her throat and looked at the ceiling for inspiration. Miss Simpkins bent over the sheet of paper hanging on the words about to fall.

"Dear Mr. Morgenthau," — "Got that?" — "Yes, ma'am." "I am—ahem—thirteen years old and anxious to be of all possible service to the country at this time, ahem!" "I earn a weekly income of from $1.37 to $2.12 by helping with the housework and by shovelling snow. I am at present in possession of one War Savings Bond and am buying stamps weekly. I want to become a member of the 10 percent Club. I feel it to be—ahem—not only my duty, but my privilege!" ("How do you spell privilege?" asked Miss Simpkins. "Don't bother me with these details," said Leonora)—my privilege as an American to invest at least ten percent of my income in War Bonds.

Yours truly, "Get that off at once, Miss Simpkins," said Leonora. "Yes, Ma'am! You certainly are an important woman, ma'am," said Miss Simpkins.

Farm Cash Income Up 70 Per Cent

AUSTIN—Farm cash income in Texas took another leap upward in March, as total income rose to 61 million dollars, a gain of 70 per cent over the same month of last year, Dr. F. A. Buechel, University of Texas Bureau of Business Research statistician has revealed.

During the first three months of 1943, agricultural income has amounted to 169 million dollars, a gain of 52 per cent over the 111 million received by farmers during the same period of 1942, Dr. Buechel reported.

During the five year base period of 1928-1932, average cash income during March was approximately 18 million dollars, Dr. Buechel pointed out. The index figure for March, 1943, was thus 342.2—a gain of 242.3 per cent over the average for the base period.

Nearly one-third of the state's farm income during March was received in the Texas Panhandle, Dr. Buechel said. Increased marketings and higher prices of livestock—cattle, calves, hogs and sheep—were responsible for this gain in income.

Two other major crops which showed a favorable year to year comparison were milk—income up 46 per cent during March from the same month of last year—and fruits and vegetables, which brought in twice as much income as in 1942.

Some Things The Herald Doesn't Do

When you give the Herald an ad, and specify the size you wish, you may depend on it that the size will not be enlarged, not even the fraction of an inch, and the billing of the ad will be just what the ad solicitor stated it would be—no more, no less. If we see that you have too much material for the space, we'll consult you by phone or personally, before raising the size.

And, your firm name will NOT appear on any "sign up" of "co-operative" ad unless you authorize us to do so, under any circumstances, and you'll never be billed for anything that you have not authorized us to print or publish.

The Herald has always shot square with the people for 34 years. By doing this, we have some times lost revenue that we might have received by high pressure methods. But we have been here too long to start anything like that now.

If at any time, everything we promise does not come up to Hoyle, just go to your phone or see us on the street. We'll be glad to correct or make any adjustment that is fair and square.

Some women are good trapeze artists—judging from the way they can stay on a telephone wire.

There would be less noise in the world if our mouths worked only when our heads do.

Down in the Solomons and on the African coasts the Crocodile Boat or tank lighter played a most important role in landing our invasion armies. These self-propelled, light . . . fast boats haul tanks, artillery and other equipment from the big ships off-shore to the beach heads.

We need more and more of them, for they are essential to the successful operation of the war. They are made in several sizes from small fifty-footers, costing about $2,400 to the big 500-tonners costing around $37,000. Your purchase of War Bonds every payday will help pay for them. U. S. WOMEN AT WAR

Rosebud

Rosebud is eight, and the most beautiful shade of caramel fudge. To her loving Mammy and Pappy she is known, on approximately alternate days, as "Angel" and "You devil child". It was on her devil-child days that Rosebud tied the knots in the shirts that Mammy had taken in for washing, and poured the whole of the vanilla bottle into the lamb stew, just, she said later through bitter tears, to "favor it up some".

On her angel days Rosebud is equally imaginative even if a more restful occupant of the little shack down on Vinegar Hill. Once when Mammy was out doing day work, Rosebud got a wave of cleaning fever and scoured every pot and pan in the kitchen so that they literally glistened. Another day, left alone, she tidied up Mammy's and Pappy's room to such a point of apple-pie order that it was a week before Pappy could find an undershirt.

Rosebud is a great reader of the newspapers. Mammy and Pappy don't take one, but there are plenty of perfectly good newspapers blowing round Vinegar Hill. It was out of one of them that Rosebud got her idea for spending the ten cents the Bunny had put under her pillow the night her tooth came out. After breakfast Rosebud disappeared down the Hill and reappeared soon after with a beautiful ten-cent War Stamp pasted firmly into a brand-new book with neat little squares for more stamps. She displayed her investment to Mammy. "I declare you're an angel child," Mammy said. Rosebud went on sitting on the kitchen floor staring with large brown eyes at the empty squares in her book. From time to time she took hold of one or another of her teeth and wigged it gently.

Mammy was engrossed in a particularly big washing. Rosebud was as quiet as a mouse and Mammy forgot about her until, coming in from the yard with her arms full of dry sheets, she encountered her child with a large hammer in her hand. Scouting the devil in her angel child, Mammy shouted at her, "Rosebud! Come yere with that hammer! What you planning on doing?"

But what was done was done. In Rosebud's other hand was another tooth. Her mouth was stretched in a broad if slightly bloody smile. "I ain't doing nothing, Mammy," she said. "I'm just filling up my stamp book."

(Story from an actual report in the files of the Treasury Department.)

Say yes. Take your change in War Stamps. Your investment in War Bonds today will save a payday for tomorrow. U. S. Treasury Department

RUMI PLAN STILL IN THE RING

The question of how to collect the Federal income tax is not settled by any means. The pay-as-you-go idea gets on its feet as rapidly as it is knocked down. Polls over the nation show conclusively that the people favor such a plan.

In regard to the Treasury's objection that the Rumi Plan would favor the rich, Congressman Celler, Democrat, of New York, says: "That is untrue. It is a demagogic slug below the belt. The Rumi plan, with all the bugs taken out, would favor no one class. All can be treated alike. All would benefit and the government would be enriched with less tax delinquencies, defaults, and refusals to pay."

As taxes get heavier, as millions of people, for the second time, pay an installment of their Federal income tax, demands will grow louder for a pay-as-you-go tax plan.

RETAIL SALES UP 25 PER CENT OVER 1942

AUSTIN—Sales of independent retail stores in Texas increased 22 per cent in March, 1943, over March, 1942, and 3 per cent over February, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has reported.

For the first three months of this year, sales were 25 per cent greater than those for a comparable period of 1942. During the month of March, the most sensational gains were made by dry goods and ready-to wear stores.

POULTRY SHIPMENTS DECREASE IN TEXAS

AUSTIN—Shipments of poultry and eggs from Texas stations during March were far below those of March of last year the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has revealed.

Only five carloads of chickens and one car of turkeys were shipped in March in comparison with 13½ of chickens and 4½ of turkeys during the same month of 1942.

The shell-egg equivalent of all types of eggs shipped—shell, frozen and dried—during March was 715 cars as compared with 1,305 in March of last year, the Bureau reported.

Newspapers are interested in a suit brought by the government against a number of the department stores in New York City. The New York Times recently announced a revision of advertising rates. Naturally the rates were increased because of the increased costs of doing business. Some of the stores decided to boycott the Times, and cancelled their advertising. The Times said nothing, believing that the stores would soon see the folly of their way and return to the newspaper. However, the government did not look at the situation that way. First of all, the stores violated the law in organizing a boycott; second, the government looks upon advertising as an essential means of keeping the public informed. Suits were filed against all of the stores for violation of anti-trust laws. The government takes the position that the public looks to the newspapers for essential information regarding trade conditions, and this information is carried by means of advertising. It would have been okay for any store to stop advertising, but when the stores got together and decided to boycott the newspaper, the government stepped in and took a hand. All newspaper publishers are greatly interested in this situation.—Canyon News.

Here's the clincher for me

This is my kid. He's a pretty good kid. I always used to figure he'd get along all right in the world, the same way I did. But a war starts you thinking. Nobody knows for sure just what kind of a world my kid will have to grow up in. But whatever kind of a world it is, a little money behind him will help. That's why I'm salting money away for him now. I'm not taking any chances with his future. I'm guaranteeing it in the best way I know how. Every pay day, nearly a quarter of what I make goes into War Bonds. Not just when I can spare it. But every single pay day—week in, week out.

It's taken right out of my pay, on the Payroll Savings Plan. That way, I hardly miss it. But it mounts up fast. And every one of those War Bonds will pay back four dollars for three. Pay it back when my kid may need it most. Sure, I'd be buying bonds anyway. I know the Government needs money to win the war. And, it's the least sacrifice a guy can make for the country that's been good to him. But the clincher with me is my kid.

Chances are, you're already in the Payroll Savings Plan—buying War Bonds—doing your bit. But don't stop there. Raise your sights! Do your best!

YOU'VE DONE YOUR BIT --- NOW DO YOUR BEST!

Trollinger Family Appreciates The Herald

Mrs. T. J. Trollinger wrote in under date of April 30th, to get their Herald changed to their new address at Concord, Calif., instead of Vallejo, as heretofore. This to forestall any loss of copies.

We wish all our readers would do this, as when they have the postoffice to notify us it will cost us 2c to get the notice. Besides, the reader may miss two or three copies, as the postoffice may or may not notify us promptly.

Mrs. T. says the Hon. Hubby is still welding ships together for the Japs to shoot at, and is working seven days a week. They enjoy the news from the old home town and about their friends in particular.

A problem confronting early civilization, says a lecturer, was what to use for money. If he learns of anything, our legisla-

Farmers Must Do Double Feeding Job

In the first six months of 1943, 3,000,000 tons of scrap metals are being sought from American farmers by the Salvage Division, WPB, at the request of Chairman Donald M. Nelson. This means that every farm in the United States must collect and turn in an average of 1,000 pounds before July first.

Chairman Nelson has thus announced to the nation's farmers that there is still a critical need for an adequate backlog of scrap piles in communities throughout the country despite any rumors to the contrary.

Reports from many of the nation's steel producing centers indicate that many mill inventories are dropping rapidly. Another crucial scrap shortage is expected despite the improvement in the over-all situation during the latter part of 1942. 1942 campaigns skimmed the cream of the farm and home scrap crop, but

THE BIBLE TEACHES ADVERTISING

There is no book so refreshing, comforting or so satisfying as the Bible. When I want to read of a fishing trip, I have but to turn to the Gospels and read of those humble fishermen of the Sea of Galilee, who later became fishers of men; if it is architecture, there's the account of Solomon's Temple; if perchance it's astronomy, Job can refresh me; if it be music, David's Psalms will suffice; if logic or philosophy, the Book of Proverbs has never been equalled. Almost every subject is dealt with in the Bible. Even the subject of advertising. You didn't know that advertising was mentioned in the Bible? No? Well, it is, and very directly and explicitly at that. Reach up on the shelf, get your Bible down, blow off the dust, turn to Numbers 24:14 and read with me: "And now behold I go unto my people: come therefore, and I will ADVERTISE thee what this people shall do to thy people in the latter days." And that's not all. Not by a long shot. Let's go on to Ruth 4:4 and read: "And I thought to ADVERTISE thee, saying, Buy it before the inhabitants, and before the elders of my people." The spokesman in this instance was advising relative to a parcel of land that was for sale. I ran across the verses just recently in my Bible and am passing the info on to you, whether you believe in advertising or not. I've got it figured that advertising is a mighty fine thing, or it wouldn't be in use. Advertising is the gasoline of business. You can't run your car without gas, can you?—O'Donnell Index-Press.

SANTA FE CARLOADINGS

The Santa Fe System carloadings for the week ending May 1, 1943, were 23,048 compared with 20,707 for the same week in 1942. Cars received from connections totaled 12,951 compared with 10,922 for the same week in 1942. Total cars moved were 35,999 compared with 31,629 for the same week in 1942. Santa Fe handled a total of 36,624 cars in the preceding week of this year.

Safe Canning Methods

College Station — Only two methods of home canning are recommended by the Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas as being safe, preventing spoilage, and retaining the maximum amount of food value, flavor, texture, and color.

One method, says Winifred Jones, Extension specialist in food preservation is to process meats and vegetables, except tomatoes and ripe pimientos, in a pressure cooker. The other method is the water bath for fruits, tomatoes, and ripe pimientos.

She explains that the pressure cooker offers the safest known method of canning the non-acid vegetables and meats because it destroys bacteria in these foods, including the most dangerous—the bacillus botulinus. If these bacteria are not destroyed in the spore stage they may grow and later produce a toxin or poison in the food.

"The worst part about this poison is that you usually cannot smell, taste or see it, yet one small bite could cause death or severe illness she says. The bacillus botulinus is destroyed by maintaining pressure at 240 to 250 degrees Fahrenheit. In an oven or water bath the temperature of the food inside the jar never goes higher than 212 degrees, because the only way to get liquid higher than 212 degrees is to maintain pressure.

Open kettle canning is not recommended by the specialist because research has proven there is a greater percentage of spoilage and the food often becomes mushy in texture. It is best not to can fruit and tomatoes in a pressure cooker because they keep easily when processed at 212 degrees in a water bath. Further directions on modern canning methods are available from county home demonstration agents.

C. J. Bonham of the Willow Wells section, was in Wed., on business.

Supt Lee Fulton of the county schools, stated this week, that while the rolls were not entirely completed, as he had to get reports from the State Department of county line scholastics, he believed the finals would show practically the same number of students Terry county had last year.

Conserving Protein Supplement

College Station — Current and prospective shortages have imposed conservation of supplies of protein supplements upon feeders. Normally, says A. L. Smith, animal husbandman for the A. and M. College Extension Service, in fattening lambs with carbonaceous roughages and grain, as much as 20 per cent of the full ration may consist of cottonseed meal.

"Under necessity," he continues, "we can get by very well with 10 per cent of cottonseed meal when the roughages are palatable and of good quality. If alfalfa hay is used as roughage about five per cent of cottonseed meal in the total ration would be sufficient."

In feeding cattle extremes are also found in the uses which can be made of cottonseed meal. In feeding steers cottonseed cake on grass; cottonseed meal and hulls, cottonseed meal and ground bunnies, or cottonseed meal and silage

On the basis of 2 1/2 pounds of cottonseed meal as furnishing the minimum protein necessary to a steer's fattening ration, six pounds of alfalfa conceivably can be used to replace 1 1/2 pounds of cottonseed meal, leaving one pound of meal as the least amount which should be fed.
