FRESH FAMILY SUPPLIES,

The General's Opinion on Matrimony, the White House, and Other Subjects. [From the Somerset (Ohio) Advocate.]

When the General, or "Phil.," as his father still persists in calling him, was last on a visit to his home at Somerset in 1866, he arrived in the night by conveyance from Newark. He had been spending several weeks at Washington, and had been received with the highest marks of respect by Congress, and toasted and feasted by outsiders there and on his way back to New Orleans, by way of his home here, which he always managed to take in his route, going or coming. During active hostilities he visited his home but once, and then staid but a few days; but devotion to military life, for which he seems to have an inclination amounting almost to passion, has not obliterated his love of home and the faces which preceded him in youth. On the occasion of his last visit he was commander of his department. The riots had taken place, and been fully discussed and grown stale in the public prints, but the General painted them freshly with the magic of his descriptive powers, until you again beheld the conflict passing before your amazed vision, and felt the horrors of the cruelty praticed upon defenceless inno cruelty praticed upon defenseless inno-cence, as indignation itself flashed from the eye and shone through the broad, throbbing temples of the narrator.

It was reported that some fair daughter of Louisiana had done what all the re armies failed to do -captured him. Now was the time to place the General on his honor under the roof of his ancestors, the glance of his parents, and the scrutinizing eye of his only sister, Mrs. Wilson The subject was accordingly broached by some one, and while the General puffed his "meerschaum," you could not dis-cover a single flit of thought through his countenance which betrayed the least un welcome disposition to "explain." "Yea," said he, "that report was sent abroad from New Orleans by a newspa-per correspondent, who seeks every opportunity to injure me, without appar-ently betraying any disposition to do so. He is shrowd enough to carry apparent friendship on the poist of his pen, only that his real malignity may seek more satisfactory gratification.".

This satisfied us all on this point, but the General having consented to occupy the quizzing stool and be quizzed good-naturedly, some one remarked, "We clear you of that count is the indictment, but how about Miss Wright, of Virginia?" A glance at the interrogator told the General that more than a mere joke was intended by this inquiry, and that mystery was too plainly depicted in the countenance of all listeners to allow the question to pass slightly. He added a few more puffs to those which had al-ready clouded the atmosphere, and be-gan: "Miss Wright, of Winchester, Virginia? 'Tis her fault she got in the papers, not mine. When I was preparing to drive Early out of that place, I needed information of its fortifications, strength, and the numbers I should have te encounter. Disaster had so frequently overcome our forces in the Valley, that I felt extremely soxious to share the honor of roversing our fortunes in that region. General Grant had confided this great work to my charge. President Lincoln regarded my success as extremely essential, and the whole country tremely essential, and the whole country seemed to hold its breath as if listening for the news from our army.

"General Grant visited me, I suppose, for the purpose of ascertaining whether I fairly comprehended the situation, and, becoming satisfied with my precantions, be made use of the bomely but very sig-nificant phrase, "Go in." But before I did this I learned something of Miss Wright, who is a Quaker lady and re-sides with her parents in Winebester, who, like myself, were unimpenchably local. I had never seen her, only knew of her through spies and scouts, but determined to obtain some information from her, believing I could rely on it as genuine. A colored man in the neigh-borhood of my headquarters held a pass to go and come from Winchester with marketing. I had him brought secretly to my headquarters, and having conplaced a small piece of paper in a small piece of tin foil, and wrapped it up so closely that be could take it in his mouth, while the foil protected it from injury, directing him to deliver his next marketing to Miss Wright, not to go into the house, but leave the moment he had delivered the foil, and go about as if on other business until her answer was ready and wrapped up in like man-"I thus obtained much valuable infor mation, and when I made an attack on Early's forces I knew there would be a bloody and desperate conflict, but my reliance on what Miss Wright had told me, and what I knew from other sources, never failed me through the severes

On my recent visit to Washington I made in convenient to go by Winchester, and to present to this unaffectedly modest lady me token of my gratitude. I accor ingly tendered her a fine gold watch, which cost me several hundred dollars, and would have given her other valuable presents had my exchequer warranted them; but while I made my visit and my token a profound secret, she would not restrain her disposition to make them both known, and I instantly became the victim of another rumor implicating me in making love to another Southern lady,' As for the colored man, it would be unsafe, even now, to reward him suitably for his devotion to our cause."

Some of the company adverted to the fact that his name was growing up for the Presidency of the United States. He piquantly retorted: "I am about as innecent of that as the other reports bout falling in love with Southern ladies. l expect to live and die in the army. I have no aspiration for civil positions. I believe I can discharge the executive duties of my present position, as I have succeeded in the command of both infantry and cavalry forces, finding new exigencies ever tapping new energies within the army; but I love army life too well to seek its exchange for new and untried labors in civil life."

The next morning before daylight the General was on his way to New Orleans by way of Columbus, Ohio, where he halted to receive the congratulations of loved Ohio.

A FEARFUL SCAFFOLD SCENE.

A horrible scaffold scene occurred the other day in the prison yard of Janer, in Sileaia. A young woman, not of the lowest class of the population, was to be behended for gratifying her jealousy of her former lover by an act that had led to the death of several persons. The faithless man had described her and married another girl. The descried mistress to revenge herself, set fire to his house and several persons perished in the flames. She was arrested, convicted, and sentenced to suffer death. On the and sentenced to suffer death. On the scaffold, just at the moment when the executioner barred her neck and was about to fasten her to the fatal block, she broke loose from him and his maistants, seized the large axe that was to cut off her head, and then defied the dumfounded officers to take her. They rushed upon her, ahowered blows upon her head, and finally, after she had slightly wouted dome of them in the souffle, ly wound d some of them in the southe, she was knocked down and handouffed She uttered wild, terrible screams all the while, and the executioner and ble tried to disputch her as quickly as pos-sible—they tore her dress from her shoulders, tied her feet and dragged her to the block. Although she still screamed and resisted to the best of her power, the leathern strap on block, by which the head of victim is drawn forward, was soon alip victim is drawn forward, was soon slipped over it, and the executioner seized the axe. Unfortunately, the dreadful scene had made him quite nervous, and on striking he missed her neck, and cut deeply into her shoulder and back. The blood rushed from the fearful wound, and the agreement and the screams of the unfortunate wo man grew heart-rending beyond descrip-tion. A second blow, dealt her a faw accords afterwards, finally put a stop to ber sufferings.

Ir is reported that the Ritualistic, or High Church party in New York, are endeavoring to to avoid the trial of Rev. endeavering to to avoid the trial of Rav. Stephen H. Tyng, Jr., for preaching in a Methodist church, in New Jersey, without permission of the rector whose district was inveded; but Mr. Tyng and his friends are determined that the trial shall take place. Two other Episcopal clergymen, Rev. John A Parsons, of Delaware, and Rav. Robert McCurdy, LL. D., of New York, have committed the same offence. To add to these the same offence. To add to these trouble for Bishop Opusholmer, who is now in Europe, the Standing Committee of the New York Diocese have issued their usual call for the assembling of the Diocesas Convention, notwithstanding she request of the Bishop that it be pos'poned until his return.

It is officially announced, through the Christian Advocate, that the centenary contributions of the Methodist Episcopal church, so far reported, exceed four million dollars, and it is estimated that when the Western conferences are heard from, the aggregate will probably reach six and a half millions of dollars.

HON, HANNIBAL HAMLIN ON THE POLITICAL SITUA.

At the Republican Convention .for Penobacott county, Main, in Bangor on the 22d ultimo, ex-Vice-President Hamlin being called upon, made a short address, of which the Bangor Whig gives the following synopsis:

"He thought the present was a time for action rather than words. The words that are used, if any, should be short, sharp and decisive. There was no hour during the war of the rebellion when there was greater responsibility placed upon us than rests upon us to-day. We are not out of our trials or our dangers. unfortunately in some respects, but for-tunately in others, we have a National Executive who seems bent upon thwarting the national will and preventing a proper and just reconstruction. Reconstruction should never be completed, except upon the fullest basis of popular justice and liberty; and it is our bounden duty to see to it that no settlement shall be made upon any other basis. Neither can we do it. Rough-hew them as we may, there is an over-raing Providence that will shape our ends. Mr. Hamin proceeded to examine the acts of President Johnson, and declared that his usurpations and wrongs have opened the exce of the blind, and unstopped the right, and just he deaf, to see what is true and right, and just. Mr. Johnson's acts and policy were necessary to educate the public mind up to the right point; and he was fully impressed that the people will have all these things settled on the proper besig

Geo. Alfred Townsend, writing from Montreal, contributes the following:

With fifty thousand gold dollars a year, Lord Monck lives in just bearable provincial exile, part of the year at Ottowa and part at Quebec. He is the Chief Magistrate of Canada; his Quebec anumer house lies upon the plateau of Abraham, near Wolf's Cove, in the midst of a most English wood, and it is a great pleasure to hackmen to carry visitors around it, because Lord Monck maintains numerous pretty domesties who may always be seen at the windows of his long, low lodge, throwing smiles like the spilling of brown beer upon who ever is beneath."

REBEL OUTRAGES IN TAR-RANT COUNTY

Letter from Col. Lippard - Rebels fire into the Camp of the Supervisor of Registration—Kill a Fredman and Attack the Board of Registration in Fort Worth-Fears Entertamed for the Lives of the Registrars.

We give below a letter from Col. John H. Lippard, Supervisor of the Fifteenth Registration District. Col. L. writes to correct a statement which appeared in our paper to the effect that he had been driven out of Hillsboro. Hill county, the Colonel says, has behaved well, but Tarrant county is in open rebellion. Here is his letter:

HILLSBORO, September 10, 1867. Editor Express :

Before me I have THE EXPRESS of the 29th of August, in which I find the fol-

"REBELS RAMPANT. - A few days ago Colonel Lippard, Supervisor of Registra-tion, was driven out of Hillsboro by the rebels of that place.'

As I wish to do justice to all men, I pe you will correct this mistake. There is not a more quiet and law abid ing people than the people of Hill county, in this State; there has not been an insulmoffered to me while on registration business in this county. Tarrant county is the place where I had more trouble than in any other county in my District,

On the 31st of July I left Fort Worth, Tarrant county, and camped two miles west of that place at 5 o'clock r. M., as I had a goard of cight men from the Post at Weatherford, Parker county. Soon after we struck camp three, desperadoes rode up and fired into the camp; the men sprang to their arms, when the ruffians made asty retreat. The men fired on the desperadoes but without effect, and not being mounted they could not pursue them. On the 20th of August a band of these desperadoes, some twenty in number, came into the town of Fort Worth and one of the party, by the name of Durrett, shot and killed a freedman and shot at Dr. Barkley of the Roard of Registration, and compelled the Board to close, notwithstanding they had a guard of six men, until they could get reinforcements which were sent by Lieut. W. H. Hamplirys, commanding post at Weather-ford, when they proceeded to complete registration.

I trave great fears for the safety of the lives of the entire Board of Tarrant county.

I could give you many deeds of murder and crime, most of which were perpetrated on freedmen.

You will please give this a place in your columns,

Your obedient servant, Jour III Larrant, Sup. 15th Reg. District.

GOVERNOR PEASE'S POLITI-CAL POSITION.

The following correspondence plains itself : Austin, Sept. 10, 1867.

Governor E. M. Pease Dear Sir .- Some doubts seem exist in regard to your views and opinions on the subject of universal suffrage, without respect to race or color. We have none ourselves, Apart from our knowledge of your views, obtained in private intercourse with you, we know what your public record is, as disclosed by your connection with the Philadelphia Convention last year, and the late Republican Convention at Houston; but others may not be so well in-formed as we are on this subject.

With a view, therefore, to prevent all misapprehension or misrepresen-tation, as regards your position, we respectfully ask that you will fur-nish us, in writing, with your opin-ions on the subject above indicated, and allow us to give them publicity, if we think proper to do so.

We make this request as your personal and political friends, not only for the object above specified, but to promote harmony among the loyal men of Texas, so that they may be united in the support of that great Union Republican party to which the nation owes its preservation.

Very respectfully, yours, James H. Bell, JAMES J. L. HAYNES, AMOS MORRILL, I. B. McFarland, J. D. McGary.

AUSTIN, SEPT. 10, 1867. Mestrs, James H. Bell, J. L. Haynes, A. Morrill, I. B. McFarland, and J. D. McGary:

Gentlemen.—In reply to your letter of this day, asking me to furnish you, in wri-ting, my opinions on the subject of universal suffrage, without respect to race or color, I have to say, that I am unqualifiedly in favor of the measure.

have to say, that I am unqualifiedly in favor of the measure.

When this question was first agitated, after the close of the rebellion, I did not favor it; but the result of the attempt made by President Johnson to organize State Governments in the late rebel States, by which those States were restored to the possession of the rebels, and the action of those governments in deaying to the freedmen the shjoyment of those civil rights that are the legitimate consequence of amancipation, centured me of the necessity of such a measure as an act of justice to sur colored population, and as the only means by which loyal State governments can be established in those States. I gave a public expression to this conviction in the Convention of Southern Loyalists, held at Philadelphia, in September, 1866, when I recorded my vote, as ern Leyalists, field at Philadelphia, in September, 1266, when I recorded my vote, as a delegate to that Convention from this State, in favor of the address adopted by the delegates from the nonsreconstructed States, which address closes with this declaration: "We affirm that the loyalists of the South look to Congress with affectionate gratitude and confidence, as the only means to save us from persecution, axile, and death itself; and we also declare, that there can be no safety for us or our children; there can be no safety for the country against the fell and we also rour oblides a there can be no safety for the country against the fell spirit of slavery, now organized in the form of seridom, unless the flovernment by national and appropriate legislation, enforced by national authority, shall confer on every citizen, in the States we represent, the American birthright of impartial suffrage, and equality before the law. This is the one-all-sufficient remedy. This is our great need and pressing necessity."

I may also state, that the President had left the Convention, and I occupied the chair, as one of the Vice-Presidents, when this address was adopted, and signed by all this address was adopted, and signed by all who voted for it.

I also visited Washington twice during the last session of the Thirty Ninth Congress, and urged upon its members that this measure abould be incorporated into any law that might be passed for the reconstruction of the late rebel States.

Immediately after my return to Texas, in July of this year, I again gave a public expression to my convictions and opinious upon pression to my convictions and opinions upon this subject, by attending and presiding over the first and only Convention ever held in Texas that was composed of delegates without respect to race or color, which Convention fully endorsed and approved this measure in the resolutions adopted as the platform of the National Republican party of Texas.

There are abiding faith that with the form of the National Republican party of Texas.

I have an abiding faith that, with this measure, and a general system of education for all, without respect to race or color, to be supported by taxation upon property, the Union men of Texas, acting in concert with the Republican party of the nation, can, un der the reconstruction acts of Congress, establish, and maintain permanently, a loyal State government.

The proceedings of the two Conventions alluded to are matters of public noteriety throughout the State, and the delegates who attended them have been subjected to constant ridionic and abuse from the rebel press of Texas. It occurs to me, therefore, that any one in this State, who has doubts in regard to my views and opinions on this subject, must be ground ignorant of the priitical occurrences of the day, or has wilfully closed his eyes to them.

You are at liberty to make such use of this letter as you please.

Yours, with respect,

E. M. PEASE.

The sale of Queen Victoria's Memoir of Prince Albert in England is very large. The day after the Loudon journals announced its appearance, orders for six thousand copies were received by the publishers, and a second edition of five thousand was exhausted in a few days. The price of the London edition is sixteen shillings sterling, equivalent to $5.50 in American currency. Harper & Brothers' reprint is just published, containing the two steel portraits of the London edition, and is sold for two dollars. The orders already received show that the demand for the book in this country is likely to be as large as in England. The sale of Queen Victoria's Memoir

Faustin Solouque, of Hayti, is dead. He was born in Sa Domingo in 1789. At his birth he w Domingo in 1789. At his birth he slave, but became free by the emandiation act of 1790. He took part is military affairs at an early age, rose to the state of th high rank in the army, and was elected President of the Haytien Republic in 1847. Two years later he proclaimed himself Emperor, established a nobility, and acted in a very arbitrary manner. In 1852 he was crowned with imposing demonstrations, copying closely the ceremonial observed at the coronation of the first Napoleon. He is said to have confirst Napoleon. He is said to have consulted a waggish Frenchman as to suitable appelations for his nobles, and, at the suggestion of his adviser, gave them such remarkable titles as dake of lemon-ade, marquis of red terrier, etc. Faustin was very jealous of the Dominican Republic, and made repeated attempts to subjugate it. His want of success and his tyranical government provoked an insurrection, and in 1859 he was driven from the island by the forces under General, afterward President, Geffrard. He took refuge in Jamaica, where he subsequently lived with his family. During his reign he is reported to have proposed a marriage between one of his daughters and the younger Dumas, but the alliance was declined by the latter.—Cincianati

OUT-CROPPINGS.

In the San Autonio Herald of the 18th instant appears the following: Eds. Horald:

Six-In this morning's Herald, I noice that one P. L. Buquer, among others was removed as notary public. Now I, P. L. Buquor, do hereby proclaim my self a notary public for Bexar counts; I disregard the arthority of one E, M. Pesse, assuming to be the Governor of Texas, this fellow having been ignominiously beaten for that office. I will attend to all business entrusted to my care, regardless of the assumption of any per-son named as my substitute.

OR STAGE L Brocon Comment is unnecessary.

The day on which the above deficance was written there was a meeting in the law office of Thomas J. Devine, head traitor of Texas, and at that meeting were Sam. S. Smith, P. L. Buquor and others; the only public out-croppings of that conclave is that to which is attached the name of P. L. Buquor.

The men who pletted treason among us six years ago are here to-day doing the same thing. Let us not forget the lessons of the past.

THE WEATHER. From cool, fresh fall weather, we have the change to sultry, showery weather. On Tuesday the sprinkling cart was laying the dust on Main street; on Wednesday the mud triumphed.

SUCCESSFUL INDIAN SCOUT .- We leave that a Lieutenant and seventeen mon followed the trail of a party of five Indians who had 30 horses, fifty miles to Live Oak Creek, which empties into the Nucces, and captured the horses. The Indians escaped.

PERSONAL — Gen. Mason has gone on a trip of inspection to some of our frontier posts. He is accompanied by Col. Lee. Maj. Whittemore is in temporary command of the post.

Woone NAME. The name of the man who was killed at the Government camp was known on the Quartermaster's books as Henry Frost, and not McCauly. McCauly pethaps was his fighting name.

ARREST OF A COUNTERPRITER .-- A man was arrested yesterday and imprisoned on the charge of counterfeiting U. S. currency.
