AFFAIRS IN TEXAS.

From a private letter written by a gentleman at Austin, Texas, formerly a citizen of Michigan, to a friend in the western part of the state, the Detroit Tribune is permitted to make the following extracts:

"This is a hot, healthy country, and the fall of the year is the best time to come. The yellow fever and cholera would meet you at New Orleans and at Galveston in this state, were you to start now and come the usual route. Should you come overland, through Arkansas, you would not find either.

As to the state of feeling growing out of the rebellion, it is not what I could wish, nor is it what it might have been just as well as not, had not the good rule of making treason odious been repealed practically, and had been made the guaranty for soft words, high places and much flattery. This having been the course, it has kept public feeling constantly boiling, because the battles of human liberty have not been fought by the American people, at the terrible cost of human life and treasure, for the ignoble purpose of surrendering back the whole of the fruits of victory, with an apology to red-handed traitors. Upon such a basis there can never be peace, or such peace as secures repose.

I do not think there is any idea among the late rebels of renewing the conflict, but at the same time, if, in the present condition of affairs, these leading impetuous rebels could involve this country in war with foreign powers, and they could procure guarantees that promised anything, they would regard it as their golden moment; and much of the feeling is still nurtured in the North for partisan purposes. I believe the tone and sentiment of Congress is beginning to be understood, and there is no idea of any attempt to resist by force the will of the loyal North as thus expressed. Indeed, I think the settled conviction in the minds of this people, that Congress has a purpose, and that it will effect it, is carrying us to the same state of things that existed at the close of the war—a silent acquiescence in whatever may be done.

In 1865 the people said if they could be suffered to live and enjoy their property it was all they expected. Since then they have demanded the homage of loyalty, and loyal men have everywhere been compelled to take back seats. This is about to change, and with loyal men in all places of profit, honor or trust, we can create a healthy growth of Union radical patriotism; and if we cannot convert rebels we must drive them, so far as keeping them from office will do it.

Any sensible man can come over to Texas unmolested and remain unarmed in this portion of the country. Of course, the Northern people are looked upon as the cause of their great misfortune, and any man who comes from the North can easily pick up a quarrel; but he may just as easily avoid it. You need have no fears for personal liberty, personal security or private property in this section."

FACT.—A letter to the Omaha Herald from the fast city of "Julesburg on wheels" says that in one day recently they had two street fights, hung a man, rode three men out of town on a rail, got up a quarter race, a turkey shooting, a gander pulling, a match dog fight, had preaching by a circus rider, who afterwards ran a foot race for apple jack all round; and, as if that was not enough, the Judge of the Court, after losing his fees at single handed poker, and whipping a fellow for saying he didn't understand the game, went out and helped to lynch his grandfather for horse-stealing.

Sara, Duchess of Marlborough was accustomed to make an annual feast, to which she invited all her relations. At one of these family meetings she drank their health, saying, "What a glorious sight it is to see such a number of branches flourishing from one root! But observing Jack Spencer laugh, insisted on knowing what occasioned his mirth, and promised to forgive him, be it what it would. "Why, then, Madam," he said, "I was thinking how much more the branches would flourish if the root were under ground."

Weitzel's men at Port Hudson used a novel device for lighting their pipes. A ramrod was stuck in the ground, and with the tip end upward; a little wad of cotton, of which there was plenty, was thousands of bales were used as works, was stuck upon this end of the rod, a percussion cap placed upon the rod over the cotton, the same manner as a cap is put on a rifle, and it was a bang ODDS, bang of a rifle, bang of a gun.

Captain Hall, the Arctic explorer, has been heard from. At last accounts he was at Repulse Bay, where he has remained for about two years. A year ago last winter he made a journey to Pella Bay, about one hundred and eighty miles North. Next spring, in company with six white men, who have joined him from the whaling fleet, he intends to proceed to King William's Land, and will return home, if possible, in 1868.

Travellers from the north reported that they rattle for two hours through a snow storm yesterday, so the Boston Herald says. O'ober 1st says.

SEED CORN—HOW TO SELECT IT.

A season never goes by without more or less complaint about seed corn not coming up. This is owing to several causes, such as damaged seed, shiftless planting, followed by wet, cold weather. But failure is often the result of poor seed than from either of the other causes named. There is no grain the vegetable powers of which are so liable to injury as corn. A very slight freeze before the grain arrives at maturity in the field, a slight heating in the crib, or exposure to alternations of wet and frost, most effectually destroys its germ. Farmers rely too much on corn cribs for their seed corn, instead of selecting it at the proper time in the fall. It will be remembered that very little corn escaped the frost last fall without damage.

It is not safe to judge corn seed alone by its external appearance. The only safe criterion to go by in selecting seed corn is the appearance of the chit. Every ear intended for seed should be broken near the center. When thus broken, if the skin of the chit is blistered or wrinkled, reject it. If the skin is smooth and clear—not discolored, not one kernel in a hundred will fail to grow. This has been our practice in the selection of seed corn for many years past, and without a single failure in getting a full stand, even when selected from the crib.

The true way and the safest to secure good seed-corn is to select from the field as soon as the corn is out of the dough state and fairly hard. Select the most perfectly ripened ears, braid them together with a portion of the husks, and hang them up in a dry place, there to remain till planting time. Seed-corn saved in this way seldom if ever fails to come up, when properly planted.—Iron Homestead.

A FAMILY BROKEN UP BY DEATH IN A SINGLE NIGHT.—The St. Louis Republic of the 20th ult., contains the following painful incident: On Saturday there lived a happy family at No. 1,207 South Seventh street, consisting of Mr. Hausman, tobaccoist, his wife, Barbara, and three children—August, aged eight years, Emma, two, and Robert, four years. During the evening Mrs. Hausman was suddenly taken sick and died during the night. Subsequently the children were taken ill, and by Sunday at noon the mother and her three children were dead. Mr. Hausman was also attacked, but is still alive, and will probably recover. These sudden deaths created considerable excitement in the neighborhood, and it was at first reported that poison had been the agent in some mysterious way, but there was no foundation for the report. Drs. Smith and Fisher attended the family, and from their testimony, and that of two other physicians, who also visited the house, cholera morbus was the cause of death. The coroner was notified, but under the circum-stances no inquest was held.

NO FAULT.—During Bragg's retreat from middle Tennessee two rebel soldiers stopped at the house of Mr. K., and one of them proposed a trade for a very fine horse, but thought that a large white spot on the horse's forehead lessened his value somewhat.

"Why so?"
"Because," said the soldier, "the Yankees can see it a great way off."
"Never mind that," said his companion, "tother end is always toward the Yankees!"

The war that has just come to an end in Mexico had its heroines like most other wars of its kind. None of them however, was so well known as Ignacia Richy, a native of Talisco, and daughter of Spanish parents. She entered the ranks of the Liberal Army when the French invaded Mexico. She performed many prodigies of valor, and became the aid on the staff of General Artega, who was executed by Mendez, and became a prisoner with him. When Artega and his companions were shot she refused to be present at the execution, and blew out her brains with a pistol in prison sooner than remain a prisoner in the hands of the Imperialists.

Captain Hall, the Arctic explorer, has been heard from. At last accounts he was at Repulse Bay, where he has remained for about two years. A year ago last winter he made a journey to Pella Bay, about one hundred and eighty miles North. Next spring, in company with six white men, who have joined him from the whaling fleet, he intends to proceed to King William's Land, and will return home, if possible, in 1868.

ABOUT PAYING TAXES.

As many of our citizens labor under the impression that the present State taxation is being illegally collected under the tax law passed by the last rebel legislation, and have therefore refused to pay their taxes, we have taken the pains to address a note to the Comptroller of the State to elicit a decision by which all could be governed. We have received the following reply:

Austin, Texas, Oct. 19th, '67.

James P. Newcomb Esq. Sir:—The reply to your note of the 15th instant, it is quite unnecessary to go into any discussion with respect to the validity or want of validity of the enactment of the pretended legislation of 1866, styled "the tax law" in as much as the late Commanding General by order No. 15, of the 13th of May 1867, (a copy which is enclosed) authorizes the collection of taxes for the support of the civil establishment, without regard to the laws or pretended laws of the State. This is sufficient warrant for the collection of taxes, and will be enforced.

Very Respectfully, Your ob't. servant, M. C. HAMILTON, Comptroller.

The following is the order alluded to:

HEAD'QRS, DISTRICT OF TEXAS, Galveston, Texas, May 13 '67.

Circular No. 15.

There appearing to be a general opinion throughout the State of Texas, that the operations of the Military Government Bill, passed March 2nd, 1867, relieves the citizens thereof from the payment of their usual taxes; and it appearing further, that certain citizens holding to this opinion have refused payment of the said taxes, it is hereby ordered, that all taxes now due, or to become due, be paid as heretofore, to the proper civil officer.

By command of Bvt Maj. Gen. GRIFIN, A. H. M. TAYLOR, 2nd Lieut. 17th U.S. Inftry, A. A. A. G.

So there is no alternative but to pay this tax, however hard it may seem when collected by a traitor to the government backed by the bayonets of the government. Never was a more foolish mixture of authority invented than has appeared in the Government of our State. The Congress of the United States declared that no civil government existed and established a Military Government to supply the deficiency until we were ready to reinstate civil government; a pretended civil government existed controlled by the enemies of the government, which was allowed to stand until it was thought necessary to put in loyal State officers; giving the chief places in the State to loyal men and leaving the whole local government of the State in the hands of rebels, and what a mixture it presents: a loyal governor and state officers executing the enactments of a legislation whose very acts are condemned by their simple appointments; a Military authority supporting alike the loyal and disloyal in the exercise of civil functions which Congress has declared do not exist.

LOUISIANA SAVED.—By our dispatches it will be seen that an order for the Convention to give Louisiana a loyal State Government has been ordered to meet in New Orleans on the 23d of November coming. Louisiana can be put down as a redeemed State. The Union soldiers put down the armed rebellion but has been left to the Union citizens to re-establish a loyal civil government for the State, and it will be done well in spite of Andy Johnson and his followers. Texas must follow Louisiana on the double quick and get into Congress in time to vote for the Republican candidate for President.

THE statement of cotton receipts for the season puts Savannah ahead of all southern states. Mobile comes next, and New Orleans third in the race. In order to move this large supply of cotton Savannah has no less than six lines of steamships—four to New York, one to Philadelphia and one to Baltimore.

Daniel Webster made his first public speech in a building in Plymouth, N. H., which is now used as a wheelwright shop.

Yellow Fever at Houston.

HOUSTON, Oct. 21.—Deaths from yellow fever here to-day are five.

Order Concerning Louisiana Convention.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21.—Special order No. 165: The total votes of the state of Louisiana at the election of September 27th and 28th, 1867, for the purpose of establishing a constitution and state government for the states loyal to the Union, are 79,147, of which 75,083 were for convention, and 4,000 against it, eighty-five blank. Majority of the whole number registered having voted, and the majority of the vote cast being prescribed by acts of Congress.

Delegates elected at said election as hereafter named, are notified to assemble in convention at Mechanics Institute Hall, in the city of New Orleans, La., on Saturday, Nov. 23d 1867, for the purposes stated according to acts of Congress of March 2d and 23d, 1867. The order then recapitulates the names of delegates elected.

By command of Bvt. Maj. Gen. Joseph A. Mower.

G. L. HARTSUFF, A. A. G.

Yellow Fever at New Orleans.

A mortuary report gives 31 interments from yellow fever for the day ending at six o'clock yesterday morning. The weather has again become oppressively warm.

A ship of emigrants arrived from Europe, they were not permitted to come to the city. The ship was ordered to anchor below, until taken on board of a steamboat and conveyed North without landing.

Yellow Fever at Sea.

FORTRESS MONROE, October 21.—The schooner Peacock has arrived from Galveston with four cases of yellow fever during the passage one died and another recovered.

Settlement of Trenholm and Frazier Affairs.

WASHINGTON, October 21.—Judge Redfield of Vermont says that England is to consummate the settlement of the Trenholm and Frazier affairs on the basis adopted by the Government and the American partners.

Gen. Grant ordered the trial of Capt. Spaff for the murder of Col. Shepherd near Mobile.

Something about Mexican Land Grants.

The Mexican Government in California called Zebrante de San Jacinto confirmed in Maria del Rosario de Aguirre, wife of Jose Antonio de Aguirre Embronce, and has given her 48,000 acres within 18 miles of San Antonio Texas.

European News.

New York, October, 20.—Special cable dispatches from Florence describe the Rogatories of Consuls more serious. Eights, Alexandria, Havana, varied to Sicily, Frankfurt on the Main; Consuls, Java and Nagasaki, in Japan, L.A. London, Melbourne, Hong Kong, Gibraltar, Mauritius, Singapore, Belfast, Cork, Dublin.

announce her determination whether to support the revolutionary movement on Rome, or to execute the September Convention, and France must demand peace or war accordingly.

A Petition to the Pope.

FLORENCE, Oct. 25.—A petition signed by 12,000 persons has been presented to the Pope by the Roman City Council, headed by a senator of Rome, praying his Holiness to allow Italian troops to occupy Rome.

FLORENCE, Oct. 21.—The Italian troops on the Papal frontier have been reinforced, and increased efforts were being made to guard the whole frontier.

Italy is greatly excited at the threatened French intervention.

ROME, Oct. 21.—There were reports on Friday of a fierce fight at Viterbo, during which the Papal troops recaptured the town, while the Garibaldians suffered a heavy loss.

FIGURAL PROPHECIES.

The following was clipped from an old paper, compiled many years ago by an eccentric Frenchman. It has a mathematical precision about it which defies denial, and as the time approaches for the fulfilment of the last calculation, the dethronement of Louis Napoleon in 1869, it has additional interest:

DO NOT LET YOUR PREJUDICE stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be absolutely sure to follow the use of Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.

It softens the gums, reduces inflammation, cures wind colic, and regulates the bowels, and gives rest, health, and comfort to mother and child.
