PALACE
Drug Store
BROWNFIELD, TEXAS
IF IT'S IN A DRUG STORE WE HAVE IT

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

Are you a paradox? A paradox is a business man who throws a Justin boot at his Big Ben alarm clock, rolls off his Ostermoor mattress onto a Congoleum rug, hops into his B. V. D's, runs his Gillette razor over his Mennen-lathered face, consumes a hurried breakfast of Shredded Wheat and a cup of Postum, lights a Chesterfield at his store and then tells the advertising solicitor of a newspaper:

"Advertising doesn't pay; it never sold me anything!"

An entire chapter of newspaper humor is to be found in your columnist's new book, "Tall Talk From Texas," from which the above is quoted. (The book, by the way, exhausted four editions in three weeks—for which the author is deeply grateful to thousands of friends.)

Just a few more samples from the book:

A Texas editor received a letter asking "How long cows should be milked." He replied, "The same as short cows."

Bronco Bill saved a lot of lives one time—he shot the camp cook.

This is a Texas story—even if it did happen in New York City. The chief figure was the famous (or infamous) slave-driving city editor of the old New York World. The foreman of a Texas ranch had eloped with the ranch owner's daughter and they were in Manhattan on their honeymoon. The city editor sent a reporter for an interview.

The groom met him at the door, cussed him out, blacked his eye and threatened to kick him down the steps if he came back. The reporter went to a telephone in the lobby and reported the treatment he had received and the threat that had been hurled.

The "chief" banged his fist on the table as he shouted into the telephone, "You go back and tell that blankety-blank that he can't intimate me."

What people think of you is not nearly as important as what you are.

Dallas, Oct. 14.—Members of the Texas State Park Board and Brazos river reclamation officials will confer at Mineral Wells tomorrow on post-war plans for developing a $1,000,000 state park at Possum Kingdom lake.

Six thousand acres has been decided to the board for the parks development, said Frank D. Quinn, Austin, executive director, at a meeting of the board here yesterday.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE $3,697,017.75 PAID IN SEPT.

Austin, Oct. 9.—Old Age Assistance totaling $3,697,017.75, is being paid in September to 170,509 aged persons in an average grant of $21.58. In August the average grant was $21.59 with rolls of 170,850. Payments are $1.25 below the authorized grant.

Aid to the Blind is being paid to 4,623 persons in an average grant of $24.10, totaling $111,401. In August the rolls were 4,611 with $24.09 as the average grant.

Aid to Dependent Children is being paid to 10,697 families with 23,262 children. The average grant is $20.88.

PEOPLE ARE FUNNY

Retailers, especially those who have been dealing in items that have been scarce and hard to get, have had many quite laughs (all to themselves to be sure to not offend a good customer) over the ways of people.

Used to having the retailers jump through the hoops to get them what they want and the way they want it, some people have proceeded to give their dealer (in whatever line, but generally in the food business) a good going over when he doesn't hand over bacon, for instance. (He doesn't have any bacon, doesn't know when he will get some, but wishes he had a million pounds since the demand is so strong.) He must listen while the irate lady wants to know why she can't have some bacon when the country (she hears) is full of hogs. Or she wants her butter and she doesn't mean maybe. Doesn't the government have millions of pounds put away just to take care of emergencies, and isn't it an emergency when you need butter?

Just what the nice petted and spoiled lady or other customers would think the butcher knows about government butter policy or why there is not any bacon, when the country is full of hogs, she doesn't explain. Doubtless the man behind the counter is just taking advantage of her while he can. He ought to sell her some bacon or butter but won't—just a matter of pure cussedness. And so through the week, about every 20th customers or so must have her say. So she puts that feller in his place.—Floydada Hesperian.

KYLE GROCERY IS BEING REMODELED

Kyle Graves has workmen now busy making a great change in the building in which is housed his grocery. Not only will there be a big change in arrangement, but it will be a greater convenience for customers as well as the employees.

The painters and decorators will also have a hand in the transformation to take place.

THE JUDGE SAYS—

The Japs report they have sunk our navy—again!

The Nazis have really got something to be Aachen about.

The way they have been spitting at each other lately, the university president and the board of regents must all be Democrats.

They say its a small world, and getting smaller. Another decade of shrinking, maybe our part will become small enough for Dewey to handle.

Mrs. C. C. Primm and Shelia Kay returned last week from Roswell, N. M., where they visited Mrs. Primm's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cephus Hunter. Mrs. Hunter recently underwent surgery but is doing nicely.

New Sheriffs To Receive Training

Austin, Oct. 7.—Winners in sheriff races in Texas in the general election of Nov. 7 will have a special course of police training at Camp Mabry, near here, before beginning official duties.

The training camp will be held Nov. 12-25, State Police Director Homer Garrison Jr., announced tonight.

Arrangements are being worked out by the state safety department and a committee of the State Sheriffs' association.

COPELAND HARDWARE IS EXPANDING

Lal Copeland, owner and manager of the Copeland Hardware, is greatly enlarging his building on the north side of the square. He has run the building back the full length of the lot, 140 feet, to the alley.

Other improvements will be a balcony in the rear of the building, including all, or practically all, of the additional forty feet the store has been enlarged.

Much remodeling of display space is anticipated for the entire store.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Quite a stack of newspapers I left you yesterday, Judge. Aren't you in the newspaper business, are you?"

"No, I just enjoy reading different papers so my nephew George sends them to me whenever he takes a business trip. I got a big kick out of some he sent me from several counties where they still have prohibition. Particularly from some headlines that read 'Drunk Driving Arrests Rise'.

'Bootleggers must post Ceiling Prices', 'Federal Agents seize 'Trick' Liquor Truck'. Doesn't that go to prove, Joe, that prohibition does not prohibit?"

"I watched conditions pretty carefully during our 13 years of prohibition in this country. The only thing I could see we got out of it was bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor... plus the worst crime and corruption this country has ever known."

HORSE DRAGS YOUTH TO DEATH AT SEAGRAVES

Seagraves, Oct. 14.—Twelve-year-old Joseph Wallace was dragged to death by his pet pony here this afternoon.

The youngster, who had been making his home in Seagraves with an aunt, Mrs. L. B. Smallwood and Rev. Smallwood, pastor of the Methodist church here, became entangled in a rope which he had tied around the pony's neck. He was dragged approximately one mile.

The Smallwoods supposed that the horse became frightened at some object passing in the street and ran outside town.

The youngsters mother is dead.

VOLUME FIRST

It is now argued that further wage increases need not be reflected in price increases. The claim is made that the economies of volume production after the war can keep prices down and wages up. There is nothing new in this argument. Industry has operated on a high volume, high wage basis for years. That is why the American workman is the highest paid individual in the world. All along the line, the goods which keep consumers housed, clothed, fed and amused, are created and moved on a volume basis. The volume technique in the last decade has reached near perfection in distribution as well as in production.

The existence of modern retailing depends upon volume consumption at minimum prices. It, like mass production, can operate successfully on no other principle. Long before the present step toward breaking the "little steel formula" and the instituting of still higher wages, the main worry of distributors and producers was how to absorb high costs without wrecking the spark plug of volume—low prices. Mass production and mass distribution have given the country a lot for its money. But if we try to get more from them than they can give, both will evaporate into thin air. Prices will go up and wages will go down. The operation of industry on a volume basis is more important than wage increases.

Security Council Open To All Nations

Press Statement of Senator Tom Connally, Chairman, Foreign Relations Committee, U. S. Senate, October 9, 1944

Washington, D. C.—"I have carefully examined the documents drafted at the Dumbarton Oaks Conference. With the exception of the question of voting procedure in the Security Council, it covers all of the main controversial points with respect to an international organization for peace. That matter will be acted upon either in an adjourned session of the conference or in the conference of all the proposed members or in the meeting of the nations who are to form the initial organization.

The plan announces the general purposes and plans of the organization to include the maintenance of international peace and security and the employment of effective means to suppress aggression, first, by peaceful measure such as conciliation arbitration and diplomacy. These measures failing, it provides for the employment of armed forces by the Executive Council. It binds the members of the organization and settles their disputes by peaceful means.

"It provides that the organization shall be open to all peace-loving states.

"It establishes a general Assembly composed of representatives of all nations who are members and a Security Council composed of four permanent members: to wit, the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China and ultimately France. The Assembly is to elect six other members of the Council with terms of three years each.

An important feature is that non-members of the organization are authorized to bring any international dispute before the Council for settlement. It is provided that an International Court of Justice shall be established and that it shall use as a framework the present World Court, with such amendments or modifications as may be necessary.

"It is also provided that any state not a member of the organization if it is a party to a dispute under consideration by the Council, shall be invited to participate in the discussion relating to the dispute.

As a whole, the plan adopted meets with my full approval. Its insistence on the employment of peaceful measures of settlement is of the highest importance. Armed force is to be employed only as a last resort against recalcitrant and defiant aggressors who would disturb the public peace.

"It is a document that ought to receive the support of the American people irrespective of party affiliations. It meets the world demand for permanent peace machinery. It expresses the hopes of peace loving nations that civilization shall provide a method whereby future wars may be prevented and the treasure and the blood of peace-loving states may be conserved.
