FANNY FERN ON FARMERS' WIVES.

Fanny Fern is eloquent on the subject of farmers' wives. She says:
"Next to being a minister's wife, I should dread being the wife of a farmer. Sometimes, indeed, the terms are synonymous. Raising children and chickens, ad infinitum, making butter, cheese, bread, and the omnipresent pie, cutting, making and mending the clothes for a whole household, not to speak of doing their washing and ironing; taking care of the pigs and the vegetable garden; making winter apple-sauce by the barrels, and picking 'myriads of cucumbers; drying fruits and herbs; putting all the twins through the measles, whooping-cough mumps, scarlet fever, and chicken pox; besides keeping a perpetual river of hot grease on the kitchen-table in which is to float potatoes, carrots, onions and turnips for the ravenous maws of the 'farm hands.'
"Now your farmer is a rough, staid, comfortable animal. There is no baby wailing at his pantaloons while he plows or makes fences. He lies down under the nearest tree and sleeps, when he can no longer work with profit. He comes unto his dinner with the appetite of a hyena and the digestion of a rhinoceros, and goes forth again to the hayfield till called home to supper. There is his wife, and too often with the same frowny head with which she rose in the morning, darting hither and thither for whatever is wanted, or helping the hungry children of the farm hands. After the supper is finished comes the dish washing, and the thought for tomorrow's breakfast, and then, perhaps, she sleeps with one eye open for a baby or a sick child, and rises again to pursue the same unrelieved tread-mill wearing round the next day."

MARRIAGE OF A HINDOO GIRL TO AN IDOL.

The following curious account of the marriage of a Hindoo girl to an idol is given by the Oude Gazette:
"Sometime ago a paper of the north-western provinces announced the arrival of an old Deccan Brahmin with his family in the town of Mathura, where Rungacharee, the high priest of the Ramanojee sect, greatly patronized him. The old Brahmin has two daughters, one a grown-up girl, and the other only nine years old. While residing at Mathura the younger girl gave out that Krishnajeet one of the incarnations of Vishnu (the Hindoo god) appeared to her in a dream, and proposed a nuptial alliance with her. The next day the girl was with great pomp married to an idol worshipped in a Hindoo temple. The ignorant and superstitious people rejoiced at this absurd marriage, and began to venerate the girl as an inspired being. Both the girls have learned by heart eighteen thousand couplets of the 'Bhagwat,' a work in the Sanscrit language. They have now arrived in this city, and put up at a house in the vicinity of the 'Gole Durwar.' Every morning Hindoos of all ages and sexes congregate there to hear the melodious recitations of the two girls. Both the girls consider themselves as dedicated to the service of the Krishna; and after their daily recitations are concluded they make no hesitation in accepting such presents of money and sweetmeats as their hearers may choose to give them. We have little doubt that they have already reaped a rich harvest from their deluded votaries."

C. The Saturday Review, speaking of the fac-similes of the autographs belonging to the eminent writers who contributed to the "Paris Guide," thus discourses:
"Here is quite a study, not only for the professed chit-chatist, but for every one who is wont to take note of such indications of character. Each writer's idiosyncrasy is plainly stamped upon the page. The big, fiery, confident dash of the editor forms an amusing contrast with the clear, calm, delicate mignon of M. Taine, or the solid, thoughtful, business-like hand of Michelet or Louis Blanc. M. Renan's bold first strokes fade into a vague and decisive flourish at the end. M. Assolant lingers with an air of easy enjoyment over his elegantly formed curves; while Paul de Kock is lost of all sober pursuit in a luxuriant labyrinth of flourishes. M. Hugo fills writes in copper plate. George Sand seems to hold the pen with a grip of steel. Emile de Girardin must use a crow quill, and John Lemoine the point of a pin. Paul Feval and Edmond About are much alike in neatness, precision and strength. Nowhere are force and dignity more conspicuous than in the fine characters of Berryer, nor is the hand of Jules Favre much behind in clear and sinewy vigor."

A NEW ELECTRIC LIGHT.

An exhibition of the working of a new method for producing light by means of electricity, the invention of Prof. Nollet of Paris, was made at the Battery a short time since. The illuminating apparatus having been placed on the roof of the Barge Office, threw a very clear and penetrating light to a great distance. So strong was the light that the captain of one of the revenue cutters informed the company that he had read his newspaper by it at the distance of nearly six miles, and at the Narrows the ordinary gas light displayed from the tower of the Bridge Office was entirely lost sight of in the greater brilliancy of its new rival. The apparatus for producing electricity is quite simple, consisting of several series of horse-shoe magnets—58 magnets in all—arranged in a cylindrical form in a frame, within which is a revolving cylinder thickly set with bobbins of soft wire, which, by the motion of the cylinder, are made to pass very rapidly between the poles of the magnets. The action of the magnet upon these revolving points generally creates a large amount of electricity, which is carried through a conducting wire to the point where the illuminating apparatus is placed, and thence back to the generator. At the illuminating point the circuit is broken, and the two ends of the wire are tipped with pencils formed of the resinous substance which collects in the retorts of gas works. These points become intensely heated by the passage of the current, and give out an intense white light. As the points burn off, these carbon pencils are fed up by clock work, so as to preserve a uniform distance between them. The expense of producing the light exclusive of the cost of the power required to drive the generative machine, is said to be about two cents per hour. In this case, the generator was driven by a small Andrews oscillating engine of about two horse power, which was ample for the purpose. The same generating apparatus may be used to supply several lighthouses at the same time, if in the same neighborhood, as the electricity can be conducted through the wires several miles, as in the telegraphic telegraph.

A very ingenious piece of mechanism for the detection and extraction of bullets in wounds has been devised. The probe, consisting of two steel wires insulated from each other, is connected with an electric horse shoe magnet and a bell, and when introduced into the wound it touches the bullet, the circle is completed and the bell rings. The forceps act on the same principle, and are intended, first to detect the size of the bullet. They have curved points, and not pallets or spoons. The points of the probe are kept sheathed on introduction to a wound, and not uncovered until the supposed bullet is felt. This is effected by means of a sliding tube. The probe is a sensitive artificial finger, which enters deeply into the tissues, and gives the signal at once when it detects the hidden source of mischief below.

It is observed, in a recent modern Greek publication, that more ink has been used on account of the poems of Homer than there was blood at the taking of Troy, upon which they were founded. And certainly, if we bear in mind the number of editions they have undergone, the translations that have been made, the commentaries, controversial publications, and others, to which they have given rise, this will scarcely seem an exaggeration.

The New York Tribune this year commissioned a special correspondent to Dundee to furnish a general report of the proceedings of the British Association—a step, we believe, never before taken by any American journal.

Count du Besson says the British will never catch King Theodore, because twelve of his warriors attire themselves in the same costume, and cannot be distinguished from him, so that search is well nigh fruitless.

They have a way of renovating old figs in New York. The figs are soaked for a time in common whisky, which being absorbed by them, causes them to swell and become quite fresh looking. They are then carefully pressed or packed into neat new boxes and exposed for sale on the street-corners.

When Artemus Ward was in Virginia City, Nebraska, the lady pioneers forced gratuitous whisky on him every three minutes during his stay. When he was about to go away they surrounded the coach and cheered him. He mounted the vehicle and said: "Good bye. Take care of yourselves. I never was in a place in my life where I was treated so well as I was here, nor, I may add, so often."

THE ANTI-MONOPOLY-CHEAP RAILWAY PLAN.

We have before alluded to this great movement to reform the railroad system of our country. The anti-monopoly cheap railway scheme is the grandest idea of the age and one of the greatest and most important movements before our country.

There are several bills before Congress all embodying the same ideas, all of which will be consolidated in the Harlan Bill from which we quote the following features:

First. The railway shall be a double track, well graded, ballasted, and substantially laid and rails adapted to heavy freights, together with all necessary bridges, culverts, turn-outs, depots, &c., and width of gauge shall correspond with the most numerous class of roads to be accommodated in transporting over the same.

Second. Said railroad and branches shall be open to free competition for all persons, companies, or other corporations, who may desire to put passenger, mail, or freight trains thereon, or to engage in transporting on or over said railway and branches; such persons, companies, or corporations to pay such reasonable tolls as may be prescribed by the company hereby incorporated, or by Congress, for the privilege of transporting over said railway.

Third. For the purpose of giving to said railway its greatest carrying capacity, as well as to avoid difficulties in management and liability to accident, there shall be adopted a moderate and uniform rate of speed for all trains of whatsoever description passing over said railway; such rate of speed to be prescribed with reference to economy in fuel and the preservation of the railway and rolling stock; and said company hereby incorporated shall have full power to make all necessary rules and regulations as to the quality of rolling stock to be placed or admitted on such railway, and the management of the same, and to compel compliance with the same rules and regulations, and in case of non-compliance to exclude any person, company, or corporation, so refusing to comply, from transporting over said railway.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, That in consideration of the franchise and aid given by the United States to the company hereby incorporated, the Government of the United States shall, at all times, have the privilege of transporting its mails, arms, men, supplies, and munitions of war over said railway and branches, together with all necessary depot accommodations, free from any charge by said company.

Sec. 5. Be it further enacted, That so much capital stock, in gold valuation, as is necessary to build and complete said railway and appurtenances, is hereby authorized; and further, that said capital stock shall be divided and represented by shares of one hundred dollars each, gold valuation; and that no share of stock shall be issued by said company or its officers to any person, Government, State, or corporation, unless there be paid into the company one hundred dollars in gold or its equivalent therefor.

Sec. 6. Be it further enacted, That the United States, and the respective States and incorporated cities, when duly authorized by the laws of the State wherein situated, shall be privileged to take stock in said railway and branches, to the extent in the aggregate of three-fourths of the entire stock, by paying into the treasury of said company in gold or its equivalent, the same as other stockholders; and when said United States, or any State or incorporated city shall have become stockholders as aforesaid, they shall have a voice in the election of directors and officers corresponding to the ratio which their respective shares shall bear to the whole of the shares of said company. And it is further provided, That said company is, and shall be, authorized to receive, take, hold, and convey any donations in land or property which may be made by the United States, or by any State, company, corporation, or individual, for the purpose of assisting in carrying out the enterprise authorized by this act.

Sec. 7. Be it further enacted, That said company hereby incorporated shall have no authority or power to mortgage or hypothecate its railway or franchise, or to issue any bond or obligation to operate as a lien on said railway or franchise, or on any property of said company; and it is further provided, That no obligation shall be voluntarily incurred or debt contracted without ample means in the treasury of said company to meet such obligation to be so incurred without funds in the treasury of the company to meet the same they shall be personally liable therefor.

The great idea is to break down monopoly and to build freight railroads on a plan that will increase their carrying capacity ten fold and afford the cheapest rates of freight. It is estimated that the railroads of the United States are underlaid with fiction to the average extent of more than forty per cent., that is had they been constructed with cash, prudently expended, they would not have cost sixty per cent of what they now stand at. Nearly all the scheming connected with modern legislation has an eye to false capitalization and dividends on fiction. The plan is to cheat the people and do it well. The three bills now before Congress are framed with scrupulous care to avoid all false principles of finance.

The Hon. Lorenzo Sherwood, formerly a citizen of Texas is the projector of this great railway reform, and one of the first enterprises to be undertaken upon this anti-monopoly plan, is the "Kansas, Arkansas, and Texas cheap railway." The people of Houston and Galveston are fully alive and have formed a co-operative league and are doing all in their power to make this grand enterprise turn in and come to a point at Houston or Galveston; this can never be, this road must keep on to this city, and in time still on towards the Pacific.

We shall keep up this subject in hopes of arousing our citizens to the great necessity of also forming a co-operative anti-monopoly cheap railway league.

THE UNIVERSAL LETTER WRITER.

When Throckmorton sallied forth from the dim obscurity into which removal had thrown him to write a private letter to Ashbell Smith, he proved that Gen. Griffin was not mistaken in his man—that he was every inch the traitor the General took him to be.

The main gist of the letter is to persuade the people not to vote for a Convention. He says:

There was an excuse and perhaps a propriety, for our desire to organize in good faith under the first two acts of Congress. But if the people had been told that they were to be executed as they have been, you or I, nor any other prudent and reflecting patriot, could have urged a compliance with their requirements. And now, with our past experience of the utter faithlessness of the Congress, and their worshippers (the Southern loyalists) with the addition of the last I cannot see how we are to reconcile ourselves to advocate the voting for a Convention.

A Convention, under present auspices, is the death knell to Texas. We will have a constitution that will bind the people of this State to the denomination of negro rule and what is really worse, the malignancy and hatred of those white gentry who are dependent upon them for support and consequent power.

God save the land from all such patriots. Every rebel and every rebel newspaper in the State agree with this pink of treason as to opposition to reconstruction, the only thing is they can't exactly tell which way to go about it, whether to vote or not to vote.

THE ITALIAN SITUATION.

Napoleon has sent a French army to support the Pope in his claim to temporal power over Rome and the adjacent territory. Now is the time for bold action on the part of the Italian Government if there is any spirit left in the present ministry. The Italian army should be in possession of Rome before the French can land at Civita Vecchia. This action on the part of Napoleon will involve Italy in a war with France, and, bankrupt as she is, such a war would be the best thing possible for her future independence. The fatal influence of French intrigue is the curse of Italy, and until they have met in battle France will remain all-powerful. There is little doubt but that Prussia is pledged to the support of Italy, and the result of the impending war may be the restoration of Nice to Italy and the destruction of the ambition of Napoleon to be Dictator of Europe.

THE REBEL POINT IN GEORGIA.—The rebels in Georgia are pursuing the plan of "masterly inactivity." The Union men are getting along with the election very well without them.

The boot and shoe manufacturers at Lynn, a town of twenty-three thousand inhabitants, employ seven thousand persons, or more than two-thirds of the population.

EUROPEAN NEWS.

Garibaldi still Victorious—The Cloud of War Thickening.

NEW YORK, October 29.—News has been received stating that Garibaldi has been victorious in a fierce battle near Monte-Petardo capturing several hundred prisoners, many were killed and wounded on both sides, Garibaldi had four battalions.

PARIS, October 29.—Garibaldi's force is estimated at 10,000 or 12,000; papal forces are concentrated before Rome with instructions to act on the defensive.

IOWA.—The Republican majority in Iowa is piling up to 30 000.

THE HAMBURG STEAMER.

The recent arrival in New Orleans of a steamer from Hamburg, having on board some 300 passengers, has created quite a sensation in that city. The steamer was handsomely received and the Captain presented with a splendid Germanic national flag—red, white and black; addresses were also made.

It is a new event and a very important one. We hope that the day is not distant when steamers direct from Europe will put off their passengers and freight at Indianola. Our State is wholly wanting in public spirit; an intelligent emigrant agent at New Orleans would also secure to us much of this valuable emigration which is going up the Mississippi to the West. One of the first cares of a loyal State government will be to foster emigration.

THE IOWA COPPERHEAD DEFEATED CANDIDATES.—The following is what the Peoria, Illinois, Transcript says of the chaps that the Republicans recently whipped in Iowa to the tune of some 30,000 majority. No wonder such creatures were laid on the shelf by the patriotic voters of Iowa:

"The Copperheads of Iowa seem to be in what Artemus Ward would call an 'unpleasant fix.' Their pet leader, Judge Mason, has a record that is enough to damn anybody North, and which is just now being unpleasantly aired by his opponents. Henry Clay Dean always had a bad odor, political and personal, clinging to him; and now Lo Grand Byington, the Copperhead magistrate of Johnson county, has been arrested and lodged in jail for alleged perjury. We have a few of that stripe in this county that ought to be in jail, but a regard for the morals of those already incarcerated induces our people to allow them to run at large. It would be unjustifiable torture to arrest a man for horse stealing and oblige him to keep company with a copperhead while awaiting his trial. His chances for salvation after that would be slim indeed.

Josh Billings says in one of his recent reports of a cattle show: "There wuz too yoke oxen on the ground, besides several yokes of sheep, and a pile of carrots and some watted work, but they didn't seem to attract any sympathy. The people banker for pure agricultural hoss-trotts.

Mistress: "For goodness gracious sake, Martha, go out and take that ridiculous thing off—do." Martha ("which I were well aware it was my new bonnet she were eluding") "Well, there, mum, I declare, mum, I give my milliner orders to make it precisely similar to yours, mum."—[Punch.

OUR JOB OFFICE.—We are prepared to do all kinds of job work, —posters, blanks, cards, bill-heads, etc., have also on hand, a splendid supply of cards, paper, etc. We will attend to all orders promptly and upon the most reasonable terms. Persons desiring work done will apply at the business office on Commerce street. We have also a Spanish interpreter to translate all work needing translation into Spanish.

FOR SALE.—We have several thousand old newspapers for sale. Apply at Business Office on Main street.

HORSES.—Col. Lee, our efficient quartermaster, is now advertising for proposals for 304 horses. We are sorry the Colonel does not find it convenient to purchase these animals in open market, and pay for them in currency on delivery, as the Government would be far more likely to get better animals and the people better prices. Horse flesh is or ought to be one of our chief and most excellent commodities. Our perennial prairies make it the natural home of the horse and his production as large and cheap as cattle. Still we have learned that contractors find considerable difficulty in procuring animals which will pass Government muster. This should not be so. The lists are open to all and our horse raisers have all the chance in the world to enter their proposals.

NOT A PATENT NOSE-BLOWER.—We learn that an old citizen was somewhat surprised recently in receiving a small, neat, patent article, labeled "patent nose-blower." It turns out to be a patent article to lift off hot lamp chimneys, protecting the fingers from being burned. Norton & Deutz have them for sale. It might be used to blow the nose also, if a person was at all delicate about that operation.

THE WEATHER.—The cool, delightful weather we are now enjoying causes general activity and cheerfulness among our citizens, as it also bears promise of the speedy cessation of the yellow fever on the coast and a general opening up of trade.

NEW GOODS.—Large quantities of new goods arrived yesterday, Wednesday Zork & Griesenbeck being the largest recipients.

STOVES.—Our enterprising tinners and stove merchants Leroux & Cosgrove, have received a splendid assortment of stoves. Now is the time to buy—cold weather is coming on fast.

beautiful in appearance and effects.

SIBERIA OTT,

WHOLESALE AGENT.

The immense popularity of these Organs, and their superior musical powers, is fast bringing them before the public, as the instrument so long desired in American homes.
And although the cost price is but a trifle
over the Melodian, yet the musical advantages, beauty of tone and quickness of touch and action are so far superior, that they are fast superseding the Melodian, and the call is now almost exclusively for the American Organ.

It is adapted to any music from the quickest and most lively, to the heavy tone of the Church Organ. And almost universally they are preferred to the Piano, by persons who have them, yet costing less than half, and only taking a small amount of room.
