No doubt Judge Palmer will agree with the Herald man that it would be best he should have his name changed. The John A. Logan alluded to by the Herald is the General Logan of glorious fame during the rebellion, whom the people of Illinois have honored by sending to Congress. No doubt General Logan would have no objection to this nincompoop editor changing his name, and we see no obstacle in the way of this desirable result.

"OLD TIMES."

[Here is an exquisite little poem, which appeared in the Chicago Journal, and is probably from the pen of B. F. Taylor. It is a perfect gem:

There's a beautiful song on the slumbrons air,
That drifts through the valley of dreams;
It comes from a clime where the roses were,
And a tenebrous heart and bright brown hair
That waved in the morning beam.

Soft eyes of azure and eyes of brown,
And snow-white foreheads are there;
A glimmering cross and a glittering crown,
A thorny bed and a couch of down,
Lost hopes and leadlets of prayer.

A breath of spring in the breezy woods,
Sweet wafts from the quivering pines—
Blue violet eyes beneath green hoods,
A bubble of brooklets, a scept of buds,
Bird warblers and clambering vines.

A rosy wreath and dimpled hand,
A ring and a slighted vow—
Three golden links of a broken band,
A tiny track on the snow white sand,
A tear and a sinless brow.

There's a tincture of grief in the beautiful song,
That jobs on the slumbrons air,
And loneliness felt in the fastid' throng,
Sinks down on the soul as it trembles along
From a clime where the roses were.

We heard it first at the dawn of day,
And it mingled with matin chimes,
But years have distanced the beautiful lay
And its melody floweth from far away,
And we call it now—Old Times.

THE ADVICE OF THE REBEL PRESS.

The tone of the rebel press since the defeat of negro suffrage in Ohio has not changed but come out in bolder relief. The mask of "the colored man's best friend," worn during the earlier period of reconstruction, when negro suffrage seemed a fixed fact by act of Congress, has been thrown aside, and now the open advice of these rebel presses is to defeat negro suffrage. And the way to do this is thus pointed out: If it is evident from the registration that the rebel whites have a majority, then to go into the election and elect rebels to the Convention and declare against negro suffrage; but if it is evident that the Radicals have a majority, then to remain away from the polls entirely, trusting to a failure on the part of the Radicals to carry the work through. In Louisiana the policy of "masterly inactivity" was adopted and has come to grief. Also in Alabama with a like result. Virginia is the only State in the South where there seems to be a chance for failure. In that State the Republicans have degenerated into a moderate type and should be beaten; besides the registration has been lamely conducted.

This, then, is the open and universally avowed and active policy of the rebel portion of our population. This is the good faith in which they came forward and registered their names and "accepted the situation." It shows how false and wicked the majority of the white people of the South are. It shows that under their old leaders they are striving to undo the results of the war. It shows that they are hopeful of again trampling under foot the blacks, depriving them of the rights of suffrage, and butchering them as they did at New Orleans. We are glad the elections in the North have turned out as they have, as it has caused the hypocrits to cast aside their masks and come forth in their true light.

The Herald of this city, only echoing the sentiments of its more respectable and able confederates in treason, thus speaks exultingly upon this policy of overthrowing reconstruction in this State:

"But there is another view for us here in Texas to appreciate. It is true that it is not good policy to fight the devil with fire, it being his original element, and most effective weapon, but it frequently happens that men can be beat at their own game, and it is not impossible that the Conservatives may out-balance the Radicals and exert a controlling influence in the Convention, which would be sufficient to condemn negro suffrage, when a permanent Constitution is framed, in a manner equally positive with Ohio, and in tones as loud as she has spoken. When the election is ordered in Texas, and the returns from the Boards of Registration throughout the State are published, if it is apparent that the white vote, less the Radicals, is sufficient to overcome the negro vote plus the Radicals, then we should go into the contest with armor on, win the victory and reap the spoils—reputation of negro suffrage. And in making this estimate we should not lose sight of the fact that the great mass of the Germans, though heretofore affiliating with the so-called Union party, but which is really a dis-Union party, have become disgusted with the miscegenation ideas of the extremists, and when the issue is fairly made will act with the Conservatives in voting down at the ballot box this leading issue, and the only one in fact except the motive for public plunder, of unqualified negro suffrage.

"But if the registration is close, and it is probable that the extremists would win in a hotly contested campaign, it would be better to let them have their own way, giving them no such incentives to energy as are produced by opposition, trusting to the inability of their leaders to put forth all their strength, and thus determine to bear the ill we have."

The count made upon the German vote is altogether unwarranted; fortunately the Radical party of this State knows no issue but Union or Secession. The iron of rebel persecution has entered the souls of the Germans of Western Texas, and no false issues can be raised by the rebels to deceive them into supporting treason or traitors. The Germans know that it is with the aid of the newly enfranchised freedmen they can alone hope to put down treason and the bad, dishonest men who have ruled and ruined this State year after year. The Germans know, furthermore, that this same rebel-conservative-traitor party passed at the last Legislature a set of Sunday laws for their especial benefit, to spite and harass them. They know that these Sunday laws were not passed from any point of public morals, but because it was thought they would oppress the Germans of Western Texas, and, if the rebel authorities had dared to, they would have made these laws a perfectquisition to the Germans. We do not fear any estrangement of the Germans. Nor do we fear the result of the vote for Convention. Nor do we fear the final result, knowing that the victory for the Radical Union party and the defeat of the rebels is certain in the end.

The Democratic party in the West rejoices in a richer specimen than even Vallandigham. In Wisconsin, a fellow known as "Briek Pomeroy," who edits a rank Democratic paper in La-Crosse, is a regular Democratic canvasser, working with a will for the Johnsonites. His speeches are not so bright as they were three years ago, as the following notice he gave of the late President Lincoln murder will show:

"Everything concerning the departed cuss possesses a fascination and charm for us, which we make no effort to resist—we would not if we could—we feel his loss more than most people, for he was such a nice, sweet, beautiful man—possessed of such winning ways and charming characteristics—and he was snuffed out of existence 'so easy'—he was a human first-class rocket, and everybody used to admire him so—they didn't think there was any touch-and-go in him—that there was so much of that 'divinity which doth hedge about,' etc. But one day a naughty boy, John Wilkes Booth by name, came along, and he admired the rocket, and he said, 'O, what a beautiful rocket!' and he scratched a match and touched its flame to the nice, first-class rocket, and before any one could say, 'Let me kiss him for his mother,' it went off with a fizz, pop and bang, his soul to glory, we reckon—and all that was left of the amusing rocket was a nasty, blackened, broken stick, and an empty case, of no account to anybody or anything."

—This is the right sort of a man to gladden the hearts of a Democracy that the other night in Washington gave three cheers for the "President who wasn't afraid of being shot."

Gov. Sharkey of Mississippi is out with an eight-column letter reviewing the reconstruction measures, and recommending the people of his state to go against a convention. No one would expect anything else of Mr. Sharkey. He agrees in most particulars with that voluminous epistle-writer, B. H. Hill, of Georgia, who prefers to remain out of the Union until doomsday rather than to voluntarily come in. In a recent speech Hill thus unburdened his soul:

"If the hatred of those to whom we so honestly surrendered our arms will it, it is better that we suffer them to dig ten millions of graves and hide within them the ten millions of southern people unconfined and unforgotten than that we, with our own hands, should dig the one grave for our sense of honor as a people, and live forever the world-hated and self-hating sentinels of its hopeless, wakeless death."

—Both Hill and Sharkey are loud in their praise of the President's policy.

The Herald is respectfully informed that the quotation from the New Brantford Zeitung in relation to Judge Siemering, one of the proprietors of the Express, contains as many lies as it contains words. We also wish to inform the public that the author and translator of said quotation is one Ernest Allget, a rampant rebel, who, while he was a violent sympathiser with rebellion, turned from his profession of a lawyer to a cobbler to avoid fighting for the cause he so loudly espoused, and when this subterfuge failed he fled to Germany and straited through his native country in a confederate officer's uniform, although he had never been a soldier. A Union sailor boy came across him in Hamburg and gave him a sound thrashing, and stripped him of the traitor uniform which he disgraced. After the war was over this fellow promptly returned to Texas and ran for office on the conservative ticket. He is a beautiful character to pass comment on the actions of other men even if he had truth on his side.

OUR JOB OFFICE.—We are prepared to do all kinds of job work,—posters, blanks, cards, bill-heads, etc., have also on hand, a splendid supply of cards, paper, etc. We will attend to all orders promptly and upon the most reasonable terms. Persons desiring work done will apply at the business office on Commerce street. We have also a Spanish interpreter to translate all work needing translation into Spanish.

The Baltimore American places Grant for president at the head of its column.

Counterfeit Seven-Thirties. New York, Oct. 18.—The National Bank Company pronounces spurious the seven-thirties—counterfeits. The aggregate amount traced to this city is one hundred and twenty thousand dollars. The principal holders are Yarmelya & Co., thirty-four thousand; Jay Cook, & Co., thirty thousand, ten of which came from the west; Fisk, Hatch and Co., ten thousand, nine of which came from Ohio; Southwick & Co., eleven thousand. Other firms smaller amounts.

Having no copy of the genuine it is impossible to detect the counterfeit of the seven-thirties. It was discovered at the Treasury only by duplicate numbers. The engravers say the work was not done in this country, there being no one sufficiently skillful here who would prostitute his skill.

We have advices from our new possessions in the neighborhood of the Arctic circle to the date of August 20th. A United States exploring and surveying expedition had arrived, and were soon to set out from Sitka to Onalaska. We are told that business was brisk at New Archangel, and that "leather money" predominates there as a circulating medium. Whether this is a newly-invented improvement on paper money, patented by some unfortunate Alaskan who had a genius for "getting strapped," and took this way to better his circumstances, we were not informed.

Judicial Election in California. SAN FRANCISCO, October 18.—Partial returns from 35 counties gives Sprague a Democratic majority of 1,150. His election is conceded.

Copperhead News about South Carolina. COLUMBIA, S. C., October 18.—In the secret session of the Radical Convention to-day, Epping, U. S. Marshal, offered a series of moderate resolutions which were adopted with the exception of five votes.

Subsequently violent speeches were made by Bowen, Wright and Delange, supported by Pillsburg and Mackey, which frightened the delegates from the interior from the position. Reconsideration was thereupon ordered, and the resolutions were defeated. Epping abandoned the Convention in disgust, satisfied that its schemes were of the wildest character, unfit to be supported by any respectable white or colored man. Wright, who opposed the resolutions most vehemently, is a coal black negro, who at the former Convention entered a resolution insisting that the next Vice-President of the United States should be a negro.

What Johnson Pretends to Do. WASHINGTON, October 18.—In a well authenticated conversation the President expressed himself to the following effect:

Regarding impeachment he apprehended that the radicals would become more desperate than ever and would hesitate at nothing to accomplish their revolutionary purposes. Referring to suspension before conviction, he said he would resist it with all the power the constitution furnishes for its own protection. As to the Cabinet he said circumstances made it necessary for a change before the meeting of Congress and in this change to be made he will neither consult nor be guided by party cliques but will draw around him men of energy, nerve and patriotism. Alluding to Sherman he said that he will be here between the tenth and 17th of November, in ample time for the discharge of any duty however responsible, which may be devolved upon him.

Politics in Virginia. RICHMOND, October 18.—Political excitement is on the increase, the conservatives are working with much energy, and everything indicates that there will be an exciting election and that a full white vote will be polled for delegates and against a convention. The ticket headed by Marmaduke and Johnson will be voted for by the conservatives to a man. Moderate Republicans are frightened and it is now certain they will join the radicals under Huppincott, there will be only two tickets on the election day.

War in Italy. VIENNA, October 17.—The Emperor of Austria has referred to the Council of Ministers an address from the bishops of Austria, protesting against a new concordat with Rome. The Emperor reproved Austrian bishops for adoption of a paper so liable to create excitement when tranquility is indispensable for the restoration of the country and he takes occasion to remind them that the Emperor of Austria as constitutional Prince is a true son of the church. The Monitor reproaches Italians for violating the laws of nations disregarding obligations of solemn treaties and fostering dangerous spirit of republicanism.

Madrid, October 17.—It is reported that Chill will treat with Spain for peace.

Florence, October 17.—Later advices from South report that many fights have taken place between invaders and Papal troops with various results.

Florence, 17, Evening.—News from South continues favorable to the party of action. The Garibaldians have taken possession of the town of Woodena in Papal states where they have entrenched themselves to await the arrival of other bands to increase their numbers sufficiently to enable them to make further advances.

Paris, October 17.—The Monitor asserts that the inhabitants of Rome and other Papal Provinces are loyal to the Pope and only need assistance to drive the Italian invaders from their soil.

London, October 17.—The Times says Rattazzi must order the national troops to Rome and anticipate the arrival there of both the volunteers and regular troops of France, it declares that the boldest politics is best for Italy advices her to sieze Rome in time, then treat with France.

Fenian alarm continues and additional precautions against outbreaks are taken in Scotland.

London, Oct. 18.—A dispatch reports that there is great agitation at Rome. Deputations and memorials are arriving at Florence, urging that Rome be made the capital of Italy.

The Italian press urge subscriptions for the Garibaldians wounded at Viterbo.

It is reported that Napoleon allows the Italians to occupy Papal territory with troops, but they must not enter the city of Rome.

Florence, Oct. 18.—Reports hourly received here from the south show that revolutionary volunteers are invading Roman territory on all sides. Yesterday a detachment of troops was sent out from Rome to meet the invaders at Frasmore—a province lying southeast of the city. A fight took place between them and the Garibaldians near the Abruzzi frontier.

The Papal troops were again defeated and compelled to fall back toward Rome.

Paris, Oct. 18.—Reports are current that Prussia receives with favor the appeal of the Italian government to the European powers against the treaty of September, and will support the demands of Italy in regard to Rome.

Local Intelligence.

Indians on the El Paso Road— They Attack the Mail and Kill Two of the Escort—The Mail Recovered—Four Men of the Mail Party Miraculously Escape.

Major Bacon and Lieutenant Fred Moore of the 9th U. S. Cavalry, with an escort of seven men on their way down from Fort Lancaster on the 11th instant, after nightfall met a white man running at full speed, chased by a party of Indians. The chased man was badly scared and reported that he was traveling with the mail party, all of whom were killed. Major Bacon and Lieutenant Moore and party prepared for fight and determined to proceed. After going on some four miles they were halted by another of the mail party named Walton, a white man, who was surrounded by the Indians, who were trying to get him out of the rocks. A little further on Major Bacon's party came upon the bodies of corporal Wright and private Irvine (colored) of the 9th, and one of the horses, strung along on the road. The mail was found scattered along the road, and was secured. The Indians were thick around the party and so close that the air was strong with Indian smell, and the noise of the horses sounded like a regiment. Walton gave an account of the attack up to the time of his escape.

The mail party, numbering three privates and a corporal of the 9th, with two white men, left Howard Springs with the mail about sunset. Some three miles from the Springs they were surrounded by about three hundred Indians on horseback, who surrounded and began to close in upon them. Walton says the colored soldiers dismounted and acted very bravely, the corporal acting with great coolness. They fought the Indians for some time, when the corporal was shot through by a bullet and sank to the earth; his last words were: "Take my gun, I am killed." Upon the killing of the corporal, Walton said to the men: "Now we must escape"—the Indians gathering around the mules which carried the mail, they having broken loose. In attempting to force their way through, one of the other colored soldiers was killed, along with his horse. Walton abandoned his animal and took to the rocks and bushes, where he was found by Major Bacon's party; and the white man first met got through with a slight wound. The two other colored soldiers have since reported at Lancaster, one wounded through the lungs and one through the shoulder.

These Indians are supposed to be the large band who have recently been depredating in Mexico; they had a drove of horses numbering several hundred. Upon reaching Fort Hudson Major Bacon made immediate preparations to send a scout out after the Indians.

Mr. Ficklin was fortunately twenty-four hours ahead of the mail party, and it is hoped he has gotten through safely. Irvine, one of the colored soldiers killed, enlisted from this city.

Walton, one of the rescued men, says the Indians were well armed with guns and pistols, and in attacking them did so in a very systematic and imposing manner, shooting at the little party as they would at a target. Corporal Wright was shot from a distance of 200 yards.

These are the first Indians which have been seen on this road since the troops have occupied the posts, and every one had become careless.

It is very unfortunate that our first mail under the new contractor should meet such a fate. The troops along this line are insufficient, as they are now occupied in escort and post duty. A military telegraph is the important necessity of this line of defence, and the establishment of detachments of troops at every water station and even building stations, making cisterns for water so as to have the troops every twenty miles along the route, and then, with the aid of a telegraph, such occurrence as the above would never happen, and the Indians would be cut off. But we will take this subject up at length again.

Lieutenant F. Moore, of the 9th, who has been kind enough to furnish us these particulars, reports that the colored troops behave splendidly, and that the best health and satisfaction exists among them.

STRIKING A WOMAN.—We learn that a negro woman was brutally beaten by a policeman on Friday night, and appeared in jail with an ugly wound over the eye, her clothes covered with blood, an outrage should be looked STABBING AFFRAY.—Saturday evening a man partly in liquor got into a dispute with another man named Watson at Hogan's grocery in Alamo city, which resulted in the stabbing of Watson, who received several ugly cuts, but not considered dangerous. The man who stabbed him was arrested and taken to jail by the police, acting in an outrageous manner along the streets, resisting the police, and swearing a string of oaths all the way to the jail.

SIBERIA OTT,

The immense popularity of these Organs, and their superior musical powers, is fast bringing them before the public, as the instrument so long desired in American homes. And although the cost price is but a trifle over the Melodian, yet the musical advantages, beauty of tone and quickness of touch and action are so far superior, that they are fast superseding the Melodian, and the call is now almost exclusively for the American Organ.

It is adapted to any music from the quickest and most lively, to the heavy tone of the Church Organ. And almost universally they are preferred to the Piano, by persons who have them, yet costing less than half, and only taking a small amount of room.

Send for descriptive circulars giving full particulars and price. Exclusive Agencies secured to Dealers, and large discounts to the trade and Teachers. Address all orders SIBERIA OTT, Wholesale Agent, 785 Broadway, New York
