A GENERAL DISCRPTION OF GEN. SHERIDAN.

Several journals have published descriptions of the personal appearance of Gen. Sheridan, and comments have been made upon his stature and physical and mental acquirements. These opinions, however, emanate from and express the ideas of one individual Bohemian. The following is a general description of "Little Phil," taken by a stenographic reporter at the rooms of the Union League club on Tuesday evening last. It was furnished by the admiring assemblage that encircled the General:

Mr. White—"He's a square, strong-built little fellow, isn't he?"
Commissioner Acton—"Hasn't he got a curly head of hair?" (The General's hair is cut close to his scalp.)
Mr. Jays—"His face lightens up every time he speaks."
Dr. Stone. "He's a strongly-built man, very broad across the shoulders."
Mr. Jessup. "He has got a very long body and short legs; I can imagine what a fine looking man he would appear on a horse."
Mr. Miller. "He cultivates a first-rate mustache."

Mr. Tallman. "If you watch his eyes you will see that they change from grey to black when he speaks sometimes flash fire."
Mr. Hoyt. "He has got as grand a set of teeth as ever split a cartridge."
Mr. Roosevelt—"He's a frisky little chap, isn't he?"
Mr. Brovne—"I think he looks more like a soldier than Grant."

Mr. Fowler—"Now you see his force and determination of character are closely developed. His forehead low, cheek bones high, and his head extends to a great length in the back. Combativeness large, destructiveness very full, you see?"
The above snatches of conversation which are truthfully reported, pretty well cover all the General's points.—[New York Mail.]

PROFESSOR FARADAY'S RELIGIOUS BELIEF.—The late Professor Faraday belonged to a small sect called Sandimanians or Glassites, founded by Sandiman and Glass, both Scotchmen. Sandimanians profess high Calvinism, and have been decreasing in numbers and importance for many years past. Of late years Faraday was an elder and frequently preached in the chapel, Goswell road, London. A correspondent writes from Nottingham to a London paper: "I heard Faraday read the Holy Scriptures nearly forty years ago in the little Sandimani Chapel in Hound's Gate (now a warehouse) in this town and was then struck by the simplicity of his manners and the clearness and impressiveness of his reading."

The Chicago Tribune, of Tuesday, says: "While General Sherman and party were driven down Wabash avenue yesterday afternoon, they stopped at a house where lives the wife of a military officer recently died. His little girl recognized the general, and ran toward him crying, 'Oh, General Sherman, my pa is dead. As her mother heard these words, she fainted, and it was some time before the efforts of the general and others could restore her."
NEGRO AFFITUDE.—The mental capacity of the native African is shown in a very favorable light by a recent case in England. James Solomon, a pure African from the Gold Coast, went to England some years ago to be educated, having received no teaching save what he obtained in a native school. This young man has just taken a first-class certificate in the Oxford middle-class examination, and is about to matriculate at the London University. He will probably study for the ministry, and return to christianize and enlighten his brethren in Africa.

Item Robinson was attacked by the disease, but recovered. Col. Gillespie, late superintendent of the penitentiary, is down with it. The disease has not made its appearance among the convicts. Richmond, on the Brazos, is pretty well depopulated; its people running away to avoid Yellow Jack, but, as yet not a single case has appeared in the little town. It is effectually quarantined, and has been for weeks.
Maine lightning is very peculiar. Two young fellows were driving near Gorham when the team was struck by lightning. The horse was changed in color from light chestnut to black, but jogged along, rather "dull for a mile or so, but afterwards got as well as ever," says the paper which vouches for the veracity of what the young men say.

KID GLOVES.
The new style of kid gloves is finished with a cord and tassel, facing on the back of the wrist for ornament, not use. Buttons are used to some extent for fastening gloves, but the new gloves are clasped with studs mechanically fastened to one side. The varieties of gloves are the plain with two buttons; long wrists with welt and band, fastened with three buttons, or with two studs; a wider band with three studs, and long armed gloves with four studs; the larger ones with six. The studs take the place of three buttons. The fashionable colors in gloves are "enir," Russian grey, a purple hue, French grey, a lavender tint, lilac, purple, lavender, amber, and giraffe. Perhaps the ladies who purchase Alexandra's gloves at Stewart's, do not know that a gentleman who serves them is the genius who devises the improvements, and designs the new colors and styles for the retail trade. He goes through the forest and gathers autumn leaves of hue, blends them, and studies the effect in light and shade, and so derives new colors. During the day he is in his place at the counter. His evenings are spent, often to a late hour, in study, and in getting up new designs and colors that are forwarded to the manufacturer.

WEBSTER.—Among the Websterians there is nothing of his better than the answer to the French minister, who asked him, while Secretary of State, whether the United States would recognize the new government of France. The Secretary assumed a very solemn tone and attitude, saying—
"Why not? The United States has recognized the Bourbons, the Republic, the Directory, the Council of Five Hundred, the First Consul, the Emperor, Louis XVIII, Charles X, Louis Philippe, the—"
"Enough! enough!" cried the French minister, perfectly satisfied by such a formidable citation of consistent precedents.—[Bench and Bar.]

ANOTHER FROST.—Those who were so fortunate as to rise early yesterday morning observed the second frost of the season. It was light, but visible.—[New Orleans Bulletin.]
A Paris story is that of the bridegroom that was to be, and who, having been shown some of his future spouse's trousseau, asked how the long, white, heavy skirts in such piles were to be disposed of.
"They are petticoats," answered the mother; "Alice puts on four of these every day."
"Upon my word," exclaimed Alice's betrothed; "but where's the crinoline?"
"Who wears crinolines now?" asked the tender parent, with disdain.
"And what is the cost of one of these frilled monuments?"
"From fifty to eighty francs, edged with lace."
"And the washing?"
"Five francs."
"Please give my kind love to Miss Alice, and say I cannot afford to keep a wife without crinoline."
A contemporary was called upon to record a "melancholy event" at a time when his head was quite heavy, and he did it up after the following manner: "Yesterday morning at four o'clock p. m., a man with a heel in the hole of his stocking, committed arsenic by swallowing a dose of suicide. The inquest of the verdict returned a jury that the deceased came to the facts in accordance with his death. He leaves a child and six small wives to lament the end of his untimely loss. In death we are in the midst of life."
Good fields—an in-grain carpet.
Railroad conductors in New York are to wear uniforms.
Hoops, says "Inebrius," surround the best things on earth—wine and women.
It is said that large amounts of whisky are going to Alaska to be exchanged for otter skins, at the rate of a quart to a skin.
Business is very active in Milwaukee. The receipts of wheat there are 50 per cent. in excess of the receipts last year.
Hon. B. V. R. James, the Treasurer of the Republic of Liberia, was once a poor colored boy in Weybridge, Vermont.
A bad house-keeper—Miss-management. Houses are run up in a few weeks by landlords and run down by tenants ever after.
One of the Siamese Twins was drafted by the rebels during the late war, but was at last exempted on account of having an only brother depending on him for support.
The City Council of Boston will probably pass a vote appropriating $100,000 for a soldiers' monument.

THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC RAILROAD.

We clip the following despatch from the New York Tribune:

St. Louis, October 15.—It is said that Eastern capitalists have made propositions to take the Southwest Pacific Railroad on the terms of Fremont's contract, and build it at once. This and other important railroad interests furnish the reason for the extra session.

It would seem, then, that our day of great railroad enterprises is about dawning in Texas. This Southwest Pacific Railroad will run through our State.

BEEF PACKING—HOW TO PRODUCE THE RIGHT TEMPERATURE.

Below we give a communication from Mr. William Prissick, of Matagorda, upon the subject of producing an artificial temperature for beef-packing purposes. The idea is new, at least in this State, and looks reasonable enough. We leave it to the consideration of those interested in establishing this important branch of industry:

MATAGORDA, TEXAS, October 16, 1867.

To the Editor of the San Antonio Express:

There is at this time great inquiry made, in this county especially, on account of the great requirement of packing meat, which cannot be safely done without attaining a greater degree of cold than the climate of Texas admits of; therefore, artificial means for the attainment of the proper degree of cold has to be resorted to. It appears to me that no method will prove so cheap as the employment of a small, cheap engine attached to an air pump. Now, if by means of this pump you can force three volumes of common air into a coil of copper pipe of moderate diameter, the said coil being immersed in running water, the colder the better—the air, if the temperature of the time be 66°, a very usual temperature in our winter months—will, under a pressure of the said three volumes, be inclined to reduce itself to a temperature of 21°, other influences being out of the way, upon its being relieved from the pressure.

Copper pipe would for this purpose be the best, being the best conductor of heat of all the cheap materials, its conducting power being 896°, whilst that of iron is 374°.

Should air be kept sufficiently long under the pressure reduced, three volumes to one, the outward air being 66°, the air within the coil would instantly become three times that temperature, a difference of 132° with the outward air, which would cause, if the coil were under water, an excessive radiation of heat to the copper pipe, which the running water would immediately carry away.

I think this method of acquiring the proper degree of cold necessary for pickling meat, cheaper and more simple than any other; therefore request its consideration by the people of your county, who are deeply interested.

Very respectfully yours,
WILLIAM PRISSICK.

The Galveston train brought up the New Orleans mail received yesterday via Galveston and Virginia Point. The road runs as far as Virginia Point, where it makes connection with the steamer Rathven, which crosses the bay to Galveston. This arrangement, we suppose, will continue for some months yet, as it will probably take that length of time to build the railroad bridge.—Houston Telegraph, October 28.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL DECIDED CONSTITUTIONAL—HEAVY SENTENCE.—Louisville, Ky., October 11.—10 P. M.—The United States Court, Justices Swayne and Ballard, having yesterday decided the Civil Rights bill to be Constitutional, Rhodes, Stuart, and Vickery, were today sentenced under it to ten years' imprisonment in the penitentiary, for robbing and maltreating negroes in Nelson county.

THE SUPREME COURT OF PENNSYLVANIA.—The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania will, now stand Read, Agnew, and Strong, who have voted with the Republicans, and Thompson and Sharwood, Democrats.

The French have invented the great need of the nineteenth century—a cheap funeral. The hearse contains not only room for the coffin, but seats for the priests and mourners—in indeed a whole procession with only two horses.

THE MILITARY INSPECTION TOUR.

The expedition of Generals Mason, McCook and Hatch and Captain Porter to the frontier—we consider of great importance. We are not posted as to the exact objects of the expedition, but suppose it to be a general and thorough inspection of the frontier posts, and a review of the lines of defense, with a view to alteration, addition, etc., and a general overhauling of our frontier system of defense.

We feel some delicacy in making suggestions to a corps of Generals whose military fame is alone sufficient to insure an exhaustive review of our frontier situation, and whose knowledge of our affairs makes it certain that none of the wants or needs of the frontier will be overlooked. Still, as we have had the temerity to make some suggestions heretofore in relation to our frontier defense, we will allude again to our pet scheme.

The plan before the rebellion adopted by the military authorities was the establishment of a cordon of forts from the Rio Grande to the northern Texas border, and a similar cordon along the El Paso mail route. This was a most excellent plan, but it failed of the desired result because wide gaps were left between these forts which made it impossible to scout over, and the result was that the Indians penetrated to the settlement and murdered and robbed as usual and were seldom punished.

In order to make this plan effective there should be established intermediate stations, garrisoned by small detachments of cavalry; then the entire line of defense could be easily scouted over and it would effectually check the incursions of the savages. There may not be water convenient for such posts; large cisterns or wells could be built to catch water enough for such small parties of men. In order to make this system perfectly effective a military telegraph should be erected along both lines of defense. A telegraph would be a great economy to the Government. It would save a great number of horses now killed up on our frontier duty; it would put the entire frontier in instant communication with headquarters, besides the instant intelligence of the presence of Indians or troubles of any kind on the frontier. This telegraph is a frontier necessity which we hope our Generals will not pass over lightly; the simple suggestion of such an enterprise is sufficient to secure for it their earnest consideration, and their military knowledge will see a hundred advantages to be derived from it which we have not suggested.

We have great hope that this expedition to the frontier will be fruitful of salutary changes and a more effective frontier defense in the future. We wish them a pleasant time.

MURDER AND ROBBERY.—The Jim-

plucute, a conservative newspaper published at Jeffersonville, Texas, dated Oct. 8th, gives an account of an attack made upon a squad of soldiers who were taking supplies from that place to an adjacent post by a party of desperadoes. The teamster was killed, and the supplies and mules taken. The Jimplucute says: "No man of any nation, sect or color is now safe for a minute, and unless the citizens take hold of the matter with the determination of driving out murderers and outlaws we shudder at the result." But a few days previous, not a great ways from the same place in which the above occurred, (and no doubt by the same gang, Mr. Rogers, an old and respected citizen of this city of this town was robbed and taken into the woods a long distance into the road and tied to a tree. This occurred about 11 o'clock in the day and he only succeeded in relieving himself about sunset.

A later date of the same paper gives an account of the arrest of some of the gang, who turn out to be old residents." The McKinny Messenger gives the following account of a murdered man:

The body of a murdered man was found last Saturday in the southern portion of this county, some miles to the west of Plano. The unfortunate man had been shot and stabbed in several places, and was killed, it is supposed, about two weeks before the body was discovered. A pistol was found near the body with the name of Welch carved upon it. No clue to the murderers has yet been discovered.

A woman named Milan, while her first husband was in jail at Chicago, married another man. She poisoned her first husband to get rid of him.

The Loyal Balmain Lodge of Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of Balmain, Australia, numbered on the 19th of August the present year, one hundred and fifty working members.

AN INCONSISTENT JUDGE.

In Judge John Ireland's circular to the citizens of the 2d Judicial District on being removed by General Griffin, is found the following:

"The Grand Jury, selected by Gov. Hamilton's county court, before I went into office found bills of indictment against Craig and Heintzman, the clerk, issued the writs and as the laws required them to do."

The language of this sentence is calculated to leave the impression that Judge John Ireland was not on the bench when the indictments were found; but such was not the case—he was on the bench, and charged the jury with direct reference to the seizure of the records, and the bills of indictment were not only the legitimate but the necessary consequence of that charge; in the course of which the distinguished judge, took occasion to remark that if such things were to be permitted he would never hold another court, as the civil authority by the constitution and laws of the United States was superior to the military. Granting that the judge was honest in his belief of the superiority of the civil over the military authority, and that his charge was dictated by his sense of duty, it is not a little singular, first, that when he found the military had assumed and were exercising superior power to and over the civil authority, he did not retire from the bench instead of remaining to execute military orders, (jury order) which was not only repugnant to him, but most directly in conflict with what he believed to be his duty; and second, that he should try to throw the blame of the consequences of his own sense of right, law and justice, judicially expressed, upon others.

It is, no doubt, a bitter reflection to such men as Judge Ireland, that their days of confederate glory are over forever, and that they should resort to every means to cling to office is not astonishing.

AN APOLOGY FOR OHIO.

To the Editor of the New York Tribune.

SIR: It would be a great mistake to take the vote of Ohio on the Constitutional Amendment as a full expression of the sentiment of her people in regard to negro suffrage. The question was submitted to the people in connection with the disfranchisement of deserters, rebels, and those who fled from the draft. This clause was annexed on the demand of two or three members of the Legislature whose votes were necessary to make out the three-fifths required to submit the question to the people. This clause did not meet the approval of the mass of the Republican party, and rendered the whole amendment unpopular. One prominent Republican paper which had favored negro suffrage opposed the amendment. Many Republican papers felt obliged to oppose this part of the amendment, and to explain that it would amount to nothing. But my belief it would amount to something, and others were unwilling to add to the Constitution a worthless clause.

It was a seri us question with many of the firmest friends of negro enfranchisement whether to sustain the amendment or oppose it. Thus the Republican party entered upon the canvass with hesitation, explanation, apology, timidity, embarrassment, while the Democratic party started off with vigor, courage, and union, to oppose a measure which enfranchised, as they said, four or five thousand negroes and disfranchised fifteen or twenty thousand white men.

Many Democrats who would have shrunk from openly opposing negro suffrage, fought boldly against the amendment, glorying in the opportunity the Republicans had given them. If both parties had started fairly on the naked question of negro suffrage, it is impossible to tell what the result would have been. It is not improbable that the amendment would have passed. At any rate the Democratic Legislature cannot be persuaded to risk another trial before the people on the naked issue. Ohio Republicans have no reason to be disappointed.

The republicans of Baltimore have nominated for Judge of the State Court Henry Stockbridge; for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court John R. Keagy; for Associate Justices of the Supreme Court Hugh B. Bond, John C. King, Geo. C. Maund and Wm. Daniel; for State Attorney Robt. L. Rogers.

The emigration is commencing to come in. We saw twelve finely fitted-out wagons pass through town from the Northwestern States—Illinois, we believe—a day or two ago.—Dallas Herald.

Gen. Andrew W. Denison, the republican candidate for Mayor of Baltimore, was originally commander in the Eighth Maryland Infantry in the Union army, and lost an arm at Spottsylvania.

The New York Mail says the Antislavery celebration was a failure at the time, and seems to have left a heritage of disgrace, for there are grim suspicions in regard to the use of the funds, and an official investigation is to be had.

An Ohio editor has ciphered out the number of grasshoppers in that state. He estimates the number at 48,626,160,000. These placed in a single file, allowing one and a half inches to each hopper, would reach a distance of 9,999,000 miles, or would girt the earth 2,400 times.

The democrats of Oneida, N. Y., district have nominated for Congress (to fill the vacancy vice Conklin, elected senator) Hon. Francis Kernan, of Utica, who beat Conklin in 1862, and was beaten by him subsequently. The republican candidate is Hon. Alex. H. Bailey, of Rome.

OUR JOB OFFICE.—We are prepared to do all kinds of job work,—posters, blanks, cards, bill-heads, etc., have also on hand, a splendid supply of cards, paper, etc. We will attend to all orders promptly and upon the most reasonable terms. Persons desiring work done will apply at the business office on Commerce street. We have also a Spanish interpreter to translate all work needing translation into Spanish.

FOR SALE.—We have several thousand old newspapers for sale. Apply at Business Office on Main street.

How THE GOVERNMENT SHOULD BUY.—Colonel Leo advertises for proposals for furnishing the Government with horses. We believe that the Government would be largely the gainer if the Quartermaster would buy horses, as was formerly the case in this city, in open market. By this means the Government would secure the best animals and the persons selling would receive the highest price. The present system of paying by checks is an actual loss to the Government, as parties are less willing to sell and are forced to ask higher prices by reason of the delays incident to the cashing of checks and the discounts exacted by bankers. The Quartermaster should be supplied with currency sufficient to pay off all the outlays of the Government; by this means the national currency would also get into circulation and our present awkward and disastrous monetary system would be corrected.

Cross-WALKS.—There is not a street in the city with a cross-walk, which makes it very disagreeable to foot passengers in rainy weather, and puts a blockade upon the ladies. At each corner and at intermediate points there should be paved cross-walks, which could be kept clean by the opposite owners or by the city. The present barbarous style of sidewalks added to the want of cross-walks, makes our city a perfect pig-pen for foot passengers.

KENDALL'S DEATH.—A correspondent to the San Antonio Herald says: "Mr. Kendall was apparently in the enjoyment of his usual robust health until within a few days of his death. The indisposition seemed slight at first, but on the night of Sunday—the 20th—he was seized with a violent congestive chill, which proved fatal. He expired calmly, and in full possession of his faculties, at 4 o'clock on Monday evening, the 21st instant."

MONSIEUR.—The health officer reports six deaths occurring in the city during the week ending October 26th, 1867. A Mexican teamster died of yellow fever contracted at the coast. There has been several cases of yellow fever brought here during this season, but not a single instance of that disease spreading or originating in the community. One case of death from intemperance is reported.

RAIN.—A heavy rain fell on Saturday which was accompanied with a cool atmosphere and a clouded sun, making the weather quite wintery. Sunday morning the sun came forth clear and bright and nature seemed to have her face washed and Sunday clothes on.

GRASSHOPPERS.—The air on Sunday was filled with millions of grasshoppers on the wing, and we think they will, as the wet earth and cold weather furnishes but cold comfort to these aerial travelers.

The immense popularity of these Organs, and their superior musical powers, is fast bringing them before the public, as the instrument so long desired in American homes. And although the cost price is but a trifle over the Melodian, yet the musical advantages, beauty of tone and quickness of touch and action are so far superior, that they are fast superseding the Melodian, and the call is now almost exclusively for the American Organ.

It is adapted to any music from the quietest and most lively, to the heavy tones of the Church Organ. And almost universally they are preferred to the Piano, by persons who have them, yet costing less than half, and only taking a small amount of room.
Send for descriptive circulars giving full particulars and prices.
